A COMMUNIST COMES—PRESTO! PRINTSHOP GIVEN SECOND WIND . . .

A Communist walked into the DAILY WORKER office Monday. Obviously this in itself wasn't so unusual. But can you imagine what this Communist brought with him? Something that most Communists, especially those usually walking in and out of offices (namely, the workers) don't usually carry around loose or otherwise.

It was nothing less than a twenty dollar bill!

And this unusual Communist with the unusual twenty dollar bill parted company—right in the DAILY WORKER office, a most appropriate place, too.

But, unfortunately, the bill won't stay for long—at least not intact. It will be divided into the following four parts: $8.00 for a year's subscription to the DAILY WORKER; $2.00 for the next twelve Workers Monthly's; $5.00 for the Labor Defense fund; and $5.00 to insure the continuance of all three—to make the labor press safe for 1925.

So Communists and Communist dollars come and go; but the print shop is kept operating!

Joe Manley to Speak At English Branch Wednesday, Feb. 11

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The downtown English branch of the Workers Party, which meets at 208 East 12th street, will hold its regular educational meeting this Wednesday, Feb. 11. The speaker of the evening will be Joseph Manley, Trade Union Educational League organizer of the eastern states. Comrade Manley has had wide experience in the trade union field and his talk should prove highly interesting. Visitors are permitted to attend educational meetings.

ALL-NATION PROGRAM STAGED FOR N. Y. DEFENSE BAZAAR

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 4—Workers of all nationalities will participate in the joint bazaar of the International Workers' Aid and the Labor Defense Council at the Lyceum, 86th St. and 3rd Ave., on February 11, 12, 13 and 14. The sale of tickets indicates that every nationality will be well represented.

In the program, too, care has been taken that many nationalities will be represented. The Hungarian orchestral and singing societies will be there in full force. The singing society is another Hungarian organization and it is promised that they will make the bazaar a high light in the artistic events of the season.

The Freiheit Singing Society is too well known to need any advertisement. The Freiheit Singing Society will make Friday night, February 13, memorable in the annals of artistic life of New York.

The Paterson Mandolin Orchestra is another group of workers who cannot be kept from giving expression to their musical feeling. It is known thruout New Jersey and will perform some of its best numbers on Thursday, February 12.

The Finnish gymnastic and choral clubs hardly need an introduction. The Finnish comrades have taken over a whole evening for musical and athletic exhibitions. There will be a Finnish band, too. Not to mention that the Finnish Juniors will participate in the gymnastic exhibitions. Finnish night, the opening night of the bazaar, on Wednesday, February 11, will be one of the finest of the bazaar.

The Ukrainian Workers' Chorus will sing on Thursday night, February 12, and the workers of New York will be given an opportunity of enjoying the best that the Ukrainian workers are capable of.

Have you ever heard mass declamation? Do you know that it sounds like an orchestra, with its soloists and duets and quartets? The German Mass Declamation Society will render some poems in this form. This is a unique performance for New York, and Thursday night, February 12, will be most enjoyable for this fact.

The Workers' Dramatic League will give a pantomime that not only will portray the class struggle, but also will show that the workers of New York are able collectively to reach a plane of art that only well-trained actors can attain. Thursday night, February 12, will demonstrate proletarian art in this form.

The children will be there. Saturday, February 14, is Junior day—and will have a fitting program. The children of the Modern School, 60 in number, will dance. The Junior groups of the Young Workers League will give a play, some tableaux, etc. A children's orchestra of 30 pieces will render some classical selections.

A former concert master of the Leningrad orchestra, at present in this country, has consented to participate in the program. Russian violinists are famous the world over. This splendid violinist is not only a star, but a sympathizer with the cause for which the bazaar is being given. And a young pianist—a young girl—who is making her name in the musical world, will also play.

And then the grand finale Saturday night, February 14. This will be a grand costume ball—and the preparations that are now being made promise that February 14 will long be remembered in the annals of what workers have undertaken in New York City.

Every class-conscious worker, every sympathizer with the movement, every friend of the working class should devote the four evenings—February 11, 12, 13 and 14—to the joint bazaar. The victims of capitalist justice will benefit, and you will, too. Four evenings of real artistic enjoyment will make you a better fighter in the struggle.

BRONX JEWISH BRANCH MEETING IS INVESTIGATED

Party Discussion Is Interrupted

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—"Leninism or Trotskyism," was the subject for discussion at a meeting of the Jewish Branch No. 1 of the Workers (Communist) Party in the Bronx. Comrade Castrell was in the chair.

"Comrade chairman, I want the floor," shouted a dozen comrades from different parts of the hall, all jumping excitedly to their feet at the same time. The chairman rapped wildly for order.

An Interruption.

Suddenly the doors were thrown open, and there in the doorway, picturesquely dressed in their Sunday best, with their night sticks majestically poised at just the appropriate angle, stood three blue-coated, flush-faced policemen and a rather corpulent inspector.

The noise and hudlum and hubbub suddenly ceased—and dread silence fell upon the hall.

The house manager, a comrade, went quickly to the door to see what great canon of law had been broken and by whom, or what supreme order had been disobeyed to entitle us to be so honored by our illustrious guests.

"What's the trouble?" asked the house manager.

"We got orders to raid a billiard parlor," spoke up the inspector, "and here we are."

"Evidently in the wrong church."

"Say, who's that guy you got hanging up there?" threateningly asked one of New York's finest, brandishing his night stick in the direction of a poster advertising the Lenin memorial meeting, stuck up on the speakers' stand.

They Ask Questions.

"That's Lenin," confidently spoke up the house manager.

"Who's he? The guy what just died?" asked another of New York's finest.

"No, he's been dead a year now."

"Well, the other fellow that was with him just died, didn't he?"

"You mean Trotsky," said the house manager, attempting hard to smile pleasantly and be sociable. "No, he didn't die, he is still alive. We were just discussing whether our party should stand by Lenin, who, tho dead, is yet very much alive, or adopt the principles and tactics of Trotsky, who, tho still alive, is yet dead as far as his political prestige and influence in world politics is concerned."

"Well, if he ain't dead, he ought to be," spoke up the brave inspector. "You all ought to be dead—a bunch of dirty Bolsheviks trying to upset the United States government. Come, boys, I guess we can go now," said he, addressing his puppets, and with that they marched majestically down and out, their night sicks still poised artistically at just the appropriate angle above their shoulders, evidently coming to the conclusion that they were not in the land of bribery and booze and had undoubtedly stumbled into the wrong joint.

And thus was the Jewish Branch Bronx investigated!

PEASANTS GAIN IN JUGO-SLAVIA DESPITE MURDER

Pashich Troops "Guard" Polls; Six Killed

BELGRADE, Feb. 9.—The Jugo-Slav government returned itself to power in the elections, by means of violence which claimed the lives of six voters, and the injury of many others. Five Croatian peasants and one policeman were killed. The Jugo-Slav government stopped all telephone and telegraphic communication with outside nations during the elections.

According to early returns the victory of the Pashich government was nothing to boast about, as the opposition elected 152 deputies compared to 162 Pashich deputies elected.

M. Radich, head of the peasants' party, was in prison during the elections, but Dr. Trumbich was a candidate in Radich's place and was elected. The peasants gained a great victory in Zagreb, Dr. Trumbich and M. Kosutic, M. Radich's son-in-law, being elected by an overwhelming vote. The vote in Zabreg was 15,800 votes for the peasants and only 3,600 for the government party.

In Bosnia the government supporters prevented the peasants from voting by force of arms. Violence broke out in many other cities. Troops attacked the peasants in Bosnia and other places, killing a number, it is reported.

Chicago Bank Clerks Invite You to Their Ball Wednesday Eve.

The Chicago Bank Employes' Association, invites you to attend its dance on the eve of Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 11, at the Mirror Hall, 1140 N. Western, at 8 p. m. Tickets are only 50 cents and they promise you a good time.

Here is your chance to meet bank clerks who are class conscious. They propose to increase their wages which now are as low as $1,200 a year and reduce their working hours, which at present are as high as 70 and 80 per week. Tho their union is still young, only 10 months old, it is very much alive and is forging ahead with its plans. Come and meet the militant bank clerks of Chicago.

Claim Steamer Is Safe

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 9.—Officials of the Dollar Steamship Line today denied reports circulated from London that the liner President Harrison had sent out "S. O. S." signals in Grecian waters. They said cables had been received from both Naples and Genoa from the vessel's commander and no trouble was mentioned in either.

Ukrainian Workers Debate Soviets.

To the DAILY WORKER: The Ukrainian workers of Chicago, at a mass meeting where both sides were discussed, with only one opposing vote went on record as favoring the continuation of the Soviet government in the Ukraine.

The mass meeting was called by the Ukrainian branch of the Workers Party to debate what system the Ukrainian workers in America should support in the Ukraine—the Soviets, monarchistic or any other.

Two weeks before the meeting an announcement was made in the Ukrainian press that the Ukrainian workers are ready to meet any of those who oppose the Soviet system in the Ukraine, in open debate. It was announced that speakers would explain to the workers who are against the Soviet government how they are fooled by Ukrainian reactionary and counter-revolutionary leaders.

The spreading of propaganda in favor of a monarchy in the Ukraine is led by Dr. Nazaruk, and the anti-Soviet propaganda is centered in Chicago. He was afraid to show his face at the meeting, which was held Feb. 1, but his ideas were put forward by a man he sent to the meeting.

"Russia has Cyril for the throne, Poland has Pilsudsky, therefore we Ukrainians must have our monarch, Skoropatsky," said Nazaruk's representative.

He was answered that in America anybody could be proclaimed baron, duke, or czar, but by this self-styled title the fact is not changed that they cannot change the Soviet system whereby the workers and peasants do the governing.

The second speaker was for "democratic" government in the Ukraine, but did not set forth any program or explanation to justify his democratic pacifism.

Comrade Kulzewich, well known among the Ukrainians in America, proved in detail, with historical facts, that the Soviet system is the system which is wanted by the Ukrainian workers and peasants. They govern themselves, he declared, building up their own laws, industries, and education, not even for the profits of a few exploiters, but for the good of the workers and peasants.

He stated that there is no other government under which the workers have gained so much, as the workers' and peasants' Soviet government.

After debate and discussion, the audience passed a resolution with only one negative vote, declaring that "We support and continue to stand for the Soviet government of the Ukraine."

(Signed) M. A. K.

To The DAILY WORKER:—I enclose a copy of a letter I sent to the editor of Farm Life in Spencer, Ind., which I hope you will publish in The DAILY WORKER. Frank Voigt.

Farm Life, Spencer, Ind.,

To the editor of Farm Life:—Soviet Russia is the first real workers' and farmers' government. Read over the seven years of its existence, the lies and slander up to date. Then look over the record of the nations, who were compelled to recognize Soviet Russia, the country comprising one-sixth of the earth, the so-called most enlightened country of the world is the only large nation who has not recognized Russia, in fact, there are very few of smaller nations left who have not made any move at all to recognize Russia. Why is that? Very plainly, because the American press is owned or controlled by interests who do not want the American people to rule. We have a dictatorship of Wall Street.

Do you want me to prove it? Here is Farm Life, a paper which should be printed in the interest of the farmers, which should be on the side of the bankrupt farmers. It cannot refrain from giving Russia a kick at every possible opportunity. On page 7, Jan., 1925, in writing about Esthonia, and high cost of living, it says: "But we can sympathize with Esthonia, too close to Soviet Russia for comfort." And on the same page, writing about fertilizer, it starts an article: "If you give a dog a bad name, everybody suspects him." Why don't you follow the moral of this sentence and not throw mud at a great nation, and retard progress? Have you got to keep the farmers in ignorance of the real state of affairs in the republic three times the size of the United States? Are the financiers of this country nearer to you than the farmers and workers? I am sorry for the editor!

Yours truly,
Frank Voigt,
Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

To The DAILY WORKER:—The DAILY WORKER is certainly a humdinger. Was much interested in the resolutions of the Finnish comrades, particularly this section "Sensational exaggeration should be avoided, for it leads the workers astray and when they get accustomed to it, they cease to have confidence in their own paper." The practice of trying to crowd too much on the first page should be avoided particularly as this is a weakness of capitalist papers with their murder trials, divorces and other trash that clutter up their sheets. It is displeasing to have to read one column of an article (consisting largely of head lines) and then have to scout thru the paper to find its continuation. So cut down the headlines and arrange the matter more as arranged in the inside. Remember that every page is a first page to those that read the DAILY WORKER. Also take your old DAILY WORKERS out into the world, comrades, and give to your neighbors on the street cars, particularly the young men—don't waste them on the gray-beards. At 'em, David, with your little sling shot.

Editor DAILY WORKER,

Dear Comrade:—I wish to point your attention to high class editorials and articles, I mean in your articles and editorials, there are too many words you cannot understand. It seems to me you editors, writers, can use more simple words.

I think I am right because the DAILY WORKER is not published for college students, but for the workers, therefore, try to pick more simple words so the workers will have a chance to understand every word of it.

Comradely yours, Dean Kuitis.

BUILDERS AT WORK

New Haven Also Wants to "Get in On It"!

We Are Ready to "Talk Turkey."

NEW YORK comrades have been "at it" for months. They have built so well, they now have a special New York edition. For building The DAILY WORKER is no novelty to them, but a fact that has come of understanding of the importance of this work as a medium to build the local.

And now we hear from New Haven District Organizer, William Simons, who writes us that at a meeting of the district executive committee on the fifteenth, a motion was passed:

"That information be secured as to the possibility and advisability of getting the New York edition of The DAILY WORKER in this district."

Acting on the resolution, Comrade Simons writes us for "facts and figures" and we hastened to give the details that will insure the local comrades the special New York edition which will carry a front page of more immediate news interest to them and which will carry news of the struggle in the New England states in greater proportion. Plans are being perfected for all New England states to receive the special eastern edition.

To other locals thruout the country we are passing on this tip:.. If the subscriptions merit it (and we are sure that in the near future they will) The DAILY WORKER will not only be printed in "sectional" editions, but state editions as well—and the day may soon arrive when "local" editions will be possible.

The builders can hasten the day that this will be possible. After all the plans are dependent only on a high subscription list. Build up your sub list and you will find The DAILY WORKER ready to "talk turkey."

When you buy, get an "Ad" for the DAILY WORKER.

Hindus in South Africa Are Robbed of the Franchise

MADRID, India, Feb. 9.—Conditions among the Indians in British South Africa have reached their very worst, C. F. Andrews, who recently arrived here from a tour of South Africa, declared "The signing of the Natal ordinance by the governor-general is the last straw that breaks the camel's back," said Andrews. "The right of franchise which has now been definitely taken away was itself a very slender act. It never meant more than a few hundred votes and its value lay purely in the recognition of this very modest form of citizenship for a few Hindus, thus taking away something, at least, of the stigma of the color bar.

"But now this has been destroyed and the position of Indians in Natal will soon be as hopeless and helpless as that of the Indians in Transvaal.

"After the refusal on the part of the governor-general to countermand a racial order like this it is quite certain that other racial ordinance will follow. As a result the meager rights which the Natal Indians still possess, apart from citizenship, are likely to be taken one by one just as the franchise has taken away by this racial ordinance."

COMMUNIST CHILDREN'S COLUMN

Bruno, the Italian Philosopher.

Dear Comrades:—The following is the second of a series of stories about revolutionists, men of science, etc., which I intend to write to you as often as possible.

Among the great men who gave their lives in their efforts to prove the falsity of the various religions was Giordano Bruno. Bruno was an Italian philosopher who lived between 1548-1600. During his youth he, for some unknown reason, became a clergyman. As such he often showed where certain parts of the bible were doubtful and he even said some parts were untrue. For this he was persecuted and forced to leave Rome. He went to Paris where he was well treated by Henry III., the king of France, who cared to listen to a freethinker and man of science as Bruno was. Later under French proctection, he went to England, then again to France and finally to Zurich. While in Zurich, a Venetian nobleman invited Bruno to come to Venice for a short time. The nobleman pleaded and begged Bruno to come as his guest, so anxious seemed he to speak to a philosopher. Bruno suspected nothing and went to Venice. Here Bruno, the freethinker, the man years ahead of his time, was captured by the inquisition in a trap they had prepared for him, using the nobleman (?) as a tool. He was put in prison, where he languished for 7 years. In 1600 he was executed at Rome by being burned alive at the order of the inquisition. In 1889, almost 300 years after his death, a statue was erected at his place of execution by popular demand. So died Bruno, a martyr for truth, for free thinking and for the same freedom we today are fighting for. So even today our own Comrades Minor, Ruthenberg and others in the United States being tried for free thinking, so were Liebknecht and Luxemburg in Germany killed for freethought.

Fraternally yours,
FRED H. HERZBERG,

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

January 17, 1925, says that Soviet Russia, "has made prodigious strides towards industrial triumph." John Bull further declares that the difference between the position in Soviet Russia in 1920 and 1924 is as great as that between night and day. To quote further: "It is quite possible, as Mr. Bertrand Russell prophesied even in his destructive criticism of Bolshevik policy, that Russian industrial prosperity may one day have no rival in the world except that of the United States.

"The Bolsheviks have set up a board of planning, and this board develops Russian industry as thoroly as Lord Leverhulme develops the soap trade; feeble industries are nursed with the profits of strong industries, and strong industries are every day being rendered more efficient." This is the enemy's testimony.

THE Moscow Financial Gazette reports that during the period from Jan. 1, to Dec. 31, 1924, the area under crops increased by 8 per cent; the total number of live stock by 24 per cent, the amount of goods handled by the railroads 35 per cent, and the turnover of wholesale trade by 40 per cent. The volume of currency circulation is approximately two and a half times as great as at the close of 1923. While this is taking place in Russia, Austria, dominated by the social democrats is looking around for a receiver and German social democrats are getting kicked out of the reichstag for graft, and Germany which was in the hands of the socialists after the armistice is now in the hands of the Wall Street bankers. Some difference.

Communists and the Capitalist Offensive

A Harding replaces a Wilson, a Coolidge replaces a Harding, a cultured barrister replaces a third-rate shyster as head of the department of justice, but the persecution of the Communists continues.

Perhaps there is some change in method, but the purpose remains the same—imprisonment and silencing of the most conscious and militant section of the American working class and their best fighters.

Following the denial of the appeal of Ruthenberg by the Michigan supreme court and his imprisonment until an appeal was taken to the United States supreme court, the scene shifted from Bridgeman to Cleveland where an attempt was made to deport Severino to fascist Italy. Once more the scene changes and before Burger, a Daugherty holdover of the department of justice, Krumbein, district organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party and Katterfeld, New York agent of the DAILY WORKER, an attempt is made to force them to testify in the Severino case. They naturally refused and Burger threatens contempt of court proceedings.

All these events indicate that the Coolidge government of the House of Morgan is preparing another attack on the Workers (Co(mmunist) Party.

It could hardly be otherwise.

Only a blissfully ignorant optimist could believe that the only party informing the workers of America of the murderous plans of American imperialism implicit in the Dawes plan and the Paris pact and organizing the workers for resistance will remain immune from well-planned persecution. The consolidation of the forces of the blackest enemies of the working class shown by the results of the last election means that a new era of arrogant brutality is a certainty.

The Communists will be the first to suffer. Then the capitalist offensive will be broadened and the whole labor movement will be brought into the line of fire.

The Communists are fully alive to the danger, but the labor movement as a whole is not. It is our task to see that every section of the organized workers understands exactly what the attack on the Communists means.

As always, the interests of the Workers (Communist) Party and of the working class are inseparable.

Only One Mess

Greece talks of war on Turkey.

Great Britain is the overlord of Greece, but fears to encourage her vassal in this new adventure because it would strengthen the alliance between Russia and Turkey.

France and Italy prepare to back Turkey—their bulwark against the further advance of British imperialism in Asia Minor.

Bulgaria crouches to spring upon Dedegeatch, the Greek port in the Aegean Sea that Bulgaria covets.

Jugo-Slavia, in the event of a Greco-Turkish war, is ready to grab the Greek port of Salonica which she needs because Italy has cut her off from the sea.

Over all stands the Communist International appealing to the working class of all these nations to throw off the chains of capitalism—to turn imperialist war into war on capitalism.

Greek Communists call on the workers to fight the war plans of their government and twenty are imprisoned. Thousands of workers demand their release and demonstrate against the government.

This is a brief sketch of just one of messes in which world capitalism finds itself.

It is inextricably enmeshed in the web of its own contradictions and national rivalries when the acutely critical condition demands unity.

Is it any wonder that the whole world constantly trembles on the verge of war?

The Need for Simplicity

We have from a worker-reader a letter asking for the use of more simple language in the articles and editorials we publish.

We agree with the implied criticism and we try to use and have our contributors use a language that is clear and understandable. The DAILY WORKER is published for the workers in industry and for the masses of poor farmers, and anything that keeps the DAILY WORKER from being read and understood is a bad thing for both the class struggle and the DAILY WORKER.

The task of making articles and editorials of the utmost simplicity is not as easy as might be thought. The temptation for all editors and authors of special articles is to write for the best educated and most critical of their readers. It is quite easy to forget that but a small percentage of the masses which the DAILY WORKER must reach is familiar with Marxian words and phrases and interested in involved articles dealing with certain phases of Marxian theory and practice.

It would be a mistake to think, however, that the DAILY WORKER and the Communists must accept this condition as one that cannot be changed and cease to struggle against it. The Communist press not only must try to write its news and educational material in such form that any worker who can read can understand it, it must not only base its agitation and educational articles on the daily problems and struggles of the workers—what Lenin called "the facts of life"—but it must also work unceasingly to raise the level of understanding and make classic phrases of the class struggle part of the language of the American workers.

The class struggle rages here in America in spite of the fact that the labor union officials and the middle class advisers of the workers deny it. It is part of the same struggle that goes on all over the world and its terms are well known to millions of workers wherever the breakdown of capitalism has created the conditions for widespread revolutionary work and has brought great masses of workers into the ranks of the labor and revolutionary movement.

The best way we know of to keep the contents of the DAILY WORKER in as simple language as possible is to get constantly such criticism as that mentioned. In addition to this, but more difficult and more important, are news stories and articles written by the worker-readers of the Communist press themselves. This is the way that the DAILY WORKER can become a real mass organ and it is a paper made up of such material that we want and the working class needs.

Textile Workers Battle

Our news from Lawrence, Pawtucket and other textile centers tells of a sharpening of the struggle against wage cuts and speeding-up schemes of the bosses, of mass meetings called by the united front committees, organized by the Workers (Communist) Party and Trade Union Educational League.

At these meetings the greatest interest is displayed in advice to unite all the protest movements and small unions in the industry into a solid front against the mill owners and their shop organization headed by Colonel Butler, the campaign manager of Coolidge and backed by the House of Morgan-Coolidge-Dawes government.

The wage cuts and the speeding up system has now affected almost the entire textile industry. The economic basis for a united front of all the textile workers has been laid by the mill owners themselves and for the first time in the bloody history of the textile industry there is a real united front movement under way.

Always before, the resentment of the workers has spent itself in strikes and demonstrations affecting only a small part of the industry at one time. This year there is a force in the textile centers that brings to the textile workers not only the idea of industrial solidarity but a realistic organizational program tried and proven effective in a thousand struggles of the workers in all the capitalist countries. It is the program of the Communist International and the Red International of Labor Unions—the united front from below against the capitalist class and the agents of capitalism and the capitalist state wherever they are found.

For the first time there is a real basis for the belief that the textile industry will be organized—organized by amalgamation of the existing unions, by organization of the unorganized workers and by united front actions into a union born of the struggle.

West Virginia's Coal Miners

The territory around Fairmont and Parkersburg, West Virginia, is the scene of one of those struggles between workers and capitalists which basic industry in America furnishes in bloody colors.

The local unions of the United Mine Workers of America in this section are making a last ditch fight to save their organization and prevent a wage cut. Their fight is a desperate one and in the last few days a union miner has been killed by coal company gunmen. In the state as a whole the coal mining industry is now only about ten per cent organized. In whole districts the union has been destroyed by methods exactly the same as those used by imperialist powers in breaking the resistance of colonial peoples.

That is what the miners of West Virginia are in their present unorganized condition—colonial serfs of the steel trust which owns or controls the mining industry.

The hope for the West Virginia miners lies not in the present officialdom of the United Mine Workers with its program of "meeting the boss half way," but in the program of the left wing, centering around the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League, for which 66,000 votes were counted in the recent union election.

There is just as much menace to the steel trust domination of the West Virginia miners' lives in this proof of the militants' numerical strength as there is to the rule of Lewis and his army of high-salaried henchmen.

The two must be fought together and the steel trust will not be forced to deal with miners as a unit until the left wing program becomes the program of the union.

The bosses have a united front to force wage cuts. The workers must also have a united front to resist wage cuts.

ALLIES WOULD REPUDIATE ALL U. S. OBLIGATIONS

Squabble Grows Over War Debt of Billions

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 9.—Great Britian's note to France made public today, offering to reduce the French war debt to England, will not change the policy of Coolidge, who will continue to demand payment in full of France's war debt to the United States, it was said in government circles here.

France and Great Britain negotiated a treaty in 1916, long before America entered the war, members of Calvin Coolidge's official family state, and agreed to make a common cause against Germany. They pooled money men and resources, and after the war divided Germany's colonies, and the bulk of the reparations.

More than one billion dollars was borrowed by France from the United States after the armistice, and four billion dollars was borrowed in all.

England's note agrees to cancel some of France's war debt, but infers that the English debt to the United States should receive similiar treatment.

The French government regards the British debt coldly, because of the "joker" in the note which proposes that France pay part of her debt out of her own national resources, regardless of what money France is able to extract from Germany. French officials declare it is a "dangerous principle for France to admit that she should pay her war debts even if Germany does not pay."

The French want to pay England only from money that is taken from Germany.

Heavier Burden on Peasants

Edward Hilton Young, M. P. financial adviser of the British treasury department during the world war, who has been in the United States conferring with American bankers, declared before sailing for Liverpool from New York that France should tax her peasants more.

Young said that France should pay her war debts to England and France by levying a heavier tax upon the peasants.

Young declared that the French peasants are unwilling to pay these taxes, but the Herriot government should organize the machinery to make the peasants pay the debts.

England Knows How to Tax

"The French government should organize the machinery for the collection of taxes and then levy them," said Young. "The peasants are unwilling to be taxed."

Young added that England has "solved her debt problem to the United States by learning how to tax her subjects."

Coal Barons Organize Scab Union in West Virginia Mine Fields

lars of union funds paying for "exposes" of Communists purchased from agents of the department of justice.

Miners Resentful.

Many of these miners comment bitterly on the action of William Green, former secretary-treasurer of the Miners' Union, and now head of the A. F. of L. in leading the fight at the Portland convention to expel William F. Dunne, from that body because he was a Communist. Had Green devoted his energies to fighting the coal operators in West Virginia, and elsewhere as the Trade Union Educational League urged, the strikers in the tent colonies would not be today at the mercy of the coal barons and their scab labor leaders.

There are 100,000 coal miners in this state, which is about one-fourth the present membership of the United Mine Workers of America. With this state almost entirely in the grip of the open shop, the coal operators feel that they can smash the union in the rest of the country as the coal producing ability of this state is enormous. The recent merger is only a beginning, and the new fake labor organization, bears the same relation to this merger that a company union does to the concern which owns and controls it.

The Bosses' Flunkeys.

The incorporators of the Mine Workers' Association of West Virginia are J. S. Querey, Lincoln Holstein, Robert Morris, W. M. Earle and C. C. Matson, all of Charleston.

The guiding hand in the great coal merger is Charles R. Flint, a 75-year-old financial wizard of New York City, and the brains in the organization of such giant concerns as the United States Rubber company, the American Woolen company and the American Chicle company.

The prospects in the near future for the miners of West Virginia are anything but bright. An era of industrial feudalism, that will beat anything in the history of that black region looms on the horizon.

SMALL WASHES HANDS OF KLAN WAR IN HERRIN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9.—Gov. Small washed his hands of the Herrin ku klux klan violence today, when he issued the statement that he was not concerned in receiving an official report from the Williamson county board of supervisors. The board was to ratify the agreement between Sheriff Galligan and the ku klux klan in a move to end the klan riots. Small said today that he expected no official report from Marion.

Galligan has moved to East St. Louis, altho he stated there he has no intention of resigning. Galligan is keeping his part of the agreement to "exile" himself from Williamson county and turn his duties temporarily over to his deputy, Randall Parks.

SOCIALIST SHEET TELLS READERS TO AID SCAB DAIRY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 9.—The Burr Creamery company has been placed on the unfair list by the Central Labor Council of Los Angeles. This concern has thrown out all union help. But the Jewish yellow socialist Forward is still accepting advertisements from the Burr Creamery in its Los Angeles edition and urges its readers to buy Burr Creamery products.

Workmen Dig Toward Collins As Troops Guard Cave Mouth

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 9.—Less than ten feet of rotten decayed rock separated Floyd Collins from his rescuers, if a test by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, archeologist of the University of Kentucky, is found to be correct. The test is now being rechecked. It is thought that a hole seventy feet down in Sand Cave, where Collins is imprisoned may lead the rescuers to Collins tomb.

It is doubtful, according to those digging the shaft to Collins, whether he can be reached before Thursday.

Beauty and Bolshevik at South Bend Feb. 11

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 9.—The city central committee of the Workers Party has arranged for the showing of "Beauty and Bolshevik" at the White Eagle Theater, South Bend, Ind., for Feb. 11. In view of the splendid success of the film in Chicago, witnessed by several members from South Bend, the members expect a fine turnout. Proceeds will benefit the International Workers' Aid.

SHIRT COMPANY BUYS LABOR OF W. VA. CONVICTS

Pays Only Seventy Cents Per Day for Each

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Feb. 9.—The Gordon Shirt company, thru a contract with the state board of control, was given the right to exploit the labor of four hundred convicts in the West Virginia state penitentiary at a compensation of only 70 cents per day.

This fact was revealed here when Judge P. D. Morris declared the contract null and void in Marshall circuit court at Moundsville, last week. Marcellus A. Jolliff asked that the Gordon Shirt company be restrained from carrying out the provisions of the contract on the ground that under its operation the tax payers of the state would lose $60,000 a year.

The judge's decision was based on the technicality that the state board of control failed to advertise the contract for four weeks as required by law and was therefore null and void.

Evidently leasing convict labor to a private exploiter is perfectly in accord with the christian sentiments of the ruling class of West Virginia but this low form of robbery must be done in accordance with the law.

BAUER SMELLS SO BAD SOCIALISTS MUST DISOWN HIM

Former Chancellor in the Barmat Scandal

BERLIN, Germany, Feb. 9.—Former Chancellor Bauer, social-democrat, has been forced to resign his seat in the reichstag and has been "disowned" by the social-democratic party, after being implicated in the Barmat brothers and the Prussian state bank financial scandals.

The social-democratic paper, Vorwarts, has repudiated Bauer, in an attempt to get out from under the exposures of corruption in the former German governments.

The social-democratic paper points out that Bauer has been repudiated by the governing board of the social-democratic party, and declares his socialist colleagues "always looked askance at his relations with the Barmats."

They also "deplore the fact that Bauer became involved in conflicting testimony in the Prussian state bank enquiry, and failed to make a clean breast of his operations, leaving the party no choice but to disown him."

The social-democratic party of Germany has been most heavily hit by the revelations of corruption of former government officials, which make the practices of America's Teapot Domers appear lily-white.

Numerous investigations are now in progress in the reichstag and the Prussian diet. The public prosecutor is expected today to request the reichstag to suspend the parliamentary immunity of former minister of posts, Hoefle, of the clerical party, who has also been forced to resign.

Maybe Dawes Taught Them.

New disclosures show that the government state agencies, including the state railroads used illegal methods to safeguard themselves during the period of inflation. The state railroads lost nearly 10,000,000 marks in an attempt to purchase gold on the "Black Bourse," in return for the rapidly sinking paper mark.

Hoefle loaned government money to the swindlers, Barmat brothers, and thereby lost $15,000,000 of the government's money.

FIGURES IN AMERICAN LABOR HISTORY

By THURBER LEWIS

No. 2

The Reformers, No. 1—Owens, Wright, Evans

WITH the exception of more or less obscure rank and file agitators in the various strikes that developed out of the early organization of trade unions, no outstanding exponents of the class struggle present themselves prior to the Civil War. The history of the early labor movement is bound up with the record of the early reformers. With few exceptions they were intellectuals. Their connection with the real labor movement was in the nature of a "liaison." They saw in the growth of working-class organization nothing more than a hook whereupon to hang their utopian hats. Each reformer endeavored to get support from the working-class for his particular social formula.

But they were rebels insofar as they protested against things as they were, and as such inspired a large section of the more vigorious minded workers of the time to follow their lead. Despite their ignorance of the class-struggle, they represented in their day the advance guard of radicalism in America. A history of the labor movement is not complete without them.

Reformism first appears in 1826 when Robert Owen, the great English philanthropist and utopian, came to America and established a colony called "New Harmony" in Indiana. The effect of this innovation on the labor movement was slight. It did, however, supply personalities whose influence on the currents of working-class life were of considerable importanve. Robert Owen's son, Robert Dale Owen, was one of these.

He originated a system of education he called "State Guardianship", which provided for free boarding-houses for children's education. He was led to this by the failure of his father's colony which he thought due to the educational handicaps with which the colonists began. He thought universal education the best and quickest way to social reform. Universal education found favor with the working-class. At the time, education was the restricted privilege of the rich. The workers looked upon young Owen as a leader because he represented for them an immediate demand they thought within their reach.

He took an active and leading part in the political movement of 1829-32 that expressed itself as the "Workingman's Party" in New York City. While he obviously utilized the movement merely as a means to secure the adoption of his social plan, and while he served as a curb on the more extreme elements like Skidmore, at the same time his contribution to the spreading of rebellious social ideas was not inconsiderable.

Frances Wright was another product of New Harmony" whose influences were felt in the rising labor movement. Like Robert Owen she was a native of Scotland. A residence of some years in France supplied the background for her radical ideas. She came to this country in 1818 and devoted herself to anti-slavery and Negro educational work in Tennessee. She later became a leader in Owen's "New Harmony" and after its failure joined Robert Dale Owen in his universal education propaganda in New York City. She played a leading role in the Workingman's Party and gave a great deal of her energy advocating the cause of women's rights. "Fannie" Wright, as she was called, was, along with the rest of the reformers, chiefly interested in the advocation of immediate changes of not very fundamental social import. But that she had, intellectually a vision of the magnitude of the class struggle s shown by this obsertion, made by her in 1830: "What distinguishes the present from every other struggle in which the human race is engaged is that, the present is, openly and acknowledgedly, a war of class and that this war is universal." That was twenty years before the Communist manifesto was written.

George Henry Evans was a native of England who became the editor of the "Worgingman's Advocate," the organ of the workers' political movement begun in 1829. He was a co-worker of Robert Dale Owen and a leader in the Workingman's Party. He was of middleclass origin but worked as a printer in this country until he became editor of what might be called the first working-class newspaper. iHs subsequent career was taht of land reformer, and tho he never failed to give his support to any working class movement that sprang up during his life time he forever nursed a pet theory that had to do with equal distribution of land.

AS WE SEE [illegible]

By T. J. O'FLAH[illegible]

AMONG those excited by the news of the treaty between Japan and Russia is ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany. William has not broken into print for a quite some time, but he has a nose for publicity and is as clever a poser as even Samuel Gompers, the best showman since Barnum, William's favorite hobby is the "yellow peril". His own prospects being rather black, he sees in the Japanese question a chance to snuggle into the American-British caucus and pose as the original Japanophobe.

SPEAKING of the treaty, he is reported to have said: "The repercussions of this event will shortly be felt in the relations of all the European states, and it is bound to cause deep thinking and heart searching in Germany and among the allies. France is backing the black races. Russia is backing the yellow, and the United States and Britain are backing the white. Where will Germany stand?" Where can she stand? She is now owned by the Dawes' plan and Wall Street and only workingclass revolution will make Germany free, such as she never was when the maniac Kaiser Wilhelm was on the throne.

FRANCE is not backing the black races for the good of the blacks. France is exploiting the black races and so is England, wherever she has the opportunity. So is every other capitalist country. So was Germany under the Kaiser. But Russia is backing the yellow races against their white exploiters for their own good. There is no question about that, and it is no secret. Soviet Russia is the greatest influence for good in the Orient. The masses know Russia to be their friend. This feeling is now so universal that the capitalists have realized the futility of spending more millions on lying propaganda among the peoples of the East.

RUSSIA is growing in power every day. The prophets of evil who a few years ago were able to break into the front pages of the capitalist press with tales of the downfall of Soviet power are now rarely able to even find a corner among the advertisements [illegible] radios and [illegible] terriers. This year the third session of the Russian federal parliament will be held in Tiflis, Georgia. Tiflis was very much in the news not so long ago. Those who read the Chicago Tribune and take it seriously may have expected disaster for the workers and peasants government on reading the report of the Trib's Constntinopole liar, on the Georgian revolt.

ANOTHER sign that normalcy is traveling on seven league boots in the workers' republic is the recent congress on Soviet Reforms held in Moscow. This congress was called on the initiative of the Rusian Communist Party, which is not satisfied with "well enough" but is always aiming at perfection. In a country of 130,000,000 people or more it cannot be expected that any government can give complete satisfaction. But when a country of Russia's illiteracy under czarism is considered and the fact that under the czar, the people never had a chance to have their say on what kind of laws they should have, the great progress made by the Soviet government is extraordinary.

CERTAIN capitalist editors began to see trouble for the government in the calling of this congress. But there was no serious trouble. The congress was an orderly, peaceful, but lively affair. Several leaders of the Soviet government delivered speeches and the proposals of the presidium of the Central Executive Committee were carried out with few slight amendments. The congress was called because the government learned that only 31 per cent of the electors participated, in the voting for the village Soviets. This might be considered fortunate by the democratic solons of Alabama and Georgia but in Russia, such laxity is frowned upon. The government wants the producers in the rural districts and in the country to participate in the work of building up the new social order. Therefore, it

SEATTLE UNIONS BACK DEFENSE OF COMMUNISTS

Protest Central Labor Council Pogrom

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 10.—Despite the red-baiting campaign opened here by the labor fakers, several local unions have passed resolutions during the past week condemning the criminal syndicalism laws and endorsing the Michigan defense.

Among locals taking such action are: Maintainance of Way Men; Building Laborers; Painters; Boilermakers; Machinists as well as the Metal Trades Council.

Following ousting of Communists by Seattle Labor Council Wednesday, the Building Trades Council took similar action last Friday, their action being commended by Tracy secretary building trades department of A. F. of L. who was present at the meeting. W. H. Jones, business agent, Painters' Local No. 300, Communist elector in the fall elections is one of the first to be attacked.

Secretary Doyle of Seattle C. L. C. received wire from W. H. Green endorsing council's action. Bakers Local No. 9 last Saturday night passed the following resolution with only one dissenting vote.

Bakers Condemns Expulsions

"To the officers and delegates of the Central Labor Council of Seattle and vicinity greetings.

"Bakers Union No. 9 at their regular meeting almost unanimously passed the following resolution: Whereas the unity of the labor movement of Seattle and vicinity has been endangered by the action of the Central Labor Council at its meeting Wednesday February 4, in passing a motion to unseat all delegates of local unions alleged to be Communists and,

Whereas this move by the Central Labor Council is calculated to demoralize the organized labor movement of Seattle and work directly in the interests of the bosses by creating a bitter factional struggle in the Labor Council and,

Whereas it nullifies the constitutions of the A. F. of L. (which gives the freedom of political opinion to all members thereof) and eliminates many of the best unionists, the most able, fearless, militant and devoted workers from active participation in the council and the labor movement in general, therefore be it

Resolved that we Bakers Union Local No. 9 protest the action of the Labor Council and urge that in the interest of harmony and the labor movement the motion of February 4, discriminating against delegates on account of political beliefs be rescinded and we further urge that the Central Labor Council instead of waging warfare against a group of earnest sincere and militant workers with years of service in the trade union movement cease their disruptive tactics forthwith and mobilize all forces of the Seattle labor movement for a united struggle against the common enemies of organized labor, and we further call upon the body of organized labor in the various local unions in the city of Seattle to support us in this protest until these disruptive tactics are stopped within the ranks of the labor movement, in Seattle.

Fraternally yours
P. K. MOHR

The general membership meeting of the Workers Party in Seattle with 200 members present was the most enthusiastic ever held. All fully realized the seriousness of the present situation, nevertheless members assert the party will grow as a result of this opposition. Collection of $30 was taken to carry on local organization.

Michigan Prosecution Making National Drive To Spread 'Red' Alarm

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 10.—The prosecution of the Communists by the state of Michigan is broadening out to a national campaign to stir up hysteria against "reds." This is seen by the speech of O. L. Smith, Michigan prosecutor of the Communists, at the national republican club here. Smith read extensively from documents presented at the trials of Foster and Ruthenberg and bewailed the apathy and indifference of the public to the "red menace."

Other speakers against the Communists included Martin W. Littleton, Fred R. Marvin of the American Defense Society. Roger N. Baldwin of the American Civil Liberties Union took issue with Littleton, altho denying any sympathy with Communism.

He said he opposed dictatorship and was "far more concerned with the methods of social change than with its object."

JUDGE ENGLISH TOOK GRAFT FROM ILLINOIS BANKRUPTS IS CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—An investigation looking to the possible impeachment of Federal Judge George W. English of the eastern district of Illinois was ordered today by the house judiciary committee.

The investigation was asked by Representative Hawes, democrat of Missouri, who, with citizens of East St. Louis, Ill., charged English with profiting financially from bankruptcy cases in his court.

BOOTLEGGERS SAT PRETTY IN ATLANTA PRISON

Provided They "Fixed" Chaplain and Warden

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 10.—Father Thomas P. Hayden, a Roman catholic priest, and former chaplain, at the federal penitentiary here, testified on the witness stand in the United States district court, that A. E. Sartain, deposed warden and L. J. Fletcher, deputy warden, accepted bribes in return for "soft snaps" given to wealthy criminals who were committed to the penitentiary.

The principal clients of the prison officials were wealthy bootleggers. Father Hayden was in on the deal. He received at least $2,100 for his work.

The outsider in the game was Lawrence Rhiel, of Columbus, Ohio, one of the "Ohio gang." He was the "Jess Smith" of Atlanta.

It is reported that Father Hayden has turned states evidence in return for immunity.

The prisoners who paid the cash were given easy berths inside the prison by the warden. The warden and his associates were caught which makes all the difference in the world under capitalism.

Airplane Trip to Nome Cancelled As Epidemic Dies Out

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 10.—Steady improvement in the diptheria epidemic situation here was reported today by Dr. Curtis Welch.

No fresh cases had been reported and the number affected to date was 32 with 20 additional suspected cases.

So promising was the outlook for controlling the epidemic that the board of health wired aviators Darling and Mackie at Fairbanks, that it was unnecessary for them to attempt their planned flight to Nome.

It was believed that the new dog relay running from Nenana with a supply of serum will arrive in time.

FEW DELEGATES AT VIC BERGER'S C.P.P.A. MEETING

Pre-Chicago Gathering Maneuver Fails

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 10.—Victor Berger's "socialist" machine in Wisconsin planned a grand maneuver. It was proposed to organize a gigantic conference in Wisconsin with a large representation and then come with an accomplished fact to the national convention of the conference for progressive political action, in Chicago Feb. 21, and on this basis demand the formation of a new party.

Holding a four-flush in his hands Berger made a grand bluff. A large hall was rented in the auditorium with a capacity of over 1000 seats; but on the date of conference only thirty delegates assembled. This handful could hardly be seen among the hundreds of empty seats.

More than three-quarters of delegates represented the officialdom of the socialist party machine with the rank and file membership conspicuous by their absence and with only a few trade union delegates.

Why Labor was Absent

The handful of delegates huddled in a corner presented a very pitiful and depressing sight. The prediction of the Workers Party had come true.

Ernest Unterman of the socialist party wanted to know with whom the socialists were uniting. He wondered in so many plain words if the socialist party was not making the united front with itself.

He asked why there were only a few delegates. To this the chairman of the conference, Nickerson, replied laconically "Ask me something easy."

Hanley, of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, was more encouraging. He announced that the absence of delegates is due to a high railroad fare. But Unterman was not reassured since of the 116 unions in Milwaukee only one or two were present, and the street car fare of 14 cents did not seem like such a heavy burden upon organizations with over 20,000 members.

Edmund T. Melms of the socialist party was not dismayed however. He announced that the next conference will be called in the balmy summer weather when the loyal supporters of the socialist party will be able to arrive in their touring cars.

Platform Question Avoided

The Milwaukee Leader announced that the conference was unanimous. Yet the question of a platform was not even raised at the conference. A lone delegate, Miss Keenan, with a feminine instinct, felt that something should be said to conceal that something is rotten in Denmark, so she

PLAN TO FILL CHILD MINDS WITH "PIE IN SKY" DOPE IS HOPE OF NEW YORK PARSONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The proposal, unanimously made by skypiloting dope dispensers of all creeds to introduce religious training into the public schools, as already reported in the DAILY WORKER of Feb. 6, is no idle scheme but a deep laid, well matured plan to further moronize and render docile and submissive the children of workers, further investigation shows.

When Rev. Howlett declared that "The sane leadership of the board of education wants religious instruction for the children as much as we do," he knew whereof he spoke. The plan was no sooner broached publicly than it was made a reality by Superintendent of Schools O'Shea, assigning P. S. 46, St. Nicholas Ave. and 156th street, as an experimental school for the purpose.

In doing this, he further revealed that discussion of this plan has been going on for some time, the catholics giving religious instruction in the public schools for the past two years, the only new and significant thing being the "harmony and co-operation" between all creeds.

It is not intended at present, Dr. O'Shea said, to dismiss classes earlier in order to allow children to receive their training, but that plan may be changed in the future. "I can't say how things will develop," he said.

"The department of education has not taken any stand in the matter," said Dr. O'Shea. "Officially, it is not our affair. If religious instruction is to be given after school hours and away from school property, that is something not coming within the jurisdiction of the department, so far as I can see."

Meanwhile individual class-conscious capitalists, realizing the value to them of this work, are rushing to aid its extension. A wealthy real estate man on hearing of this movement sent Rev. Howlett an unsolicited check for $500 saying that he regarded it a good business investment.

FRANCE WOULD PAY DEBTS WITH GERMAN MONEY

Capitalist Papers Spurn British Note

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Money with which to pay France's debt not only to Great Britain, but to the United States must come from Germany. French newspapers were almost unanimous today in declaring.

The reaction followed a close study of Great Britain's note to France that France should obtain from its natural resources the money to pay its debt to London.

French public opinion will never permit international debts to be paid from France's resources, it was the concensus of the newspapers.

Jule Sauerwein, commenting editorially in Le Matin, warned the government, "It is doubtful whether a majority ever could be found in any French chamber which would agree to France promising to repay her creditors irrespective of the amount received from Germany."

MILLER, COMMUNIST, IS ONLY FIGHTER FOR FARMERS IN THE LEGISLATURE OF NORTH DAKOTA

By ALFRED KNUDSON,
(Special to The Daily Worker)

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 10.—The leadership of the nonpartisan league in North Dakota has completely lost contact with the masses of farmers and workers in the state.

There is no longer any effort made on its part to find out what the rank and file need and want; it is concerned almost entirely with how it can "compromise" and "trade" with the so-called independent voters' association opposition.

Instead of making an honest and clear-cut fight in the present legislative session in behalf of the needs and demands of the masses of farmers and workers, the league leadership tries to square itself with the banking and business interests, being careful to maneuver so as not to "stir up the opposition too much."

Businessmen Boss Legislature.

The result of such tactics is that the legislative show here is bossed by outright upholders of the capitalist system which is responsible for the social and economic evils under which the struggling farmers now suffer.

The league leaders refusing to fight for the farmer who needs help the most. There is compulsory state hail insurance, for example, something that is popular with the farmers generally, and yet, when A. C. Miller, the Communist, introduced a bill in the house the other day, embodying this very essential feature, as well as another bill providing for a tax on all unoccupied tillable land in the state held out of use; the house insurance committee, controlled by the non-partisan leaguers, many of them in sympathy with Miller's plan, agreed unanimously to postpone the measures indefinitely.

This is not the way to fight the farmers' battles in the North Dakota legislature.

No Way to Fight.

So also with Miller's resolution asking for the recognition of Soviet Russia introduced in the house a few days ago and killed in committee. Individual league representatives expressed themselves in favor of this resolution but evidently were afraid to support it in the open.

Always Pussyfooting.

In this connection it is interesting to recall how on October 10, 1923, at a non-partisan league convention held in Bismarck a resolution requesting the recognition of Soviet Russia was conveniently buried in committee. On this occasion particular pains were taken to ascertain the opinion of the individual delegates on the Russian question and practically all agreed that Russia ought to be recognized by this country.

Senator Lynn J. Frasier of North Dakota who was present at this convention also said in private that the Soviet government should be accorded recognition by the United States. Yet, despite all this favorable sentiment for diplomatic and commercial relations with Russia, it was not considered "wise" by the league leadership to present the resolution to the convention.

All this shows lack of courage, and unwillingness as well to fight on the side of the farmers and the workers and against the capitalists and their government.

Banker is Floor Leader.

F. A. Vogel, banker, is the non-partisan league floor leader in the house of representatives and also the chief director of the league legislative caucus. Mr. Vogel does not stand for any change in the capitalist system that is robbing the farmer of North Dakota of the fruits of his toil. He has always been considered pretty much to the right of even the average leaguer in the state.

In the present session his main efforts are directed towards "playing" politics with the "opposition." As for the bankrupt and exploited farmer, he can wait.

STATE RULED BY LA FOLLETTE HITS AT ALL STRIKES

If Scabs Are Working There's No Strike

MADISON, Wis., February 10.—"A strike is not fully determined by the action of the workmen, but by the output of the plant, and, although a strike has been called, a strike may not be in effect if the plant continues to run without reduction of output," was the opinion of the Wisconsin supreme court handed down today in an action by the state against the West Allis company of Milwaukee.

Moulders at the plant had declared a strike and the company advertised for help, but did not announce that a strike was on, with the result that officials of the concern were arrested.

Tried in the Milwaukee municipal court, the officials were held guilty of violating the statutes and appealed. The decision today reverses the verdict of the lower court.

The ruling is expected to have a far-reaching effect in labor annals, and practically annuls the law forbitting employers advertising for workers during strikes without stating in the advertisement that it is a scab job.

Probe Freight Rates in Coal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The interstate commerce commission today ordered an investigation of the proposal of the Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western railroad to cancel thru freight rates on bituminous coal in car loads from Brazil, Burnett, Coal Bluff, Coxville, Ecker, Mecca and Rosedale, Ind., mines on that road to various points in Michigan, reached by the Chicago Attica & Southern railroad. The proposed change would result in a considerable increase in combination rates.

Will Table Geneva Protocol

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Great Britian is practically tabling the Geneva protocol. Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, will tell the league council in March that Britian will propose amendments to the protocol which are so extensive in scope that he believes they should be laid before the assembly of the league of nations, which meets in September.

Political Friction in Persia

Allahabad, India, Feb. 10.—Advices today from Teheran, Persia, state that political friction between the sultan and premier was becoming greater. Premier Serdar Sepas notified the assembly they must decide before Thursday whether the sultan or premier will rule.

Japan Claims to Have Fulfilled Terms Of Four-Power Pact

TOKYO, Feb. 10.—Japan has completed the scrapping of warships required under the Washington arms conference treaty, according to a statement today by the naval office. Fourteen ships have been scrapped since December, 1923, the statement declared.

The naval department claims that all requirements of the treaty have now been carried out by Japan.

BILL OUTLAWING STRIKES PASSED BY IDAHO HOUSE

Vote on Bill Aimed at Lumbers Workers 36-26

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 10.—House bill No. 11, making the criminal-syndicalism law of Idaho, more drastic and far reaching, passed the house after a heated debate by a vote of 36 to 26. The bill defines sabotage as "Any acts or efforts willfully or maliciously done to hinder, or destroy property or slow up work." This definition of sabotage, labor union officials here say makes strikes unlawful.

I. W. Wright, secretary of the State Labor Council, G. H. Oram, general chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors, G. W. Hunt, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and other trade union officials, called on the governor and told of their opposition to the bill.

Debate in the house on the measure showed that it was promoted by the lumber trust as a move primarily aimed against the I. W. W. Representative Smith of Clearwater, told the house "the lumber interests need the amendment." Representative Taylor of Kootenai, who voted against the change in the criminal syndicalism law, defended the supreme court decision that enabled several I. W. W. members to come out of jail last year. They were imprisoned for organizing the lumber workers.

Telegraphers Turn Down Company Union And Get Pay Raise

The United States railroad labor board yesterday rendered a decision in favor of the dispatchers on the Missouri Pacific railroad, who are seeking a wage raise of approximately $15 a month.

The men rejected the company's plan to replace membership in the American Train Dispatchers' Association with a company union system.

CARPENTERS LAUGH FAKER OUT OF CHAIR

"Open Forum" at Local 181 Meeting

There was an open forum at last Monday night's meeting of Local 181 of the Carpenters' Union, when the chairman, lackey of Harry Jensen and Czar Hutcheson, decided that discretion was the better part of valor and stepped down from his chair leaving that honorable piece of furniture without its usual dishonorable encumbrance.

The reason for this strange procedure is, that the chairman has not been able to conduct the business of the local ever since he and other satillites of the faker Jensen illegally expelled five good members, active in the Trade Union Educational League, because they protested against a scab agreement between Jensen, Hutcheson on one side and several Chicago contractors on the other. The union members insist that their fellow workers must be given a fair trial, hence the unpleasantness.

The Vacant Chair.

But the vacant chair looked appealingly to John Steffens, the bully who acted as chairman of the farcical trial committee, and one of those responsible for falsifying the record. John thought he would show the rank and file what a brave man could do, so he ambled up to the chair, threw out his manly chest like Bernard McFadden, and declared himself vice-president. The members thought he was rehearsing for the burlesque stage and in order to encourage him, they emitted hurricanes of "haw haws" that could be heard blocks away. Instead of the ham actor being pleased at this recognition of his genius for acting the role of clown, he appeared perturbed as if stricken by stage fright.

His appearance in the role of self-appointed vice-chairman was shortlived. Like the famous general in the story who marched up the hill and down again, Steffens retreated from the chair with all his forces intact. It was a wonderful strategic victory, as Primo de Rivera of Spain would say after he succeeds in "evacuating" a town. The members had a good laugh, but John proved a bad loser.

But the worthy was by no means thru when he travelled the distance from his seat to the gaping chair and back again to his seat. There being no chairman to declare them out of order, the members proceeded to discuss the question that has kept the local in turmoil for the past several weeks: the expulsion of the five members.

Report Falsified.

Several members took the floor, among them one of those who sat on the trial committee. He declared that the report of the trial committee was falsified and that Steffens was one of those who did the falsifying. Steffens, the bully, then read a clause from the constitution which he thought would prove that the members were legally expelled, but it happened to show that they did not have a trial in accordance with the laws of the constitution. This caused a gale of laughter interjected with shouts of "saphead" and "faker."

"Jim" Jensen, financial secretary, declared that the members were expelled because he had written their names off the books. Jensen is said to be afraid of losing his job and never loses an opportunity to show his loyalty to Harry Jensen, his patron. The rank and file have the utmost contempt for this flunkey and if he ever runs for office again in Local 181, he will not get enough votes to cover the head of a tack.

Local 181 insists that its members shall have a square deal.

TEXTILE WORKERS IN STRIKE CLASH BEAT UP BOSSES

But That Is in China, Not in Fakerland

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10.—Six thousand striking employes of the Naigai Wata Kaisha cotton mill today stormed the plant, assaulted and drove out the Japanese managers and overseers and wrecked furniture and machinery valued at $30,000, according to police reports.

Police responded to a hurry-up call but the strikers had disappeared. They found two Japanese severely injured and many others suffering minor hurts. A heavy police guard has been stationed about all Japanese mills.

The strikers alleged the Japanese overseers beat them with knotted ropes.

SAFFRON FRENCH SOCIALISTS DROP 'INTERNATIONAL'

Their Former Daily Is Now Fortnightly

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The French socialist party definitely dropped the "International" anthem from its musical menu, when for the first time a French socialist congress opened without the singing of labor's famous revolutionary song.

Premier Herriot was severely criticised by several speakers for his hostile attitude towards Germany, but as usual they did not advocate breaking with him. Leon Blum, leader of the French parliamentary socialist group challenged the congress to order the group to break with Herriot. Some of the speakers claimed that they drove Millerand from power.

There is a severe struggle going in the French socialist party between those who wish to keep the party in opposition to all governments until it has the necessary strength to resume office and between the element which favors collaboration with the capitalist parties.

The Bargain

The terms for the socialist support of the French government were fixed last May in a series of letters that passed between Leon Blum and Herriot. The socialists have several bills which they want pushed thru parliament and their only hope for getting them by is to continue their support of the present government.

Rudolph Hilferding, former German minister of finance was loudly applauded at the congress when he boosted the league of nations and urged the socialists to insist on the evacuation of Cologne, the occupation of which "poisoned democracy."

The administrative committee was charged with the very difficult duty of getting the official organ of the party, the Populaire, which is now published forthightly, back on a daily basis. One deputy demanded that the government provide the necessary funds in return for socialist party support. This suggestion caused considerable embarassment. The weakness of the socialist party compared to that of the Communists is shown by the fact that the latter's daily organ, the Humanite has a circulation of over 200,000 daily.

Only Few Delegates At Victor Berger's Pre-C. P. P. A. Meeting

proposed a slogan for adoption. "Ideals—Not Opportunism."

But even this was rejected and the innocent reference to opportunism sounded too real to the delegates. So they defeated the proposal on the ground that "we do not believe in slogans."

The question of the form of organization of ephemeral future party was the only question that disturbed the drowsy atmosphere of the conference.

Unterman was frightened at the suggestion that the new party should be a dues-paying organization.

Why, he stated, we would lose the support of the majority of the membership of the socialist party. It was clear that he was referring to the revolt developing in the socialist party against the Berger policy.

Forming a New Party

The conference agreed that a new party should be formed with the only qualifications that it should be apart from any other existing party. The socialists while fearing to mention that the new movement should sever its connections with the capitalist parties, readily agreed to sign the death warrant of their own movement.

A suggestion was made that business men of the state should be given consideration since the conference should recognize that LaFollette was supported by business men. But this remark did not arouse any protest.

A lone trade union delegate suggested that Sammy Gompers' blessing upon LaFollette had done more harm than good; and this delegate seemed very much bewildered by the entire proceedings and wondered what in the devil the whole conference was called for.

A Labor Conference

To prove themselves the friends of labor the conference passed a resolution in favor of the child labor amendment and a proposal was made that LaFollette be congratulated upon the stand he had taken on this amendment. Nickerson suggested that a letter of appreciation would be sufficient.

The convention elected two delegates to the national conference, choosing very safely an international official of the machinists' union and an official of the socialist party.

And then on the following day the Milwaukee Leader proudly announced that the conference was unanimous for the formation of a new political party distinct from any other existing party, whatever that means.

ANDERSON, Ind., Feb. 10.—Veterinarians and county agents of the nine counties under quarantine against the European poultry plague met here today to organize for concerted action in fighting the disease which is threatening Indiana's $60,000,000 poultry industry.

NEPAL, ABODE OF GURKHAS, WHOM BRITISH USE TO QUELL INDIAN RISINGS, HAS 50,000 SLAVES

LONDON, England, Feb. 10.—Nepal, in North India, an independent state which is under the influence of the British Empire, has 51.419 slaves, owned by 15,719 persons, it is learned here,

The Maharajah Tribhuhana Bikram, who technically has complete power over Nepal, but who lends his ear to a British resident commissioner stationed at his court, has issued a ruling that slavery must gradually be abolished.

The fact that there are 51.419 slaves in Nepal was a startling surprise to the British people, as the fact had never been made public. The Maharajah denounced the slave trader, but said that "those whose slaves are kept for labor purposes are exempt from all blame." He said he will fix an early date for the liberation of the slaves, but the "transition will be made easy." The average price of a slave in Nepal is $55.00.

The Nepalese troops are used by the British to crush Indian mutinies.

MURMUR OF LIFE IS STILL HEARD IN COLLINS' CAVE

Diggers Spurred on in Their Frantic Efforts

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 10.— The daily radio tests today brought back the same murmer of life from the inner recesses of Sand Cave to the head phones at which a physician listened.

The beats, said by electrical engineers to be respirations, transmitted by the microphone, came to the normal speed of health varying from 20 to 27 a minute.

Once Dr. William Hazlett of Chicago said he thought he counted as high as 32, but this, he said, might be accounted for by other factors along the wire which might give an additional pulsation.

This is Collins' eleventh day of imprisonment—eleven days spent in a natural straightjacket with icy water trickling over his body, without food, unable to move and yet it is believed he still lives. It is this apparent miracle that spurs on digging operations, keeps men working until they drop from exhaustion and holds a nation in suspense.

PRISON GUARDS KILLED NEGROES QUIZZ REVEALS

Beat and Poisoned Texas Prisoners

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 10.—The joint legislative committee investigating Texas prisons was making plans today to conduct the remainder of its probe at the Huntsville prison farm, where most of alleged cruelties, testified to during the past week have taken place.

The committee's decision followed testimony yesterday of Dr. E. H. Boaz, of Memphis, formerly confined in the penitentiary, in which he declared four deaths had resulted from cruelty at the state farm.

Among these he declared were Joe Furey, stamped to death after being struck on the head with a heavy club; C. F. Dillard, whom he declared was allowed to bleed to death after an operation, and two Negroes, one being "given something to drink" after which he died, and the other being struck with a bar of iron and thrown into a pond. A verdict of "death from drowning" was returned by a prison physician, Dr. Boaz declared.

Freight Hits Autos At Unguarded Grade Crossing Killing Six

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 10.—Six persons were killed, two of them women, today when a Pennsylvania freight engine ploughed into an automobile and a motor truck at the Market street grade crossing at Marcus Hook near here.

The freight locomotive, running light, according to witnesses, crashed into the automobile first. It hurled this machine, they said, into the truck and a second later ploughed into the heavier machine.

The locomotive, declared witnesses, rushed down the tracks for more than a half mile before it came to a stop.

TONIGHT IMPORTANT Y. W. L. LITERATURE AGENTS' MEETING

A meeting of all literature agents will be held tonight at 7:30 p. m. at room 303, 166 West Washington St. The whole matter of literature sales and distribution in the Y. W. L. branches will be discussed and new plans for this important work presented. Every literature agent is expected to attend and branches will be held responsible for the presence of their literature agents.

BIG PROFITS OF ELECTRIC TRUST TO BE PROBED

Another Fruitless Investigation Begins

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The federal trade commission was under senatorial instruction today to open immediate investigations into the activities of the alleged electrical and tobacco trusts.

The electrical trust inquiry was directed chiefly at the General Electric company, but it applied to all its subsidiaries.

If the trust charges are sustained by federal inquiry, Senator Norris, republican, of Nebraska, declared, governmental prosecutions would follow. The field of inquiry, he said, would involve telephones, electricity, lights, lamps, and especially, the recently opened field of radio equipment.

Western Electric in the Trust.

Norris and Senator Howell, republican, of Nebraska, charged the inquiry would reveal a working arrangement between the General Electric company and its principal competitors, the Westinghouse Electric and the Western Electric company, thru the manipulation of stock control. The Western Electric company is a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

"This investigation will disclose that the General Electric and the Western Electric are controlled by the same individuals and together maintain a monopoly in the electric field," Senator Howell said.

Huge Profits in Radio.

"This investigation will prove the electric trust is making radio lamps for 26 cents and selling them to the public for $6 apiece."

The tobacco investigation will center around an alleged "monopoly" agreement between the American Tobacco company and the Imperial Tobacco company of Great Britain. This agreement, according to Senator Ernst, republican, of Kentucky, excluded the American concern from selling tobacco in Great Britain and the Britain concern from selling in the United States.

Capt. Hibben Gets New Commission, But No Decision

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—After all the thunder of the special military investigation into his character and career, Capt. Paxten Hibben is enjoying the acceptance of his renewed commission and wondering what the trial will do, if anything.

Capt. Hibben's activity in behalf of Russian relief and his announced advocacy of recognition of Russia drew the attention of military authorities, who investigated Hibben on his fitness to retain a commission in the officers' reserve corps, U. S. army.

Hibben's case ended Jan. 13, but no decision has been announced. His commission expired Feb. 6. Since July 23, 1923, his "fitness to hold commission" has been under investigation by department of justice agents trained in the Palmer red raids and later by the official army inquiry board of officers.

POSTAL WORKERS' PAY RAISE GOES BACK TO SENATE

House Ignores Senate to Please Coolidge

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—The Kelley postal pay and salary increase bill, which was approved by President Coolidge, passed the house this afternoon by the required two thirds vote. The bill must now be acted on by the senate before going to a conference of house and senate representatives.

The house, by rejecting the postal bill passed by the senate, threw the postal pay increase bill back into the senate and thus postponed the wage increase for the postal workers. Coolidge objected to the senate bill on the ground that it does not raise postal rates sufficiently to pay for the postal workers' salary increase.

The newspapers and farmers, on the other hand, object to the house bill because it raises postal rates on newspapers and on parcel post. The effect of Coolidge's attitude has been to forestall a wage increase for the postal workers.

SHERIFF LEAVES AS KLAN TAKES HOLD IN HERRIN

Klansman Made Herrin Special Deputy

HERRIN, Ill., Feb. 10.—The ku klux klan tightened its grip on Herrin last night when Thomas Thornton, avowed klansman, was appointed deputy sheriff for the city of Herrin by the county board of supervisors.

A committee of eight "business men and bankers," representing the group that has supplied the klan with funds, and supported Glenn Young in his raids on the homes of union miners, was appointed by the mayor of Herrin, C. E. Anderson, to pick twenty-five special policemen for Herrin.

This action was authorized by the city council of Herrin last night. The city council also authorized the trial of Chief of Police Matt Walker and officers Ross Lisenby and Harry Walker for neglect of duty on the day Glenn Young and Ora Thomas were killed.

The miners see in this move of the city council as one more step of the klan for securing complete control of power in Herrin. The policemen are now anti-klansmen, and the agreement arranged by Governor Small, whereby Sheriff Galligan leaves the county for two years, makes possible control of Herrin by the klan.

The new klan deputy sheriff of Herrin, Thornton, will be under the direct supervision of Randall Parks, acting sheriff of Williamson county, the state's attorney, and the chairman of the board of supervisors. The men thus controlling the Herrin deputy are klansmen with the exception of Parks, who is only 25 years old.

FRENCH PRESS WORRIED OVER RED ACTIVITY

Nationalist Organs Score Herriot

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Feb. 10.—There used to be a theory that if a public man was equally detested by two extremes it was a sure sign that it was pretty near right. But that does not work any longer. It has gone the way of the flat earth theory.

Premier Herriot of France, is now the target for two attacks; one coming from the reactionaries and one from the Communist. The extreme reactionary organs, like Liberte prove that Herriot has turned over the country to the Communists, but one could never discover this by reading the Communist newspaper Humanite, which proves quite conclusively that Herriot is just as serviceable a tool of the French ruling class as Poincare was.

Letters purporting to come from Zinoviev are published in the capitalist press, calling on the French Communists to renew their efforts to organize the colonial subjects of France against the French ruling class.

Pittsburgh Lenin Memorial Meeting To Be Held Feb. 15

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 10.—The Lenin Memorial meeting which will be held in Pittsburgh on Sunday Evening, Feb. 15, at 8 P. M. at Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller St., will be one of the best meetings ever held here. In addition to a rich musical programme by the German Workers' Singing society, and the Lenin and Soviet Russia recitations by Freeda Traber and others there will be such splendid speakers as M. Holtman from New York, M. Saltzman from Chicago and Joseph Knight from Canada.

The arrangement committee announces that a big crowd is expected and advises all to come early. Pittsburgh will not be outdone by any of the other districts and every comrade in Pittsburgh has pledged to bring along a fellow worker.

Admission is free.

FIFTEEN DEAD IN JUGO-SLAV ELECTION CUT PACHICH SUPPORT

BELGRADE, Feb. 10.—The dictatorship of Premier Pachich gained a small majority in the Jugo-Slavian elections, by the use of troops, who killed fifteen opposition peasant and Communist voters and seriously injured more than a hundred others.

The military dictatorship thus has a small majority in the new "Skuptchina," or parliament. The opposition is composed largely of Croats and Slovenes, who want national independence and the peasant bloc.

Urge Emma Goldman to Teach Anti-Bolshevism in Capitalism's Schools

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the University of Minnesota, petted darling of the steel trust profiteers and the food gamblers, feels itself proud over the fact that one of its professors in sociology, Pitirim A. Sorokin, has been elected to membership in the International Sociological Institute in Paris.

It was under czarism that Sorokin was a chairman of the department of sociology at the University of Petrograd. He is the kind of Russian that finds favor with America's czars. He teaches the right kind of economics to those who will be called on to maintain the dictatorship of profits in wheat, land, railroads, iron ore and other sources of great gain in the rich state of Minnesota.

If Sorokin had come to the United States as a worker, to escape the knout of Russian czarist taskmasters, he would have received much different treatment. Hideous immigration laws would greet him upon his arrival with anti-foreign born legislation, growing ever more strict, to watch over him while he is here, for fear that he may join a labor union, help organize a strike, or become a member of a revolutionary organization like the Workers (Communist) Party.

The anti-czarist Russian finds life hard on the iron ranges in Northern Minnesota; or trying to win a bare livelihood from the soil that has been robbed of its timber by the lumber trust.

The counter-revolutionary anti-Sovietist has it very comfortable basking in popular favor in the state's highest educational institution. There he has many opportunities to serve the ruling class of this country and of his world.

It was because he wrote a series of articles on "Russia of Today" that Sorokin found favor with the International Sociological Institute in France. It is in France that the Russian counter-revolutionaries make a last stand before they are pushed across the ocean into this country. France boils with anti-Soviet propaganda. It was under these favorable conditions for him that Sorokin's articles on "Russia of Today" found favor in the eyes of like-minded sociologists of other lands.

• • • •

"The hiring of Sorokin by the University of Minnesota to teach sociology is only another manifestation of the poverty of American capitalist intellectual life. It is unable to breed satisfying anti-labor propagandists of its own. It must search the ranks of emigres of fallen capitalism in another land.

• • • •

Thus the Cleveland, Ohio, Plain Dealer mourns the fact that 15,000 workers attended the Lenin Memorial Meeting in New York City, responding with great salvos of cheers to the Communist appeals of the speakers. The Plain Dealer frantically declares:

> "There is something wrong about a system of popular education that permits so many people to think crookedly. The state may put occasional Communists in prison; that does little good. The crown of martyrdom is often an expensive headpiece for those who force others to wear it."

Of course, the Plain Dealer means that the 15,000 who attended the New York Madison Square Garden meeting think crookedly from the capitalist viewpoint. They think very straight from the standpoint of the working class. This sheet would claim that the anti-Soviet professor, Sorokin, at the University of Minnesota, thinks straight, but that the pro-Soviet miner in the northern part of the state thinks crooked. But the revolutionary worker knows that he is thinking straight and that the hirelings of the capitalist class fight him with their capitalist reasoning. The Plain Dealer tries to camouflage its declaration by failing to state for which class it speaks. But the workers will draw their own correct conclusion. In its dire extremity the Cleveland Plain Dealer offers the following:

> "Why not schools to teach loyalty, Americanism, the indespensability of organized government; the folly and futility of Bolshevism, as demonstrated in Russia? EMMA GOLDMAN WOULD MAKE A GOOD PRINCIPAL FOR SUCH A SCHOOL."

So the American capitalist class offers bread to the enemies of Soviet Rule in Russia. Sorokin has his job. Others also have them, or are getting them. Even Emma Goldman has her champions, seeking additional opportunities for her to spread anti-Bolshevik propaganda.

But the mighty struggles of the everyday life of the workers are greater teachers than all the foreign importations that American capitalism may call to its aid. They teach the workers and poor farmers that they must wage an increasing struggle for power against their enemy class, with all its retainers. The puny efforts of the counter-revolutionaries are but glancing blows that hardly touch the growing Communist revolution.

UNITY MOVEMENT PROGRESSES IN GREAT BRITAIN

Definite steps to bring about closer co-operation between the Trades Union Congress and the Trades Councils have now been taken by the general council of the T. U. C., following acceptance by the Hull congress of the recommendation to set up a joint consultative committee.

The committee has now decided to call a conference of representatives of trades councils in London on February 27, and to hold area conferences in various important centers of the country.

Proposals will be submitted to the national conference, under which there would be interchange of information dealing with activity and policy, and so ensure a definite basis of cooperation.

Greater Unity.

It is suggested that the area conferences should be held during March or April, and that resolutions should be submitted on the following lines:

1. Pledging support to secure for the workers generally a better and higher standard of life; calling on the government to ratify the Washington convention on hours; supporting all workers whose conditions may be threatened; and assuring activity for the inauguration of the Industrial Workers' Charter adopted at the Hull congress.
2. Towards greater unity in the trade union movement and 100 per cent organization.
3. Support for co-operative undertakings and the consideration of ways and means of providing food, shelter, etc., for those on strike or locked out.
4. Organization of sports and entertainments for workers in conjunction with the unions.

Every Trades Council will be entitled to send one delegate to the national conference, and up to four delegates to the area conferences.

Supt. McAndrew's New Teachers' Councils Before Board Today

A tense note will be struck this afternoon at the board of education meeting when Superintendent of Schools, William McAndrew puts thru his recommendation for his own brand teachers councils. This council is to be composed of sixteen members comprising the superintendent, representatives from principals' organizations and from a number of teachers' organizations. This committee to take the place of the regular teachers' councils which were in character teachers' shop meetings held at regular intervals in their respective schools. The Chicago Teachers' Federation will be well represented and will no doubt be heard from at this board meeting.

Mayor Sits on the Fence

Interest is centered on what action Mayor Dever will take in regard to replacing the school board trustees whose terms have expired. On May 1st, two more trustees' terms will expire making a total of six trustees. The mayor has not made new appointments for those four whose terms have long expired and three of those are at present sitting on the board and voting on every problem that comes up even to the extent of deciding on building appropriations. The Teachers' Federation has time and again recommended to the mayor new members on the board but he has not acted on its recommendations.

SPANISH DEFEAT BY RIFFS HEAVY, RIVERA ADMITS

General Returns to Western Morocco

MADRID, Spain, Feb. 10.—Gen. Primo de Rivera, president of the military directorate which now rules Spain announced here on his return from Barcelona that he will return to Morocco in a few days. The Moroccan troops are massing opposite the Spanish lines, Rivera said, and the Spaniards face a big task if they would prevent another defeat.

"The possible consequence of defeat in Morrocco," Rivera said, "is not yet realized by the Spanish nation."

It has leaked out here that in their retreat from Sheshuan to Tetuan, the Spaniards lost several thousand men who were killed by the Riffians. The retreat here was called "purely tactical," but as the truth of the military disaster becomes known the military directorate is losing prestige.

SECTION OF THE TRADE UNION EDUCATIONAL LEAGU

MINERS' DEMAND INTERNATIONAL LABOR UNITY

Christopher First to Assert Need

We print the following resolution in full, as without comment it tells its own story:

Resolution to the International Trades Union movement in behalf of Amalgamation and world solidarity by Local Union No. 2376 U. M. W. of A., Christopher, Ill., Feb. 4, 1925.

Whereas, International unity of labor has now become imperative to safeguard the interest of the workers of the world to protect them from the ravages of imperialism, and amalgamation of the many crafts in the various industries in the United States, is the desire and the demand of the rank and file of American labor, and

Whereas, the voice of internationl labor has sent the clarion call for unity around the globe, calling upon the workers of the British Federation of Trades Unions, the Red International of Labor Unions, the American Federation of Labor, and all other international unions and federations to immediately affiliate and co-operate in one international federation of all labor thruout the world, and such as Red International of Labor Unions, or the Amsterdam International, preferably the former, on behalf of the outraged workers of the world who are being ground down by international capitalism in the form of Dawes plans and similar schemes, and

Whereas, the statement made in the convention of the American Federation of Labor at El Paso, Texas, by one so-called leader "that foreign labor shall get no foothold in economic principles or aspirations; is not the decision or the wishes of American labor, and is not in harmony with the principle of international unity, but is the opposite of the wishes of American labor, or the rank and file thereof, and such statement in connection with American labor is characteristic of the bankruptcy of American leadership and proves to the world its traitorous nature and absolute ignorance of the principle of unionism and its essential revolutionary mission, and such statement is in-line with the hopes and aspirations of American capitalists and imperialists, and

Whereas, International unity is, and must be, the only economic power to solidify the revolutionary aspirations of labor, whose true mission is a revolutionary change of the present economic system, and

Whereas, the American Federation of Labor, true to its traitorous policy, "betraying the workers," is attempting to re-enter the Amsterdam International on its own terms, which are as follows: First, the prevention of trade union unity internationally; second, the full support of the slave plan of Dawes and American bankers and imperialists; third, a drive against Communists and the left wing in the international labor movement; fourth, the acceptance of class collaboration and the annihilation of amalgamation, and

Whereas, the traitorous policy of the labor bureaucracy must be closely exmanined by the workers of the world, "particularly the policies of the so-called reformist element," such as the MacDonald type, who betrayed and shot down the working slaves of India, and the Gompers and Woll type who sanctioned and approved the same in South America, at the behest of American imperialists, and

Whereas, Wall Street is attempting to re-enter the international labor movement to throttle the aspirations of labor thru the misleaders of the American Federation of Labor at the forthcoming convention of the Amsterdam International and other European convenions, therefore be it

Resolved, that we call upon all the workers of all nations to repudiate the Dawes plan of slavery in Europe for the benefit of American imperialists, which means slavery and starvation for the people of Germany, and the forerunner of like plans to be saddled on the backs of the workers of the world, "witness American imperialism in South America," and be it further

Resolved, that the actions of bureaucracy at the late convention of the American Federation of Labor be, and is hereby repudiated in its entirety as slanderous and traitorous to the possibilities of International labor unity and deserving of the contempt and scorn of all workers, thruout the world who have the merest scintilla of decency in their makeup, and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to The Illinois Miner, U. M. W. of A. Journal, The DAILY WORKER, The Daily Herald, London, England, and be it further

Resolved that we request that all labor papers thruout the world to copy and publish the above resolution.

Committee on resolution, Alex. Reid, Chas. Reid.

WHAT IS WRONG IN THE COAL MINING INDUSTRY AND THE WAY OUT FOR THE MINERS

By Freeman Thompson and John Watt

(There is great unemployment and consequent suffering among the union miners in the bituminous coal fields. At the conference with the operators' association held in Jacksonville, Florida, last year when a three-year agreement was signed by the officials of the United Mine Workers of America, John L. Lewis agreed with the operators that the industry must be "deflated." He accepted the operators' scheme of starving out some 200,000 miners. This was his solution of the miners' problem.

Freeman Thompson, president of Sub-district 4, of District 12, state of Illinois, and John J. Watt, secretary, have a different view of the problem. They take issue with this plan of driving out men who have spent their lives digging coal. They analyze conditions in the coal fields, explode several of the pet theories of the coal operators and the reactionary officials and set forth the left wing program for the mining industry.

The following series of articles contain a wealth of material dealing with technical but highly interesting facts having a vital bearing on the subject as well as a militant program.—Ed. Note.)

Article II.

And Finally Fact (E) "The rapid growth of output of mines:"

About twelve years ago there was only one 4,000 ton a day mine in Illinois, and it was located at Livingston, Illinois, but today we see mines hoisting every day for a month's period, over 7,000 tons per day. At Zeigler during the month of October, 1924, a monthly production of 189,240 tons were mined, making a daily average of 7,008 tons. And often we are advised of records being smashed in our own immediate vicinity, just recently the Peabody mines reported breaking previous hoist records of coal. And records that have been made will be broken in the future by mines that have not as yet been fully developed, as there are mines now under the course of development that intend to hoist between 10,000 and 12,000 tons per day.

So you see that we will not need so many mines as we have now when these mines are fully developed if we maintain or allow them the right of an 8-hour hoist day.

Coal Surplus

Another interesting factor of why the mines are not working full time now is the amount of coal, surplus coal that is on top, the last figuers we have is taken from a report of the National Association of Purchasing Agents, and that report shows that on November 1, 1924, there was a 66 days supply on top or about 77,754,063 tons. This amount they claim is stored by industrial users in the United States and Canada, that amount is approximately one year production of all the mines in Illinois. In fact it is more than we produced the last coal year as reports show that 73,308,655 tons were mined the last coal year.

No doubt that the surplus amount of coal now stored on top is greater than it was on November 1, 1924.

Gigantic Problem

All of the above information has been given to show the gigantic problem the mine workers are confronted with. And the mine workers problem is the same problem that many other workers in other crafts are now facing and the facts are now developed that the workers in this age can supply in abundance all the commodities and necessities that goes to make human progress, in less than four hours a day.

Many of our mine workers, like workers in the steel and textile and clothing industries, have been idle for months, unable to find a master to work. Many who are lucky enough to find a job also finds the mines so crowded that his wages are less than the so-called "war time wages" and come near the "pre-war time wages."

The Perennial Question.

What is the solution to it? That is being asked on every hand with few coming out with a permanent solution. After reviewing all the things quoted above, if we keep on in the same rut that we are in now with half of our membership unemployed, with the other half eking out a bafe existance that are employed, and as machinery develops, less and less workers employed, what must the workers do, those who are willing to work and cannot find it, and those employed who cannot make a decent living?

The answer as we see it is, first to demand and secure a shorter work day so that we may take care of, even if be in a paltry way, those workers who are out of work, secondly demand the social ownership of the industries from which our lives depend and managed by those who toil in them so that goods that are produced in common may be used in common by those who have produced the same.

This must come about eventually, because every thinking man and woman knows that less and less workers can be used in industry from now on, and the time is coming when there will be so many unemployed that they will be forced to act whether they want to or not. Necessity will force them to do it.

"Surplus" of Workers.

You may say that there are too many miners and too many mines, that there are too many farmers and too many farms, that there are too many shoe and clothing workers and factories, that there are too many workers in industry today, but if that be true then again we say, that tomorrow there will be a great many more added to this list of too many workers and what then?

Shall we kill the surplus worker, or shall we say to him: "Brother, your problem of unemployment today will be our problem tomorrow, so therefore let's get together and solve it once and for all time," therefore for the interest of both we must unite again and serve notice on these owners of the industries that our very existance depends upon the industry, the lives of ourselves, our wives and families depend upon the industries, and because you in your desire to make profits are unable to employ us there is only one thing left for us, the workers, the overwhelming majority to do, and that is to nationalize, to own and establish workers control of these industries on which our existence depends.

In closing we have this word of advice for the rank and file:

Be not deceived by this vicious propaganda which is being spread by the enemies of labor, demanding the lowering of wages in order to compete with the organized fields. We say if you should immediately agree to go back to the pre-war wage scale, that the wage scale in the non-union field would be forthwith lowered to suit marketing conditions, and therefore, you would not get one hour more of work than what you now get. "No lowering of the wage scale is our slogan."

The Only Solution

This is the only solution that we can see to our problems, we who create everything and are denied it after creating it by a few individuals interested in their own profit making schemes. So long as we allow this to continue, so long will there be unemployment and poverty, because it is now being fully demonstrated before our eyes that industry cannot hire the workers and will be unable to hire as many as are now hired in the future, so if we value our lives, we must in turn own those things on which our lives depend, so that life may be extended and maintained. That is the ultimate goal that must be attained, other things such as shorter working hours and weeks, out of work doles or insurance are only palliatives, but may be necessary to bring this about.

Daily Worker His Inspiration, Also His Medicine

To the DAILY WORKER:—I have someone to thank for the DAILY WORKER. It is the best paper I ever saw. I am sorry that I can't help to support a paper like that. I have been sick for two years and unable to work for 14 months. No money to help myself with and in bed most of the time. I was in bed when the first DAILY WORKER came. It was a shock—I could not believe my eyes. I got out of bed and walked the floor for a while. I felt better and have felt better ever since and I am now determined to get well.

Persecuted by Hutcheson

Well, I see Hucheson, the "czar", as you dub him, is going on with the good work, kicking out the reds. I was the first one to go from Local 1693. Millrights took my card away on a motion. Nor trial nor the semblance of one. I told them then there would be more later. I joined Local 62 and it was not long before they had to take my card or forfeit their charter. Hutcheson is to blame for all my troubles.

Appeal to Carpenters

Comrades, don't let him do the same to you. Fight! You carpenters everyone of you! Hutcheson is not a man, he is a tool for the bosses. You can get rid of him. Just be men and fight! I hope to get well and help in the fight to rid ourselves of all the tools of our masters.

STEEL TRADE BOOMING, BUT UNION LOSES

Reactionary Officials Kill Amalgamated

McDONALD, Ohio.—The Byers company, Girard, Ohio, makers of wrought iron pipe, have increased their capital by several million dollars, planning expansion of their business, yet in the face of this, the puddlers employed in their mills have suffered several reductions in their tonnage rates without even a word of protest coming from the reactionary officialdom now in control of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers headed by M. F. Tighe, who has been busy of late in Mahoning valley addressing lodges on such subjects as "Co-operation."

The rank and file have concluded that the brand of "Co-operation" that results in reductions of wage scales and continued decreased in membership should be thrown on the scrap heap along with its sponsors.

Wages Reduced As Union Weakens

Union mills are rapidly entering non-union ranks and the introduction of modernized machines in the steel industry is throwing thousands of skilled workers out of employment or into other trades. The luke warm policy of "adjusting" wages thru so-called bi-monthly settlements with agents of the steel barons and some fossilized representative of the union usually results in WAGE REDUCTIONS.

This policy of allowing the steel barons to name their own price, a so-called sliding scale, is a relic of ye olden days and it is agreed by all progressives that the A. A. of I. S. & T. W. must ORGANIZE AND ACT or pass off the stage of trade unionism.

This Union Can Organize

This union is the logical one to bring about the complete organization of the unorganized steel workers yet not one organization meeting has been held amongst the unorganized, and along with this fact the officialdom has entirely ignored the organization of mills where workers are employed who are elegible to affiliate with the A. A. of I. S. & T. W.

Wm. Z. Foster, leader of the great steel strike, has dealt with the officialdom of the A. A. of I. S. & T. W. in his great book on the Steel Strike. The same leadership exists, and a strong progressive movement which is now surging through the union is the only hope of saving the union from going on the rocks, a total wreck.

There is no need for the steel workers to have false hopes injected by speeches from their reactionary officialdom. The facts stare them in the face and the cries of 'RED' coming from M. F. Tighe & Co. do not alter the situation. The facts are that the progressive movement is a rank and file demonstration against the reactionary leadership now controlling the union. The recent elections although claimed by the officialdom as their victory, showed that only by a narrow margin of a few hundred votes did most of the officialdom get reelected.

Turn Out for April Convention

In April, in the very capitol of the Empire of Steel, known as Pittsburgh, Pa. the A. A. of I. S. & T. W. will hold its national convention and for this reason the officialdom and their henchmen are scampering round the country making speches on "CO-OPERATION", with Tighe using his old rallying cry used during the last election "GET OUT THE VOTE—THE REDS ARE ON THE JOB." This time the officialdom are yelling "GET OUT THE DELEGATES—THE REDS ARE ON THE JOB."

With a rapidly decreasing membership, semi-bankrupt treasury, with its membership compelled to accept continued reductions in tonnage rates, with a prestige once the pride of the American labor movement now faded into a mere shadow of its former self, with a trail of lost strikes and rapidly encircling non-union mills, with the growing tramp of unemployed steel workers ever increasing and with their fellow workers in the mills without any union or present hope, the A. A. of I. S. & T. W. marches on to its next convention with a blowhard reactionary officialdom blaming all their ills on the REDS.

Another Jolt for Lewis Comes in from West Virginia

So many returns on the miners' election have come into the T. U. E. L. in favor of the progressive miners' slate that Lewis' ingenuity for stealing elections must have been taxed to the limit. Here is another one from local 2122 of Pursglov, W. Va.

CENTRAL DISTRICT

ASKED MINERS TO GIVE UP 50 PCT. OF WAGES

Operators Helped by Farrington

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill.—The Southern Gem Coal Co., possessing mines in West Frankfort, Sesser and Pinkneyville went bankrupt without paying the miners their wages for the last month. Taxes also have not been paid for the last three years.

Several attempts, made by the miners, to set the mine in West Frankfort in operation, failed. The miners even went so far as to allow the company to run the mine and pay the back wages in small installments.

About a month ago the committee men of the West Frankfort mine received a telegram from Frank Farrington which read as follows:

Farrington's Proposal.

"A certain syndicate proposes to buy the West Mine and the mine in Sesser, Ill., provided the men agree to take 50 per cent of their wages and withdraw all further claims for a further pay of their back wages.

"Please call a meeting and have the men vote on the matter. But only those holding statements are entitled to a vote. See me after the meeting and inform me as to the results of the meeting."

Farrington, Agent of Capital.

Farrington held a meeting on that particular night in West Frankfort. Here we see Frank Farrington acting as an agent of a bunch of capitalist profit hawks, cheating the men out of their hard earned wages.

Why didn't he ask the stockholders to be satisfied with 50 per cent of their holdings? But no, that would be unfair to the rich stockholders!

A Violation of Agreement.

Well knowing that an acceptance of the proposal would be a violation of the agreements, and well knowing that an acceptance would be nothing less than an invitation to all coal operatiors to do the same thing as the Southern Gem Coal Co., had done, the "union man," Frank Farrington, has the nerve to lay a proposal of this kind before the men.

An article in the West Frankfort Daily American brings the news that all creditors of the bankrupt mines voted to accept an offer of a certain coal company to buy the West mine and also the mine in Sesser. So if there is anything in the way of paying the miners their back wages, its only the stockholders.

There is the job selling case in the hands of Frank Farrington. There are many coal mines in Franklin county waiting for a decision in this case. The men want action.

Milwaukee A. C. W. Shows Old Spirit

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of Milwaukee are keeping alive the fighting spirit that built the organization. Class solidarity is their slogan. At their last meeting they endorsed the fight against the criminal syndicalist laws by electing three delegates to the local Labor Defense Council. They also bought 150 tickets for the movie picture, "The Beauty and the Bolshevik," which is being run jointly by the local Defense Council and the International Workers' Aid.

Milwaukee Militant Workers, Turn Out!

The next meeting of the local general group of the T. U. E. L. of Milwaukee, Wisc., will take place Wednesday, Feb. 11th at Miller Hall, corner of 8th and State streets. The trade unions this year have increased the number of delegates to the Federated Trades Council. The influence of the T. U. E. L. is being felt more every day, which has shown itself recently in a number of national union elections and in the fight against the reactionary C. P. P. A. All militants are welcome, so be sure and attend this important meeting.

EASTERN DISTRICT

TREACHERY IN THE TEXTILE UNIONS' RANKS

Strikes Betrayed by Disguised Foes

Thomas F. MacMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, is protesting against federal "conciliator," Charles G. Wood, because he represented the employes instead of the workers by inducing the Maverick mill strikers to return to work pending a decision on their case. Wood turned the same trick for the Walton Watch company. This, of course, is to be expected. What isn't expected is that such "leaders" as this same McMahon, head of the union, betrays the whole textile group of workers by craft separation and refusal to call a general strike.

Conciliation is the bosses' method of putting over wage cuts. The only way to successfully fight against wage cuts is to broaden the strike until it covers the entire industry. The T. U. E. L. program of the united front and the broadening out of the strike was responsible for the gains made in the Paterson silk workers' strike. This is the only method by which the textile workers can fight successfully the slashing of wages that is taking place piecemeal in the textile industry. This is the method McMahon should, but does not, use.

Due to the activities of the militants the strike front is broadening out, but it is far from being satisfactory. The workers show a willingness to resist these wage cuts which average from 10 per cent to 22½ per cent. At present there are strikes in Utica, New York, Pawtucket, R. I., Mall River, Mass., and in many other mills. Readers should consult the current news columns of the DAILY WORKER for daily accounts of this great battle.

The T. U. E. L. has called united front conferences which are helping to unite the workers for common action. This activity should be intensified. Conciliation leads to defeat, while mass working class action is the only road that leads to success.

Pittsburgh Machinists Like Left Wing Men

Machinist Lodge 536, at their meeting held January 28, the entire left wing was nominated by unanimous vote. This completes the nominations in the Pittsburgh district. There are a number of other locals listed in the roster, but they never meet and are left overs from the railroad strike.

The T. U. E. L. militants have been on the job, but were not able to get the endorsement of all the locals. Many real progressives voted for the Anderson slate. However, one thing was clear in this district, no one wanted Johnston. He did not receive a single nomination.

Cuban Tobacco Workers to Hold April Congress

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 8.—According to the labor paper Justicia, the central committee of the National Federation of Tobacco Workers of Cuba, will convoke a congress in the city of Havana during the coming April.

The purposes of the congress will be to bring within the federation, those organizations outside of it at present and forward generally the interests of the tobacco workers, most of whom are cigar makers.

These Cuban cigar makers are, the account says, extremely endangered in their own fights, by the state of disorganization existing among the cigar makers of Tampa, Florida. The coming congress will have on its agenda, the subject of the Tampa cigar makers.

Making Proper Use of Union Offices

The officials of the Joliet Central Labor Council, lately elected upon a progressive program, have started their official work in the proper direction. They are supporting the demand of the Joliet city fire fighters for a wage increase. A committee from the Central Labor Council is having conferences with the City Commissioner in support of the wage demand. The fire fighters receive the miserable wage of $125 per month.

The official vote totals just issued by John L. Lewis, of the U. M. W. of A., in the national election of that organization shows a wonderful advance of the left wing forces. The vote itself, without any comment, should be an incentive to every struggling left wing group.

But when one considers that Lewis had arbitrarily removed by expulsion and other means every notionally known miner, whose very name would have been a clarion call for action, from being a candidate, then the results of the election becomes remarkable, and shows the strong revolutionary tendency that runs thru the rank and file of the miners' union.

In spite of the removal of Howat, McLachlan, Myerscough and MacDonald as possible candidates, the flagrant stealing of votes in locals officially controlled by the Lewis forces, the voting of locals (Blue Sky) long since out of existence, the long unemployment of the miners that made it impossible to send out a national speaker, the poorly organized state of the left wing nationally, it being able only to print 65,000 campaign leaflets, this remarkable showing of the left wing in the miners' union means that the skids are well greased which will carry Lewis and his crooked administration into oblivion.

Secy.-Treas.: Wm. Green, 138,997; Joseph Nearing, 51,686½.

RED-BAITING CROOK GIVEN THE RASPBERRY

Rather Tough on Fink Agency Patron

Found guilty of conspiracy to extort under threat and this by Chicago's favorite big business judge is the ingratitude experienced by the city's most successful hunter of red radicals. Maclay Hoyne, the state's attorney who sent 19 Communists to prison, the man who personally congratulated Chicago and the entire country on his own efforts to check assaults on private property, the lawyer oozing with respect for the law and the constitution, this model of the vociferously respectable patriot, is a liar, a bully, an extorter of helpless woman, a conspirator against property and the constitution—if one is to believe Denis Sullivan, Chicago's most vicious anti-labor injunction judge.

Sullivan now orders Hoyne and his fellow conspirator, Fred A. Burton, a coal operator for whom Hoyne is attorney to restore coal mines and securities worth almost half a million dollars to an aged farmer and to a housewife from whom the property was extorted by threats of arrest, exposure and other pressure. The judge specifically states that the defendant did not seem to feel bound to respect the constitutional rights of either the old man or the struggling woman who had to defend her gravely ill husband against the sharpers. Hoyne will appeal.

Crook on Property Rights

Hoyne starred as a defender of the constitution when he ordered the Illinois red raids early in 1920, in which Lloyd and 34 others were indicted. After the conviction of the radicals of conspiracy to overthrow the government Hoyne issued a statement which reads a bit queer in view of his own subsequent career and conviction:

"These defendants and those associated with them," Hoyne declared four and a half years ago, "had two sinful objects, one the seizure of private property without due process of law or compensation, the other the overthrow of the constitution." He predicted that the conviction would "ring throughout Chicago and the country."

It is ringing, but with the phony sound of a lead half-dollar. Hoyne's red raids proved too expensive for the bankers and business men, it was rumored, when reports that $40,000 had been raised privately for the prosecutions, some of it finding its way into the Thiel detective agency's pockets, were ventilated in gossip. He failed of re-election and since then has gone the way of many a public patriot for private profit.

called a conference to see what could be done about it.

IN America the president would appoint a dozen politicians who would have a good time, spend a lot of money, make a report and go their way satisfied that they had inscribed their names on a government document. Under the czar, wherever the peasants were allowed to participate in any public function, only the heads of the families went. The Soviet authorities want every member of the family who is able to participate in such proceedings to take part.

UNFORTUNATELY the Soviet government is obliged to rely on many functionaries who held positions under the czar's government and who have not yet changed their mental outlook. These officials have been guilty of arbitrary acts, and abstentions from the elections have been caused by the high handed actions of some of those officials. In the future, the provincial and county electoral commission will henceforth consist of five instead of three persons, two of whom must be representatives from the organization of poor peasants, called the Nezamozkniki. The town electoral commission must also consist of five persons, one of whom must represent the Red Army, one the local trade unions and one is to be elected by a delegate meeting of women workers. Will our American organizations fighting, or talking about equality for women please take notice?

THE UNION SOVIET REVIEW commenting on the congress writes: "The problem before the authorities, is how to stamp out in the shortest possible time the old czarist evils of bureaucracy, incompetence, bribery, etc." This is a serious problem but it will be solved. The alliance between the peasantry and the workers on which the dictatorship of the proletariat is based is working satisfactorily tho not without occasional hitches. There is no absolute peace this side of the grave. The Russian peasants are as necessary to the industrial proletariat, at this stage of economic development as the city workers are to the peasantry. Together they will solve their problems and present a united front to the robber bourgeoisie the enemies of both.

The War Period.

Then came the war, rightly designated by Lenin as an event of world historical importance in the life of humanity, and as the greatest test of international socialism, rendering apparent the impassable chasm between opportunism and revolutionary Communism. The moment came when everyone had to show his colors. The moment came when all vacillation had to cease once and for all, and when a definite end had to be put to what Lenin termed inferior diplomacy, the diplomacy of having one foot in each camp.

But did this really come about? Did the war induce Comrade Trotsky to break once and for all with opportunism and support of the right, and to renounce the role of defender and disguise for the mensheviki, in which role he had been exposed for ten years by Comrade Lenin?

Since the time when Comrade Trotsky entered our party, serving it well, and thereby adding many glorious pages to the history of his own life and to the history of the party, we have not considered it possible to enter into this question. But when he takes it upon himself to falsify the history and the ideas of Bolshevism, when he attempts to appropriate to himself the ideology of the party, when he endeavors to supplant Leninism by Trotskyism in the ideology of the Russian and international proletariat, then he himself forces us to put this question.

Did the war actually separate Trotsky from the opportunists? Did the "inferior diplomacy" cease in the face of these great events? Not at all. Just as Comrade Trotsky contrived to combine an arch-revolutionary "left" phrase with co-operation with the mensheviki in 1905, in the same manner he managed to combine his internationalism during the war with the support of opportunism.

As early as the summer of 1915, Lenin wrote as follows:

"In a reactionary war, the revolutionary class is bound to desire the defeat of its government. This is an axiom, contested only by the conscious adherents or unskilled assistants of social democracy. . . Trotsky belongs to these last.

"Trotsky, who as usual does not agree in principle with the social democrats on any single question, coincides with them in every question in actual practice. . .

"Martov and Trotsky are anxious to combine the platonic defense in internationalism with the unconditional demand for unity with the Nasha Sarja (Our Dawn), with the organization committee (central committee of the mensheviki), or with the Tscheidze fraction."

At the end of 1915, Lenin wrote:

"In reality, Trotsky is supporting the liberal politicians of Russia, who, by their disavowal of the role played by the peasantry, really mean that they do not wish to raise the peasantry to revolution."

Again:

"Trotsky, and the company of foreign flunkeys of opportunism, are doing their utmost to patch up the differences, and to save the opportunism of Nascha Sarja group by the defense and praise of the Tscheidze fraction."

1916.

At the beginning of 1916:

"The powerless diplomatists, and such preachers of compromise as Kautsky in Germany, Longuet in France, and Martov in Russia, are most harmful to the labor movement, for they defend the fiction of unity and thus prevent the real and matured alliance of the opposition of all countries, the founding of the Third International."

In March, 1916:

"And Trotsky? He is entirely in favor of the right of self determination, but for him this is merely an empty phrase, since he does not demand separation of the nation oppressed by the 'fatherland' of the socialists in any given case. He preserves silence on the hypocrisy of Kautsky and his followers."

In October 1916, just twelve months before our October:

"However good the intentions of Martov and Trotsky may be subjectively, they are none the less aiding Russian social imperialism by their complaisance."

In December, 1916:

"As early as the year 1902, Hobson recognized not only the significance of the 'United States of Europe' (Kautsky's disciple, Trotsky, may take cognisance of this), but also the significance of a fact which the sanctimonious followers of Kautsky in every country are anxious to conceal: 'that the opportunists (social chauvinists) are co-operating with the imperial bourgeoisie for the creation of an imperialist Europe supported on the shoulders of Asia and Africa. . . One of the conclusions which we have drawn from this is the necessity of separation from social chauvinism."

On Feb. 17, 1917. (February, 1917!)

Six weeks after the February revolution, on March 7, 1917, Lenin wrote:

"In my opinion, the matter of the greatest importance at the present juncture is not foolish attempts at a 'coming to an understanding,' on the lines projected by Trotsky & Co., with the social patriots or with the even more dangerous elements of the organization committee type (mensheviki), but to continue the work of our party in a logical international spirit."

There is one important point which must not be omitted here: During the whole of this period Comrade Trotsky was a decided adversary of the "Zimmerwald Left," whose leader was Lenin, and which formed the germ of the Third International. The Third International was not born only of the struggle against Scheidemann, Vandervelde, and their like, it originatetd and grew in strength at the same time in the struggle against the Zimmerwald "center," against Kautsky and Trotsky. The practical policy of this center was as follows: No final rupture with the Second International, no founding of the Third International, the aims striven for by Lenin as head of the Zimmerwald left.

> This installment is part of a pamphlet "Leninism or Trotzkyism" now in preparation. It includes articles by three outstanding figures in the Russian Communist Party: G. Zinoviev, I. Stalin and C. Kamenev, to form a most timely and important contribution to a discussion of world interest. The pamphlet will be of 64 pages, selling at 20 cents and will be ready at the conclusion of this serial publication.

Lenin never altered his characterization and opinion of the line taken by Comrade Trotsky, either at the time when the tide of revolution was at its highest, or at the time of its lowest ebb.

No Leninist taking the name seriously can admit even the thought that Comrade Lenin, in thus systematically revealing Comrade Trotsky's standpoint for so many years in succession was influenced by any individual motives. In his systematic and impassioned fight against Trotskyism, Comrade Lenin was solely influenced by the fact that he saw in Trotskyism a certain current hostile to the ideology and the organization of the Bolshevist Party; a current which in actual practice served the ends of menshevism.

As Comrade Lenin would say, it is comparatively easy to combat menshevism, for its open and consisent anti-proletarian character, obviously liberal in essentials, is at once comprehended by only slightly experienced workers and is thus rejected by the workers. It is more needful to combat the concealed forms of menshevism, those forms which clothe opportunist policy in left revolutionary phraseology, the form which adapts menshevism to the revolutionary feeling of the masses. Those who fight against us with open visor are not our sole enemies, we have another foe in that group which disguises the efforts of open enemies by means of revolutionary phrases, and furthers the cause of the enemies of the party by exploiting the confidence felt in these phrases.

Lenin merely formulated the relations to Trotskyism, characteristic for the whole Bolshevist Party, altho Comrade Trotsky succeeded at times, in especially difficult moments in the life of the party, in drawing some few Bolsheviki over to him, if only for a brief period, by means of his phrases and inferior diplomacy.

II. Comrade Trotsky Enters the Party.

The above described relations between Bolshevism and Trotskyism were characterized by Comrade Trotsky himself in the words: "I came to Lenin fighting." This phrase not only evidences a desire to win approbation, but it is very well expressed. Comrade Trotsky is a master of elegant phraseology. But the matter in question is unfortunately much too serious in character to be settled by a well turned sentence.

In the first place this phrase is not strictly accurate, and in the second place it is calculated to carry away the reader by its beauty and to conceal Comrade Trotsky's real thoughts. This elegant phrase is a piece of hypocricy.

Is it then really true that the whole history of Trotsky's attitude as we have followed it here from 1903 till 1917, can be characterized by these words of his: "I came to Lenin fighting"? Trotsky is apparently extremely satisfied with the history of his relations to Bolshevism; at least he wrote in his book: "The New Course," which appeared a few months ago: "I do not consider that the road by which I reached Lenin is any less suitable or certain than other roads." For Trotsky this is very reassuring. But is it possible for the party, without deceiving itself, to regard the road upon which Trotsky reached our party as suitable or certain? If this road really was a "road to Lenin," then every one time menshevik and social revolutionist, of whom there are not a few in our party, can make use of Trotsky's words and declare: "In reality I was not a menshevik or social revolutionist, I was merely making my way, fighting, to Bolshevism."

One thing at least is evident: the party cannot recommend anybody to take Trotsky's road to Bolshevism.

The comrades who have come over to us from other parties have generally declared that they have been mistaken, that they have had a different conception of the interests of the working class and had thought to serve these interests in a different manner, but that they are now convinced that they have been on the wrong road. The party did not demand any such avowal from Comrade Trotsky, and was quite right in not doing so. Comrade Trotsky stood the test, and stood it excellently. But this does not by any means signify that the party can permit Comrade Trotsky to designate his fifteen years of fighting against Bolshevism and Lenin as a suitable and sure path to Leninism. I maintain that Trotsky sees the road by which he approached Lenin from an entirely opposite standpoint to ours; that he does not believe Bolshevism to have proved right and Trotskyism wrong.

Trotsky came to the party with the conviction, not that he was going to learn anything from Bolshevism, but that he was going to reach the party from Trotskyism, and substitute Leninism by Trotskyism. In Trotsky's book, "War and Revolution," we read:

"There were three points in which the newspaper, Nasche Slovo (Trotsky's organ. L. K.) had not yet arrived at an agreement with the Social Democrat (organ of the C. C. of the Bolsheviki, conducted by Lenin and Zinoviev. L. K.) even after the former had finally passed into the hands of the left wing of the editorial staff. These points referred to defeatism, to the struggle for peace, and to the character of the approaching Russian revolutions, Nasche Slovo rejected defeatism (which Lenin had held from the beginning of the war to be the fundamental principle of really revolutionary internationalism. L. K.) The Social Democrat rejected the slogan of the struggle for peace. . . and opposed it by the slogan of civil war (rejectetd by Trotsky. L. K.) Nasche Slovo finally supported the view that it must be made the task of our party to conquer power in the name of the socialist revolution. The Social Democrat maintained the standpoint of the democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry."

A few lines before Trotsky informs us that the "differences" existing between the Social Democrat and the Nasche Slovo, considerable at first, had diminished. . . Not only Trotsky, but Martov, was at one time a member of the editorial staff of the Nasche Slovo; Martov, however, resigned his post later on account of the remorseless criticism exercised by Comrade Lenin, and of the increase of revolutionary Communist elements among the editors. After the paper had finally passed into the hands of the left wing of the editorial staff, that is, into Trotsky's hands, these three points of dispute remained: the question of defeatism, the question of civil war or peace, and the question of the character of the impending Russian revolution.

Lenin stood for the defeat of the national bourgeoisie, he impressed upon the workers the necessity of the defeat of their "own" bourgeoisie—Trotsky was opposed to this!

Lenin stood for civil war—Trotsky opposed it!

Lenin stood for the democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry—Trotsky opposed it! Here, as Lenin pointed out, he caused great confusion with his left phrase on "permanent revolution." In this last point Trotsky gave the impression of being more left than Lenin. He was not content with the mere dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry, but demanded permanent revolution. Here we have merely a further example of what Lenin impressed upon us for so many years with regard to Trotsky: a right policy with regard to daily questions of actual practice, but skilfully disguised in the phraseology of the left.

A fourth difference must however be added to these three, one not mentioned by Comrade Trotsky: the difference in the question of the Second and Third Internationals. Lenin, at the head of the Zimmerwald left, stood for immediate rupture with the Second International and with Kautsky, and for the founding of the Third International. Trotsky, and the pro-Kautsky center were against this.

But only a few months after the existence of these differences had been definitely ascertained, Trotsky joined the Bolshevist Party?

"The March revolution," he writes, "has wiped out all these differences."

Truly? All of them? And how? Trotsky does not say. Yet the party has a right to put this question, since Comrade Trotsky has obliged us to occupy ourselves with his history. Are we to understand the declaration that the revolution has erased all differences in such manner that we may assume Comrade Trotsky to have become convinced of his having been mistaken on all these important points? That he has adopted the viewpoint of the Bolsheviki? Comrade Martinov, one of the best of the menshevist theoreticians, declared candidly: "I have served the working class for thiry years in the way which I held to be the best. Today I see that I have been in the wrong. History confirms the correctness of Lenin's standpoint with regard to the Russian revolution, and I join Lenin." But Comrade Trotsky has given the party no such answer.

Campaign Social for Communist Aldermanic Candidate on Feb. 22

The 24th ward campaign committee announces that it will wind up its campaign in the Chicago aldermanic election on Feb. 22 with a social at 3837 W. Roosevelt Road. Thus it will cover its campaign deficit, make some excellent last hour propaganda, get watchers for the polls, and have a good time in the bargain.

On the program are the well-known Freiheit Mandolin Orchestra, which will give solo and quartette numbers as well as its ensemble, piano recital by A. S. Hambro, and a playlet by the Marshfield Juniors entitled: "After Epstein is Alderman." Great mystery enshrouds this play and less news is allowed to leak out than out of a caucus.

It will really be a city wide affair because all funds over and above the small ward campaign expenses will be donated to the city campaign fund.

Kenosha, Wis., Attention.

The famous movies "Polikushka", "In Memoriam-Lenin" and "Soldier Ivan's Miracle" will be shown in Kenosha Saturday, Feb. 28, from 4 to 11 P. M., at the German American Home, 665 Grand Ave. All labor organizations are requested not to arrange any other affairs on that date.

ORGANIZER OF SOCIALIST PARTY IN BOSTON JOINS COMMUNISTS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Feb., 10.—The demoralization of the socialist party in New England is now complete. Only a short time ago the national secretary of the Young People's Socialist League joined the Workers Party. The latest active member of the socialist party to leave the S. P. is James Sagermoste, former organizer of the Boston Central Branch of the socialist party.

In the following letter Sagermoste tells why he took this action and decided to apply for membership in the Workers Party:

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5, 1925.

To the Central Branch of Boston,
Socialist Party of America.

Comrades: As organizer of the Central Branch, I feel it necessary, at this time, to render a report of the present state of our branch and to consider other matters relative to it. In reviewing the recent history of our branch, as well as of the whole socialist party, I find that since the militant left wing split away from the party in 1920 there has been a steady decrease in the active membership and in the socialist activities of the party. Our own branch, which was once one of the strongest branches in the party, has reached such a pitiful state that scarcely one-half dozen members attend the important branch meetings. As organizer, therefore, my immediate task would be to take such means as are necessary to revive our branch. However, I have reached the conclusion that it would be impossible and inadvisable for me to accept this task, because of the moral bankruptcy of the socialist party.

Lost in "Progressive" Fold.

The split, which occurred a few years ago, has left the socialist party entirely under the guidance of that element who, perhaps because of their own economic and social status, have little in common with those who are striving for the abolition of the capitalist slave system and the establishment of workers' rule in America. Hence we see the socialist party steadily becoming absorbed into the petit-bourgeois "progressive" movement, whose aims are detrimental to the interests of the workers, and furthermore we see the socialist party supporting the designs of the labor bureaucracies in their efforts, in unison with the other lickspittles of capitalism to misguide the workers.

Due to the ever increasing clash of interests among the great capitalist powers another war seems an immediate inevitability. Such a war will spell the death of the capitalist and imperialist system, followed by a civil war which will bring about the establishment of the workers' rule thruout the world. Instead of preparing and organizing the workers on a clear basis for the impending struggle, the socialist party has preferred to link its destinies with those of the bourgeoisie; for this reason there is no justification for me or any other class conscious individual to attempt to revive a defunct branch of the socialist party, under the pretense that the party represents the working class. In consideration of these facts, I would advise the New England district organizer to withdraw the charter of the Boston Central branch, as he has recently done with several other defunct New England branches.

I can no longer retain my position as organizer or even a member of a branch of that party which has so far degenerated that it has openly allied itself with the enemies of the workers, supports the labor bureaucracies, spills venom on the truly revolutionary element of the workers, and even has the arrogance to import that white guardist scoundrel, Abramovich, to lie, and create hostility toward the only workers' and farmers' government in the world.

Therefore I hereby tender my resignation as organizer and member of the central branch of Boston, socialist party of America in order to apply for the privilege of joining the ranks of the only revolutionary party, the Workers (Communist) Party, which clearly sets as its aim the mobilization of the power of the working class with the object of destroying the capitalist system and establishing a workers' and farmers rule in America!

Long live the Workers (Communist) Party of America!

Yours for Communism,
JAMES SAGERMOSTE.

WOOLEN MILL BOSSES LOCK OUT TAILORS

Violate Contract and Advertise for Scabs

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARKERSBURG, West Va., Feb. 10.—The National Woolen Mills, located here and owned by local people locked out its employes who are members of the Journeymen Tailors' Union two weeks ago and refused to take them back except as individuals, which means that this concern will no longer recognise the union.

An amusing feature of the situation is that the owners of the mills, when they started up business, forced their employes to join the union. Since then the union has developed a backbone of its own and refuses to take orders from its former owners. Hence the lockout.

Can't Hire Scabs.

While the mill owners had a contract with the Tailors' Union, which has several months to run, they simply shut their doors when they got ready to. The members of the union, about one hundred and sixty men and women are firm in their determination not to go back unless the union is recognised and are receiving the support of the railroad and other unions here. The prospects for their victory are bright as the owners of the mills have not been able to fill their places so far, tho they have widely advertised for help in other cities. The local papers are suppressing all news about the lockout, which has created much excitement here.

Secure Injunction.

The firm of Ambler, McCluer and Ambler, attorneys for the National Woolen Mills, entered a suit in chancery asking for an injunction against the local branch of the Tailors' Union, which would prohibit its members from picketing the company's property.

The notorious "Denny" Sullivan of Chicago never displayed more alacrity in acceding to the request of the Windy City's scab garment operators for an injunction than the Petersburg court. The injunction was immediately issued and served on the officers, agents and members of the union. It does not even permit a member of the union from going near the National Woolen Mills.

Communist Candidate in Third Ward

EDWARD L. DOTY

NEGRO WORKER IS THE COMMUNIST CANDIDATE IN THE THIRD WARD

Edward L. Doty, a Chicago leader of the Workers (Communist) Party, candidate for alderman of the 3rd ward, was born at Baton Rouge, La., in 1893. Working people's children do not often have opportunities for education, and especially for a colored boy in the far south, education is usually considered a unnecessary luxury. So the young Negro child who was destined to be a leader of his class and race started his education at the age of seven heaving ice as a helper on an ice-wagon in Mobile, Ala.

Capitalist culture is well exemplified by the little seven-year-old boy at work at the first streak of dawn at lifting and carrying heavy cakes of of ice, so that the fine southern gentlemen might have their mint juleps at the right temperature.

Packing House is University.

After working on Alabama railroads, Doty came to Chicago at the age of twenty-one, in 1905, and worked in Chicago packing houses as a steamfitter, etc., until he was drafted into the world war in 1918. He is now working as a plumber in Chicago, where he is well known and considered a leader among the working people of the south side. He is especially active in attempting to break down the remaining barriers against the admission of Negroes into trade unions.

Doty soon developed into a powerful speaker and a skillful organizer. He became a charter member of the African Blood Brotherhood, which sought to bring the black and white workers into co-operation on the class-conscious basis and to win the freedom of the Negro workers from the racial persecutions which are such a terrible handicap to the struggles of the colored workers.

Graduates a Communist.

From the first days that the Communist movement assumed form in the United States, the young Negro leader threw himself into it with all of his heart and brain. When the Workers (Communist) Party was organized he became a member.

The peculiar legal requirements of the aldermanic elections of Chicago do not permit the names of political parties to be announced as officially nominated by any party. This is a way of maintaining the pretense that municipal elections are "non-partisan." Of course, it is a blind to cover the rank dictatorship—the capitalist distatorship of the city of Chicago.

Because of the hypocritical legal rules, the Workers (Communist) Party is not permitted to announce Comrade Doty as its regularly nominated party candidate. The party announces, however, that Comrade Doty runs for the office with the full approval and hearty endorsement of the Workers (Communist) Party, and that he makes his campaign unqualifiedly as a Communist.

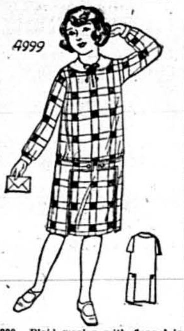
Send 12c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses', and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.



4999. Plaid woolen with flannel in a contrasting shade will be good for this design. It is also attractive in velvet, or taffeta, and very good for wash materials. The sleeve may be finished in wrist length, or, short as in the small view.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress as illustrated in the large view, requires 3⅜ yards of plaid material 27 inches wide and ¼ yard of plain for a 10 year size. If made with short sleeves ¼ yard less of the plaid material is required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

FOOD WORKERS' SHOP NUCLEUS GETS RESULTS

Guides 150 Restaurant Employes

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Shop Nucleus No. 1, food workers, at its first regular meeting demonstrated how effectively a shop nucleus can function. Already the workers in the restaurant are alive to the fact that a Communist group is actively concerning itself with their affairs.

The result has been that the comrades of the shop nucleus are now in control of the shop committee. In the shop they officially represent the workers and fight for their interests. At their first meeting they enrolled two of their fellow workers in the party and they expect in a short time, due to their activities in the shop, to enroll many more.

The organizer stated they soon will control the kitchen—the most important department—in a big restaurant. Efforts are being made by the members of the shop nucleus to draw two of the cooks into the party.

Effective Work.

The shop nucleus has worked so effectively since its organization that they have the confidence of all the workers, 150 in number, that work in the restaurant. This makes the members of the shop nucleus an important element in the union organization of the food workers, because they can depend upon their fellow workers in the restaurant to support them in any fight they may have to make in the union.

On the Job All the Time.

The shop nucleus will meet regularly twice a month and as often as conditions will demand. In the shop where the workers feel most the tyranny of the boss, where the class struggle is daily being fought and where Communist propaganda and work can be most effective in winning the workers for the party, the members of the shop nucleus daily carry on Communist work. Their work immediately brought results.

The experiences so far of Shop Nucleus No. 1 is proof that when the Workers (Communist) Party is organized on the basis of shop nuclei, it will become a real mass party of the workers in industry reflecting in its struggles the needs and interests of the workers.

Council Would Delay Traction Ordinance Until After Election

The members of the transportation committee of the city council in an effort to delay action on the Dever traction ordinance until after the aldermanic elections, stayed away from committee meeting Monday afternoon. The mayor was called in to round up the committee for some action yesterday.

Mayor Dever, in his last report to the city council, delivered in October, told the aldermen that he had broken off negotiations with the traction lines because he considered $163,000,000 demanded for the lines by the bankers, too high. Now, however, the mayor has given out the report that he will recommend to the city council that this price be paid.

The aldermen are anxious to postpone action until after the aldermanic elections, as they do not want Dever's ordinance made a campaign issue.

BUILDERS AT WORK

There Will Be More of Everything in Detroit!

THE City DAILY WORKER Agent for Detroit is Alfred E. Goetz—pronounce "gets." Because, really, he gets ideas that are sure-fire BUILDERS. Of course, in addition to his natural inclinations there is also the environment. Detroit has long had the reputation as a "DAILY WORKER City." Not satisfied, the local put on this comrade as full-time agent (pardon the pun) so it Goetz more results.

This is the idea. During the last presidential election Local Detroit had three special editions. They did so well on them that they are ready for more. The local DAILY WORKER Committee, always looking for ways and means to do more BUILDING sent Comrade Goetz out for the "dope." He wrote us and got it and they are going to pay for the special edition with commissions on advertising they will solicit.

Here is a method of building up the local that is certain, tried and PROVEN. It has shown in results what can be done and we want other locals to write us for information on how they also can do it.

Comrade Goetz and the Detroit DAILY WORKER Committee are fully aware of the possibilities. In his last letter our agent writes:

"It will help the party spirit, will mean a lot of good propaganda and above all MORE SUBSCRIPTIONS."

Correct! It will mean all that in a nut-shell, and everything to the local. Write as we suggest—NOW—and have the DAILY WORKER build up your local for you—that's what it is for!

MILWAUKEE SOCIALISTS REFUSE TO HOLD DEBATES WITH COMMUNISTS

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 10.—Following the crushing defeat inflicted upon the socialist party by the district organizer of the Workers Party, Arne Swabeck, the socialist party cancelled arrangements for all future debates.

The last debate in which G. S. Shklar, city secretary of the Workers Party, was scheduled to meet Leo Wolfson, city editor of the Milwaukee Leader, was turned into a lecture when Wolfson declined to appear declaring that the debate was given too much publicity.

Shklar was introduced by the secretary of the Workmen's Circle and in a few introductory remarks stated that the Workers Party is not afraid of publicity, that the Communist following the teachings of Marx as stated in the Communist manifesto do not desire to conceal their position and will state it to the workers.

Shklar expressed surprise that the socialist party was afraid to state their position on the political problems embracing millions of proletarians. "Should we keep our position secret from the workers when it involves our attitude toward the policies effecting millions of proletarians?"

In his lecture Shklar pointed out the bankruptcy of the socialist party when that party pretended to represent the interests of workers, and gave its support to LaFollette who does not stand for the abolition of private property.

Workers Party Gains in Influence.

Shklar pointed out that Workers Party received over four thousand votes notwithstanding its first appearance on the Wisconsin ballot, while the socialist party was losing not only ideologically, but also in the support of the masses.

The meeting decided in the future to unite with the Workers Party in arranging lectures.

The Workers Party is growing in influence here. At the last meeting of the Federated Trades Council, the delegate of the Workers Party disturbed the confidence of the socialist party machine by a denunciation of Berger's machine and its allies of the LaFollette camp.

SEVEN THOUSAN IN CHICAGO SE WORKERS' MOV

"Beauty and Bolshevik" Has Big Attendance

The great Ashland Auditorium with its 5,500 seats was filled to overflowing twice in one night last Thursday at the showing of "The Beauty and Bolshevik" under the joint auspices of the DAILY WORKER and the International Workers' Aid. Altho advertised as a continuous show from 7 to 11 the crowd began arriving at 5:30 and by 7:30 every seat was taken. Fully 2,000 waited over two hours to get into the hall and the last show did not end until after midnight.

The pictures were received with greatest enthusiasm, a ripple of almost continuous applause and laughter accompanied them and at the high spots they swelled into salvos of cheers. A large and active group of "Red Star Volunteers" were on the job tagging for the Michigan Defense and William F. Kruse and Moritz J. Loeb made collection speeches.

Music was furnished by three working class groups, the Young Workers League, the South Slav Balalaika Orchestra. This music was especially fitting to the Russian proletarian films and constituted one of the most enjoyable features of the evening's entertainment.

The films will be shown in the Russian, Slavic and Jewish sections of the city in smaller theatres.

Federated Press Holds 5th Annual Meeting in Chicago

The fifth annual meeting of The Federated Press, labor news service, which was held in Chicago Feb. 6, authorised steps toward an organized far eastern news bureau, adopted the 1925 budget carrying $25,130 and elected four members of the executive board in addition to the routine business.

The new bureau will have headquarters in Paris and will devote itself largely at first to Indian news. The affiliation with the Federated Press is to be loose until the field is better known.

The newly elected members of the executive board are Thomas R. Downie, Galesburg, Ill., reelected as chairman; Arne Swabeck, Chicago, reelected; Vern Smith, Chicago, to succeed J. A. Lochray; Phil Ziegler, Cincinnati, to succeed R. D. Cramer. Joseph Schlossberg, New York, was re-elected vice chairman.

British Urge Probe Of Opium Growth in Oriental Centers

GENEVA, Feb. 10.— The international opium conference in plenary session today adopted the findings of the British investigation of opium growth in oriental centers to ascertain the amount of cultivation and reduction over a period of five years.

If reduction of opium cultivation be sufficient in a fifteen years period to make suppression possible, the cultivation of opium over medical needs will be stopped, the conference decided.

The conference adopted the plan of making the signatories of the Hague opium convention responsible for the strictest enforcement of provisions against smuggling.

Morgan "Organizes" Miners

The organization of a company union by the Morgan merger interests in the West Virginia coal fields, a scab organization headed by an ex-district official of the United Mine Workers, throws light on what course this new and gigantic industrial combination will follow in its relations with the workers it employs.

It shows further that the so-called Rockefeller plan launched by the Standard Oil controlled Colorado Fuel and Iron company after its massacre of coal miners at Ludlow in the 1913 strike is to be tried out on a larger scale.

Industrial feudalism accompanied by wholesale murder of miners and their families have given to the steel trust and its West Virginia coal company subsidiaries much unwelcome publicity.

The gullible "public" will now be told that the kindhearted company has allowed the miners to have a union and that everything is lovely except that labor union and "red" agitators are attempting to corrupt "our well-paid, loyal and contented employes."

We can expect now another flood of "Poison Ivy" Lee publicity such as followed the initiation of the Rockefeller plan in Colorado.

Our reports from West Virginia show that it is going to be much harder to fool the miners than it is the "public." Most of them are going to keep the old rifles in working order, even tho they are forced into the company union for a time.

The Boiling War-Pot

News from London is that the coming conference of the admiralty board, at which the report of Admiral Fisher on his inspection tour of British possessions will be heard, will adopt a plan for a huge Pacific fleet as a further strengthening of British "influence" in the Far East that was begun with the project of a huge naval base at Singapore.

The British press is very frank—an unusual thing in the public discussion of the imperialist adventures of the British ruling class which is generally "saving" some backward people from domination by other than the Anglo-Saxons who bring only sweetness and light into the lives of the darker-skinned masses—see India and the Sudan.

It is pointed out by the British pressmen, as journalists are termed in dear old London, that the destruction of the German fleet makes it possible for Britain to utilize her own navy to greater advantage in the Far East.

It is not hard to read between the lines the intention of British imperialism to make its greatest bid for power in China, where it is already in conflict with American, Japanese and French imperialist interests. We recommend a careful reading from now on of the British imperialist press to the social-pacifist elements who were so enthusiastic over the Washington disarmament conference.

In connection with the new naval plans of the British government the recent announcements of the semi-official French press are of great importance. We commented on them a few days ago and quoted its statement to the effect that the French government must choose now what power or powers it will support in the Far East.

All opinions like those cited are bubbles breaking over the rim of the imperialist war-pot.

It boils more noisily each day.

Zinoviev's Warning

Zinoviev, in a recent conference of the Russian Communist Party, warned of the danger of a new offensive against Soviet Russia.

He pointed out that British imperialism faces two great dangers:

1. The volcanic situation in the Far East—threatened loss of British control in China, revolt in India, etc.
2. The growing revolutionary sentiment and organization among the British working class as a result of economic demoralization and the activity of the British Communist Party.

Zinoviev reached the conclusion that Great Britain would not wait for an explosion at home or in the Far East, but would start war on Soviet Russia thru Poland or Roumania and perhaps would use both vassal nations.

Since the delivery of this speech dispatches tell of renewed military activity in Poland—the speeding up of munition factories, concentration of forces on the Russian frontier, etc.

In a war of this kind Great Britain, in spite of the deadly rivalry existing between her and the United States, would have the full support of our ruling class. Every effort would be made to enlist the sympathies of the working class in America for the crushing of Communism at home and abroad.

The Workers (Communist) Party must be ready.

Pittsburgh Machinists and C.P.P.A.

The Westinghouse local union of machinists, working in one of the gigantic plants of this powerful industrial corporation, located in Pittsburgh, the stronghold of the steel trust, has endorsed a resolution denouncing the class collaboration policy of the conference for progressive political action, headed by William Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists. The resolution urged the adoption of the Workers Party program.

The resolution failed of endorsement at the Pitsburgh district council of machinists by only one vote—the chairman casting the deciding ballot.

In this influential section of the machinists' union, right on Johnston's doorstep, is class-conscious opposition to his scheme of betrayal. The action of the Pittsburgh machinists comes on the eve of the Chicago C. P. P. A. conference, showing that the efforts of the Workers Communist) Party in exposing this organization as another weapon of capitalism against the workers have been successful.

Scab Creameries and Counter-Revolution

In Los Angeles the socialist Daily Forward carries an advertisement of a scab creamery which is on the unfair list of the Labor Council of that city.

In New York it slanders Communists and boosts Abramovich, the enemy of Soviet Russia, of the Communist International and the social revolution thruout the world.

Is there a connection between these two incidents three thousand miles apart?

We'll say there is. The Forward is the foe of the working class. It represents the middle-class businessmen, the lawyers and other professional groups—the crumb-gatherers from the table of capitalism.

Support of a scab creamery and counter-revolution are not so far apart as Los Angeles and New York.

Not Quite Correct.

A Washington correspondent who should know better attributes much of the difficulty of the postal workers to the alleged fact that President Green of the American Federation of Labor is not yet well acquainted with the capitalist party leaders in the house and senate.

Our opinion is that the better the acquaintance of labor leaders with capitalist politicians the worse off are the workers by whom the labor leaders are paid.

The friendly and fraternal atmosphere which prevails around the American Federation headquarters and the congressional and senatorial chambers whenever labor leaders and capitalist politicians meet, is one good reason why the labor movement is principally an organization which, like the Naples beggar, always goes with knee crooked and hat in hand.

Green is not useless to the postal workers because he does not know Washington, but because he knows it too well.

Forgery As an Imperialist Method.

The skulking duplicity revealed by the alteration in the text of the Paris pact, made before it was submitted to the senate, eliminating the word "treaty" as far as possible, reveals a condition of affairs in the Morgan-Hughes state department as rotten as anything in the czar's pre-war diplomacy and comparable with the forgery of the famous—or infamous—telegram by Bismarck just preceding the Franco-Prussian war.

The Paris pact is so dangerous to the American masses, its obligation to collect by force the German reparations in the event of revolution or other reasons for default so certain, that none of those engaged in putting it across dare to admit its full meaning or even to face the little group of middle-class politicians in the senate with a truthful statement of its far-reaching provisions.

American imperialism and its agents have been caught with the goods. They have been found flirting with forgery as an alternate course to fighting for their murderous and greedy schemes in the open.

The whole incident is just about the best evidence yet disclosed of the way in which the lives of millions of workers are staked in the game of international finance, diplomacy and war.

Some day the American Soviet government will publish documents, now hidden in the archives of the state department, that will be even more enlightening.

With 50,000 unemployed in Cleveland, there ought to be a powerful unemployed council in the Ohio metropolis. The organization drive starts Tuesday night. It should make rapid headway.

The so-called "baroness," Olga Wrangel, has departed for other scenes of activity. No announcement of funds raised in Chicago for the counter-revolutionary activities of her husband has been made. Evidently she didn't get very much. The "socialist," Abramovich, is reported as the next anti-Sovietist scheduled to visit this city.

The Locomotive Engineers' Journal has a lengthy eulogy of William Green in its latest number. To understand the meaning of this new conciliatory attitude towards the American Federation of Labor it should be remembered that the Engineers' Brotherhood is in very bad with the United Mine Workers because of its ownership of scab mines in West Virginia. Reactionary labor officialdom has its own diplomatic methods.

Sixty Thousand Rebels to Fight Lewis

By Tom Bell

The sixty-six thousand votes "allowed" the left wing slate according to the official tabulation by the Lewis bureaucracy in the recent United Mine Workers' election for International officials is a tremendous victory for the Trade Union Educational League and the Workers (Communist) Party and the militants in the United Mine Workers.

The full significance of this event can be grasped only in the light of the following:

(1) The Lewis gang "counted" the ballots which means that many thousands of votes cast for the left wing found their way to the Lewis column.

(2) The Lewis gang has full possession of the union apparatus which means unlimited funds to spend on securing votes for the officialdom, and dozens of "organizers" to flood doubtful districts to "fix things" during the election.

(3) In districts 18 (Alberta) and 14 (Kansas) the left wing district slates were ruled off the ballot. In Kansas Alex Howat was nominated by 90 per cent of the locals, and every ballot on which Howat's name had been "written in" was thrown out. In Alberta the yellow scamp, Sherman, declared his clique elected by acclamation after debarring the left wing candidates.

(4) Together with these advantages of the Lewis officialdom there goes the blacklisting of militants, stealing and faking of ballots (as in Illinois), the support of all the local republican and democratic "bosses" and the bootleggers with their "mule."

(5) The expulsion from the union of such outstanding militants as Howat, Duncan McDonald, Jim McLachlan and Tom Myerscough which made it impossible for the left wing slate to contain the names of these well-known militants.

(6) None of the left wing candidates were known outside of their districts and were unable to tour the other districts.

(7) The left wing campaign was limited to the distribution of leaflets. The only paper that supported the campaign being the DAILY WORKER.

In spite of this even the Lewis' tellers are forced to admit that the left wing polled over 66,000 votes. And these votes were cast against the Lewis policy and for the Progressive Miners' Committee policy—for class struggle as against class collaboration.

This event marks the birth of a conscious revolutionary movement in the United Mine Workers, not based upon adherence to the magnetic personality of some popular leader, but upon the acceptance of the Progressive Miners' Committee program of militant struggle against the operators.

Voted for Left Program.

The mobilization of this vote was the work of the revolutionaries scattered thruout the United Mine Workers. They fought against a machine built by John Mitchell at the beginning of the century and perfected by White, Lewis and Green. Poverty stricken and tied to the mines these rebels nevertheless achieved this mass repudiation of the Lewis policy because their program supplies the answer to the problems confronting the miners at every turn.

To cure unemployment, prevent wage cutting because of competition from non-union fields, and prevent the operators sabotaging the wages and conditions in union districts the Lewis officialdom advances the policy: Throw 200,000 miners out of the industry as a step toward "deflation"—no breaking of "sacred" contracts even tho the operators smash them to pieces.

To the miners the Progressive Miners' Committee says: Nationalization of the mines, take the mines out of the hands of the exploiters; an alliance with the railroad workers in preparation for an offensive on the bosses; international unity of all miners to prevent international scabbing during strikes.

Thus the issue is clearly joined. The Lewis policy means continued unemployment, breaking of rates and working conditions by the operators; smashing of strikes called to make the operators live up to agreements signed by Lewis himself; and the continual encroachments of the non-union fields upon the union districts.

The left wing program lays out a strategical line which will lead to great achievements for the miners and the entire working class. It breaks with the Lewis policy of continuous betrayal and kowtowing to the bosses; it opens up a path by means of which the miners can fight the bosses. This program is practical and leads to action, both defensive and offensive.

On the basis of this sixty-six thousand miners lined up against Lewis and declared themselves for a policy of class struggle.

Organize the Rebels.

What is the next step in this struggle against the capitalist agents in the United Mine Workers? Plainly: The crystallization of this militant force of sixty-six thousand miners into a definite organization to wrest the United Mine Workers from the hands of Lewis, and to give leadership every day to the miners at every turn in their struggles.

How can this be accomplished?

Thru the policy of the Trade Union Educational League and the Workers (Communist) Party. Thru the patient building of left wing groups of all militant miners. Thru rendering the vague and confused revolt against the Lewis policy of betrayal into crystal-clear class conscious understanding of the Communist policy of class struggle in the mining industry. Thru the propagation and organization of mine committee control of the union as foreshadowed in the General Grievance Committees of the anthracite miners in their recent struggle. And, most important of all, the strengthening of the Workers (Communist) Party in the mine fields, without which the struggle of the miners against their betrayers will lack leadership and direction.

These tasks fall upon the shoulders of the militants and Communists in the United Mine Workers. Only if the Communists abdicate their roles of leaders of the rank and file can these sixty-six thousand miners be lulled to sleep instead of becoming an organized force which will deal with the operators and their office boys in the International Executive Board of the United Mine Workers.

Indianapolis Next Battle.

The next practical objective toward which the militant forces of the miners must be directed in their struggle against Lewis and Co. is the coming International convention in January, 1926. This convention is the battleground for another great struggle between the revolutionary forces and the reactionary Lewis machine.

The practical organization work must go on to prepare the left wing forces for this coming battle. It is not enough that left wingers be elected to the convention—they must also be organized so that they can act in a disciplined manner against Lewis and Co.

In the past the left wing has been defeated at International conventions thru lack of organization. In 1922 and again in 1924 the outstanding failure of the left wing forces in the convention was their lack of co-ordination in policy and discipline in action against the officialdom. This cannot be allowed to happen in 1926.

The coming convention should register such an overwhelming opposition to Lewis and his gang that the entire labor movement will realize that Lewis maintains his position in the union by thug rule, by every kind of trickery and flouting of the desires of the membership.

The forces for administering this trouncing to the Lewis gang consist of the thousands of miners who supported the left wing program against Lewis. They will really fight Lewis only if the militants and Communists boldly take up the task of organizing these militants into a battering ram for the destruction of Lewisism in the United Mine Workers.

The next great encounter with Lewis will take place at Indianapolis—there the Communist-led left wing must put Lewis and his bureaucracy on the run.

Factory Nuclei Re-organization

By G. PIATNITZKY

At a discussion which took place recently in a commission, appointed by the Communist International regarding the question of the re-organization of the Communist Parties, the English comrades pointed out the special difficulties with which the reorganization of the party would meet in Great Britain. To the objections raised by our British comrades, Comrade Piatnitzky, chairman of the organization bureau of the Comintern, replied as follows (the report of this speech of Comrade Piatnitzky is given by Comrade Pollit, who took part in the meeting):

I THOROLY understand the difficulties which the British comrades have raised; but I ask, comrades: is the fundamental principle of factory nuclei right? Is it possible to picture a really energetic Communist Party, the foundations of which are not in the factories and works? We all know that this is impossible. For this reason we must not let the difficulties of this reorganization be an excuse for doing nothing at all. We must not worry because this work cannot be carried out in one night; what we must be clear about, is that we must begin at once with the reorganization of the factory nuclei. In spite of all difficulties we must have the will power to start the work. Even if only three members are employed in one factory they must form themselves into a factory nucleus.

IN Russia the party had greater difficulties than anywhere else, and yet we have accomplished our task. In one respect perhaps it was easier for us than for you. The separation between political and trade union activity which exists in other countries, and which is responsible for your having to fight against both parliamentary and trade union bureaucracy, has never existed in Russia. Our work was always political and never divided into different sections. You will however admit, that under the czarist regime we had greater difficulties to overcome than those which you bring forward.

FACTORY-NUCLEI are also necessary to prevent the party consisting only of leaders who have lost all actual contact with the masses. The leaders who arise from the factory-nuclei prevent the party taking any action which does not correspond to the instinctive demands of the masses. These factory-nuclei may easily form the foundation of factory councils.

WHEN there are less than three Communist members in one factory they must try to find sympathizers in order to found a factory-nucleus. The duty of these factory-nuclei is to interest themselves in all that concerns the workers, not only in the works themselves but in the trade unions, the proletariat parties and the co-operative societies.

IF the members are not in any factory, street-nuclei must be organized. In long streets they may, if necessary, be organized according to blocks of houses. The factory-nuclei must of course work secretly. Nevertheless they must develop their activities in such a way that, altho the heads of the factories know nothing about them, the workmen in the factory in question know that there is a group of their colleagues which represent their interests.

THIS group must distribute the party literature and, if possible, issue a factory paper, even if they only write or type it. I would again point out that by means of the factory-nuclei, the leading organizations are kept in constant contact with the masses, and that thus digressions from the right way are avoided. Two examples will prove this to you: In 1917 the Moscow district committee of our party learned that Petrograd workers were fighting in the streets of Petrograd. The intellectuals among the district leaders wished to call out the Moscow workers to street fighting at once. But those members of the district committee who came direct from the factory-nuclei, said: No, the workers are not yet ready for it otherwise we should have recognized it already from their speeches! Let us organize an ordinary demonstration, so that we may see how many workers take part in it, and then we shall have an idea of the strength of the will to fight of the workers.

THIS was the right policy. The demonstration was not successful and showed that a much more intensive propaganda was necessary. Had the proposal of the intellectuals been carried, the insurrection would have been crushed immediately.

YOU know what happened in Germany in the autumn of 1923. The fact that the party was found wanting was a blow to the whole International. The central committee was in no way in touch with the masses. The Chemnitz conference, from which decisive resolutions were expected, was no conference of workers from the factories, but a conference of party functionaries. You know the result: defeat and retreat. The true feeling of the masses found expression in Hamburg, where the workers actually fought in the streets.

I WOULD point out that it was only thru our factory-nuclei that we in Russia arived at the achievement of our work, before and after the October revolution. How do you imagine that it has been possible for us so successfully to defend the revolution in all its varying phases? Only because we were in the closest contact with the masses and possessed their confidence. Our party is a revolutionary party. We must break away from the old social democratic ideas and methods. You know in what they consist: In the division between parliamentary and trade union action. Look at the example of the German social democratic party! In 1903 the trade union leaders were in favor of a general strike in order to carry thru their demands, whereas the parliamentary leaders were opposed to it. In 1906, the parliamentary leaders demanded a general strike, whilst the trade union leaders refused it.

I NEED not call your attention to the dissension and the jealousy which exist between the general council of the English Trade Union Congress and the leaders of the labor party. Is it not easy to see how the workers are thus split and their fighting spirit weakened?

ONE word more. Every comrade should take every work of the party into consideration. It is bad when MacManus is regarded only as a politician and Pollitt only as a trade unionist. Every member of the party should attempt to carry thru any work of the party. Work as one party, think as one party, always be ready to carry thru the party policy to the uttermost when it has once been decided upon. Our party is a political party, it is fighting for the conquest of political power. No member is in too high a position to carry thru the party resolutions or to submit to the party discipline. Try to distribute the work over as large an area as possible, set to work with loyalty and enthusiasm, and in a short time you will see that the party has become a real political factor in England, and you will soon discover that the demand for a daily paper in England is not a mere sentiment. The masses will put pressure upon you to compel you to create one.

"Don Quixote" in Music.

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN.

Hard on the heels of Pavlowa's performance of the ballet "Don Quixote" by Minkus, came the performance last Friday and Saturday of the symphonic poem "Don Quixote," by Richard Strauss. It was played by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at Orchestra Hall.

Strauss' work is called "Don Quixote—Fantastic Variations on a Theme of Knightly Character." The program of it concerns the Don who becomes insane thru the reading of books of chivalry. A theme in the solo 'cello represents the Don thruout, a simple tune sometimes in a solo viola, sometimes in the bass clarinet or tenor tuba, represents Sanco Panza. The eleven variations on the theme tell how the Don fights the windmills, the sheep, the monks and the pilgrims, how he quarrels with Sancho Panza and stands guard all alone one night while Sancho sleeps, how the two imagine they are riding thru the air on wooden horses, how they ride in "enchanted" boats, how Quixote fights the knight of the white shield, recovers his sanity, and finally dies in his bed.

The Strauss music overwhelms one with its richness of orchestral color, the novelty of some of the effects, and, withal the braininess of it. There is an imitation in the second variation of the bleating of sheep that is a stroke of genius. Another remarkable effect is the way in which a slow down-scale passage depicts the lazy motion of the windmills. Strauss has discovered new color in old instruments in this work too, for example the peculiarly piercing and powerful upper tones of the tenor tuba. Perhaps the most unusual of all is his use of a theatrical wind-machine as an orchestral instrument.

What one carries away is an impression of the cleverness, the ingenuity, the resourcefulness of the man. While the music of Franck, Chausson, Musorgski, is the music of great souls, the orchestral works of Richard Strauss are concepts of a great brain.

Strauss was surrounded by Handel and Wagner. The program opened with a Hondel concerto for string orchestra and closed with Wagner's "Siedfried Idyll" and the finale of the opera "Siegfried." The "Idyll" was composed to celebrate the birth of Wagner's son. It is a beautiful, pastoral sort of thing, scored very lightly, built up on the motives of peace, sleep, and the bird song, all from "Siegfried," and an old German nursery air.

The finale of "Siegfried" is on the stage, an unendurably tedious scene. Bernard Shaw calls it a lapse from music drama into opera, which is a confused way of saying is is a lapse from grand opera into opera not so grand. But in this orchestral version it is quite bearable, due, perhaps to the fact that Mr. Stock may have wielded the judicious blue pencil.

Siegfried comes thru the fire, sees Brunhilde, awakens her, and there follows the world's longest love duet, during which the motives of peace and fate have an important part. But it is on a significant combination of the motives of Siegfried the hero and the ride of the Valkyries that the scene closes.

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

RAMSAY MACDONALD is back in London again after his health visit to the Bermudas. J. H. Thomas former colonial minister returned with him. Both have improved in health, so the papers say but the same cannot be said for their political prospects. Since the labor government moved its furniture ou of Downing street, interesting developments have taken place in England, developments that do not promise to place much to the credit side of MacDonald's ledger.

THE British trade union delegation that went to Russia to see what it could see, has returned, and with the exception of one, who has thrown his lot in with Emma Goldmann, they have unanimously agreed that Soviet Russia is making wonderful progress and that the workers and peasants feel that they have a little heaven upon earth all their own since the czar was turned into manure.

THE delegates grabbed an eyeful of Russia and a headful of new ideas. When these ideas were imported into England, quite a hornet's nest was turned loose but the left wing elements are in the lead and it looks as if unity between the Russian unions and the trade union movement of the rest of the world, barring the benighted states of America, is now a foregone conclusion.

EVERYTHING considered, events are moving rapidly in England and England is still the big frog in the European capitalist puddle. Zinoviev delivered a speech in Moscow recently during which he said that it was quite likely England would make another attack on Russia in the near future thru Poland and Roumania. The British ruling class are the most accomplished and shameless liars on earth and the recent assurances given Rakovsky by the British tory foreign secretary, to the effect that England was not organizing hostile forces against Russia are not worth the breath on which they were carried.

IT does not require prophetic vision however to predict that a war on Soviet Russia by the British government either directly or thru its political prostitutes, on the border of Russia, will be a very serious undertaking indeed, considering the fact that in the last elections seven million votes were cast for the labor party, and that the leadership of these masses is rapidly passing into the hands of that element which looks to strong friendly relations between the workers of England and Russia as of vital necessity. Britain fears on the other hand that unless she crushes Soviet Russia now, the propaganda of the Communist International in India and among the hundreds of millions of exploited British colonial slaves will bring the robber empire toppling to ruin. Like the religious fatalist, Britain is "damned if she does and damned if she don't."

THE members of the United States army may be interested to know that their business is now on a cash basis and that its activities are booming, if we are to believe the headlines in the New York Times. Not so comforting is the news that 83 national cemeteries are now maintained in the United States and eight in Europe. Cemeteries like warships are intended for use and not for ornament. But according to the patriots, all soldiers use up most of their mental energy wishing for an opportunity to die, so the prospect of getting into a good properly gardenered cemetery will appeal to their sense of the eternal fitness of things.

YOU may have heard of the Chemical Warfare Service. It sounds wicked. People connect it up with posion gas, tear gas, mustard gas and carbolic acid gas. But if we are to believe the publicity agents of the war department, the C. W. S. is engaged in such civilized work as making the boll weevil weep, and curing hay fever. The boll weevil activities may be by way of an experiment to try out new gases which we are informed are being developed as "an aid to law and order." The war

Dictatorship Was Light During 1924 Says Last Report

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 11.— A sharp decline in interference with civil rights is reported by the American Civil Liberties Union in a survey of conditions during 1924 as compared with the two previous years. Fewer free speech prosecutions, police interferences with metings and cases of mob violence have been reported than in any year since the beginning of the war.

IRON WORKERS STRIKE JOBS IN NEW YORK

2,000 Men Out So Far Against Open Shop

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Attempts by the Iron League to use non-union men on the new Standard Oil sky-scraper going up at 26-30 Broadway and on 23 other New York buildings are receiving a set back with the walk-out of ornamental iron workers, riggers, derrick men and machinery movers.

May Spread Strike.

Nearly 2,000 men are out of the call of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers and the union is considering spreading the strike to other cities to include the men on all jobs of the Iron League members or their sub-contractors.

In the meantime organizers are visiting the other centers and calling for iron workers tos tay away from New York till the strike is settled.

Some Struck Jobs

The Brooklyn court house and an addition to Bellevue Hospital, a city institution, are among the struck places and the Bank of America building at Pine and William streets and the Knights of Columbus Temple at Prospect Park Plaza are also included.

Only the iron workers are on strike but other crafts will be affected; stoppage of derrick men halts the hoisting of stone and thus holds up bricklaying operations.

The walkout is called in support of the fight the structural steel men began last spring for recognition of the union.

The strike means that the men who do the grill work, the work on fire escapes, elevator enclosures and iron stairways; the derrick men who do the hoisting; the riggers who instal tanks, boilers and machinery, and the machinery movers, all are adding their forces to the group of workers already striking and thus, in the opinion of building trades unionists, increasing the chance of general victory.

Scab Iron League Firms

Members of the scab Iron League against whom the fight for union recognition and indeed union survival is being directly aimed are the following, and the Iron Workers' Union wishes all union men of every craft to note them well: Levering and Garrigues, Post and McCord, Hedden Iron Construction company, Harris Structural Steel company, A. E. Norton and company, Hinkle Iron Works, George A. Just company, Bigelow and Nichols, Hay Foundary and Iron Works, McClintock and Marshall and Million Brothers.

COMMUNISTS FIGHT MAHONEY TO SAVE FARMER-LABOR FEDERATION FROM DESTRUCTION ON MARCH 20

By CARL SKOGLUND.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 11.—The Hennepin county central committee of the farmer-labor federation at its regular meeting on Feb. 9 took up the question of expelling Communists and of calling a state convention of the federation on March 19. Mahoney, the state chairman, and Ralph Harmon, the state secretary, were present to defend the unity conference called for March 20.

Among other things Mahoney made a statement that Communists are not sincere and made a great complaint against every known member of the party who had taken part in building the farmer-labor federation and in organizing the June 17 convention. An attack was made by the Communists on the state executive committee for their usurpation of power in expelling two regularly elected members of that committee because of their membership in the Workers Party.

Both Mahoney and Harmon took the floor and stated the committee had never contemplated expelling J. O. Johnson or C. R. Hedlund and in their speech they tried to crawl out of the hole that they found themselves in when they had to face the rank and file.

They boldly stated "in spite" of statements issued to the press the day following the meeting of the state committee by Mr. Mahoney these comrades were never expelled.

Getting Seated Another Question

Mahoney and Harmon both spoke defending the unity conference called for March 20 and stated that the representation from trade unions and other working class organizations would not be impaired. The sole aim, so they said, was to secure representation from the farming counties in the state, which according to them, did not have any faith in the industrial workers in the cities. They also stated Communists can be elected as delegates to this state conference, but that the convention will have to decide as to whether they will be seated.

To any worker who has participated in movements of this kind it becomes quite apparent that the statements made by these officials were pure camouflage thrown out to deceive those in attendence at the meeting. As a matter of fact the convention is iron bound against rank and file representation and for the liquidation of the farmer-labor federation.

A Convention of Cockroaches.

Delegates can be elected from Hennipin, Ramsey, and St. Louis counties, which are the principle industrial districts of the state, who support the farmer-labor federation, but according to the terms of the call, the farmer-labor politicians, cockroach business men, bankers, etc., who gather in the various outlying counties can elect their representative to the convention who in turn cast the vote allotted to his county. By this method neither the workers or farmers can control this convention—it will be a convention of middle class politicians.

Mahoney and Harmon are developing a line of strategy which they hope will pacify the left wing elements until after the March 20, convention. They realize that a concerted attack by all real working class elements would blow up their conference. They are well aware that if the March 20 conference can be pulled successfully and a program developed for the liquidation of the federation, the left wing elements can then yell their heads off for a convention of the farmer-labor federation, while they laugh up their sleeves with the new organization in their pockets.

The Communists are making every effort to rally the rank and file in a fight against this deliberate betrayal.

ANDY FURUSETH SAYS NEW WORLD WAR SURE BUT GIVES NO REMEDY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union, predicts another world war. He sees no alternative to such a conflict in the next few years except a voluntary abandonment, by the powers, of the Versailles treaty.

Untill that war shall come, he asserts, America and Europe will move steadily away from democracy and into fascism.

With war, the armed forces may not be kept in hand. Revolutions will be easier then, and despotism for the sake of capitalist imperialist consolidation may be shaken.

CARPENTERS' LOCAL 19, DETROIT, MAKES HUTCHESON OPPOSITION UNANIMOUS; LAWYER IS OUSTED

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—Carpenters' Local Union No. 19 went on record as to its attitude towards Czar Hutcheson's expulsion policy today after the reactionaries had held down the lid for a month by arbitrary control. After President Ball, following the bureaucracy's policy, had refused to recognize a motion and an appeal from his decision, a brother lost patience and gently lifted him from him chair, while the appeal was put by the vice-president. After this little expression of sentiment, President Ball "saw the point" and could almost anticipate the will of the body in his zeal to serve it.

Support Reynolds.

With the lid once off, a resolution to support Local Union 2140 in sustaining Reynolds in his membership and rights, condemning Hutcheson's policy of expulsions, and calling on the G. E. B. to immediately reinstate Reynolds, was quickly adopted.

A motion recalling all delegates to the district council was adopted, and a complete new set who are in accord with the sentiment of the local union was elected. A trial board was drawn to hear the charges against Pres. Ball to the effect that his arbitrary rulings have defeated the will of the body. "Yellow" Sharrock and general parasite Botterill sat mute while their virtues were extolled in reverse English with an eloquence seldom equalled even by trade union orators. It is alleged that when Sam Botterill jostled a member 66 years old, the aged follower of the lowly Nazarene swung on his cheek with the result that Sam held his jaw instead of the members listening to it.

Oust Lawyer and Fakers.

At Local Union 420 meeting Friday, Feb. 26, Lawyer Carson of Indianapolis, Sam Botterill and Sharrock, were hooted and jeered at the same time being told to get out of the meeting and stay out. Three new delegates who line up with the left wing were elected to the district council. A $1.25 wage scale opposed by Sharrock was carried by a 6 to 1 vote.

Every Local Against Botterill.

Botterill's tactic now is to give his consent to $10.00 initiation fee in place of the six-months' dues in advance arrangement now in vogue by order of Hutcheson as a sop to buy the support of the members for the expulsion policy of the general executive board. This parasite Botterill's removal was asked by the district council and every local union in the city of Detroit. In answer, Hutcheson said that he had done such good work in Detroit that he would be kept there.

It is assumed that Sharrock will be rather careful next Thursday as to how he thwarts the wishes of the district council delegates. If he isn't, the body will find ways to assert its will.

FARRINGTON'S SECOND BLUFF ON OLD AGE PENSION LAW SUCCEEDS; HE KNOWS IT WILL NOT GO THRU

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 11.—Probable defeat of the Illinois miners' old age pension system was seen here today in the apparently light vote cast in the referendum.

Success or failure of the project will not be known for a week or ten days, it was intimated at mine union headquarters where it was said only ten percent of the vote cast had been reported to date.

It required a favorable two-thirds majority of all votes to guarantee the pension act, once declared invalid by international officers because it obtained a bare majority vote.

FRENCH YELLOWS CONTINUE PACT WITH HERRIOT

PARIS, Feb. 11.—After listening to M. Blum and other high moguls of the socialist party, defend the united front with Herriot the socialist congress voted to continue the present alliance.

There was some opposition to the present role of the parliamentary fraction of the socialist party at the opening of the congress but it died a happy death under the blasts of Blum and others.

On Swapping Mules

The main reasons given by Blum for his aversion to making a change were that it is bad policy to switch orders once an army is on the march and secondly because the country in general would not understand the socialists. Two very profund arguments indeed as any general not in his dotage will admit.

The socialist party of France under the generalship of Blum, is like its sister socialist parties, on the road to destruction and its leaders are willing to allow it to perform the function of depositing them (the leaders) into the laps of the bourgeoisie. The country may not understand the socialists but the workers are learning to understand them, thanks to their treachery and to the Communists.

FRANCO-BRITISH NEGOTIATIONS IN SECRECY SHROUD

Conflicting Interests Can't Be Reconciled

PARIS, Feb. 11.—While hostile blasts from the foreign offices of the British and French governments keep the political atmosphere charged with electricity, secret negotiations have been going on between the two countries for several weeks.

Shrouded in Secrecy.

So private have these negotiations been that even the governments of both countries outside of the leading government officers on both sides and the necessary naval and military experts have not been let in on the developments.

Unless England and France can liquidate their differences, war between the two countries can no more be avoided than could the conflict between Germany and England which broke out in 1914.

Seasoned diplomats of the old school and political economists of the Marxian school agree that the conflicting interests of France and England cannot be reconciled.

Both Deny Negotiations.

The French and British governments have both denied that negotiations are taking place, but it now definitely known that Lord Crewe, the British ambassador to Paris, and Herriot are the ringleaders.

The proposal is that the military staffs of Britain, France and Belgium work out a common agreement for the defense of both countries against German aggression. Britain is no longer afraid of Germany, but France is. France, however, feels that he alliance with Czecho-Slovakia and Poland are sufficient to enable her to take care of Germany, provided England remains neutral. This England is not liable to do, however.

Half Billion Dollar Bread Trust Sticks Finger in Chicago Pie

Disclosures of a startling nature may follow the federal trade commission's investigation of the merger of the Livingston bakeries of Chicago and the Calumet Baking company of Hammond with the Continental Baking corporation, it was reported last night.

Nearly a score of agents of the federal trade commission are investigating the merger and the price of bread.

The Continental Baking corporation is a $500,000,000 concern, incorporated in Delaware.

ROB WORKING CLASS CHILDREN OF EDUCATION AND FORCE THEM INTO WAGE WORK BY CASTE RULE

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Workers are particularly urged to combat the present tendency of school systems to use intelligence tests "to shunt their children into vocational courses while the children of the so-called better classes, generally with a higher I. Q. (Intelligence Quotient). are given the cultural courses." The New York Teachers' Union bulletin issues the warning.

"Though children from crowded and undesirable and foreign sections of ability than the children of a superior environment whose intelligence quotient happens to be higher.

"This difference may be due to different interests engendered by different environments or different economic status, or to marked physical defects due to low wages or poor sanitary conditions, or even to foreign atmosphere which often means language difficuities.

"To use tests given under such varying conditions as a basis for classifying children for vocation or cultural courses, is to introduce a caste system into our educational and economic life."

The Teachers' Union does not oppose intelligence tests but does attack their misuse, especially in condemning workers' children to trade courses instead of giving them every opportunity they wish in all fields of education.

The union asks that at least if such tests are to be used that "partial justice to children born in unfortunate environment or under adverse economic circumstances" be given: "That their physical defects be remedied, and that their environment, both economic and cultural be ascertained and evaluated in the final result."

PRAGUE WORKERS BATTLE IN DRIVE AGAINST THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 11.—Striking workers protesting against the high cost of living, against which a campaign is being waged by the Communist Party yesterday made the whole city a fierce battleground, when attacked by police. Police fired into crowds of demonstrating workers, who fought back stubbornly and many were injured on both sides.

In a police charge upon a crowd in the vicinity of the American embassy, an American bourgeois nearly received one of the bullets meant for the workers, when a policeman's bullet smashed thru a cafe window.

Everywhere the crowds of unemployed and underpaid workers entered the big shops, cafes and hotels simultaneously, taking necessities of life in an orderly way so long as they were not opposed with violence by troops, police or shopkeepers. Only late at night did the crowds disperse. Troops now patrol the streets and guard government buildings.

CAL AND CHARLEY SPLIT ON ISSUE OF KEEPING LOOT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—A clear cut difference of opinion between President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes has risen over the question of returning German property now held by the alien property custodian to its German owners, it developed today.

Secretary Hughes holds that whether the property should be returned immediately, as provided in the bill introduced by Senator Borah of Idaho, or held in status quo as security for the payment of German reparations, is a purely domestic issue to be decided by congress and the president.

International Question.

President Coolidge's view, as expressed by a White House spokesman, is that it is primarily a diplomatic issue and that if the United States should return the property in face of the fact that enemy property has been confiscated by all the allies, it would complicate the reparations problem.

The president, it is said, feels that the allies would insist that the United States has no right to call on them for a share in the reparations payments while deliberately returning German asserts which are under American control.

Await Kellogg's Advent.

Since Secretary Hughes will retire from office March 4, and be succeeded by Ambassador Kellogg, there is considerable speculation as to whether the new secretary of state, who assisted in making the Paris agreement, will hold the same views as his predecessor or whether his coming will be the beginning of a new policy with regard to alien property.

2,600 Knitted Goods Workers on Strike, Bosses Won't Confer

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Brooklyn spring needle workers in the knitted garment industry are striking. None of the employers answered the union's request for a conference.

The knitted goods workers are under joint jurisdiction of United Textile Workers and International Ladies' Garment Workers' Unions. About 2,600 workers are striking.

STRIKE AGAINST WAGE CUTS GETS GREAT IMPETUS

Stirring Meeting Held at Middleboro, Mass.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., Feb. 11—The strike at the Nemasket Worsted Mills which has been bitterly fought for five months without a break in the ranks received new impetus at a mass meeting at Owls' Hall in Middleboro.

The strikers resolved to redouble their efforts on the pick line, to intensify their efforts to interview the scabs at their hotel quarters, and to take immediate steps to widen the field of operations.

Urge United Front.

It was decided to propose a united front arrangement with other mill towns where strikes are on or where wage cuts have been made, and with all textile workers' organizations in New England covering both woolen and cotton mills whether affected or not by the wage cuts.

Robert Minor, present as correspondent of The DAILY WORKER, gave a review of the entire New England textile wage situation, pointing out that the Middleboro strike is not an isolated incident, but that by connecting up with other mill towns the movement could be made a quarter million strong, and could then be made irresistible. The mill owners' talk about meeting competition of southern cotton mills could be answered, said Minor, by extending the labor organization to the southern mills. This could be done only if the textile workers compelled the existing many small unions to amalgamate into a single industrial union and to bring in the unorganized. Talk of foreign competion should be answered with extending the organization internationally, a work which is already being done by the Red International of Labor Unions.

Reid Addresses Meeting.

James P. Reid, a Workers Party leader of Providence and former president of the old National Union of Textile Workers, explained the united front committee arrangement now being pressed by the Workers Party, by which the resistance to the wage reduction drive could be co-ordinated thruout New England, and urged a strengthening of the picket line.

Orville J. Remillard, chairman of the Nemasket Council of the Amalgamated Textile Councils, and many Middleboro strikers, as well as visiting weavers from Plymouth, spoke for holding fast.

Texas Textile Firms Combine and Add to Watered Stock Issue

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 11.—Negotiations have been concluded whereby three of the largest cotton mill properties in Texas are brought under a single management, the C. R. Miller company of Waco and Dallas acquiring by outright purchase the Texas Cotton Mills plant at McKinney, Collim county, and the Dallas Textile Mills company's plant at Love Field in Dallas for an aggregate consideration of $2,500,000.

The Miller directorate has authorized an increase of the capital stock of the corporation from $3,250,000 to $6,000,000.

The McKinney mill has 13,000 spindles and that at Dallas 10,000 spindles. Both manufacture cotton gray goods.

Contractors Oppose Five Day Week for Electrical Workers

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11. — The conference of electrical construction companies representing contractors from different sections of the country, in session at Biloxi, Miss., a few days ago, decided to oppose the inauguration of the five day week. These conferences are held four times a year, the next being scheduled for White Sulphur Springs, Va.

Epidemic Conditions Improving at Nome

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 11.—With epidemic conditions continuing slowly to improve, Nome was further cheered today by word that mushers carrying half a million units of fresh anti-diphtheria serum have passed Ruby on the long trail here from Nenana.

Ed Rohn and a fast-string of bird dogs will leave in the morning and run until he meets the relay team. Other teams will leave later.

The weather is now much warmer and more favorable than when the first consignment of serum was mushed thru.

RED ARMY AND TRADE COMPEL U. S. RECOGNITION

Negotiation Forced by Soviet Armies

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—That no invitation to the world to attend an arms conference will be issued by President Coolidge this year is the latest word from men who are close in his counsels on foreign relations.

It is now believed that the president has become convinced that such a conference will be useless if Russia is left out, and that Russia cannot properly be invited until terms of recognition have been settled. Therefore, the summer of 1925 is to be devoted to clearing the way for negotiations with Moscow.

The first step in this direction will be the building up of public sentiment favorable to the view that America must deal directly with Russia in order to get the best possible settlement of outstanding financial claims.

Big Biz Wants Russian Trade.

During the past week one of the most active spokesmen of big business in New York has been in Washington, talking with politicians and dropping the hint that business is ready to face the Russian problem.

He did not suggest that the U. S. chamber of commerce has reached that conclusion, but said that the big individuals in industry and finance realize that Russia must be helped to buy manufactured goods.

Bill Green Is Silent.

Significant of a possible change in policy at the American Federation of Labor is the silence of President Green on international politics. He has conspicuously failed to ratify the statements made by Vice President Woll, that the A. F. of L. would resist the resumption of diplomatic relations with the Russian republic so long as the Soviets remain.

Painters of New Haven, Conn., Back Labor Defense

The expulsion of the militants in the carpenters' union, the expelling of Dan Stevens, a painter, from the Minneapolis central labor body, the instructing of the painters' and building laborers' delegates to fight for the support of the Michigan defense in the Seattle Central Labor Council, the vote of over 9,000 cast for Morris Rosen, the left wing candidate for president of the carpenters' union, show that the Trade Union Educational League militants, with their fighting program based upon the class struggle, are permeating the ultra reactionary building trades unions.

Now Painters' Union No. 4, of New Haven, Conn., swells the list of building trade unions that have come to the defense of the Michigan cases. We print in part their resolution:

WHEREAS, The solidarity of the entire working class is essential to its welfare and requires that those in the forefront of the struggle must especially have the support of all workers, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we protest against and condemn the action of the Michigan state supreme court, and record ourselves as in support of the Labor Defense Council in this case, and call upon all labor bodies to take the same stand. That we petition the governor of the state of Michigan to pardon the defendant in the event that the United States supreme court sustains the conviction, it being our view that such action on the part of the federal supreme court would be a nullification of the constitution in the interest of capitalists' suppression of the workers.

FIRST OF SUPER-POWER STATIONS OPENS TODAY IN NORTHERN INDIANA

The first of the super-power stations that are expected to make northern Indiana the center of the greatest industrial and electrical center in the middle west—has been completed, and will be opened officially today.

A 132,000 volt electric transmission line will feed 55,000 horse-power of electrical energy thruout the industrial district of Hammond, East Chicago, Indiana Harbor, Gary, and adjoining communities.

The super power development is owned by the Commonwealth Edison company and other generating stations in the greater Chicago industrial district and the transmission line is built on a private 150 foot wide right of way running eastward from the Indiana-Illinois state line thru the southern part of Hammond and Gary to a point north of Hobart, Ind., where it turns into Aetna. It is carried on steel towers the entire distance. The line will be extended from Aetna to Michigan City later.

CAL MAY FAIL TO PUT OVER SUGAR BURGLAR

Report Warren's Name May Be Withdrawn

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Opposition to the apointment of Charles E. Warren of Michigan to the attorney-generalship has grown to such propositions in the senate that there were reports about the capitol today that President Coolidge will be asked to withdraw the nomination—a well nigh unprecedented step in the case of a cabinet officer.

Warren is under fire from three directions, and it was openly predicted his nomination will be rejected if it reached a vote on the senate floor. Virtually all opposition is based on his connection with the sugar interests.

Indicted as Sugar Thief

The charges against Warren are:—

1.—That in 1910, he was indicted as a defendant in the anti-trust suit brought by the government against the American Sugar Refining Co.

2.—That, previously, he had held stock in the Michigan Sugar Co. in his own name "in order to conceal the sugar trust's interests," and permit it to escape prosecution for violating the anti-trust law.

3.—That he was president of the Michigan and Toledo Sugar companies, which were cited Monday by the federal trade commission as engaging in a conspiracy to suppress competition in the beet pulp industry, and

4.—That, as president of these companies, he was "responsible" for the alleged violations of the trust law.

May Start Filibuster

These charges, it was learned, were aired before the senate judiciary committee which has failed to approve the appointment. The same allegations also prompted a special subcommittee to report the nomination "without recommendation."

"Mr. Warren will never be confirmed even if it takes a filibuster to defeat his appointment," said Senator King, democrat of Utah.

The temper of the senate was also influenced by the opposition of the two Michigan senators, Cousens, republican and Ferris, democrat, who joined hands in opposing Warren.

"Mr. Warren is a clever politician," said Senator Ferris. "His conduct on behalf of the sugar trust will make the general public view with alarm his entry to the department of justice. I don't believe he will be confirmed."

BRITAIN'S BILL COLLECTORS TO DUN THE FRENCH

Will Press for Early Debt Payment

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Great Britain intends to brook no delay in French action on Chancellor Winston Churchill's note regarding the French debt.

The foreign office aroused today by adverse French comment on the note, said that England intended to press for an early and definite statement of French intentions.

What France will pay and when it will pay are questions Britain means to keep asking. Nor does the foreign office intend to combine the question of French debts and French security.

Government Inspired

The foreign office also took unkindly to American comment and said that England had no intention, in her note to France, to force America's hand. The attitude of the French press led London newspapers to assert that the Paris criticisms were government inspired. British editorial writers also had some harsh things to say. Lord Beaverbrook's London Express was most bitter, although others were cynically inclined.

"France has 2,000 airplanes while England's program calls for 600," said the Express. "Churchill's proposals provide that British taxpayers shall forego tax reductions in order that France may build up a huge air fleet, outnumbering Great Britain's.

S. Parker Gilbert, agent general of reparations, has completed his plan with the British for collection of the 26 per cent duty on German exports. Its operation will make the levy simpler and easier for German shippers.

The amount of the levy is increasing rapidly and may supply Great Britain's share of the proceeds due her for the year under the Dawes plan.

FINDS OUT POOR PAY PRODUCES POOR WORK, BUT RELENTS LITTLE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 11.—Two and a half per cent of a recent 12½ per cent cut is restored by the B. B. & R. Knight company for 2,500 workers in the mills which are running.

The company found that work was done carelessly at the extremely low rate paid, it was said.

"Nicky" Longworth Will Be Speaker in Congress Lower House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. — Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio seemed assured today of election as speaker of the house for the 69th congress.

The success of Longworth over Congressman Martin B. Madden of Illinois was indicated by an announcement that at least 25 of the 36 republican congressmen from Pennsylvania will support Longworth.

The Pennsylvania delegation is the largest republican delegation in the house. Its endorsement in the speakership contest has been eagerly sought by the Longworth and Madden campaign managers.

Franco-British Negotiations Held In Shroud of Secrecy

ing the British government much worry. The dominions went up in the air over it because of the Japanese question, but France is satisfied with it. The British would have the French ditch the protocol, but the latter are using it as bargaining point against Britain.

Herriot demanded a security pact such as Woodrow Wilson proposed in 1919, but the tories would not agree to this and suggested a proposal for a joint pact with Germany. It was learned, however, that Germany wanted something in return for her signature and this happened to be something Poland has now. Naturally France balked. Neither side has much hope that the negotiations will be fruitful of peace.

Appeal for Aid Against Plague

POSTAL WORKERS, NOT WILLING TO STRIKE, BEG VAINLY FOR WAGE RAISE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—What will be done about those post-office wages is still an open question. The representatives of the Postal Workers' Unions pace their weary round of the capitol, day after day, week after week, trying to make sure that the house will give them legislation in time for action on it by the senate.

They know the republican organization has never favored their bill, and that even now, cheated of the promised increase for the last half of 1924, they may again be defrauded of the benefits of the raise until next July, or may even be definitely beaten.

CAL'S ELECTION FINALLY GETS OFFICIAL 'O. K.'

"Punch and Judy" Show Election Is Settled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Today might have been one of the most tempestuous days in the history of the republic—but it wasn't.

Instead of a stalemate in the electoral college, with congress running around in circles trying to elect a president—so freely speculated on and predicted a few months ago—the senate and house met in joint session this afternoon and went thru the constitutional formality of declaring Calvin Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes to have been elected president and vice-president, respectively of these United States.

This time honored, legal and quite necessary ceremony was held in the hall of the house of representatives and consisted primarily of a formal count of the votes of the electoral college. It used to be a most important ceremony, but in these radio days it passed almost unnoticed, even in official Washington.

The senate and house each appointed tellers; according to the constitutional practice. Senators Spencer, republican of Missouri, and King, democrat, of Utah, acted for the upper chamber, and Representatives White, republican, of Kansas, and Jeffers, democrat, Alabama, for the house. Senator Cummins of Iowa, president pro-tem of the senate, presided.

The Burlesque Starts

The roll was called by states:

"Alabama," boomed the teller.

Veterans of Madison Square Garden involuntarily shut their eyes and intoned:

"Al-l-a-bam-m-a, casts twenty four votes for Un-der-woo-d."

But instead there was the report that Alabama cast her twelve electoral votes for John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan.

A rebel yell from the democratic side of the chamber greeted this, and the roll call proceeded, followed by the formal announcement that Coolidge and Dawes had polled 382 votes in the electoral college; John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, 36; and Robert M. LaFollette and Burton K. Wheeler, 13.

Each state followed the announcement of its vote with applause. The galleries were crowded with spectators for the quadrennial ceremony.

"Cal" Kept In the Dark

The whole ceremony occupied less than an hour. When it ended, the senate retired, and both houses went prosaically about their business.

President Coolidge was not even aware of it until informed by his secretary.

ENGDAHL, COMMUNIST CANDIDATE IN WARD 35, WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The DAILY WORKER, and Workers (Communist) Party candidate for alderman in the 35th ward, will be the principal speaker at a campaign rally to be held tonight at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Boulevard.

The aldermanic election campaign is now in full swing. The capitalist political grafters are fighting like Kilkenny cats for the spoils of office. The traction and power trusts are spending loads of money on their favorite errand boys in the city council. One group of capitalists favor the republican errand boys; another group favors the democrats. They all hate the Communists.

-Workers of Ward 35! If you want to know in whose interests this city is run come tonight to the meeting and hear the Communist candidate Engdahl, the candidate of the workers.

Workers Must Shatter Fascism's Ambition to Build an International

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the grand council of fascism meets in Rome, its capital city, and takes up the question of forming a Black (fascist) International. The item on the agenda of Mussolini's anti-labor war council plainly states this latest ambition of fascism as follows:

> "Paragraph Four.—Preliminary examination of the possibility of a universal understanding between the fascist and similar organizations."

• • • •

Just as Mussolini makes war on the Italian Communist Party thru his Italian fascisti party, so he now hopes to build a weapon in his fascist international to struggle against the growing and threatening power of the Communist International.

The semi-official fascist paper, Epoca, proclaims that, "The growth of movements similar to fascism in foreign countries shows the interest and appreciation with which the fascist movement is followed by at least a part of the people abroad."

American workers have already had a taste of Mussolini's fascism thru the fascist organizations built up in this country among Italian middle class and semi-working class elements. They have been successfully fought, just as the white guard organizations of Hungarians and emigre Russian counter-revolutionists in this country have been triumphantly combatted. These efforts could gain no foothold here, where the masses of foreign-born workers are in sympathy with Soviet Russia.

But this new effort of Mussolini, that will find supporters in every land where there is growing unrest in the ranks of labor, is more threatening to working class interests. It was no accident that Mussolini was invited to the San Francisco convention of American Legion, along with the late Sam Gompers, following the latter's attack on the Communists at the Portland convention of the American Federation of Labor. The idol of these American fascisti, "Hell an' Maria" Dawes, steps into the vice-presidential chair in the United States senate next month. Elbert H. Gary, head of the steel trust, has not retreated from his position, also held by Julius Barnes, late president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that this country needs a Mussolini.

The anti-Communist campaign planned by the fascist war council in Rome today will find many co-workers and sympathizers in this country.

To be sure Mussolini has always opposed international political organization. But his attack has been only against the revolutionary organization of the workers—the Communist International. He rails at the Communist world organization, just as American capitalists, thru their kept press, carry on their ceaseless attack on "Moscow," the one word that embodies their growing fear of the workers' world revolution.

• • • •

But capitalism, and its ally fascism, believe in world alliances of their own. Capitalist diplomats built the league of nations—the first Black International—following the war. But it is as aenemic as capitalist parliamentarism in the hour of crisis. The league of nations, as an international parliament, is a good debating society. The ambition of Italy's grand council of fascism is to supersede the parliamentarism of the league of nations with the dictatorship of international fascism. Mussolini is as ambitious as the Caesars of two thousand years ago and would no doubt like to lead in this world effort against the rise of Soviet Power. But he is only initiating the anti-labor world dictatorship the real building of which will be taken up by the greater capitalist nations. It was France that first organized the attack on Soviet Russia. Now England is developing this role. It will ultimately fall, not to Italian fascism, but to American fascism, to organize and carry into action capitalist imperialism's last stand against the Russian Soviet Republic and its growing victories. That is why the meeting of fascism's grand war council in Rome today should be of intense interest to every worker and poor farmer in the United States. It is just a prophecy of the fascist power that will try to keep the remaining five-sixths of the world's land surface from enlisting against it under the standards of Communism.

Postpone Action on Teachers' Councils

The recommendation of Superintendent of School William McAndrew for a new form of teachers' council was referred to the administration committee by the board of education yesterday afternoon.

McAndrew proposed to replace the regular teachers' councils, composed of teachers meeting regularly in their schools, with a council of sixteen members comprising the superintendent, and principal as well as teachers' representatives.

A vote on the "company union" councils of McAndrew was postponed by action of the board of education in referring the matter to the administration committee.

McAndrew has continually practiced the policy of attempting to prevent the teachers from having a voice in the running of Chicago's schools.

The administration committee recommended at yesterday's meeting that the penny lunches given the school children in the poorer districts of the city be continued. McAndrew had recommended to the board of education that these lunches be abolished, and that a five-cent lunch be given the children instead.

The working class parents had made a great protest against McAndrew's recommendation, and it is thought that this protest induced the administration committee to veto McAndrew's proposal.

The board of education voted one and one-half million dollars to be used for three new public school buildings.

MORGAN SITS IN "BILL" THE KAISER'S CHAIR

Who Owns Europe? That's the Big Question

Prior to 1914 and up until the armistice there was some justification for the conclusion that Europe was owned and controlled by the kaiser of Germany, his cousin Francis Josef of Austria and of a dozen and a half small nations, that are now free and independent—of the Hapsburgs but not of England and France—the king of England, and the kings and queens of the other countries big and little that go to make up that continent.

Those who read between the lines knew that more powerful than the kings and emperors were the capitalists and the great landowners who owned the land and capital, which went to enrich the master class and enslave the workers for a mere pittance. The kings and queens occupied the show windows but the capitalists had the big say.

There are millions of workers in the United States who still believe that Europe is entirely owned by the capitalists of Europe. (Some of them are crazy enough to think the workers own Europe). Unfortunately all those people cannot come to the Workers Party Open Forum next Sunday to hear Max Bedacht, tell how the house of Morgan got a strangle hold on Europe thru the Dawes plan. Some day, a reader of these lines may find a suit of khaki on his back and a rifle on his shoulder, and he may then know that he is a soldier of the House of Morgan, and that he is ready to kill somebody else so that the provisions of the Dawes plan may be carried out by the enslaved working class of Europe. Of course it is quite possible that he may be fighting in a different kind of a battle, but... we will let Comrade Bedacht, tell you all about that.

Surely you would like to know about the "ins and outs" of this famous plan—the plan that helped to send Cal and "Hell An' Maria" to the White House. You would like to know the why, what and wherefore of it so that you can speak intelligently about it to your fellow workers.

If so come to the Open Forum next Sunday. Comrade Bedacht is one of the best speakers in the Workers Party, a member of the Central Executive Committee and a delegate from the party to more than one congress of the Communist International. He knows all about Germany past and present. And after he gets thru, you can ask him questions.

T. J. O'Flaherty, member of the DAILY WORKER staff is taking the place of Harrison George as chairman of the Open Forum. Comrade George was obliged to resign owing to pressure of other duties.

The open forum is held in Ashland Auditorium, "Lodge Room" corner of Ashland and Van Buren St.

SECTION OF THE TRADE UNION EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW ISSUE OF AMALGAMATION BULLETIN OUT

The eighth number of the Metal Trades Amalgamation Bulletin, published by the international committee for amalgamation in the metal trades industry if off the press. It is an interesting issue, containing several good articles, on national and international phases of the struggle between the lefts and the rights in the trade union movement.

Of particular interest is an article on the Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers, by Old Timer. The story is told briefly and effectively in a style that holds the attention of the reader and gives an excellent picture of the corruption that has eaten out the heart of that once powerful organization. A membership of 85,000 in 1918 has today dwindled down to 5,000. The radicals alone can put this organization on its feet again, and industrial unionism thru amalgamation is the slogan of the militants.

Comrade A. Overgaard tells of the fight in the Machinists' Union against the faker Johnston and the alleged progressives led by Anderson. Several locals have endorsed the left wing slate but owing to the feeling among many of the untrained sympathizers that the left would not win, they voted for the Anderson slate. It looks like Johnson is gonna reign no more in the I. A. M.

Uninvited Guests

John Otis has an article on the last convention of the metal trades department of the A. F. of L. at the El Paso convention while Charles Schwartz discusses the Waltham watch factory strike.

The story of the uninvited participation of the Russian metal workers in the International Metal Workers Congress which met in Vienna is interesting and instructive. There are several other excellent articles and news items of interest not alone to metal workers but to workers in every trade.

Copies of this bulletin can be secured at the office of publication, 166 West Washington Street, Room 303. Subscription price is 50 cents per year. Single copies three cents. In bundles of ten or more 2 cents per copy. Every militant in the metal trades should order a bundle and distribute it among his fellow workers. It is a regular eyeopener.

Oakland United Front Demands Unemployed Get Work or Support

OAKLAND.—Under the auspices of various unions the Alameda County Unemployed Council continues its work. A mass meeting was held at Native Sons hall, with Joe Irthum, president of the Building Trades Council, and W. S. Goodrich as the speakers. There were three or four hundred people in attendance.

The following resolution was passed:

WHEREAS, There are thousands of workers and their families in Alameda County suffering from unemployment and Whereas, the existence of these workers depends entirely upon their ability to secure a daily wage and Whereas, We are mindful of the destructive influenced caused upon the mental, moral and physical character of men and women suffering from poor housing, insufficient clothing and lack of nourishment, and

WHEREAS, A social order which so benevolently protects the welfare of animals, as during the hoof and mouth disease, the state made a large grant to meet the emergency in case of cattle and other animals should be impressed with its duty to suffering humanity.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED by this mass meeting of unemployed workers held in Native Sons Hall, Oakland, Calif., Feb. 1, 1925, that we petition the civil authorities to either give us full maintainence, or work at union wages.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to the officers and to the press, state, county and city officials.

Unemployment Bad in Nova Scotia

Unemployment in Canada is increasing at a rapid pace, unemployment councils are being organized in every province. The T. U. E. L. militants are demanding work for all jobless at union wages, failing this they demand that the government support the unemployed and their families. In the eastern provinces the situation is acute.

In Sidney, Nova Scotia, alone there are 2,000 unemployed workers. Two soup kitchens have been set up but these are utterly inadequate to handle the situation. Besides, the workers resent the idea of soup kitchens. They are willing to work and if that cannot be given to them, then they demand full union wages in the shape of government unemployment insurance.

350,000 FACE SEMI-STARVATION FROM TEXTILE WAGE CUTS, WHOLE REGION WAITS GENERAL STRIKE

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—The colossal extent of the catastrophe that will result to the working class of New England if the wage cutting movement is not resisted and defeated, is only now beginning to be realized in the mill towns since the formation of united front committees and the calling of mass meetings, initiated by the T. U. E. L. and the Workers (Communist) Party, has brought out a general discussion and comparison of facts.

For instance, the facts, that something like 350,000 workers in New England are about to be plunged with their families into a condition of semi-starvation at an average wage which somg estimate as low as $16.20 per week, while each worker is speeded up to an unheard-of pace, practically doubling the output of each worker in some instances, while the 48-hour agreement of the past is ignored and forgotten and a movement gains headway to reduce the child labor age limit to fourteen years, each fact was known in a hazy way to some isolated person or community, but the total sickening significance awaited a general movement of the workers for expression.

Cut Much More Than Ten Per Cent.

The full extent of the wage cuts already put into effect is difficult to estimate. In many instances the so-called "ten per cent" cuts, prove (in the pay envelope) to be 12½, 15, 18 or even 22 per cent cuts. Apparently the employers are aiming at about a thirty-five per cent eventual reduction, incredible as that may seem. In how many cities and towns the present "ten per cent" cut has been already been applied, it is not possible to judge with complete certainty, but after four days' search I am able to give a tentative list of some forty towns and seventy-five mills where to the best of present knowledge the recent cuts have taken effect.

Strike Action Immediately Possible.

As to how far the strike movement has spread, I now think the estimate of 5,000 is too low. And certainly these figures do not have much bearing upon immediate future possibilities of strike action. The workers in each textile mill have been doped with ignorance of what was going on in the others, and with propaganda of pettifogging explanations of their individual superintendents as to the particular reasons why their particular mill could not afford to do otherwise than steal the bread out of their mouths.

Now, that, thru the united front call of the Communists, thousands of workers are beginning to look at the situation as a whole, it is entirely conceivable that one of the most tremendous strike upheavals may come about. All of the elements of the traditional heroism of the textile workers are still here. There is almost no organization, but there are the makings of a tremendous industrial union in the very fight itself.

The list of towns and names of mills are as follows:

Wage Cuts in Massachusetts.

Andover—Smith & Dove Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Bondsville—Boston Duck Co., 10 per cent cut Dec. 1.

Chicopee—Johnson & Johnson, surgical goods, cut 10 per cent.

Fall River—Barnard Mfg. Co.'s mill, cut 10 per cent Jan. 12, weavers on strike.

Davis Mills, cut 10 per cent Jan. 12, strike on.

Davol Mills, cut 10 per cent Jan. 12, strike on.

Granite Mills, cut 10 per cent Jan. 12, strike on.

Kerr Mills of American Thread Co., cut 10 per cent Jan. 12, strike on.

Lincoln Mfg. Co.'s mill, cut 10 per cent Jan. 12.

Parker Mills, cut 10 per cent Jan. 12.

Probably many other other Fall River mills have cut, and the entire 40,000 textile workers of Fall River are, or will be, involved.

Holyoke—Merrick-Hadley Mills, American Thread Co., cut 10 per cent Jan. 12.

Indian Orchard—Indian Orchard Co.'s mill cut 10 per cent Jan. 12.

Lawrence—Acadia Mills, cut 10 per cent, late in January.

Everett Mills, cut 10 per cent in December.

Lawrence Duck Mills, cut 10 per cent in January.

Pacific Mills (cotton), cut 10 per cent Jan. 26, now experimenting with 72-loom system, probably meaning further 50 per cent cut in weavers' piece work scale, requiring doubled production.

Methuen—Methuen Co.'s Mill, cut 10 per cent about Jan. 1.

Middleboro—Nemasket Worsted Mills (wool), wages not cut outright, but speed-up system causes strike now on.

Millbury—Cordis Mills controlled by Thorndike Co., cut 11 per cent.

New Bedford—Here the New Bedford Cotton Mfgrs. Ass'n. on Jan. 9, voted to reduce wages in all cotton mills 10 per cent, to take effect Jan. 19. There are 41,000 textile workers in New Bedford, and the cut directly and immediately affects about 32,000. Presumably all cotton mills have made the cut—too many mills to list—but the principal cotton mills are:

Aushnet Mill Corporation, cut 10 per cent.

Beacon Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Booth Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Bristol Mfg. Corporation, cut 10 per cent.

Butler Mill, cut 10 per cent. (This is property of William M. Butler, Coolidge's master and political financier.)

Dartmouth Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Fairhaven Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Gosnold Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Grinnell Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Hathaway Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Holmes Mfg. Co., Cut 10 per cent.

Kilburn Mill, cut 10 per cent. (Wm. M. Wood, head of Woolen trust, is president of this cotton mill.)

Monomet Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Nashawena Mills, cut 10 per cent.

New Bedford Cotton Mills Corporation, cut 10 per cent. (This is another property of Coolidge's boss, Wm. M. Butler).

Nonquitt Spinning Co., cut 10 per cent.

Page Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Potomska Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Quissett Mill, cut 10 per cent.

Sharp Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Soule Mill, cut 10 per cent.

Taber Mill, cut 10 per cent.

Wamsutta Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Whitman Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Northbridge—Paul Whitin Co., Rockdale Mill, cut 10 per cent Jan. 19.

Saundersville — Saunders Cotton Mills, cut 12½ per cent abut Jan. 1.

Thorndike—Thorndike Mills, cut 11 per cent in October, strike against cut, old scale restored, strike called off, then cut 10 per cent Dec. 1.

Three Rivers — Palmer Mill (Otis Co.) cut 10 per cent Dec. 1.

Ware—Otis Company Mill, cloth yarn and shop depts., cut 10 per cent Dec. 1.

Webster—North Village Mills, cut 12½ per cent in September, old scale restored.

West Warren—Warren Cotton Mills (Thorndike Co.), cut 10 per cent Dec. 1, strike. (Company claims "all returned to work on Dec. 26.")

Wage Cuts in Rhode Island.

Apponaug — the Apponaug Co.'s mills, cut 10 per cent.

Central Falls — Pawtucket Hosiery Co., cut 10 per cent Jan. 19, strike now on.

East Warren—Parker Mill, cut 10 per cent.

Esmond—Esmond Mills, cut ranging from 10 per cent to 25 per cent Jan. 26, 600 on strike.

Georgiaville—Bernon Mills, Manville-Jenckes Co., cut 10 per cent.

Hillsgrove—Elizabeth Mills, cut 10 per cent, strike followed by lockout.

Manville—the Manville Mill of Manville-Jenckes, cut 10 per cent.

Natick—B. B. & R. Knight Co.'s Natick Mills, weavers' piece-work scale cut 50 per cent, with speeding up system requiring doubled production with automatic bobbin-changing magazine loom, each weaver required to work twice as many looms as formerly, half of weavers discharged. Strike of all weavers and some spinners, about 1,000 in all.

Pawtucket—Greenhalgh Mills, cut 10 per cent Jan 12, strike now on.

Manville-Jenckes Co., cut 10 per cent recently.

Pawtucket Hosiery Co., cut 10 per cent Jan. 19, strike now on.

Providence—B. B. & R. Knight Co.'s Carpenter street mills, weavers' piece-work scale cut 50 per cent about Jan. 1, new magazine (automatic bobbin-changing) loom introduced, requiring weavers to work 32 looms instead of 16. Many weavers quit work.

Warren—Warren Mfg. Co., cut 10 per cent.

Westerly—American Thread Co.'s William Clark Mills, cut 10 per cent Jan 12.

Wage Cuts in Connecticut.

Danielson—Quinebaug Co., cut 10 per cent reported.

Goodyear—Goodyear Cotton Mills, cut 10 per cent.

Plainfield—Lawton Mills cut wages about Jan. 1.

Taftville—Ponemah Mills cut 10 per cent to 12 per cent Jan. 12.

Wauregan—Wauregan Co., cut 10 per cent.

Willimantic—American Thread Co., cut 10 per cent Jan. 12.

Wage Cuts in New Hampshire.

Manchester — Amoskeag Mfg. Co. cotton mills cut wages of 14,000 workers 10 per cent.

PITTSBURGH C. L. U. FLAYS EDITOR OF 'FREE PRESS'

Jerry McMunn Puts Fake Editor on Pan

Editor of the fake "labor" sheet, the Labor Free Press is warned to change the policy of the sheet, otherwise he will lose the endorsement of the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, which means the death of the sheet.

This paper for the past year has been a meal ticket for Arthur Ireland, a former executive board member of the Machinists, on the strength of the Pittsburgh C. L. U. endorsement.

He goes around to the unions on the out-skirts of Pittsburgh, getting the endorsement of locals and central bodies, then solicits advertisements from the local merchants, but advertising scab made goods and department stores, but the labor movement is getting wise to his game.

Editor Shielded Spies

First, his own local union cancelled its endorsement during the last election campaign and instructed him not to send the paper to its members. Then at a meeting of the Pittsburgh C. L. U. he was asked to explain what he meant by an editorial "Character Assassins" published during the time that the labor spy Beattie was being tried.

Having only the signature of the stool pigeon Beattie to an endorsement, Ireland came before the last meeting of the Central Labor Union, asking the signature to this endorsement of the present secretary.

Gloried Over White Terror

In the discussion, Ireland and his sheet came in for some history of its activities. It was first pointed out by a delegate of the Molders' that during and after the trial of Beattie, the Free Press did not even mention anything of the exposure of a crook in the labor movement, and later when another spy was discovered in the executive board of the street car men's organization, not one word was printed by Ireland, while one of its recent issues glories over the fact that a worker was sent to prison in Michigan because he is a member of the Workers Party.

Other delegates made it plain that they were in favor of labor papers but were not in favor of giving an endorsement to an individual for a meal ticket. They condemned him not printing news that the workers are interested in, and showed that exposures of crooks would be scoops for real labor papers, but that Ireland, in place of giving publicity, was shielding the spies and concealing the facts.

The only statement forthcoming from editor was that the only reason he is being attacked is because he "opposing the reds" and the Soviet government.

Jerry McMunn Says Something

To this, Jerry McMunn, the molder, plainly told him that he was no longer affraid of the Soviet povernment, that by the recent reports it was able to take care of itself, and furthermore, that after the recognition by England, France, Germany and other countries, Coolidge will change his policy when Hughes leaves the state department and that the old czar's debts will not be paid either.

He warned that he is not now asking the withdrawel of the endorsement, but that if the editor keeps up the present policy, that he, Jerry McMunn, will come to the C. L. U. and ask to have the endorsement cancelled.

The Free Press came into existence out of the 44-hour strike of the printing trades here in Pittsburgh, but could not keep up without advertising, and finally fell into the hands of the present editor.

Reactionary Tricks of Union Officials Told by a Workman

I have been at the woodworking trade for four years. About a year and a half ago I started to work on the outside as a carpenter. Being only 20 years old, I went to the Carpenters' Union and asked them for an apprenticeship card. The business agent put me off for nearly a year, refusing to accept any payments from me

Finally, after persistent efforts, the business agent agreed to take me in as a journeyman because I was now over 20 years of age. He accepted $30 from me, as part payment on a $50 initiation fee.

However, they used numerous excuses for not initiating me into the union, and I found it increasingly difficult to get work on a union building. I kept asking him what he intended to do, and was finally told to get a job on a scab building. This, of course, I refused to do.

Finally one of the machine's men let the cat out of the bag, by telling me that the reason they would not admit me into the union was because I was a Communist. I feel sure, now, that they advised me to work on a scab building so that they might use it against our party, as they knew that I was secretary of the city central committee, Local Passaic, N. J.

Knit Goods Leaders at Bosses' Petting Parties in New York

The knit goods workers in the Halperin mills of Brooklyn are still on strike. It was expected that the knit goods workers of New York City would join them but that strike has been postponed. In spite of the sell out of some textile workers and the Walton watch strikers thru federal conciliation, and the Ladies' Garment Workers by Governor Al Smith's commission, the leaders of both these organizations are willing to turn the knit goods workers over to the tender mercies of a conference of employers and union representatives called by the department of "labor."

The knit goods workers of New York should compel their labor leaders to do some leading in the struggle instead of having continuous petting parties with the boss. The department of labor is one of the many instruments used by the capitalist class to fool the workers into giving up one of their best weapons, the strike weapon. The way to be able to talk turkey to the boss is to build a powerful industrial union, stop the wheels of industry and tell him to come across.

Help Organize the New York Tailors

The organizing committee of New York Local No. 1, Journeymen Tailors, will hold a mass meeting next Monday evening, to which all custom tailors, organized and unorganized, are invited, to take part in a free discussion of the program to guide the tailors in the coming spring season.

The meeting will be held at Bohemian Hall, 231 East 73rd street, New York City, and the discussion will be led by fine speakers in English and Italian. Don't forget the night, Monday, Feb. 16, at 8 o'clock.

Amalgamated Food Workers Win Pa. Union

The Fruit Workers' and Grocery Clerks' Union of Philadelphia, at its last regular meeting Sunday, Jan. 25 unanimously decided to affiliate with the Amalgamated Food Workers' Union.

August Burkhardt, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. W., was present at their meeting and outlined the aims the construction and the constitution of the Amalgamated Food Workers.

The Fruit Workers' Union was organised three months ago with 31 members and have increased the membership to over one hundred during this period. The extreme unsanitary conditions, the hours ranging from 60 to 80 per week and the starvation wages prevailing in this industry have created a splendid field for the organization of a militant, industrial union.

The membership is composed almost entirely of fine young men who feel the intolerable conditions keenly. The union meets every Sunday at 2 p. m. at 329 Pine St. This being the only day these men have off.

A banquet, concert and a dance has been arranged by the union for Sunday, Feb. 22, at the Mercantile Hall 847 N. Franklin St. All members and workers in the fruit and grocery trade are invited. For further information communicate with the secretary, L. Stipelman, 331 Green St. Philadelphia, Pa.

A Letter Comes from Philadelphia

Dear Sir and Brothers:—I have been following the reports in the DAILY WORKER and the Progressive Building Trades Worker of the expulsion of members from our Brotherhood by our General President, without trial, hearing of any kind or by a vote of the membership. My opinion was that you were exaggerating the situation. Now I know that you have been giving us the straight goods.

At the last meeting of my local union No. 8, carpenters, we were notified by the G. E. B. that F. W. Burgess was expelled. Just imagine this flagrant violation of the constitution, which states in effect, that all members are guaranteed a trial by a trial committee selected by the local and that it takes a twothird vote of the members present to convict. This complete abandoning of the constitution by the G. E. B. simply means that no member, who dares to critize Wm. L. Hutcheson or the administration, is safe from expulsion.

The members of Local 8 have the fullest confidence in Burgess and will fight for his reinstatement. The membership of our Brotherhood must condemn this demoralizing policy adopted by Hutcheson and demand the immediate reinstatement of all those expelled without a trial, and demand of Hutcheson and the G. E. B. that they abide by the constitution. Please let me know just who has been expelled without trial as guaranteed by Section 55 of the constitution.

Fraternally, ————.

Editor's note. The name of the writer of this letter has been withheld for obvious reasons. The name of those expelled without trial are printed in another part of this page.

Great Falls, Mont., Has Its Fakers But They Have Bad Luck

The tactics of Gompersism have been practiced here by the leading labor fakers, who are misrepresenting those who provide them with a pie-card. This was particularly shown during the November election, when the progressives held a convention composed of the labor and a farmer elements, and formed a farmer-labor party, and nominated candidates in regular form, etc.

These men and women were all progressives of the rank and file. However, they did not suit the labor fakers. They, perhaps, were too much on the working class order. At any rate, the farmer-labor ticket was endorsed by the labor assembly over the protest of the fakers who were aiming to fall into soft berths in the capitalist camps.

They even went so far as to try to steal control of the local paper, "The Town Topics," which is published by the Trades and Labor Assembly, and with it they intended to boost the capitalist candidates for their own interests.

However, they were out of luck. The progressives were on their guard. One of the labor fakers made the threat that if he could not control the labor assembly he would wreck it, and there is no question about his trying to make good his threat.

As the new representatives of the various unions were coming into the assembly the first of the year, the ring leader of the fakers, thinking he had enough victims innoculated with his bunk, proceeded to announce that the "Town Topics" would be put out of business on Jan. 9. But contrary to his wish and much to his surprise, the assembly voted to continue the publication as the official organ of the labor unions.

Fakers Get A Swift Kick.

On electing the new officers of the assembly, the best secretary the Anaconda Mining company ever had in the Mill and Smeltermen's Union, was defeated for president, the office going to J. K. McDonald, also of the same union, but a progressive. The rest of the officers elected were also progressives.

These labor fakers who are trying to disrupt the labor movement here are the same gang that organized the famous "Black Magic Oil Co." in which they sold the stock to workers and swindled them out of their hard-earned cash, which most of them needed for the support of their families.

It is no wonder that one of these arch-traitors made the remark that he never would do another day's work in his life. Can anyone like this represent a body of intelligent workers very long? It is time the rank and file of the unions demanded some real service from these leaders or remove them from offices which they misrepresent.

Wake up, brothers! It is housecleaning time!

GIVE US NEWS FOR A DAILY SECTION OF T. U. E. L. ACTIVITIES!

This section will be published as often as there is material to fill a page. The regular day for the T. U. E. L. section is every Tuesday, and that will appear regularly, but no live news will be held over. Our objective is to have a daily T. U. E. L. section. To accomplish this, it will be necessary to set up a volunteer corps of regular correspondents who will supply this section with live news on the everyday struggle of the workers.

This does not mean that every voluntary correspondent will send in news every day or week, but that we can depend upon them to send us reports on live questions as they happen. As to whether they are live or good reports let us be the judge. Never mind whether your grammar is good or bad, or whether your vocabulary is long or short, or whether you ever wrote an article before or not.

Send us in the news of strikes, wage reductions, union elections, shop conditions, shop activities, unemployment, in short, send us in a report of every movement of the workers on the industrial and political field, no matter how insignificant it may seem to you, and all the left wing activities in these struggles. Address all material to the T. U. E. L., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Brennan-Cappellini Cannot Fool Miners

By A RANK AND FILER.

WILKES BARRE, Pa.—William J. Brennan, ex-president of District No. 1, United Mine Workers of America and at present an international organizer in the same territory, made it officially known that he will be a candidate for president of District No. 1 of the United Mine Workers of America despite the efforts of John L. Lewis to have him removed to the Pittsburgh District.

It will be recalled that at the last elections Brennan was beaten by Rinaldo Cappellini, who was running for office on a "progressive" platform and who is now justly being denounced by the rank and file as a renegade and a traitor. It was Cappellini who in the recent anthracite strike, helped to "outlaw" the twelve thousand miners by revoking the charters of ten local unions.

The official Lewis machine was more than satisfied with this action of Cappellini and decided to reward him for the "services rendered." Brennan, who is considered one of the strongest opponents of Cappellini, was ordered to leave the anthracite field and to take charge of the Pittsburgh District. This Brennan refused to do. He was then told that he will have to resign as international organizer. This he also refused to do issuing a challenge to Lewis to remove him from his present position if his actions are not liked.

It is yet to be seen as to what action the International machine will take against Brennan. Meanwhile his followers are quite busy in their preparations for the coming elections.

Brennan Another Reactionary

The rank and file must not be misled this time as they were in the last elections when they helped to put Cappellini into office. Brennan is just as reactionary as is Cappellini. The recent strike of the 12,000 men of the Pennsylvania Coal Company was led by followers of Brennan. The strike failed mainly because of lack of militant leadership and because of the policy of class collaboration followed by the old time reactionaries and fake progressives

The strike of the twelve thousand men did not gain anything for the miners despite the splendid spirit shown during that strike by the rank and file. New and more bitter struggles are imminent and the miners must be prepared to be able to meet the organized forces of the operators.

A Real Militant Candidate

The more militant and class conscious members of the Miners' Union in District No. 1 are planning to put up a candidate of their own for the office of president. Every miner in District One must line up behind this movement of the rank and file and show that they will no longer allow themselves to be lead by the nose by the old time reactionary politicians and renegades of the type of Brennan or Cappellini.

IGHT AGAINST DEPORTATION OF SCHEDEL NOW ON

Case Before 'D. of J.' and Department of Labor

Petitions from all over the land have been pouring in to the department of justice, asking that the criminal case against John C. Schedel, who was deported during the height of the red raids, and who later came back, be dropped.

Petitions have been sent in from one coast to the other, containing among them names well known to all in this country.

Men from all walks of life have appealed to the government of the United States to forego prosecution of John C. Schedel on account of re-entering the United States after deportation, and to set aside the original order of deportation against Schedel so that he may remain in this country with his American-born wife and four American-born children.

Petitions Carry Many Names

Among the individuals who have signed petitions or have written letters to the department of labor and department of justice are such well known authors as Robert Herrick, Sherwod Anderson, Upton Sinclair, and David Starr Jordan, Dean James Parker Hall, Professor Ernest Freund and practically the whole faculty of the University of Chicago law school. One of the recent petitions sent in contains the names of many teachers and students in Clark University. There are H. P. Little, Dean of College, Clark University, Chancellor Capen of University of Buffalo, Charles B. Randolph of Clark University and other many prominent individuals of Worchester, Buffalo, etc.

Publications Take Stand

Among the publications which have also expressed themselves definitely in this case and pointed out the injustice which would be done to Schedel and his family were he deported, are the New Republic and the Christian Work.

Thru the Labor Defense Council and the American Civil Liberties Union, thousands of signatures on petitions have been forwarded on behalf of this defendant. In addition many unions and working-class organizations passed resolutions calling for the dismissal of charges against Schedel.

In the following words to the department of labor, Attorney I. E. Ferguson has completed the presentation of the case before the departments which can effect the complete freeing of Schedel from all charges:

"In view of the fact that if Schedel were convicted and imprisoned on charge stated, his deportation would automatically follow such imprisonment, we have proceeded first by applying, to the department of justice for dismissal of the criminal proceeding. It is my understanding that the department of justice has now submitted for your consideration the petition on behalf of the alien for dismissal of the criminal complaint."

Trotsky, in his book, "1905" (pp. 4-5) writes as follows:

"In the period between January 9, and the strike in October, 1905, I formed those views of the character of the revolutionary development in Russia which have received the designation of 'permanent revolution' . . . Despite the interval of twelve years, this estimate has been fully confirmed." (This was written in the year 1922! L. K.)

But during the whole of these years this theory was opposed by another theory, Lenin's theory, expressed in the formula: "Revolutionary, democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry."

"This idea," so wrote Comrade Trotsky in 1918, and wrote it again in 1922 without the slightest reservation, "this idea has been repeated unwearingly by Lenin since 1904. But that does not make it correct."

In this book ("1905"), Trotsky describes Lenin's fundamental idea as an empty abstraction, and writes that the Bolsheviki "arrive at the idea of a bourgeois-democratic self-limitation of the proletariat possessing state power."

He continues: "Whilst the anti-revolutionary features of menshevism are already visible to their full extent, the anti-revolutionary features of Bolshevism (I underline these words on account of their importance. L. K.) threaten to appear as mighty danger only in case of a revolutionary victory."

Comrade Trotsky, who caused this phrase on the dangers of the anti-revolutionary features of Bolshevism to be republished and confirmed in the year 1922, adds the following:

"As is already well known, this did not happen, for Bolshevism, under Comrade Lenin's leadership, changed its ideological equipment in this most important question in the spring of 1917, that, before the conquest of power." (Trotsky, "1905," Russian edition, p. 285.)

Trotsky's idea is now clear. The standpoint held by Lenin and by the Bolshevist Party on the character of the revolution, as developed between 1904 and the spring of 1917, had not only been wrong, but even counter-revolutionary with respect to the socialist revolution. Lenin and the Bolsheviki were thus obliged to "change their equipment" in the spring of 1917, before the conquest of power, for the purpose of accomplishing the conquest of power. That is, they found themselves obliged to substitute the counter-revolutionary equipment of Bolshevism by the really revolutionary equipment which Trotsky had kept ready on hand for twelve years. It is Trotsky's conviction that Lenin came over to Trotsky after first building up the party for fifteen years on "anti-revolutionary" ideas."

Trotsky has proved to be in the right during the whole course of his intellectual conflicts with Bolshevism and with Lenin up to the year 1917—that is the import of all Trotsky's latest books ("1905" and "1917.")

But if this is so, then we must state it openly. If Bolshevism contains anti-revolutionary features, if we have to change our equipment before a decisive battle, then what right have we to teach uncorrected Bolshevism to our proletariat and to the proletariats of all countires? Why do we not say anywhere, not in one single textbook read by the proletariat of our country and of the whole world: Comrades, we teach you Bolshevism, but do not forget that Bolshevism contains anti-revolutionary features, and as soon as the fight begins, then you will not be able to manage with the equipment of Bolshevism, but will have to replace it by another, the equipment of Trotskyism.

We must either teach Bolshevism, Leninism, as it is, without correction, as the real theory of proletarian revolution, or, if there is anyone who believes that this theory is not the true theory of proletarian revolution, but that it has to be supplemented by Trotskyism in order to become such, then he must state openly and straightforwardly what alterations he thinks should be made. Is there really something anti-revolutionary in the teachings of Bolshevism on the revolution? Then the works issued by Lenin before the spring of 1917 must not be made the scientific authority in proletarian struggle and proletarian strategy against the bourgeoisie. Or we must at least say: But the art of realizing proletarian revolution is not to be learned from Lenin's works up to 1917, but from Trotsky's works since 1905.

The October revolution was either accomplished beneath the banner of uncorrected Leninism, or it was accomplished beneath the banner of Trotskyism and its correction of Leninism. Here we are at a parting of the ways.

It was to be expected that Comrade Trotsky, in order to grant a certain amount of satisfaction to the party which he has thus benefitted, should willingly admit that he has committed certain organizatory errors in the past. What does such an acknowledgment cost, when it serves as a cloak for the unpunished assertion that Bolshevism, Leninism, contains anti-revolutionary features? Paris is worth a mass! If one can appropriate the role of intellectual and theoretical leader of Bolshevism and the October revolution, it is worth while to admit to even considerable errors in the past.

Trotsky, in his "Lessons of October," actually does make such a confession to the party. "I have acknowledged my real and great organizatory mistakes," he writes. But was the fifteen years' conflict between Lenin and the Bolsheviki on the one side, and Trotskyism on the other, concerned with organizatory questions? This is nonsense, an endeavor to distract from the point. The conflict was directly concerned with the fundamental questions of the revolution, with the mutual relations of the different classes during the revolution, with the question of "permanent revolution," or Comrade Lenin's theory, and this is the question of the role played by the peasantry in the revolution, the question of the paths leading to socialism in an agrarian country, the question of the methods and conditions for the realization of the proletarian dictatorship in a country in which the peasant population preponderates. This is no contention on abstract formulas. The theory of permanent revolution is based upon a complete underestimation of the role played by the peasantry; it replies to one question only; it tells how power cannot be seized or maintained under these conditions.

Trotsky's viewpoint, summed up from a study of the "Lessons of October," may be expressed as follows: "On the eve of the events of 1905, Lenin imparted a peculiar character to the Russian revolution by the formula: Democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry. But, as later developments showed, this formula had only significance for one stage on the way." This is followed by a literary dissertation to the effect that this stage was a stage on the way to Trotsky's formula. And this is the actual intellectual kernel of all Trotsky's latest writings. Trotsky shuffles his Trotskyism beneath Leninism with the whole of the literary art and talent peculiar to him. This last book of his is not written for the whole party, but for the younger generation now growing up, for the youth who within a year or two will have to determine the destiny of the party.

The aim of Trotsky's latest book, "1917," is to take revenge for the twelve years in which Lenin exposed Trotsky's wretched policy, to prove that the revolution confirms his (Trotsky's) theory, and to poison the minds of the future leaders of the party, now studying in the Communist universities, workers' faculties, colleges, etc., by this shuffling of Trotskyism into Leninism. We cannot permit this aim to be realized.

In this book ("1917), Trotsky inveighs against Zinoviev, Kamenev, Rykov and others. I shall deal further with this, and with my own errors, but am of the opinion that the reproaches made in this book are not intended for us only. The names of Kamenev and Zinoviev are given, but Lenin is meant. The question of the fate of Bolshevism may be put in the following form: Lenin had an excellent theory, but the disciples of Lenin did not know how to apply it, they did not recognize the needs of the concrete situation. The formula was right, but it has been badly carried out by this or that Bolshevik. It is possible to put the question in this manner, but it can also be stated as follows: If we draw all the logical conclusions from the Leninist formula, we are bound to land in a bog. The formula itself is wrong, and this wrong formula has been employed logically, correctly. In the first case we have a justification of the Bolshevist theory and an indication of the errors of individual Bolsheviki, but in the second case, if we are told that Lenin's nearest disciples accepted his formula and landed in a bog thru applying it literally, then we see—enlightened as we already are by Trotsky's assertion as to the anti-revolutionary features of Leninism, and by his statement that Trotsky's theory, and not Lenin's has been "completely confirmed"—then we see that the blows struck are not directed against Kamenev and Zinoviev alone, but thru them at Lenin's main formula.

Lenin in April, 1917.

Is it true that Bolshevism, in order to solve the problems of the revolution, was obliged to withdraw from its past? Is it true that the theory of the revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry proved inadequate? What were the actual facts, and how were these regarded by Lenin?

What really happened—as seen by Lenin as well as by us—was that the Bolshevist idea of the "revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry" was fully and completely realized in the Russian revolution, and, after its realization, began to develop into the Bolshevist idea of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

I here take the opportunity of referring to one of the works in which Lenin laid down his principles at that time: "Letters on Tactics," in which he comments on and explains to the party his famous theses of April 4. Lenin writes:

"The revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry has already been realized in the Russian revolution. . . The workers' and soldiers' Soviets are the revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry as realized in actual life. We are still in the minority; we recognize the necessity of gaining the majority (in these organs of the dictatorship)." (Compl. works, Rusian edition, vol. XIV-1, p. 29.)

If our theory has been realised, we must stride forward. How? In such manner that we gather together the proletarian elements of town and country against the petty-bourgeois elements, on the basis of the realized dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry. This means the mustering and organization of the proletarian elements on the basis of this dictatorship, in order to proceed from the revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry to the dictatorship of the proletariat, to the purely socialist revolution. For this reason, Lenin invariably adapted his tactics to the development of the mass movement in the peasantry, and he studied the "peculiarity" of the realization of the dictatorship of the proletariat and the peasantry, which consisted of the fact that the latter, at the given stage of the revolution (April 1917), retained their confidence in the bourgeois government in the form of "defense of native country." After describing the views of the Bolsheviki contending against him (I was one of these), and after a sharp attack upon us, Lenin writes:

"A Marxist must never quit the firm ground of analysis of class relations. The bourgeoisie is in power. And is the mass of the peasantry not another bourgeoisie belonging to another stratum, of another description and character? Does it follow that this stratum may not seize power by the 'consummation of bourgeois democratic revolution? Why should this not be possible? Old Bolsheviki frequently judge in this manner."

I replied, "This is perfectly possible . . . it is quite possible that the peasantry seizes the whole of the land and at the same time the whole power. . ."

Lenin continues: "If the peasantry ceases to support the government in the social revolutionary and menshevist Soviets, if the peasantry, having deserted the bourgeoisie, seize the land and power in spite of the bourgeoisie, then we shall have a new stage in the bourgeois democratic revolution and one which will occupy us greatly."

This is much more complicated than Trotsky's theory, straight as the line in which the crow flies. For Trotsky, with his slogan of: "Off with the czar and on with the labor government," the matter was much simple. He simply ignored the whole peasantry and the conditions prerequisite to the realization of the dictatorship of the proletariat in a capitalistically backward agrarian country.

The greatness of Lenin lies in the fact that he began to carry out the dictatorship of the proletariat under the given conditions of a given agrarian country, and actually did carry this out by means of constantly keeping in sight those real elements upon whose foundation this dictatorship can not only be proclaimed, but built up.

As a matter of fact, even in April it was not possible to judge whether there might not be a moment in the Russian revolution in which the peasantry would leave the social revolutionary and menshevist Soviets in the lurch and turn against the provisional government, before it could attain to the dictatorship of the proletariat. Lenin, as real politician and mass leader, knowing that we pursued the policy of the proletariat under the peculiar conditions of an agrarian country, arranged his tactics for both possibilities.

Lenin would not have been Lenin, that is, he would not have been the practical leader of millions in class war, if he had really taken over Trotsky's equipment, for Trotsky's theory would have inevitably led to the breakdown of the proletariat and of the peasantry as well. In its pure form, the line taken by Trotsky is simply the ignoring of the peasantry, the ignoring of that transition stage during which the peasantry still places its confidence in the ruling bourgeoisie at first, is disappointed and turns against the bourgeoisie, but still does not join the proletariat; this transitional stage which ends by theproletariat taking over the leadership of the peasantry in the form of peasant's risings, realizing the dictatorship, and endeavoring to bring about an alliance between workers and peasants in various changing forms.

Lenin, in the same pamphlet in which he wrote aginst the old Bolsheviki, states:

"In my theses I have secured myself against any leaps over agrarian or petty bourgeois movements which have not yet been overcome, against any playing with 'seizure of power' by the labor government. . . 'Trotskyism' 'down with the czar,' 'up with the labor government'—is wrong. The petty bourgeoisie (that is, the peasantry. L. K.), exists, and cannot be ignored."

Is this not the literal repetition, in the heat of revolution, of all that Lenin had long warned the party against? In 1910, Lenin had already said that: "Trotsky's fundamental error. . . is the lack of the smallest thought about the question of the transition from this (the bourgeois) revolution to a socialist revolution."

Trotsky's "original" theory takes from the Bolsheviki the demand for decisive revolutionary struggle on the part of the proletariat and the demand for the seizure of political power, from the mensheviki it takes the "denial" of the role played by thhe peasantry. . . Trotsky did not, however, reflect that when the proletariat induces the non-proletarian masses of the peasantry to confiscate the land of the landowners and to overthrow the monarchy, the national bourgeois revolution" in Russia is achieved and that this becomes a revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry.

64-PAGE PAMPHLET ON LENINISM OR TROTSKYISM NOW IN PREPARATION

This installment is part of a pamphlet "Leninism or Trotzkyism" now in preparation. It includes articles by three outstanding figures in the Russian Communist Party: G. Zinoviev, I. Stalin and C. Kamenev, to form a most timely and important contribution to a discussion of world interest. The pamphlet will be of 64 pages, selling at 20 cents and will be ready at the conclusion of this serial publication.

The Workers Party in Action

DON'T NEGLECT THE JUNIORS' PARTY FEB. 14

Comrade, come with us,
Pause in the fight,
Be a child with us,
Just for one night.

This is the invitation extended to the older comrades by the fighting Junior Section of Chicago for the evening of the fourteenth of February, at the Soviet School, 1902 West Division St.

The Junior Section of Chicago, that large group of Communist children who are successfully bringing the working class struggle into the schoolrooms of Chicago, are preparing a Communist entertainment planned by Juniors.

They are busy now making up their program of half-hourly mass games, into which everyone will join between dancing. Contests will vie with other deep Red novelties thought up by our wide awake young comrades.

Comrades! They need your support in the flesh. Come and spend a joyous evening with the future commissars of the Chicago Soviet.

Los Angeles Notes

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 11.—The Freiheit Costume Ball is always a great event in Los Angeles. This year a $250 phonograph and radiola presented by the American Music Co. will be given as the first prize for the most interesting costume. Many other valuable prizes will be given fororiginality and beauty of costumes. The ball will be held on Feb. 28.

The opening of the new left wing radical center, the Co-operative Center Building, will be celebrated with a grand bazaar on Feb. 13, 14 and 15.

The building has a large dance and meeting hall, capacity 800 seats, and a number of smaller meeting rooms. Already a co-operative union bakery equipped with the finest modern machinery has been installed.

Union Carpenters and Painters have given up their holidays to work on the building entirely without pay. Architect Evans and Contractor Forman gave their services free. The cost of the building is $50,000.

At the last shareholders' meeting the following officers were elected: President, Comrade Feinberg; financial secretary, Rosenstein; recording secretary, Airoff; manager, Simons. All are members of the Workers Party. This shows the confidence the left wing radical movement has in the leadership of the Workers Party.

The proceeds from the bazaar will go to finance this gigantic co-operative enterprise.

On Feb. 21 the Needle Trades Council will have a ball at the Co-operative Center. A week later the Freiheit Costume Ball will take place at the Co-operative Center.

VICTOR ZOKAITIS, ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE, ENDORSED BY THE COMMUNISTS IN ELEVENTH WARD

Victor A. Zokaitis, atho only 22 years old, has to his credit many achievements as an active participant in the class struggle.

He was born Oct. 17, 1902, at South Manchester, Conn. While still attending high school, his views on the class struggle caused him to be suspended several times. In the summer of 1917, when he was fifteen years old, he led a strike of young tobacco workers on Hartman's Plantation, Buckland, Conn. This tobacco plantation was owned by the American Tobacco Co., part of the American Tobacco Trust. Thru this strike the young workers won an increase in wages and a reduction of hours from ten to nine per day.

Upon leaving high school in his sophomore year, at the age of sixteen, Comrade Zokaitis was employed by Cheny Bros., silk manufacturers, working in their broadsilk weaveroom, carpenter shop, and paper box shop. He was fired and blacklisted for attempting to organize his fellow-workers into a union.

In 1918 he joined the socialist party and became educational director of the young people's socialist league of Connecticut in 1919. He participated in the left wing movement within that organization and has been in the Communist movement since its inception. At present he is district secretary of the Lithuanian Section of the Workers Party for the state of Illinois and president of the Chicago Lithuanian Workers' Educational Society.

Comrade Zokaitis has ben a member of the Chicago Typographical Union No. 16 since his arrival in Chicago in September, 1922, and is an active militant worker in that union.

Philadelphia Italian Branch to Hold Ball, Study Class Proceeds

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—Italian branch No. 4 has arranged a ball for Saturday, Feb. 14, at the Croatian Singing Society Hall, at 2523 East Thompson St. This is a new branch of the Workers Party just organised everal week ago and promises to be one of the most active branches.

The Italian comrades of Philadelphia always attend the party affairs and furnish with their songs and spirit a true revolutionary atmosphere. This dance will be a truly proletarian affair, being situated in the heart of this great industrial center. The towering structures of the great Cramp shipyards will cast their shawdows on this happy assembly of revolutionists.

The party class in Trade Union History and Tactics meets every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock sharp, at 521 York Ave. The class is reaching the most interesting stage of the course. "The Structure of the A. F. of L." will be the subject for Sunday, Feb. 15. All members of the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League are invited.

ROUMANIAN REDS STRIKE AGAINST PRISON TORTURE

Five Hundred Refuse Food in Jilava

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Feb. 11.—In the prison of Jilava there are at present about 500 prisoners on hunger strike. They demand compensation for the maltreatment suffered and that they be placed before the court.

The 500 prisoners are workers who were arrested in the last raid of the Roumanian government against the Communists. In these raids wholesale arrests were made even women and children being thrown into prison.

Brutally Maltreated

In order to force the prisoners to "confess" they were brutally maltreated. The limbs of many prisoners were broken. The judges took the inquisition of the middle ages as their example. Thus the leather worker Josef Csetry had his arm broken during the investigazion. Comrade Ladislaus Luka was fettered and beaten and trodden upon till he lost consciousness. The same was done with Comrade Stefan Jakob. One finger nail after the other was pealed off the hands of Comrade Stefan Toth in order to compell him by the horrible pains to make the confession. The lawyer Dr. Stefan Gyongjyossy from Hernannstadt was tortured so terribly that he had to be transferred to the hospital with serious wounds. Also women and children were maltreated in order to force them to make statements against their husbands and fathers.

The workers of the whole world must rise against the Roumanian hell and rush to the aid of the brutally tortured class fighters by protests and practical solidarity in the Red Aid.

Abramovich's Pal Hopes He Gets Cash For Needed "Supplies"

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—Sherburne Hopkins, Washington representative in past years for a long succession of revolutionary juntas in Latin-American republics, and at one time chief counsel for Bancho Villa, is now promoting the fortunes of one Vassily Dumbadze, who claims to represent the Transcaucasian repulics of Georgia and Azerbaijan.

Hopkins denies that Dumbadze has yet sought recognition of his claims, but says that when the situation in Georgia is "clarified," and the people get supplies with which to manage a revolt against the Soviets, application for recognition of a social-democratic republic wil be made.

MEXICAN COMMUNISTS GREET DAILY WORKER AND TELL OF MANY VITAL DEVELOPMENTS

By C. DEHESA.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Feb. 11.—We send our cordial and effusive felicitations on the first anniversary of our beloved daily and at the same time our admiration that the American workers have co-operated in giving the daily its own building.

The Vera Cruz section of the Mexican Communist Party held an enthusiastic meeting in memory of the leader of the world revolution who died January 21, 1924.

DAILY WORKER on Mexican Walls.

The meeting was held in the school of the Cocal Agricultural Colony, on the south side of the Port of Vera Cruz. The hall was much too small for the great number of comrades. There were red flags in profusion, grouped around pictures of Lenin. The Communist publications, the DAILY WORKER and El Machete shown from the school house walls.

The program began at 8 o'clock, commencing with the International, the war song of the working class. The first speaker was Jose Valerio, member of the Millers' Union of Vera Cruz. He was previously an anarchist. After paying his respects to Lenin, Comrade Valerio gave an explanation of the crooked work of the C. R. O. M. (Mexican Federation of Labor) leaders in the local unions. He was loudly applauded.

Galvan on Lenin and the Peasants

The big event was a speech by Comrade Ursulo Galvan, president of the League of Agrarian Communes of the state of Vera Crus. For more than an hour he held the crowd breathless as he developed his theme, "Lenin and the Peasant Problem." He compared Russian peasant life to the present peasant's existence in Mexico, told of what he saw during his visit in Russia, the great All-Russian Peasants' Exposition, of the abolition of property in land, of the Red Army of workers and peasants that defends the interests of theproletariat of Russia and of the world. He received thunderous applause and many vivas for the Soviets of workers and peasants.

The meeting, with other speakers, among them a sympathiser who is an agrarian deputy in the Mexican parliament, who praised Lenin and the Soviets of workers, peasants and soldiers, lasted until one a. m., and closed with the International.

Almanza Gone to Moscow.

Comrade Manuel Almanza, secretary of the League of Agrarian Communes, left recently for Moscow to attend the Second Congress of the Peasants' International. Comrade Almanza took with him samples of many kinds of grain that serve our Mexican peasants as miserable substitute for food, such as the black and yellow bean, chile and even the tortilla, in order that after eating they may work from sunrise to sunset under the government of the so-called "Socialist" Calles.

This Calles, General Calles, has begun a reign of terror over the unions of the Mexican republic to force his "re-adjustment" of wages and reduction of number of employed workers. It is much like Mr. Harding's campaign for open shop "normalcy."

Marine Workers Attacked.

The new regime of Calles over the unions began with the Union of Marine Workers and the Confederation of Railwaymen. In the ships, controlled by the Union of Marine Workers of the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific, which ships are owned by the government, the government has tried to reduce wages, but the Union of Marine Workers will triumph on all coasts of the gulf and the Pacific by the good organization, and will show General Calles what he cannot do.

The Railway Workers' Confederation also opposes reduction in wages, and perhaps may strike, because the "labor" government is going to turn over the lines to private companies, and these will receive them only on condition that the wages of the workers must be reduced. For that reason theworkers will not consent.

Coolidge in a Hurry To Give Away Shoals Resources Property

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. —White house opposition to public ownership of any kind is carried so far that Coolidge would even eliminate from the Muscle Shoals leasing bill the clause permitting the goverment to recapture the property and improvements at the end of the 50 year lease period.

Moreover, he dislikes the clause requiring the building of an additional dam to develop more power, because he wants the government to rid itself of title as soon as possible.

PSYCHOANALYSIS LURES HUNDREDS TO BOX OFFICE

Producer Knows What the Morons Like

The ad cost at least one hundred dollars and it was worth every nickel of it, at least for the advertisers. An entire column in a capitalist newspaper, appealing to the curiosity and the sense of sex of the populace of Chicago; that portion of the populace with the brain capacity of a newt and at least enough money in its pocketbook to pay three or four dollars for a theater seat from which it can get a good view of as much of the female form divine, untramelled by lingerie as the requirements of ventilation, fear of pneumonia and Mayor Dever will permit.

Proceed With The Story

Be that as it may and as this is not a story but an advertisement, a certain theatrical producer who frequently gets into trouble with very particular females of both sexes, has a show which runs to crowded houses for so many years that his chorus girls get bald and lose their affinities long before the public loses its taste for the show. This means a good box office report and plenty of money to pay for advertisements. Now, how does this capitalistic producer intrigue the public into patronising his eyful of concentrated wickedness? The ad headline reads: Three reasons why you should see——— blankety blank show." First comes a girl or the picture of a girl with bobbed hair, a pair of shoes and something around the waist held in place by a pair of hands, carelessly. One naturally lowers his eyes to the next picture. There she is a girl, with bobbed hair and a pair of shoes. The third picture leaves everything to the imagination. It simply isn't there.

Freud And The Box Office

No doubt the advertising manager read Freud and Jung and all the other psychoanalyists, in order to get a slant on the collective mind so as to figure out what kind of an ad would attract the greatest number of dollars. We believe he hit the mark and that this snappy show will be running in Chicago long after Mayor Dever begins to dig a subway or even after the police have stopped arresting the murderer of Dean O'Banion.

But Chicago is not entirely populated by morons. There is a large portion of the workingclass of this city, which, tho not averse to an optical cargo of physical beauty, appreciates mental exercises and for that reason the Red Revel publicity experts feature those aspects of the bill of fare at the Masquerade Ball, that appeals to the head as well as the heart.

Lonely Greenwich Village

The Red Revel Marquerade Ball, on February 28, will be one of the greatest social gatherings in the history of the radical movement in Chicago. There is not a studio or a nest of literati on the near North Side that will not empty itself on that night and send its freight over to 37 South Ashland Avenue to spend a night of hectic gaiety. And why not?

BUILDERS AT WORK

W. P. BRANCHES—ATTENTION!

PERHAPS in your branch it happens there is a lack of life—a sluggishness that prevents snappy action. If this is true then two other things are very likely true as well. First, it is just possible that you have no DAILY WORKER Agent in your branch; second, the agent you have, may, because of ability or inclination, not be suited to the job.

In either case you will quite likely find the reasons for the sluggishness in your branch. Action comes of understanding—of understanding that without the most effective means of propaganda two things will happen: your branch will not be a branch of thoro Communist understanding—and lacking that, your branch will not add to its numbers as effectively as it possibly could.

In the DAILY WORKER, the Workers Monthly and the Literature Department is all the very best expression of Communist principles and tactics. You will Bolshevize your branch when you give it these three "teachers" of our party. If they are subscribers to each of the official party organs—the DAILY WORKER and the Workers Monthly—these will come to their homes and each day their interest in party problems is alive. The books and pamphlets of the party are for their education whenever they have the time for them.

A branch member does not become a thoro Communist thru branch meetings alone. And even intense activity needs the background of a clear knowledge of Communist principles.

Your branch DAILY WORKER Agent must be one of your most alert, best grounded comrades to take full advantage of the possibilities in his work. Take this question up at your next branch meeting. If you have no DAILY WORKER Agent—elect one. If he needs a committee—give him one. If he is in action or not—get a report of his activities at each meeting. Do all this and you will see your branch grow—that's a sure way to build our party!

PENNSY FLOUTS LABOR BOARD

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—The Pennsylvania Railroad company is stronger even than the United States government. It does not care a rap for decisions of the U. S. government when such decisions are against it.

The railway labor board decided that the employes themselves should decide whether they would be represented by their national union or by the company union. The telegraphers decided by a vote of 4 to 1 to be represented by their own union.

The Pennsylvania R. R. Co. does not care what its employes decide—nor does it care about the decision of the railway labor board. It sent out a notice to the telegraphers that "any one accepting the nomination must be a company union representative and not a representative of the union." The company intends to deal only with representatives of the company union and not of the bonafide union to which the telegraphers belong.

What will the railway labor board do to the Pennsylvania R. R. company? It will do nothing. The company will continue to do as it pleases. The capitalists use the government to fool the workers into the belief that it is a "neutral" government, whereas it is clearly a government of the bosses against the workers. What do the Pennsylvania employes intend to do? Are they going to fight or submit? If the Pennsylvania can flaunt the U. S. government and the railway labor board, why don't the employes flaunt the decision of the Pennsylvania? It is up to the workers.

Don't Miss Junior Dance.

The Junior section of the Y. W. L. invites you to attend their Valentine dance on February 14, at 1902 West Division St. There will be mass games every half hour, lots of fun and souvenirs for all.

The dance was supposed to be held at the Workers Lyceum, but will be held at the Soviet School instead.

UNEMPLOYMENT GETTING WORSE IN ILLINOIS

Exceeds 1923-4 Rate, But Under 1921-22

The unemployment situation in Illinois as shown in the January reports of the free employment offices was worse than in January, 1924 and much worse than in 1923, according to the monthly report of the state department o f labor. This large surplus of men looking for jobs existed in spite of a gain of nearly 1 per cent in factory employment which is estimated to have given 6,000 jobless persons work.

Not Yet to 1921-22 Figure

In the state as a whole there were 188 applicants for each 100 jobs. The Chicago office reports 201 applicants for every 100 jobs or more than 2 unemployed for each opportunity to work. In previous Januaries the number applying for each 100 jobs were 1924—166; 1923—132; 1922—233; 1921—275.

The level of factory employment in January was still 7 per cent below that of a year ago meaning over 40,000 workers added to the ranks of the unemployed. Average weekly earnings amounted to $27.64 as compared with $28.77 in December and $27.27 a year ago.

Heavy Industry Best

The most important gain was reported by the iron and steel industry which added 7.1 per cent to its working force between December and January. Other industries reporting improvement were machinery, railroad car building, agricultural implements, leather, paint, job printing, knit gods and clothing.

Industries reporting decreased employment include food, building materials and furniture.

4,000 Garment Workers in Canada on Strike

TORONTO, Ont. Feb. 11.— Four thousand cloak, suit and skirt workers, members of the Montreal and Toronto locals of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, have declared a general strike.

The garment workers demand reestablishment of the 44-hour week in the 100 factories in Toronto, recognition of the union, and the establishment of a joint board of sanitary control to work out a code of sanitation for the industry.

The strikers declare that standards of work have been reduced to an unbearable level and that the bosses have refused to discuss their grievances.

Capitalist Dictatorship in Schools

We have heard a lot of yapping about the terrible dictatorship of the Soviet government of workers and peasants, which excludes from the overcrowded schools and colleges the sons and daughters of the "nepman" and the profit-grabbing speculator until after the children of the workers and farmers are given as much and as good an education, both cultural and vocational, as they can absorb.

We have failed to hear any protests from these gentlemen who "oppose all dictatorships" against the caste system practiced in the public schools of this country, where every sort of affront, discouragement and difficulty is encountered by the boy or girl of the working class who dares to thirst for more knowledge and culture than the capitalist class, in its infinite wisdom, ordains as necessary for a wage slave in office or shop. Yet, if this is not a genuine dictatorship of the capitalists against the workers' children, we don't know dictatorships when we see them.

A case in point is the caste system prevailing in the New York schools, where a viciously schemed out "intelligence test" discriminates against working class children in such a way as to prevent them from following any cultural advance and, instead, shunts them off into "vocational" courses, where they are trained to be the hewers of wood and the drawers of water for the "better classes" all the rest of their lives.

This damnable conspiracy against working class children merits the unrelenting opposition of every worker and working class organization. If the liberals who fret themselves to death about the methods of social change really cared anything about cultural advance of the masses, they would get their counter-revolutionary blinders off long enough to see the essential dictatorship of the capitalist class in this class discrimination and do a little fretting about this dictatorship.

But they won't, and it remains for a labor organization, the New York Teachers' Union, to voice the protest—for the Communist press to give publicity—and explain the method whereby workers' children are robbed of culture and forced to stay in the ranks of manual laborers. The Teachers' Union deserves every aid organized labor can give in this protest.

Idaho Improvements

Those naive and cheerful souls who believe that the criminal syndicalism laws were simply the product of "war hysteria" and with comparisons drawn from christian theology told the workers that "this too will pass away," should study the recent action of the Idaho state legislature.

This collection of Mormon church satellites, water power company tools, mining corporation stoolpigeons, lumber company lackeys and shyster lawyers willing to peddle their services to anyone who will pay them real money, has re-vamped the state criminal syndicalism law and worded it to prohibit all strikes. The law now has this provision—one that war time lawmakers did not dare to include because of the need for placating the labor unions:

"Any acts or efforts wilfully or maliciously to hinder, or to destroy property or slow up work" are defined as sabotage and come "within the meaning of the act," to use the legal phraseology.

The local A. F. of L. officialdom which saw no danger to the unions when the original law was passed, and who complacently watched the persecution of members of the I. W. W. which followed, fought the amended bill. Their belated efforts made little impression on the capitalist politicians and the mining, lumber, water power and railroad interests of Idaho will proceed now to tighten the shackles of their slaves—shackles that are already heavy enough in all conscience.

A revolutionist could probably get a hearing before some of the unions in Idaho now—before he was arrested under the improved criminal syndicalism law.

"Evolutionary Progress"

Workers may strike until they starve, but if the bosses can secure enough scabs to make a showing there is no strike in progress, according to the decision of the Wisconsin supreme court handed down a few days ago.

Labor unions succeeded in having a law passed a number of years ago compelling employers to state that a strike was on when they advertised for workers to replace their striking employes. The decision of the Wisconsin court wipes out this law in that state and sets a precedent that other state courts will be quick to follow. All the bosses have to do now is to show that their plant is running in some fashion or other.

The decision shows two things clearly:

First, that capitalist agencies abrogate laws giving even the slightest concessions to the workers, at will.

Second, that the program of trust busting and middle-class reform in which LaFollette has been engaged all his life, has left the most powerful instruments of capitalism in his own state unweakened, unafraid to deprive the working class of the most feeble weapons of defense.

Wisconsin is to the C. P. P. A.-ites what paradise is to the Mohammedans, but three decades of LaFolletteism find the workers unable to force an employer to tell prospective slaves that they are expected to scab.

Hurray for "peaceful, evolutionary progress" a la "B. and O. Bill" Johnston!

Morticians, Doctors, Lawyers—and Lafargue

Lafargue has dealt at length with the manner in which all sections of the exploiting class adjusts its christian code of ethics to a robber system, and the continual conflict between morality in private life and in the world of industry and business.

It is in the lower strata of the bourgeois that this conflict is most apparent and it shows itself as a constant struggle on the part of the petty parasites to justify their existence and the leech-like role they play in relation to the working class.

The strenuous efforts necessary for rationalization force the cockroach capitalists and their more articulate professional associates to perform many strange antics and utter many grotesque statements.

It is too bad, therefore, that Paul Lafargue could not have lived to attend the banquet of 500 undertakers held yesterday in Chicago and have witnessed what was perhaps the finest living example of the correctness of his analysis of petty bourgeois smugness and the manner in which their ethical code is formulated.

We are indebted to the Chicago Tribune for the story of the proceedings and we are quite certain that this staunch defender of capitalism in all its manifestations gave the assembled babbitry none the worst of it.

The heights of unconscious humor reached at this gathering, the close connection between those who prey on the workers in sickness, legal difficulty and death and the divided allegiance of public officials was there disclosed in so devastating a manner that we feel justified in lightening up our editorial page with a verbatim re-print of the most important parts of a news story that requires but a few additional words.

We begin with the speech of the Chicago health commissioner, as reported by The Tribune under the head: "Bundesen Lauds Undertakers As Noble Artisians—Calls Them Loyal Workers at Annual Ball":

> It was Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of health, a speaker and guest, who struck the major chord of the festivities.
> "Instead of knocking or joking about the undertaker, we should be constantly boosting him," he declared. "What is more beautiful, what more kindly, than to step into a home where there has been death, where there are tears and sorrow, and by taking gentle charge to bring peace and comfort?"
> Assistant State's Attorney John Sbarboro, who is also in the undertaking business with his partner, Attorney John Brisallero, acted as toastmaster. He introduced Dr. Bundesen as the man who had made the undertaker depend on old age instead of sickness for his livelihood.
> "Yours is a noble profession," declared the health commissioner. "I would like to see you call yourselves morticians instead of undertakers."
> Thomas J. Dunlap, "the singing mortician," sang "Red Hot Mamma," then former Judge John F. O'Connell took up the theme.
> "There is no reason a lawyer should not appear before you," he declared. "You have recognized the close affiliation between the medical, the legal, and the undertaking profession. There is no doubt that a pleasant feeling of companionship exists between the three professions."
> Mr. O'Connell urged an interest in civic affairs.
> "The personality that dissipates sorrow and cheers where the blow of death has struck," he said, "will find joy in solving the civic problem."

We have emphasized some of the more tasty extracts that our readers might not inadverently overlook these gems of bourgeois thought.

Please not that the assistant state's attorney and his partner are also in the undertaking business. If by chasing a hearse or an ambulance they are not retained to sue for the deceased they at least have a chance to bury him at a fat figure.

The close affinity between the commissioner of health and the undertaking fraternity, it seems to us, should be a source of worry to the Chicago populace in view of his recent exploit of O. K.-ing typhoid-bearing oysters.

"The pleasant feeling of companionship between the medical, the legal and the undertaking" guilds, noted by the ex-judge who spoke, has an ominous signicance for those outside the circle of leeches. Their "joy in solving civic problems" is explained by the composition of the groups—one of which worries the workers sick, another of which brings them to the brink of the grave while the last one throws them in—all in the name of faith, hope and charity.

Lafargue is dead and it perhaps is just as well. He would have laughed himself to death anyway after witnessing these prize asses in action.

Call to I. W. W. Marine Workers

TO members of the Marine Transport Workers' Industrial Union, No. 510, Industrial Workers of the World:

Fellow Workers: Over the signatures of Fellow Workers T. P. Sullivan and Ed Jeppson, secretary-treasurer, pro tem, and acting chairman, respectively, the M. T. W. has issued a call to the marine workers of the Western Hemisphere inviting unions of marine workers to send an official representative to an international conference at New Orleans, La., March 1, 1925.

The purpose of the conference is given as the discussion of relations and plans for co-operation and unity of action of marine workers of the Western Hemisphere.

Hail End of Isolation!

Fellow Workers, the revolutionary workers of all the world will rejoice to know that the M. T. W. of the I. W. W. is resolutely putting aside the mistaken policy of isolation which has only helped the shipowners and seriously injured the seamen, particularly those in the M. T. W. Every revolutionary worker will hail the decision of the M. T. W. to courageously set foot upon the path of ever-closer fraternity with the international labor. In the emancipation of the world's workers the transport workers may play a noble part, and a recognition of this demands that there be no turning back for those workers who are conscious of their class and true to its historic role.

For this reason the Red International Affiliation Committee (R. I. A. C.) expresses its deep gratification that the M. T. W. of the I. W. W. has made this decision which will, if followed by sincere effort to attain world unity of all seamen, place the M. T. W. into the foreground of revolutionary unionism internationally and add to the proud traditions of the fighting I. W. W.

The Alternatives.

The New Orleans Conference has great possibilities. It may do much to unify the marine workers. There is also the possibility that it may fail to measure up to this anticipation, that it may end with empty speeches, or good but ineffective resolutions. Every member of the M. T. W. must interest himself in making the conference a success and a beginning of more and greater successes.

The factors which may hinder the New Orleans Conference must be taken into account and fought against. Firstly, it is beyond comprehension why such short notice should be given to other organizations. For the officers of the M. T. W. to issue a call dated January 15, for a conference at New Orleans on March 1, and expect it to receive serious consideration by marine workers' organizations in Argentina, Chile and Peru, is ridiculous.

For Fair Dealing.

Members of the M. T. W. who unlerstand this, should make pointed protests to their officials that such action will appear to Latin American workers as a trick to call a conference which will be incomplete in representation, yet, under cover of being international, actually separate some marine workers of Latin America from the others which have not been given time enough to respond. These unions will naturally feel insulted by being confronted with a fait accompli in the shape of an "international" accord from which they are excluded without they come to terms with its dominant group—the M. T. W.

The M. T. W. officials, by such uncalled for haste, lay themselves open to accusation by Latin American unions as having, by a ruse, robbed them of their right to consultation before action involving them is taken, and to the charge of really splitting and not uniting the marine workers of this hemisphere. A sincere desire for international accord demands that this conference but prepare the way for a later and more completely representative conference.

Voice and Vote for Latin American Unions.

The R. I. A. C. hopes that every branch of the M. T. W. will be represented at New Orleans, and that M. T. W. delegates will uphold the right of every Latin American delegate to full voice and vote. There must be no tricky hedging, such as making the conference an I. W. W. meeting with visiting delegates merely invited to make approving speeches. There must be a real threshing out of policy and the foundation laid for organization of a Pan-American confederation of all marine workers. No exclusion of opinions or votes of representative delgations must be permitted, and leading in the policies must be the fight against the oppression of Latin American peoples by United States imperialism.

Upon the subject of policy, complete international unity must take first place. Altho the last M. T. W. convention went on record for a world conference, and altho the call for the New Orleans meetings recites in detail the need for unity between the M. T. W. and European seamen, and even despite the fact that the M. T. W. officials have received an invitation to such a conference (which they have concealed from the M. T. W. members and not replied to), the action of the M. T. W. officials indicates an evasion of the instructions of the last convention and an ignoring of the extreme necessity for unity of marine workers not only of this hemisphere but of Europe and Asia as well.

New Orleans Must Be First Step.

The New Orleans Conference must go on record for complete international unity with a resolution favoring attendance at a world conference of revolutionary marine workers which is to be called by joint agreement with the Red Transport Workers section of the Red International of Labor Unions.

Only upon a policy which coincides with the program of the Red International of Labor Unions can a revolutionary struggle of the world's marine workers be successfully waged. One serious criticism which should be made against the M. T. W. officials is that they have not only ignored the invitation to participate in the world conference called by the International Propaganda Committee of the Red Transport Workers at Berlin on Feb. 25, but they have consciously set the date of the New Orleans Conference to conflict with the Berlin Conference, clearly aiming at a rival and not a friendly conference.

Working Class Needs First!

In view of the life and death struggle for existence of the world's seamen and their organizations, such setting up of barriers between workers deserves the severest condemnation of the M. T. W. membership, who must let their officials understand, once for all, that the vital needs of the membership are not forever to be made the plaything of a few fellow workers whose sectarian fanaticism is prejudicing the interests of the working class.

In order that the members of the Marine Transport Workers may see clearly just what the M. T. W. officers have done to continue the disunity of the world's marine workers, the R. I. A. C. publishes below the following letter, which was sent by the International Propaganda Committee of the Red Transport Workers to the M. T. W. headquarters, but which has never been published by the M. T. W. officers or answered by them, but which certainly was received by them as may be proven by the fact that they lifted the very phraseology of its opening paragraphs and used it in their call for the New Orleans Conference. The letter is as follows:

"Moscow, October 29, 1924.

"General Secretary, Marine Transport Workers Industrial Union.

"Fellow Workers: The International Propaganda Committee of Revolutionary Transport Workers sends fraternal greetings to the revolutionary seamen affiliated with your organization and expresses its admiration of the heroic struggle waged by your organization against capitalist slavery and for the emancipation of the toilers.

"The International Propaganda Committee has repeatedly applied to you with proposals bearing on the relations between your organization and the revolutionary transport workers of the world who are marching under the banner of the Red International of Labor Unions. Our last appeal was directed to the general convention of your organization in the fall of 1923.

"The result of our last communication, as well as all the previous ones, was only a sharp rebuff, the further intensification of the mutual polemic, leaving the question of the international unity of the revolutionary seamen unsolved. We do not want to return to the past and reopen the polemic. We do want, however, to raise before you in its full scope, the most vital issue of the international seamen's movement, the question of international unity.

"The last few years have not witnessed any victorious action on the part of the seamen, who were beaten and routed in every one of their efforts. The fundamental cause of this is the lack of unity in the international movement of the seamen. International solidification of the forces of the seamen in their struggle against capital is today the most serious, most pressing task facing the seamen of all countries. To this task must be subordinated all other issues, before this task all the secondary differences must disappear.

"This is the question we raise before you. If it is difficult and practically impossible to come to an understanding with the seamen's organisations that have completely or partially gone over to the side of capital (Fargette, Havelock Wilson, Julietti), it is certainly possible and extremely necessary to establish some sort of unity and agreement among the revolutionary seamen. It is primarily a question of the establishment of an agreement between the revolutionary seamens organization grouped around the I. P. C. and the revolutionary seamen organized in the I. W. W.

"The main difficulties which have stood hitherto in the way of such an agreement consisted of the fact that in the center of all negotiations stood the question of the affiliation of the I. W. W. to the Red International of Labor Unions, which the I. W. W. has refused to do. However, the above mentioned situation urgently dictates the establishment of some sort of an agreement. That is why the I. P. C. of Transport Workers considers it necessary to urge you to take up the question of contact and co-operation between the I. P. C. and your organization.

"That such contact, co-operation and friendly connections are absolutely indispensible, is shown by the following fact. Lately the organs of European shipping companies have been conducting a strenuous campaign on the question of the so-called "desertion" of the European seamen and on the work of the I. W. W. The quitting of the European vessels at American seaports by the seamen, which is due to bad conditions and low pay, is explained by the I. W. W. agitation, according to the capitalist press.

"And we are now facing the preparation of a crusade against the European seamen on the one hand, and against the I. W. W. on the other, on the part of the European shipping interests. We have information to the effect that this question is being vigorously discussed among the employers and that hostilities will be opened after the presidential elections in America. In this letter the unification of our forces, co-ordination of the activities of our two organizations is a most practical issue, the solution of which may be of vital effect in the struggle of the seamen of all countries.

"In view of the fact that on February 25, 1925, the bureau of our International Propaganda Committee is to hold a conference in Berlin, Germany, at which will be discussed the work of our marine section, we invite you to send an official representative with full powers to our conference, for the purpose of discussing our relations. We believe that with an unprejudiced and unbiased approach to this matter, it would be possible to agree on the fundamental questions of our work, each side retaining the necessary freedom of action.

"We shall be extremely pleased to welcome at our conference an authoritative representative of the Marine Transport Workers' Industrial Union as the representative of a fraternal organization.

"Please apply on all questions connected with this proposal to our representative in the United States, Comrade Otto Wangerin, Como Boulevard, St. Paul, Minn., who is to deliver you this letter. Fraternally,

"Shachnovsky,

"Secretary of the International Propaganda Committee of Revolutionary Transpart Workers."

Members of the M. T. W.! Your officials have concealed from you the very existence of the above communication. They have not answered it or acted upon it. Yet here is still time for action, still time for a delegate from the New York headquarters to attend the Berlin Conference and officially represent the M. T. W. as requested, in plans for co-ordination of the struggle against capitalism and without reference to the matter of affiliation of any or all of the I. W. W. to the R. I. L. U.

The membership of the M. T. W. must urge that this be done, and must insist that the New Orleans Conference open the door to solidarity of all revolutionary marine workers of the globe.

PORTO RICANS GAVE COOLIDGE FORMAL PROTEST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—President Coolidge personally received from the hands of Santiago Iglesias, of the Porto Rican legislature, about the middle of January, a formal statement, typewritten and accompanied by a large number of affidavits, describing the wholesale frauds practiced by the unionist alliance against the working class ticket in the election last November. This statement asked the president to investigate the theft of the government of Porto Rico, in this election.

On Feb. 6, an authorized White House spokesman announced that President Coolidge had never heard of charges of election frauds in Porto Rico.

The visit of Iglesias and former Speaker Coll-Cuchi of the lower house of the Porto Rican legislature to the White House on Feb. 6 was devoted to a discussion with Mr. Coolidge of the economic misery in the island, because both Porto Ricans assumed that the petition handed to the chief executive three weeks earlier had been read.

Injunction to Help Scab Garment Firm Made It Bankrupt

Injunctions failed to produce profits for the Daniel Boone Woolen Mills, Inc., the open shop clothing makers of Rock Island and elsewhere, it would appear from the report of Joseph Byfield, new president of the concern. He has a woeful picture to transmit to his stockholders in his report on 1924 operations. Byfield hints at amazing dishonesty in management.

Attempts to unionize the Daniel Boone plant in Rock Island last year produced a shower of injunctions that forbade picketing, peaceful discussion and almost all other activity on the part of organizers and pro-union workers. Girl workers were roughly treated by company agents and police. The mills tried to keep on producing. Meanwhile the company assets were shrinking portentously.

The company balance sheet at the end of 1923 showed a surplus of $467,605. In one year this had rotted into a deficit of $2,678,496. The woolen and worsted plants will probably be sold and the business confined to the making of clothing in the Moline, Rock Island, and Davenport factories. Stockholders will have to put up $500,000 to keep the concern going.

HOW THEY MAKE THE WORKERS PAY

"In one week, the first week of January, the capitalist class struck its first three blows at the working class.

"In the first week of January the textile barons, the National Association of Textile Manufacturers, whose president, Morgan Butler, is the son of Coolidge's campaign manager, slashed the wages of 1,021.864 workers 10 per cent!

"In the first week of January, by the direct order of Coolidge, the strike-breaker president, the United States senate voted down the wage demands of 300,000 underpaid postal workers.

"In the first week of January, and on the last day of that week, on January 7, the capitalist class stabbed at the heart of the working class, the Workers (Communist) Party, by imprisoning under a ten-year sentence Charles E. Ruthenberg, executive secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, in the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson, Michigan, and announced that Robert Minor will be brought to trial in February. William Z. Foster is to be tried for the second time, in the hope of finally locking him up to prevent him from serving the workers. William F. Dunne, and a score more leaders of the Workers (Communist) Party, are scheduled to follow soon after, on charges merely of 'assembling' in a meeting to discuss the interests of the working class!"

The above from leaflet, "STRIKE AGAINST THE WAGE CUTS," published by the national office of the party and sold to the membership for $3.00 a thousand or $1.50 for 500. It's up to you to procure a supply for free distribution. The workers must be informed of the national scope of the capitalist drive on their class. Has your branch or city central committee ordered any? If not, why not? Forward your order to Workers Party of America, National Office, 1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

IF an incomplete pun may be pardoned, it might be said that Abdel-Krim, put a Riff in Spain's loot. Like wise politicians the Riffians have called on God to assist them in freeing their country of the invader and like a good patriotic Riffian, he answered the prayer tho it is questionable if he would have done so had the enemy been France instead of Spain. God has a wholesome fear of artillery, efficiency and military genius, all of which the Spaniards do not possess. The latest report from Tangier, indicates that Spain has barely a toehold on Riffian territory. Abdel-Krim, intends to chop off the toe as soon as gets thru celebrating the marriage of his son with the daughter of Raisuili, his former enemy but now his ally—because Raisuili is almost dead.

IT should not be forgotten that Spain is ruled by the fascisti of which Primo de Rivera is the chief. This Spanish Mussolini undertook to defeat the Moroccans when he seized office, executed a few of his opponents and exiled the most dangerous of the rest. But Primo was out of luck. Most of the money he sent to Morocco to bribe the native chieftains is now in the hands of Abdel-Krim who seems to be making good use the dough. The idea of marrying his son to Raisuili's daughter, and thus securing the Spanish pesetas legally by way of dowry was a brilliant piece of strategy of Krim's in case fortune might change her mind and put him on the losing side. The acquisition would be perfectly in accord with capitalist ethics and no bandit government would dare behead him for his financial dealings for fear of setting a precedent.

But still we have fossilized labor fakers fighting amalgamation because they fear loss of their jobs and they also fear any kind of progressive change.

GREEN ADVOCATES CLASS PEACE IN MIAMI SPEECH

Finds Parasite City Fine for ex-Miner

BULLETIN

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 12.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, ended its ten day session here today. The next session will be held in Washington in May.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 12.—Class collaboration, sweet and lovely harmony between the bosses and the wage slaves, was the text of William Green, president of the A. F. of L., in his two recent speeches in this city.

He spoke to a crowd of 2,000 at the Royal-Palm park and again to the Miami Advertising club. The tremulous fears of the millionaire winter resort city's bourgeoisie lest the head of the American Federation of Labor say something radical were unfounded. What the character of his speeches were is best illustrated by the accounts of them in the capitalist newspapers of this city of parasites. Here are some quotations:

"Labor Head is Far From Radical in Miami Speech."

"William Green, president of the America Federation of Labor, last night pledged 5,000,000 members as supporters of the constitution of the United States, condemned imported labor theories and pleaded for a stronger co-operation between employe and employer.

"The address made by the chief executive of all labor organizations set at rest any doubt about his attitude on matters of importance to labor, and dispelled the rumor that he was inclined to be radical in theories."

Appreciates Luxury of Capitalist Playground.

At the Advertising club, Green said: "You can understand how much I appreciate the experience of being in Miami, when I tell you that for 15 years I worked in a coal mine.

"There seems to be an understanding of peace and unity between labor and capital in Miami. Labor and capital cannot hate each other if they understand each other. Misunderstanding is the cause of strife. Understanding means concord."

Government Man "Thanks God!"

This sentiment of class collaboration was promptly applauded by Edward Henning of the U. S. labor department who spoke following Green, saying:

"Thank God that when the reins fell from the palsied hands of Samuel Gompers, they fell into the virile hands of William Green."

ALBIA, IOWA, IS FORCED TO KNEEL TO "KING COAL"

ALBIA, Ia., Feb. 12.—This town is the center of the coal mining territory in southern Iowa. Coal is king here. All around are mining camps with villages with from 200 to 6,000 population. The present industrial depression, together with railroad rate discrimination and competition with the non-union fields of West Virginia, and Kentucky, has caused great suffering in this territory.

Most of the mines are only working part time, some one or two days a week, and still others less than that. One camp with 200 people has waited for over a year for the mine to start up—they still wait, suffering but stolid.

WEST INDIES NOW BECOMING THE HOME OF LANDLESS LABORERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.— American owned plantations are destroying the independence of the people of the West Indies. Control and penetration of Porto Rico, and to a less degree of Cuba by business concerns from the United States, has turned most of the people into landless day laborers on sugar, tobacco and fruit plantations.

The same process is in an earlier stage of development in the Dominican republic and Haiti. In the Dominican republic Americans are slowly creating plantations and turning the people into day laborers, continuing it tho the marines have left. In Porto Rico, the masses of the people are wretched. They live crowded and jammed together in inside court yard rooms. Their poverty is vile.

'WORK OR WAGES' JOBLESS DEMAND IN CLEVELAND, O.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 12.—Not charity but work, not soup kitchens but government maintenance at standard wages, these were the demands of about one hundred workers who responded to the call for a meeting to Cleveland.

John Brahtin, the first speaker, pointed out that unemployment is not an unusual phenomenon, but an integral part of the capitalist system of society in which production is carried on for profit instead of for the purpose of supplying the needs of society.

Tells About Dawes Plan.

He touched on the Dawes' plan in Europe and stated that it is the purpose of the American capitalists to compel the workers of this country to accept a reduction of their standard of living to the standard they have compelled the European workers to accept.

George Papcun, local organizer of the Trade Union Educational League, spoke of the effects of unemployment on the working class youth. He urged the young workers to join with the adult workers in a demand for the abolition of child labor and the government maintenance of the children of the workers and poor farmers.

An Appeal for Organization.

Herbert Benjamin, who is the chairman of the local political committee, made a stirring appeal for organization of both the employed and unemployed workers against wage reductions open shop campaigns and for work or wages to the unemployed. He pointed out that the employed as well as unemployed are menaced by the existence of a large army of workers without the means to secure a livelihood for themselves and their families. The Workers Party does not propose to offer soup kitchens to unemployed. Only thru organization and struggle will the workers gain any worthwhile improvement of their present condition, he stated. He appealed to those present to join with the Workers Party in the fight for the overthrowal of the capitalist system as a means of ridding the workers of all of the evils of capitalism.

Of those present sixty immediately filled out cards pledging their assistance to the Workers Party in its efforts to effect the organization of a united front against unemployment and wage cuts. The registration showed that these workers had been unemployed for periods ranging from four weeks to eight months.

Elect Committee of Action.

A committee of action composed of five members of the newly organized council was elected, to make further plans for the organization of the unemployed. It is proposed to organize a demonstration within two weeks. The demands of the workers will then be placed before the city council which will be called upon to take action to relieve the condition of the 30,000 to 50,000 workers now unemployed in this city.

The Workers Party is now preparing to organize a united front conference against unemployment in this city. Many local unions are expected to co-operate with the party in this effort.

'STRIKEBREAKER' GENERAL MILES LAUDS LINCOLN

Saber Rattler Exhumed by the Press Club

By CARL HAESSLER.

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

Quavering praise for Abe Lincoln from the antiquated militarist who denounced reform as violent revolution. This is the best Chicago could muster in honor of Illinois' greatest son on the 125th anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

Lieutenent-General Nelson Appleton Miles, retired from official gold-braid and saber rattling over 30 years ago, was exhumed by the Press club and the Lions club to express Chicago business opinion of the emancipator under whom Miles served as major general in the civil war.

Broke Railroad Strike

Tho Miles conquered Porto Rico in 1898 without armed opposition, his principal military achievement since the rebellion was as commander of the federal troops at Chicago during the great strike of the American Railway Union in 1894.

He directed President Grover Cleveland's military power that broke Eugene V. Debs strike and resulted in Gene going to prison in that year. While in the jail at Woodstock Debs became a socialist.

Miles' function as uniformed strikebreaker was the subject of official investigation by a commission appointed by Cleveland to inquire into the railway strike. Under fire of Commissioner Kernan, Miles became cautious in recounting his exploits against labor. He was unable to remember whether he had said "We have broken the backbone of the strike," as reported. But he did remember saying, "We have broken, in my opinion, the backbone of the opposition to the federal government." He admitted that military orders permitted soldiers with fixed bayonets to force men to work during the strike but he had no knowledge that this had actually been done.

History Plays Ironic Trick

The commissioners were very dubious of Miles' heroism in saving the country from revolution in 1894. "There is no evidence" the commission says on page XIV of its report, "That the officers of the American Railway Union at any time participated in or advised intimidation, violence or destruction of property." The commission favored the view that "much of the real responsibility for these disorders rested with the people themselves and with the government for not adequately controlling monopolies and corporations and for failing to reasonably protect the right of labor and redress its wrongs."

Traveling back in memory to the days of '61, Miles tells Chicago that he looked on Lincoln as a father. And Lincoln who proclaimed that labor comes before property is commandeered by a strikebreaker-general. History does play ironic tricks.

Irish Republican Shot.

BELFAST, Ireland, Feb. 12.—Thomas Carr, noted republican, was shot by the police today hen he was said to be resisting arrest. A woman passerby also was wounded.

Crude Oil Price Increased.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Feb. 12.—The Prairie and Gas company today increased prices of crude oil at the wells from 20 to 35 cents a barrel.

WARDEN STOPS THE DAILY WORKER WHEN PRISONERS STRIKE

The prisoners of the penitentiary of Moundsville, W. Va. are not permitted to see the DAILY WORKER and the WORKERS MONTHLY any longer. This was the information sent to our business office by the Warden, S. P. Smith.

Our readers will remember that we published a number of articles telling about the long term imprisonment of union coal miners for the unheard of offense of taking part in a parade. We also carried letters from the prisoners themselves telling about the conditions in that prison and the facts that let up to their imprisonment.

These articles were an inspiration to the miners in the prison and it seems to the other prisoners too judging from the following letter written by Warden Smith:

"DAILY WORKER: Replying to your letter advise that we had some strike trouble with our prisoners and are forced to stop the DAILY WORKER and the WORKERS MONTHLY . . . from being delivered to the prisoners. Yours very truly, S. P. Smith."

7,000 TROOPS TO GIVE "GEN." DAWES FASCIST BACKGROUND AT INAUGURAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Seven thousand troops will be used in the "simple" inaugural parade on March 4, the White House has decided.

The soldiers will march because they are being fed by the government anyhow, and Coolidge does not like to see them deprived of the exercise. Moreover, Gen. Dawes needs a military background to show to his best advantage.

The president believes that the main item of an inauguration is the presidential address. He is writing a long one, which will be broadcasted.

ANGLO-FRENCH MEET EXPECTED NEXT MONTH

Debts and Security on the Agenda

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Indications are growing that an Anglo-French conference will be held in London within the next month to discuss the questions of the interallied debts and of security.

The British have not been willing to link the two questions but they are beginning to feel in the face of French insistence that while they may be kept apart legally it will be impossible to avoid a certain amount of bargaining and simultaneous discussion.

It is possible that the discussion may take the form of two conferences sitting simultaneously. If this happens it will be hard to see how bargaining on both sides can be avoided.

British opinion is still strongly opposed to any commitment on the security question which might involve Great Britain in a war not of her own choosing and the effort of France to make a bargain over the debts is arousing keen resentment here.

Politicals in "Hole" While Rum Kings Had Soft Prison Berths

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 12.—Members of the Savannah bootleg ring, convicted and sent to Atlanta federal penitentiary for their rum selling activities, never had to spend a day behind prison bars after they bribed the warden and his deputy, they told the court here yesterday.

Ex-warden E. A. Sartain, and his deputy warden L. J. Fletcher made Fred Haar the warden's "chicken man," and allowed him to live in a separate room, wearing civilian clothes, the testimony showed. The bootleggers gave the warden, the deputy and the catholic chaplain, "Father" Thomas P. Hayden, all of whom have been forced to resign, ten thousand dollars for their special privileges.

C. Graham Baughn, another Savannah bootlegger, testified how he was allowed to play poker, eat good meals, go to the city whenever he liked, and given soft jobs. The priest turned states evidence and testified against the warden at the trial.

Bankers Spent Four Million to Elect Coolidge President

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12.—The election of President Coolidge last November cost the republican party five times as much as was expended by the democrats in their unsuccessful drive for John W. Davis, it was announced today by the Borah committee, which investigated campaign expenditures.

A report filed with the senate showed the republicans collected $4,360,478 and spent $4,279,469 while the democrats collected $821,037 and spent $903,908. The LaFollette progressives collected but $221,837 and spent approximately the same sum, according to the Borah comittee.

Recognition Stimulates Trade

MOSCOW, Feb. 12.—The Ukrainian commissariat of foreign trade has been receiving, since the recognition of the U. S. S. R. by France, a large number of enquiries from French and Belgian firms. These are interested in trade possibilities in Ukraine in regard to purchase of manganese ore, oak, eggs and other farming products.

Farmers Fight Militarism

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—Abolition of military training in the schools was advocated by a deputation from the United Farmers of Ontario to the provincial government. Premier Ferguson told the deputation he favored the cadet training.

MAKE SCABS INTO COPS TO BREAK STREET CAR STRIKE IN DAYTON, O.

DAYTON, O., Feb. 12—The city administration is deputizing the strikebreakers operating the streetcars of the Dayton Railway Co. as policemen. The union street car men are sticking to their strike and running buses competing with the traction company, while unionists and liberal-minded citizens threaten to punish city officials responsible for arming the strikebreakers when the municipal primaries occur next August.

REPORT KELLOGG MAY RESIGN JOB HE WAS TO GET

Paris Pact Explanation Disturbs Him

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Newspapers in London gave considerable prominence today to Washington reports that the United States Ambassador Kellogg may be forced to resign before taking office as secretary of state.

At the American embassy it was said Kellogg would not make any statement. His course of action regarding his appearance before a senate committee to explain the Paris financial agreement, depends upon instructions he receives from President Coolidge after arriving in Washington, it was said.

The delicacy of the allied debt situation at this time was given as the reason for Kellogg's silence. It is understood that Kellogg has been annoyed by the Washington reports, but considers his course in conformity with the wishes of the president. It was said that he, therefore, was not worrying, although he did not welcome a political row at the outset of his career as secretary of state.

ENGLAND FORCED TO ASK MORGAN TO SUPPLY GOLD

Return to Gold Standard Only If U. S. Permits

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Great Britain will revert to the gold standard at the earliest possible moment, Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer told the house of commons today.

Agitation in England regarding the gold standard has been second only to that over international debt. The right Hon. Montague Collet Norman, governor of the Bank of England returned recently from the United States, where he was said to have conferred with treasury department officials and New York financiers on the advisability of England returning to a gold standard.

British opponents declares that the gold standard would make Great Britain subservient to the United States because of America having control of the world's supply of gold.

Let Talk of Debt To America Die Out, Say French Leaders

PARIS, France, Feb. 12.—Former premier Briand told the joint commission on foreign affairs that "it is best to talk as little as possible about the French debt to America, and let the affair die down," at the commission's meeting here.

Premier Herriot said that the French debt was prematurely raised in America by former Ambassador Jules Jusserand. Herriot said that France will not settle her debt to England until she comes to an understanding with America.

BOSSES' SCHEME BROADCASTED BY THE KEPT PRESS

Double Production and Cut Staffs in Half

By ROBERT MINOR.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 12.— A brutal declaration of war against labor unionism and the standard of living of the 350,000 textile workers of New England has just been issued by the combine of cotton mill owners thinly disguised behind the name of a textile trade publication.

The declaration appears in the form of a paid advertisement published simultaneously in all capitalist newspapers in every important cotton mill center.

The Voice of Cal's Butler.

The advertisement is undoubtedly sanctioned by, if it is not the direct voice of William M. Butler, the cotton mill financier who managed Coolidge's presidential campaign and who is now chairman of the republican national committee and newly appointed senator from Massachusetts, acting for the textile combine whose spokesman he has been since the days of Murray Crane.

This ultimatum threatens the textile workers with the intimation that the ten per cent wage cut which has been so successfully maneuvered thru many mills in the past three months, will be extended to every mill in New England, or will probably be made deeper, or the workers locked out of all mills under the guise of closing down. Then the statement insinuatingly tells the workers that they themselves "can do much to cure this condition of unemployment and decreased wages."

What the workers "can do" about it is said sharp enough and straight enough to pierce the skin of a rhinocerous:

What Workers Can Do.

"Doubling up of the production per operative.

"One-half of the workers to be 'done away with,' while one worker shall produce as much as two formerly did.

"Go ahead on the basis that your overseers and your superintendents are your labor leaders.

"Don't be misled by any so-called labor leader outside of your own mill."

The words of the statement itself cannot be improved upon for a frank statement of the object of the present terrific campaign against the working class population of New England, which one is tempted to compare with the Dawes' plan of enslaving the workers of Germany. The text reads as in part as follows:

"A Practical Suggestion for Textile Operatives for Steady Employment and Increased Pay."

"Conditions in New England textile manufacturing have been bad for nearly four years. . ."

After dwelling on past depressed conditions and saying that the present condition shows "little improvement," it continues:

"In many mills wages have already been cut at least 10 per cent. In nearly every case operatives are earning less money because they are not fully employed. The operatives themselves can do much to cure this condition of unemployment and decreased wages.

"Increased production per operative, and a consequent lowering of the cost of production is going to be the salvation of cotton manufacturing in New England. . .

"The labor leaders ought to be the overseers and superintendents in the mills, who are interested in the welfare of the operatives and not any outside persons working for their own selfish advantage and self interest. . .

Speed Up!

"In one cotton mill with which we are very familiar, the weavers used to run sixteen automatic looms; now they are running thirty-two automatic looms up to 60 inches in width. The

TEXTILE WORKERS WIN STRIKE AGAINST SPEED SYSTEM OF WAGE CUTS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TILTON, N. H., Feb. 12.—Striking employes of Elm Woolen Mills are returning to work under agreement favorably settling their strike. The strike grew out of the company's attempt to increase the amount of work per man.

NORTH DAKOTA FARMERS LIKE DAILY WORKER

Admire Its Fighting Spirit

By ALFRED KNUDSON

BISMARK, N. D., Feb. 12.—The class conscious farmers and workers out here are quite favorably impressed with the DAILY WORKER.

The fact that our paper comes out every day and keeps up a persistent, continuous bombardment against the capitalists and their government and frankly tells the truth about the conditions of the workers in the factories and on the farms, is proof to them that the paper has strength and power.

Just how it can happen that the DAILY WORKER is able to keep afloat financially while some "socialist" and liberal papers go under for lack of funds, is somewhat of a mystery to our town and country friends in the west. "Where do they get the money from, to do all the work they are doing?" one farmer asked the other day. He was told that behind the DAILY WORKER and the Communist activities in the United States there stands a devoted membership, composed mainly of industrial workers, ready to go the limit in backing up both the paper and the organizational efforts of the Workers Party.

It is not an easy job, but by hard work it can be accomplished. He was also reminded of Comrade Loeb's significant statement: "It can't be done—except by Communists."

The DAILY WORKER is getting more and more necessary for the farmers and the workers. It is a weapon they must have in fighting banks, food gamblers and industrial and financial capitalists. It is no exaggeration to say that the DAILY WORKER is the only daily paper in the country today that dares to print the truth about American social, political and economic conditions.

It is a priceless gem and must be supported by party members and sympathisers to the limit of their resources.

WILLISTON, N. D., FARMERS ARE WARNED OF DANGER TO THEM IN LAWYER-CONTROLLED PRESS

By ANDREW OMHOLT.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

WILLISTON, N. D., Feb. 12.—The farmers and workers of Williams county, North Dakota, organized, a few years ago, with our hard earned money, a newspaper that we pleased to call the "Farmers' Press" with high hopes of making it a real farmers' and workers' paper.

But it has, as is the lot of most of these small town progressive papers, fallen into the hands of a gang of political adventurers headed by a legal fakir by the name of E. A. Francis, who was elected state's attorney as a candidate endorsed by the non-partisan league, still holding down the job as editor and professional "red baiter."

This piehound is now using the paper to slander and libel the workers' and peasants' Soviet government of Russia, the only place in the world ruled by people who work, undictated to by the international bankers, the Morgan interests.

Apes Bankers' Press.

In an editorial in the issue of Jan. 29 he is aping the big capitalist press of Morgan and Rockefeller by telling us that "Bill" Haywood, the I. W. W. leader, would prefer to live in Leavenworth penitentiary than in Soviet Russia.

According to the capitalist press, he was found starved and nearly frozen to death in the Armenian mountains beating his way out of Russia to America.

In the meantime "Big Bill" was actually living in comfort in the Lux Hotel, Moscow.

This echo of the capitalist press is again caught lying, in the interest of grain gamblers and bankers. He would like, he says, to have Haywood come to Williams county and lecture to the 42 Communists that voted for Foster.

What English Labor Leader Says.

Now let us see what Ben Tillet, one of the English trade union delegates to the Trade Union Congress in Moscow, after investigating conditions all over Russia, says:

"For Curzon and Churchill the Russian revolution is an outrage. They represent the Bolsheviki as brute beasts. But we found them to be human beings. Instead of nationalization of women, we find that nowhere is the woman so protected and nowhere does she enjoy such rights as in Soviet Russia. The Russian proletariat is engaged in such work of reconstruction as we have never seen outside of the frontier of Red Russia."

This editor, double-crosser to the farmers and workers of Williams county, sets himself up as an authority on Americanism and good citizenship.

This is the spokesman for the socialist party of the Second International, the Russian czar, Kornilovs, Wrangels, the kaisers and the Teapot Dome crowd, the whole capitalist class, which is to blame for the millions of farmers' and workers' lives lost in the last war, and the Russian counter-revolution. You, Mr. Francis, have become part and parcel of that murderous gang.

You farmers and workers of Williams county, are you going to stand for this ape of the socialist crowd as editor of your paper? Does he have to be editor in order to hold the job as state's attorney?

Or is he afraid to let anyone else in to find out that the Farmers' Press is a financial wreck?

Let us boot this legal scab out of our press. He should be satisfied with one job, "a real state's attorney."

In conclusion let me say this: The Workers (Communist) Party of America is the only organization today fighting the battle of the farmers and workers, against the capitalist system, and the DAILY WORKER is the only daily paper raising the standard for a workers' and farmers government in America.

WOMEN'S EIGHT HOUR BILL UP IN LEGISLATURE

Cement Companies Hope to Get Large Order

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12.—A bill providing for the eight-hour day for women was introduced into the Illinois legislature by Mrs. Lottie O'Neil of Dupage county. The bill provides exemptions for telephone and canning companies. The last session of the legislature voted down a woman's eight-hour day bill.

The house appropriations committee reported favorable recommendation on the Curran bill appropriating $50,000 to run the office of Attorney General Carlstrom until July 1, 1925.

The appropriations committee of the senate introduced a bill sponsored by Governor Small, making appropriations of $146,000,000 to build hard roads during the next two years. $5,000,000 of this money is to be spent for the purchase of cement. The cement companies supported Governor Small's election campaign with large contributions.

Railroad Issues Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The Chicago and Western Indiana railroad was authorized by the interstate commerce commission today to assume a liability for $27,755,000 of first and refunding mortgage bonds.

CAL'S BUTLER FIGHTS WORKERS

weavers are getting twice as much production, steadier work and a considerable increase in wages. . ."

This lying about "increase in wages" always in some vague, un-named place—is done in brazen disregard of the fact that wages are being reduced everywhere and in exactly those places where production is doubled per worker or speeded up. The statement continues:

Half of Workers to be Fired.

"In another mill the operatives have doubled up on the work; have had their pay increased as much as 20 per cent per operative; the weavers tend more looms, spinners tend more sides of spinning, card room help tend three frames where they used to tend only two; all extra hands have been done away with, and this 100,000 spindle mill with 3,000 looms, which before the war employed 1,200 operatives, now runs full with 600 operatives, all earning more money, all producing more goods, and all thoroly employed. The operatives have had steady work and increased wages; the mill has been profitably employed; the stockholders have had dividends, and by a doubling up of the work everybody has profited.

"This doubling up of the production per operative has become very common in New England. We know one Rhode Island mill where the weavers used to operate from twelve to sixteen looms, they now operate forty-eight looms. In a Fall River mill the weavers are tending fifty-five automatic looms; a New Hampshire mill they are tending sixty-four automatic looms; in a Maine mill they are tending forty looms; in a Massachusetts mill they are tending seventy-five looms, and in the other departments also, carding, spinning, etc., there has been a similar doubling up, and operatives have had full employment and increased wages.

Must Fawn to Hold Jobs.

"In most instances this increase of production per operative must start with the operatives themselves. Let the operatives talk it over amongst themselves. In mills where they are running twelve looms, let the operatives decide that they can tend fourteen or eighteen or twenty looms per weaver. Go to the overseer of weaving and tell him that you can do more work and get more production, and earn more money. Let the spinners decide that they can tend two or three more sides of spinning and go to the overseer of spinning and tell him that you can do more work and earn more money. Save money for the mill, and divide the saving with the mill."

Let Boss be your Labor Leader.

"Work as if it were your own business. Handle the whole job as if you were working for yourself, and no other mill can produce cotton goods more economically than can the mills of New England. The surest way in the world to increase wages will be to do more work. Go ahead on the basis that your overseer and your superintendent are your labor leaders, and make them be your leaders in fact as well as in name. Make your overseer hustle to keep up with you in production; make him hustle to figure out the increase in your weekly pay by the increase in the work that you do. Don't be misled by any so-called labor leader outside of your own mill to believe that it will profit you anything to do less work, or to make more jobs for more people.

"The operatives of the textile mills of New England are in competition with the operatives of the mills in other countries as well as other sections of this country. If you are in a race you try to win. In a race you run as fast as you can to win. You can beat the life out of the operatives in any other mills if you will make a race of it. . ."

The Southern Mills.

In the following passage we see the ingenious playing up of the "Southern mill" bogy, in complete disregard of the fact that the big southern mills are largely if not completely controlled by the same financial interests:

". . . The cotton mills of the south are busy, and hundreds of them are running day and night. This is because the costs of production are lower in the south, wages are lower, hours of operation are longer, so those southern mills are getting business. The New England cotton mill operatives can overcome this condition if they want to do so. If they will all double up in their work wherever possible, or do 50 per cent more work where 100 per cent more is not possible, or do 10 per cent more work where 50 per cent more is not possible, we can get the lowest cost of production of any mills in the world."

Trust the Preachers—They Wouldn't Lie!

"We do not ask the operatives in the New England mills to take our word for any of this, we suggest that they talk it over amongst themselves to see if it is not true. Ask your second hands about it. Ask your overseer. Ask any of your old time friends who have succeeded in their businesses and who are now in business on their own account. Go into the savings bank and ask the president of the bank, or the cashier if all this isn't true. Ask the clergyman of your church.

". . . We do not know how many looms each weaver can run. We do not know how many sides of spinning each operative can tend. Some are better workers than others. . ."

And the grand ultimatum closes with an insinuating plea for each textile worker to pit himself against his fellow workers in a race against his fellow workers in the effort to hold the half of the jobs which will not be abolished by the speeding up process.

The effect of the slave drivers' declaration, as far as it can yet be seen, is to stir up the fiercest rage among the workers here and a better understanding of what they are up against. It is expected to give great impetus to the united front conference movement, which is looked upon favorably by trade unionists of Bedford and Fall River.

Labor Re-organizes in Mississippi

MERIDIAN, Miss., Feb. 12.—The Trades and Labor Assembly of Meridian which disbanded during the open shop drive is reorganized. The open shop Marty Machine Co., is now known as the Farr Co. and will employ only men with union cards.

Vote Against Cigaret Curb.

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 12.—The senate has voted to repeal the law against the sale of cigarettes. The sale of cigarettes to minors is restricted in the senate bill. The state solons probably expect this to send the farmers' problems up in smoke.

MUSICIANS'-PAY LOOKS GOOD BUT IT DOESN'T LAST SO VERY LONG

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Provisions for a ten dollar weekly increase in pay will be written into the new agreement between Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians and the management of the Philharmonic orchestra.

The union originally asked for an increase of twenty-five dollars. The minimum pay of $60 weekly before the increase meant less annual income than appears at first sight for the season lasts only 30 weeks. The minimum will now be $70, or $75 with an extra rehearsal.

The New York Symphony orchestra of 100 players is touring Cuba and is expected to demand similar terms on return. Agreements will probably run for two years.

NEW YORK STATE EMPLOYMENT OFF IN MOST LINES

Only Steel Showing Important Gain

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 12—Losses in employment in the factories of New York state in January that are not entirely seasonal are reported by the state industrial commisioner. The general level of employment is slightly lower than in December.

Something has apparently gone wrong with the employment boom which was supposed to accompany the election of Coolidge. Employment in New York state is still 7½ per cent below January, 1924 and 10 per cent below January, 1923. This means that nearly 120,000 workers who had jobs in January, 1923, are out of a job today.

Employment in railroad equipment factories suffered a setback, according to the report, with a couple of thousand workers laid off. The lay-offs in the building material industry were more severe than usual. Brickyards with 1,600 workers in January, 1924 were employing only 900 this January.

Steel mills alone showed important gains. Other industries showed irregularity with some concerns gaining while others laid off workers or operated on a part-time basis. The textile industry did not report the usual seasonal gains.

Coolidge Sticks to Tool of Trusts For Attorney General

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12.—President Coolidge has refused to withdraw the name of Charles Beecher Warren from nomination as attorney general, after a delegation of senate leaders had pointed out that Warren's connection with the sugar trust is embarrassing to them.

Coolidge advised the senators to keep Warren's name in the judiciary committee until after March 5, when the next session of congress, which has a safe Coolidge majority, can shove thru the nomination.

The democratic senators are trying to force a vote by the judiciary committee and a report to the senate on the Warren nomination. The judiciary committee is said to be evenly divided at this time.

Children in Industry Are Easy Victims of Industrial Accidents

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—John P. Coughlin, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York, discussing the proposed child labor amendment urged the need of legislation giving congress the power to regulate the labor of children up to eighteen years. He emphasized the greater percentage of industrial accidents occurring to children because of their playful and reckless spirit. "Almost every mechanic you meet," said Coughlin, "has lost one, two or hree fingers, and you will find the chances are he lost them when a boy horse-playing' around dangerous machinery."

If You Dance Sunday Evening, Why Not Dance with Wobblies?

The wobblies of Chicago are holding a big smoker and dance next Sunday, Feb. 15th, at Prudential Hall, North avenue and Halsted street. The program begins with entertainment and speaking at 3:30 in the afternoon, and the dance starts at 7:30 in the evening.

Ralph Chaplin, Vern Smith and John Gahan are among the speakers, and the dancing will be to music of the Black Cat orchestra. All workers are invited to come. Refreshments, it is stated, are free. Admissions help the wobbly press.

Emancipation Struggle Still on for Oppressed Labor Under Capitalism

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the dead past gets its overflow of attention from orators upholding present conditions, in the commemoration of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. Banks declare a legal holiday, the stock exchanges and chambers of commerce are closed, the offices of capitalist government are locked tight. But in the mills, the mines and the factories, the wheels of industry continue to hum. Business adopts Lincoln, like Washington, as one of its heroes, but fearing that labor may inject a class angle into the celebration, workers are held cautiously aloof.

Everywhere, in the exercises of the Kiwanis Clubs or of military organizations, it is the flag of Wall Street that is carefully wrapped about the Lincoln of America's Civil War. Wall Street's chosen agent, Senator Smoot, delivers the eulogy in congress.

Among Negroes Lincoln is raised to the pinnacle of a "saint" or a "god." Sixty years after the Civil War we find this idol worship continuing to manifest itself in the Negro custom of voting the republican ticket, while "The Solid South," white, goes democrat.

• • • •

This year much is made of what is alleged to be a hitherto missing copy of a speech by Lincoln in closing his campaign against Stephen A. Douglas for a seat in the U. S. senate in 1858. This was two years before Lincoln was elected president.

The speech is important for workers, especially Negro workers, in that it shows that Lincoln at this date had absolutely no intention of playing the role of "emancipator." He was not opposed to chattel slavery as an institution if it could be confined to the boundaries that then held it in the South. Some of the more significant passages are as follows:

> "The legal right of southern people to reclaim their fugitives I have constantly admitted. The legal right of congress to interfere with their institution in the states I constantly denied. In resisting the spread of slavery to new territory, and with that, what appears to me to a tendency to subvert the first principle of free government itself, my whole effort has consisted."

Lincoln thus upheld chattel slavery, even to using the government in returning fugitive slaves to their masters. He only resisted its spread to new territory. It was not until years later, under the pressure of Civil War developments, that Lincoln was forced to resort to the "Emancipation Proclamation" as a war measure. In the early days of the war even using Negroes as soldiers in the armies of the North had been bitterly opposed. It was thought a crime to rob the southerner of his slaves, even as a necessity of war.

The millions of Negroes were freed from chattel slavery because of developing economic conditions in the middle of the last century that laid the basis of the present capitalist system. Instead of the chattel slaves of 60 years ago, the Negroes with workers of all colors and nationalities are the wage slaves or today. Worshipping Lincoln as the "emancipator" of chattel slavery days will not help Negro workers or white workers win today's struggle against capitalism. All workers must realize the huge economic forces that drive on to new revolutions and new civil wars, that must result in new victories for the oppressed class of today.

Washington was a revolutionist in his day. But he was an aristocrat and a slaveholder. Jefferson, hailed as an ideal democrat by middle class elements and even by some sections of labor, was also a slaveholder. Altho Lincoln plunged the country into civil war he did not originally believe in emancipating the Negroes.

It is well to understand this past history and the part that various individuals played in its making. But it must be understood only in the sense that this understanding helps fight the battles of today. It will be found that those who shout loudest about Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln today, are those who are on the wrong side of the revolutions and civil wars of today.

• • • •

If Negro workers would be liberated from wage slavery they must join in the extermination of the same social system—capitalism—that freed them from chattel slavery. Voting the republican ticket will not do that. Idol worship of Civil War heroes will not do it. Supporting patriotic and purely race organizations only helps strengthen the fetters of the exploiters. Instead all Negro workers must unite, in one front, with all workers against their capitalist masters. They will find that the emancipating leadership in this struggle of an oppressed class is the Workers (Communist) Party; that the future belongs to Communism.

HAT FINISHERS' UNION TO STRIKE AT ORANGE, N. J.

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 12.—A hatters' strike is expected to be declared when the Orange local of the Hat Finishers' Union meets here to take action on the failure of the manufacturers to sign an agreement for a new scale of wages.

About 3,000 men and 800 women, hat trimmers, will be involved in the expected strike. The "Big Five" plants are the E. B. Connett, No Name, W. R. Rutan, Trimble and Charles Berg. The Connett and No Name firms signed the agreement.

Big Six Election Fight Now on in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—There is a chance of a fight in the coming election in Big Six, (International Typographical Union No. 6). Opposition has been aroused against the present administration and candidates may be nominated by a number of the members who don't like the way they are carrying on Big Six's work.

The opposition is more especially concentrated against the president of Bib Six, Leon Rouse, so that there may be another head of the union soon.

LEAGUE WARNS AUSTRIA TO CUT DOWN EXPENSES

Socialists Play Usual Prostitute Role

GENEVA, Feb. 12.—The league of nations warned Austria that unless the viennese government turns over a new leaf and adopts the economy measures insisted on by the financial committee of the league, it will find itself on a doorstep some cold morning, without any visible wet nurse.

It appears that Austria is troubled because it has a large working class population which insists on eating and drinking. This predeliction for nourishment is playing havoc with the government's budget and all attempts to carry out the mandates of the league have met with failure. A few weeks ago the league offered Austria to the highest bidder but none was found to accept the charge. The social democratic are willing to play the role of prostitutes to the international bankers and are perfectly happy under the present receivership.

The Communists declare that there cannot be any solution of the Austrian question short of a European revolution with Austria becoming a part of a Federated Socialist Soviet Republic.

BAD CONDITIONS OF HOUSING IN N. Y, REVEALED

New Homes Are Being Built Only for Rich

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 12. — The survey of housing in this city just made by the tenement house commissioner reveals appalling conditions. It shows that there is at present less than half the normal vacancies in tenement houses.

Among these tenements packed with humanity there are more than 550,000 obsolete apartments built over twenty years ago and now condemned by law as unfit for occupation still housing over 2,000,000 workers.

The report dignifies with the name of "apartment" these hovels without air, sunshine, rudimentary sanitation or even a glimpse of the blue sky.

Beware of Greek Gifts.

This report fully convinces the workers that any relief offered them by capitalism is a Greek gift that they must beware of.

A bill is now pending before the city legislature to extend further the emergency act exempting from taxation all newly built dwellings in order to encourage building them. This act was adopted in 1921 when housing became acute.

Build High Class Apartments.

An investigation of the workings of this act now reveals that while it has already cost the city $800,000,000 in exempted taxes it has resulted so far only in one or two building projects of rooms for workers renting at $9 to $12 per month, the vast building operations going on in the city since then being in high class apartment houses renting at $25 to $30 per month per room, that real estate speculators took advantage of.

INTERNATIONAL RED AID DEMANDS THAT AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT STOP PERSECUTING POLITICAL EXILES

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 12.—The Austrian government is now carrying into practice what it had intended in its decree on the prohibition of the Red Aid. It has completely abolished the right of asylum for political emigrants.

On January 12th, the German political emigrant Karl Zorusch, who had came some months ago to Austria as a fugitive, was arrested by the Austrian police on account of an alleged telegram of the German authorities. demanding his delivery to Germany. The comrade lived in the barrack which the Red Aid has provided for political emigrants. When the Legal Council of the Red Aid asked the police for information about the case, the answer was, that our comrade was not accused of a political offence but of a common crime. Comrade Zorusch is persecuted by the court of Dresden charged with infringement of the law on explosives

Asylum Abolished

Thus the right of asylum in Austria is abolished. For any capitalist court may affirm that a political fugitive has committed a "common crime." Every arrest can be justified in this way. In this manner, on the basis of artificially constructed accusations, all political fugitives will be delivered to their hangmen. Today the German bourgeoisie demands its victim, to-morrow the Roumanian, Hungarian, Bulgarian or Italian terror states will utilize the Austrian police as their mercenaries in order to capture the escaped proletarian class fighters.

Comrade Zorusch has been placed before the court, in the meantime which will decide on his delivery to the Ebert justice. This is the first case of a formal delivery of a political emigrant, since 1920.

Horthy Demands His Blood

Two days after this case occured. the Austrian justice looked for its second victim. On January 14th the Hungarian Comrade Vidra was arrested in order to be delivered to the Horthy justice. Vidra was the leader of a red guard troop in Soviet Hungary. He was arrested in 1919 but soon released for lack of evidence against him. Since that time he lived in Vienna with his wife and child and devoted himself to his work. His child has died now and he received a permission to stay for another year. But he was arrested because his delivery to the Horthy gang was demanded on account of "suspicion of murder." The Austrian government which knows the case very well. is shameless enough to comply with the "wishes" of the hangmen's government.

Others To Follow

The right of asylum, has thus been abolished for political emigrants in Austria. The Austrian working class will have to take energetic action because this act of violence is only one link in a chain. Accusations against editors of the labor press, imprisoning and class sentences against starving unemployed, preventing of the supporting of political prisoners by prohibition of the Red Aid,—this is the road which is taken by the Austrian government because the international capitalists demand it.

All workers without exception must resist this systematic campaign of persecutions. Furthermore the persecutions must be prevented by an intensification of the Red Aid activity.

The German workers, too, must fight German class justice which calls political emigrants "common criminals" in order to get them into prison. The whole international proletarian must fight for the right of asylum in all countries.

SHOALS GIVEN AWAY BY CAL UNDER NEW BILL

Charge Weeks Working for Hooker-White

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12.—The Underwood bill, providing for the turning over of the Muscle Shoals power project to private individuals, has been amended by senate and house conferes so that the private interests receiving the property may make a much larger profit, at smaller outlay.

The conference changed the allowable profit on fertilizer from one to eight per cent.

Weeks' Finger in Pie

The Hooker-White group of New York, thru Secretary of War Weeks, who has been favorable to them, are said to benefit by the conference amendement which allows the lessees to build up an electro-chemical development simillar to that at Niagara Falls.

The Underwood bil originaly required power not needed for the manufacture of fertilizer "to be sold for distribution in the south." The new conference bill exempts from distribution all power, "needed for fertilizers and other useful products which will reduce the costs of fertilizers.'

Responsibility On Government

The lessee, under the conference bill, is freed from responsibility for the safety of the dams, and is not required to set aside a fund to make necessary repairs or take care of depreciation.

The Underwood bill ordered dam number three kept by the government, but the conference bill provides that dam number three shall be completed by the private interests and kept by them on the same terms as the Wilson dam. The rental to be paid by the private interests to the government has been reduced to almost nothing. Instead of being required to pay as rental four per cent of the cost of the Wilson dam, as the Underwood bill required, the private interests will be required to pay no interest whatever on the cost of the locks at dam number two and three, "nor upon any additional amount to be determined by the president, and representing the value of this development to navigation improvement."

Pay Almost Nothing

The private interests would thus have to pay interests only on the actual power houses, receiving the entire project for practically nothing.

Under the amended bill, the lessee can be exempt from any additional payment.

Coolidge Calls Peace Meet; Approves Big War Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—President Coolidge gave official aprproval again today to the calling of another world limitation of armament conference whenever conditions abroad make such a project feasible.

A request that the president call such a conference was contained in the 1925-26 naval appropriation bill which became law this afternoon with executive approval. The bill carries a total of $287,000,000 for the operation of the navy during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

SACCO—VANZETTI MUST BE FREED WORKERS DEMAND

United Front Mass Meeting On March 1

A mass meeting protesting against the continued imprisonment of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, and demanding the immediate release of these two class war prisoners will be held Sunday, March 1, at 2:30 p. m., in Emmet Memorial Hall, Ogden and Taylor Aves., south.

Speakers will be Jack W. Johnstone, secretary of the Trade Union Educational League, Antonio Presi, editor of the Italian Communist newspaper, Il Lavoratore, and P. J. Welinder, secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Chicago local of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Arrested in "Red Raids."

Judge Thayer denied Sacco and Vanzetti a new trial last October. The two labor leaders were framed up and sentenced to die on a murder charge. Attorneys for Sacco and Vanzetti have appealed to the Massachusetts supreme court for a new trial.

Sacco was recently transferred to an insane asylum following a nervous breakdown caused by his years of confinement in Massachusetts prisons. The two labor organizers were arrested during the "Red Raids" in May, 1920, and questioned about their "radical activity." They were then charged with having committed a payroll holdup and murder in South Braintree on April 15, 1920. They were convicted on framed up testimony.

Are You Going to the Open Forum Sunday Night?

Plight of Aristocrat Stirs Congress to "Humane" Action

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12.—Suddenly discovering both poverty and pity, in the instance of the 1,600 children in the national capital who are each year placed under the charge of the board of children's guardians, the house has voted for a makeshift scheme of pensioning the mothers of these boys and girls, in order that they may be kept at home.

Rep. Blanton of Texas, ordinarily harsh and hostile to every humane measure, proposed this amendement to a bill establishing a board of public welfare for the district. His amendment read: "Provided, That under the provisions of this act no child shall be taken from the custody of its parent or parents except upon the ground of immorality of such parent or parents, and where the father and mother are financially unable to care for the child or children, the mother shall be paid the same compensation for their care as would be paid to outsiders under the practice heretofore prevailing."

Hitherto, the government has paid $20 a month to the family or person to whom the board of children's guardians entrusted a child. Blanton's amendment was adopted, against the protest of committee members, because a southern woman of "good family," discouraged with having to support herself and two children by plain sewing, had killed herself and both children in their apartment in Washington two nights before. Tragedy in a gentle family woke up the legislators, whom appeals in the name of common humanity in the alley tenements had left indifferent.

Coolidge Postal Pay Bill Again Goes To Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The administration's postal pay and rate increase bill was laid before the senate this afternoon by the post office committee as reported. It was the same bill passed by the senate several days ago, but action is again required thru the refusal of the house to accept the senate bill and the passage of one of its own.

How We Live and Work

Editor's Note:—This paper is printed for the workers, poor farmers and those who work and sweat under the present system of society. It is a paper of the workers, by the workers and for the workers. We want to reach every corner of this country where labor is being exploited for private gains, for profit. We want the workers and farmers all over the country to read the DAILY WORKER. In order to make it more interesting and be able better to reflect the life of the wide laboring masses, WE WANT OUR READERS TO WRITE TO US. This new department "HOW WE LIVE AND WORK" will appear as often as there will be sufficient letters from our readers about the life and working conditions under which our masses struggle. Try to make the letters interesting bringing out facts which may not be known to workers in other sections of the country. Try to make them short and to the point.

Life in the Coal Mines.

To the DAILY WORKER. — My friend, Alonzo Walters, gave me your address and asked me to write something once in a while for the DAILY WORKER.

Yesterday a coal miner's wife, Mrs. T., called on me. Her husband is a secret service man she told me. He works in the coal mines for $3.65 per day. His seven children are going hungry wearing clothes that won't keep out the cold. Day after day the father sees their little pinched, hungry faces and little bodies shivering in the cold. And he calls himself a loving father.

A Company Sucker.

"Mrs. T., your husband is what our boys call a company sucker," I told her. "And when the miners here are more strongly organized they won't stand for a dead beat like Mr. T."

The men here are so exploited by the coal barons they can't call their souls their own. Yesterday was pay day in the camps. What a mockery it all is. Not more than a dozen miners drew any money. One Italian came in Saturday night. He said he received no money in his pay envelope for six months. "My babies need shoes, and everything else," he said, "but I can't buy them a thing."

Bosses Well Fed.

I saw both superintendents and their families Sunday. They wear good, warm clothes and had plenty of good food.

When I go among my people and see the suffering, the poverty and misery, I feel as tho my heart would break. I know what it is to do without the necessities of life. When I see our men and boys going into those holes to make money for Mr. Coal Operator and then see Mr. Operator riding around in his big automobile, I want to put him in overalls, give him a pick and shovel, and tell him to see how his poorly paid "yellow dog" slaves make his riches for him.

Day after day we can see our boys growing up and going to work in the black holes for the coal kings. I saw my daddy, a big, husky man, give up the best part of his life to the coal kings. Then my brother followed dad's footsteps.

Dad was working for the Dixie Splint coal company at South Clinchfield, Virginia. He would strip off his clothes and go into those mines, with water reaching to his waist and pull out old timbers to get the mines in working condition. Dad would say: "Boys, you wait here until I see if everything is safe inside." All the miners loved my dad. As time went on the Dixie Splint became richer.

Loses Job.

The operator's wife bought a table cloth costing $350 and paid $500 for a dinner gown. As the years went by they became so rich they forgot the ones who made their money. Dad was taken with a severe illness. His savings were swallowed up. One day the operator's wife came in to see dad. Dad needed medical aid, food and clothing. Did they give dad these? No. She said, "Dad, send Roy over and I'll give you a magazine to read." Finally dad was well enough to go to work. When he got to the mines, Scott, the owner, told dad, "I gave your job to Mack Jones. I'll see what I can do for you."

But dad never got another job there. He was old and broken down for Mr. Coal King.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Eula Bailey

WEST VIRGINIA MINERS BURY THEIR DEAD

Great Demonstration For John Kello

By A Miner.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GRANT TOWN, W. Va.—The West Virginia miners have again shown their solid fighting front and their spirit of comradeship with those who fall in the fight for the union. The last Sunday in January saw a tremendous out-pouring of miners and their families from all over this region to do demonstrative honors to John Kello, union miner, who fell in a fight with scab miners on a road near here ten days ago.

Great Demonstration.

Fully 5,000 miners, with families, making an aggregate of 8,000, gathered in the gulches and marched with bands playing the famous funeral dirges of great masters, first to the boarding house, which was Kello's only home, then to the little village church and thence to the grave. By thousands they filed by the coffin of their dead and gave way to their emotions with tears for the dead and curses for the coal operators and their scabs and mine guards.

Altho John Kello was raised a catholic, the service was protestant and he was not buried in "consecrated" ground, but in a plot of ground bought by the union miners. This ground, miners declare, is to be made into a shrine in memory of one of their number who proved a martyr to the cause of labor.

Large delegations came from every local in the district, and all day long the throng passed in and out of the boarding house where laid the body of John Kello. The marching column was one of the longest ever seen in the county.

A Scab Also Dead.

The clash with the scabs and mine guards in which Kello was fatally wounded, also resulted in the death of one of the scabs, Ray Tobin.

Tobin, with five other scabs and mine guards, had left a pool room, so it is reported, abopt 10 o'clock at night, and when going down the road met John Kello, whom they began to scoff at. Words passed. Kello called out in a loud voice and shots were fired by unknown persons towards the mine guards, one of whom was firing also. Tobin fell dead, the other scabs ran for their lives, and Kello died a few days later from a shot thru the back.

FLORIDA KLAN SPREADS TERROR AMONG NEGROES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 12.—The ku klux klan staged a demonstration of terror in the Negro quarters here, wearing their full regalia and intimidating the Negroes. They declared when questioned they were "looking for loafers."

The klan has been allowed by the city administration to act on the police force. John Trotter, chief of detectives, has made policemen out of a number of klansmen and they are walking beats in the place of regularly appointed policemen. They work in squads of ten. Trotter claimed lack of funds prevented him from hiring regular policemen.

PREMIER SANTOS QUITS AS TROOPS PARADE STREETS

Portugal Gov't Out; Admit Disturbance

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 12. — The government of Portugal toppled here today when the chamber of deputies voted lack of confidence and Premier Santos resigned. The vote as 65 to 45.

The government was defeated after debate on the disturbances last week in front of the ministerial offices, when the troops fired into the crowds. A bomb was exploded during the disturbance, and four persons were seriously injured. Santos then presented a statement to the chamber of deputies, and on the strength of the statement, the chamber voted lack of confidence.

Troops paraded the streets around parliament today, fearing further outbreaks.

City Meets Bankers' Traction Terms on Approval of Dever

The committee on transportation of the city council will submit Mayor Dever's ordinance to the city council tomorrow, having approved the price of $162,843,584 to be paid to the bankers for the traction lines, on the advice of Mayor Dever.

Dever told the transportation committee he considered the price "a trifle high," but recommended that it be paid, and the committee voted to accept the bankers' terms by a vote of 8 to 1. Alderman Wiley Mills voted against Dever's recommendation.

"There is not the slightest merit to that question," Dever replied upon being asked, "What conceivable control is given the people over service under the ordinance?" When Dever was asked what he considered the surface lines worth, he replied that the question was "foolish."

When an alderman asked, "Do you contend that buying the surface lines will give rapid rapid transit to all the people," Chairman Schwartz said to him: "You are an offensive little fool."

The Dever ordinance binds the city to refinance the surface lines, and leaves the bankers in control of the traction system for at least 20 years.

Shaft Near Collins' Tomb at Depth of Forty-Four Feet

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 12—The shaft being dug toward the tomb of Floyd Collins, buried alive in a crevice in Sand Cave, reached a depth of 44 feet yesterday morning. The diggers were heartened by evidence that they are nearing the end of their desperate endeavor to reach Collins' prison. The crevices increased in number, and the cave crickets also became more numerous.

"The cave crickets never burrow more than two or three feet from a cavern, and I believe we are near a tunnel," Chief Engineer Carmichael, in charge of the digging of the shaft said.

All preparations have been made to care for Collins in case he is brought out alive. Hospital supplies and physicians are in readiness to fight for Collins' recovery if a spark of life is left when the search ends.

This installment is part of a pamphlet "Leninism or Trotskyism" now in preparation. It includes articles by three outstanding figures in the Russian Communist Party: G. Zinoviev, I. Stalin and C. Kamenev, to form a most timely and important contribution to a discussion of world interest. The pamphlet will be of 64 pages, selling at 20 cents and will be ready at the conclusion of this serial publication.

Lenin criticized severely those comrades (including me) who had not observed that the revolution had already passed from one phase to another. He feared most that progress would be hindered by the party's falling into the rut of Trotsky's abstract theory, and again he accuses it of wanting to spring over the peasants' movement before this was in our hands.

There was no need for Lenin to change his equipment. The old Leninist theory, the old Leninist, Bolshevist conception of the character of the Russian revolution, and of the relations between proletariat and peasantry, were seen by Lenin to have proved fully correct. And now we had to advance further on the same lines. But the greatest care must be taken, in the advance, not to fall into Trotsky's mistaken footsteps. Twelve years before 1917 Lenin had prophesied that, after the revolutionary democratic dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry had been realized, we should have to advance to the dictatorship of the proletariat, and must create conditions under which the peasantry co-operate with the proletariat, without simply ignoring the peasantry as Trotsky proposes. Bolshevism does not need to borrow weapons from the arsenal of Trotskyism.

At the same time, there were some Bolsheviki who did not advance so rapidly from stage to stage required by the tremendous acceleration of the revolution caused by the enormous pressure of the war. But this does not in the least signify that Bolshevism was on the wrong track, that it lead into a bog instead of to victory or that it had to be altered during the revolution. And this is just what Trotsky is trying to prove.

Trotsky has never grasped the essentials of the Leninist theory on the relations between the working class and the peasantry in the Russian revolution. Even after October he did not grasp it, and he did not grasp it when our party successfully manoeuvred for the realization of the dictatorship of the proletariat without separation from the peasantry. His own theory, which in his opinion has proved entirely right, has prevented him from grasping the Bolshevist position. If Trotsky's theory had proved correct, this would signify that the Soviet power would long since have ceased to exist. This theory of "permanent revolution," which does not trouble about the peasantry or provide any solution for the question of the alliance between the proletariat and the peasantry, renders the labor government in Russia absolutely dependent upon the immediate proletarian revolution in the West. According to the theory the proletariat, after having taken over power, is plunged into the most hopeless contradictions. Its power is limited by objective social difficulties:

"Their solution is prevented by the economic backwardness of the country. Within the confines of a national revolution there is no means of escape from this contradiction." (Trotsky, "1905," Russian edition, p. 286.)

Under such conditions a delay or postponement of the proletarian world revolution would have inevitably caused the immediate collapse of the workers' dictatorship in Russia. Thus the adherents of the "permanent revolution" are bound to pass through stages of despair and profoundest pessimism to attempts at overcoming the economic backwardness of the country by force, with the aid of military commands.

Real Bolshevist policy, as pursued by Lenin from February to October, has nothing in common with either this policy or this psychology.

How did matters really stand in October and immediately afterwards? Seen from the standpoint of Marxism, from the standpoint of the analysis of the class forces of the revolution, was not the acceptance of the social revolutionary decree on landed property, the suplementation of the Sovet government by the left S. R., the designation of the government created by the October revolution as "Workers' and Peasants' government," all proposals of Lenin, was all this not a growing development of the dictatorship of the proletariat and peasantry into a system whose actual essence was already the dictatorship of the proletariat?

It is possible to omit some of these facts of the October revolution; but then we do not arrive at any scientific analysis of Lenin's policy. And what about the transition from the war communism to the new economic policy, from the committees for the impoverished peasantry to Lenin's speech on the "medium farmers"? How can this be brought into harmony with that theory of permanent revolution which has proved so "perfectly correct?"

In 1916 Lenin wrote that life was already a decade ahead of Trotsky's magnificant theory. Now we can add another eight years. Does the circumstance that life has passed Trotsky's theory by for eighteen years justify Trotsky in claiming to be able to correct Leninism by Trotskyism?

Since life has passed Trotsky's theory by, Trotsky attempts in his books to not only correct Leninism, but life as well, and to prove by every art of which he is master that life follows Trotsky after all.

It is incumbent on the party to show precisely the contrary, and to prove to not only Trotsky but every new member the necessity of "Bolshevizing Trotsky." How far has the party succeeded in this?

III.

Trotsky in the Party. Our Errors. October According to Trotsky

We must differentiate between two aspects of Trotsky's activity. The one aspect in Comrade Trotsky as he carried out the instructions of the party strictly and accurately, leaning with the other members of the party on the totality of common political experience in the party and on the whole party mass organization, and carrying out this or that task or command of the party. At this time Comrade Trotsky's deeds were splendid, and added many brilliant pages to his own history and that of the party. But since Comrade Trotsky has come forward as individualist, believing that he and not the party is in the right in the fundamental questions of revolution, and that Leninism must be improved by Trotskyism, we are obliged to see that other aspect of Comrade Trotsky which shows him to be no Bolshevik.

Four Attempts Made by Comrade Trotsky at Improving the Party

The party remembers four occasions upon which Comrade Trotsky has tried to instruct the party, and to force upon it his own Trotskyist deviations. The first occasion was a few months after Comrade Trotsky entered the party. It was at the time of Brest Litovsk. The party is adequately and accurately informed as to Comrade Trotsky's attitude at that time. He underestimated the role played by the peasantry, and covered this over by revolutionary phraseology. This was theroad to the defeat of the proletariat and the revolution. If we recollect the evidence brought at this time against Comrade Trotsky by Comrade Lenin, we see that Comrade Lenin brought no other evidence than the substantiation with which he had rejected Comrade Trotsky's general attitude during the course of the preceding decade.

Comrade Lenin reproached him with two political sins: Lack of comprehension for the relations between proletariat and peasantry, and liability to be carried away by apparently left, apparently revolutionary phrases. These two errors, typical of Comrade Trotsky whilst outside of our party, were repeated by him within it.

Then came the civil war, the epoch of war communism. Comrade Trotsky executed the task alloted to him. His participation in the direction of the general policy of the party was less than before. But now the revolution reached a fresh turning point. The relations between the classes shifted. The party anticipated, in the form of a discussion on trade unions, the question submitted a few weeks later at Kronstadt; the question of the transition from war communism to the new economic policy. What was Comrade Lenin seeking for at that time? He was seeking new forms for an alliance between the proletariat and the peasantry, new forms for leading the working masses by means of gaining their convinced adherence rather than by force. To what did comrade Trotsky look for salvation at that time? He advised us to tighten the screws of war communism. This was again and and again an underestimate of the peasantry, the liability to be carried away by externals, by methods of "pressure" and "administration from above."

And Comrade Trotsky's further attempts—even during Comrade Lenin's lifetime—the question of the "plan" according to his peculiar conception, his "formula" on the "dictatorship of industry," were not these again attemps to force petty bourgeois elementarity upon us from above with bonds of iron, did they not once more show that lack of comprehension of those concrete conditions under which it is alone possible to realize a dictatorship in an agrarian country with undermined industries at a time when the international revolution is retarded?

Beneath Comrade Trotsky's effective formula we can here easily distinguish the feelings inevitably involved by his original theory: On the one hand despair, pessimism, disbelief, and on the other hand exaggerated hopes in the methods of supreme administration (a term of Lenin's), in the competent subjection of economic difficulties from above.

The last discussion is still fresh in our memories. It gave the party a graphic survey of the totality of Comrade Trotsky's errors, as dealt with above. But it also showed with special clearness another error, another feature of Trotskyism, and one far from being new. This is the attempt to undermine and weaken the main frame work of the dictatorship, the party. The same object was aimed at by the discrediting of the "cadres" of the party, by the resurrected menshevist conception of the party as a collection of "groups and currents," and the essentially liquidatory undermining of the authority of the leading institutions ("they are leading the country to destruction.") And has it not been under Comrade Trotsky's banner that the idea of greater freedom from party influence for extra-party organizations has flourished? Has not at all this, taken together, led to a weakening of the dictatorship of the proletariat, and has it not all been based upon an underestimation of the conditions under which we—in an agrarian country—have to realize the dictatorship? Is it not a petty-bourgeois deviation?

So long as the party is perfectly sound and everything goes well, Comrade Trotsky quietly performs every task which falls to him; but as soon the party encounters any obstacle, as son as it has to adjust its rudder, then Comrade Trotsky at once springs forward in the role of savior and teacher of the party, but invariably points out the wrong way, since he has not absorbed the principles of Bolshevism.

Our Errors

Comrade Trotsky has another trump in his hand against Bolshevism. This trump consists of certain errors committed by some few Bolsheviki (above all by me and Zinoviev, then those of Rykov and Nogin) in October, 1917. The errors of the Bolsheviki are naturally invariably exploited by our enemies. Comrade Trotsky did not resort to his trump so long as he hoped to induce the party to deviate to the path of Trotskyism by means of the discussion of this or that practical question. But after four attempts—Brest, trade unions, discussion on the economic plan, and the last discussion—had shown that he cannot persuade the Bolsheviki Party to deviate from its path, after he had learned from the party at the XIII party conference that we, the Leninists, do not require our theory to be corrected by Trotskyism, then he brought forward this last trump.

He is of course not the first to do this. These errors have been exploited often enough already by our enemies, but both errors and exploitation were simply buried beneath the thunders of the proletarian revolution. At the time neither the errors themselves nor their being made use of by hostile quarters resulted in any practical consequences. It is only since then that these errors have been raked up again maliciously by those who had deserted communism: Levi, Frossard, Balabanova. Levi and Frossard are now being followed by Trotsky.

Vacillations were unallowable. Lenin armed himself against them with all the power and passion of a leader who sees that his co-workers are liable to carry confusion into their own ranks by vacillation at decisive moments. He exposed every vacillation relentlessly, and in critical and decisive moments he did not shrink from the severest words or propositions. And he was right, right to the end, without reservation.

But when the moment for calm discussion arrived, the moment for the avoidance of the repetition of similar errors in other Communist Parties, theh Lenin characterized these errors very accurately. When Serrati attempted to cloak his withdrawal from communism by these errors of Zinoviev and Kamenev, Comrade Lenin wrote: "Before the October revolution in Russia, and immediately after it, a number of excellent communists committed errors which we do not like to remember now. Why do we not like to remember them? Because it is wrong to call to mind errors which have been made perfectly good, unless there is more special reason for doing so."

Special attention must be accorded to the manner in which Lenin formulated our errors: "In the period of which I speak they vacillated, fearing that the Bolsheviki were isolating themselves, were rushing too recklesly into a rising, were too unwilling to meet the advances of a certain section of the 'mensheviki' and 'social revolutionists.' The conflict went so far that the comrades named resigned demonstratively from all responsible positions both in the party and in the Soviet work, to the great joy of the enemies of the Soviet revolution. The affair culminated in a very severe criticism in the press, on the part of the C. C. of our party, against the resigning comrades. And after a few weeks, at latest after a few months, all these comrades recognized their error and returned to their responsible party and Soviet positions."

Is this description of Lenin in any way similar to the malicious attempt made by Trotsky—ridiculous in its malice—to twist this "right" wing into an actually "menshevist" wing in the Bolshevist Party? But this appears to be Comrade Trotsky's fate: In order to attain his objects he is invariably obliged to "overcome" Lenin, Leninism, and the Leninists.

neither city water, gas, sewers nor sidewalks, except before a few houses where prosperity had smiled for over a month at some time in the distant past. Many of the "homes" seem to have been put together on the installment plan, others show resourcefulness and ingenuity in making much out of little.

From the outside the miners' shacks, in the large majority of cases look like the town of "Lost Hope." Inside, however, the women folks contrive to bring comfort and cleanliness that seems unbelievable.

In Hiteman they have a pre-high school as well as a grade school. There are six churches, at one time there were 13, and every fraternal society in the land seems to have a lodge there. There are so many knights and ladies, kings' daughters, worshipful masters, noble grands and kleagles in that small village that no knight-errant of St. George could ever hope to keep track of them. Nothing short of six emblems, including the masonic or columbus knights will ever get you anywhere in Hiteman and that often means a job.

Miners' Union a Shadow Now.

The terrible struggles that the mine workers have gone thru in the past to build up and preserve their union, which in the camps was the social and educational center of activity, filling their lives with dignity, resolution, fraternity and culture development. Now the union has become a sort of necessary burden upon them, empty when they would fill their lives with pleasant association; dry when they would drink from the fountain of music and mirth. Their union that was so much to them has now become a shadow. The church cannot fill the void in their lives and so they join not one but many fraternal societies that are supposed to be somewhat exclusive. These give him dignity, sociability, fraternity, music and mirth.

The women become "king's daughters" or join some other order with a "high" sounding name, but they still tend to the comforts of the "king" and the chief attraction at all gatherings, as in the times when the union was the social center; when John was simply John and not king kleagle.

When struggle comes the union once more takes on substance and is the center of activity in the camps. Titles are laid on the shelf and John is once more brother and comrade in the fight for all.

Discouraged—Not Yet Rebellious.

The long drawn out struggle against oppression, unemployment and poverty has dampened the splendid fighting spirit of the coal diggers. Danger and hardship continues without respite. Part time keeps him in poverty and unemployment, like death, stalks him at all times. "There are too many mines and two hundred thousand surplus miners" it has been said, therefore, the coal digger is without hope and so the union becomes a shadow, the six-hour day a dream and the miners, together with every member of the working class in America is weakened and discouraged.

One mine employed 300 miners during the war, now but 20 are employed. All thru this territory are deserted homes and some camps with 50 or 100 houses have been abandoned.

Coal is being shipped into this territory from other fields. The railroad "brotherhoods" at Ft. Dodge have a large coal depot, their members are active salesmen for coal from their non-union fields in West Virginia. More coal sold, more dividends on their investment in the Brotherhood Bank. Mephostophelian brothers who for dollars and cents condemn the soul of the miners to the damned.

Bolsheviks' Message of Hope.

A series of meetings have been arranged by the Workers Party in this territory starting with Albia on Wednesday, Feb. 25, at the Woodman Hall; Centerville on Thursday, Feb. 26 at the Labor Hall, over Brody's Store or north side of square, and meetings at Mystic, Cincinnnati and Brazil yet to be arranged.

Speakers will be David Coutts, active member of Omaha Stone Cutters' Union, and J. E. Snyder, district organizer of the Workers Party. Admission will be free and the subject of the speakers will be unemployment, child labor, "Open Shop Drive," and a Workers' and Farmers' Government.

CONCERT AND DANCE BIG PARTY EVENT IN DETROIT ON FEB. 22

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 12.—On Sunday, Feb. 22, the Workers Party of Detroit, will stage the big event of the season, in the form of a concert and dance, which will be held in the auditorium of the House of the Masses, 2646 St. Aubin.

Delegates from the party branches on the arrangements committee report considerable enthusiasm for this event in their units, and everything indicates that the Feb. 22 affair will go over big.

The program includes vocal and instrumental numbers of exceptional merit, and the Russian dancers promise to score another triumph. The concert will last till 9 o'clock, after which the floor will be cleared for dancing. Admission is 50 cents.

CLEAR TRACK FOR MARCH 15!

EVERY daily and weekly paper connected with the Workers Party and every federation and branch of the party and the Young Workers League will co-operate in one tremendous effort for the benefit of the Communist press in Madison Square on Sunday, March 15.

In order to assure that this affair will have a clear track, the New York district executive committee at its meeting on Feb. 9, unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, the cooperation of every party unit is essential to make a success of the Paris Commune pageant, concert and ball that is being arranged under the auspices of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League for the benefit of the Communist press, and that will take place in Madison Square Garden on Sunday, March 15, therefore be it

"Resolved, by the district execuive committee of district 2: first, that all branches and party institutions shall refrain from arranging any conflicting affairs; second, that party members shall sell no other tickets than the subscription tickets for the March 15 affair during the first two weeks of March; third, that competent comrades are called upon to volunteer for the work for visiting all branches as quickly as possible to enlist their full strength in this work."

The DAILY WORKER calls upon all its readers to aid in carrying out the purpose of this resolution so that the Madison Square Garden celebration of March 15 may be a tremendous demonstration of Communist strength.

Trachtenberg Is Next Harlem Forum Speaker

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.— Alexander Trachtenberg will be the speaker Sunday evening, Feb. 15, at the next session of the Sunday evening Harlem open forum conducted by the Harlem section of the Workers Party, local New York, at the Harlem headquarters 64 East 104th St. The subject is "American Imperialism."

So far the forum has been a success, with highly interesting discussions on various important subjects and with Benjamin Gitlow, Juliet Poyntz and William Weinstone as speakers.

The remaining program as announced will be Sunday evening, Feb. 22, Joseph Manley on a subject to be announced; Sunday, March 1, Literature and Art, and the Revolution, a Symposium—led by Simon Felshin, Louis Lozowick and a third speaker.

BABY REDS WILL PLAY HOST TO ELDERS SATURDAY

They Only Charge Two Bits For the Honor

This happy little Junior is appealing to you from the very heart of the Chicago Junior Section. She's dancing in anticipation of the good time she and all the other comrades are going to have on Saturday, Feb. 14, the evening when all Communists will pause in struggle and turn aside to revel with and help the Communist children's section.

All the Chicago comrades realize the importance of the children's section of the Communist movement. The Juniors are the ones who are carrying the message of Communism to the children of the working class, who are working hard day after day in the school rooms of Chicago counteracting the vicious capitalist propaganda of the public schools. Their work is a real and vital and important one. They need your help, your active support.

Happy and Serious.

They are busy now making plans for your entertainment, and theirs. They promise to give you a good time at their party. Four hundred children are counting on your coming and taking part in the "grown-up" dancing and games that they have planned for you. Four hundred little hearts will be happy the day after if you come. Four hundred little Communists will start again in their battle for the working class with renewed hope and vigor if you show your interest in their struggle for our cause.

Look again at the little social director of the Juniors of Chicago? Can you afford to disappoint them? By all means "No!"

Show them your support! Come!

COMMUNISTS IN FIGHT TO FREE LEGION VICTIMS

Green Endorses Policy of Expulsion

SEATTLE, Feb. 12.—Paul K. Mohr, of the Communist delegates to the Seattle Central Labor Union, now under threat of expulsion from that body because of his membership in the Workers Party, was one of the principal speakers here last Sunday at a protest meeting against the railroading of the victims of the Centralia shooting on armistice day 1918.

The meeting was called to demand of President Coolidge and congress a federal investigation of the case in which eight members of the Industrial Workers of the World, are now serving from 25 to 40 years in Walla Walla state penitentiary.

The headquarters of the I. W. W. was attacked by armed members of the American Legion and the convicted workers merely acted in self defense. The movement for the release of those victims of fascism is taking on new life and the Workers Party is in the forefront of the fight to set those workers free.

Fakers Also Busy

While the Communists and all radical groups worthy of the name are putting up a united front for the defense of class war prisoners whether they be Communists in Michigan or members of the I. W. W. in Washington or California, the reactionary bureacrats of the American Federation of Labor, are carrying on their splitting policy, smashing the trade union movement by trying to get rid of its most active elements.

The secretary of the central body received the following telegram from William Green, president of the A. F. of L. with reference to the legality of the motion passed initiating the expulsion of the Communists from the Seattle Central Labor Council:

"Replying to your telegram the Central Labor Council of Seattle is clearly within its rights in declaring a delegate ineligible to represent organized labor, provided such a delegate is duly and legally charged with being a Communist, and after a fair trial is found guilty. Any delegate thus charged and found guilty may appeal from the action of the trades council in the way and manner prescribed by the laws of the American Federation of Labor.'

The particular law referred to by Green is in section 8 of article II of the constitution and expressly states that action of central bodies in expelling delegates shall be subject to appeal to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and "no delegation representing affiliated local unions shall be suspended or expelled until like action is taken."

This means that the action of the Minneapolis Trade Council in taking away credentials from the Communist delegates from their local unions before appeal was submitted to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor was illegal.

Asks State Senate To Protect Miners From Salary Robbers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12.—A bill has been introduced into the Illinois senate fixing a fine of $50.00 to $500,00 or imprisonment for thirty to ninety days for the distribution or offering information concerning birth control.

Senator William Sneed, president of the Herrin sub-district of the United Mine Workers of America, introduced a bill which would require every corporation doing business in Illinois to file each year a detailed statement of its prospective payroll for the coming year following, and to insure its payment by surety bond or otherwise. The bill is expected to be killed in the committee on corporations.

Sneed's bill is aimed at coal operators who declare themselves "bankrupt" just before payday. The southern Gem Coal company robbed the miners of Sesser, Illinois, and Pinckneyville, Ill., of thousands of dollars by going into bankruptcy just before a month's pay was due to be paid the miners.

The bill extending the Chicago aldermatic term to four years is now before the senate.

New York Federation Seeks Compensation For Unhealthy Work

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Organized labor of New York is urged to support five amendments to the state compensation law by Thomas J. Curtis, chairman of the State Federation of Labor compensation committee and head of building and allied trades compensation bureau of New York City. The amendments, drafted for the state federation and recommended for passage by Gov. Smith in his inaugural message, are pending in the rules committee of the assembly.

"These amendments," declares Curtis, "are a matter of life and death to thousands of workers in this state. There are over 57 trades in New York where workers are exposed to poisoning by benzol alone. Thousands of other workers engaged in dusty trades like stone cutting, stone grinding, rock drilling, sand blasting, machinists, emery grinders—buffers, pottery and mining are exposed to silicosis. These workers can get no compensation for diseases brought on by their trades."

Opium Meet Allows Each Country to Make Its Own Rules

GENEVA, Feb. 12.—The international opium conference passed a motion which allows the opium growing countries to make their own rules regarding the sale and use of opium. The conference passed the American motion that opium growing should be restricted to medicinal and scientific uses, but also passed an amendment that any power signing the agreement may state the limitations subject to which the motion is accepted.

Lord Cecil, representing England, announced his immediate return to London. The action, in passing the amendment, puts the delegates to the conference on record as approving any reservation made by producing countries.

JOINT BAZAAR IN N. Y. OPENS IN BIG TRIUMPH

Auspicious Start of Four-Day Program

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. — The Joint Bazaar of the International Workers Aid and the Labor Defense Council opened up Thursday night amidst the enthusiasm of the large crowd of comrades and sympathizers with the movement. It was Finnish night and the Finnish comrades were there in full force.

Hall Beautifully Decorated

The hall was beautifully decorated, a whole force of artist comrades spending evenings before the bazaar and at the bazaar putting it into shape. Booths of the most varied shapes and colors were ranged thruout the hall, announcing the large number of branches of the Workers (Communist) Party and other organizations which participated in making the bazaar a success. There was a multitude of articles for sale of the most varied sorts, including toys, beautiful embroideries, shoes, dresses, kitchen utensils, books in several languages, hats, antiques, paintings, prints, Japanese goods. The prices on these goods are very low, so that the buying commenced very early.

The evening was opened by a few remarks by Comrade Amter on the significance of the International Workers' Aid and the defense of the class war victims in this country.

The revolutionary movement does not consist merely in the attacks of the workers on the strongholds of the bourgeoisie. The revolutionary movement must also have a defense corps on the front.

Revolutionary Movement Grows.

The International Workers' Aid and the Labor Defense Council are these two organizations. The support given them thru this bazaar indicates clearly that the revolutionary front in America is building up.

Then followed a splendid gymnastic program arranged by the Finnish comrades of the Workers Party. Forming various pyramids and doing other "stunts," the Finnish comrades who were assisted by the Junior Groups, earned round after round of applause.

Comrade Laura Koivesta rendered some vocal solos, and revealed a vice of great charm. Comrade Haltseff was in excellent form, for he was well applauded for his renditions of songs by Melartin, Kauppi and Glinka. Recitations by Linda Ikonen, a comical song by Helen Havas were among the other numbers, which were excellently received.

The orchestra of the Finnish branch of the Workers Party showed that workers with a real love of music can master all the difficulties of art. The Finnish Singin Society sang with all the mellowness of voice that Finnish people possess.

Gitlow Speaks for Prisoners.

During the program, Comrade Ben Gitlow made an address in which he pointed out the significance of the necessity of defense of the political prisoners just at this time. The attacks of the yellow socialists on Soviet Russia and their diabolical slanders on the Soviet government; the attacks on the revolutionary movement of Europe and Asia and the imprisonment of hundreds of thousands of the best revolutionists made it necessary for the workers of this country to show their solidarity. The American government is likewise preparing for the days to come. The Michigan cases are only a beginning of what the American workers may expect.

The successful opening of the bazaar is a fine omen for the rest of the four-day program.

BUILDERS AT WORK

The Workers Who Paint Every Town Red!

THE second number of The Builder—official organ of the DAILY WORKER BUILDERS (all agents and "live wires")—is just off the press. It will be sent to all city and branch agents within a week. But if you are a BUILDER anxious to learn what others are doing—and HOW they are doing it, just drop us a line and we will gladly send you a copy free.

It's a neat little issue. You will learn about the workers who are building the Communist movement in this country, just how they are doing it (and why); you will find a little story—and perhaps that spark of inspiration that will make you a unit of the growing machinery that is already painting every town red.

The Builder is not simply a "pep" paper. It carries practical suggestions in the performance of fundamental work and we want you to be aware of "who, how and why."

If you are a city agent we want you to see that every branch in your city receives The Builder. If you are a branch agent, we want you to see that every member of your branch has a copy. Don't have the occasion arise in your branch where a member asks you for one and you are forced to say that you haven't a copy to give him.

The word is out: The February BUILDER is ready. If you don't get it in a week—treat us rough!

THE DAILY WORKER IN TRANSIT

DID you while riding in a street car ever come across someone reading the DAILY WORKER? And, tho this someone was an utter stranger did you not feed a soft spot in your heart for him or her—a feeling of comradeship and solidarity? And did you not feel like saying: "Hello Comrade!" Well, if you did, then you can appreciate the experience I had last week.

I had hopped a Milwaukee Ave. car and was making my way down the crowded aisle when my eye was caught by a copy of the DAILY WORKER held prominently in view by a young girl. This particular issue featured a ringing Communist headline and needless to say the passengers all around the girl were craning their necks to get the details. But that young lady, wrapped up in what she was reading (I think it was Tom O'Flaherty's column) was oblivious to the stir her paper was creating. I enjoyed the situation hugely. It was funny and interesting to see the curiosity which the bold Communist headline aroused in the cross-word addicts and the evening story fiends. I'll bet you could have sold a dozen "Dailies" on that car at that moment.

But that wasn't all I saw that evening. On changing cars at Halsted St. I was tremendously surprised and pleased to come upon two more readers of the DAILY WORKER. Hard bitten wobblies they looked with copies of The Building Construction Worker in their pockets. Evidently the DAILY WORKER made more interesting reading then the organ of their own organization. When I got off the car at Van Buren they were still absorbed in reading.

Getting on a car going east, my eyes nearly popped out when I beheld another "Daily" being read by a man. (He had a Workers Monthly in his pocket.) And to cap it all right across from him another passenger was reading Vilnis, the Lithaunian Communist organ. It was a regular cloudburst of Communist readers and literature.

You betcha I got off that car thinking the revolution wasn't so far off after all.—A Worker.

LABOR DEFENSE OF CLEVELAND IS HARD AT WORK

Makes Appeal to All Workers, Unions

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12.—A general and successful re-organization meeting of the Labor Defense Council has been held here. There was a splendid attendance of delegates from various labor unions, fraternal organizations and the Workers Party branches.

Plans are being completed for the joint dance to be held on February 28th, at the Carpenters Hall, 2226 E. 55th St. This is a joint affair between the the International Workers' Aid and the Labor Defense Council the proceeds to be divided equally between the two.

Further attempts are being made to get more delegates from labor unions as we feel that it is our duty to make all organized labor participate in this work of defense to their fullest capacity.

It is our hope that we will be able to personally solicit every local labor union for funds and also for delegates to the council so that they themselves may actively participate in this work.

It is our further aim to build up a real active force which will fight for the repeal of the criminal syndicalist law and any other laws of like character.

Officers were elected at this meeting as follows:

Tom Clifford, chairman, John Fremhols, secretary and Carl Hacker, treasurer. All funds collected should be turned in to Carl Hacker, Room 13, 5927 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Communists, Capitalists and Children

The agitation for the adoption of the child labor amendment has certainly stirred up the animals. The rabid hostility to this very mild reform, coming from all sections of the country and almost all of the organs of capitalist and middle-class thought, is striking proof of the brutal nature of highly developed industry.

Underlying all the objections to the child labor amendment is a plainly perverse and reactionary idea—that children of 18 and under have no right to think for themselves, that their minds, like their bodies, are property that can be disposed of at will by the owners thereof as long as the elastic code of bourgeois morality is not violated.

The proposal to deprive employers of the power to rob and kill children for profit appears not to arouse such hysterical denunciation as does the fear that freedom of body will mean freedom of mind.

A thinking child is hated like the scarlet woman by the protestant bourgeois press and like a heretic by the catholic organs. Both unite in war on Communist activity among children and point to the young workers who have been influenced by them as horrible examples of what the passage of a child labor law providing leisure for workers' children would mean.

We quote from the Grand Rapids (Michigan) Press of February 5 an editorial, headed "Young Workers":

> While child labor is on our minds let us consider the case of 14-year-old Morris Spector.
> Morris is a public school pupil in New York. His spare time has been employed in gobbling up all the Red literature obtainable and peddling it to his school friends whom he has helped to organize into a Young Workers' League junior section.
> The other night he got up in front of a Communist crowd of 12,000 in Madison Square Garden theater and set them wildly cheering with a 14-year-old speech about Nicolai Lenin and the high duty of young Americans like himself to "mobilize the children to fight against the capitalistic system" and "extend our arms across to the Young Pioneers of Russia, to the young Leninists."
> As between honest child labor in industry for boys of 14, giving them a sense of the meaning of saving and the value of work, and the enforced spare time idleness after school hours which turns out Morris Spectors, America will not waste much time in making a choice. Child labor for the dollar may have its objections. Child labor for sedition and Soviet government in the United States seems to us to provoke more of them.

A 14-year-old boy speaking to an audience that jammed Madison Square Garden holding 15,000 persons is in itself a news story of great interest. It could be used to show the intellectual capacity of children when given leisure and properly trained. The incident itself is the best possible proof that the Communist child labor program, accompanied by the intensive educational work of the Communists, disproves the bourgeois proverb: "Children should be seen and not heard."

But the thinking workers' children are not wanted any more than are thinking adults by capitalism.

Its spokesmen believe—and correctly—that to robotize both working-class children and parents is the best method of maintaining the rule of the rich.

"Full government maintenance of the children of school age of workers and working farmers—abolition of labor of children under 18 years," is not a very revolutionary-sounding slogan, but raised by the Workers (Communist) Party of America, it has brought upon the party the vicious attack of all sections of the courtesan press.

War Is Abolished—Almost

Senator Shipstead, in private life a dentist, but now sojourning in Washington as a farmer-labor solon, had a beautiful scheme to stop war. It was sweetly simple and the senator loved his brain child with a great and holy passion.

The other day he allowed his mental offspring to appear in the senate chamber, decked with olive leaves and carrying a white dove. Shipstead stood proudly erect, except for a slight stoop acquired looking for molar cavities, and spoke with restrained pride. "This," he said, pointing to the smiling infant, "is mine. War need no longer scourge the human race if you, my colleagues, will share with me the delight of parenthood. Adopt this bright-haired baby and all will be well."

"His name," said Shipstead, "is 'Abolition of Conscription of both Men and Materials.' Give him a home in these hallowed halls and mankind will mourn no more."

But Senator Wesley Jones of Washington, a patriot of patriots who is there to see thet the munition makers are not deprived of their livelihood, moved a point of order and the world has to be saved all over again.

The Shipstead scheme was simple, but points of order are also simple in a capitalist parliament—simple as people who believe that capitalism can abolish war.

Exposing Imperialism

The actual condition of slavery in the colonies of the great powers is exposed every once in a while by some bourgeois writer who happens to be more truthful than cautious. Such a one is F. R. Eldridge, quoted by "Scrutator," of the Chicago Tribune, who specializes in diatribes against every manifestation of discontent and glorification of capitalism in all its phases.

India under British imperialism is the illustration picked by this defender of things as they are. Says Eldridge:

> "Under the economic conditions which necessarily must exist in India, it is little wonder that the per capita purchasing power is placed at a little over $10 per annum and the per capita imports at only $2.30.
> "To grasp the real meaning, however, we must take into consideration the per capita exports. These amount to $3.60, or over 50 per cent more than the imports. This means that every man, woman, and child of the 319,000,000 inhabitants of India annually is sending out of the country half as much again as he or she brings in."

Roy, the leader of the Communist Party of India, has written nothing more damning than this exposure of the degradation that is the lot of the Indian masses under the rule of "white, christian, Anglo-Saxon saviors of civilization."

Of the total exports, about 60 cents comes back to the Indian working class and peasantry. The remaining 70 cents per capita, totaling $283,000,000, goes to the bankers and industrial capitalists, to the British imperial government, as a reward for "prosperity" they have brought to India. Part of this enormous sum, the minted blood and sweat of the Indian masses, is used to pay for airplanes, bombs, machine guns and soldiery that give christian atmosphere to imperialist enterprise; the balance is clear velvet tho part of it again is used to bribe the labor aristocracy of Britain into accord with the schemes for colonial robbery.

It is little wonder that the rulers of Great Britain fear the influence of the Communist International and the example set to the suffering masses of India by the workers and peasants of Russia.

India has been described by a British orator as "the brightest gem in the imperial diadem," but out of the misery of the Indian workers and peasants, out of the activity of the Communists applying the teachings of Lenin to the colonial problem, is coming a great revolutionary movement that will wrest this gem from the clutches of the imperialist bandits and make it the possession of a Soviet government of India.

"The bear that walks like a man," of whom Kipling wrote, now carries the red banner of Communism and speaks in the name of the Indian working class and the toiling millions of all the world.

A Real Capitalist Hero

General Nelson A. Miles is in Chicago this week as the guest of the lions club—one of those organizations of 100 per cent American ignoramuses that are springing up like mushrooms and which represent in social life the kind of culture that made the iron deer on the front lawn the symbol of American art in an earlier period.

The fame of Miles is based largely on the fact that he headed the military force that Grover Cleveland sent, over the protest of Governor Altgeld, to break the great railway strike of 1894.

To Miles is attributed an utterance that is much more typical of American military history than Farragut's "Damn the torpedoes, go ahead," or Grant's "I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer." The statements of our gold-braided heroes that really arouse the lions, kiwanis and rotary clubs to feverish enthusiasm and vociferous approval are such as those of General Miles, when he told the civil authorities of Chicago on July 3, 1894:

> "I am here to see that order is preserved, that violence ceases and that the United States mails are run without interference on the roads centering in Chicago. . . . . I will give you five hours to get this situation under control. If at the end of that time it is not in hand I will take military control and see that disorder is reduced."

The dispatch of federal troops to break the 1894 strike marked the advent of the power of the central government into strikes on the side of the capitalists as an accepted policy, coincident with the centralization of American industry. Since that time much progress has been made—the wholesale use of the state power against the workers—a policy that has now made the state militia part of the armed forces of the central government and their use in strikes a commonplace.

The end is not yet. The use of troops in the general strike of coal miners in 1919 and the blanket injunction issued against the striking shopmen in 1922 are steps in this development that only the Communists understand—a development that is part and parcel of capitalism in its final stage of imperialism and that to try to check by any other than revolutionary methods is comparable to battering down Gibraltar with a pea shooter.

The truth was not buried with Glenn Young. The real story of the ku klux klan's alliance with the mine owners in Williamson county is coming out.

WARREN'S RECORD AS SUGAR TRUST AGENT REVEALED

Acted As Michigan Tool of Havemeyer Interests

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12.—President Coolidge's selection of Attorney General Stone to be a member of the federal supreme court struck a snag which was a mere trifle in comparison with the rock of opposition into which his nomination of Charles Beecher Warren to head the department of justice has run, full-tilt.

On the very day that the senate committee on the judiciary fought for two hours over the noncommittal report of its sub-committee on Warren's selection, the federal trade commission announced that the Michigan Sugar Co. and the Toledo Sugar Co., with which he has been connected as president for many years, were charged with conspiracy, with sixteen other concerns, to restrain interstate commerce in beet pulp. This brings up the whole story of Warren as a sugar trust agent.

It is shown that Warren was specifically made one of the defendants in the suit of the government in 1910 to dissolve the sugar trust; that the American Sugar Refininig Co., which was the trust, at that time entered into a consent decree in settlement of this suit; that it was shown that in 1902 Warren was employed by the American Sugar Refining Co. and the late H. O. Havemeyer to gain control of the beet sugar industry in Michigan, and that he formed the Michigan Sugar Co. for this purpose, concealing under his own name the ownership of 55 per cent of the preferred and 35 per cent of the common stock by the trust. Warren's own stock was worth $455,000, when the Hardwick investigation of the sugar combine took place in 1912.

Prosecution of the Havemeyer interests and Warren dragged thru the courts until the consent decree was signed in New York on May 9, 1922. Recently attempt was made to modify this decree, so that the National Sugar Refining Co. of New Jersey might be absorbed. Attorney General Stone denied this request. If it is renewed, Warren as defendant would face Warren as attorney general. Moreover, the complaint made by the federal trade commission may show violation of the consent decree by the Michigan Sugar Co. of which Warren was president until Jan. 24, 1925, and by the Toledo Sugar Co., of which he seems to be still the chief executive.

Seattle Machinists' Union Contributes to The Labor Defense

First among the letters this week, came the encouraging one from the Machinists Lodge, No. 79, of Seattle, Wash., pledging support for the defense of the Michigan defendants and against the criminal syndicalist laws. With the pledge came $10.00 showing that the machinists in Seattle are not only alive to the necessity of moral support but the absolute need of financial support as well.

Another encouraging letter comes from St. Paul where some $225.60 was left over from a defense fund collected to defend Joe Ungar, taken in the red raids and whose case has been since dismissed. This money comes in extremely handy at this time as every cent available must be gotten to continue the fight. Among the others who have contributed this week are:

Ammunition for the Workers' Arsenal

By MANUEL GOMEZ.

Insecurity—the Workers' Constant Attendant.

AMERICAN industry is the greatest in the world. In output, in technical equipment in organization, in character of workmanship, the United States presents the finest example of industrial efficiency that has ever been known. When we speak of American industry we mean American workers—for it is the workers whose brain and brawn have made industry what it is.

Yet the workers, who give life to this wonderful system of factories, mines, mills, railroads, have no hold whatever upon it. They can be separated from their jobs in half an hour by a boss who does nothing but "own."

Great numbers of workers are thrown out of work regularly, thru no incapacity of their own, thru no flaw in the technical process, but simply as a result of private ownership of industry and production for profit instead of for use. Periodic large-scale unemployment is no "accident" under capitalism; it is part and parcel of the capitalist system of commodity production. In this country there have been unemployment crises amounting to panics, in 1837, 1847, 1857, 1873, 1884, 1890, 1893, 1896, 1903-4, 1907, 1911, 1913-14 and 1920-21.

There are at least 2,500,000 workers unemployed in the United States today. This number will be multiplied when the present bubble of credit inflation bursts. During the terrible crisis of 1920-21 the number of unemployed exceeded 7,000,000.

What such a crisis means in terms of the uncertainty of a worker's contact with his job is graphically shown in the following figures giving the decrease in the number of wage earners between 1919 and 1921 in a selected group of industries:

DECREASE IN NUMBER OF WAGE EARNERS IN SELECTED GROUP OF INDUSTRIES

	Average Number of Wage Earners
Industry	1919	1921
Metal, machine products, shipbuilding	1,903,797	1,158,657
Lumber	610,346	474,875
Printing and publishing	287,278	268,081
Rubber goods	158,549	103,273
Leather and products	349,362	280,071
Wearing Apparel	975,780	884,035
Clay, glass, cement products	219,298	188,541
Textile	942,610	899,969
Slaughtering and meat packing	160,996	177,042
Smelting and refining (non-ferrous)	39,620	19,014
Total	5,647,636	4,393,558

Thus the unemployment decline in these industries reached the unprecedented figure of 22.2 per cent. This was the average. In some of the industries the decline was much greater. In the slaughtering and meat packing group it was 27.3 per cent; in the rubber goods industry it was almost 35 per cent; in the case of the metal, machine products and shipbuilding it reached 39.1 per cent, and in smelting and refining, 52 per cent.

ONLY $25 A WEEK AVERAGE WAGE IN BOB'S PARADISE

Scab Wages the Rule In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 12—Wages in Wisconsin manufacturing establishments in December, 1924, averaged $25.10 a week, according to the industrial commission.

The peak of wages in this state was reached in October, 1920, when the average factory worker received $29.45 a week.

No High Wage.

Weekly wages in important industries during December were foundries and machine shops $27.61; railroad repair shops $29.49; automobile $28.77; sawmills $20.45; furniture $22.73; boots and shoes $23.48; paper and pulp mills $25.27; light and power $26.61; printing and publishing $34.13 and electric railways $26.04.

Women 16 Cents an Hour.

The hiring rate for male common labor on Jan. 15, 1925, ran as low as 30c an hour in Ashland and Wausau and as high as 65c and hour in Racine with the most usual rates 40c to 45c. Women were hired as low as 16c an hour in Wausau with the usual rates thru the state 30c to 40c. The average common labor rate in Milwaukee is 44c for men and 27c for women.

Claim Automobile Czar Picked Up $2,500,000 On the Stock Exchange

MUNCIE, Ind., Feb. 12.—W. C. Durant, millionaire automobile manufacturer who is reported to have made $2,500,000 in the stock market on the spectacular rise of cast iron pipe, left here for New York today, probably to steal a few more millions.

MANY ALIENS DEPORTED, IMMIGRATION CUT IN HALF, FIGURES SHOW

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12.—Twice as many "undesirable aliens" were deported from the United States during the present fiscal year as were deported during the last fiscal year, representative Albert Johnson of Washington told the house of representatives yesterday. Johnson based his estimate on the department of labor figures.

The number of immigrants has been reduced 50 pct., Johnson said, adding that the net increase in population due to immigration is only 100,000 for the past six months.

"The figures from the department of labor show that Mexican immigration has been reduced 60 per cent and Canadian immigration 28 per cent. "Germany and the Irish Free State furnished more immigrants in the past six months than any other nations," Johnson declared.

Cement Trust, Part Of Steel Trust, to Build Big Harbor

HAMMOND, Ind., Feb. 12.—The Universal Portland Cement company, a subsidiary to the U. S. Steel corporation, has announced a great construction program at its Buffington plant near Gary.

Plans are being drawn for the construction of a harbor and dock on the lake at the cement plant for the handling and storage of limestone, slag, coal and cement. Additons to the present plant are planned and development of large proportions besides the present construction is indicated. The machinery alone in the present plans will cost approximately $3,000,000.

SOLON'S PEACE PLAN IMPALED ON POINT OF ORDER

'Twas Sad Fate for Such a Worthy Measure

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Abolish conscription, both of men and materials, directly and indirectly, and you can have no more wars, says Sen. Shipstead, farmer-labor. He offered an amendment to the state department appropriation measure, calling upon President Coolidge to propose to all the nations of the world the making of a convention binding all of them to "terminate all compulsory military, naval and related service," within three years from ratification of such treaty. His amendment did not cover conscription of money, such as he had to be necessarily implied in construction of human service. It did, however, bind all the nations to refrain from compelling their nationals to do any military service, either in peace or war, and it pledged them not to make war for the collection of any public or private debt.

The measure was thrown out on a point of order by Sen. Wesley Jones, as not being relevant to an appropriation for the state department, but was new legislation.

"In universal military service," Shipstead told the senate, "is the foremost weakness of all our modern political development. It turns the entire population, at a moment's notice, and upon the decision of a few men, into slaves who may be slaughtered or starved, or have a colossal indemnity wrung out of their unhappy children for 50 years. This country is big and strong enough to lead the way. Lead the world to national freedom and peace thru a treaty that will strike the chains of militarism from the hands of an enslaved humanity."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—If American farm lands, pasture lands and forests can be suitably adapted to the needs of the future, this country can support a population of 300,000,000 persons. We shall see a population of 150,000,000 here by the year 1952. So says the special commission of scientists from the bureau of agricultural economics and the forest service, reporting to the department of agriculture on the utilization of land.

But, the scientists add, the soil must be used more carefully, and greater effort must be employed both in production and handling of the food supply, to avoid waste. German standards of cultivation, before the war, enabled that nation to maintain one person for each 1.75 acres of land. America has 998,000,000 acres, good and poor, on which in the future there may be fed one person for each 3.33 acres. Meanwhile her farm population is being depleted by economic forces.

WHILE the labor movement was arising, step by step, out of the struggles of the working class in the form of trade unions coming into existence in greater numbers as growing industry pushed the frontier farther from the Atlantic sea-board—the thought of the movement continued to be dominated by intellectual reformers and humanitarians. Labor itself found no compentent spokesmen until after the civil war, and these first spokesmen were Marxists.

Albert Brisbane, a reformer of bourgeois origin, brought Fourierism to America in the middle thirties. Fourierism taught that social ills were do to the pernicious effects of free competition. The remedy consisted in reforming the capitalists and perfecting more effective methods of production. It denied the class struggle. The hope of the world lay in convincing the capitalist to improve industry to the end of greater profits and then share the increased profits with the workers.

Brisbane and his followers began by trying to erect new and model civilizations in the wildernesses to the west. But the workingmen failed to see the connection between utopias in the woods and cut wages in Philadelphia and New York. Fourierism was a total failure. Brisbane and Fourierism brought Horace Greely's thoughts to turn to social problems. Greely's early years were spent in poverty. His proletarian origin led him to see things that Fourierism overlooked. For Brisbane's "benevolent association", he substituted, "Let each individual receive the full product of his toil."

The abolition of the wage system was Greely's leading hope. Co-operation and profit-sharing attracted his attention for many years, as substantial possibilities. But with the failure of his efforts in these directions he lost heart and deplored the workingmen's "lack of faith in each other." The class struggle seemed to be a closed book to him also. When the abolitionist movement began he threw himself into it and became a leading champion of Negro liberation.

Apart from the followers of Owen and Fourier who advocated association and cooperation and whose connection with the labor movement was often intimate, there were individuals in the pre-civil war period whose radical systems of thought must certainly have made an impression on the young labor movemnt. There was the anarchist Thoreau, whose book "Walden", was called the last word of democratic individualism. There was the intellectual individualist Emerson. The co-operative individualism of William H. Channing served as an inspiration to the movement for association. And there was the negative philosophy of Orestes A. Brownson, the result of whose early religious training led him to suprisingly vicious attacks on both the church and the state for their neglect of the masses.

Those were the days of schemes and panaceas. Utopian colonies sprang up and died by the hundreds. Now one, now another social philosophy created a sensation. Through it all the labor movement itself, was forced forward by expanding economic life. It is not until we come to W. H. Sylvis that we find a proletarian who is able to speak competently for the workers in terms of the worker's struggles.

750,000 Irish Workers and Peasants Starve

WORST FAMINE SINCE "BLACK '47" HITS IRISH COAST FROM DONEGAL TO CORK; CROPS AND FUEL FAIL

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

DUBLIN, Ireland, Feb. 13.—The most disastrous famine since the great tragedy of '47, has stricken Ireland. From Donegal in the north to Cork in the south on the west coast, 750,000 workers and peasants are threatened with death from starvation.

Cold as well as hunger has the unfortunate people in its clutches. The continual rain destroyed the fuel supply as well as the potato crop. The potatoes rotted in the ground and the peat bogs were so flooded that the turf could not be cut or dried.

In addition to the calamitous visitation of nature, the British trawlers have destroyed the fishing industry on the west coast. Fishing is the principal means of livinghood of the peasant fisherman of the west.

W. I. R. To The Rescue

The Workers' International Aid has organized a committee in the most stricken county, Donegal. A committee is organized in Dublin and from now on the work of relief will be speeded up.

The Free State government tried to ignore the famine until the it grew to such proportions that the horror could no longer be hidden. Unless speedy relief is forthcoming thousands of people will die of hunger and malnutrition. The death rate among the children is even now very high.

Appeal To America

The republican party opposition also tries to minimize the famine. They are collecting funds for election campaigns and do not want to have any famine relief activities interfere with the success of their efforts.

The Workers' International Aid is appealing to the workers of America to come to the assistance of their stricken brothers and sisters in Ireland.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

NOT even the flaming green dress of the ex-Communist member of the house of commons, Ellen Wilkinson, created as big a sensation as the speech of David Kirkwood of Glasgow, when he threw some hot shot into the British royal family in criticising the expenditure of large sums of money on the various tours of the prince of Wales. It is more than likely that Long Island, New York, the Boston Bay and whatever part of Chicago the moneyed aristocracy live, will demand Kirkwood's expulsion from the house for this piece of les majeste.

THE trouble arose when the government moved for a grant of $65,000 for David's visit to Argentine and and additional $10,000 to extend his visit to Uruguay, from which country he had also received an invitation. There is oil, or iron or some other thing in Uruguay that kings and princes like to get on good terms with, tho they have a decided aversion to getting callouses on their hands from it.

DAVID KIRKWOOD is not a Communist, but as a certain labor leader would say, he "likes to blow his bazoo off" every once in a while, like Jack Jones, another laborite, who divides his leizure hours between singing the Red Flag and presenting the queen's daughter with roses. However, Kirkwood began to talk and the longer he talked the more he forgot his dignity and his caution. He thought it was a shame that the prince should be brought up as a social waster and be sent around the world to act the role of clown.

SHOUTS and hoots of disapproval from the tories greeted Kirkwood's remarks. The Clyde was having its inning, even tho David is careful not to let the business get beyond the danger point. The Scotch laborite suggested that the prince take a trip around his own country first and he would see things, that would shock an Australian bushman. He would see indications of poverty that he never even dreamt of. But the prince and the capitalists who own the prince, have other uses for him besides the role of social worker.

COMMENTING on the recent statement of the socialist Ethel Snowden, that the royal family endeared itself to the British working class because of its courtesy to MacDonald, Snowden, Henderson and Thomas, Kirkwood did not seem to think that this courtesy was thoroly appreciated by the ill paid workers. "My class of work is hard for small wages," shouted Kirkwood. "Then what wages do you think the prince of Wales gets from his duchy in Cornwall? He gets over $150,000 from that alone. I call shame on you who are responsible for the awful conditions under which the class from which I spring live and have their being."

THIS was the kind of language the plutes did not like to hear and they were boiling with rage. Then another labor member, G. Buchanan began to run more salt into the tory wounds. "I have not any use for royalty at all," he shouted. "I consider them grossly overpaid. People just as good as the prince of Wales are living in poverty by the thousands." Buchanan could have told the house that 750,000 Irish workers and peasants, subjects of the prince's father, are living in a state of actual starvation, yet money is found to send

NEW RUHR REVOLT

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—Ominous with anger the Ruhr miners threaten violent revolt to avenge the murder of the estimated 138 of their fellow workers who, dying in a great mine explosion in the Stein mine at Dortmund Wednesday night, are blazoned by Communists thruout all Germany as victims of the Dawes plan of enslavement of German labor to allied and, chiefly, American banks.

In the Ruhr, spontaneous revolutionary meetings are gathering tens of thousands into threatening masses, menacing the lives of the mine owners, while the horror of the disaster, one of the greatest in the mining history of Germany, is sweeping the whole working class and forecasts an upheaval led by Communists against the Dawes plan, which miners prove has laid such tribute upon German labor that they are speeded and driven into the most dangerous working conditions at starvation wages.

Spontaneous Mass Strike.

Automatically and without any union order, a great strike has taken place. Miners simply stopped work.

At the Stein mine, red-eyed and desperate women frantically stormed the pit head demanding their dead husbands and sons, whose charred and crushed bodies came to the surface in cage after cage. Behind these dead and living victims great crowds of striking miners gathered, threatening death to the mine owners, General Dawes, the social democratic government of Ebert which accepted the Dawes plan, and scornfully waving their wage cards.

Dawes Gives Them An Issue

Ragged and haggard miners, black from the pits, pressed menacingly around any government official who appeared, showing their wage cards of from seven to nine dollars a week.

The government is alarmed at the spread of the class rage for the victims of General Dawes, whom press reports from America state said in a speech yesterday, "You've got to give the people an issue." The Communist paper "Die Rote Fahne," meaning the "Red Flag," says Dawes has given German labor an issue, the burned bodies of the Dortmund miners.

While President Ebert has sent condolences, and Chancellor Luther has rushed to Dortmund to placate the rebellious workers, and while in the reichstag the members were asked to raise in tribute to the dead while the president of the chamber delivered an ovation to the Ruhr miners saying the needed more safeguards, nevertheless it is reported that the government is throwing reichwehr troops into the Ruhr to crush with force any revolt of the workers.

FREE HOSPITAL CLOSED TO SICK CITY WORKERS

Afflicted Are Turned Away Untreated

The board of county commissioners has imperilled the lives of Chicago's sick workers, Cook county hospital officials reveal. The city council, and Mayor Dever have without protest allowed the Cook county hospital to drift into a condition that the head of the hospital staff admitted "is dangerously acute." Altho the Cook county hospital is directly controlled by the county board of commissioners, it is the only public institution able to accomodate Chicago's sick workers.

The hospital is so crowded that no more children, no matter how desperate their plight or serious their injury, are to be admitted to the children's ward of the hospital, by order

IRISH FAMINE RELIEF COMMITTEE ORGANIZED BY WORKERS PARTY ON RECEIPT OF CABLE FROM DUBLIN

The American office of the International Workers' Aid, received the following cablegram from Dublin, Ireland, yesterday morning:

"750,000 workers and peasants starving. Following counties stricken: Donegal, Mayo, Galway, Leitrim, Clare, Kerry, Cork and Roscommon. Fishing industry ruined by British trawlers. Potatoes destroyed by flood. International Workers' Aid establishing committee in Donegal. Dublin committee formed. Organize famine relief in United States. Rush assistance."

(Signed)

Workers' International Aid.

Promptly on receipt of this cable the central executive committee of the Workers Party and the International Workers' Aid met and decided to comply with the appeal from Ireland. The following committee on Irish famine relief was named with power to take immediate steps to organize a nation-wide campaign for the raising of funds for relief: William F. Dunne, James P. Cannon, Joseph Manley, George Maurer and Thomas J. O'Flaherty. Comrade O'Flaherty was appointed secretary.

An Advisory Board.

In addition to the committee already formed a national advisory board will be set up, representative of every section of the country. The committee is setting to work immediately to enlist the support of all individuals and working class organizations who are willing to help the stricken Irish people.

All those who wish to help in this work are requested to communicate with the secretary of the Irish Workers' and Peasants' Famine Relief Committee, affiliated with the International Workers' Aid at 19 South Lincoln street, Chicago, Ill. It is of the utmost importance that as many Irish workers as possible are enlisted in this work. The need is urgent.

EXPEDITION LEAVES PEKING IN HUNT FOR BIRTHPLACE OF MAN

PEKING, Feb. 13.—Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the third Asiatic expedition, left Peking for Kalgan today to start his camel caravan of 150 animals on its 1,000 mile trek across the Gobi desert with supplies for himself and party.

Andrews and his party in quest of the birth place of man will leave by motor a month later.

Williamson County Grand Jury Indicts Fifty-Seven Persons

MARION, Ill., Feb. 13. — Acting Sheriff Randall Parks and his deputies today were serving warrants on 57 indictments returned by the Williamson county grand jury when it adjourned after ten days' deliberations. No indictments were returned in connection with the S. Glenn Young-Ora Thomas killings at Herrin, it was understood.

The majority of the indictments charged violations of prohibition laws, burglary and larceny. Three charged

CAPPELLINI NOW CHARGED WITH GRAVE OFFENSE

Locals Accuse Him of Collusion with Enemy

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 13.—Rinaldo Cappellini, once the idol of the coal miners of District No. 1, of the United Mine Workers of America, is now facing charges of collusion with the coal operators and his accusers are a committee composed of members of the grievance committees from every coal mine in the district, the same organization that put him in office.

Two hundred committeemen from 49 locals met recently in Union Hall, and every one of them was in possession of strict instructions from his local to investigate Cappellini's relations with the employers during the recent struggle. The first session of the body which is now a permanent organization, proceeded in an orderly manner.

Collusion With Bosses.

The specific charge of collusion, levelled against Cappellini is his action on the election at the Woodward Colliery of Local No. 699. Contrary to the laws of the union, Cappellini is said to have forced his tool, Adam Dunn, a school director, into office. Affairs at this colliery have been in a very queer condition since the illegal strike last summer when Cappellini revoked the local's charter and had the officers blacklisted by the international union and by the coal operators. The place of the blacklisted officers were taken by others not quite satisfactory to Cappellini. The latter therefore forced his man Dunn, on the local.

Ordered to File Charge.

An investigation immediately followed. This job is not yet finished. The committeemen present at the Union Hall meeting were instructed to return to their locals and draft charges against Cappellini. The charges would state that Cappellini unlawfully delayed settlement of grievances, that he should be condemned for his illegal action at the Woodward local and that he was on too intimate terms with the coal operators. It was strongly hinted that Cappellini had received money from the operators for delaying settlement of grievances and for pursuing his disruptive policy for the past two months.

It was stated at the meeting in Union Hall, that Cappellini was on his way there accompanied by four state troopers for protection but he failed

RANK AND FILE SUPPORT OF COMMUNISTS FORCES FAKERS ON COAST TO HASTY RETREAT

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 13.—The Seattle Central Labor Council at its last meeting gave ample evidence that it has no desire to inaugurate a policy of strife and disruption of the local labor movement, at least not for the present.

Altho it did refuse to rescind its action of previous week favoring the expulsion of Communist delegates by a vote of 90 to 35, nevertheless the strong determined stand taken by several of the largest unions such as the bakers, machinists and others, who in unmistakable terms in their resolution showed the council that its action is one of disruption and strife and demanding that it rescind it and attend to its business, brought the council back to its senses.

President Apologizes for Action

The president of the council Jepsen at the close of the vote taken on the resolutions of the bakers and machinists apologized for his unfairness and discrimination against the Communists and militant delegates during the previous week and stated he did so in fear of a filibuster.

"Let Matter Drop"—Say Council Officers.

He also stated he was sorry the matter was broadcasted and said the matter was now settled. Doyle, secretary-business agent of the council also stated the matter was settled. Similar statements were made by conservative opponents who apparently realized the serious danger the red baiting might lead to.

Bakers Support Paul Mohr.

At the very beginning of last night's meeting, President Borstal of bakers stated in clear unmistakable terms that left no doubt in the minds of the council that the resolution adopted by his local was unanimous and that they are determined that should the Communist delegate Paul Mohr, who for more than thirty years dedicated himseift to the building up of his local union and the local labor movement, be expelled, they would send him back repeatedly.

Joe Havel, Communist delegate, stated the council's action is one of disruption and pointed out the great sacrifice made by Communists in every fight for the interests of the labor movement. He told the business agents frankly that they feared the Communists because of their opposition to the bosses plan. He urged

FASCIST ITALY HAS WORST WAGE AMONG NATIONS

Belgium and France Also at Bottom of List

(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

By LELAND OLDS.

Fascist Italy is paying the lowest wages of the five leading industrial nations. A comparison of the average daily wage rates of leading foreign competitors by the New York federal reserve bank shows the average daily wage paid in America as double England and about 6 times that paid in Italy.

The figures were furnished by a large American industrial company maintaining factories in the other countries.

This makes it possible to compare wage levels for the same types of labor engaged in the production of identical commodities. The average daily wages paid by this concern in November, 1924 were:

U. S. wages (a day)	$6.00
England	2.28
Germany	1.55
France (Paris)	1.35
Rest of France	1.24
Belgium	1.14
Italy	.96

N. Y. DISTRICT OF YOUNG WORKERS' LEAGUE STARTS CAMPAIGN AGAINST RELIGIOUS TRAINING IN SCHOOLS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 13.—Sanctioned by the superintendent of schools, the religious training is first to be tried in Public School No. 46, Manhattan, where training will be given in catholicism, protestantism, judaism, according to the professed faith of the child. It can easily be seen that all the religious fakers are united in poisoning the minds of the children, and they don't care under what name it is done.

There are at present seven bills in seven different state legislatures calling for religious training. This menace must be met by the resistance of all working class parents.

The Young Workers League is calling conferences of the different organizations of parents, and thru the junior sections will carry on a campaign to fight all form of religious training. The Young Workers League calls upon all the working class parents to PROTEST against the introduction of religious training in the public schools, and to send their children to the junior section of the Young Workers League, the organization of working class children that will carry on the fight against the new poison that the capitalists are trying to pour out to dope the minds of the children of the working class.

Unite For Struggle Against the Capitalist Class!

To the Delegates Representing Workers and Exploited Farmers at the Convention of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, Chicago, February 21

DEAR Comrades and Brothers:

You have been sent to this gathering because these whom you represent are suffering, under the dictatorship of the capitalist class.

The workers and farmers who sent you want to find that program and form of organization that will enable them to struggle effectively against capitalist exploitation and oppression.

But the convention you are attending will not do that for you. It is built up on a wrong basis—upon a middle-class program, with middle-class ideas, controlled by men who do not represent workers and farmers. You have among you, claiming to be your leaders, speaking in your name, writing your documents, and controlling your conferences, men who belong to another class hostile to your—small bankers, manufacturers, merchants, lawyers, capitalist journalists and politicians.

This middle-class elements are interested in but two things—(1) How to prevent the workers and farmers from making their own independent class fight; and (2) how to use the workers and farmers to advance the interests of the small bankers, business men, and the middle classes generally.

We warn you that such misleaders will surely betray you. They will not join in any kind of struggle in your interests. They are even fearful of forming a middle class "third party," not to speak of a party that would represent and fight for the interests of the toiling masses.

An attempt will be made to fool you by throwing the mantle of socialism over the conference (but very carefully, so as not to scare away the bankers.) Do not be fooled by those who call themselves "socialists" in this conference, and who, in the name of socialism, ask you to surrender your interests to middle-class leaders. These are the same kind of socialists, belonging, to the same organization, the Second and Imprisoned thousands of workers" of Germany who plotted to restore the Kaiser, who shot down and imprisoned thousands of workers, and who are in partnership with J. P. Morgan in the enslavement of the European working class thru the Dawes plan. They are the same kind of "socialists" as those in Russia who took up arms against the first workers' and farmers' government who joined in every Czarist adventure, and who still plot the overthrow of the Soviet government of Russia in the interest of world imperialism.

These "socialists" are the servants of the same ruling class which robs and oppresses you, which has forced you to that revolt which brings you to conventions and meetings to seek new means of struggle. They are the agents of the capitalist class within your meetings, seeking to soften your determination and to reconcile you to continued exploitation and to prevent your struggles.

But you do not need to rely upon these alien elements, whose interests are bound up in protecting capitalism against your assaults, and who therefore come to you only to betray you. You do not need the pale and futile programs which do not touch your real interests. You do not need their fake programs and organizations which are incapable of putting up any kind of a fight for your interests.

No! You already have a party that fights for your interests all of the time, that has a program based

COMMUNISTS WILL NOT BULWARK CAPITALIST RULE

Refuse to Pledge Not to Fight for Labor

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 13.—The Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly took its first action in ousting all Communists from seats as delegates gates at its regular meeting night. On motion of Delegate Hines of the Typographical Union, a former member of the socialist party, the assembly asked special A. F. of L. Representative Smith to obligate every delegate in accordance with the new by-laws adopted at the last meeting.

Smith took the floor and stated that the executive council of the A. F. of L. had made a decision that the Workers (Communist) Party was a dual and revolutionary organization and no members of such organization can be delegates in the new assembly. He further reiterated his former statements that all Communists better get out and stay out.

Skoglund Leads Party Defense.

When the credentials of Comrade Carl Skoglund were read as a delegate from Carmen's Union No. 299, a question was asked as to whether he was a member of the Workers Party. Comrade Skoglund took the floor and stated that he was a member of the Workers (Communist) Party, that the Workers Party was the only political party fighting for the class interests of the workers, and finally that he would refuse to take the obligation of the assembly so long as it contained a provision pledging support to the present strikebreaking capitalist government.

He proceeded to read a statement setting forth his position as a Communist. This statement was listened to attentatively by the overwhelming number of delegates and many gave expression to the thought that the righ wing was going too far in their attack. When the reading of the statement was almost completed, Delegate Spellman raised a point of order, charging that the speaker was spreading Communist propaganda. The objection was sustained by Chairman Anderson, Comrade Skoglund being ruled off the floor and asked to leave the hall.

Immediately following this, Smith called on all delegates to take the obligation. J. O. Johnson, L. A. Roseland, Walter Frank, Robert Peterson, George Thornton and William Mauseth, together with several delegates who are not yet members of the Workers, stated that they would not take the obligation, that they would continue their efforts to build, strengthen and unify the trade union movement by working in their locals, and then left the hall.

The left wing forces announce that they are going to launch an immediate campaign to carry their message to the rank and file workers of Minneapolis. An extensive program of constructive activity has been mapped out, which provides for the holding of two large mass meetings.

The first is to be held at the Jupiter Hall, 2614 Lincoln St., N. E., on Friday, February 27, at 8 p. m., and the second to be held at Camden Auditorium, 1616 Forty-first Ave. No., on Tuesday, March 3, at 8 p. m.

The statement submitted to the assembly by Comrades Skoglund and Frank on the reason why the Communists would not take the counter-revolutionary obligation, will be published in the next issue of the DAILY WORKER.

Greeks and Turks Mobilize Armies On Thracian Border

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 13.— The Greek government is rushing negotiations with the Pachitch fascisti dictatorship of Jugo-Slavia for a treaty of friendship, at the same time that they are massing troops on the Thracian frontier to be ready to attack the Turks.

Turkey is reported to have evacuated Adrianople. The Greeks are heavily fortifying their borders with reserves. The Turks are also mobililing their forces.

STANDARD OIL BOOSTS PRICE 10 TO 30 CENTS PER BARREL IN ONE DAY

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 13.— The Jos. Seep company, purchasing agents for the Standard Oil company, here, today announced increases of 25 cents a barrel in Cabell, Somerset medium and Somerset light and 10 cents a barrel in Ragland oils.

The new prices are Cabell, $2.20; Somerset medium, $2.30; Somerset light, $2.45, and Ragland, $1.50 a barrel.

Later in the day the agency announced Corning grade oil would be advanced thirty cents to $2.25 a barrel. There will be no addition increases announced today, the agency stated.

Prices in other grades were unchanged.

CLAIM SCAB COAL FROM KENTUCKY SHUTS BLOOMINGTON RAIL SHOPS

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 13.—One hundred eighty employees of the Chicago & Alton Railway shops were out of work here today, suspended, officials said, because of the slump in coal traffic due to inroads of cheaper non-union fuel from Kentucky and West Virginia. A retrenchment program was then in effect in other departments, it was also said.

LOW WAGES FORCE FAMILIES TO STINT SELVES ON MILK WITH THE CHILDREN AS WORST SUFFERERS

By LELAND OLDS

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

How low wages force workers' families to stint themselves on milk is shown in a survey of milk consumption in Philadelphia by the United States department of agriculture.

The department found that members of families with very limited income consumed an average of only .51 of a pint a day.

Families in which the husband made fairly good wages consumed .60 of a pint a day. Families of salaried and professional men with good incomes averaged .78 of a pint a day per person. Wealthy families in the best residential sections purchased .81 of a pint a day for each member.

That members of well-to-do families can consume 60 per cent more milk than poor families is important to the health of the community for a majority of the children grow up in families with low incomes. But it is also important to the dairy farmer. A general advance in the spending power of the working class would mean a material increase in the demand for his products. If low income families could afford as much milk as the wealthy, the milk consumed by the average family of five in a year would increase by about 68 gallons. Multiply this figure by several million and you will see what better wages would mean to the dairy farmer.

R. R. STRIKERS BEAT UP SCABS AS BOSSES HIDE

Chinese Workers Give West a Lesson

PEKIN, China, Feb. 13.— Railway strikers have tied up the lines connecting Pekin and Shanghai, demanding better treatment from the railway management which they claim robs them continuously with deductions, fines and underpay.

At Tsingtau, strikers and sympathizing workers attacked the crew of scabs going to the rescue of two other trains stalled by the strikers. The rails were torn up and the train of strikebreakers blocked, while twenty scabs were badly beaten, including one Japanese business man who organized the scab crew.

Masses of the workers of Shangtung demonstrated before the quarters of the governor, demanding the arrest of the railway management staff, who were in hiding to avoid the wrath of the workers. The governor tried vainly to persuade the strikers to let one mail train go thru each day. The workers are very determined and militant.

Educators Meet Here To Discuss How Best To Serve the Bosses

The vocational educational association of the middle west, an organization comprising officials in the public schools of eight states, is holding its convention in the Sherman Hotel.

All the members of the Chicago board of education were present sitting at the speakers' table and Superintendent William McAndrew made a speech. McAndrew was in his element. This is not surprising, knowing how keen he is on vocational training in the public schools. But on this occasion he chose to lay low on that subject. Rather he beamed forth with quotations from Presidents Washington, Adams, Madison, Monroe and Lincoln to make his point that citizenship must be the underlying principle in education. But McAndrew did not make clear just what this organization was driving at as others did.

For instance, Eeverett S. Lyon, of St. Louis, branded the commercial courses in high schools as utter failures because they did not give pupils the mental equipment to carry them to business success. J. C. Wright, of Washington, said the junior high school was the only remedy for existing ills in the educational system. The ills referred to were very obvious. They were the method of wasting cultural education or working class children. A more efficient method for serving business was the vocational training of the junior highs which starts training them as soon as they are thru with the "three R's."

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO TAKE TRIP TO BERLIN?

Hear of Dawes Plan in Action at Forum

"Hell an' Maria" Dawes may be the next president of the United States, after Silent Cal goes back to Vermont and resumes going to bed at nine o'clock with an oil lamp to guide his footsteps. Then again he may not.

The cussing armchair general may never go down in history as a president of the United States, but his name will be written in the book, because of his connection with the infamous plan that forces the German workers to pay the allied reparations at the expense of long hours and a lower standard of living than they had previously.

Divided on Dawes Plan.

This is where Max Bedacht horns in on the question. All of us heard the Dawes plan talked about more or less. Some are for it; others are against it. The German socialist leaders are for it. The Communists are against it. Some of the German bourgeoisie are against it; others are for it. Britain accepted it as the lesser of two evils; so did France. But both countries do not feel too happy with it.

What is this Dawes plan? How does it affect the working class of Europe? How does it affect the working class of America? Whose plan is it? These and other questions will be answered tomorrow by Max Bedacht, member of the central executive committee of the Workers Party, who will speak at the open forum, in the Lodge Room of the Ashland Auditorium tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Student of German Situation.

The title of Comrade Bedacht's subject is "Europe Under the Dawes Plan." Besides being well qualified to explain the theoretical aspects of the Dawes plan from the standpoint of world imperialism, Comrade Bedacht has made a special study of the German situation. He has been in Germany recently and is personally acquainted with many of the most prominent figures in the Communist movement in that country.

Thomas J. O'Flaherty, member of the editorial staff of The DAILY WORKER, will act as chairman.

Hospital Closed to Workers

of the warden. The same is true of workers afflicted with contagious diseases. The contagious disease ward, already overcrowded, has been closed to Chicago's sick workers.

A frightful condition greets the eye in the Cook county hospital, the only haven for the workers of Chicago who are worn and broken in industry and who receive such low wages they have no money for hospital bills. Beds are in every hallway and corner of the hospital. Nurses are bleary eyed and cross, with nerves taut from overwork. In the tuberculosis section, designed to accomodate at most 170 persons, there are over 300 patients.

"As a result of our overcrowded condition convalescing patients are discharged much earlier than they should be," the warden said. "Many of them return soon."

One session of the annual congress on medical education and public health, to convene here March 9, will be devoted to hospital service.

I. W. W. ELECTION PUZZLE FINALLY SHOWS RESULTS

But Discussion Is Just Beginning

After two weeks of continuous labor the ballot committee to count the results of the general referendum ballot put out by the I. W. W. after its Sixteenth General Convention which ended last November, has ended its task of counting a total of 1,260 ballots. These are all who voted out of about 30,000 members.

The result was delayed and is still the subject of much discussion which is shunted into the internal and little read General Office Bulletin, conflict developing within the committee and spreading to the general executive board, over the question of counting 16 votes from Ashtabula, Ohio, which would have altered the election of the new general secretary-treasurer.

So much in doubt is the election of Arthur Coleman who, with J. I. Turner, stood for the office, that the official organ of the I. W. W. cryptically states that 579 votes "were counted" for Turner and 587 for Coleman.

It appears that the 16 ballots of Ashtabula would have given the office to Turner, and the stubs of these ballots, showing in duplicate detail how each member had voted were sent to the Chicago office, but the ballots themselves were burned by the branch secretary.

To Count "Ballots" Not Votes.

Much bitterness developed over the counting of these votes. The matter was at least temporarily settled by Turner renouncing his claim to be elected by such narrow margin, and the ballot committee deciding that since it was a "ballot" committee and not a "stub" committee it would not count the Ashtabula votes. Neither candidate ran upon any issue of policy or of principle and this accounts for the narrow margin, it being largely a question of personal influence.

The vote to expell the "injunctionites" carried quite overwhelmingly, this being a clear matter of policy. Fred Bowerman was expelled by a vote of 1,110 to 212. James Rowan was expelled by 1,098 votes to 219. The other expelled members are P. D. Ryan, Charles Anderson and Harry Trotter.

There were 78 questions left to referendum, the large majority being inconsequential changes in the constitution. Among the more important were one repealing the clause which limits membership in the I. W. W. to actual wage workers and a similar abolition of job branches. Both were defeated.

Queer Contradiction on "Politics."

Two questions of considerable importance which are being subjected to sharp criticism are those relating to the political activities of members. One amendment carried, prohibits any member from becoming an officer of a political party. But tho they may not be an officer of a political party, the carrying of Question No. 75 permits any member to become an elected official of the capitalist government, even if nominated and supported by a capitalist political party, such as the republican.

It is recalled that in such case there would be a violation of the principle enunciated at the first or 1905 convention which forbids members from accepting salaried jobs to uphold capitalism.

Nome Diphtheria Epidemic Abated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — The Nome diphtheria epidemic has abated, Governor Done of Alaska, reported today to Secretary of the Interior Work.

The governor said no new cases had developed for five days and that there was ample anti-toxin on hand to meet possible emergencies in the future.

Say Students Were Poisoned.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 13.—Ohio state university authorities are convinced that the deaths of two students from strychnine poisoning and the narrow escape of four other students were due to the work of a deliberate criminal, Dr. E. F. McCampbell, dean of the Ohio state university college of medicine, said at noon today.

WHO IS THE C. P. P. A.?

In Whose Behalf Are They Acting? What Is It All About? Can You Answer?

Listen here! The so-called conference for progressive political action (C. P. P. A.) will hold a conference in Chicago, Ill. on Feb. 21. The capitalist press will give them plenty of publicity, but what kind? That you know. But how about telling the workers of the ships, mills, mines, factories and railroads—the truth about this C. P. P. A. outfit that does not and will not do anything for the workers, except to raise false hopes which never will be fulfilled? Why not expose these fakers and class collaborationists?

The National Office of the Workers Party published a leaflet: "THE CONFERENCE FOR PROGRESSIVE POLITICAL ACTION SERVING THE INTERESTS OF THE BOSSES."

Order a supply of these leaflets at once and put them out among workers. The price is $1.00 per thousand. Order at once, from National Office, Workers Party, 1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Rumblings of Soviet Recognition Heard On Eve of Cal's Inaugural

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the question of American recognition of Soviet Russia continues to furnish the underground rumbling in Washington as preparations proceed for the inauguration on March 4, of "Cal" Coolidge as president for four years more of these United States.

The biggest event of March 4 will not be the Coolidge inaugural but rather the retirement of Charles Evans Hughes as secretary of state. Not until Hughes has been put into the discard will the drive toward recognition and trade relations with the Workers' Republic take on real life.

Thus the propaganda sent out from Washington becomes daily of increasing importance. Especially so when it comes from the typewriter of Norman Hapgood, formerly editor of several magazines, then American minister to Denmark, but now a hack writer for the Hearst publications, with Washington as his stamping grounds.

Hapgood may be said to have the ear of the Coolidge administration, writing what is really going on behind the scenes, rather than taking his information from the stereotyped declarations that are often handed to the press. For instance Hapgood confesses that, "In spite of what has been given out, the approaching retirement of Secretary Hughes DOES MEAN a change in our policy toward Russia."

It is well for readers of the DAILY WORKER to keep this in mind as repeated statements will no doubt come from Washington during the next few weeks claiming the Coolidge administration has no intention of bending before Soviet rule.

But Hapgood's dope is interesting from another viewpoint. It helps grease the skids by which American capitalism may slide gracefully into Russian recognition. At least that seems to be its intention.

Both Stalin and Zinoviev are already being denounced by Hapgood for preparing the pitfalls that might make recognition impossible. Similar propaganda was spread in England, France, Japan, and practically all the other 23 capitalist nations, that have recognize Soviet rule, before this recognition became a fact.

Stalin is charged with being a "narrow-minded bigot." For a Communist this charge, coming from a capitalist writer, is a compliment. Translated into the language of the working class it means that the secretary of the Russian Communist Party, the guiding power in Soviet Russia, is unswerving in his loyalty to Communist principles.

It is charged that Zinoviev "more than anyone else spoils Russia's attempt to get outside economic help." This only means that world capitalism feels more than ever the growing sting of the Communist International, of which Zinoviev is the head. It is an admission from this capitalist propagandist that Soviet Russia stands loyal to the world revolution; something that sends a chill spasm of fear down the backbone of the whole American capitalist system.

Hapgood speaks rightly when he admits that the Coolidge administration, "after March 4th will be seeking not for excuses to hang back but rather for opportunities for recognition and trade."

The Russian Communists will make no compromise. The surrender will come from Washington and Wall street. Soviet Russia can get on its feet economically in time without foreign aid. The Workers' Republic welcomes such outside aid as it can accept, without injury to Soviet rule, to hurry the job.

But trade and diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia cannot help capitalism wipe out the conflits within itself that hurtles it toward its day of doom.

Recognition victories for Soviet Russia help spell the final triumph of the world social revolution.

COLLINS PARTED FROM DIGGERS BY SOLID ROCK

Tests Show Shaft Will Not Hit Cavern

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 13.—Solid limestone separates Floyd Collins, entombed for over two weeks in a crevice of Sand Cave, from the outside world, long hours of digging and drilling disclosed. The core drill, sunk from the bottom of the shaft, which has reached a depth of fifty-four feet, bit down thru four feet of muck and then struck solid limestone. The diggers must sink the shaft thru solid rock to reach the level at which Floyd Collins is entombed.

Many Workers Prey To Tuberculosis Get No Relief Under Law

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—No relief is offered buffers at emery wheels whose lacerated lungs make them a ready prey to tuberculosis in the Miller silicosis bill, an amendment to the state compensation law, now before the New York legislature.

The Miller bill makes workers at only a limited number of trades eligible to compensation for silicosis, the disease that afflicts men who inhale sharp edged rock dust particles. Miners, quarrymen, tunnel workers, stone masons, granite cutters, pottery workers and flint knappers are made eligible for compensation, but there the matter ends, with thousands of affected workers unprovided for. Nothing is done for glaziers, bevelers machinists, buffers and emery polishers, with other workers at affected trades

Find State Insane Hospital Overcrowded

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 13.—A legislative committee today investigated housing conditions in the Dunning State hospital for the insane, which is said by assemblymen to be in an extremely overcrowded condition. The committee declares that buildings destroyed by fire a year ago have not been replaced.

A recent session of the state legislature passed a resolution authorizing the appointment of this investigating committee to survey housing conditions at the institution. A member of the legislative committe said that the investigation is preliminary to a move in the generaly assembly for an additional appropriation to relieve the overcrowded conditions by constructing more buildings.

Defective Equipment Supplied Troops

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 13.—Eddie Rickenbacker, aircraft expert, sharply criticised the planes and equipment furnished the American fliers during the war, declaring they were antiquated and defective.

"I never saw an American plane at the front," said Rickenbacker, who testified before the house aircraft investigating committee.

1924 WAS FAIRLY SUCCESSFUL WITH ITS BANKRUPTCIES

Commercial and Financial Failures Given

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 13.—Commercial failures in 1924 numbered 20,615 concerns and 757 banks, the federal reserve board announced today.

Liabilities involved totalled $543,224,559, exclusive of banks, whose capital stock and surplus aggregated $46,642,000. Some of the banks will reopen without loss to creditors or already are reorganized.

Liabilities of commercial failures were slightly above the total for 1923, according to the board, and considerably higher than the level for years prior to 1920. In 1922 there were 23,676 commercial failures with $636,896,000 liabilities, while 19,635 firms collapsed in 1921 with record liabilities of $627,402,000.

Figures showed that in 1924, 1.01 per cent of the commercial concerns of the country failed but that only 3.2 per cent of failures were firms whose insolvency involved $100,000 or over.

In the fourth quarter of 1924 there were 5,389 failures, an increase over the preceeding quarter. Total indebtedness, however, was considerably lower than for the other period.

Of the bank failures 79 per cent were not members of the federal reserve system; of member banks 120 were national and 34 state banks or trust companies. The greatest proportional of bank failures occurred in the Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City districts.

Cappellini Is Now Charged by Miners With Grave Offense

to appear. It is freely stated that Cappellini would risk his life by appearing before any body of miners in this district at the present time, so bitter is the feeling against him. The renegade radical who was showered with honors and money by the honest workers of District 1, only a short time ago, is now the most hated man in Pennsylvania.

Is Lewis Against Brennan.

William J. Brennan, former district president, who was defeated by Cappellini for that office in the last election is a candidate for his old job. It is reported that Brennan was fired by Lewis for refusing to accept a position in Pittsburgh and for persisting in running against Cappellini. It is a fact that Brennan was notified by Lewis that his connections in an official capacity with the international organiation were terminated. When Brennan first announced his candidacy, Lewis let it be known that this action did not meet with his approval, so he arranged a sinecure for him in District 9. Brennan refused to leave, saying that this was a plot to disqualify him as candidate for president of District 1. He is said to have informed Lewis that the only way he could be removed from District 1 would be for the international chief to fire him. This has been done, at least ostensibly.

But the miners are skeptical. Some believe this is a ruse of Brennan's party to line up the anti-Lewis vote, hoping to grab the anti-Cappellini vote anyway. Militants here believe that Lewis is secretly behind Brennan who is much closer to the archfaker than Cappellini. Should Brennan be elected there is no doubt but another telegram will be received congratulating him on his victory.

Progressives Preparing.

The progressives are preparing to put their own candidates forward as they have no more confidence in Brennan than they have in Cappellini. They know that the only candidates who can be trusted are those who take the position of Trade Union Educational League and the Workers (Communist) Party without reservation. The tremendous vote counted munist candidates. They want honest, constructive and fighting leadership and the Communists alone can proved that.

STANDARD OIL AGAIN BOOSTS PRICE OF GAS

An advance of 2 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline was announced today by the Standard Oil company of Indiana, effective in the ten states of the middle western district. Kerosene was advanced 1 cent a gallon at the same time. This makes the price of gasoline 19 cents a gallon from tank wagons and 21 cents at filling stations.

OPEN SHOP DRIVE FLOODS CHICAGO WITH PRINTERS

Answer Ads, Get Jobs, But Later Fired

The most flourishing open shop business in Chicago is the printing industry. Its secretary, J. M. Vollmer, with headquarters in rooms 1202 to 1207 Monadnock building, forms the rallying point for all scab printers brought into the city.

A great many are being brought in to flood the city with surplus printers in order that a large unemployed margin be always available to fight the union shops.

Vollmer advertises widely for printers to come to his place in Chicago and get work. They come and they get work. But the trick develops that they are given work only for a little while, then turned out of the job which is given to a new arrival who answered the same ad that the first one did, and so on—until the city is crowded with printers out of work. Vollmer does not stop at this point, however, but keeps on bringing in printers to add to the jobless of Chicago.

Another trick of the open shoppers is to control apprentices first by compelling them to work as apprentices for six years, and secondly, by holding out $2 every week from their pay. If the apprentice quits his job or the trade before the six years are up, he loses the whole accumulated sum held out of his wages. This often amounts to hundreds of dollars.

Davenport Comrade Warns Party Members Against H. E. Keas

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Feb. 13. — Comrade W. G. Daniels writes the DAILY WORKER that H. E. Keas, formerly of Cleveland, O., unloaded a worthless check on him to the amount of $125.50, when Keas passed thru Davenport, Iowa, in December.

Keas came to Davenport about Dec. 16, declares Comrade Daniels, and induced him to indorse a check for $125.50 signed by H. F. Peters, drawn on the First National Bank of Billings, Montana, to the order of R. V. Olson. It was already indorsed by "Olson." Keas left the city and the check turned out to be worthless.

"Keas returned the Saturday after Christmas and sa'd he would go to Minneapolis and straighten out the protested checks," Daniels said. "About ten days later I got a letter from him from Chicago, saying to forward any mail for Keas, Henry or Olson to 429 W. 50th St., New York. The banks could not trace him at this address."

Car Track Repairer Killed by Auto; Six Are Injured

A speeding automobile, piloted by an allegedly moonshine crazed driver, early today crashed into a group of street car track repairers, killing one and injuring six others, one seriously. The driver, who gave the name of James Hickey, was arrested only after he had battled a squad of detectives who caught him as he was leaving his machine wrecked by its wild dash.

Milovan Zernok, the worker killed, was found fatally injured, jammed into an eight-inch crevice between the car rail and the pavement, he died enroute to a hospital. The other injured are expected to recover.

DAILY WORKER too Good to Miss.

To the DAILY WORKER: I want to congratulate you all for the wonderful labor paper the DAILY WORKER has become. I, myself, would not be without it, as it is too good to miss. It is the sort of fighting paper workers need and should read. All my copies I hand out to a lot of people here and they relish them like a good meal.

MUCH INTEREST IN ELECTION OF BUSINESS AGENTS FOR INTERNATIONAL LADIES' GARMENT WORKERS' UNION

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 13.—The election of business agents in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union is now going on and much interest is shown by all the members of the organization.

The National Committee of the Needle Trades Section of the Trade Union Educational League has issued a statement urging the workers to take an active and intelligent part in these elections and to vote down the standpat officials that have held back the development of the union which we print in part:

Fellow Workers: Unfortunately, the present system of organization in our union leaves the entire fate of the workers rest in the hands of the business agents. It is the business agent who conducts the shop meetings, they attend to the complaints in the shops, and in many instances are the deciding factor in settling prices.

The past year activities of our office staff are still fresh in your mind. The business agents were mainly concerned with personal ambitions and with playing politics in the interest of the machine at the expense of the great mass of workers in our industry.

It was with the assistance of the present office staff that many of our active union member have been suspended and our union demoralized. The office staff of the past year not only failed to defend the interests of the workers in their daily struggles, but have, in many instances, been an obstacle in the way of a real struggle of the part of the workers to maintain our union standards.

Dressmakers—in the present elections you must again show your devotion to the union by participating in mass in the coming elections.

You must vote down those candidates who have by their record of their past activities shown themselves unfit to defend your interests, and act as your representatives.

If our union is to meet the problems facing us today we must infuse new life into our office staff, and it is high time for us to defeat those who have come to regard the union as their private property.

There are two candidates for manager and twenty-three candidates for business agents.

Do not vote for I. Horowitz as manager.

Do not vote for the following list of candidates for business agent:

Abram Bernstein
Harry Miller
S. Ballinson
Harry Weisglass
Abram Elnick
S. Goldstein
H. Greenberg
S. Tauber

Vote for all the other candidates on the ballot.

Dressmakers—come to the polls. Remember, that the politicians of the election committee have intentionally chosen Thursday, Feb. 12—Lincoln's birthday—for election day, with the hope that the workers who are not in the shops on that day, will come to the polls to cast their votes.

Make use of this holiday in the interest of our union—come to vote against the above listed candidates and elect such who will truly serve your interests.

National Committee of the Needle Trades Section of the Trade Union Educational League.

No Duty on Products For Miners.

MOSCOW, Feb. 13.—The inter-department committee, formed to investigate the conditions of the Russian far eastern gold mining industry, has found that the chief obstacle to its development are the high prices of foodstuffs and articles of broad consumption in the mining areas. The committee, therefore, recommends the import free of duty of products, which are not produced in the U. S. S. R., for the foreign Chinese and Korean workers and the sale free of excise in the mining districts of tea, sugar, tobacco and manufactures.

TENANT WAR LEADER URGES 'TOMBS' BE TORN DOWN STONE BY STONE

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Captain Harry Allen Ely, aged victim of the criminal libel law, sentenced to the penitentiary for calling Judge Caffrey a "nincompoop" because of his decisions against tenants and in favor of landlords stirred a tenants' association mass meeting on Washington Heights, following his release on a writ of reasonable doubt, by some more plain speaking:

Describing the Tombs prison where he had been confined, the editor of the New York Tenant declared:

"Let me say that if the people of New York comprehended the real conditions in that inferno, they would rise and tear it down, stone by stone. In the 15 days I was there, two of my fellow prisoners attempted suicide.

"I cannot say how I lived thru it. But I came out stronger than when I went in," continued the organized tenants' spokesmen, "and I am ready again to do all in my power to help in our fight for justice."

OFFICIAL OF N. Y. TENANTS STEPS OUT OF PRISON

Ely Granted Release by High Court

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Judge Mancuso gets a panning in the decision issued by state supreme court Justice Wagner, releasing Captain Harry Ely, 71-year-old editor of the New York Tenants, on a certificate of reasonable doubt from the Tombs, pending appeal to the appellate division from his convictim on the charge of criminal libel.

Ely was convicted before Judge Mancuso for an editorial broadside against Judge Caffrey of the municipal court, in which he called the latter a "nincompoop" and other belittling names for his constant decisions in favor of landlords and against tenants. In the trial of the case both Judge Mancuso and the prosecuting attorney seemed to forget that Ely was charged with libeling the man Caffrey and attacked him for his remarks on Caffrey, the judge.

Ely's sentence by Mancuso to a year in the penitentiary is protested by six of the jurors. They had asked for clemency, a request ignored by Mancuso.

Compensation for Industrial Disease, Silicosis, Sought

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Efforts to defeat the Miller silicosis bill amending the compensation law were started today by the State Federation of Labor, the building trades compensation bureau, and the workers' health bureau, in a joint statement issued to organized labor thruout the state branding the amendment as "a menace to the entire compensation law."

The Miller amendment, dealing with compensation for silicosis, is described as having so many restrictions that it would prove a hardship rather than a benefit to workers.

The danger of the Miller amendment, the statement declares, lies in the provisions for compulsory physical examination of workers, confining compensation to a limited number of trades and making employment in a particular trade "continuous for five years."

"None of these restrictions appear in any other section of the compensation law," the statement declares, "and they should not apply to silicosis, which is a definitely recognizable industrial disease entitled to compensation on the same basis as other occupational hazards.

RANK AND FILE HALTS SEATTLE LABOR REACTION

the rescinding of the council's action.

Ex-Socialist Like Russian Counter-Revolutionists

Bailey, business agent of pattern makers and ex-socialist was one of the two opposing delegates to whom the welfare of organized labor is of no concern for he as usual worked himself into hysterics against the Communists.

The other reactionary delegate, David Levine, a petty shopkeeper of cheap brass jewelry-ware and other trinkets of the notorious pawnshop type, holding up the DAILY WORKER containing the story about the Seattle situation, shouted, "You see, you see, if you don't agree with the Communists, they call you labor fakers!"

Shop-Keeper Worries Over Worker's Dictatorship

Grinning faces and some smiles of others were the replies. He went on abusing the Communists and shouted. "Thousands are imprisoned in Russia!" "They're yellow socialists," yelled one delegate.

The delegate from the laundry trades urged the council to rescind its action, since delegates were representing in the council their locals and not themselves.

Expelling Communists Not Easy

Delegate Gorlick from the garment workers cited the New York example when one Communist was expelled thirty-two Communist delegates were elected at the next election in his stead. The solution of Communism is abolishing capitalism, he said.

The delegate from the metal polishers characterized the action of the council a shameless one. A woman delegate from the printing trades stated she had no objection to Communists or Communism but wanted the ideas kept out of the council. Delegate Belanger, steamfitters, said he had already spoken against the Communists and urged not to rescind resolution.

Communists Defended

Hansen, delegate from painters, said he has been in the labor movement for many years, also in the council and never seen any disruption carried on by Communists nor any danger of such, but on the contrary they are good militant workers.

Delegate Price of the machinists stated that he had as much right to be a Communist as others who are ku klux klan, republicans, democrats, etc. Replying to Levine he said those imprisoned in Russia are yellow socialists who are counter revolutionary and caught conspiring against Soviet government.

Pearl, delegate from barbers, stated that "We are not against Communist and Communism," said there was intolerance on both sides and urged harmony for the sake of the council.

"Is This Disruption?"

Delegate Belsky of the leather workers said that the leather workers had no union until a year ago when a Communist arived and organized the thriving local he now represents. Then because of this, the Communist lost his job. He wanted to know if this is disruption.

Havel, the last speaker, characterized the statements of Levine as those of a shop keeper and closed by urging the rescinding of the council's action

Yes, And Will Keep You Going!

When the meeting adjourned one delegate of the opposing side good naturedly remarked "The Communists got us going," the Communists are on the alert and determined to carry on the fight should any attempt be made to expell any Communist delegates and they have a large backing in the trade union movement.

New "Investigations" Of Capitalism's Sins By Capitalism Begun

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—After a vacation, the senate today was in the throes of a new epidemic of investigation.

The senatorial curiosity that delved into governmental activities a year ago has been directed toward pretending to take the lid off "big business," such as electricity, tobacco, gasoline, bread and the railroads. But little more than wordy exposes can be expected.

The trend of the new epidemic has been to make some show of fighting the present high cost of living and discover who is responsible for the high prices and what can be done to bring back the old-time "normalcy" that once was a political slogan.

RANK AND FILE FOOD WORKER TELLS HOW COMMUNIST WORK IS CARRIED FORWARD ON THE JOB

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—A rank and filer takes the floor. He is a foodworker. Every day he toils in one of New York's most fashionable restaurants taking care of the caprices and desires of patrons who come to eat well and be merry.

His face is intelligent, steeled and determined. In a very simple unpolished way he has a very important message for the active party workers who have come together in order to get started on the work of organising district 2 on the basis of shop nuclei. He is introduced as the organiser of shop nucleus No. 1 the first shop nucleus organized in New York.

Gets An Attentive Hearing.

The comrades listen very attentively to his story. He is giving them a message of great importance. He tells them how the shop nucleus was organized with only four members. They held a meeting, elected a secretary, a financial secretary and an organizer. Then they went to work. The made the shop the field for their activities.

Every day they pasted up clippings from the DAILY WORKER so that the workers in the establishment would daily receive a Communist message. Affairs that interested the workers in the shops they wrote up themselves and pasted up prominently.

When the boss wanted to impose more work upon the workers they rallied the workers together and prevented the bosses' nefarious scheme. At the tables when the workers sat down to eat they discussed Communism and the affairs of the shop. They never lost an opportunity to talk to the workers about their interests and to fight for them.

Show Communist Solution.

Every subject raised by the workers during a conversation they turned into a political discussion involving Communism and the party. The workers soon became aware that the Communists were their best friends. Openly they began to say that the Communists are the only ones the workers can trust. When the nucleus held its next meeting they enrolled two new members into the party. At the coming meeting the membership of the nucleus will be increased by four more. He pointed out how they met together in the shop when necessary. He gave an interesting story of how the shop committee was changed, the reactionaries thrown off and the Communists and those that follow and sympathize with the Communists put in control. He pointed out how this shop gives the Communists on account of the activity of the shop nucleus a strong influence in the union.

The comrades received this report of a rank and file leader of the workers with enthusiasm. They then went down to work to consider the plan presented by B. Gitlow, the shop nuclei organizer. Present at the meeting were the section organizers, branch industrial organizers, Trade Union Educ. League representatives and such active comrades who were willing and able to participate in the important task of reorganizing the district on the basis of shop nuclei.

Work is Systematized.

The work in New York is to proceed in a systematic manner. The organization campaign will proceed with one factory area after another, starting of course with the most favorable area. When one area is completely organized into shop nuclei then another area will be tackled. It is hoped that by energetically engaging the part membership in this work to have the work completed as quickly as possible. The success of this work will put the New York district closely in contact with the workers in the shop and will make the Workers (Communist) Party district 2 a real Communist district organization fighting in the largest city in the country daily in the struggles of the workers and in their interests.

AS WE SEE IT

the prince on a junketing trip, in order to popularize the products of the British empire in other lands.

A GENTLEMAN by the name of Walter Guiness, is financial secretary to the treasury. Many of you have seen that person's name on the outside of black bottles, that come from Dublin. He is the owner of the business that manufacturers the famous XX porter. He is the prince of porter. Guiness was quite frank in replying to Kirkwood. Perhaps he had some liquid (Guiness) on the inside. He stated that the prince was not being sent on a trip to educate himself but in order to give the empire a chance to see the prince. Argentine trade was very important to England, said Guiness. That's enuf!

WE might digress here for a moment and recall the recent visit of General Pershing to South America. He had his picture taken kissing some Argentinian babies and he even danced the Argentinian tango with the daughter of some Argentinian politician. In a tango contest the prince will make the general take the count, but the general was over the ground first which is very important. Of course, the prince is young but the British empire is getting old and even tho Pershing has seen his best days, and would not be a serious contender against the prince on the floor of a cabaret, the American empire is young. You can see that the British and American capitalists who are contending for commercial mastery in South America use their heads and their feet. Later on they will use bullets—by proxy. But to return to the house of commons.

THE prince was not thru with his troubles when Kirkwood and Buchanan got thru speaking. Another member of the left wing of the British labor party was on his feet. He noted that the prince was not yet married and compared that worthy's financial prospects with those of a member of the working class. Besides, the annual income of over $165,000 which the prince receives from his duchy of Cornwall, when he marries a grateful nation will give him about $50,000 a year. The poor tories were suffering agony by this time. They kept on howling but the labor spokesmen have good lungs.

THEN the lone Communist member arose. He is a Hindo, Saklatvala by name. "I object to this misuse of public funds. If we have a British empire and if we must have a royal knob to it, then we must pay for it I suppose," declared the Hindo rebel. The motion to increase the prince's travel fund was finally passed by a vote of 304 to 90, Ramsay MacDonald, J. H. Thomas, Sidney Webb and William Adamson voted with the tory government. Stephen Walsh, Noel F. Buxton and Arthur Henderson refrained from voting. This is interesting.

Opium Conference Ends Without Stopping the Use or Sale of Drugs

GENEVA, Feb. 13.—The international opium conference adjourned here tonight, after adopting the protocol and convention which regulates the importation and exportation and the domestic sale of opium and cocaine, but in no way prohibits the trade in or use of opium.

A phrase was inserted in the agreement before adjourment that "opium smoking is only temporarily permitted."

POSTAL CLERKS BEG CONGRESS FOR PAY RAISE

Express "Faith" in Final Action

The Chicago Post Office Clerks' Union, Local No. 1, has passed a resolution expressing "keen disappointment with the slow progress of the postal salary bill over a period of nine months," and "requesting congress in the name of justice" to pass the bill.

The resolution points out that there are only a few more days left for action by congress, and declares its "faith" in the ultimate passage of a bill giving the poorly paid postal workers a living wage.

The resolution in full follows:

WHEREAS, Congress is engaged in the proces of passing a salary bill for the relief of the poorly paid postal employes who are devoting their time, energy, and mentality to the facilitation of the efforts of the post office department to render efficient and satisfactory service to the business interests of the country and the general public, and

WHEREAS, The great volume of business served by this department is expedited by the retention of employes of experience and qualification, and

WHEREAS, Notwithstanding the abiding faith and sincere confidence we have in the ultimate action of congress to mete out justice to the 300,000 postal employes whose wives and children are daily asking what has congress done? we are forced to confess our keen disappointment with the slow progress of the bill over a period of more than nine months, with only a few days left for action,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That Local No. 1, in regular meeting assembled, February 8, 1925, hereby request you in the name of justice and humanity to aid the passage of the salary increase bill at this session of congress.

We Apologize

The following letter has been sent by the DAILY WORKER to the Chicago Federation of Labor and the Teamsters' Union in reply to criticisms of the Premier taxicab story printed in the Feb. 2 issue of the DAILY WORKER:

"Dear Comrades:

"The story published in the DAILY WORKER of Feb. 2, in which it was stated that the management of the Premier Taxicab company was responsible for a letter to all taxi drivers employed urging them to join the ku klux klan, and the further statement that the union did nothing for the taxi drivers who are members of it, was incorrect in these particulars.

"In pursuance of the policy followed by all Communist papers and Communist parties, we freely admit the mistakes made and on the day following the incorrect story we printed the statement of those who took issue with it.

"We wish to point out, however, that the story of the ku klux klan letter sent to the employes of the Premier company, was furnished us by one of these workers and that it was printed in good faith in line with our policy of waging war on this labor-hating organization wherever it shows its hooded head.

"While we were incorrect in stating that the letter emanated from the management itself, nevertheless we think that it is better to err in overzeal in these matters than to allow some sinister activity of the klan to escape unnoticed.

"The only reason we in any way regret any inconvenience suffered by the Premier company as a result of the publication of the incorrect story is that it is perhaps the only concern of its kind in Chicago that is unionized to any extent.

"Aside from this it is a collection of capitalists who are engaged in making profit by taking as much of the revenue produced by their workers as the workers will stand for and therefore to be treated by us exactly as we treat all other exploiting enterprises—as enemies of the working class.

"The statement that we regret the most and that demands complete retraction and explanation, is that which states that 'the union' does nothing for its members.

"This statement is entirely wrong and has no place in a Communist paper. It is entirely out of harmony with Communist theory, policy and tactics which regard the unions as the basic organs of the class struggle. It was not written by a responsible member of the staff and the error was overlooked at a time when two of the staff were ill and the careful reading of all copy physically impossible.

"The Communist Party and the Communist press do not fight unions or endeavor to discredit them. On the contrary, the Communists aim to be the most active in organizing and in the work of the unions. We believe that only by building powerful fighting industrial unions thru a policy of amalgamation can a real labor movement be created as a solid foundation for the struggle for the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of the dictatorship of the working class which will in turn lay the basis for a Communist society.

"In the daily struggles of the workers the Communist Party and press looks upon the unions as the most efficient weapon of the workers.

"We do not fight unions. We do fight the conservative, reactionary and corrupt officials wherever we find them. We fight them because we know that they obstruct the progress of the unions and of the class struggle and therefore delay the victory of the workers.

"Had the DAILY WORKER directed its criticism at the officials and not at the union, we would still have been subject to censure if the facts were incorrect, but we would not have committed a grave political error.

"The DAILY WORKER never consciously prints manufactured news of the labor movement. Those who are opposed to our policies do not like the manner in which we handle the news, but so far as untruths are concerned it is our object to print the truth of all labor controversies even when we get the worst of it.

"Quite aside from any ethical or moral consideration, it is only by establishing a reputation for accuracy and detailed knowledge of all the problems and struggles of the unions, the unorganized workers and the working class as a whole, that the Communist press can gain their confidence and support.

"We call your attention to the fact that in the year since the DAILY WORKER began publication, a year in which Communists have been slandered, vilified and denounced in all the official union press, their policies, tactics and objects lied about, a year in which they have been expelled by the trade union bureaucrats from labor organizations of which they are generally the most active members, a year in which every form of abuse and persecution has been heaped upon the party and its members, a year in which the prosecution of members of the Workers (Communist) Party has been renewed by the government of Michigan backed by the strikebreaking Coolidge government, and Ruthenberg, the executive secretary of the party, sentenced to three years in prison, with Foster and 30 other comrades slated for trial, the story in question is the only one which our enemies can prove to be incorrect.

"Considering the fact that the DAILY WORKER has the smallest staff of any English language daily in the world, this is a record of which we have a right to be proud.

"As our sole object is to mobilise the whole working class behind the Communist Party and the Communist International for the conquest of the capitalist government and the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government, this should be sufficient proof to any intelligent person that the DAILY WORKER does not wish to print anything that is untrue and would hinder this work.

"With Communist greetings,
"The DAILY WORKER."

Just a Slight Misunderstanding

Brother William Green is not going to stray far from the rutted track beaten by the shoes of the late President Gompers.

Every speech and interview, every article by President Green bears the stamp of the American middle class.

Miami, Florida, the haunt of the Teapot Domers, the refuge of the coupon clippers from the wintry blasts which the workers they exploit must face, was the scene of the latest exposition of "labor's" program given by the heir to the Gompers throne. Surely the organized workers treat their officials well when a city without any industry except the plundering of unwary strangers by real estate sharks, is picked as a meeting place by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

After basking in the Florida sunlight and viewing the beauties of millionairedom as the guest of the Miami advertising club, President Green denounced "imported labor theories" and advanced the doctrine that misunderstanding between labor and capital is the cause of all industrial strife. "Labor and capital," said he, "cannot hate each other if they understand each other."

We Communists measure the intelligence of our class by the degree of militancy with which it fights capitalism, but this is all wrong, according to Green. He advises the workers to love and understand the dear little capitalists who are kicking their ribs with spurred heels.

This miasmatic formula may sound good in Miami, but the 66,000 left wing votes in Green's own organization—the United Mine Workers—indicates that a considerable portion of the organized workers are tired of having their ribs lacerated and understand capitalism and capitalists to an extent that is going to make it increasingly difficult for Green to put over his gawdsaking brand of trade unionism.

The Irish Famine

The population of the entire west coast of Ireland, fishermen and farmers, is in the grip of the worst famine in seventy-five years.

Crops and fuel supply have failed and dispatches tell of terrible misery—British fishing enterprise has ruined the Irish industry.

The International Workers' Aid and the Workers (Communist) Party are on the job. In response to a cablegram from the I. W. A. requesting co-operation from the party in relieving the distress of our Irish comrades, a committee has already been formed to enlist the support of the American workers and farmers.

The appeal of the Irish Workers' and Peasants' Famine Relief Committee should meet with a generous response from the American working class of which so large a section is of Irish birth and descent.

The Free State government, that creature of British imperialism, has shown its true character in this emergency. It first tried to conceal the extent of the famine and does not now acknowledge the actual desperation of the starving masses.

Its relief measures have been wholly inadequate.

The pitiable conditions of the Irish workers and peasants in the famine district is the answer given by history to the church hierarchy and Free State ministers who proclaimed loudly two years ago that the Russian workers and peasants were famine stricken because they had rejected god along with the czar.

The Free State government and the Irish clergy are providing plenty of prayers for the hungry populace, but the Workers (Communist) Party and the Irish Peasants' and Workers' Famine Relief Committee will provide money to buy food, clothing and fuel.

One hundred and thirty-eight German miners die in the deathtraps of industry while the jelly-bellied coal mine owners sell those who live into double slavery—slavery to them and to the allied imperialists. This is the history of Germany as it is being written today. Tomorrow——

The dome of the capitol is collapsing, say Washington dispatches.

We are not great believers in omens, but could anything be more symbolical of the unstable condition of capitalism?

TRACTION BILL OF DEVER GIVES CITY NO VOICE

Entrusts $700,000,000 to Board of 9 Men

The municipal railway ordinance which has been recommended to the city council by the transportation committee, provides for expenditure of $700,000,000 of the city's money, under complete control of a board of nine men, who would not be accountable to the city council or anyone else.

The certificates for the building of the subways and elevated extensions, and the purchase of the traction lines, are to be issued at an interest of five per cent. Following a consultation between Mayor Dever and Samuel Insull, the transportation committee provided that $80,000,000 shall be paid Insull for his elevated lines. Insull demands $90,000,000.

Ordinance Not Made Public

One alderman refused to vote for the ordinance declaring, "We haven't even had an opportunity to read the ordinance. At the last meeting you put thru an amendment of two pages which we did not have before the meeting. At this time I could not vote either for or against the ordinance. You are rushing the ordinance thru in scandalous fashion. We do not know what it means. We have asked Attorney Frank on whom we relied for legal advise this and that and he has been puzzled."

The meeting revealed that altho the transportation committee of the city council authorized the publication of 25,000 copies of the ordinance in pamphlet form, the lawyers have failed to comply with this order and have surpressed publication of the ordinance.

The board of control which according to the ordinance will have charge of the traction lines if the city council and the voters approve the recommendations of the transportation committee, will consist of three members appointed by the mayor, three appointed by the bankers now controlling the lines, and three by these six board members. A board members salary will be ten thousand dollars per year.

When the city has paid the bankers 51 per cent of the debt the three "neutral" members are to be dropped and the city will then have a fourth member to three for the bankers. The bankers thus have a chance to control the traction lines until every dollar of the debt is paid them by the city. This will be for at least forty years. In other words, Dever's ordinance gives the bankers a franchise of forty years.

Communist Charges French Socialist With Wilful Lying

MOSCOW, Feb. 13.—In a letter, addressed to M. Renaudel, and published in the Humanite, the president of the council of people's commissars of Soviet Armenia, M. Ernskian, makes charges against the French socialist leader, accusing him of deliberately concealing from the French people many facts which came to his knowledge when he visited Georgia some time ago, for the sole reason that such facts disproved his anti-Soviet ideology.

In this letter the author cites numerous cases proving the cruelty of the former menshevist Jordania's government to the Armenian population, the robbing of the Georgian State Bank, etc. On the other hand, M. Ernskian points out the prosperity enjoyed by Georgia under Soviet rule.

In conclusion the author challenges M. Renaudel to refute the charges preferred against him, warning the latter that new revelations are in store for him.

FINDS CAPITALISM REWARDS TALENTS WITH HUNGER AND SUICIDE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13. — Worn out by the struggle to keep alive while he produced his art. Maurice Moch, a painter of unusual talent, committed suicide by turning on the gas in his bare room in a poor section of San Francisco.

With his last strength he wrote a letter, adorned with sketches, stating that life was "all rent and bills" and that he had spent his last cent for oils and canvas. The night before, Moch had fainted on the street from hunger, and an unknown physician had given him food and taken him home.

Faced by the realization that he could not succeed in his chosen work, and unwilling to live without it, Moch wrote: "I have found hell. It is on earth," and died.

MILITANT MACHINIST IS COMMUNIST ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE IN 22nd WARD

Louis A. Cejka, candidate for alderman endorsed by the Workers Party of Chicago in the 22nd ward, works as a machinist every day and consequently is thoroly familiar with the needs of the workers.

He is not involved in high politics in Chicago and therefore does not approach the question of municipal government from the point of view of a politician. To Comrade Cejka, the question is very simple, for, as he sees it, nothing is too good for the workers.

Cejka was born in Vienna, Austria, in 1881. He has been a member of Machinists' Local 84 since 1903. For five years he held the office of chairman of his local, was secretary for three years, financial secretary four years. He is now a delegate to the Chicago Federation of Labor from his local, which he has been representing there for the past three years. He has also been a delegate to the district council of the machinists for four years and is a member of the district executive board.

It is no new experience to Cejka to contest for the office of alderman—this is his fifth experience. Not having the backing of a powerful political machine and the money furnished by such a machine, Cejka's merits have not brought him to the point of sitting in the aldermanic council. However, the workers must realise that the only man who can represent them and fight for them is one who, thru his own experiences, knows what they want and offers them a practical program of municipal measures.

Cejka belonged to the socialist party for 15 years and joined the Communist Party on its formation. His trade union record speaks for itself.

UNITE AGAINST CAPITALIST CLASS

upon your immediate needs, and which leads to the establishment of YOUR CLASS POWER in government and industry.

That party is the Workers (Communist) Party of America!

The Workers Party is the party of the toiling masses of America, having no interest separate and apart from the working class and the toiling farmers. It fights for the unity of the labor movement, for its close alliance with the farmers, and a relentless struggle to advance the interests of all who toil, against the exploitation of capitalism, with the goal always in view of the overthrowal of the system of exploitation, and the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government, the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The Workers Party calls upon all workers and farmers who are politically conscious, who realize that they are in the midst of a class struggle, who understand that only by a close union of workers and farmers on the basis of their class interests, for a relentless struggle against capitalism and all its tools—upon all such workers we call to join hands in a united struggle with the Workers Party, not only for our ultimate aims, but for such immediate demands as:

1.—Abolition of child labor exploitation, with government maintenance of children by funds procured thru taxation of large incomes.

2.—Nationalization of railroads, mines, public utilities, monopolies, and natural resources, to be operated under control of the workers.

3.—Securing the farmers in possession of their land; no foreclosures, no evictions; the land belongs to those who till it.

4.—Nationalization of terminal and marketing facilities with joint management by farmers and workers.

5.—State aid to co-operative distribution and production.

6.—Recognition of Soviet Russia.

7.—Unity of the trade unions, nationally and internationally; support to the Anglo-Russian Trade Union Unity committee.

8.—Defense of class war prisoners and defeat of so-called "criminal syndicalism" laws.

9.—Defeat the Dawes plan for enslaving European labor.

Workers and farmer! Unite all the forces of the working class for struggle against the exploiters, against the capitalists and all their agents. Unite with the revolutionary workers of every land, under the leadership of the Communist International, for the battle against all the enemies of the working class. Only thru struggle can victory be won. Unite for the struggle!

German Workers and Their Children Get Packages from I. W. A.

News has just arrived of the Christmas distribution of parcels of food and clothing to locked out workers and their families in various parts of Germany.

Fifteen local committees of the German section of the International Workers' Aid distributed 10,000 packages to those who had lost their means of livelihood in the shutdown of large factories. In addition special packages were given to 3,779 children of imprisoned and exiled in the 17 cities.

Police Forbids Workers' Gifts

This action will be continued. In January, 500 "disciplinary punished" workers in Berlin, 300 in Stuttgart and 200 in Greitz will receive similar parcels. In several towns the distribution of proletarian Yuletide gifts was forbidden by the police. So much cloth was donated in Essen that the volunteer workers could not get it all made up into clothing by Christmas time.

I. W. A. Grows in Germany

The German workers are on the job helping their less fortunate comrades through their own German section of the I. W. A. There are at present 483 local groups with 33,600 individual members. Fees paid monthly range from 5 to 300 gold marks, depending upon the size of the membership in the shop or factory. Very few groups pay less than 5 or more than 100 marks monthly.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Five persons were found dead in their rooms today, two in the Bronx and three in Manhattan, all the victims of fuel gas fumes.

WAGE SLASHERS PRAISE ABE FOR LOVE OF PEOPLE

Negroes Segregated in Washington Exercises

The exploiters of labor claimed Abraham Lincoln as their own in speeches thruout the country on the 116th anniversary of Lincoln's birth. In Chicago the Lions' Club, composed of Illinois business men, heard Charles Dawes speak of the "prosperity" of the nation. The Lions' Club last year held a conference at Herrin in co-operation with the Illinois coal operators, where it was demanded that the coal miners accept reduced wages and break up their miners' union.

Hypocrite Applaud.

It was these same Lions' Club members who applauded Dawes when he said "America's nation wide prosperity is based on wages for labor that are better than any other country in the world."

And it was, ironically enough, Charles Dawes, the enslaver of the workers of Germany, who extolled Lincoln as a friend of the workers. Dawes did not mention in his speech the campaign for wage cuts that the employers have instituted under the protection of the Coolidge government.

Negroes Segregated.

In Washington, where the Negroes have just waged a bitter but unsuccessful fight against segregation at the capitol's bathing beaches, Negro children were brought into the celebration at the Lincoln memorial, to sing Lincoln's praises for freeing their race. But the white politicians in charge of the exercises segregated even these Negro children singers, making them stand in one group, "beneath the three marble panels on the north wall of the shrine," and a little away from the rest of the crowd.

AMERICAN LABOR HISTORY

By THURBER LEWIS No. 8

The Reformers, No. 3—Josiah Warren and William Weitling.

JOSIAH WARREN is known as the father of American anarchism. He joined the Owenite movement and lived in New Harmony during his earlier years. His experiences in the colony and his studies led him finally to reject the so-called socialism of the day. His philosophy became a crude sort of anarchism. He devised a system of economic exchange that was calculated to change the whole basis of society. In 1827, he began putting his scheme into practice. He opened what he called "time stores," on the formula, "labor for labor."

The business of these stores was designed so that no profit could be made. The time of the store keeper was paid for by the customers in the form of "labor notes." These notes promised to pay the store keeper, on demand, "labor-time," hour for hour, as compensation to the store keeper. Warren founded colonies in Ohio and Long Island in which this principle was to be applied.

He published a book in 1846 expounding his theory that price should be determined by labor cost. His favorite method, however, of spreading propaganda was in what he called "parlor conversations," doubtless the source of our modern "parlor anarchists." Tho his ideas didn't meet with a very popular response in the labor movement, they added to the swelling number of social formulas for saving mankind that were confusing the minds of what American workers were interested in such things during that period.

William Weitling began his career as a German revolutionist. He was born in Magdeburg, Germany, which was known at that time as a hot-bed of German liberalism. His early life was spent in poverty. In 1837 he went to Paris. There he undertook active revolutionary work. He flitted from one doctrine to another but always managed to be looked upon as a revolutionary of the deepest dye.

He met Marx in Brussels in 1846, and disagreed with Marx's theories because he thought them too conservative. He said of Marx: "I see in Marx nothing else than a good encyclopedia, but no genius. Rich people made him an editor."

In 1847, he came to America. The revolutions of 1848 sent him back to Europe. He returned to America in 1850 and began publishing his "Republik der Arbeiter," a newspaper for spreading propaganda among the German working people. He had not been in America long before his extremely radical views began tempering to the conciliatory. In the end he became more anarchistic than Communistic and like all early anarchists played the role of reformer.

The salvation for the workers, he thought, consisted in settling the problem of money. His solution he summed up as follows: "The bank of exchange is the soul of all reforms, the foundations for all co-operative attempts. Just as the present money system in its various ramifications, creates, organizes and fortifies, all social evils from which we are suffering, so the bank of exchange will represent the new money system, which will be a strong weapon against the old money system of swindle." He tried to put his bank of exchange, a central house of exchange for the products of trade associations of workers, into operation. It failed in less than two years.

In 1850-51, Weitling stood as the leader of the German workingmen of the country. His paper was a leading organ of the German labor movement and his influence was widespread. His wilful individuality, however, soon made him enemies. The failure of his plan of exchange soured him. He grew conservative. In 1854, he gathered enough political influence to get himself appointed as registrar of German immigration in New York.

Many years later, in 1871, he attended a sort of reunion of revolutionaries held in New York just after the Paris Commune. He spoke and expressed sympathy for the work of the First International. He died three days later.

"The idea becomes power when it penetrates the masses."

Communism is 'Catching'

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE

"They poison the well-springs of our democracy with the virus of Communism."

—From the speech of Samuel Gompers delivered at every A. F. of L. convention for the last three years.

• • • • • •

"Every trade union leader who has come to public notice has been vilified by the Communist machine and the campaign goes on. * * * * One of the favorite practices of the Communists everywhere is to denounce the elected leaders of the trade union movement. In the United States the death of Samuel Gompers was hailed by the Communists as 'the passing of America's arch labor faker'."

—William Green, in the February number of the American Federationist.

• • • • • •

"These Communists are smart enough to always fight on fundamental issues."

—John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor in a speech at one of its regular meetings.

• • • • • •

"The trade unions are the basic organs of the class struggle."

—Nikolai Lenin.

TO pass a motion unseating Communist delegates in the Seattle Central Labor Council it was necessary for the officialdom to bring into the council delegates from unions so isolated from the general labor movement and so reactionary that they had been unaffiliated for two years.

IT was also necessary for the secretary of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor and officers of international unions to spend most of their time for a week organizing the drive against the Communists.

THE Seattle struggle is an almost perfect example of a process that is taking place in the labor movements of all capitalist countries in Europe, a process that is now preceptible in the United States since the rise of the Communist Party and the left wing movement it organizes and leads. Its workings are as follows:

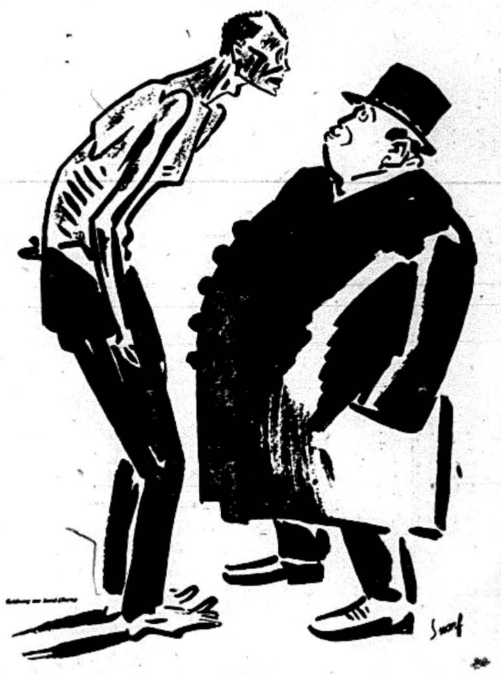
THE most class conscious organized workers join the Workers (Communist) Party and bring its program to the unions. The work and program of the Communists attracts militant organized workers and they too become party members. Around them gather the sincere trade unionists who see the need for struggle against the capitalists.

THE officialdom of the unions fight the Communists and their program and the growth of the circle of rank and file supporters of the Communist program is checked somewhat but continues to enlarge.

BEFORE the active, informed and honest union members the union officials are unable to defend their position. They then begin to organize a counter-offensive against the Communists and they bring to their assistance by economic pressure, by appeal to ignorant prejudice, religious hatred and social-patroitism, elements of the organized working class that have seldom if ever taken an active part in the general work of the labor movement. These elements are found principally in certain unions that are controlled by one of the other of two religious fraternal organizations—masons or knights of columbus—and which are entirely middle class in outlook.

IN the manner outlined above more and more workers are brot into the struggle. They are compelled to listen to new and to them startling and disturbing theories of the role of the labor movement. They hear the policies of their hitherto unchallenged leaders assailed by the Communists. They become angry—but they begin to think. The result is that the mass of workers to whom the Communist program is made known becomes ever larger.

Democracy Illustrated



THE FAT ONE: "You must admit we all have the same vote, we all have the same laws, we all have the same rights . . ."
THE LEAN ONE: "And how about the same chance to eat?"

Democracy claims to overbridge the chasm between those that produce nothing and own everything and those than own nothing and produce everything, and to establish equality. But even a good bourgeois editor whose business it is to peddle that fairy tale of "equality" has his moments when the ridiculousness of this sermon of "equality" strikes him so forcefully that he cannot help but burst out laughing. In such an unguarded moment the editor of a French bourgeois paper permitted the above cartoon to slip into the columns of his sheet. We reproduce it as expert testimony against democracy.

THE Communists may be and quite often are—as in the Minneapolis, Seattle, Los Angeles and Detroit Central Labor Councils unseated as delegates. Some of them may be and quite often are expelled from the unions as in the International Ladies' Garment Workers, the Machinists, the Carpenters and the United Mine Workers but others remain—it is impossible to expel them all. Terror and intimidation are exercised by the union bureaucrats, they co-operate with the department of justice in denouncing and jailing the Communists and with the police in raiding meetings, they make it difficult for them to secure and hold jobs—their press carries on a constant campaign against the "reds."

ALL of this is grist to the Communist mill. Hundreds of thousands of workers who have never heard of the Communists, their program or of the Communist International, have these brot to their attention; not casually, but as issues around which a bitter struggle is being fought—as issues that are linked up with both the most commonplace and the most important union-affairs.

WITHOUT controlling a single one of the official labor journals the Communists have, simply by their activity and the iron logic of their program, forced a discussion of matters never before mentioned in the conservative, deadly dull and provincial American labor press. The united front, amalgamation, the dictatorship of the proletariat, Communism, the Communist International, Lenin as the personification of the world revolutionary movement, the Red Internatinoal of Labor Unions, criminal syndicalism laws, imperialism—all of these strange matters are denounced at length in the press of the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated unions.

LONG quotations from speeches and articles, from theses and manifestos of the R. I. L. U. and the Communist International are printed to prove the assertion that the Communists in the labor movement stand for revolution, that they are against American capitalist government, that they are for the confiscation of factories, mines, etc., and that they believe the unions should be in the first line of the struggle against the oppression of capitalist government.

LABOR union officialdom believes with all the unthinking faith of ignorant devotees that these "disclosures" and "exposures" will exorcise the Communist devil. They have been ready now for three years to sing a hymn of thanksgiving over a labor movement purged of the evil spirit that has driven the Russian workers and peasants, like the Gadarene swine, down the precipice of revolution into the bog of the dictatorship. Alas, and a couple of alacks! The stubborn Communists at the head of the Russian government have gone calmly on forcing recognition from nations whose rulers hate them just as viciously as the well-paunched American labor officials do.

THE Red International of Labor Unions appeals so successfully to the working masses of the world with its program of trade union unity that the English labor movement endorses it, the Communist International loses its great leader Lenin but comes out of its Fifth Congress stronger than ever before; to make the cup of the bureaucrats more bitter even than gall and wormwood it is plain as the alcoholic shine on their faces that recognition of Soviet Russia by the American government cannot be withheld much longer.

JUST as the support of the right wing MacDonaldites in the British labor party comes more and more from the element of backward and hitherto politically and industrially organized workers who have been

Trotsky Writes Again about Himself and Lenin

Were we the only ones, in Trotsky's opinion, who made mistakes at the time of the October revolution? No, we were not the only ones. This book contains many sensations. But the most sensational sentence in the book is one referring to the October revolution. On page 50 of his "Lessons" Trotsky writes: "The rising on the 25 October was of supplementary character only." There are probably many here present who took part in the October events, and these will be surprised to learn, eight years after the October 25, 1917, that the rising on October 25 was merely of a "supplementary character." What did is supplement? We learn that it "supplemented" the events which had taken place on October 9.

The main data of the revolution are familiar to us. But when I mentioned events which occured on October 9, many will ask what happened on that date to which the October rising was nothing more than a supplement. On October 9, says Comrade Trotsky's book, a resolution was passed in the Petrograd Soviet, on the motion of Comrade Trotsky, ending with the sentence: "The Petrograd Workers' and Soldiers' Soviet cannot be responsible to the army for such strategy on the part of the provisional government, and especially for the removal of troops from Petrograd."

It need not be said that this was an important resolution; it united the garrison, which did not want to go to the front, with the Petrograd Soviet. But listen to how Trotsky describes and estimates this event of the October 9: "From this moment (October 9) onwards we were actually in a state of armed insurrection . . . The issue of the rising of the October 25 was already three part pre-determined at this moment. . . . In all essentials an armed insurrection had already been brought about . . . Here we had a 'quiet' and 'almost legal' armed insurrection, one which was two thirds, if not nine tenths, an accomplished fact . . . From this moment onwards we had a victorious rising in the capital city."

Thus it appears that October 25 was not more than a slight supplement to the great 9th. But now the question arises: If the "victorious" insurrection was already an accomplished fact to the extent of nine tenths on the October 9, what are we to think of the mental capacity of those who sat in the Bolshevist C. C. and decided in a heated debate, on October 10, whether we should proceed to an insurrection or not, and if so, what then? What are we to think of people who on October 15 gathered together as plenary session of the C. C. together with the functionaries and co-workers from the military organizations, and still deliberated on the prospects of the insurrection, on the forces of the insurrection, and on the date of the insurrection. Had it not been all arranged on the 9th, quietly and legally? So quietly that neither the party nor the C. C. heard anything about it.

But this is merely a side issue. What is the party, what is the Petrograd Committee, or the C. C. when Trotsky writes a history of the October revolution? In this history neither the C. C. nor the party, exist at all as real living powers, as collective organizers of the mass movement. And there is not a word to be learned from the "Lessons of October" with regard to what took place in Moscow, that not only in Petrograd, but in Moscow and Ivanovo Vosnesensk there was a proletariat which was also doing something. And with reference to Lenin the book informs us: "Lenin who was not in Petrograd, did not fully estimate the importance of this fact . . . Lenin, living illegally, had no possibility of estimating the thoro upheaval," etc. We see that not one of us really knew anything about the October revolution. We had thought that it was precisely Lenin who led the October revolution, and that the C. C., the party, and the military organizations of the party organized it. But it appears that they did not appear on the scene at all.

In order to throw even more light on the part played by Lenin, Trotsky reports as follows: "If the insurrection had begun in Moscow (in accordance with Lenin's advice, L. K.), before the revolution in Petrograd, it would inevitably have dragged much more and the issue would have been very doubtful, and a failure in Moscow would have had a very severe effect upon Petrograd."

Whilst Lenin is engaged in imparting such "advice," Trotsky, with his "quiet" but "victorious insurrection" already in his pocket, is executing "an extensive maneuver." "We succeeded" he writes trumphantly "in luring our enemies into the trap of Soviet legality." Lenin, calculating much more upon the workers, sailors, and soldiers than upon Comrade Trotsky's "maneuvers," wrote at this tim "It is a crime to hesitate, it is a piece of childishness and formality to wait for the Soviet Congress, a betrayal of the revolution." But Trotsky refutes Lenin's words with an air of victory at the close of his description of the roles played by him and by Lenin in October: "It is one thing to organize an armed insurrection under the bare slogan of seizure of power by the party." Trotsky instructs Lenin: "but it is something very different to prepare and realize an insurrection under the slogan of the defence of the rights of the Soviet congress."

Here the figures are shifted from their actual positions: Lenin is illegal, unable to make a correct estimate of the situation, omits to observe that nine tenths of the insurrection has already been accomplished, advises that the rising be commenced in Moscow, although this obviously condemns the revolution to failure. Trotsky, on the other hand, brings about a "victorious insurrection" by October 9, carries out a definite but cautious maneuver by which he "lured the enemy into a trap," and "prepares and realizes the victory" under a slogan comprehensible to the broad masses, the slogan of "defence of the rights of the Soviet congress."

What do these "Lessons of October" endeavor to teach us? That in the spring Lenin was obliged to alter his attitude, to abandon his old theory, and that in October Lenin endeavored unsuccessfully to lead the insurrection which Comrade Trotsky was destined to lead to victory.

We have to choose what we are to learn and to teach. Either this history of October, this history of Trotsky's, or of the history as given in the works of Lenin.

In the question of the Constituent Assembly Comrade Trotsky quotes my and Zinoviev's letter of October 11, in which we wrote: "The Constituent Assembly will be able to lean upon the Soviets only for aid in its revolutionary work. The Constituent Assembly and the Soviet form the combined type of state institutions towards which we are advancing."

Trotsky comments as follows: "It is extremely interesting for the characterization of the whole line adopted by the right to note that the theory of 'combined' state institutions uniting the Constituent Assembly with the Soviets, is one which was repeated one or two years later in Germany by Rudolph Hilferding, an opponent of seizure of power by the proletariat."

Zinoviev's and my letter was written on October 11, and I take Lenin's article written on October 6. Lenin writes as follows: "During the transition from old to new combined types are possible at times (as the Workers' Path rightly pointed out a few days ago), for instance Soviet Republic and Constituent Assembly."

What does this imply? It implies that in the case before us Lenin resembled Hilferding. Historical truth is of little importance to Trotsky. The alteration of tactics at moments when the situation alters from day to day is of no interest to him; what interests him is to discredit Bolshevism by every possible means.

A final example, again in two words. In this same letter of October 1917 we wrote: "These masses of the soldiery are not supporting us for the sake of the slogan of war, but for the slogan of peace.. Should we find ourselves in a position, after seizing power, in which the international situation obliges us to resort to a revolutionary war, the soldiery will turn away from us. The best of the youth among the soldiers will remain true to us, but the great mass will leave us." The historian may judge in how far this estimate was justified. But what does Comrade Trotsky do? He writes: "Here we see fundamental arguments in favor of the signing of the Brest Litovsk peace."

Thus it appears that the Brest Litovsk peace, signed by the party on the urging and iron pressure of Lenin, against Trotsky, was substantiated by "fundamental arguments" supplied by us, the "right," the followers of Hilferding. It is not to be wondered at when our enemies, who have a very fine feeling for anything wrong, comment on such books about Lenin by remarking that it is difficult to distinguish whether they have been written by a co-worker or a rival of Lenin.

Leninism Against Trotskyism.

The results may now be summed up. We are the monopoly party in our country. We gather together in our ranks every organized worker in the country; but we must not forget for a moment that we are surrounded by elements foreign to our class, and that these elementary forces do not diminish, but will multiply and become politically more enlightened. They do not possess the form of legal organization. Petty-bourgeois intelligence will also grow on the soil provided by the development of industry, of the works and factories, and of trade. All these petty-bourgeois elements, finding no open means of expression in any social organization, are naturally endeavoring to further their aims thru the medium of our party itself. The petty bourgeois elements, in exercising this pressure upon our party, naturally seek the weakest link in the chain, and as naturally they find this weakest link where people have entered the party without being assimilated to it, and are possessed by a secret conviction leaving them no peace, that they are more in the right than the party, and that it is mere narrow-mindedness on the part of the party, mere conservatism, tradition, and adherence to this or that clique in leading positions, which prevents the party from learning from its real saviors, such as Comrade Trotsky.

It is with great regret that I state this, and the whole party will echo this regret, but it has to be said: Comrade Trotsky has become the channel thru which the elementary forces of the petty-bourgeois find their way into our party. The whole character of his advances, and his whole historical past, show this to be the case. In his contentions against the party he has already become a symbol, all over the country, for everything directed against our party. This is a fact which it is most important for Comrade Trotsky to grasp. If he will grasp this and draw the necessary conclusions, then everything can be made good again. Whether he wants it or not (and assuredly he does not want it) he has become, for all who regard Communism as their greatest enemy, a symbol for emancipation from the thrall of the Communist Party. This is the regrettable but perfectly inevitable conclusion of all who are accustomed to judge political events from the standpoint of actual analysis of class relations, and not from the standpoint of mere words.

I am aware that in Moscow, a city particularly receptive for all manner of rumors, "perfectly reliable" information is already being spread abroad to the effect that firstly Comrade Trotsky's book has been prohibited, and secondly, that Trotsky's exclusion from the party is contemplated and Trotsky himself is no longer in Moscow. All this is naturally mere gossip. It has not occurred to anybody to prohibit Comrade Trotsky's book; no single member of the C. C. has raised the question of any reprisals against Comrade Trotsky. Reprisals, expulsion, and the like would not enlighten anybody, but would on the contrary render enlightenment more difficult and at the same time give opportunities to those brewers of confusion who would like to sow the seeds of schism in the party, and prevent the real fundamentals of Bolshevism being explained in their differentiation from Trotskyism; and it is this explanation which is of fundamental importance at present.

It must be perfectly clear to every conscious member of the party that for us, the Bolsheviki, and for the international proletariat marching forward to victory, Leninism is sufficient, and that it is not necessary to substitute or improve Leninism by Trotskyism. (Enthusiastic applause).

TOWARDS A NEW ENTENTE

By KARL RADEK

The Quest for Fresh Markets and the Export of Capital.

THE victory of the republicans in America was, as we already wrote in an article regarding the issue of the American elections, the consequence of the improvement in the favorable combination of circumstances obtaining in the summer and autumn. It, in turn, gave a fresh impetus towards the further improvement of the conjuncture. One of the American democrat journals, that is, belonging to the winning party, writes on this occasion: "Not in the memory of this generation has a president sat in the White House in whom the financial interests of the country have had more confidence than President Coolidge." The reasons for this confidence are very clearly expressed in a trading circular issued by the American firm of Goodbody & Co. It states: "The business community rejoices for the following reasons: 1. Because radicalism, if not dead, is scotched for at least three years. 2. Because the appeal to the poorer classes has produced but insignificant results politically. 3. Because the election demonstrated anew that the labor vote is not controlled by the labor unions. 4. Because the railroads are expected to be free from adverse legislation for several years. 5. Because the federal reserve banks will be unmolested for several years, at least. 6. Because the tariff will not be tinkered with by unfriendly hands. 7. Because the election restored confidence and removed obstructions to industry and trade." ("Literary Digest" for the 29th of November.) In short, the capitalist world having secured its own government, which will be its blind tool, has got down to business.

A few basic figures will show what this industrial prosperity in America looks like. The stock exchange has been disposing of over 2,000,000 shares per day, and has started 555 industrial and trading concerns. This is the highest figure since the year 1896. Clearing operations amounted in October to $40,000,000,000. This again is a high figure, the highest since March, 1920. Along the whole line we have a decrease in the number of bankrupts, an increase in freightage. And while the steel industry at the first of July was busy to 46 per cent below its normal, this figure had increased before the first of November by 14 per cent. The prices on steel are growing. The fundamental cause of this boom is the high prices on bread, caused by the bad harvest in Canada and Russia. Wheat prices have reached one dollar 62 cents. In one or two journals the question is already being raised of whether they have to deal with the temporary surmounting of an economic depression or with the beginning of an immense industrial boom. It is of course quite understandable that this question cannot be answered theoretically. The capitalists believe what they want to believe, and it is a long time now since we have seen the American bourgeoisie in such an exultant mood as they are at present.

The immense amount of capital accumulated in America is not only seeking fresh markets for the disposal of American industrial goods but is likewise looking for direct markets to which it may export its capital. Last year London issued securities to to the value of 2,000,000,000 rubles; 38 per cent British, 41 per cent colonials, 21 per cent foreign. The United States of America exported capital abroad to the value of 1,200,000,000 rubles, last year. During the first ten months of this year London issued 1,400,000,000 rubles worth of securities, of which 300,000,000 rubles worth of these went abroad, while during the same period New York issued securities to the value of 5,000,000,000 rubles and there went abroad more than 2,000,000,000 rubles. Thus, we see that American financial capital has left British capital behind in the quest for markets to which to export capital.

Very important is the fact that this exported capital is to be found not only in the hands of a few banks or financial magnates but that various loans find subscribers in the ranks of the petty and middle bourgeoisie. The Austrian loan of 50,0000,000 rubles got 900,000 subscribers, while the Japanese loan of 300,000,000 rubles found 44,000 subscribers. The low percentage paid by the American banks has broken "the fear of the unknown" among the members of the petty and middle bourgeoisie and every year sees more of their money being placed abroad.

It is very interesting to throw even a cursory glance at the places absorbing American exported capital. During the course of the first ten months of 1924, the United States of America lent the Argentine 80,000,000 rubles, Japan 300,000,000 rubles, Switzerland 60,000,000 rubles, Holland 80,000,000 rubles, Czecho-Slovakia nearly 20,000,000 rubles, Hungary 18,000,000 rubles, Norway 50,000,000 rubles, Belgium 60,000,000 rubles, Canada 280,000,000 rubles, Germany 220,000,000 rubles, France 200,000,000 rubles, besides floating a number of municipal and private loans. No wonder that the newly elected president of the United States, Coolidge, declared: "We cannot hope that we will always be an island of fortunate ones living far from the rest of humanity. If we were unable to avoid participation in the world war, whose causes had nothing to do with us (!), how then can we think that we will evade responsibility for other world questions, which must be solved in an atmosphere of peace and good will."

Let us set aside Mr. Coolidge's "peace and good will." In further articles we see how this "good will" is finding its expression in plans for maneuvers, in agitation for increased armaments, etc., etc. The American president, put into power by a party which in 1920 defeated Wilson under the slogan of isolation from the rest of the world, expresses in these words the fact that American capital has already penetrated into all countries of the world, this fact being today one of the main driving forces in world politics. At the present time the American newspapers are full of articles devoted to the trade of America thruout the world, the export of capital and all the other conflicting questions of world politics. This is a change which can only be concretely conceived of by those who followed up America's attitude to world questions in the period from 1919 to 1922. Having preserved its own industry from the attacks of world competition with the help of an unusually high tariff wall, the United States of America are competing to an ever increasing degree with all the other countries of the world, and are utilizing for the purpose of carrying on this competition their own accumulated capital, the export of which represents nothing other than a powerful instrument for the granting of long term credits, a thing America has hitherto been very unwilling to do.

While the export of capital at present as a burning question, occupies the first place in America, in England the first place is occupied by the question of increasing the export of goods. In a recently published work "The Economic Position of England in the World," Edgar Crammond, the statistician, calculates that as a result of the war the British national income has considerably decreased. If the corresponding figures be compared with the altered purchasing power of money, we find that while in 1914 Britain had a national income of 24 milliard rubles, today she has only 21 milliards; it has sunk approximately to the national income of 1907. Added to this decreased national income, there is the heavy burden of a considerably increased public debt, leading to the quadrupling of the budget. It is for this reason that Britain, which in 1907 could use nearly 24 per cent of its national income in extending its capital abroad and at home, can now use no more than nearly 10 per cent, that is, almost two milliard rubles. It has already been pointed out here that of these two milliard rubles, 38 per cent was disposed of in Britain itself, 41 per cent in the colonies, and only 21 per cent abroad.

Not being in a position to compete with America in the export of capital, that is to say, in the granting of long term credits for the gaining of markets, and not having such a large home market as America, which would per mit the lowering of the cost of production, and suffering from the effects of the industrialization of its own colonies, British capitalism finds itself confronted with a much more serious difficulty than does American capitalism. The afore-mentioned statistician, Crammond, reckons that in comparison with the year 1912, when 13.8 per cent of the world's trade fell to Britain's share, she had managed to get 17.3 per cent in 1922. But this increase in the percentage of Britain's world trade (principally at the cost of squeeze out Germany) did not answer to the increase of the sum of British trade. It was, on the contrary, lower by 25 per cent than in 1912. The necessity for the establishing of conditions for normal trade was the cause of Britain's participation in the attempts at solving the reparation question. It is the cause of Britain's endeavoring to re-establish, no matter what comes, firm rule in her colonies, to pacify China in her own way and to open the Russian market. And since both for the import of capital and for the export of goods it is necessary to consolidate the capitalist order thruout the whole world. The whole of 1924 was a period of Anglo-American co-operation.

The comparative weakness of Britain in the matter of the export of capital, her closer relationship to the European market, her greater dependence on its ocmpetition, as causing profound disquiet to the English capitalists, as far as those difficulties are concerned which would face British capitalism if German industry were to be consolidated.

A whole number of vital questions with regard to the rehabilitation of capitalism therefore confront the United States in another form than for England; for example, there is the question of the relation of Britain and America to the question of the steel trust and the question of the allied debts. These differences likewise show the different degree of the interestedness of Britain and America in colonial questions. Notwithstanding all the reverential compliments of the British statesmen to the United States of America, Anglo-American co-operation has not lead to the disappearance of the most profound contradictions. But meanwhile account must be taken of the fact that the increasing efforts, due to the superfluity of strength of American capital and the profound crisis of British capitalism, to establish, no matter what comes, a market for their goods and the export of capital in badly shaken up Europe, in the colonies and the semi-colonial countries, are creating not only solidarity between these powers with regard to the Soviet Socialist Union, the colonial and semi-colonial peoples, but likewise endeavor to obtain favorable conditions for the penetration into these countries of British and American capital as speedily as possible.

American imperialism is endeavoring to gain the world, British imperialism is endeavoring to gain the world, British imperialism is endeavoring to hold what it has already gained. In the future they must come into conflict with one another. But be that as it may, they are at present compelled to extend the world at all costs. These endeavors of theirs form the chief feature of the international position at the end of the year 1924.

ART AND INDUSTRY

By H. C. FILLMORE.

TWO ~~articles in~~ last week's magazine supplement of the DAILY WORKER arouse great interest in me. I think we have here material for contrast worthy of study.

One article is "The Stockyards,' by John Lassen, the other Comrade Zinoviev's speech to the worker newspaper correspondents in Moscow. Of course, we know that Pravda, which is Russia's "DAILY WORKER," is making great efforts to secure for publication an ever greater number of letters written by just workers, that is, by men and women who have no intellectual training as yet, but who will write from the job itself, just how everything on the job looks to those who are doing it.

THE real worker's point of view is considered to be very important over there in Soviet Russia and a great increase in the number and enthusiasm of these worker-reporters is linked right up with an amazing extension of the paper's circulation. Comrade Zinoviev says: "The worker's correspondents form in a way the guard of our fortresses, the shops. Wherever they work their task is to describe conditions of work and the life of the workers AS IT REALLY IS. In western countries by contagion the labor press is beginning really to 'workerize' itself. The Bolshevik is above all a man of the masses. The Leninist knows how to speak to the masses."

OF course a Leninist knows how "to speak to the masses," and why? Obviously because he is part and parcel of the masses, not something distinct and set apart. Let us never forget the significance of the Russian Communist Party at different times sending great numbers of their officials and administrative workers back to the factories and other jobs to become "re-workerized."

I HAVE chosen Comrade Lassen's article in contrast to this because it seems to me more than anything else in recent months to show a different method of news gathering and writing; it may be art, surely, there is enough blood, and dung, and stink, and terrible weariness in it to cause some sensation even in a hardened person, and I catch myself thinking, "This is all right now, it shows what impression the stockyards made on the author."

TO be consistent he had ought to be a vegetarian for a while now. But how does all this appear to the worker out there who can't "flee" but has to stay and be a part of all this. This is what I'd like to know and I wish some stock yards worker would tell us thru the columns of the DAILY WORKER.

WORKERS! Let us not bow down before the high art of the intellectuals, but put our point of view before the public, now that we have a great newspaper of OUR VERY OWN that is willing and anxious to publish our experiences. Let us make ourselves heard. Let us help to WORKERIZE our newspaper. Altho we are green and raw and this business of writing may be new, let us show the working world that we are not dumbbells.

The Economics of the World Opium Conference

By JACK LECKIE.

ON Dec. 16 the opium conference after six weeks' abortive discussion adjuoraed until Jan. 12, 1925 so as to allow the various delegates representing 37 different countries an opportunity wherein to consult their respective governments. The disputes involves the legalizing and regulation or the abolition of the world's opium traffic. The principal antagonists were America versus the British government in India. The former stands for the restriction of the drug traffic to the scientific medical needs of the world; the latter stands for the regulation of the trade on the basis of the world's legitimate needs.

IN reality what stands behind the beautiful formulations of these international humanitarians? Already at Hague in 1912 an international conference agreed upon the following points:

1. The suppression of opium smoking.

2. The restriction of exports and imports of prepared opium to opium smoking countries.

3. The adoption of measures for the suppression of the illegal cultivation of the poppy in China.

TOWARDS the conclusion of the Versailles peace treaty conference the articles of the Hague Opium convention (1912) was included in the covenant of the assembly of the league of nations. In subsequent conventions notably 1922, Great Britain in spite of America's protest successfully induced the league to interpret the Hague articles as meaning legitimate as opposed to scientific and medical needs. America stated that this constituted a complete perversion of the original intention and in 1923 requested that a world conference should be held again in 1924 at which the matter could be threshed out to a more satisfactory conclusion.

AS regards the articles of the Hague convention it has been found in practice that they have been outrageously flouted by all the chief signatories. The prohibition against the export and import of prepared opium was simply got over by exporting and importing raw opium instead. Thruout the far East, especially in Hong-Kong, Singapore, Saigon and Macao; British, French and Japanese interests built large factories for the presentation of the stuff. Worse still. French and German chemical science in the discovery of morphine and heroin has been frightfully taken advantage of.

ALSO, the coca plant—native of South America—has been recently introduced into Ceylon and elsewhere for the purposes of cocaine manufacture. Thus the evils of the opium traffic have been terribly aggravated (1) because of the concentrated intensity and social destroying nature of these later drug inventions and (2) because they constitute a form of indulgence which was not prohibited under the old eastern forms of religion. In the 1924 conference India, who was supported by England, France, Portugal, Switzerland, Germany, etc., was the chief opponent of America who was supported by China, Japan, Persia, Canada, Irish Free State, etc.

AS India has been internationally condemned for her opposition to America it is necessary at this juncture to clearly understand the extent of her responsibility. In 1919 she won a form of so-called self government which functions in two parts (1) the central government which has control over the army, navy, air forces, central police, salt tax, income tax, post, railroads, telegraph, etc., and "the right of control over the cultivation of the poppy, together with the manufacture, sale and export of opium;" and (2) the provisional government which controls education, fisheries, forestry, etc. and excise . . .

By virtue of the fact that England appoints 33 per cent of the assembly and also that the English appointed governor general with the assent of the king has absolute power in India it can be clearly seen that the attitude of India's English delegates at the Geneva conference was in reality the attitude of the British government in India.

NOT only is Tagore and Ghandi opposed to the Indian opium traffic but the swarajists also. If Britain was sincerely anxious to remove the traffic she has the power to enact in India the same dangerous drugs acts which protects the people of England and which have also been adopted by all the self governing colonies.

"As it is every Oriental country subject to European control—China, Siam, India, etc.—has to submit to standards which on the threat of heavy penalties have already been excluded from the conquerors' own territory." (Ethics of Opium—Ellen N. LaMotte.)

IN India the entire cultivation of the poppy (220,991 acres in 1921-22), together with the manufacture, sale and export is a government monopoly. During the six years ending 1921 India supplemented her home production of 45,802 chests (each 140 lbs.) with an additional 41,369 chests from Malwa and the native states—a grand total of 4,786 tons. In 1919-20 there were 17,000 shops selling intoxicating drugs of which 6,394 were opium shops where 360-450 grains could be purchased at one time (4 grams constitutes a fatal dose for a person unused to opium.)

The per capita consumption with a population of 319 millions equalled 26 grains. Altho the opium revenue in 1921 only equalled 3 per cent of the total revenues of this £3,728,000 was received direct by the central government and £10,162,000 by the provisional government. Of the latter sum, however, an unspecified sum was later deducted for the central government.

THE British possessions of the unfederated Malay states (Johore, Kelantan, Trengennu, Perlis and Kedah) have a combined area of 22,700 square miles and a population of 1,203,000 of which 179,000 are Chinese. In Trengennu (1917) the revenue surplus over expenditure was 114,145 dollars. The opium revenue for the same period was 117,146 dollars, which shows that the opium revenue was more than responsible for the entire surplus. The official blue books for 1919 state that the increase in the opium revenues from 166,000 dollars in 1914 to 762,000 dollars in 1919 resulted solely from placing the traffic under government control. In Kedah the total revenue for the 5 years ending 1921 was 26 million dollars of which eleven million dollars were from opium. The total expenditure in the same period was 20 million dollars. In Perlis the total revenue was 443,441 dollars of this $171,584 was opium revenue; the total expenditure was 277,993 dollars.

THE per capita consumption of opium in the unfederated states, based on the Chinese population, reaches the appalling figure of 17,480 grams, a fantastic result which utterly destroys the argument that the stuff is alone for the Chinese population. These figures not only demonstrate the swindle of government control but they also clearly show (1) that the natives in the interests of financial surpluses are systematically poisoned and (2) that the means for a huge, profitable, illicit trade involving smuggling and price extortions, etc., exists.

IN these unfederated states as in North Borneo, (operated by a British chartered company), Brunei & Sarawak, (totalling 330,000 square miles with an approximate population of 900,000), the real reason for the opium traffic is strikingly identical. The natives in these areas are in many instances physically unable to undertake the heavy, vigorous labor connected with oil-drilling, mining, rubber planting, etc. Consequently, "recreations"—officially so termed involving state opium traffic, state gambling hells and government controlled pawnproking—are undertaken as a means whereby to attract immigrant Chinese labor.

THE problem in Persia is quite otherwise. Here Britain holds the state opium revenues among other things as security for debts totalling £92,000,000. It is an instructive side light on capitalist hypocrisy to recall that at the moment Persia was signing the conditions of the 1912 Hague Opium conference (which she never later ratified)—Britain was simultaneously loaning to her money on the strength of opium revenues referred to.

FOR the three years beginning 1919, Persia produced 162 tons; 149 tons and 162 tons; and in the same period Britain purchased from her 133 tons, 90 tons and 121 tons respectively (The 12 per cent morphine content of Persian opium is 4 per cent stronger than Indian.) This provides a striking commentary upon the extent of England's drug industries. Russia's opium imports from Persia dropped from 300,872 lbs. in 1917 to 32,826 lbs. in 1921.

SINCE 1843 when Britain defeated China and compelled her at the point of the bayonet to throw her doors open to the import of Indian opium the situation—excepting the noble effort 1907-1917 has intensely become worse. Britain from Hong-Kong; Portugal from Macas; (where in 1920 the opium state rights were sold to a private company for the annual sum of 3,900,000 dollars); France from Indo-China; Japan and until recently America also, have and still continue to profitably debauch China and her people.

As a result China joins suicide with murder. The China year book (1924) estimates that China herself produces annually not less than 20 million lbs. of opium. Dr. Wu Lien (Pekin Times 1920) gave publicity to the still more appaling statement: That the import of morphia increased from 5½ tons in 1911 to 22½ tons in 1918.

THE UNITED STATES also has a huge drug problem. The state treasury estimates there exist over one million drug addicts. Independent authorities, however, place the figure as high as four millions. Leading criminologists state that 60 per cent—100 per cent of the inmates of reformatories and some prisons are drug addicts.

Of these 90 per cent are heroin addicts. This drug can be easily smuggled. The life of a heroin addict averages 22 years. One dose for six successive days makes an addict; one ounce is sufficient to make 2,000 such addicts within one week. It practically destroys all moral and social responsibility and is responsible for a large part of America's annual 3,000 million dollar crime and prevention of crimes' costs. The United States (1910-15) consumed four times more drugs than the combined totals of Britain, France, Italy and Germany. This means for America's high capitalist development a great danger.

THE interest of America in the opium problem, however is not fully explained by these important domestic difficulties. There are two reasons for its conflict with European nations over the Far East: (1) The successful solution of America's drug problem is dependent upon the successful solution of the opium traffic in the Orient and (2) China is the largest and best country wherein the United States can invest its surplus wealth and develop new markets.

IT is precisely at this point that English and American interests clash most. Each country represents a different level of development, each is historically compelled to employ different methods. Britain, generations ago, first penetrated the East in search of markets. Her wars with China were on behalf of the Indian opium trade and British shipping. Her

We Want Our Parents to Be Literate

("KRASSNY BOGATIR" WORKS.)

This feeling of just pride is noticeable in every corner and in

The workers run down the hill and slip in quickly thru the lattice work gates eager to get to their club.

Today we celebrate the fifth anniversary of the decree on the liquidation of illiteracy in Soviet Russia.

Old men and old women go there to testify to the achievements of October.

Who will believe that we were illiterate up to our old age, and that we can now read and write?

What appeared before impossible and fantastic, has become a reality—such is the boast of the working men and women who have overcome their illiteracy.

every seat in the hall; go and see the little room, it is downstairs, next door to the orchestra. where refreshments are sold. In this little room you will see our exhibition. You will find there our wall newspaper which we have published with the help of the Young Communist League. It is called "down with illiteracy." Just imagine, we, who were recently illiterate, have now published our own paper.

Their joy is great.

The satisfaction and pride of the working men and women who have overcome their illiteracy, call forth the feelings of animosity in those who do not want to admit that even old people can be taught. Our factory employs 3,000 workers, including 150 illiterates. To these illiterates, the Young Pioneers go with this slogan, "We want our parents to be literate."

A little girl from the kindergarten taxes the adults with their illiteracy. One can hear her shrill little voice, which can be heard thruout the large hall, saying, "We, children, are only small, and can read and write, but you are grown up and you can neither read nor write. We are little and there are things which we cannot understand, but you, who are grown up, cannot explain these things to us." And waving her tiny hands, she finishes her harangue by saying: "We little children ask you to begin to learn, as our Lenin told you to do."

The speech of the little girl has come to an end. But she does not move, she wants to say something else, but her little brain refuses to connect the thoughts as quickly as she would like. And then the echo rang out in the hall. "Lenin!"

A cute little beggar—was the verdict of those present, and a deafening applause drowned the echo.

And late in the evening after the dramatic performance, some were joyously and proudly discussing, and only a very few hastened to get home, as if ashamed of something.—Risnik.

drawn only lately into the class struggle, with the more experienced workers swinging ever more to the Communist-led left wing, so in the American trade unions the support of the official tools of capital comes from that section of the organized workers whose viewpoint is purely middle class and who have never before been reached by any major question of trade union policy.

TO those who are inclined to minimize the influence of the Communists in the trade unions it is hard to understand the combined ferocity and hysteria that characterizes the offensive against the "reds." Therefore it is well to say here that altho the American trade union official is the most timid creature in the world politically, with a vision of a dozen different kinds of bogeymen constantly obsessing him, the present panic in official labor circles has a very tangible reason behind it.

ONE of these reasons is undoubtedly the 66,000 votes cast for three members of the Workers (Communist) Party who headed the left wing slate in the United Mine Workers of America and the militant program on which the campaign was made—a campaign that consisted only of the distribution of the program itself, that was fought without money and that had as its spokesman rank and file miners known well only in their own districts.

In these respects the campaign and the huge vote polled was the most remarkable in the history of the American trade union movement for two things:

IT was achieved after the best organized attack on the Communists made by any union officialdom in America and it showed that in the biggest union in the American Federation of Labor 66,000 members have reached a degree of militancy where they will vote for programs and not for individuals. On so large a scale this is an unheard of thing in the American labor movement.

IT must not be forgotten in estimating the full meaning of the vote and its effect on the bureaucrats that the election machinery is entirely in the hands of the union officials. Let us not forget either that trade union bureaucrats have been counting Communist left wing votes for three years now and undoubtedly have a better idea than we ourselves of the extent of the prevailing dissatisfaction with their policies.

IT is not the purpose of this article to argue that the suppresive measures used against the Communists are a good thing for us and that we should encourage them. It IS our purpose, however, to point out that with the limited press and trade union material that we have at our disposal it is undoubtedly true that the conflicts have steeled our membership in the struggle, spurred them on to greater endeavors and brot into the conflicts large masses of workers who, tho now skeptical and suspicious of us, must become our supporters by the march of capitalist development coupled with growing familiarity with the Communist program.

With this prospect confrotning them what are the labor fakers to do?

THEY will continue the policy of expulsions, sluggings and denunciation. They are creatures of the capitalist class, they have learned their methods from the capitalist class and they know no other. They might, if they were as well-informed and cunning as the labor bureaucrats of other capitalist nations, begin a campaign of "education" of their followers but the American labor faker fears more than anything else—unless it be the loss of his fat job, with which he senses such a program would be intimately connected—a discussion of the Communist program. They have no program except the acceptance of capitalism now and forever, amen. They dare not debate the issue.

ANY group of organized workers in the United States, free from official influence, will listen to and agree with a Communist speech the first time they hear one provided it is delivered in language they can understand. I recall one very interesting instance which substantiates this assertion:

IN St. Louis two years ago I was given the floor in an Electrical Workers' Union for ten minutes, with much misgiving on the part of the chairman who warned me to say nothing radical, to talk on Soviet Russia. The union is known thruout the labor movement as one of the most conservative in the building trades but I talked for an hour and twenty minutes without interruption—altho it was a special meeting on a wage agreement—and when I asked if they had heard enough there were shouts of "Go ahead!" from all over the hall.

NO, the labor fakers will not permit open discusion in the unions. Heavier blows than any yet received are in store for us but we know now that we have a goodly portion of the organized workers with us—many more than we thought. Even in the Carpenters' Union—a veritable cesspool of reaction, ruled by Hutcheson whose reputation for autocracy is a scandal even among his fellow-bureaucrats—we have developed an astounding strength.

Read the list of unions that have endorsed the Michigan defense if more proof is needed that great numbers of organized workers have not been altogether terrorized.

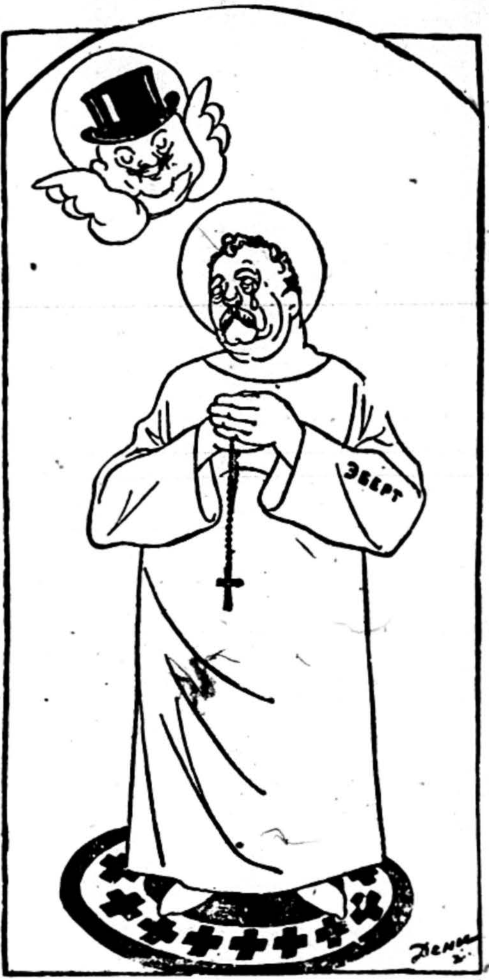
WHEN our activities have begun to really shape trade union policies thru the mass pressure we can exert, when these policies draw the unorganised workers into the unions, when our shop committees draw masses of now unorganized workers into the gigantic struggles whose indications can already be seen, we need worry very little about the antics of the labor officialdom.

THE unorganized workers are ours —when the tyranny of capitalism forces them to move—there is no program but that of the Communists that holds any hope for them. They will be brot into the unions by our activity and their millions are the reserve army, as yet untrained, of a powerful left wing movement that will sweep the heritage of Gomperism from the American labor movement.

WE can continue and intensify our revolutionary work in the trade unions with the satisfying knowledge, based on indisputable figures, that we have within three years established in the organized labor movement, where Communist work gives the biggest results, a solid proletarian basis for a mass Communist party in the most powerful capitalist nation in the world.

THE united front from below, increased Communist activity in the daily battles of the workers, the connection of those struggles with the ceaseless warfare of the American government on the workers and their organizations, the merciless exposure of every sign of treachery on the part of the capitalism's agents disguised as labor leaders, these are the policies and tactics that have returned results for the Workers (Communist) Party and these are the policies into which the major portion of the party strength must be thrown.

EBERT



THE DAILY WORKER begins in the next issue of the Magazine Section an exposure of the details of the betrayal of the German working class during and since the world war by the social-democrats.

The articles will be composed almost entirely of copies of original documents, extracts from speeches and testimony given at the recent trial of the social-democratic president of Germany, Ebert.

The articles constitute the most damning indictment of the treachery of the social-democracy yet compiled, and the bulk of the evidence of treason to the working class was furnished by social-democratic leaders themselves in their defense against a charge of "treason to the German Empire."

Do not miss a single one of these articles if you wish to know from irrefutable evidence the reason for the failure of the German social revolution after the overthrow of the kaiser.

Our Readers Views

Hears Red Baiter on Radio.

To the DAILY WORKER: I heard a lecture on Communism on my radio. A hero by the name of Mackenzie lectured on Communism and Russia. Communism, he said, makes two classes. It takes these classes and labels one "proletarian" and the other "bourgeois." He said he feels very bad that the proletarian class has the power in the Soviet Republic of Russia. It pains him awful bad that the nobles are suffering. The Communists actually tell them to go to work. Also he says it hurts him when a priest in Leningrad receives ten years' penitentiary for preaching the almighty principles of capitalism.

Now I wonder has Mr. Mackenzie some feelings left for the proletarian class which does all the work in our beautiful world. Maybe he feels that they ought to work harder yet. Maybe he'll make another speech on the radio some day and tell us that.

The day will come when we American workers will know that the priests and the Mackenzies are being paid by the nobles to cry for them. Then the workers will realize that there are two classes, one class living on the other. And they will join up with the working class to rid themselves of the class for whom they suffer war, misery and starvation.

VIA BERNSTEIN - -

By J. C. Oblan

In the auditorium of the Rand school . . . Morris Hillquit is to give a lecture on "Labor, Socialism and the Progressive Movement." He was supposed to have been here at 1:30 p. m. It is 1:40 and he has not arrived yet. The auditorium is not even half full; and more than a third of the audience is made up of young boys and girls, who belong to the young socialists (due to the very large gymnasium and dance rooms at the Rand school). A girl just back of me remarks to her neighbor: "You know, Mr. Goldstein spoke yesterday for the socialists." "Who is Mr. Goldstein?" asks the other. "He is a democrat, but he is a friend of mine, and so he spoke for us." That's the environment.

Where is the old spirit, old enthusiasm, old crowds of inspired socialists, who would pack the same auditorium full? The place truly resembles a graveyard much more than an assemblage of class conscious workers, the vanguard of the proletariat. The atmosphere chills and one feels estranged in this void space . . . . Here comes in a bunch of four trade union bureaucrats; fat faces, shapeless bodies indicating long service to the machine and sure jobs for the present.

Enters the chairman and Mr. Hillquit. Hillquit takes a seat. His face visibly expresses disappointment—a sad grimace covers it as he looks thru the crowd. As the chairman introduces him the grimace is replaced by a typical Hillquit smile.

He begins his lecture by admitting that "Such a merger is somewhat new in the history of the socialist movement" and that "this campaign is a very unusual experience for a socialist movement in any country." The reasons for this adventure he states are "unusual conditions confronting us at this time." He states that the objective of socialism is "the abolition of private ownership in fundamental industries and the gradual establishment of socialism based on popular labor." "Whatever is going to be ultimately is not of great paramount importance." The immediate objectives are of paramount importance. In an apologetic tone he says that socialists were previously proceeding on the formula of Marxian philosophy. However, "In the last several years in the formula certain changes took place due to changing world conditions." He throws in a couple of sentences in explanation of the "classical Marxian theory of socialism," class antagonism, profits and wages, class struggle, as if to remind the audience that he is well versed in Marxian terminology.

He assures his audience that the difference between economics and politics is that of degree and not kind and then proceeds to the most important part of his address. "The entire political conception of the socialist movement was based on the economic and political interests of wage earners. The main two contending classes are capitalists and wage earners; economics was based entirely on factory relations. Marxian theory and Marxian practice simply neglected the agricultural population." At that time this formulation was all-sufficient; only when the working class elements reached the height of organization the problem arose: "How are we, socialists, to ever gain a majority in the country in order to gain control of the government?" Then it became clear that intense cultivation of the farmers' sympathies were to be made. "That is one modification to the strict Marxian theory of socialism: its extention to include agricultural elements." He had to offer a second modification, which "took place partly by natural progress and was accelerated by the war." "At the time of the formulation of the Communist Manifesto, Europe was under autocratic rule. There was practically no democracy. When general suffrage was extended it was for years very limited. The political activities of the working class were not those of today. Therefore the phraseology: the capture of political power of government. It did not mean an evolution it meant a war, a revolution. In the 75 years that passed a revolutionary change took place—gradually the countries of Europe became democratic. Women are enfranchised in all countries, all men have suffrage, and so the entire problem of socialist political work was changed very radically." "To conquer democratic control of political institutions (for liberatlization of government(was the duty of the old socialists; the only thing left to socialists in Europe now is the economic program."

Such is the second modification of Marxian teachings as practiced by socialists, according to their mouthpiece, Mr. Morris Hillquit. ("He'll quit" irresistibly presses itself against one's consciousness, altho it is as clear as the day that he has already quit the road of Marxism.)

From these general considerations he goes over to an analysis of conditions in Europe and America. He finds that we in America never had a political autocracy; we never had here any feudal class, no peasant class in the sense of Europe and antagonistic class interests between labor and capital; therefore, "Our whole population is practically homogeneous.' "The definite mark of demarkation between industrial worker and farmer of Europe does not and never did exist here." "The species, the fixed class of workers in America is a very recent class, without heredity—a very conservative type in politics." The progressives in America are specifically an American type; something very indefinite but distinctly American. There is a different class constellation, different classes, different types, and therefore, different parties. "The new alignment is based on the above."

"This movement means a workers' and farmers' movement, altho not a socialist movement." "It does not mean yet a definite political alignment," however, "a labor party is bound to come into existence." "It will be partly unlike any that before existed. It will be even not entirely analogous to the labor party of England (where the homogenous expression of wage earners is the important nucleus), because this party will include the farmer element and progressive groups." The program of such a party is unimportant. For those who do not care so much for slogans, symbols, but for substance, the present experience will appeal as promising.

In answer to questions Mr. Hillquit asserted that the platform of LaFollette is "a working class" platform because many planks are in the interests of the workers and because it is composed of 75 per cent workers.

So Mr. Hillquit is definitely on the road to Bernsteinism. Still accepts Marxism, altho he has two modifications of the Marxian "formula" for the present. The ultimate is not of great paramount importance due to the "revolutionary change" which took place in the various countries in Europe in the last 75 years (they became "democratic") "the capture of political power of government" in the sense of "a war, a revolution" is a dead phrase. "The only thing left to socialism in Europe is the economic program." In our country the whole population is "practically homogeneous." The platform of LaFollette is a "working class platform."

INTERNATIONAL NOTES

GERMANY

Communist Reichstag Campaign

BERLIN—In spite of the fact that parliamentary immunity is a dead letter in Germany today, the Communist deputies in the Reichstag are making consistent use of their position to bring the facts of the class struggle and the message of revolution before the German masses.

During the recent reichstag discussion of Luther's ministerial statement, Comrade Ruth Fischer made a merciless expose of the new Luther cabinet and of the shameful role played by the social democrats.

Social Traitors Get Theirs.

"The social democrats," she began, "are complaining about the monarchist character of the new cabinet, but they themselves are above all responsible." Recalling the policy of collaboration and support followed by the social democrats in connection with the reactionary ministry of Cuno and Stressemann, she went over the long list of social democratic betrayals, and showed the stupidity of the pacifism extolled by Hilferding and Dr. Breitscheid, with his eternal quest for a portfolio.

Ruth Warms Up.

Ripping up the program of the new cabinet, Comrade Fischer showed how Germany was being reduced to the status of a colony by the Dawes plan, described the "sanitation" process in Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and the Balkans, and showed that France was soon due for the same treatment. Touching next upon the Anti-Soviet united front organized by England and America, she declared that this united front of capitalism would be met by the red front of the world proletariat.

After exposing the treachery of the social democrats who were supporting the reichstag, Ruth Fischer laid bare the hypocrisy of the Luther program, a program of pretended social peace, which would translate itself into new taxes, still worse conditions for the working class, and more savage persecution of the workers and the Communist Party. Recalling the duplicity of the social democrats in Saxony, in Thuringia, and at the Ebert trial, she declared that their recent electoral victories were obtained by means of lying promises, and would never be repeated.

Shows Communist Method.

In conclusion, calling attention to the parliamentary and ministerial crisis, already of three months' duration, and the insecurity of German industry, Comrade Fischer declared that the new cabinet would not be able to solve existing economic and social contradictions; that Germany could be freed only by the revolution, and that it would not be long before the German proletariat would demonstrate that the reichstag parliamentarians' way of doing things was not their way.

Demonstrate Against Dawes Plan

BERLIN.—At the time of the Reichstag discussion of Luther's ministerial statement, the Berlin proletariat held a great demonstration against the Luther cabinet and the social democrats. Hundreds of thousands of workers coming from all parts of Berlin and its suburbs marched thru the streets with flags and placards bearing the inscriptions: Down with the Luther Cabinet! Lenin is dead; Leninism lives! Free the political prisoners! Proletarians, when will you avenge Karl and Rosa? etc. . .

All the big factories and shops of the capital were represented.

Communist Speakers' Message.

At noon, many speakers addressed the masses, recounting the crimes of the bourgeoisie and social democracy, and openly attacking the Luther cabinet. Ruth Fischer, Communist leader and member of the reichstag, spoke, reminding the workers that six years ago Berlin and Germany were in the hands of the workers. "Now the monarchists are again governing, the country," she said, "and social democracy is responsible . . . This demonstration shows that we are beginning to understand that we must work in the shops and in the trade unions. Our Russian brothers worked there from 1905 to 1917—and then they conquered. We too shall work there, and we shall conquer. Today we are holding a demonstration, in Berlin and Berlin itself is not yet ours, not yet Communist.

"We must conquer Berlin!"

GREAT BRITAIN

Glasgow Tenants' Struggle

GLASGOW—The Clyde workers have a well-earned reputation for being hard fighters, and the police contingents who are making repeated attempts to evict the families of unemployed workers in this region are not finding it an easy job. At Clydebank the resistance was so strong and well organized that special detachments were sent from Glasgow and Dumbarton to aid the local police.

Battle with Police.

When the reserves arrived at dawn, the families threatened with eviction were warned according to plan by the beating of drums, and the workers' defense guard gathered.

A violent clash between workers and police followed, the police incidentally, charging groups of women gathered in the streets, and a number of workers were arrested. Despite the resistance, the police smashed in the doors of a number of houses and carried out the evictions, but the moment that they had left the crowd broke the seals and reinstated the evicted workers.

British Communist Army Program

LONDON—The executive committee of the British Communist Party has issued a program of demands for soldiers, to be distributed in the English army. The program demands the right for soldiers to form trade unions of soldiers and aviators, to participate in trade union activities, to belong to political parties, to organize sections of these parties in the army, and to attend political meetings and demonstrations.

Further demands are the abolition of court-martial, and the establishment of military tribunals on the basis of juries consisting of three soldiers, a petty officer and an officer, the right of appeal to civil tribunals, the abolition of the death penalty, and the abolition of military intervention in strikes.

SOVIET RUSSIA

Health in Soviet Russia

MOSCOW. — The central commission on epidemics attached to the health commissariat has isued statistics on disease of the U. S. S. R. during nine months of 1924.

As compared with the same period in 1923, cases of spotted fever showed a decrease of more than half (109,000 and 230,000), recurrent fever—a decrease of one-sixth (41,000 and 230,000). Cases of typhoid were about the same s in the previous year (89,000 and 90,000). There has been a very great decrease of cases of small pox.

Malaria was about the same in 1924 and in 1923.

Food Supply in Bad Harvest Areas

MOSCOW. — According to information sent to Comrade Rykov's commission the food situation in the bad harvest districts in the Samara and Saratov gubernias, in the Nemrespublika (German Republic) on the Volga and in the Tzaritsin, Astrakhan, and Voronezh gubernias is as follows:

By November 1, 5,504,000 poods of various sorts of grain were sent to the bad harvest districts. This is one and a half times more than was originally planned. Moreover, local stores of various kinds of grain were accumulated in the bad harvest districts, which gave 3,669,000 poods of grain. All this stabilized the food situation in these districts guaranteeing them a sufficient supply of grain.

Letters From Soviet Russia

THERE has been begun in Soviet Russia a system of correspondence with workers of other countries, carried on thru the labor and Communist press.

The letters describing working and living conditions are written by the workers and peasants themselves.

WE urge all workers readers of the DAILY WORKER to answer the letters of the Russian cómrades and supply them with firsthand information of living and working conditions in America. No better way of establishing the closest bonds between the workingclass of the two nations can be devised and Russian workers are just as eager to hear of actual daily happenings in the workers life in America as we are to hear how they are progressing.

WE publish in this issue a number of the first letters received. Workers who desire to reply can send their letters to the DAILY WORKER and they will be carefully forwarded to the Pravda, Isvestia, Gudock and other Russian papers.

Railway workers should write for Gudock—the official organ of the All-Russian Union of Railway Workers with a membership of approximately 400,000.

To Our Fellow Workers in the West

HITHERTO we, the workers of the world, used to communicate with each other thru our leaders (of the Communist Parties) at international congresses.

In this letter I wish to describe to you the life of the workers at the factory where I am working.

OUR factory, named Spartak, is engaged in the manufacture of spades. Before the war, and particularly during the war, the owner of the factory reaped huge profits, waxing fat at the expense of our underfeeding. But, as you know, we, the workers of U. S. S. R., have taken the factories and workshops into our own hands. The factory came into our possession (it is owned by the state, but since the state belongs to the workers, we speak of it as ours) in an antediluvian state of equipment, because the owner used all his profits for his personal pleasure, not for the improvement of the plant. We began normal work in 1922, and working in roofless sheds and on broken stands, we turned out from 20 to 23 thousand spades a month. Having gone thru starvation, it was not an easy matter for us to reconstruct our industries.

NEVERTHELESS, we have already achieved a good deal. We now produce not 23,000, but 112,000 spades per month, the highest pre-war output was 85,000 and that with the same number of working people that we have now. But this is not all. We have repaired and overhauled our factories. We now have new roofs, we now have new walls; almost with our very teeth we constructed our machines, which were destroyed during the years of civil war, and not only reconstructed but also installed a new press of improved construction. Hence we got an improvement in our living standard. The wages of our unskilled workers are now 103 per cent of pre-war, and only the wages of skilled workers are so far at 87 per cent of the pre-war rate.

IT is true that our requirements have increased, too. We got used to books, to the newspaper and to the theatre. We can't manage any more with our pre-war wages, but we know that we are working for the improvement of our own position, and that our life gets better year by year, because we are the masters in our country, having got rid of the parasites who used to live at our expense. We still have cases of two or three weeks delay in the payment of wages But it is fully compensated by the credits which we get.

THE workers of the Spartak factory enjoy credit at the co-operative store from pay day to pay day and we also get on four to six months credit such articles as coal, wood, warm clothing, footwear, etc. Furthermore, we have our mutual loan society, which advances loans in case of need.

THERE are many things which I would like to write about, dear cómrades, but it is impossible to say everything in one letter. In my next letter I will tell you about the cultural activities in the various circles at our factory. We often speak about Germany, about your position, about the manner in which you are betrayed, but I leave this for next time.

With warm fraternal greetings,

Dmitri Scepanovitch Kortezky.

A worker in the "Spartak" factory at Ekaterinoslav.

DEAR foreign comrades:

Being aware that your bourgeois press misrepreesntst the life of our Russian workers, I will tell you the truth and nothing but the truth about the life and doings of the Russian proletariat.

I WILL describe how we work.

I work in a textile factory which employs 11,000 workers. (The former owner of the factory has escaped abroad). This very big concern is under the management of a worker. All our workers are doing their utmost to revive and increase production, for they know that they do not work for their master but for themselves. They work eight hours out of the 24. All questions connected with the factory are decided at the workers' general meetings. Every worker has the right to point out by word of mouth or thru the press any shortcomings, and may suggest improvements in the conditions under which the workers live and work, etc.

WE have factory and workshop committees to which our best comrades from the bench are elected. There are also organs for the protection of labor and motherhood and childhood, and above all, there is the trade union. All these organizations are composed of working class comrades whose chief aim is to work in the interests of the working class. This, dear comrades, does not exist in your country, and will not be as long as the bourgeois is in power. Our workers carry out by their own initiative all sorts of campaigns. For instance, they come to the assistance of the unemployed, they help to liquidate illiteracy, they care for homeless children, open children's homes and shelters, most of them are members of the International Red Aid, etc.

THOUSANDS of children of our workers and peasants have the benefit of higher education in the universities and other institutions, a thing unknown under the czars. And dear comrades, I hardly think that your bourgeoisie will admit the children of the poor into the universities and other institutions for higher education.

AT present our workers are doing their utmost to raise the productivity of labor and to reduce the cost of production. Results have already been achieved on this field because of the workers very sensible attitude in this matter. Our workers are fighting for the complete reconstruction of our industries and agriculture. One year of this work has shown our workers that as far as wages and output are concerned, they are approaching the pre-war level. All necessities of life are quite accessible to the workers.

ALL factories and works have clubs for the workers which carry on cultural-educational work. There are free libraries and reading-rooms, and the club has also various circles and sections; such as: art, dramatic, choral circles, musical and other circles, in which workers and children get instruction. This, comrades, you also lack. This can only be done by a workers' and peasants' government. The workers of our factory have made great progress during these years of revolution as far as culture and education are concerned. They are, therefore, interested not only in the life of their fellow workers, but are also following carefully the life of the oppressed workers of all countries. Their hearts beat in unison with those of the workers abroad, and they are ready to come at any moment to the assistance of their foreign comrades.

OUR workers demonstrate openly, with red flags and posters against the bourgeois oppression of the working class. A few more years of such steady and strenuous work and our country will be so strong economically, that it will no longer need the help of the western capitalist countries. I should like to close my letter with the slogans: Workers of the world unite! Long live the proletariat and the working class of the world!

With comradely greetings,

Malyshev, Workers' correspondent of the Wall Paper, The Rudnikov Worker.

Economics of World Opium Conference

subsequent policy has developed in harmony with her special capitalistic needs—more or less modified by the strength or weakness of these countries. Therefore, historically, and because at this moment she cannot supply fresh capital in enough quantities she is compelled to follow the old paths and customs. She cannot without serious damage to herself, or ruin follow new ones.

ON the other hand the roots of the American drug problem are in the East. Further American capital means American methods. In the United States in the interest of American capital it has been found necessary to heavily fence American labor with anti-drug laws. Much more so in China American capital finds similar protection is necessary; the successful enactment and operation of which will prove more difficult than in America. Chinese labor, with American dollars to spend on European manufactured drugs, would react too seriously against America's large scale intentions in China and would rapidly and ultimately destroy the living foundation of every investment.

THE means of warfare employed by the phincipal adversaries are also instructive. Britain democratically shelters behind the alleged self-government of India. The United States, thru Rockefeller supported church efforts and Morgan subsidized red cross, works altruistically in the best Wilsonian spirit for the good of China alone. The truth is—each requires China for their own special purposes. The destruction of the opium trade in the East means for England—a huge loss of revenue and Chinese labor with the probability of revolution in India. The continuance of the traffic means that the United States cannot find a safe outlet for her surplus capital. She cannot invest in China to any great extent unless there is an international guarantee that Chinese labor won't be doped and destroyed by Indian opium, or French, British, German or Japanese morphine, heroin or cocaine. Neither country is interested in China for China's sake. In other words the opium conflict is at this moment a beautiful illustration of the English between different levels of capitalist development.

IT is difficult to predict how the extended negotiations will terminate. Already it is announced that a British cabinet minister will attend the next conference. No doubt Britain will endeavor to trap America in her diplomatic nets. For the league of nations, however, failure means death because already Britain's attitude over the Geneva protocol, Egypt's appeal and Ireland's registration, has struck it a mortal blow. But that which obviously neither Britain nor America has sufficiently calculated upon is the influence of Russia's recognition of China—a contingency worth while watching!

To the Teachers, Conference

By A. LUNARCHARSKY.

People's Commissar of Education, Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

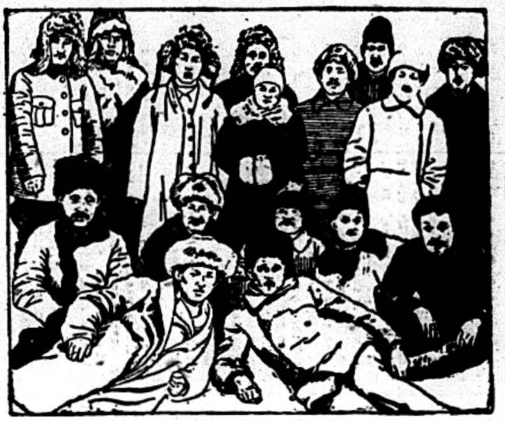
THE first federal conference of the teachers of the U. S. S. R. represents without a doubt an event of tremendous significance. There never was a time when the workers' and peasants' government failed to grasp the whole import of the task of popular edunation. Adequate testimony to this fact is furnished by the numerous articles and speeches of our readers upon this subject.

Progress Was Gradual.

YET there were endless obstacles in the way of the realization of our extensive plans. Economic impoverishment brought us into such straits that we simply could not carry on any normal work. It was but gradually that we achieved victory after victory, and repulsing both our internal and external enemies, we disposed of the more acute forms of distress and created the political and economic postulates for proper activity on the third front.

This, of course, does not mean to say that the third front has thus far been dormant, that there has been no movement and no important achievements.

ON the contrary, great tasks have been performed on the third front, a general political program has been unfolded and adapted in a considerable degree to the requirements of life; numerous teachers have been trained and retrained, being thus equipped to tackle real Communist educational work, if not the whole mass of the teachers, at least some quite important groups of them. New textbooks were compiled and published copiously on the various branches of school knowledge. The apparatus of popular education was created, both as regards staffs and methods.



Some Russian Teachers.

Labor Colleges Greatest Achievement.

THE largest possible amount of work was done in the maintenance of the educational front, and in the care and training of the children, under trying conditions when this work seemed exceptionally difficult. Political education amongst other things was brought into being, work which hitherto hardly existed. At the same time it ought not to be forgotten that on our third front we had to take care also of our science and of the treasures of past culture, which on the whole have been preserved, and which are kept alive, adjusting themselves more and more to the tasks of our revolutionary society. Perhaps by far the most important of our victories was the creation of a mighty wave of worker and peasant students in the labor colleges and universities. Nevertheless we think that the pace of the work should be and can be speeded up.

BOTH central and local educational grants are being steadily increased and altho still insufficient, the resources have been increased and enable us already to carry on normal work. General attention has been attracted to the educational workers, to the liquidation of illiteracy, to the village school, and in the first place to politico-educational work in the villages. Everybody concedes the importance of bringing the vast backward masses into line with the vanguard. For this work we need first of all the mass-worker, i. e., the teacher. Vladimir Ilyitch had long since said that the party could never rely on general political and agronomical education of the peasantry, if it failed to put itself at the head of an army of four hundred thousand teachers, if it failed to organize them into an apparatus which would work freely and enthusiastically. We have now drawn near to such a consummation.

Teachers Respond to Communism.

WHILE the Communist Party and the Soviet government have come to the conclusion that it is time to get hold of this apparatus, that it is time to direct the chief attention to education work, particularly in the villages; then on the other hand, there has been a colossal change of heart among the teachers themselves. All trace of deliberate political opposition or inertia among the teachers has disappeared as well as the political aloofness of the teacher in the past, for which he himself was largely to blame. The whole mass of the teachers has begun to feel the spirit of the new times as never before, having conceived their new obligations and rights bestowed on them by the creative genius of the people.

THE teachers' conference will be a parade of the Red Army of education. The representatives of the mass teachers will meet face to face with the leaders of the work on education, and what is still more important, with the leaders of the state and social life of the Soviet Union.

THIS conference will mark important stages in our onward movement. It will constitue an event not only on the third front, but on the great world-wide front of the trade union movement marching towards Communism.

The Myth of Rural Prosperity

By ALFRED KNUDSON.

WHAT the working farmers are mainly interested in is how their problems can be solved. They know by actual experience that something is wrong because no matter how hard they work and how much they try to save, it is impossible for them to make both ends meet. The very conditions under which they are forced to work and make a living are operating against them. The fact is that today the working farmer is beginning to realize that he is butting his head against the stone wall of the capitalist system, and as long as this barrier stands in the way it is utterly useless for him to expect any relief.

TO do away with the capitalist system, then, is the important task for the working farmer, and it should be clearly understood by all exploited farmers that this cannot be accomplished by trying to purify, improve or reform the present social order. Only thru united action with the workers in the industries and the building of a real class government by actual farmers and workers, will the mortgaged and tenant farmers ever be able to solve their problems.

DURING the last few years one million farmers have lost their entire life-time savings and a still greater number have debts larger than their resources. There are about six and one-half million farmers in the United States; three million are tenants and over one and one-half million are mortgaged farmers. The mortgaged owner is often worse off than the tenant because of the taxes and the interest he has to pay for the privilege of working his land. The rapid increase in tenantry and the mortgaged system will, in the not distant future, almost completely abolish the fiction of "farm ownership" in the United States.

TAXES have increased an average of 122 per cent from 1914 to 1922 and the total farm debt has reached the stupendous sum of 14 billion dollars. Farmers generally have come to the conclusion that their debts never can be paid. Their main struggle at present is to be able to pay taxes and interest and even this, as far as hundreds of thousands of farmers are concerned, has become impossible. So-called "prosperity periods" do not benefit them in reality because any "extra" money they may make from an increase in the price of farm products, is used to pay off debts and the industrial products the farmers have to buy are correspondingly higher during boom periods. The capitalist system is so arranged that the exploited farmer gets only the crumbs—barely enough to exist on—while the big slices are gobbled up by food gamblers, bankers and trust companies.

A WORD should be said about the 1924 crop. The capitalist press has heralded it all over the country that the farmer now is on easy street because he got a good crop and a good price last fall, and even now with wheat hovering around the $2 mark, the inference is that the farmer is getting rich.

THERE are a very few farmers who have been able to take advantage of the good crops and the good prices and they are the best fixed ones, but the overwhelming majority of the tenant and mortgaged farmers had to sell their crop about the time it was ready for market in order to pay pressing bills. It was the business men and the bankers who benefited most from the 1924 crop and not the struggling farmers.. In North Dakota 80 per cent of the wheat crop was marketed and sold before December 1, when the price of wheat at the primary markets stood between $1.20 and $1.30 per bushel.

THE tenant and mortgaged farmer cannot beat the capitalist system. What must they do? There is only one way out for them and that is to ally themselves with the workers in the industries in a revolutioanry organization for the complete abolition of the whole capitalist system. They should join the Workers Party, the only revolutionary party in the United States, and subscribe to the DAILY WORKER and become real fighters in the movement for the emancipation of their class. No time should be wasted in clearing the decks for action.

Pavlowa W[illegible]ot Return.

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN.

The last program the great Russian dancer will ever give in Chicago she gave last Sunday night. For is we are to believe the words of her press agents, Anna Pavlowa is never again to visit America.

"Don Quixote," her major presentation, is a fantastic ballet rendering of scenes in Cervantes' novel.

The music to this is old-fashioned ballet stuff, early nineteenth century music written before the influence of Delibus revolutionized ballet. It is the sort of music that is played in beer gardens on Sunday afternoons, sentimental sugary and with no variation from the same dead level of prettiness.

Four principal dancers stand out particularly when one thinks back over the performance. They are Domoslavski, who played the Don; Markovski, who took Sancho Panza; Anna Pavlowa as Dulcinea, and Hilda Butsova as a street dancer in the first act and as cupid in the last.

One of the divertissements at the end of the program was the famous Pavliwa solo, "The Swan." Pavlowa does this thing in a white costume. She flits around a bit, curls up and dies. She dies most gracefully and one likes to see her do it.

Some good folk have been sorely disappointed in Pavlowa. They have gone to her performances eexpecting to see Pavlowa herself outdo all the rest of the company. This is the wrong attitude. Pavlowa herself outdo all the rest of the company. This is the wrong attitude. Pavlowa is not the greatest dancer on the stage today. If I may utter an awful blasphemy, in my estimation, jump for jump and whirl Hilda Busova is a finer premier danseuse than Pavlowa. But Pavlowa gets the credit and deserves it. A captain who leads a charge gets the credit for it even tho the privates under him are better riflemen.

COMMUNISTS EXPOSE FORGERY

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THE callousness of the bourgegeoisie to human suffering was rarely if ever more strikingly demonstrated than in the famine crisis which has left a trail of destitution behind it from the north of Ireland to the south along the western seaboard. Because Ireland is now ruled by a gang of capitalist lackeys, the Irish bourgeoisie and the upper middle classes seek to minimize the famine, because they feel that it a reflection on their national dignity. These same elements attributed all the misfortunes of Ireland, in the pre-treaty days to British misrule. But a native parliament rules today, yet there is famine and terrible unemployment.

IT was not British rule that was responsible for Irish misery but capitalist rule. In "black '47" as ships laden with flour from the United States entered Cork Harbor, several ship loads of grain were leaving. This grain was sold in order to pay Irish landlords the rack rents imposed by them on their tenant slaves. This grain was being exported at a time when 1,250,000 people either died of starvation or were driven into exile.

IT could not be said that the people upon whom this terrible disaster fell had "denied god" and were therefore punished for their wickedness, as the Irish clergy said about the Russian government when the great drought of 1921, combined with the allied blockade, caused the death of hundreds of thousands thru hunger and disease. No, the Irish people had an abiding faith in the god created for them by their clerical leaders, but this god is notoriously deaf to the appeals of those who cannot help themselves. But it should not be forgotten that, the hundreds of thousands of peasants and workers died of hunger, no servant of the lord is known to have passed away because of malnutrition.

WHAT British rule failed to do for the starving Irish people in '47, is being duplicated today by the Free State government. Not alone is this gang of hangmen doing nothing to relieve distress in the west of Ireland, but at the very moment when the workers of Great Britain, the United States, and Russia are taking steps to aid their stricken brothers in Ireland, this black hand government, that took the place of Dublin castle is preparing to pass a bill thru the legislature, making it a hanging offense to carry on any agitation having for its object the overthrow of the Free State government.

THIS is what the Irish workers have gained by the sacrifice they made in Easter week, 1916, and since then. The Irish workers and peasants led by James Connolly raised the flag of rebellion against the British government. Connolly and the best leaders of the revolution were killed. The mediocrities that followed them were not able to do anything better than allow themselves to be maneuvered into a surrender by Lloyd George, granting that they were even endowed with common honesty. The British government granted them a spurious freedom, and both capitalist political gangs are now fighting over the wording of an oath of allegiance to the king of England.

UNEMPLOYMENT in the industrial centers and famine thru crop failure in the rural sections is the lot of the Irish people under this Free State rule. It would be no different under the rule of the nationalist republicans. The latter believe the people should live on patriotism and ignore such material things as food, clothing and shelter. Such terms have no place in the dictionary of a patriot! Of course, the Irish republican leaders take good care that their own material needs are looked after. Let the masses starve! That appears to be their slogan.

THE writer was born in the heart of the famine region. At best the standard of living was very low. Bread, tea, potatoes and fish. That was the standard menu breakfast, lunch and dinner. The only well-fed people were the government officials, such as the rate collector, judges, postmasters, police and the priests, doctors and bailiffs. The peasant fishermen were strangers to meat most of the time. This did not con-

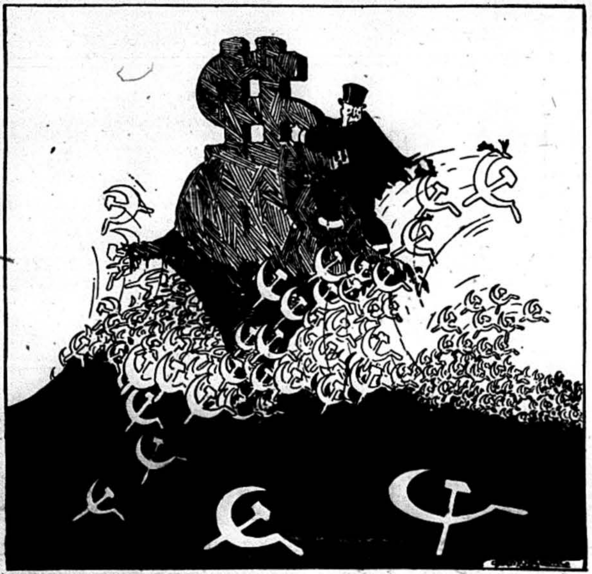
THE RISING STORM



COOLIDGE PICKS STRIKEBREAKERS ON, HIS CABINET

Appoints Bitter Foes of Labor

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 15.—With the appointment of William M. Jardine as secretary of agriculture, President Coolidge has virtually completed his cabinet of fellow strikebreakers. All of Coolidge's latest appointees are notorious foes of organized labor and the poor farmers.

Jardine first came to the attention of Coolidge when as president of the Kansas state agricultural college he opposed the McNary-Haugen bill, designed to give a small measure of relief to the impoverished farmers. Coolidge liked that, and when Jardine later, as a member of the farm commission, continued to oppose farm relief legislation, he further endeared himself to Coolidge.

Favors "Open-Shop"

Everett Sanders, recently appointed to replace "Lilly-white" Slemp as Coolidge's secretary, also came into favor with the president by his activities against labor. Sanders during his eight year stay in congress, helped to block the passage of the Howell-Barkley railroad bill which would abolish the present tyrannical railroad labor board. Sanders boasts that he "is against the closed shop," and was against the bill "because it would exclude from representation on adjustment boards employes not nationally organized." Sanders is one of Coolidge's prize strikebreakers.

Why Didn't Thev Tell Us in 1917, It Was An "European Affair"

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The British foreign office denied today that great Britain has any intention of inviting the United States to participate in a proposed conference to discuss the security of France. The subject would be "entirely a European affair," it is said.

MAC DONALD AND J. H. THOMAS VOTE WITH TORY PARTY

Clyde M. P.'s Lead Fight on Prince's Tour

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The action of James Ramsay MacDonald, J. H. Thomas, Sidney Webb and William Adamson in voting with the Baldwin government against his own party, on the question of an increased grant for the Prince of Wales' tour has caused something of a sensation in British circles. Arthur Henderson, Stephen Walsh and Noel Buxton, also prominent labor officials, refrained from voting.

The debate which created lively scenes in the house of commons arose from the discussion led by David Kirkwood of Glasgow, who criticized the prince's junketing trip to South America. Other labor members joined in and Saklatvala the Communist, declared that this was one of the prices of empire. The prince's trip will cost $73,000. This at a time when one million and a half British workers are unemployed and three quarters of a million are threatened with starvation in Ireland.

The motion for the increased appropriation was carried with the aid of the socialist Ramsay MacDonald by a vote of 304 to 90.

LEAVE 3 'REDS' OFF ALDERMANIC ELECTION LIST

Swabeck Denounces the Dever Traction Deal

Three Workers (Communist) Party candidates for aldermen in the coming aldermanic elections have been thrown off the ballot by the board of election commissioners, on trumped up technical grounds.

J. Louis Engdahl, in the 35th ward; Jack W. Johnstone, in the 44th, and Victor Zokaitis, in the 11th ward have been denied places on the aldermanic ballot.

The election commissioners have denied the Communists the right to appear on the ballots on the charge that the words "street" and "avenue" were left off some of the addresses of those signing the petitions, and that some of the signatures were not written by the persons whose names appeared on the petitions, and equally absurd charges.

CLINTON 'LABOR' LEADERS DESTROY WORKERS' FAITH

CLINTON, Ia., Feb. 15.—This little town has a history in working class experience. The workers here have always been progressive. There are three small towns close together, Fulton, Ill., and Clinton and Lyons on the Iowa side, the latter two have now been consolidated. This territory had always been a strong trade union center and as "non-partisans," then as local labor party, they struggled for years for control of the city of Clinton.

GHOSTS OF 3,000 DEAD IN HAITI FORGOTTEN IN BUNK CORDIALITIES

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Hannibal Price, minister from the American dummy government in Haiti, presented his credentials to Secretary Hughes and the president on Feb. 10, and was assured by Mr. Coolidge that the sole purpose of the United States in running the Borno government in Haiti is the "promotion of the internal stability of Haiti and the welfare and prosperity of her people."

No reference was made to the killing of 3,000 Haitians by American marines, nor to the big loans forced upon Haiti for New York bankers.

ABRAMOVITCH IS BACKED BY COPS AT PHILLY MEET

But the Workers Cheer for Soviet Russia

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—Despite the fact that socialists and policemen at the door barred Communists from entering the Rafael Abramovitch meeting at the Arch street theater, the workers in the crowd loudly denounced Abramovich as a counter-revolutionary when he appeared.

The crowd quite generally demonstrated its opposition to the white guard traitor and cheered lustily for Soviet Russia.

Just Like They Do in Russia.

Just as in Russia, where the yellow traitors of the Second International called in the capitalist governments to try to crush the revolution of the workers, so in Philadelphia, the "socialists" had hundreds of police and detectives scattered thru the hall, and ambushed about the neighborhood in patrol wagons.

Together with these instruments of the capitalist government, the socialists had their own white guard, and busy stool pigeons pointing out militant workers to the police. The hall was like a factory on strike or a fortress held by capitalist armed forces, socialists and police were busy everywhere pouncing upon workers who tried to get in or who were not dumb cattle after they were in.

Between the police, the detectives, the white guard socialists and their hired sluggers, forty-three workers were beaten and arrested, police using clubs freely, altho the more they attacked the greater the disturbance. Cheers for Lenin and the Soviets drowned out Abramovitch.

Abramovitch Heavily Guarded.

Abramovitch, the cause of this, was heavily guarded by police at all times—on his way to the hall, while he was on the stage and in departing. The meeting ended with the wild demonstration still going on. Despite police, leaflets exposing Abramovich were distributed both inside and outside the hall.

The workers arrested were held over night and rushed to "trial" before their attorney could appear, and were given from five to ten days in jail, but were released after bail was furnished.

Abramovitch began his speech and spoke for some time without interruption. Then when he suddenly launched into a hysterical denunciation of Soviet Russia, a woman called out something. At once, a detective stationed near her seized and began to choke her. He scream aroused the audience of 1,500 and a majority of them jumped to their feet in frenzied protest.

Traitor Himself Sets Police on Workers.

At this development, Abramovitch himself called out to the sluggers and police, "Do your duty! I cannot speak if this noise continues!"

Then came the general assault upon the workers. At least fifty were thrown out of the meeting besides the forty-three arrested, excepting ten who, after being thrown out, came back and demanded admittance. Then they were beaten by police and taken off in a patrol wagon. They were charged with "breach of the peace." The others with "inciting to riot." Magistrate Toughill handed out the sentences, and strictly conformed to the united front arrangement between the socialists and the capitalist government. Among the prisoners were eight women.

"With the Able Assistance of Capitalism."

The local capitalist press, while falsely stating that the counter-revolutionary professor finished his speech begins its account with the following significant paragraph, underneath a seven column streamer headline saying, "Police Quell Riot as Speaker Assails Soviet Russia."

"With the able assistance of police, Professor Rafael Abramovitch last night finished, for the first time in four starts, his favorite oration denouncing Soviet Russia."

The police department and the socialist party is becoming indistinguishable to the Philadelphia workers.

"Zinoviev Letter" For United States Shown Up As Clumsy Fake

THE story printed in the Chicago Tribune on February 14, signed by George Seldes, and dated Berlin, purports to expose another "Zinoviev letter," much the same as that used in the British elections except that the forgery is so crude and patent that it evidently did not fool even the hysterical red-baiters who live upon such food or the usually gullible Tribune which relegated it to the back pages.

The whole document cited in the story bears the marks of clumsy forgery.

That the Communist International should donate $840,000 for the purpose of creating a "labor party," at a moment when the whole idea of a "labor party" in the United States has been taken off the calendar of immediate political questions, is an idea so preposterous that only an imbecile police agent and forger could have conceived it.

Just a few more items to clinch this forgery. The letter, says Seldes, "was written on the stationery of the communist official organ, the Investia, and rubber stamped with Communist Party and government seals." That the Communist International, instead of using its own letter heads should use that of a Russian newspaper, is about as reasonable and probable as J. P. Morgan writing to Ramsey MacDonald on the stationary of the New York Times, and sealing it with the stamp of the republican party and the United States government.

The document itself is senseless and silly. The only thing that could have any connection with reality is the statement about a "labor party," but this, unfortunately for the forger, would have been impossible for any one connected with the C. I. to write in December, 1924.

The supposed signature of the document shows that the forger did not even have sense enough to look up the forms of the Communist International correspondence as published in innumerable papers all over the world. Never did any one ever see a Communist International letter signed "General Secretary of the International Executive Committee." And, again unfortunately for the forger and his customers, the name used for signature, Kolarov, was used more than six months too late. Kolarov was secretary of the Communist International—until June, 1924 when he left Moscow for his home country, Bulgaria—but the forged letter is dated, December 16, 1924. At that latter date the secretary of the Communist International was Kuusinen. The supposed signature of "Stuart" also struck a snag, in that STEWART, an Englishman, surely knows how to spell his own name in the English language.

But what does the capitalist press care for facts? Nothing. They gladly publish stories like this from George Seldes, and pay more money for forgeries of this kind than even these experienced liars claim that the Communist International sends to America for "propaganda." The purpose is obvious; it is the same as that of the other forgery, the "Zinoviev letter" used in the British elections, and which the British trade union delegation, after vistng Moscow, branded as a forgery. And like the British forgery, this latest one will have the result of waking up larger numbers of workers to the real meaning of capitalist democracy and capitalist "feedom of the press."

The Workers (Communist) Party of America calls the attention of the American workers to this impudent forgery. We warn the workers that this is part of a concerted attack—not against the Communists alone—preparatory to a new war on the workers' and peasants' government of Russia and the whole working class. Wage cuts are on the order of the day, unions are to be smashed. Therefore the capitalists again raise the cry of the "red menace"—and every worker who stands up for his class interests will be branded as a "red."

SOME TEXTILE STRIKES SHOW SPIRIT DESPITE UNION DIVISION; WORKERS SUPPORT UNITED FRONT

By ROBERT MINOR.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., Feb. 15.—When George Mascott, weaver, came to his job in the Nemasket Worsted Mills here one morning last September, he found one of his two looms with the warp put in for two kinds of filling.

This was a violation of a promise. It meant a speeding up system introduced over night. More than a year ago the workers in this woolen mill had been called in by Superintendent Lord, who pleaded with them to accept a drastic cut in their pay—14 per cent. Otherwise the mill could not afford to run, the superintendent said.

The textile workers accepted the plea of the bosses' "poverty"—on one condition: that if wages were cut there would be no speeding up. Each weaver required to handle two looms (in a woolen mill two looms are a full job) was given only one kind of filling for each loom. On the solemn promise of the mill owners thru their superintendent, the workers proceeded to work nearly a year for wages upon which it was almost impossible to live.

Practicing Class Collaboration.

It was hard pulling, but the workers were "helping the boss to meet competition," so as to "put the business on a sound basis, to enable the mill to pay better wages later on." When it comes to talking a worker out of his wages, these New England mill superintendents can out-panhandle the smoothest artist on the Bowery.

Then, on the 11th of last September, George Mascott, found one of his two looms loaded for two kinds of filler, meaning about a fifty per cent speed-up, requiring the weaver to handle three shuttles.

Mascott took one look at the loom and sat down with folded arms.

The Result of "Helping the Boss."

The other weavers left their looms and crowded around. The superintendent came. A weaver told him, "You promised not to give us two kinds of filling when we run two looms. Mascott will not run that job."

"Then let him loaf," said Superintendent Lord.

"All right," said another weaver, "if he loafs we will all loaf until you take the filling out."

The superintendent grinned at the men and women whom he had so easily bluffed out of so many dollars in lost wages a year before. "Very well," he sneered, "we'll call it a general strike."

Two hundred weavers promptly walked out of the mill. Other workers followed. Thus began the first strike that was ever known at the

WORKERS PARTY IN WOMEN'S DAY DRIVE, MARCH 8

Plan to Organize the Women for Communism

On March 8, International Women's Day, the Communists the world over will conduct a campaign to enlist the women workers in the fight against the exploiters of their womanhood.

The working class women of the United States will be shown, thru the Communist press, by means of mass meetings and the distribution of literature, that child and women slavery will be abolished only thru the victory of the working class.

The Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party has issued a statement outlining the program for International Women's Day. A further statement will be issued by the Central Executive Committee which will be printed in leaflet form and distributed by the hundreds of thousands to working class women. This statement will be entitled "Working Class Women and the Communist Movement."

The resolution on International Women's Day, as passed by the Central Executive Committee, follows.

"In view of the fact that March 8 has ben set aside as International Women's Day to be devoted to a concentrate Communist campaign among working class women, the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party adopts the following decisions:

"1. The Central Executive Committee is issuing a statement on the subject: Working Class Women and the Communist Movement. This statement to be published in leaflet form and distributed widely among proletarian women, particularly those engaged in industry.

"2. The party press shall be instructed to print special editions or sections in their papers on Women's Day, carrying appropriate articles, pictures and other material.

"3. Mass meetings shall be held on or about that day under the auspices of the Workers Party Women's Committees.

"4. A special effort shall be made by each party unit to have their Women's Committees elected and in functioning order not later than March 8.

"5. The industrial department of the party shall utilize Women's Day for a special appeal to women in industry under the slogan: Join the Union.

"6. The International Women's Day shall be carried on under the following slogans:

"The Working Class, Woman—A Fighter in the Cause of the Working Class.

"Down with Child Labor Exploitation.

"Down with Imperialism, Militarism and War.

"Demand Recognition of Soviet Russia.

"Join the Workers (Communist) Party.

"Follow the Leadership of the Communist International.

"7. At each of the mass meetings to be held on International Women's Day resolutions shall be submitted incorporating the above slogans and carrying greetings to the working class women of the world and to the Women's Secretariat of the C. I.

"8. Special efforts shall be made to enroll new members into the party."

GOOD SPIRIT IN TEXTILE STRIKE

Nemasket Worsted Mills.

Nearly all of the present sporadic cotton mill strikes began in a manner more or less like this one in the Middleboro woolen mill. On the part of the employers we find always the same trickery, sneaking, deception and double-crossing—always characterized with whining pleas of "poverty" on the part of the multimillionaire textile kings, and always ending in squeezing a few more dollars of profit per day out of the impoverished workers.

Isolation and Betrayal.

And also every incident of this sort in a mill town has been characterized by isolation. Nowhere have the textile workers been encouraged to look at their problem as extending beyond the narrow confines of their own village. It has always been, 200 out here, 100 out there, 500 out somewhere else, usually on craft out and the other crafts in, with the vast majority left untouched by anything but spontaneous discontent, smoldering with no action and no leadership.

Most of the labor leaders, leading nothing but pitiful fragments of bygone glory, have had nothing on their minds but trying hastily to "get a settlement" on a petty scale on the basis of partial or complete surrender. Or, in the case of Mr. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, to prevent a strike by every possible means, prevent any co-ordination between the workers of one mill and those of another mill, or between any one fragmentary union and any other.

Division of Workers, Solidarity of Bosses.

The general rule has been, every seperate craft, for itself—complete isolation of small handfuls of workers in this thickly settled New England community which is geographically almost as solid as one huge city.

At the same time the employers act as one man. The unity of the bosses has enabled them to maneuver with incredible skill to preven unity of the workers.

One explanation is the press. A working class press simply does not exist here. All the small and large town papers are as branches of one concern, and that an adjunct of the cotton maunfacturers' association. Never a word does a textile worker learn of anything in another town that would be of interest to him in this struggle, except what is feverishly distorted and puffed into propaganda form for the mill owners. Seldom if ever does one isolated union communicate with another, or have any other means of information than the mill-owners' press or drifting rumor. (A systematic distribution machinery for the DAILY WORKER is more badly needed in this community, I think, than in any other that I know.)

If this condition continues there is no doubt that all of New England will soon be choked into a condition of open shop slavery and suppression equal to that of Don Chafin's West Virginia coal region. Of openly violent suppression of the workers, there is little in evidence as yet. But usually and nearly everywhere the system of invisible, silk-gloved coercion and chicanery is the method pursued. This method has sufficed up to the present for a gradual and silent, and cheap, strangulation of labor in the textile mills.

Cotton Barons Clean Up.

But a few weeks ago the price of raw cotton fell about one-third. The cotton-mill combine saw a chance to make a quick killing on supplying the domestic market. (They even claimed to think the Dawes plan was going to give them a European market.) The big wholesale wage slashing, combined with an intensive open shop drive, was begun on an accelerated speed—and then came resistance, with sporadic strikes.

But to return to the Middleboro strike. In the case of Middleboro it is a woolen weavers' strike, and the woolen mills are not much involved as yet.

As soon as the Nemasket Mill bosses saw that their bluff of "let's call it a general strike" was called they began trying to confine it to the weavers, and trying to win the weavers back, one by one. A certain man, working in the guise of a "designer" but really functioning as a stoolpigeon for the superintendent, became a propagandist for winning the weavers back individually. This man, Martin Eckert, was sent around quietly to interview the strikers, one by one. A sly, ingratiating fellow, Eckert always plays the part of the "secret friend" who is going to advise each worker in his own interest. But in a few hours the "secret friend" stuff became a public joke. Now every meeting of the strikers has on the regular order of business the question: "Whom has Martin Eckert been talking to since last meeting? " And each striker who has been approched gets up and recites his story.

Spy Becomes Strikebreaker.

But advice didn't work, and Martin Eckert went to Lawrence and brot back some thirty-odd scabs. They landed in Middleboro full of booze, and were hauled in automobiles to a hotel. The strikebreakers are mostly if not exclusively Syrians—it is an attempt to play race against race, the old game.

The strikers immediately set about visiting the scabs, and the company gunmen are having a hard time keeping their guests isolated. The scabs receive $30 a week in wages, $12 for board and a $4.64 ticket, round-trip, to Lawrence and return every Saturday. Their job consists in keeping the mills in the outward apearance of working.

A few days ago two of the scabs were seen walking into town from the mill with their baggage on their backs. "We thru," they told the strikers. "No good job. Pretty soon all be thru." And since then many more are believed to have slipped away. The company carries them to and fro in automobiles as long as they stick, but when they quit lets them walk the long distance from the mill to the railroad station.

Strikers Stand Firm.

All of the breaks have been in the ranks of the scabs. Not a single striker has quit. Company agents, trying to persuade some of the worekrs that it is a "weavers' strike" and not applicable to other workers, succeeded in keeping a few of the women workers from going out. So strong is the morale of the workers, however, that those whos tayed at work sent an official request to the Amalgamated Textile Council that they be given a statement in writing that they were not scabs, because they claimed, it was a weavers' strike only. The union absolutely refused, and proclaimed that this is a whole mill strike covering every worker. It is believed that the few individuals remaining will therefore soon come out.

An Appeal for Relief.

The secretary-treasurer of the Nemasket Textile Council, Matt H. Hathaway, has issued a call to all mill workers everywhere to send relief funds, as the strikers have been out five months and their splendid morale persists in the face of the most severe deprivation of necessities. Committees visit the mill gates to collect the funds. The appeal meets with considerable response, and small strike benefits are being paid where absolute necessity requires. More important still, Middleboro strikers and their Textile Council are enthusiastic supporters of the movement inititated by the Workrs Part and Trade Union Education League for an all-New England united front conference.

Further encouragement for the united front proposal has been found by the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League in at least a score of mill towns ranging from New Hampshire to the Fall River district.

CANADA—Eight-Hour Day.

On January 1, 1925, the hours of work act, 1923, became effective in British Columbia. The terms of the law apply principally to employes in manufacturing establishments, whose hours of work are limited to eight hours a day or fifty-eight hours a week.

FRANCE—Douarnenez.

Before settlement, on January 8, 1925, the strike of men and women workers in the fish preserving establishments and metal-can factories had practically involved the entire population of Douarnenez.

It was the first instance of an entire community on strike.

GERMANY—Unemployment in Bremen.

On January 3, 1925, 4,180 persons were registered in Bremen as unemployed, this number being approximately one-half of the total of one year ago.

MEXICO—Skilled Labor Shortage.

Foundries and machine shops of Mexico are reported to have been handicapped by lack of competent, skilled laborers, many of whom have been drawn into transportation occupations paying higher wages.

POLAND—Unemployment.

Latest unemployment reports from Poland show an increase. In one month the number of idle rose from 144,860 to 150,180.

BAKERY TRUST SWALLOWING UP COMPETITORS

Amalgamation Plea Is Made by Delegate

The outstanding feature of a rather dull session of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday was the report of a delegate from Bakers' Union Local No. 2, on the speedy trustification of the baking industry and the increased power of the trust and the inevitable unemployment among bakery workers and drivers caused by the greater concentration of the industry.

It was an excellent argument for the amalgamation of the craft unions and the organization of labor on industrial lines. The delegate, tho he did not mention the now hated word amalgamation, nevertheless pleaded for unity between the bakery drivers and bakers as a necessary move in the struggle between those who manufacture and distribute bread and those who own the machinery of production and distribution.

Swallowing Up Rivals.

The Continental Baking company, the delegate informed the federation has now absorbed 85 of the largest baking establishments in the United States including the Ward Baking company. In the city of St. Louis, this industrial octopus took over six baking factories, and shut down four of them after a few weeks, throwing 40 bakers and 20 drivers out of work.

Formerly the drivers were classified as salesmen, and made a fairly good salary even tho they worked hard, but under the new rules of the trust, the drivers are to be delivery men and all commissions for sales will be abolished. The concentration of capital in the baking industry, not alone has hit the rank and file but even vice-presidents were sacrificed in the interests of greater profits. A local manager of the Ward Baking interests, a vice-president of that concern lost his job when the Continental swallowed up the Ward bread corporation.

Must Get Together.

"The drivers as well as the bakers must get together and forget their technical differences if they are to successfully fight the bread trust," declared the bakers' delegate.

The pernicious tendency among trade union leaders to look on the unions as business propositions and responsible agencies in helping to increase the profits of business for the employers was demonstrated when a delegate from the auto painters reported that more than one firm signed up their shops with the union because of union label agitation. "This is a business proposition today, the labor movement is," he declared and went on to say that if the employers could be shown that they could make more profits by having their employes in the unions, they would be anxious to get their shops organized.

Clinton S. Golden, field organizer for Brookwood Coolege, Katonah, New York, was given the floor and made a report on the work of that organization. Golden is former district president of the I. A. M. in Pennsylvania.

NEW REACTION GRIPS ST. PAUL LABOR ASSEMBLY

Mahoney Treachery in Full Bloom

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 15.—The St. Paul Trades and Labor assembly and board members last night installed the most reactionary group of officials that has held office in that body for many years. The vicious campaign conducted by the reactionaries among the local unions and in The Union Advocate, resulted in the appeal of the Emme-Votaw expulsion case being lost.

Comrades Emme and Votaw had been previously expelled as delegates from Machinists' Union No. 459 by the most high handed methods and had appealed their case to the unions affiliated with the assembly for a vote. Last night's result was the vote to sustain the assembly's action.

Refuse Locals Right of Floor.

To accomplish this result William Mahoney had to carry on in The Union Advocate a vicious campaign of misrepresentation, and the reactionaries manifested such activity among the unions as has not been known before. So prejudiced by this barrage were some locals that they refused the courtesy of the floor to a delegation from the machinists' local who desired to speak in behalf of their delegates, Emme and Votaw.

Many unions with progressive tendencies responded in a splendid manner with protests and resolutions condemning the attempt of the assembly to determine for them the kind of delegates that unions may send.

While Mahoney was compelled to print some of these in The Union Advocate, he generally gave them inconspicuous positions, while the reports of locals sustaining the expulsions were smeared all over the front page.

Expelled Will Fight Back.

The next move is up to Machinists' Union No. 459, and to Comrades Emme and Votaw. They may be relied upon for some vigorous action.

The list of officers installed include George W. Lawson, president; E. D. McKinnon, vice-president and Fred Siegel, secretary.

The president appoints all committees, and with one exception the chairmanships were given to reactionaries, and few progressive delegates found places on committees. The one exception is Miss Florence Rood, delegate from the Women Teachers' Federation, who was reappointed chairman of the education committee. Her committee is, however, safely reactionary.

The reactionaries were so frightened over the prospects of the election that they had to get Lawson, who is secretary of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, and very popular, to run against the progressive candidate, L. F. Krengel, business agent of Carpenters' Local No. 87.

Promises Adherence to Reaction.

In his speech upon taking office, President Lawson plainly indicated that the administration will follow the A. F. of L policy "to the letter," which means that no real progress is included in his program. He stated that the treatment accorded the delegates would be dependent upon their treatment of the presiding officer, and in all cases in line with the well established policies of trade unionism, and "Americanism."

The administration of Frank T. Starkey, just ended, was probably the worst the assembly has ever had. No president ever had so much money for organization purposes as Starkey, and none accomplished less. His supreme accomplishment was the expulsion of Delegates Emme and Votaw.

North Side Branch Notice.

The North Side English Branch meets tonight at Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted Street, at 8 p. m. Very important matters to come up.

"Remember the Maine!" Was Imperialist War Slogan 27 Years Ago

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, there is little noise to the slogan "Remember the Maine!" as scant attention is given the 27th anniversary of the sinking of the United States battleship in Havana Harbor, Cuba.

The question of whether the battleship Maine was blown up from the inside, as part of a frame-up to bring on war with Spain, or from the outside in a Spanish "plot" against the United States, was never definitely established, so far as the officialdom at Washington is concerned. The only thing that mattered 27 years ago was that the Maine was blown up and it offered a good excuse for launching hostilities, really the beginning of American imperialist expansion. "Remember the Maine" was the 1898 version of its 1917 counter part of "Make the World Safe for Democracy."

To be sure a hastily ordered inquiry reported on March 21, 1898, a few weeks after the blast, that the Maine had been blown up by an exterior mine, which resulted in President McKinley ordering the Spaniards to leave Cuba. This they refused to do, as was expected, and the war was on in April.

Histories of wars are more carefully written as war hysteria subsides. It is, therefore, interesting to note that the Encyclopedia Britannica informs us that the United States began in January, 1898, a month before the Maine was blown up, to prepare definitely for the pending war. It states:

> "The American gvernment had begun to prepare for war as early as January, ships in several foreign stations had been drawn nearer home, and those in Chinese waters were collected at Hong-Kong (China); the North Atlantic Squadron, the only powerful one, had been sent from Hampton Roads into the water of Florida for maneuvers."

Washington was out to protect expanding American imperialist interests; especially those of the sugar trust. The war was not fought because the Maine was blown up. The blowing up of the Maine was merely an excuse for starting the war already in preparation.

The Spanish frontier was withdrawn from Cuba and the Philippines, and is now seen straggling across a few miles of desert in northern Africa. While the Spaniards are making a last stand against the Moors, with the workers' revolution gaining strength at home, American imperialism feels itself firmly and comfortably established, not only in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, but in practically all the countries of the world outside Soviet Russia.

The question of bolstering up west European capitalism, so Morgan's government as well as Wall Street can collect the war debts, becomes more important than wasting time on an imperialist venture that is buried a quarter century in history.

In the schools the children will be told how the Spanish-American war brought the civilizing influences of the United States to the Cubans, the Porto Ricans and the Filippinos. They will be taught that this is the object of all wars declared by the United States, thereby justifying them. The thunderous protests of the subject peoples of these islands, voiced before the American government at Washington, year after year, would indicate however that the lash of United States capitalism falls as heavily as that of the Spanish taskmaster.

One thing most to be remembered on this imperialist anniversary is that the jingo crying loudest for war in 1898 was William Randolph Hearst, who was then just starting his string of yellow dailies over the nation.

It was Hearst, the jingo, who demanded most vehemently intervention in Mexico, forgetting to mention that he had a million acres of Mexican land in his possession that the landless peasants threatened to take from him.

It is Hearst who now cries loudest for preparations for war, leading ultimately to war against Japan.

There is this difference, however, between 1898 and 1925. In 1898 there were no Communist parties, either in Spain or the United States. It was comparatively easy to fan the flames of war. The jingo drive met little opposition.

In 1925, there are strong and growing Communist parties in both the United States and in Japan, both ready to raise the cry of "War against the war of the capitalist masters."

"Remember the Maine" was a jingo slogan in 1898, to lure workers into the disease breeding swamps of Cuba to fight other workers. It was the slogan of an imperialist war. Increasing numbers of workers are realizing this fact. When American imperialism springs its next war trap, whether against Japan, or some other nation, or group of nations, let the exploited workers and poor farmers "Remember the Maine!" and know that it is not their war, but the war of their oppressors. Their war is the war against capitalist war for the overthrow of capitalism and the creation of the Soviet Rule that leads on to Communism.

CHICAGO NEGRO KIDNAPPED BY PEONAGE FARM

Florida Peonage Still Flourishes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 15.—The same Florida peonage farm whose officials were indicted by the U. S. government less than two years ago, after a prisoner was beaten to death, is conducting its modern and legalized slavery as openly as ever.

This was revealed when W. H. Elligan, the Negro porter of the Illinois Central flier Floridan, who has been missing since Jan. 26, was found a prisoner on the farm, having been kidnapped as he stepped off the train here.

Nationwide Search Ends.

The prison farm officials had found it impossible to arrest enough persons on trumped up charges to assure an adequate labor supply, and resorted to kidnapping. A nation-wide search had been in progress to find Elligan, a resident of Chicago. Elligan was finally traced to the peonage farm by Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Calhoun, of this city. They were informed that Elligan had "participated in a clash between the races, and was being held on a charge of causing a disturbance in the city." Evidence was produced that Elligan was in a different state at the time the disturbance was alleged to have taken place, and the peonage officials were forced to release him.

Legalized Slavery.

It is a common practice thruout the south to secure labor for the large plantations by framing up Negroes and migratory workers, sentencing them to a fine, and forcing them to work the fine out on a large plantation. The plantation owner pays the fine, and owns the worker until it is seen fit to release him.

Two Cigarmakers' Unions Get Together; Urge Union Cigars

Cigarmakers' Local Union 14 had 1517 members in February this year, compared with 1,150 in 1924. The former independent union of Amalgamated Tobacco Workers with its 300 Chicago members rejoined the Cigarmakers' International some months ago.

Twenty-five new members were initiated by Local 14 in January. There are 70 on strike. Dues are 40c a week which includes $100 death benefit. Dues rise 5c a week for each extra $100 of death benefit up to $500.

Secretary Frank Wilson urges union men to buy known union cigars and to demand the label in every case.

MORE COAL MINERS KILLED AS PROFITS ON POWDER SALES GROW

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Large profits of industrial powder manufacturers and a big increase in the number of miners killed per million tons of coal mined call attention to the continued failure of mine owners to adopt the government recommendation that permissible explosives be substituted for black powder in the coal mines of the country.

The bureau of mines has for years recommended these explosives as one means of preventing the coal dust explosions which take hundreds of lives.

The profit of the Atlas Powder Co. in 1924 after all charges had been paid amounted to $1,609,949, equivalent to more than 20 per cent on the capital stock. Hercules Powder Co. made $2,154,901 or more than 25 per cent on the investment in common stock if allowance is made for the 100 per cent stock dividend of 1922.

The death roll of coal miners in 1924 contained 2,381 names. According to the bureau of mines this was 4.27 killed per million tons compared with 3.74 per million in 1923. For bituminous mines the fatality rate increased from 2.46 per million tons to 4.03. Nearly all this increase was from gas and dust explosions. The major accidents in 1924 took 459 lives and the fatality rate from this cause was nearly double that of 1923.

On researches by governments of the principal coal mining nations to find explosives less likely to cause such accidents, the bureau says: "Such investigations have been successful and a large number of explosives have been produced that because of their shorter, cooler and far briefer flame have proven in tests less likely to ignite gas and coal dust.

Gas and Dust Blast Cause.

"Sixty-five of the explosion disasters occurring in American mines from 1906 to the early part of 1923 were definitely found to have been caused by the ignition of gas and dust by explosives. The total number killed in these explosions was 758. All of these 65 explosions were found to be due to the use of non-permissible explosives. In fact the bureau has no record of an explosion disaster having resulted anywhere, at any time, in the United States from the use of permissible explosives."

England compels the use of these safer explosives. There are less than half as many miners killed per thousand employed as in the United States. If the number of days worked is considered the fatalities per man a day in Great Britain are about one-quarter of these in American mines. According to the bureau of mines it is unconstitutional for the U. S. government to prescribe the safer explosives. Business takes advantage of this to profit at the expense of the lives of wage earners.

Collins Rescue Slowed Up by Falling Rocks

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 15.—Rescuers attempting to reach Lloyd Collins, imprisoned cave explorer, stopped the vertical digging early this morning and are now trying to reach Collins by striking out laterally from the bottom of the shaft. The shaft has reached a depth of fifty-five feet, beieng stopped at that depth by falls of dirt into the pit.

H. T. Carmichael, engineer in charge of the rescue work, said that the rock and dirt now being worked is as hard to handle as "digging in a bag of peanuts." He said that the work had been delayed at least eight hours by slides of dirt from the walls of the shaft.

Ten doctors were summoned to the scene from nearby towns. It is admitted that rescuers are close to Collins, and if they strike a natural tunnel, he can be reached in a few hours.

"C. & O." to Move Yards.

HAMMOND, Ind., Feb. 15.—Hammond is to lose two of its largest railroad yards to Chicago territory. Official announcement confirmed the report that the Chesapeake & Ohio will move its yards and roundhouses to its Stoney Island yard on March 1. In June the Erie railway will make the same change and at the same time the Nickel Plate will discontinue the use of the Osborne yards except for eastbound trains.

LAUNDRY DRIVER BEATEN BY THUGS; LOSING ONE EYE

Boss Directing Attack Is Out on Bail

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—William Berman, president of the Chauffeurs and Drivers Union No. 810, A. F. of L., while at a home collecting laundry, was attacked in Brownsville, Brooklyn by thugs armed with gas pipe, struck on the head and in the face and beaten so badly that he had to be taken to a hospital where it is said he may recover but will go without the use of the sight of one eye the rest of his life.

The thugs fled to an automobile driven by the boss Wm. Dorfman of The Great Laundry and Erasmus Laundry in which Berman is working. Dorfan was arrested as having led the attack and later released on bail of $5,000 on a chanrge of assault.

Grows Out of Strike

The case springs out of the strike now going on in the Clovelen laundry where the drivers have been out for two weeks, demanding the recognition of the union and renewal of contract. Berman has been actively engaged in helping this strike although the laundry in which he works was not then on strike. There is a fight on in Brooklyn to establish the open shop and the union realizes that if the Clovelen strike is lost all the other laundries will oust union workers and declare their establishments open shops.

After the beating up of Berman all the members of Local No. 810 were called to a mass meeting at which a motion was made to call a general strike of all the laundries in Brownsville. The international organizer was on hand and told the members that if this was done he would declare the strike illegal, and also take away the charter.

In face of this the motion was lost, but the workers demanded that a strike be called in the laundries of which Dorfman was boss. This was also opposed by the high official, but after heated debate and a threat of the workers to go over his head he agreed to allow a strike to be called in the Erasmus laundry.

Fight With New Vigor

Thus hampered by the bureaucratic head the workers went out without having carried their plans to success, but in spite of it all they are fighting with renewed vigor and are determined to win.

A big mass meeting is called for Friday evening, Feb. 20, at the Brownsville Labor Lyceum, 229 Sackman St., where plans will be formulated for further activities and methods of fighting the tyranny of the bosses. The Workers Party is ably represented by Lena Chernenko, whose aid is highly appreciated by the strikers as well as of all the members of the union.

Cigarette Sets off Dynamite.

BUSHAREST, Roumania, Feb. 15.—A cigarette, carelessly tossed into a package of dynamite in the compartment of a passenger train, cost four lives near here today. A mining engineer who was carrying the package of explosive, placed it on the seat beside him. Another passenger flicked the ligted cigarette. Twenty other passengers were injured. The car was wrecked.

HUTCHESON GANG IN DETROIT, MICH., BADLY ROUTED

Carpenters Refuse to See Communist Ousted

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 15.— When the delegates to the District Council of Carpenters and visiting members gathered for their last weekly meeting they found that the payrollers had provided themselves with a police guard consisting of a sergoant and four cops.

At 8 o'clock, James Sharrock, the yellow runt who passes as the president of the district council, ordered the "expelled" member, Brother William Reynolds, to leave the hall.

When the request was not "concurred in" by Reynolds, he tried a little expelling on his own account. He laid hands on Reynolds and quickly laid them off again. After this gesture at ejection, he appealed to his "force" and ordered them to do their stuff.

Rank and File Speaks Up.

About this time, the carpenters present began to get a little bit rough in their language. Any sentiment that had not previously been expressed found expression at this time and such old stand-bys as "fakers," "parasite," "yellow cur," "stool pigeon," "would-be-czar" and similar pet names were hurled at Lawyer Carson, General Organizer Botterill and Alger, and the weakling Sharrock, who stood in a group shouting frantically for the police to arrest Reynolds.

At this time, Reynolds pointed out to the police that it was obvious who the rank and file were with and who was raising the disturbance.

After about ten minutes of bedlam, during which the cornered 'official" rats were calling upon their protectors for "law and order," Reynolds attempted to speak.

Sharrock interferred by pounding with his gavel and then made a rush toward Reynolds in a second attempt to get into trouble. Several brothers blocked the way, however, and after a final appeal to the police, Hutcheson's loyal guard of blackguards admitted defeat by allowing Reynolds to address the meeting undisturbed. It was a healthy decision

Depends on Rank and File.

Reynolds stated that he based no hopes on any sense of fairness that might repose in the mind of "czar" Hutcheson, that only thru the support and action of the rank and file and a continuance of struggle for constitutional rights could these wrongs be righted and the arrogance of the payroll brigade curbed.

He thanked those present for their support and asked that it be continued. The officials got out an injunction three weeks ago which they have not the guts to enforce, tho it has been violated at least 20 times.

They and their actions have been repudiated by the district council and every local union. They have been hooted and jeered cursed at and despised, and yet they have the unmitigated gall to come smirkingly to the meetings to "brother" those who hold them in detestation. They are, as mercenaries always have been and always will be, treacherous, despicable and loathesome.

Qualifies for Dirty Work.

After the meeting was called to order, a communication from the general office giving permission to establish an initiation fee but refusing control of the district to the district council was turned down by a vote o. 11 to 2. When credentials were read for a full new delegation from Local Union No. 19, the faker Sharrock ruled them out of order on the grounds that 19's meeting last Monday, at which the rank and file broke the gag rule of Hutcheson's henchmen was a mob and not a meeting. Sharrock is playing for a job as one of Hutcheson's flunkeys. He has revealed himself as qualified for the dirtiest work that Hutcheson's cupidity and stupidity might lead him to as a general organizer, and he has more low cunning than the two numb-skulls now spying on the rank and file in Detroit. The carpenters of Detroit wish him an early start on his new venture.

Coolidge Tells Kellogg to Dodge Senate, Paris Hears

PARIS, France, Feb. 15.—President Coolidge has cabled instructions to Ambassador Kellogg and James Logan to remain away from America until the present congressional session ends, it is said here. Coolidge is understood to have instructed the two signers of the reparations settlement agreement in Paris to dodge senate opposition to the finance agreement.

Kellogg was scheduled to sail for America on the Berengaria, but is expected to cancel his passage, on Coolidge's advice. Kellogg will remain in London until the opposition to his appointment as secretary of state quiets down.

COOLIDGE FOR $350,000,000 PROPERTY GRAB

Thinks It All Right to Take German Belongings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—For eight tragic years the allied and associated military powers have sought to crush Bolshevism and to overthrow the Soviet government of Russia on the ground that the sanctity of private property was the very foundation of civilization.

Confiscation by the Soviet regime of private foreign investments in Russia was a crime that justified, in the opinion of the governments in Washington, London, Paris, Brussels and Rome, any measures which might be devised to punish the offense.

War, blockade, intrigue, withholding of recognition—all were tried in turn, in the hope that the world might be made safe for private capital regardless of national boundaries.

Against this background of capitalist ethics there was flashed, on Feb. 10, the authoritative announcement from the White House that President Coolidge does not believe that the $350,000,000 worth of private property of German citizens, seized during the war and now held by the lien property custodian, can be returned to its owners until some distant date when Germany shall have paid American private claims amounting to $300,000,000.

True, these American private claims are covered by the recent Paris agreement; they are to be paid from the reparations fund, over a long period of years, to the federal treasury. But the other creditors of Germany have not restored private German property which they seized, and they object to the United States holding to its pledge to keep sacred the right of private property. They suggest that American must forget her idea of property rights for the individual, and consider the advantage of holding what she has grabbed.

Secretary Mellon is known to be backing Coolidge, in refusing to agree to return the seized property until Germany has paid. The supreme court has held that depriving an individual of the use or benefit of his property is confiscation. That is the status of this alien property. The administration confiscates it while blandly announcing that it is forcing Germany to maintain the sanctity of private property by repaying these citizens.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—Fifteen hundred new members join the Journeymen Barbers' International Union as the Independent Journeymen Barbers' Union of Brooklyn and Long Island merges with the A. F. of L. movement. The new members will belong to a newly chartered local, No. 913.

The independent union grew out of the big barbers' strikes of 1913 and 1916, which broke the back of the day and night working schedules of former years. Last summer another strike was won and agreement signed but the independent union found its treasury spent and applied for admission to the A. F. of L. to gain the support of the united movement.

On the Manhattan side the immediate issue is the winning of the beauty parlor workers. It is estimated that there are now about 2,000 of these specialists in feminine charm, few of them members of any organization, and nearly all working long hours for low wages that barely give them strength for their daily task of dolling up the women of the leisure class. The joint board of New York, following the lifting of the ban on women barbers by the last convention of the union, has authorized an organization campaign that will take the form of a series of mass meetings to show the beauty parlor workers the advantage of union conditions. The situation that created an independent beauty parlor workers' union several months ago, has been changed by the convention's decision, said Merlino, and he declared that the international union could give a backing t othe campaign in this field that the previous movement did not have.

At Albany the barbers' union is fighting a bill sponsored by the national hair dresser's association, a bosses' organizaiton, that would prevent regular barber shops from doing beauty parlor work.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LIKES JOB OUTLOOK FOR CLEVELAND LABOR

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15.—If you are writing publicity for the Cleveland chamber of commerce in this city, you will be distinctly optimistic concerning the employment outlook. On the other hand, if you are stationed in the offices of the city-state employment bureau, your report will be quite to the contrary.

While the chamber was declaring in its monthly review that jobs were increasing steadily and that there would be "a return to normalcy by summer," the city's employment bureau reported the highest figures of jobless in four years. There were 18,000 applicants for 6,000 jobs. Average hours as reported by employers were 48.9 a week, with averag wage for unskilled labor of 44 cents an hour. Steel and automobiles show a slight increase in the number employed.

CLINTON 'LABOR' LEADERS DESTROY WORKERS' FAITH

Hear Bolsheviks Who Speak Wednesday

of the workers and at last labor won control only to have their hopes crushed to earth. Not one of those elected knew anything at all about administering the affairs of a city; only the mayor appeared to have even a semblance of an idea of the duties of office.

There was much wrangling and debate over minor matters while important questions, such as franchises, were summarily dealt with and literally given away.

Handing out of appointments, the division of the spoils of office, resulted in some who were practically illiterate being placed in responsible positions. At least one was placed in a lunatic asylum soon after appointment.

At the following election the labor candidates were snowed under with the exception of the mayor. His attempt to run for a third term found even his friends opposed to him having the job permanently.

Clinton's first experiment with a union labor city administration ended in a debauch that made the workers blush for shame and lose faith in labor candidates.

The only thing credited to the labor administration is that they paved more streets, and employed more labor in times of depression, than any former administration.

Manufacturers Wanted Municipal Ownership.

The question of municipal ownership of the water works has been twice up before the voters in Clinton. The last time the manufacturers and bankers put up a big campaign but it was defeated 5 to 1.

With control of the city administration the factory owners could get their water supply at nominal cost and shift the burden of maintenance onto the city, thereby spreading their large volume of consumption over the entire population. Under private ownership of the water plant they have to pay for what is delivered. The voters seemed to understand this and voted accordingly.

Building Crafts Have Lost Heavily.

During the past two years there has been almost a steady decline in membership of the building crafts in Clinton. It is estimated that they have lost forty per cent and there are no indications of a revival, rather the reverse.

There is no semblance of co-operation between the building crafts and as far as modern building construction is concerned, they still act like the guilds of old, every craft doing its job and attending to its own little affairs as tho the contractor, the profit system, social labor and the class struggle did not exist.

There is also a Boot and Shoe Workers' Union which is bought by the factory owner, on the 100 per cent plan, from the international union. The badge of their serfdom, known by the euphenomins title of the "union label" is sold along with the workers just as the serf went along with the land when sold under feudalism.

These boot and shoe workers have conditions just a little less irksome than the non-union factory. This is done to pad their collar of serfdom and fool them into the belief that they are the chosen of the masses.

"B. and O. Plan" For Northwestern

Clinton shop crafts put up a splendid fight during the shopmen's strike on the railroads. Locally they had very able leaders who succeeded in salvaging something from the wreck. In spite of many sacrifices made by the few courageous spirits, the desire for overtime has played havoc with rules and schedules until the more ignorant of the masses have become apathetic or cynical towards the union and the efforts of the local leaders to protect conditions won at great sacrifice.

At the present time there is strong talk of putting the infamous B. & O. plan into effect on the Northwestern railroad. Those who are in a position to know, predict that it will be adopted within a short time. The shop crafts at Clinton are still fairly well organized numerically but the old spirit has apparently died.

Muddlers and Middlers.

In all the small towns thruout Iowa, little sects from time to time assume importance. Here in Clinton we have the bible students who have grown from a baker's dozen to a few hundred during the past few years. This hodge-podge of a little history and science liberally diluted with the superstition of religion, has apparently appealed to the workers in their search for something to fill their empty lives.

The kluxers were also strong in Clinton, but now the novelty has worn off and they are no longer a factor.

Then there is another sect of bible students who teach from Karl Marx known as the S. L. P. There are about a dozen of them, but their side show simply amuses the workers.

Into this confusion the Workers Party sends the message of the world's proletariat when J. E. Snyder, district organizer, and Comrade David Coutts speak on the vital problems before the workers today.

The meeting will be held at Labor Temple, 613 Second street, Clinton, Iowa, on Wednesday, Feb. 18. The DAILY WORKER will be sold for the first time in Clinton and an effort made to organize a local unit of the party.

tribute to their health, vegetarians, notwithstanding. But perhaps they should not have eaten bread, fish or potatoes either. The air was good, I will admit, but the inhabitants never learned to live exclusively on it.

IRELAND is divided into parishes by the catholic church, which is the strongest government in the country. The parish in which I was born had a population of three thousand "souls." Every year, during Easter, the archbishop of the archdiocese sent a pastoral letter to be read at all masses at the beginning of the "holy season of Lent." This was the time of the year during which the sinners were supposed to do penance for their sins. And a more seasoned set of sinners it was hard to find. They were hardboiled, and pastoral letters had no more effect on their consciences than a plea for mercy has on a professional highwayman. Their sins were few because sinning was rather hazardous and difficult because of lack of opportunity. So when the priest read the bishop's letter suggesting fasting and extra praying, they immediately began thinking of plans to circumvent the spiritual proscription, while at the same time remaining technically within the law.

THE bishop was not accustomed to the native menu, so when his local agent read, "fish and flesh not allowed at the same meal" a titter went thru the little chapel. "We are darned lucky to get either one or the other" was the comment, in fluent Gaelic, that did not hesitate to invoke the name of satan, the saints or the meek and lowly Nazarene inside the sacred precincts of the church. The priest was their political leader except when he made a false move. Then he was likely to be given the same treatment meted out to the landlords. Just so long as the church played the role of a benevolent Tammany Hall, everything went smoothly. The peasants did not concern themselves with religion as such. The use of Jesus except as a peg to hang an oath on was considered an indication of spiritual debasement. Only protestants talked of Jesus outside of the church.

THE people managed to exist on potatoes, bread, fish and tea whenever excessive rain did not destroy the potato crop or inclement weather make it impossible to catch fish. This year the excessive rain fall destroyed the potato crop and the British steam trawlers ruined the fishing industry on the west coast. Meanwhile the Free State government is preparing to glut the gallows with the broken necks of those who are opposed to its exactions. And it is a catholic government!

ABRAMOVITCH IS FLAYED AT BIG BOSTON MEETING

Role of International Spy Exposed

By LYDIA GIBSON.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Seven hundred workers met at Lorimer Hall in Boston, on February 11, under the auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party, to hear Robert Minor and Moissaye J. Olgin tell the truth about Rafael Abramovitch, the counter-revolutionary "socialist" recently imported from abroad for an anti-Bolshevik propaganda tour.

Simultaneously Abramovitch was speaking further down the street to an audience which Comrade Minor characterized in his speech as consisting of "fifty policemen, some czarist refugees, the wife of a wage-cutting mill owner, and one baby who had gone to sleep."

When John J. Ballam, district organizer of district 1, as chairman, opened the meeting and introduced the first speaker, there was wild applause, which was repeated many times thruout one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held in Boston.

Shows Capitalist Development.

Minor pointed out the replacement of the old "simple" form of capitalism by modern finance capitalist imperialism, and with it the driving of the class war into the international arena. The class struggle was now consciously on a world scale. He showed that Abramovitch and the yellow socialists are scabs on the greatest strike in history, the Russian revolution which, as the beginning of the world revolution, has been unsucessfully attacked by the imperialist armies of the world.

Quests of U. S. A.

Minor pointed out that the United States government which welcomes grand dukes and duchesses, ex-baronesses and princes, and which persecutes revolutionists, also "laid down the doormat" and welcomed "Comrade" Abramovitch; "comrade of Abe Cahan, comrade of Hillquit, comrade of Ebert and Noske, comrade of Berger."

"And now I may surprise you by saying that Abramovitch is also a political comrade of Mr. Alexander Berkman and of Miss Emma Goldman, and a comrade of the late Mr. Gompers," said Minor.

"For in a historical sense, in everything but a technical sense, all of these anti-Bolsheviks are blood-brothers in the Second International."

With powerful irony, Minor built up his denunciation of the whole international gang of social democrats, who are forces of counter revolution in the imperialist phase of capitalism. He quoted Lenin: "The Second International is dead. But," he said, "in nature there is no destruction of matter. The Second International is dead as one form, but full of life of another form. It is a huge corpse alive with loathesome worms. One of these worms is named Abramovitch!" So scathing was his satire that it provoked a great burst of laughter and applause.

Why Abramovitch?

Minor said Abramovitch had been chosen for his counter-revolutionary mission because he was a Jew, and the imperialist governments knew and dreaded the heroic role of the Jewish workers in the working class revolutionary movement. They wanted to confuse the Jewish workers and make them indifferent to the new drive against Soviet Russia for which grand duchesses, baronesses, and a whole crew of refugees have been seeking help in America. After explaining the class nature of parties, and the function of the great working class Communist Party, Comrade Minor closed with a challenge for a Soviet republic of America.

Olgin Arouses Enthusiasm.

Comrade Moissaye J. Olgin arrived during Minor's speech, and was warmly welcomed with applause. Olgin spoke first in Yiddish and then in Russian, languages which the writer unfortunately does not understand. He spoke with much fire, and his great gift for satire delighted the audience, and brought him much applause. He pointed out that Abramovitch and company are doing the dirtiest work for the very forces that used to oppress them.

Comrade Olgin was followed by Comrade Alice Biels of the Young Workers' League, who gave a brief report of the Abramovitch meeting, from which she had just come. Abramovitch's speech appeared to have been made up of the usual confused and lying polemics, invented expressly to confuse and disunite the workers. May they turn a deaf ear to him!

Fight on Radio Pirates

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Radio "pirates" who have dodged payment of the government license fee for listening in will be hard hit if the bill proposed by the Baldwin government is enacted. It would give the police power to search homes for those who are "stealing" entertainment and would provide a year's imprisonment or $500 fine.

The Workers Party in Action

FIGHT OR SURRENDER?

"Fellow workers! Comrades! Men and women and youth! Shall we surrender, like sheep to the butcher? Shall we permit the capitalists, the insatiable multi-millionaires, further to rob and exploit us? To steal the bread from our tables, the clothes from our back and to imprison our trusted and fearless leaders?

"Never! We have power in our numbers Let us unite then! Let us give blow for blow! Let us strike! And strike! And strike again! Let us strike against the men of millions with the united power of millions of men!

"Beware of those who talk defeat! Who wish you to surrender without a fight! Trust no leader who divides the ranks, who takes only one craft from a shop (or one shop from an industry) and leads one after another to defeat! Follow those only whose actions and slogans mean UNITY and STRUGGLE.

"Do not think yourselves helpless! Trust your own strength! Rally your forces! In your shop, perhaps beside you, are other workers as willing and as ready as yourself to fight the bosses. To resist the wage cuts! Take the lead, then. Lead the struggle!

"Resist the wage cuts. In the shop, at the factory gates, on the street or in mass meetings, call out to your fellows workers for unity and struggle.

"Organize yourselves. Don't wait for others, or somebody else from somewhere else. Organize yourselves. Meet together in your workroom, at the mill gates, anywhere, and from each craft or department elect your most militant fellow worker to a shop committee."

The above is from the leaflet, "Strike Against Wage Cuts." So far only a few branches of the party have realized the importance of this leaflet and have failed to place orders. In the next issue of the DAILY WORKER will be published the names of secretaries having sent in their orders. See whether your branch is in the list. Particular attention is solicited from branches, C. C. C.'s and D. O.'s in the eastern section of the country, where the situation is more acute. The workers must be told the truth about the matter. They want you to tell them. Send all order to the National Office, Workers Party, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price, $3.00 per 1,000.

Take Names of Three Communists Off Aldermanic List

nance as a gigantic steal, and calling on the workers of Chicago to support the Communist aldermanic candidates, who have the only true solution to the traction problem.

"The Communist candidates for the coming aldermanic elections who are endorsed by the Workers Party, propose confiscation of the whole traction system with direct workers' management," Swabeck declared. "The control of the operation to be in the hands of the workers, of hand and brain, to be exercised by control committees elected thru the city transportation unions. Such control would easily make possible a reduction in fares and better service. It would be operation for service, not profit."

Sell Out to Bankers.

Swabeck then analyzed the Dever ordinance, showing that it is in reality a plan to turn the traction lines over to the bankers for a long period of years, the city paying the expenses. Swabeck's statement continues:

"The traction plan recommended to the city council by the committee on local transportation is but another scheme to extend the present franchise held by the city bankers and refinance the present companies also made up of the bankers. In addition the bankers will have complete control of the management.

Not Public Ownership.

"It has nothing to do with public ownership. The whole difference from the present system is that the bills become shifted directly to the masses while the bankers continue to clip the coupons. Ultimately the workers will bear the burden in increased carfares and low wages on the traction system to provide the dividends on the bonds.

"The city traction fund of approximately $40,000,000 which is now deposited in various Chicago banks at 2 per cent interest, will supposedly be invested to help provide dividends for the present and future bondholders. The bankers holding these deposits have formerly, moved by their great philanthropic urge, offered to again loan the amount to the city, but at a rate of interest of six per cent per annum."

Mayor Dever is trying to force a favorable vote on his ordinance in the city council on Feb. 26, when it will be before the council. Opponents of the measure are endeavoring to secure a postponement of the vote.

Little Entente to Take Up Question of Attitude to Soviets

BELGRADE, Feb. 15.—The attitude of the little entente toward Soviet Russia will be determined at a conference here March 25, it was announced today.

Oppose Religion in Schools.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—A meeting was held here to oppose the decision of the board of education to inaugurate religious instruction in the public schools. German parents, representing labor unions, athletic societies and language organizations met at the Labor Temple at 243 East 84th street. The meeting decided to ask the board of education for a hearing. Among those present were Ludwig Lore, Henry Ortlandt, Augusta Hubscher, Erich Sanger and I. Konig.

Larger Attendance Is Being Sought at Ohio Workers' School

CLEVELAND, Ohio Feb. 15.—The course of eleven Workers' School lectures being given in five district 6 cities is now about one half completed. The six lectures still to be given are: (1) Historical Role of the Revolutionary Working Class Party; (2) The Party in the Political Struggle; (3) The Party in the Trade Unions; (4) Strategy and Tactics of the Party; (5) The First and Second Internationals and the World War; (6) The Russian Revolution and the Communist International.

As will be seen, these remaining six lectures are of first importance and should excite the interest of every party member. To gain a thoro understanding of the role of the party today and in the revolution is the duty of every comrade. Local secretaries should make an especial attempt to increase the attendance at the balance of the course.

Lectures for the coming week follow:

Cleveland, Wednesday, Feb. 18, Headquarters, 5928 Euclid Ave., "The Party in the Political Struggles."

Toledo, Thursday, Feb. 19, Headquarters, 131 Michigan, same subject.

Akron, Saturday, Feb. 21, Liberty Hall, 601 South Main St., "The Party in the Trade Unions."

Dillonvale, Sunday, Feb. 22, afternoon, Co-operative Hall, "The Party in the Political Struggles."

Canton, Sunday, Feb. 22, evening, Polish Hall, 1748 11 St., N. E. "Historical Role of the Revolutionary Working Class Party."

being held up by the senate, is another prize foe of the workers picked out by Coolidge.

Warren was president of the Michigan Sugar company until January 24, 1925, after Coolidge had picked him as attorney general. This company, while Warren was president, was found guilty of "participation in an unlawful conspiracy to restrain trade and commerce" and was "perpetually enjoined from further conspiracy" by the United States circuit court in its decision of May 9, 1922.

Warren acted as head of the Michigan Sugar company, and other big sugar companies, as an agent for the Havemeyer interests, and the American Sugar Refining company. The sugar trust has long been known as one of the worst exploiter of child labor, making thousands of children slave on the western sugar beet fields.

It is said that Coolidge sent Stone to the supreme court to end the recent "trust-busting" activity of Stone, and to enable him to bring Warren, a "safe" man for the large monopolies, into the cabinet.

RED REVEL BALL ONE OF BIGGEST PARTY AFFAIRS

Costumes, Dancing and Eats Scheduled

The enlarged committee for the Red Revel Masquerade Ball, which will be held on Saturday evening, February 28, in Women's West End Club Hall, under the auspices of Local Chicago of the Workers Party, met last Wednesday evening and made final arrangements for the affair which promises to be one of the most successful ever held by the party in this city.

Every language group in Chicago is co-operating. Hundreds of people will be in costume. Prizes will be awarded to the best groups and individual costumes.

An excellent dance orchestra has been secured and the dancing will last until one o'clock in the morning.

The Women's West End Club hall is located at 37 South Ashland Boulevard on the corner of Monroe and Ashland Boulevard. Admission is 50 cents.

Should Sell Tickets

Posters and other advertising matter is printed and can be secured at the local office of the Workers Party, 166 West Washington Street. Members of the party and friends are urged to call for some posters and see that they are properly displayed.

Every effort should be made to sell as many tickets as possible in advance. This is the best kind of advertising.

Plenty To Eat

Besides music and other entertainment there will be plenty of good things to eat and drink. The committee in charge of this part of the affair has plenty of experience and we can guarantee that your palates will be tickled for a reasonable price.

Mark "Red Revel" down in your note book for February 28 and do not forget it.

Dan Ivasovich Is Expelled from the Workers Party

Since January, 1923, Dan Ivasovich of Collinsville, Ill., has been a member of the Workers Party. For some time, however, he has been making the mistake of submitting contributions to the South Slavic paper, the Novy Svijet, a paper which is being published by a group in opposition to the Workers Party and which attacks the South Slavic Federation of the Workers Party and thereby attacks the party itself, its policies and its program.

The district committee called the attention of Comrade Ivasovich to this mistake informing him that the party had definitely decided that no members could be permitted to give any support whatever to the paper, Novy Svijet, or to the group which publishes this paper.

Comrade Dan Ivasovich was asked to discontinue this support and to accept, and faithfully carry out party decisions and party policies. However, Comrade Ivasovich replied that he did not agree with the presentation made by the D. E. C. and that he would continue his support of Novy Svijet because it corresponded with his views, the D. E. C. therefore decided that Dan Ivasovich stands expelled from the Workers Party. Arne Swabeck, district organizer, No. 8.

NOTICE!

Comrades and Branches holding Lenin Memorial meeting tickets, please settle for them at once at the local office. We want to close the accounts. Come any day or evening to Room 303, 166 W. Washington St. and settle for the tickets.

TRADE UNIONISM GAINING POWER AMONG AFRICANS

The Open Shoppers Are Very Much Worried

JOHANNESBURG, So. Africa, Feb. 15.—The Industrial and Commercial Workers' Union of Africa, which was organised in 1919, with headquarters in Cape Town, South Africa, is continuing to gain in strength and is spreading its influence over larger and larger masses of the native workers. The activities of the union is arousing the ire of the African open shoppers who are keeping a close eye on this ever growing movement. The folowing article which appeared in one of the South African capitalist papers shows that the African open shoppers are trying to keep pace with their American brothers.

Clement Kadalie, the well-dressed Nyasaland native who is conducting a propaganda tour of South Africa, in the interest of the Industrial and Commercial Workers' Union of Capetown, has been addressing meetings regularly in Johannesburg during the past fortnight.

His addresses are devoted to creating a black industrial alliance, and collecting black members for the I. C. N. U. all over South Africa.

He has established branches in Durban, Johannesburg and elsewhere, and is undoutedly achieving a good deal of success among the natives.

"We shall experience in a few years the effects of his activities," said a well known, Pretorian police official yesterday, "and then we can look out for unpleasantness."

"Kadalie and Professor Theale were educated in America. They have achieved some prominence as speakers to the colored peoples; and it is believed that their activities are being supported from the United States."

Ruthless War on California Indians Wipes Out 133,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—"The story of the treatment of California Indians exceeds in inhumanity and ruthlessness the brutalities of the Belgian Congo." With these words John Collier, secretary, American indian defense association, began a campaign for the passage of two bills now before the state legislature, one providing for a survey of the Indians, the other for $100,000 for emergency relief. Collier points out that when California was admitted to the union there were 150,000 Indians in the state; now there are only about 17,000 many living in the utmost misery.

Fake Co-operative Has New Plan to Rob the Farmers

The Grain Marketing company, backed by a syndicate of bankers, is endeavoring to bring the former members of the bankrupt United States Grain Growers' association into their organization by arranging to liquidate the $300,000 debt of the bankrupt concern. Four years ago the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., went to the wall with a debt of $200,000.

Eugene Funk, who is a candidate for the next secretary of agriculture, is endeavoring to clear the mess and at the same time aid the Grain Marketing company. Funk is chairman of a special committee appointed by the board of directors of the Greain Marketing company to work out a contract between the old company and the new one.

By the terms of the contract, each member of the old concern is to market his grain thru the Grain Marketing company and to allow a portion of his grain to go toward paying the old debt. The Grain Marketing corporation thus gets a flock of new customers, wipes out the debt to the farm bureaus, with which it is closely connected, and gives Funk a boost in his political ambitions.

'SAND HOGS' ON TUNNEL JOB WAR AGAINST DEATH

Demand New York State Legislature Act

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Compressed air workers, permanently injured by the "bends," the disease which attacks the caisson men who work in submarine tunnels and at the foundations of high buildings, are awaiting the opportunity to give the New York senate and assembly labor and industries committee at Albany evidence of the improper medical treatment by contracting companies which is responsible for their present condition, and the fact that they were defrauded of compensation.

The charges were preferred by the Compressed Air Workers' Union of New York at the last session of the legislative committee by the union counsel, Frank A. Sullivan. They relate particularly to company practices on the great Hudson vehicular tunnel project from New York to Jersey City where a big Pittsburgh firm, Booth & Flynn, is in charge of operations.

Urge Shorter Workday.

Nearly 900 cases of this dreaded disease of the "sand hogs" occurred on the Hudson tunnel job and the unionists declare that injuries have been greatly aggravated by the cheap and unscientific emergency treatment given them.

Relief for the "sand hogs," most savagely used up victims of our industrial system, is one of the sharpest labor issues at Albany. The relief is sought thru the Nicol-Phelps bill and discussion of this measure before the joint legislative committee brot out the union's charges against the contractor's fake medicos. The bill aims at alleviation of the hazards of the compressed air workers by shortening his hours in accordance with the air pressure to which he is subjected. It would begin the six-hour day when the worker is under air pressure 18 pounds per square inch above normal, instead of at 26 as at present, and the four hour day would start at 26 pounds. Hours would continue to lessen proportionately, until one one hour per day would be tolerated at the extreme pressure of 48 pounds. The time would be split into two semi-shifts, with rest periods in between.

Protest Labor Costs

The public workers contractors' association is fighting the bill because it would increase their labor costs The Compressed Air Workers' Union, while the law is pending, has served notice on Mayor Hylan of New York that its members will not work on the proposed new tunnel from Staten Island to Brooklyn, under the Narrows until its demands for shorter hours are acceded to.

Statistics Show Cost of Food Keeps Rising Steadily

The bureau of labor statistics, Washington, has issued the following interesting figures showing how the cost of food has been steadily going higher and higher. Only the short period covering December and January there has been an increase of from one to four per cent in 20 cities. The report says:

"During the month from December 15, 1924, to January 15, 1925, 20 of the 22 cities showed increases as follows: Cincinnati, Kansas City, and Savannah, 4 per cent; Butte, Little Rock, Louisville, Omaha and Peoria, 3 per cent; Atlanta, Baltimore, Buffalo, Detroit, Indianapolis, Norfolk, Portland, Me., and Springfield, Ill., 2 per cent; Philadelphia, 1 per cent; and Columbus, New Haven, and Rochester, less than five-tenths of 1 per cent."

The report also gives these figures covering a term of one year: "For the year period, January 15, 1924, to January 15, 1925, 21 of the 22 cities showed increases as follows: Louisville and Norfolk, 8 per cent; Baltimore, Little Rock, and Savannah, 6 per cent; Buffalo, Kansas City, and Peoria, 5 per cent; Atlanta and Springfield, Ill., 4 per cent; Butte, Detroit, Indianapolis, Omaha, Philadelphia, Portland, Me., and Rochester, 3 per cent; Columbus and New Haven, 2 per cent; and Cincinnati and Providence, 1 per cent."

And for a 12-year period it makes the following report: "'As compared with the average cost in the year 1913, the retail cost of food on January 15, 1925, was 61 per cent higher in Baltimore; 60 per cent in Buffalo; 58 per cent in Detroit; 55 per cent in Providence; 54 per cent in Philadelphia; 53 per cent in Atlanta, Kansas City and New Haven; 52 per cent in Louisville and Omaha; 50 per cent in Cincinnati and Little Rock; and 48 per cent in Indianapolis and Manchester. Prices were not obtained from Butte, Columbus, Norfolk, Peoria, Portland, Me., Rochester, Savannah, and Springfield, Ill. in 1913, hence no comparison for the 12-year period can be given for these cities."

BUILDERS AT WORK

He Gets Discouraged—But He Keeps On Working!

Thomas Otzwirk of Livingston, Illinois, occasionally "gets in the dumps." But he never gets so discouraged that he fails to keep on "plugging away."

He says: "I have been active for at least twenty-five years, most of this time in the socialist party; I am a member of the Workers Party, since February, 1922, but a fellow gets disgusted when he tries and tries and sees no results that he would like to see coming. I have tried to start a T. U. E. L. group also, but the ignorance of the workers makes a fellow feel blue, when he has been in the movement as long as I have."

We appreciate the comrade's task, no doubt more difficult than in other mining sections, but we remind him also that with just such difficulties the left wing group has worked and has met such success as an official vote of 66,000 in the last miners' election. That should be an inspiration for him.

But his "blues" are not the kind that stop action. In the same letter in which he airs his discouragement, he asks us to send the DAILY WORKER for ten days to a list of miners, and he will follow them up for subs, and he takes no commission for his work to enable us to do it. He also sent five dollars for an insurance policy to help the DAILY WORKER.

So he can't be very discouraged and this is just the kind of work that is going to make the T. U. E. L. group possible.

To other agents we are bringing his methods to light. Do as Comrade Otzwirk does, send us the names of sympathizing workers. We will see that they get the DAILY WORKER and then you can follow them up for the sub. Others use this system—and it works!

COMMUNIST·CHILDREN'S·COLUMN

Who Will Correspond With These Pioneers

The children in Russia are eager to know something about our Pioneers in the United States. This interest is best reflected in the following letter which came from orphans to their foster parents in America. Little children in Russia were left homeless and without friends to care for them by the capitalist war and by the capitalist blockade directed against Soviet Russia. But as soon as the workers' government was established their first task was that of caring for these children. Many of them were adopted by American Communists.

Now We Are Free.

Greetings, respected and dear stranger uncle:

I send you my heartiest regards. I like to correspond with you and so get acquainted. My name is Shura Nicolaeva; 16 years. I am an orphan. I have no father or mother, nor any near relatives except a little brother who lives with me in the children's home. I am a Pioneer and work as an assistant leader.

How Are Your Pioneers?

Write me if you have Pioneers and how they work. Are all the ways open to them as they are for us? Or is the bourgeoisie still persecuting them as before. If so, anyway they won't keep on for long to mock at the children. Soon will be an end to the bourgeoisie, and your Pioneers will work just as free as we do our work.

If you ever see or go visiting your Pioneers send them by kindest regards and tell them that I would like to correspond with them very much. If they will consent, give them my name and address. Then they will write me of their life and I in reply, will write of our Pioneer life in Russia and we will find out how Pioneers live in different countries.

My address is Bolshoi Krasnaya Ulitza, former Radianov Institute, now the Second Children's Commune of the name, Vladimir Ilyich Lenin.

Good-bye. From your loving Shura Nicolaeva.

Another Letter.

This letter is from Anna Fillipova of the same home.

"Dear Father: I received your present and am delighted with it. . . We celebrated the seventh anniversary of the revolution of October, 1917, we celebrated it swell. They told us all about the revolution and then we put on a show and there was a big crowd. On this evening the Young Pioneers gave their 'Triumphant Promise' and they gave us neckties. Father, I gave the Triumphant Promise too! This promise means that the Pioneer who gives it promises to be earnest and true (to the working class) and to be an example for the other fellows. When a Pioneer grows up he must be ready to take the place of the older comrades. This is the way we celebrate our holidays. Father, I want you to write me about your country.

How do you celebrate your holidays?"

And Marousa Ivanova, age 13, writes: "Dear Uncle: I would like to know if you have Pioneers over there. I am interested in this because I myself am a Pioneer of the division named 'The Division of Karl Liebknecht, Fourth Link.'"

Eureka—The Juniors Have Found It.

Organization of Junior groups is expanding with even greater rapidity than we expected. It has just come to our notice that Eureka, Calif., also has a Junior group. Our comrade writes us:

"The Junior group here is getting along wonderfully well. The Juniors practice their games and sports and are very enthusiastic over their work. Comrades Mrs. Mantelli and Mrs. Salo who are in charge are also very much interested in their work. Fraternally, M. Rossi."

Junior Tea Party.

Perth Amboy, N. J., Junior Group will will hold a tea party on Sunday, February 22, at Workers' Home, 265 New Brunswick Ave. Music, refreshments, songs and speakers are on the program.

UNIONS RALLY TO LABOR DEFENSE IN LOS ANGELES

Preparations Under Way for Mass Meeting

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 15.—The Labor Defense Council of Los Angeles at its first united front conference held Feb. 3rd, with representatives from the Painters, Millinery Workers, Carpenters, Clothing Workers, fraternal organizations, Workers Party, Young Workers' League and others, organized committees and launched a campaign to unite the workers of this city for a drive against the criminal syndicalism law and for the defense of the leaders of the Communist movement of America, Foster, Ruthenberg, Minor and others who are being persecuted by the Michigan courts.

Unions Send Delegates.

Since the first conference took place many local unions have been visited by the speakers' committee. Almost in every instance the representatives of the Labor Defense Council were given the floor to address the workers who received the message with hearty approval and elected delegates to the next session of the conference, which will be held Feb. 17, at 8 p. m., 224 S. Spring St., Room 200.

Judging by the splendid response to the call and attendance of the first session of the council, the second meeting may represent a small mass meeting. The workers of Los Angeles are beginning to realize that the struggle against and the demand for the repeal of the criminal syndicalism law is not only the concern of the Communists, but of all the workers. The workers are beginning to realize that the persecution of the Communists means a direct attack against the interests of all the workers.

Start Intensive Training for Party Workers in New School of Chicago District

By MAX LERNER.

Sometime ago the Chicago district committee proposed the organization of an intensive training school for comrades from all over the district for the purpose of equipping these comrades with the knowledge necessary in doing more effective party work. This plan was endorsed by the central executive committee which recently, at one of its sessions, voted a share of the funds necessary to start the school.

At its last meeting the district executive committee decided that the intensive training school should be started March 16, to be held for a period of two weeks. With this action the first extensive steps yet taken in this country towards initiating intensive educational work in this fashion, have been launched.

The course to be given during this two-week period, which is outlined in full below, will include economics, short course in Leninism, trade union history and tactics, the history of the Communist Party of this country, public speaking, party organization and structure, and a course in connection with the international movement.

Steady Progress.

For the past few months educational work has been going on all over the country thru the medium of the district educational circuits, which have been financed partially by the central executive committee and partially by the districts as in the case of the Chicago intensive training school.

This work, going on quietly but persistently, has resulted in a much larger success than even hoped for at the beginning. The success of the work, altho it has been ushered in without much blowing of trumpets, has proven to what extent the comrades of the movement feel the work necessary.

For a number of years there have been continual discussions as to the educational work to be carried on by the party, but it was not until last year that this work was started in earnest in as many districts as possible.

Work Really Started.

The organization of the New York school, the organization of the classes in Chicago, and the district circuit in the Chicago district, the organization of the circuits in Ohio, Pennsylvania, and other sections of the country, are but an indication of the concrete steps taken. This new effort on the part of the Chicago district points to even greater strides forward in the future and to the establishment of educational work in our party on a stable basis. To those comrades who have followed the work of our party since its organization, the final stabilization of our educational work, which is evident in this latest step of the Chicago district, will indicate the progress of our movement. Little by little the party is asserting itself in each phase of the work and stabilizing it to the point where each activity is given its due place in our general party work.

Purpose of the School.

The intensive training school, to be held during the latter part of March, is initiated with the idea in mind, primarily, of giving comrades who cannot spare overmuch time and who are active in the party movement, especially the younger element of our party, a short intensive course which will help them materially in the party work they are doing. The work is by no means to be carried on as educational work in itself, but as an integral part of our general task. If the school is successful, and we have no doubt at all that it will be, it will, in my opinion, no doubt lead in the future to an established party school which may run continuously for a period of the year for the continual equipping of an ever greater number of comrades in their task.

Among the comrades who will teach at the school, will be Comrades Dunne, Bittelman, Abern, Gomez, Bedacht, Lewis and Lerner. These comrades, altho extremely busy in other necessary party work, will devote their attention to gving the comrades selected for this course, as thoro and excellent a training as possible during this time.

The Arrangements.

The arrangements in connection with this school are as follows: A certain number of comrades have been selected from outside of Chicago in district 8, together with a number of comrades in Chicago. The out-of-town comrades selected will have their fare paid by the district and lodging provided for them in Chicago. They will, however, have to provide their own board during the two-weeks' stay, but local comrades are expected to help out in this. A committee of the Chicago students will be immediately elected for the purpose of aiding the others insofar as lodging is concerned and other necessary details. When all the students gather they will elect a committee to take charge of the school in conjunction with a committee selected from the teachers and the comrade in charge of the school. In this way the school will be managed in a fashion to bring about the best possible spirit among all.

We certainly hope and we believe with the rest of the party that this first venture in a concrete way toward established educational work will bring about a better recognition in the party as a whole of the necessity of educational work as integral part of the work of the party.

All power to the Chicago intensive training school, to the D. E. C. of district 8 and the C. E. C. for this new stride forward towards stabilized work in every branch of our work.

Drive Home the Spike

WHAT will March 5th mean for the DAILY WORKER?

For the Communist International, it means VICTORY! It marks the end of the sixth year during which the Communist International has struggled, survived and succeeded!

Six years of accumulated achievement: this is what March 5th means for the Comintern.

What will it mean for the DAILY WORKER? On that day, the insurance policy campaign will end. Results will be made public in the special Comintern edition. Will these results spell victory or failure? Will the DAILY WORKER continue, stronger than ever, or will it gradually die out,—the victim of non-activity?

To date, not more than $18,000 has been raised to guarantee the paper's existence for 1925. At least $32,000 more is needed,—not a dollar less!

Before March 5, Workers Party branches and DAILY WORKER readers must DRIVE HOME that $32,000. Thirty-two thousand pairs of hands must grasp the sledge hammer and DRIVE DEEP the LAST SPIKES to make the DAILY WORKER firm for 1925!

Militant branches, — to the hammer!

Backward branches, — to the hammer!

Every reader, — to the hammer!

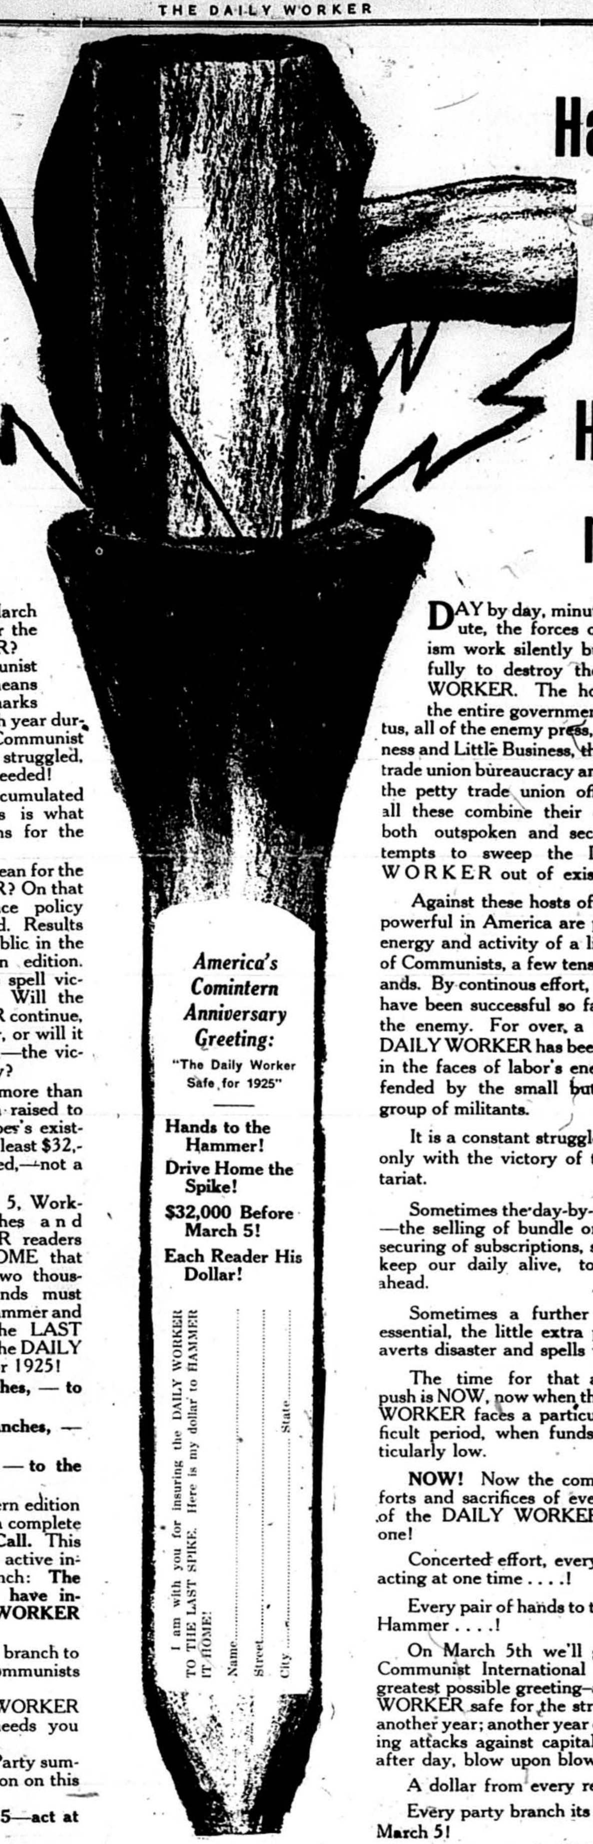
In the Comintern edition will be published a complete Communist Roll Call. This will include every active individual and branch: The Communists who have insured the DAILY WORKER for 1925.

You want your branch to be among the Communists listed.

The DAILY WORKER wants you and needs you among them.

The Workers Party summons you to action on this Roll Call.

Before March 5—act at once!



America's Comintern Anniversary Greeting:

"The Daily Worker Safe for 1925"

Hands to the Hammer!

Drive Home the Spike!

$32,000 Before March 5!

Each Reader His Dollar!

I am with you for insuring the DAILY WORKER TO THE LAST SPIKE. Here is my dollar to HAMMER IT HOME!

City.............................. State..............

Hands to the Hammer!

DAY by day, minute by minute, the forces of capitalism work silently but powerfully to destroy the DAILY WORKER. The hostility of the entire government apparatus, all of the enemy press, Big Business and Little Business, the high-up trade union bureaucracy and most of the petty trade union officialdom; all these combine their efforts in both outspoken and secretive attempts to sweep the DAILY WORKER out of existence.

Against these hosts of the most powerful in America are pitted the energy and activity of a little band of Communists, a few tens of thousands. By continous effort, these few have been successful so far against the enemy. For over a year, the DAILY WORKER has been flaunted in the faces of labor's enemies, defended by the small but fighting group of militants.

It is a constant struggle, ending only with the victory of the proletariat.

Sometimes the day-by-day work —the selling of bundle orders, the securing of subscriptions, suffices to keep our daily alive, to push it ahead.

Sometimes a further effort is essential, the little extra push that averts disaster and spells victory.

The time for that additional push is NOW, now when the DAILY WORKER faces a particularly difficult period, when funds are particularly low.

NOW! Now the combined efforts and sacrifices of every friend of the DAILY WORKER. Every one!

Concerted effort, every militant acting at one time . . . .!

Every pair of hands to the Sledge Hammer . . . .!

On March 5th we'll greet the Communist International with the greatest possible greeting—a DAILY WORKER safe for the struggle for another year; another year of smashing attacks against capitalism, day after day, blow upon blow.

A dollar from every reader!

Every party branch its quota by March 5!

The Tribune Disappoints Us

We are indebted to the Chicago Tribune for the news that $340,000 has been appropriated by the Communist International for propaganda work in the United States.

We would be much more cheerful because of this unexpected solution of our serious financial difficulties if the contents of the alleged letter published by The Tribune, in which the news is conveyed, did not contain about as complete a contradiction of the party program as could be written.

The "Zinoviev letter," published by the British imperialist press, was a clumsy forgery, but the material furnished the Tribune's Berlin correspondent by some police spy is far below even the low standard of forgeries set by this discredited effusion.

In addition to the abysmal ignorance of the policy of the Communist International and the Workers (Communist) Party of America displayed by almost every sentence, there is one other thing that brands this Tribune story as part of the world-wide business now being done in futile and silly forgeries of Communist correspondence. This is the use of the name of Stoklitsky as one of those who will handle the appropriation. Stoklitsky has not been connected with the American Communist Party for four years nor has he been in the United States for that length of time. Neither is he connected with the Communist International.

Much to our regret, we must swallow our disappointment and continue to get money for the support of the DAILY WORKER and the Workers (Communist) Party of America from the American workers who see in the Communist program the only method by which the working class can conquer capitalism.

Fundamental Issues

The manner in which the rank and file members of the labor movement in Minneapolis and Seattle are rallying to the support of the Communist and repudiating the action of the petty trade union functionaries, is worrying the labor fakers, but is a source of joy to every worker who has faith in and hope for the working class.

It is the rank and file that know the Communists, their program and their work best. What the masses think of us is all-important and in the bitter struggles in the central labor councils as well as in the individual unions where the tools of capitalism are warring on us, it is a matter of record now that we have met this test.

We have shown the fakers that we know how to fight and the rank and file that we know for what to fight.

The fact that the workers who support the Communist program increase in number daily in spite of all reaction can do, is proof that we are, as John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, admitted in an unguarded moment the other day, fighting on fundamental issues.

American Gold Goes to Russia

In view of the current fabrications of oodles of "Russian Soviet gold" being sent to America to start the truly "periodical" uprising, appearing in our well-known and most reliable capitalist periodicals, we think the quotation below, given verbatim from the pen of a capitalist financial writer, shows how the gold is moving. It says:

> Not the least puzzling phase of the current gold movement, which is now approaching the $100,000,000 total since last Dec. 1, is the amount of purchases by Russia.
> Some light was thrown on the proposition, however, by a banker who has long been conversant with Russian activities. About three-quarters of the gold shipped to London and marked for reshipment, he said, was destined for Russia, only a quarter of the total going to India, Holland, Sweden or Germany.
> The bulk of the Russian takings have represented little more than the conversion of profits into terms of gold. The new-born Russian textile industry, he said, was one of the phenomena of 1924.
> Its profits were very real, and with no great need at the present for such credits in New York, the Russian textile operators have called for their transfer in gold to Russia.
> A considerable portion of the gold shipped there recently, he believed, could be attributed to this operation.

In case the humor of the situation does not strike you at first, it should be noted that the above story of American gold being sent to Soviet Russia, is taken out of the same Chicago capitalist newspaper which published the canard about the Bolsheviks sending $340,000 in gold to American Communists.

Japan's Jobless Millions

Dispatches report 3,400,000 unemployed in Japan. This is almost double the number of registered jobless in Great Britain. If the figures are correct, something of world-wide significance is going to occur very soon in that little chain of islands in the Pacific that, with Korea, make up the Japanese empire.

The source of most of the pressure that forced the recognition and trade treaty with Russia is well shown in these figures. We remarked a few days ago that Soviet Russia could well afford to give concessions for oil, iron and coal in the lower half of Saghalin island to the Japanese rulers because of the knowledge that these rulers are going to be replaced by others within a short space of time as history measures it.

3,400,000 unemployed in Japan means that the basis for revolution has been laid.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THERE are 40 dishonest millionaires in this country according to Dr. Russell H. Conwell, president of Temple University, Philadelphia. There are 4,043 of the tribe in the United States and if we are to take Mr. Conwell seriously, they are putting up a good batting average as far as honesty is concerned. It is very doubtful if pickpockets would make as good a showing.

THE MORNING POST of Great Britain publishes a story to the effect that his holiness, the pope, would shortly start on a world tour. We are of the opinion that when the pope leaves Rome it will be on a one way ticket. The pope placed all his eggs in Mussolini's basket and when that monster meets his Waterloo as he is destined to, soon, his spiritual ally in the Vatican will go down with him.

SOVIET RUSSIA is spending $35,000,000 for food relief, according to a news dispatch from Moscow. The government is providing the peasants with sowing material for the next harvest. This must be another diabolical plot on the part of the Communists to 'seduce the peasantry. This, however, is the kind of seduction the peasants like. The czar would have sent his cossacks to shoot them down, instead of complying with their requests for aid.

THE craziest forgery of the many, recently sprung on the reading public is that published last Sunday in the Chicago Tribune. It is alleged to be a secret order from the Communist International to the Workers Party of America, concerning the disbursement of funds for "painting the United States red" and instructions as to how to go about mobilizing the masses for that purpose. The various paragraphs contradict each other and the entire document is written in the best Spolansky or William J. Burns style.

THE forgery business is now flourishing in Europe, particularly since France recognized Soviet Russia. The fake document which the lying Trib. was only too glad to publish was stolen from the files of the Soviet embassy in Berlin according to the Tribune Berlin liar. What it should be doing there, was not even made a subject for speculation. No doubt this yarn is on a par with that about "Bill" Haywood being in Trebizond, Armenia on his way to Leavenworth prison. The capitalist editors are too experienced to believe this kind of bunk but they run it for whatever propaganda they can get out of it. Many people will take it without question at its face value.

IT should not be forgotten that the fake "Zinoviev" letter sprung in the British elections by the tories helped considerably to defeat the labor party. Similar forgeries have recently appeared in France and in Jugo-Slavia. Premier Herriot of France is now suing Liberte, a reactionary newspaper, for publishing false news of Communist activities in France. Not that Herriot wished to protect the Communists. His object was to minimize the strength of their propaganda, he being blamed for the rapid Communist growth during the past seven or eight months.

A. C. BEDFORD, the chairman of the Standard Oil company, declared recently that the churches are losing out in the competition against the movies. As many people go to see the movies in one day as go to all churches in one week. As a rule movies are not up to much, but once in a while, a screen drama succeeds in slipping by with some of its original virginity intact, granting that it ever had any. Most movies are designed for intellectual paupers, but at least topics of the times and various features that usually go to make the main attraction bearable, are worth looking at. So much cannot be said for the church.

LET it be clearly understood that we are discussing the relative merits of church and movie purely from the point of view of interest. The capitalists support the church as a matter of business, but as Bedford points out they are losing propositions. Not one in a thousand now believe the silly rot that fossilized preachers give forth. The preachers do not believe it. Science has knocked religion into a cocked hat long ago. Even a nun who believes in hell nowadays—is considered oldfashioned. The best the capitalists can do with their immense church property is to invest it in movies. They have plenty of material for good actors in their priests and ministers.

[illegible]ONSOCKET TEXTILE WORKERS [illegible]NANIMOUSLY FAVOR THE UNITED FRONT AGAINST THE WAGE CUTS

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Feb. 16.—A mass meeting here Saturday night of cotton mill workers, members of three different unions and unorganized workers, unanimously decided to support the united front movement, advocated by the Workers Party and the T. U. E. L., calling upon their different unions and officials to lay aside their differences in the present crisis and get together to resist the wage cut and speeding up system.

Robert Minor spoke, to show that the workers face the need, either to give up all hope of resistance and to accept the 25 or 30 per cent reduction that is in prospect, with the abolition of all labor unions, or else they must move quickly and boldly to accept the united front policy.

Face Great Possibilities.

"In the possibility immediately ahead," declared Minor, "is to be seen the makings of an industrial organization of textile workers fully as large as the United Mine Workers. In fact, it is that or complete defeat and destruction of unionism in the mills," he said. "For any organization which can grapple with the immediate future of the textile workers will have to be large enough to go into the far southern states and organize the mills there under a single direction.

"I do not ask you to quit any union," said Minor, "on the contrary. You must stick by any union you are in with all your strength and use all your power within it to compel it to join, with all of the other existing textile unions in a single front for this crisis."

McMahon Makes a United Front—With the Bosses.

Minor then read a letter which was blazoned yesterday in the mill owners' newspapers, writtne by William T. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers. In the letter McMahon denounces the united front movement, denounces the Workers Party as a revolutionary organization and attacks James P. Reid and Robert Minor specifically as men who are responsible for the "un-American" united front movement.

McMahon with the full help of the capitalist press, distorts the facts to make it appear that the "united front" is another new union. He twists the words into the alleged name of a mythical union called "the united front textile workers" and attacks Minor and Reid for the alleged dual unionism.

Stating that the united front movement is not a new union, Minor called attention to the reactionary utterances of McMahon in the present crisis which he said indicated certain friendship for the mill owners and a willingness to help for the workers to accept the cut. Minor declared emphatically that the Workers Party is truly a revolutionary party. In fact it is the Communist Party and the only existing revolutionary party.

What is the Matter With Unity?

He asked, "Why does McMahon ob-

HOWAT FORCES WIN ELECTION OVER J. L. LEWIS

Another Defeat for the Notorious Faker

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MULBERRY, Kans., Feb. 16.—Candidates endorsed by Alexander Howat and the anti-Lewis elements won an overwhelming victory over their opponents when Matt Walters, of Scammon, first president of the United Mine Workers in District 14, after 32 years was again elected president as a result of the elections held here last Tuesday.

The Lewis men, Variot and Lavery were snowed under. Another Howat supporter, Harvey was elected international board member.

Special Convention

A special district convention is expected as a result of the election, the miners have already voted for this convention but the Lewis gang in the district office refused to carry out the wishes of the rank and file.

In the December election Howat received a great majority of the vote but the vote was thrown out. What Lewis will do now to Howat's supporters is a subject for speculation.

Tremendous Majority

The vote has not yet been audited, but the returns from the locals show heavy majorities for the Howat forces. Reports from 22 locals give the following returns: Walters, 1,032; Variot, 361; Harvey, 993; Lavery, 470.

Alexander Howat, former district president, whose fight smashed the industrial court law, is now working at Sheridan mine 19. Tho Lewis prevented his name from getting on the ballot as candidate for district president tho he was nominated by 90 per cent of the locals, he is still the leader of the miners in District 14.

SEATTLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS REPRESENTED BY DELEGATE AT THE CENTRAL LABOR COUNCIL

By AARON FISLERMAN
(Special to The Daily Worker)

SEATTLE, Wash. (By Mail.)—Terrorized by a deadly fear that the Communist delegates to the Central Labor Council, who have continuously and unceasingly held up the searchlight on the local labor fakirs and exposed every treacherous scheme of theirs, will thwart and destroy their new attempt to betray organized labor, by turning over the entire organized labor movement, bag and baggage, to the bosses and particularly, the big contractors in the building industry, on the "Industrial Peace" scheme, the reactionary business agents, after a hard struggle, succeeded last Wednesday night, putting the Seattle Labor Council on record, by a vote of 93 to 33, in favor of unseating Communist delegates.

Each Communist delegate will be given a separate trial after charges have been preferred against him by 3 co-delegtes, according to the decision of that body.

Chamber of Commerce Represented.

To accomplish this, it was necessary for the reactionary business agents to induce the seating of 25 delegates from ultra conservative locals which for several years have had their relations severed with the C. L. C. and decided to reaffiliate with the latter on the promise and expectation that the Communist delegates would be ousted. One of the delegates of the Plumbers' Union Local No. 32, Frank W. Cotterill, is a member of the chamber of commerce and vice-president of the "industrial peace and educational association" local branch.

The vote of the Communist delegates does not by any means, represent their full strength, as many of the progressive and sympathizers delegates left the meeting in disgust, before the vote was taken, and many others were not present. Irregularity on the roll call vote taken, was also charged by many of the delegates when the meeting adjourned.

Ever since the general strike, the Communists and the progressive forces have held control and full sway over the reactionaries. However the decision of the A. F. L. executive committee, at the insistence of Samuel Gompers and Bill Short, president of the State Federation of Labor, last

MUSCATINE, IOWA, LOST BIG BATTLE, WORKERS PAY

Must Submit to Horrors of Sweating System

By DAVID COUTTS.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MUSCATINE, Ia., Feb. 16.— This small town of a little over sixteen thousand is suffering from a period of reaction following one of the most bitter struggles in the history of the workers of America.

This reaction has been further aggravated as a result of the world war until now the splendid spirit of solidarity exhibited by almost the entire population of the thriving little town has been utterly destroyed. The iron heel of the absentee stockholder has come to crush the worker and cast a black pall over the entire populace.

The famous "57 varieties" has a large pickle plant at Muscatine. This factory has made a reputation as a brutal sweater of female workers.

RUHR VICTIMS BURIED TODAY; LABOR ANGRY

Capitalists Try Hard to Prevent Revolt

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Today the victims of the Dawes plan, who were murdered in the great disaster at the Stein mine at Dortmund last Wednesday, are to be buried. With the whole German working class muttering ominously at the slaughter of the 135 miners, driven into the pits of the most miserable wage and speeded to death under all conditions to produce "reparations" according to the Dawes plan, the whole bourgeoisie, from the kaiser to the smallest creature of the Ebert government, are joining hands in a concerted effort to forestall any eruption by making great show of "sympathy."

Efforts are concentrated on pushing aside the workers, who wish to bury their dead without interference, and making the funeral a bourgeois procession, with government officials, priests, preachers, labor bureaucrats and mine owners taking the foreground in order to avert the anger of the masses.

The kaiser has sent his condolences thru a message of General Count von Schmetov saying that the kaiser and his consort, called by the message "The emperor and empress," "have been profoundly shaken" by the disaster.

The workers are incensed at this effort to claim the throne under the color of expressing sympathy. But even more hotly resented is the "sympathy" conveyed by the agent of American imperialism, the spokesman for the American slave driver, Dawes, Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton, who called at the foreign office to express his "sympathy" and that of American imperialism, which like the kaiser seeks to turn enmity to sufferance.

Heartrending scenes are still enacted before the building to which the bodies were brought, as only the male relatives are permitted to identify the dead, the women and children being barred until the charred and shattered bodies are encased in coffins.

MINNEAPOLIS FAKERS GO FOR PROGRESSIVES

I. G. Scott Slated for Expulsion

By CARL SKOGLUND.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 16.—A letter has been sent to all local unions in Minneapolis, by the executive committee of the Central Labor Union, asking them to elect delegates that will obey and follow out the policies of the American Federation of Labor.

Every daily capitalist paper in Minneapolis, has carried statements from special representative Smith, who is termed a figure in the "cleaning up of the labor movement of Minneapolis," stating that the labor movement in Minneapolis has been truely discredited by extermists within the local labor movement and that he now expects the co-operation of all those who believe in "American institutions" and the trade union movement.

Interested in Booze

Every delegate from local unions will be expelled unless they are willing tools in the hands of the class collaborationists. At the last meeting of the assembly after the Communists had left the hall a motion was made to ask the state legislature and congress to modify the Volstead act,—allowing manufacture and distribution of light wines and beer. It was rumored by many non-Communist delegates that the reactionaries did not dare to introduce this motion before the house-cleaning had taken place.

Alderman I. G. Scott, who has not helped to put over the policy of expelling Communists from the Trades and Labor Assembly or farmer labor federation, has been subjected to a bitter attack by the reactionaries and stated for expulsion next meeting. He has given a statement to the press that the fight in Minneapolis Central Labor Union is for the purpose of breaking the labor control of the city council, enabling a group of office seekers to secure a "pie card" for themselves.

SWEDISH GENERAL STRIKE LOOMS AGAINST LOCKOUT AS RUSSIAN WORKERS RAISE FUNDS FOR AID

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 16.—The Swedish employers' association threatened today to lock out 130,000 workers. The workers have returned the challenge by a threat to call out 250,000 workers on a general strike.

It is reported by telegram from Oslo, (formerly Christiania) Norway, that a dispatch from Moscow, Soviet Russia, to an Oslo newspaper says that the workers of Soviet Russia are raising great funds to send relief to strikers in Scandinavia, England, Germany, Poland and the Balkans.

FIGHTLESS "PROGRESSIVES" TURNING BLUE AS REACTION GLORIES WITH APPROACH OF CAL'S INAUGURATION

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—An atmosphere of profound pessimism on the part of "progressives," and of confident aggressiveness on the part of outspoken reactionaries and crooks, marks the approach of the Coolidge inauguration ceremony.

For on March 4, the new congress will take office, the administration will attempt to force the new senate to confirm the nomination of Warren to be attorney general, and the two political parties financed by special privilege will unite their organizations to rivet the Garret-Wadsworth "shackles" amendment upon the federal constitution.

It Means Counter-Revolutionary.

Of this "shackles" amendment, the legislative committee of the American Federation of Labor says, in a special plea to the house:

"It is revolutionary. If adopted, 13 states could defeat any future amendment. In these days when great interests command powerful engines of propaganda, it is not necessary for us to tell you how easy it would be, under Mr. Garrett's proposal, to defeat an amendment drawn in the interests of the people. Thirty-five states might have ratified such an amendment with substantial unani

RESCUERS FIND COLLINS' DEAD BODY IN CAVE

Discovery of Collins Made at 2:45

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 16.—Floyd Collins was officially announced located in his Sand Cave prison at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon, and was declared dead by those who gave his body a preliminary examination.

Gen. H. H. Denhardt, M. E. Posey, Dr. William Funkhouser, and H. T. Carmichael made the announcement of the discovery of Collins' body. At 2:50 no doctor had entered the shaft, but the official medical commission, including Major E. C. Francis of Bowling Green, Major M. M. Moss and Dr. William Hazlett of Chicago, were waiting to be lowered to Collins' body.

Minneapolis Carpentets Will Act on Ouster of Chicago Militants

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 16. — Carpenters Union, No. 7, had a very well attended meeting Feb. 13th. When many matters of importance were discussed, a resolution had been received from the Detroit Carpenters' Union No. 2140, and Chicago No. 181, asking that the union go on record demanding a fair trial for expelled members of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. The secretary was instructed to make an investigation and report next meeting when the local union will take action.

In the regular meeting of the Painters Union No. 186 held Tuesday, Feb. 10th, Dan W. Stevens was re-elected as delegate to the Trades and Labor Assembly and his credentials were presented to last Wednesday's meeting of the central body, when President O. T. Anderson used his old parrot-phrase, "out of order."

HOOVER WORKS FOR EXPORTERS, PEEK CHARGES

Asks Congress Probe Betrayal of Farmers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 16.—Herbert Hoover dominates the U. S. department of agriculture in the interests, not of the farmers, but the large exporters, George N. Peek of Moline, told the house agricultural council. he demanded an immediate investigation of Hoover's activity among the farmers. It was charged that Hoover influenced Coolidge's policy on farm relief, and worked in the interests of the big exporters and against the farmers.

Farmers Against Him.

Peek insisted that Hoover had dictated the report in part of the agricultural commission which recently reported to President Coolidge on farmer relief legislation. He said the farmers of the country do not support the policy concerning agriculture which has been advanced by Secretary Hoover.

"The farmers feel they will gain much by removal of the Hoover influence over the department of agriculture," said Peek. "They do not favor industrialization of the country at their expense."

Peek alluded to the long conflict between Secretary Wallace and Hoover over a national policy in aid of agriculture.

Aids Exporters, Not Farmers.

"Hoover has been the personal adviser of the president on agriculture matters since 1922," said Peek. "Recommendations made by the agriculture committee seem to me to be in the interest of the exporters and not of the farmers. I believe these represent the Hoover influence as they do his policy.

Demands Investigation.

"We want an investigation of his activities concerning agriculture matters. We know of his friendship for Julius Barnes, the grain exporter, head of the United States grain corporation during the war. Hoover and Barnes opposed the McNary-Haugen bill which was indorsed by farmer organizations. Barnes led the opposition as president of the United States chamber of commerce, not as a grain exporter.

Big Business Backs Him.

"We want an investigation of Hoover to ascertain what may be his interest in the exporters and to what extent he is directing the affairs of the agriculture department. We are informed he is so influential that some of the most experienced and ablest experts there are to lose their positions because of opposition to his views. Hoover has maintained that the sphere of the activity of the department of agriculture ceases and that of the department of commerce begins when the farm products leave the land and are started for the markets. We do not think this doctrine sound."

UTICA COTTON MILLS TIED UP FOR FIRST TIME

Strikers Refuse to Accept Wage Cuts

(Special to The Daily Worker)

UTICA, New York, Feb. 16.—The two mills of the Utica Steam and Mohawk Cotton Valley company are completely tied up by a strike. The immediate cause of the strike is an attempt by the employers to enforce a ten per cent wage cut.

The employes of the two textile mills who are on strike, resisting the 10 per cent reduction in wages which was to be forced on them, have succeeded in accomplishing a feat which has apparently been an impossibility theretofore. The two mills are completely tied up.

These workers are composed of the loom fixers, ring spinners, carders and weavers.

Strike Endorsed

The strike was wholeheartedly and enthusiastically endorsed by the Utica Trades Assembly at its regular meeting last Tuesday evening, and the support of the other trade unions in the city, represented in the central body, was pledged to the strikers.

E. H. Dunnigan of the United States department of labor appeared in the role of mediator and suggested that the workers accept a five per cent decrease in wages. This they indignantly refused.

Several of the strikers interviewed, showed envelopes with amounts marked on them ranging from $11.86 to a little over $21.00. Two of which were noticed in particular because the persons owning them were the heads of families, with children to care for, and inscribed with the amounts $16.96 and $18.45 respectively. These, the reporter was informed, were the salaries drawn by the two men after the 10 per cent reduction had been deducted.

Comparison of Wages

In reply to questions regarding the comparison between wages received in the Utica mills affected by the walk-out as some of the New England mills, it was learned that while the weavers in the Utica Steam & Mohawk Valley Cotton Mills receive an average between $21.00 and $28.00 per week, the weavers in the New England mills under consideration were averaging between $25.00 and $31.00. The oilers and cleaners in Utica—which is combined in one job here—receive $20.50 per week, while in New England the oilers receive $21.30 per week for which they care for 270 machines, and the cleaners, caring for 50 machines, get $14.50 per week. The cleaning and oiling is two distinct jobs in New England mills while in Utica the two are combined into one job and the salary is lower. In Utica the loom fixers receive $32.68 and in New England $36.10.

Low Wages

Roving men tending 53 frames receive $18.00 in Utica and in New England they receive $21.30 and have only 48 frames to tend. Carder fixers caring for 40 frames get $24.75 in Utica, and on 40 frames in New England $27.35 is paid. Doffers in Utica are paid $1.50 per frame and in the New England mills $2.93 per frame. It was

FARMER-LABOR CLUB OPPOSES C. P. P. A. MEET

Backs United Front of the Workers Party

(Special to The Daily Worker)

FREDERICK, S. Dakota, Feb. 16.—The poor farmers of the country are not backward in understanding the danger that presents itself in the form of the so-called conference for progressive political action, and in the resolution given below, the Savo farmer-labor club shows to what degree of understanding the working farmers have attained when Communism in the form of the program of the Workers Party penetrates the agricultural districts. The resolution is as follows:

Resolution of the C. P. P. A.

Whereas, the conference for progressive political action (C. P. P. A.) will hold a conference in Chicago on February 25, 1925, and

Whereas, the C. P. P. A. is a part of the LaFollette movement which is not a labor movement, but a combination of so-called liberal capitalist politicians, bankrupt socialists, and reactionary union officials, and includes prominent open shoppers, and

Whereas, the purpose of the C. P. P. A. is not to organize the workers and poor farmers for active political struggle against their exploiters, but on the contrary, to subject the exploited masses to the leadership of small capitalists and professional politicians, and

Whereas, the most burning need of the working masses at present is to unify all forces of labor for a real struggle against wage cuts, against child labor, against the jailing and persecution of working class militants, and for the defense of the foreign born worker, and

Whereas, the policies of the C. P. P. A. can have no other effect than to raise illusions in the minds of the workers, thereby distracting the attention of labor from its real needs and weakening its fighting power, and

Whereas, the Workers (Communist) Party of America, the Trade Union Educational League and other labor bodies are carrying on an agitation for a united front of labor and the poor farmers for an organized political struggle against the offensive of our enemies, the capitalists and their government.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That we "The Farmer-Labor Club" of Savo, are opposed to the C. P. P. A. and will carry on a struggle against the attempt of their organization to impose upon us their policies of class collaboration on the political field which can only serve the interests of the bosses,

That we refuse to participate in any of the conferences of the C. P. P. A. and call upon every labor organization to do likewise,

That we endorse the united front campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party and pledge our support in the struggle against wage cuts, against child labor exploitation, against the criminal syndicalist laws, and for every other measure that will strengthen the forces of labor against the capitalists.

And Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to city central and state labor bodies, district councils, to the international officials, and to the DAILY WORKER.

Adopted by the Savo Farmer-Labor Club, of Savo, South Dakota, at their regular meeting, February 1, 1925.

A. S. HICKARI, Secretary.

ILLINOIS PLUTE WHO HELD CAL'S MONEYBAGS DIES

PALM BEACH, Fla., 16.—The body of Fred W. Upham, who for twenty years was prominently connected with the financing of the republican party, will leave here tomorrow night for internment in Chicago, Upham's home.

Until last June Upham was treasurer of the republican party, and also a director of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association when he died, and in 1908 and 1909, was president of that organization.

Upham's business partner, F. S. Peabody, was as influential in the democratic party as was Upham with the republicans.

The two men founded the Consumers Coal and Ice company, and their business interests in Chicago extended to candy, ice cream, coal, wood and beverages. Peabody was at one time treasurer of the democratic national committee.

The two partners owned large anthracite coal mines in southern Illinois.

BOSSES' DELEGATE IN LABOR COUNCIL

year, to discipline the Seattle Labor Council, has furnished the reactionaries a weapon and they use it to threaten and intimidate delegates individually with expulsion from their local unions and from the C. L. C. as well as the revocation of the charter of that body.

And it was such threats and intimidations that caused many delegates to vote in favor of the concurrence in the building trades resolution. Reactionary business agent after business agent took the floor in succession and their arguments, threats and intimidations were, that the presence of the Communists as delegates is a violation of the charter because the Workers (Communist) Party is a dual organization and the Communists hostile and therefore the charter of the Central Labor Council will be revoked.

Bosses Saw Reds Everywhere.

For a long time the reactionary labor fakers were looking for an opportunity to square themselves in the eyes of the bosses who ever since the general strike, looked down upon them with contempt and suspicion and distrust and quite often reproached them as reds and altho several attempts have been made and few clashes had, yet every attempt came to naught. However, Wednesday, the week previous, when Communist delegates moved that Norman H. Tallentire, district organizer of the Workers Party, be given the floor on behalf of the Michigan defendants, Wm. Johnston, an International reactionary flunkey organiser of the carpenters, launched an attack upon Tallentire on the grounds that he has at one time been expelled from the Carpenters' Union.

Slammed the Fakers.

He was followed by other reactionaries, who urged that the floor be not granted to Tallentire. In turn the Communist delegates led by Paul Mohr, Havel, Jones and others landed heavily on the reactionaries, the result being a vote of 45 to 36 in favor of granting the floor.

When the district organizer, Tallentire, took the floor, about a dozen business agents and labor fakers left the meeting with the intention of disrupting the meeting by causing a stampede. However, all others remained to listen to Comrade Tallentire.

Tallentire briefly replied to Johnson (after he had asked him to remain) that his expulsion was ordered by Hutcheson without a trial and asked the council to afford him an opportunity at some future time to explain as he was now before the council on another mission. In the meantime Johnson took to his heels, while Tallentire spoke on behalf of the Michigan defendants.

The Yellows as Usual.

After Tallentire was thru with his address and received a splendid ovation at the close of his speech, one of the Communist delegates moved that the Michigan defense be given the endorsement of the council. Some of the remaining reactionaries opposed it. The vice president, David Levine, who acted as chairman, resorted to every trick in order to hold up the action of the council, which would have been favorable, for next meeting. The Communist delegates in turn urged immediate action, in the meantime the hour of adjournment had arrived and the meeting adjourned.

The resolution originated in the Building Trades Council on Friday night following the defeat of the reactionary element in the C. L. C. It has been ascertained that it was passed at the request, urge and insistence of "Billy" Short the president of the State Federation of Labor, who for many months has been appearing before every chamber of commerce body in the state, expounding and begging for the adoption of the "industrial peace" plan.

Short the Sewerpipe.

For many months Short has also carried on a vicious tirade and malicious propaganda against the Communists, progressives and radicals, by pouring and spilling his slime of abuse and hatred all over his weekly sheet which he started in the hope that it would eventually succeed the Union Record which at that time was still under the control of the Seattle Labor Council.

Once the resolution passed by the Building Trades Council it was sent for endorsement to the Central Labor Council on the following Wednesday, while at the same time the reactionary machine was working overtime to line up and pack the council with 25 new delegates of the most conservative locals which have stayed away for years from that body.

The Renegade Ballinger.

When the resolution of the Building Trades Council was read, one of the Communist delegates moved that it be tabled. The president, Jepsen, who is a business agent of the Milk Drivers and calls himself a progressive, but by his unfair tactics proved to be a meekly submissive orderly of the reactionaries, ignored the delegate and gave the floor to Jack Ballinger, business agent of the Steamfitters, a former I. W. W. who never loses an opportunity to attack the latter, moved that the council concur in the resolution. At the same time the Communists and sympathetic delegates rose almost in a body and demanded to know why the chair ignored the first delegate. The president, rather weak and confused at the overwhelming demand, put it as an amendment to file.

Jepsen Saw the Light.

At this junction, Johnson, organizer of the Carpenters' International raised a point of order that it was no amendment, and the president regained somewhat his faculties and declared it out of order.

Ballinger having now obtained the floor, reminded the delegates of the promise made to the A. F. L., threatened and intimidated the council with losing the most sacred thing—the charter; declared there is not such a thing as free speech, that "so called free speech is bunk." He closed his speech by urging the delegates to "stick" to their promise or lose the charter.

The hour for reporting of delegates having arrived, the matter was held over until after the reports.

When the time for discussion arrived, Paul K. Mohr moved that it be referred to a committee of three. Another delegate moved that it be laid over to new business and it was carried.

Endorsed Michigan Defense.

In the meantime a resolution was read from the Metal Trades endorsing the Michigan defense and urging the council and all labor bodies to do likewise. This resolution, according to the rule of the council was automatically referred to the resolution committee.

When the matter came up again for discussion Paul K. Mohr, a delegate from the Bakers' Union, who perhaps more than any other unionist has helped build up the local organized labor movement from its inception, obtained the floor and challenged any one to deny him the right of opinion. The veteran labor leader in a most eloquent speech reminded the council of his years of service to the cause of labor and demanded that the matter be referred to a commitee as he was an avowed Communist. He received a tremendous ovation even from the opponents.

The Socialist Shopkeeper.

The other Communist delegates tried hard to obtain the floor, but the steam roller was working overtime.

David Levine, a former socialist and petty shopkeeper, vice president of the council, said among other vile misstatements, that the Communists have a particular mania for capturing and controlling organizations.

James McMonies, another ex-socialist, went wild in citing what the Communists have done in the Paris Commune in 1871, blaming them for massacre of the communards. Apparently he learned that from the bosses that he now so loyally serves.

A Jackass Brays.

Phil Pearl, ex-socialist, ex-nonpartisan, ex-farmer-labor and ex-everything, but still a business agent of the "basic" industry to which "civilization owes its existence"—the barbers, as he so repeatedly reports to the council, "I say to the Communists that you have embarked on a noble mission and should not want to have anything to do with the reactionaries. The Communists," he thundered, "are dedicated to the dictatorship of the proletariat, but Communism is now a hybrid movement; its more truly called Leninism. We are in power and you Communists in minority," he shouted, "and we are going to do to you what you are doing in Russia to revolutionaries (?)—Jail you, hang you. But I says brothers do it legally. I believe in democracy" he concluded and turning around to the writer, said: "I am sorry, but the truth is the A. F. of L. is disintegrating" and again obtaining the floor, he urged leniency and legal means.

In the meantime two sympathetic delegates who out of loyalty to the council urged against the concurrence of the resolution and showed very convincingly the harm it will create by such action. McGuern, business agent of the Bakers, a progressive, was very emphatic in urging the council to vote down the motion.

Needs a Clean Shave.

Tom Egan, delegate from the Barbers' and a member of the chamber of commerce, said that he does not believe you can serve two masters and urged the expulsion of the Communists.

William Bailey, socialist and business agent of the Patternmakers raved himself into hysterics and urged the expulsion of the Communist delegates. Other reactionary business agents and delegates also spoke in favor of the resolution.

Since then, several locals and some of the largest went on record against the action of the Central Labor Council and urging that it rescind its action.

The Bakers' Local Union, the Boilermakers, the Machinists, the Maintenance of Way have severely reprimanded the council for adopting such disruptive tactics by adopting such action. Others are contemplating to follow suit.

The Workers Party is not at all worried over it, since many workers not only have declared their sympathies with the party in the fight but actually joined it.

German Report Held Up

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The German military control commission's report to the ambassadors' council was to have been delivered today, but it is not finished, the foreign office announced. It will be delivered Wednesday.

WORK OF AIDING IRISH FAMINE VICTIMS STARTS

The first Irish workers' organization in the United States to affiliate with the Irish Workers' and Peasants' Relief Committee which is part of the International Workers' Aid, is the Irish Workers' Republican Club of Chicago.

The secretary of the club has communicated with the Irish famine relief committee stating that at a meeting held by his organization last Friday, at Aldine Hall, 909 Center street, it was unanimously voted to co-operate with the Irish relief committee in raising funds and in any other effort to bring succor to the famine sufferers.

Club Meets on Fridays.

Many members of the Irish Workers' Republican Club are members of trade unions and have been active in the Irish movement for political separation from Britain for a number of years. The next meeting of the club will be held next Friday at the same address. The public is invited.

The Irish Workers' and Peasants' Famine Relief Committee is taking steps to initiate a nation-wide drive for funds to aid the famine sufferers. Plans will be announced as soon as the necessary arrangements are made by the committee. Those who would like to render assistance should send their names to Thomas J. O'Flaherty, secretary of the committee, at 166 West Washington street, room 307, Chicago, Illinois.

"Progressives" Blue, Reaction Glories As March 4th Approaches

mity. Those 35 states might represent four-fifths of the population of the nation, but nevertheless all hope of securing the desired reform would be destroyed the instant the 13th state interposed its veto.

"Much has been said about the referendum feature. It merely declares that if a legislature ratifies, the action of the legislature may be referred to the people. But if the legislature refuses to ratify, the people would have no opportunity to express their will."

Accordingly, and because this scheme for perpetual defeat of constitutional changes has had no serious chance of debate in congress, the A. F. of L. asks for delay.

Fear It Breeds Revolution.

"Progressives" in congress say the measure is not so much revolutionary as it is a breeder of revolution. If the constitution is not to be subject to improvement, a restless and discontented people will some day deal with it in this country as they have dealt with "perpetual" institutions everywhere else. But the old guard led by Longworth and Madden and Gillett, and the Bourbons led by Garrett and Blanton, propose to crush out industrial radicalism and political progressivism for a hundred years by applying handcuffs to the law.

As a further safeguard to special vested privilege, the G. O. P. of the senate will caucus on Feb. 23, on the question of abolishing the seniority rights of LaFollette, Norris, Frazier, Ladd, Brookhart, and possibly one or two others. Hiram Johnson and Borah will protest, from outside the caucus room. The new senate will fight the thing out, and its vote will determine what part this progressive group will play in creating a new national party.

Lapse Into Irresponsibility.

Confirmation of Woodlock to be a member of the interstate commerce commission, and of Humphrey as a member of the federal trade commission, is now anticipated. Most of the democrats and some even of the "progressives" have lapsed into the irresponsible mood of saying "Let Coolidge go the limit; that's what the people voted for; let them get their bellyful for once. We warned them with the cases of Fall and Daugherty, and they came back hungry for more of the same. Well, Coolidge is giving them another Daugherty, and Woodlock and Humphrey ought to be able to break the record."

Class in Marxian Economics Votes to Admit New Pupils

The class in elementary Marxian economics which meets every Wednesday at 2613 Hirsch boulevard, has voted to allow further applicants to take the course, provided they are willing to catch up to the class.

The assignment for Wednesday evening is Chapter 9, of the People's Marx. Questions will be printed in the paper tomorrow.

The class will be open to new applicants for two weeks beginning next Wednesday. Apply at either the district office, 166 West Washington St., or at the class.

He'll Make Another Slick Judge.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The senate judiciary committee today approved the nomination of Thomas W. Slick as United States judge for the district of Indiana. This action assures confirmation of the appointment by the senate.

Reckoning Day Coming When Workers and Poor Farmers Learn Truth

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

"TODAY, THE CONCLUSION MAY BE DRAWN THAT THE GENERAL FINANCIAL OUTLOOK IS MORE FAVORABLE THAN AT ANY TIME IN THE PAST."

This is the concluding sentence in the leading editorial of "The Soviet Union Review," Saturday, Jan. 31. The "Review" is the publication of the Information Department of the Trade Delegation, in London, of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

It would be much easier and cheaper for the American kept press to get the truth about conditions within the Workers' Republics, from the Soviet Delegation in London, than to send its correspondents snooping around emigre circles in Riga, Copenhagen, Helsingfors, and other centers of counter-revolution. Which it is not at all anxious to do. Only added proof that it does not want the facts about Soviet Rule.

It would certainly be a bitter pill for the American capitalist sheets to be compelled to report that the outlook in Soviet Russia is better today than at any time since the Bolshevik Revolution swept the last remnants of capitalism from power on Nov. 7, 1917.

• • • •

Here are some of the facts:

The gross value of industrial production during December, 1924, amounted to 164 million roubles, an increase of 44 per cent on the figure for December, 1923, and of 7 per cent on November, 1924.

In spite of the unfavorable weather conditions, it was considered that the condition of the winter-sown crops was not dangerous.

Up to the end of the year, the flax harvest had given a yield of 4.3 million poods of flax as against 3.3 million poods anticipated in the program.

The value at pre-war prices of the foreign trade turnover during December amounted to 44.8 million roubles, an increase of 13.3 per cent on the November total. The total excess of exports amounted to 2.9 million roubles.

The value of currency in circulation had increased by Jan. 1, 1925, to 742.7 million roubles.

• • • •

These are not encouraging facts for capitalism. They should be inspiring truths for workers everywhere.

But this is not all.

Every capitalist nation on the face of the earth is having trouble with its budget. The masses everywhere are groaning under the increasing, tax burden.

The kept press has had much to say about the collection of taxes in Soviet Russia; thus trying to satisfy working class tax bearers with their burdens in capitalist lands. They have attacked the Soviet Budget estimates for the financial year, October, 1924, to September, 1925, as ratified by the Council of People's Commissaries as impossible of realization. Yet what has been the result?

The receipts have not been lower but much higher than the estimates. This was the showing at the end of the first quarter. Thus an upward, not a downward revision of the budget was made possible, from 2,091 to 2,278 million roubles, due solely to the growth of ordinary revenue, especially revenue from taxation. THIS INCREASE IS DIRECT EVIDENCE OF THE GROWING PROSPERITY OF THE COUNTRY.

This growing revenue has not resulted from higher taxation. In fact, there has been a reduction of five million roubles in the single agricultural tax, chiefly benefitting the poorer peasantry.

Here is another fact. The increased trade turnover allows of the expectation of an increase of 40 million roubles from railway transport receipts. FOR THE FIRST TIME THERE WILL BE NO DEFICIT IN THE WORKING OF THE STATE RAILWAY SYSTEM.

The budget makers and the pork barrel statesmen at Washington would be tremendously shocked to study the manner in which the Russian workers and peasants dispose of their surplus income. Here is the way they do it:

SIXTY-FIVE MILLION ROUBLES FOR NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL REQUIREMENTS.

SEVENTY MILLION ROUBLES ADDED TO THE RESOURCES AVAILABLE FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRY.

TWENTY MILLIONS OF THE ABOVE 70 MILLIONS GOES FOR WORKERS' HOUSING CONSTRUCTION.

These items are always the first to suffer when a capitalist state trims its budget; the last to get any attention when there is a little money on hand.

• • • •

All these facts clearly show why the capitalist press, of this and other countries, does not care to publish them. But the Communist press will carry them to the workers and poor farmers, who will gradually become fully acquainted with them. That will help hasten the day of reckoning—for capitalism. And it will be some day of reckoning.

ARABS CALL GENERAL STRIKE TO GREET LORD BALFOUR AT JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, Feb. 16—The Arab executive has proclaimed a general strike for April 1, when Lord Balfour is to open the Hebrew university at Jerusalem, and has urged all Arabs to prepare measures to make the strike effective.

A huge amphitheatre is being prepared behind the university buildings overlooking the valley of the Jordan. The place will be capable of seating the 2,000 guests who are expected at the ceremony of the university opening.

The Arabs, who are being robbed of their territory by Great Britain in order that a satrapy may be set up, pretending to be a Hebrew nation, but in reality a British dominion, have chosen the general strike as a means of demonstrative protest.

One Million Units of Diphtheria Serum Brought to Nome

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 16.—Nearly a million more units of diptheria antitoxin serum are in Nome today as the result of the successful completion late yesterday of a remarkable thousand mile mushing trip throgh ice and snow from Fairbanks.

Ed. Rohn was the heroic musher who ran the last relay into Nome. He arrived in a raging blizzard after nearly losing his team and himself when the ice opened in Norton Sound on which Nome is located.

Two of his dogs were badly injured.

Senate Ratifies Kellogg Appointment

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 16.—The senate late today confirmed the appointment of Ambassador Kellogg as secertary of state. The senate had previously professed opposition to Kellogg's appointment by Coolidge on the grounds that he had signed a financial treaty with the allies which should have been ratified by the senate.

STRIKING KNIT GOODS WORKERS STICKING TIGHT

Demand Decent Conditions and More Pay

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 16.—Knit goods workers on the Wildman, Tompkins, Springneedle and other circular machines here have gone out on strike demanding the recognition of the union, 44-hour week and $55 minimum wage.

The entire working force on these machines are enthusiastic in their fight and the young element is lending spirit and determination to the strike.

Job Conditions Bad.

The present working conditions are considered unendurable, the workers being compelled to labor 60 hours a week and over, the night shifts being 12 hours with no time for lunch and forced to attend seven and eight machines which leaves them without even a breathing spell for necessary moments of leave.

The present wages are $30 which the union cannot tolerate any longer. The demands include that four instead of seven and eight machines shall be the limit for each worker.

Arrest Pickets.

Nine pickets were arrested yesterday near the Crystal mills, 60 Broadway, Brooklyn, but the union is taking steps to increase its activities instead of slacking up on account of the police interference.

The strike is conducted by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the United Textile Workers. Local 55 is affiliated with both the I. L. G. W. U. and is also paying per capita dues to the Textile Union, as there are workers in both organizations. Headquarters are maintained at 105 Montrose Ave., Brooklyn.

Expelled I. L. G. W. U. Members Offer Aid In Philly Strike

The influence of the Trade Union Educational League, in spite of the wholesale expulsions in the I. L. G. W. U., is growing every day. The members realize that for the administration to talk about putting on an organizational drive while at the same time keeping out of the organization men and women who were the life and spirit of the organization is impossible.

The expelled militants simply refuse to stay expelled. Their interest in the developing of the union into an organ for the class struggle is just as keen outside as it was inside. The following letter shows a militant determination that is bound to be victorious:

"Abe Goldin, Secy., Joint Board Cloak Makers' Union, I. L. G. W. U.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"In view of the stoppage declared by the Cloak Makers' Joint Board of Philadelphia to organize the non-union shops and improve the conditions in the cloak makers trade.

"We, the expelled members of the Cloak Makers' Union are addressing this communication to the Cloak Makers' Joint Board of Philadelphia, which we helped to establish and develop.

"In the past, strikes and stoppages conducted by the J. B. of the Cloak Makers' Union, we who are now expelled, always took an active, responsible and leading part in all efforts to improve the working conditions, wages and to strengthen the union in our trade.

"Our record in those activities will demonstrate our regard for the welfare of the union and the improvement of the working conditions in the trade. This record is a record of self-sacrifice and militant action that always won victories for the union.

"The Cloak Makers' Union which we look upon as our union is again facing a stoppage with the bosses, it is again facing conditions which must be combatted with all the forces and energy that the workers in the union can bring together.

"During this period of struggle with the bosses, we, the expelled members of the Cloak Makers' Union appeal to you in the interest of our union to immediately reinstate us as regular members of the organization so that we can join you on your picket lines and important committees and together fight the battles to strengthen our union.

"Fraternally Yours, Expelled members of the Cloak Makers' Union."

New York Metal Workers' Section Meets Saturday

The T. U. E. L. section of the metal workers want a drive for organization in that trade and will have a meeting February 21, at 4 p. m. at the Hungarian Home, 350 East 81st St., New York City.

It is the plan to discuss at the gathering the initiation of an organizational drive and it is the intention to thrash the matter out fully so as to make a flying start. Every metal worker in the city and vicinity is invited to be on hand.

SEAMEN'S UNION DESERTS ITS MEN SERVING LONG PRISON TERMS FOR ACTIVITIES DURING 1921 STRIKE

The Prison Comfort Club conducted by Cora Myers performs the little job of writing to class war prisoners asking them for their stories and incidentally for the date of their birthday.

Then on their birthdays these prisoners receive a box containing goodies, sometimes books and a card. During holiday seasons Miss Myers send out an appeal to workers to send little gifts to class war prisoners. The letters always create an interesting story about the history of the individual class war prisoners.

Taken in Class War Battle.

Two letters were received recently by the Prison Comfort Club from the state prison of Thomaston, Me. They were sent to the DAILY WORKER and we publish one in part and a quotation from the other, because they relate the case of five union men, members of the International Seamen's Union. These workers have been thrown into jail while defending their union during the Seamen's strike in 1921. They tell the following story:

"The strike in which we were involved occurred in Portland, Me., in 1921. In that strike we boarded a schooner manned by strikebreakers lying at one of the wharves in Portland. Unfortunately for us, one of them was killed and seven seamen were sent to state prison, sentenced from three to eleven years. I am doing six years.

Union Forgets Them.

"In the three and a half years we've been locked up, we've had practically no help from our union. In the last two years they have not even written us a line or sent us anything, not even our paper, the Seamen's Journal. This is another case of A. F. of L. moral support for those doing time and a Rolls-Royce for the officials for their daily rides on Riverside Drive.

"I have been locked up so long that I hardly know when my birthday occurs. It used to come round on the 11th of May—now I feel like changing it to an earlier date.

"With best wishes,

"Niels Rundquist."

I. W. W. Pleads For Them.

Another letter from a class war prisoner, a member of the I. W. W. refers to these seamen in the following little description:

"There are five lads here doing long terms for manslaughter growing out of the 1921 Seamen's strike. They are members of the International Seamen's Union, but seem to be getting no support or encouragement from their union. They are fine fellows and I think they should be entitled to prison comfort. Their names are: Peter Clausen, Niels Rundquist, Tom Hardy, Peter Dirks and Dan Fallon."

Tells T. U. E. L. of School Book Graft

Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Feb. 9. 1925.

Dear Comrade:

I have a new neighbor who comes from Missouri. He has three children of school age and one baby. They brought with them about $30 worth of school books thinking that in America we have the same schooling everywhere. But, lo and behold, they cannot be used here in Florida. So this poor devil, a former farmer who lost everything in Missouri and who had just enough money to bring his family here, and who is now working for $3.00 a day, has to spend about the same sum to get other school books in order to satisfy the greed of the book trust. He sold his Missouri school books for a song, which undoubtedly will be sold to another sucker in Missouri. And so the skin game goes on.

So you see that the system not only miseducates our children, but each district has to have different books so that the book trust can increase its profits and the school boards their necessary graft. One more slave has been awakened.

Fraternally yours,

A Has-Been Farmer.

Buffalo League Does Good Work; and That's No Buffalo, Either

The following items just received from Comrade Sullivan, Workers Party organizer at Buffalo, N. Y., shows that the Buffalo district is putting itself on the map again in the industrial work.

He advises that an anti-syndicalist resolution, which condemns the state syndicalist laws in general and is in behalf of the Michigan Communist cases in particular, was passed by the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' Local Union of Buffalo.

A conference to prepare for a Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting will be held right away.

The Utica, N. Y. Trades Assembly passed a resolution condemning the deportation of Schedel, whom you will remember, was deported from the United States, and when he learned of the dreadful conditions his family were having to contend with behind him in America, took a chance and returned to this country to do what he could to help them. He had not been home a day until the authorities re-arrested him and ordered him deported again.

Sometime in March, the local general group of the T. U. E. L. in Buffalo will give an entertainment for the benefit of the T. U. E. L., the returns from which will assist materially in financing the work of the T. U. E. L. both nationally and locally.

The Brewery Workers' locals and the Street Car Men of Utica, N. Y., have pledged their support to the textile strikers in their fight against wage cuts.

United Front for Textile Workers Stirs New England

In every city and town of the New England textile region where the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League have adherents or sympathizers a militant movement is arising in response to the call put out by these organizations to textile workers to force the little and impotent craft unions to join their forces in a great wide-spread united front against the wage cuts, to include also the great mass of unorganized workers.

News of the textile strikes and the rising united front movement is given in the news columns of the DAILY WORKER every day. That the T. U. E. L. proposal of the united front of all unions against all bosses is rousing the rank and file of these unions and agitating the masses of unorganized workers, is most evident from the fact that the labor fakers are cooperating with the mill owners and the capitalist newspapers to oppose the united front. Meanwhile sporadic strikes take place everywhere.

The DAILY WORKER correspondent reports that a letter of McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers' Union of the A. F. of L., attacking the Workers Party and the T. U. E. L. was given to and used by the mill owners' newspapers.

Laundry Bosses Back Down After Assault Stirs Striking Workers

BROOKLYN, Feb. 16.—With the arrest of William Dorfman, president of the laundry bosses association, who lead the attack on William Berman, president of the Laundry Chauffeurs and Drivers Union 810, the bosses of the laundries are weakening and the Hinsdale and several other laundries have signed up with the union.

Berman is still in Kings county hospital and Dorfman is out on $5,000 bail. While the bosses are using every means to break the strike the workers have picked up new determination since the murderous assault on Berman and the rank and file are determined that nothing shall stop them now in the fight for the recognition of the union and renewal of contract.

Program of the T. U. E. L.

At all times and in all its campaigns and publications, the league shall emphasize the revolutionary aims of the left wing. It shall carry on a ceaseless warfare against the bourgeois ideology and organizations. It shall seek to destroy the workers' faith in the capitalist system and to turn their eyes towards the establishment of a Communist society thru the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Wages, Hours and Working Conditions.

The league shall carry on an intensive campaign for the shortening of the labor hours, increasing of wages improving of working conditions, and it shall stimulate the workers, both organized and unorganized to conduct an effective struggle against exploitation. The league must raise the slogan, "No reduction in wages and no lengthening of the working day!"

Organize the Unorganized.

"Organize the unorganized" is not a temporary slogan that may be cast aside when industrial depression sets in. It must be continued constantly in good times and bad, until the masses are organized. The campaigns should take the following general forms: (1) To stimulate the A. F. of L. unions to take in the unorganized; (2) To build the present independent mass unions; (3) To support the formation of new unions wherever practical, by utilizing the Workers Party shop nuclei, local branches of the league, shop committees, and such other connections as can be made use of. Not one of these methods shall be used to the exclusion of the others. All must be employed as expediency dictates. Every means must be given in the organization of the agricultural laborers.

Independent Political Action.

The political and economic struggle of the working class is inseparable The league recognizes the futility of carrying on the trade union work merely for itself. The chief aim of all its efforts shall be the building of the revolutionary mass political organization of the working class, the Workers Party. To this end, all the struggles of the workers shall be directed into political channels, and all the campaigns of the league for the united front, amalgamation, etc., etc., shall be utilized to strengthen the membership and leadership of the Workers Party.

Unemployment.

The league shall take an active part in the work of organizing the unemployed into national and local councils, and other necessary formations Wherever possible, these bodies shall work in close co-operation with the trade unions. The league shall stir up the unions everywhere to interest themselves in the question of unemployment. These councils shall demand that the employers and the government shall provide work and funds amounting to full maintenance of the workers. They shall also demand that the unions themselves share their Amalgamation.

The amalgamation campaign is not a temporary one. It is always a live slogan. The campaign for amalgamation must be continued relentlessly until the various craft unions are consolidated into industrial unions.

The United Front.

The T. U. E. L. shall pursue the policy of the united front. It shall seek to unite all the workers for revolutionary action along class lines. The united front shall not be conceived as an aim in itself, but as a means to win the masses away from the reactionary petty-bourgeois leaders and to unite them upon the basis of a revolutionary program of action.

Exposure of Bureaucracy.

The league shall make a special point of exposing the corruption of the trade union leaders.

Recognition of Soviet Russia.

To carry on a campaign for full commercial and diplomatic recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States.

Negro Workers.

The league shall demand that the Negroes be given the same social, political, and industrial rights as whites.

Injunctions.

The league shall lead the fight against the injunction by arousing the workers and trade union movement in general to mass violation of the injunction.

Expulsions.

The league shall continue its present policy in the case of expulsion from the trade unions. Wherever the expelled workers are few in number, they shall be kept in the local leagues and in close connection with the National Industrial Committees. But when they are great in number, they shall be formed into unions of the expelled. These expelled members shall endeavor to fight ther way back into the old organizations.

International Affiliations.

The league shall intensify its campaign for the affiliation of the trade unions to the R. I. L. U.—Red International of Labor Unions. The league must point out the fallacy of the present policy of isolation, on the part of the American unions, and seek to bring the American workers into closer relationship with the workers of other countries. For this purpose, resolutions on the question of affiliation to the R. I. L. U. shall be presented at all trade union conventions.

Shop Committees.

The league shall carry on an active propaganda in favor of the organization of shop committees in the industries generally. These shop committees shall be elected by all employes of a given industrial establishment, irrespective of age, sex, color, nationality, skill, organized or unorganized etc. The shop committees shall voice the demands of the workers and form the basis for a common struggle against capitalism. The league shall strive to reorganize the old unions into industrial unions upon the basis of the shop committees.

Workers Control.

The league shall put forth the slogan of "The Workers' Control of Industry." The campaign for the establishment of shop committees shall be accompanied by a propaganda for workers' control. The shop committees, working under the direction of the unions, shall aim to break the power of the employers in industry The shop committees shall aim to revolutionize the masses and to turn their trade unions into fighting working class organizations. They shall strive to give the workers the necessary industrial and political education and organization to carry them, in co-operation with the revolutionary political organization, victoriously thru the final struggle against the bourgeoisie for the overthrow of the capitalist system and the establishment of a Communist society.

New York Structural Iron Workers Strike Against Open Shop

The Structural Iron Workers on 23 of the big construction jobs of New York City are on strike against the open shop of the employing contractors. Reports show about 2,000 men are out, and continued strike will tie up construction as other trades will be prevented from working.

Hammond, Indiana, Machinists' Lodge Supports Defense

At the last regular meeting of Lincoln Lodge No. 209, I. A. of M., of Hammond, Ind., they went on record against criminal-syndicalist laws in general and the Michigan syndicalist law in particular. We publish the "Resolves" of the long resolution condemning the unjust sentencing of Comrade Ruthenberg and the attempt being made to railroad Wm. Z. Foster, W. F. Dunne and the 29 other well known fighters in the ranks of labor.

The "Resolves" are as follows:—

"RESOLVED, That we protest against and condemn the action of the supreme court of Michigan, record ourselves as in support of the Labor Defense Council in its case and call upon all labor bodies and working class bodies to take the same stand. That we petition the governor of the state of Michigan to pardon the defendant in event the supreme court sustains the conviction, it being our view that such actions on the part of the federal supreme court would be a nullification of the constitution in the interest of instruments of capitalist suppression of the workers; and, be it further

"RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to the governor of the state of Michigan and the labor press."

NEW YORK BAKERS TO UNITE AGAINST BOSSES, MEETING FOR UNITY SATURDAY, FEB. 28

A United Front mass meeting of the New York bakers has been arranged by the Bakers' Section of the T. U. E. L. for Saturday, February 28th, at 2 P. M. in Cooper Union, New York City. The exact status of conditions in the baking trades will be presented at the meeting with a view to harmonizing various elements among the bakers' unions and ameliorating general conditions. Several good speakers have been secured to address the bakers.

Affairs in the baking industry, among the unions are not at all to the credit of the unions or the working class in that industry. Indeed many have termed them deplorable. Some bakers are partly organized in the A. F. of L. and in independent unions. These unions are scuabbling among themselves, internally, and with one another.

This is a harsh handicap in helping get outside workers into the unions and prevents them from joining a union as they feel they would have little to gain in organizations so bitterly opposed to one another in their trade. It is felt that the great number of unorganized workers among the bakers will remain outside the unions until harmony is established among the different factions and between the unions themselves.

Efforts at the meeting will be made to seek some tentative basis upon which the unions can begin to settle their differences and establish peace and a working foundation for securing as members the workers who are not members.

It will be shown what great changes are taking place in the baking industry; the small bakery is being displaced by larger, chain concerns operating on a city-wide basis, this broadening into a country-wide scope, while these themselves are developing into national trusts, already beginning to take the baking industry as a whole into its own capacious maw.

CHICAGO NEEDLE TRADES T. U. E. L. HAS PRACTICAL PROGRAM OF WO

At the general meeting of the Chicago needle trades section of the T E. L. held on Sunday, Feb. 15 besides electing an executive committe following program of work was drawn up:

PROGRAM OF WORK FOR NEEDLE TRADES GROUP.

Militant work within trade unions for the purpose of gaining leade of the organized masses and utilizing the organizations as instrument the proletarian revolution.

In the needle trades unions our tasks are the same as in other u and our methods must correspond with the actual conditions prevailing. fight for leadership of these organised workers will necessarily lead to a struggle with the present bureaucracy which controls the unions. Our policy is, no compromise with the bureaucracy which promotes class collaboration, openly or secretly. Our fight for leadership must be extended to every local union and every shop, based on the general left wing issues of the T. U. E. L., such as, militant struggle against the bosses, organization of the unorganised, amalgamation of all needle trades unions, independent class political action, relief for and organization of the unemployed, struggle against wage cuts, organization of shop committees, etc. as well as on the specific left wing issues of each trade. Generally, we must participate in all elections, in local unions and shops, bringing forward the left wing program and endeavoring to deepen and broaden the struggle against capitalism.

Methods of Propaganda.

It should be our method to use all the means available to carry on this work, such as publicity thru specially written articles and statements, leaflets, bulletins and direct propaganda in unions and shops.

TRADE ISSUES.

Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

Militant policies to build and strengthen union as against class collaboration.

Direct negotiations with the bosses by the workers thru their elected committees.

Struggle against wage cuts in all forms, such as re-adjustments, etc.

Week work as against piece work with minimum scale and maximum production.

No suspensions by the manufacturers without charges and trials.

Maintenance of the unemployed at the expense of the bosses, funds to be administered by the union.

Criticism and struggle against present unemployment benefit scheme as altogether inadequate to meet the growing unemployment.

Establishment of shop committees as the basic units of the organization.

International Ladies' Garment Workers.

Struggle against present officialdom, exposure of disorganization of union by policy of expulsion.

Organization of the trade based upon militant struggle against the bosses, with program of real unionism.

Struggle for reinstatement of expelled members, in complete co-operation with national struggle.

Responsibility for organizati work and finances to be shifted the officials to the membership ratification of appointed organize the membership.

Maintenance of the unemploye the expense of the bosses, funds t controlled by the union, divisio work with guarantee for each me to make a living.

Abolition of practice pursued officials of ruling prospective c dates off the ballot.

Establishment of shop commi as the basic units of the organiza

The above will also apply in ge to the Journeymen Tailors, Capma and Millinery Unions.

Another proposition that wa cepted is that all those needle t workers who have received divid on the stock that they hold in Russian-American Industrial cor tion should donate them for the pose of purchasing small mac parts to be sent to the Russian c ing factories as gifts from the A ican clothing workers. An appe all clothing trades workers wi made to have workers who are shareholders in the R. A. I. C. t nate a sum equal to the sums by the shareholders to aid this of giving further aid to the Ru clothing factories. A campaig make a success of this project wi started in the near future.

Read This, Then Do Something About Like It

Southern Illinois is the scene of the most outrageous acts committed by the ku klux klan against organised labor, as Post would say, "There's a reason" and that reason is the strong left wing movement that is developing in the coal fields of that section of the country. In spite of unemployment the progressive miners fully realize the need of financing the T. U. E. L. and pushing the distribution of the league literature. Read this letter and then take the matter up in your next league meeting for action there.

The Little Red Library

By MORITZ J. LOEB

A POPULAR saying has it that "all good things come in small packages." There's really somethinge to this. It is a product of "small package" dimensions that is going to be the basis of a national educational and propaganda revival in our party.

A big step taken by the Workers (Communist) Party was the centralization of the Daily Worker, Workers Monthly and the Literature Department of the Workers Party into the hands of he Daily Worker Publishing Company, Making it today "the source of all Communist Literature" in this country; making it the heart of all arteries thruout the land thru which flows the life-giving Red propaganda to reach the American workers for Communist understanding.

The DAILY WORKER takes this responsibility seriously. Six new pamphlets are now in preparation; additions are being made to the present literature stock; arrangements are being completed for prompt delivery to it's hands of every new important Communist publication from every country in Europe.

On it's own part the DAILY WORKER will begin the publication of an innnovation in American working class literature. THE LITTLE RED LIBRARY begins it's publication today. On the presses are the first two numbers of the little Red giant that will stimulate working class education as nothing has done in the past.

This little library will contain all numbers of a uniform, pocket size, selling at ten cents a copy and twelve copies for one dollar. But it will be a departure from the usual run of our party publications.

Including books on social, economic and political problems, it will be wide enough in scope to include history, philosophy, fiction, poetry and art. Everything to raise the standard of Communist thought and culture.

The size of the books will vary with the requirements of the subject covered. The small volumes will range from thirty-two to sixty-four pages, with a cover on which a distinctive design will immediately stamp the little volume as a number of the Little Red Library. New numbers will follow in quick succession—every two weeks if material is available.

It needs but little imagination to visualize the big possibilities of the series. The obvious advantage is the convenient pocket size. A copy can be carried always to read on the street car, at lunch—at spare moments that will be moments gained.

The price is within the reach of the lowest paid worker. And what a factor these two items of size and price will prove to be for propaganda purposes! We predict that you will not only begin building your own library, but you will give away copies with great pleasure. It is precisely for the obvious propaganda advantages that the price of twelve copies for one dollar has been set.

THE LITTLE RED LIBRARY will do more. It will stimulate the "reading hunger," develop the necessary intellectual stimulus to thought on all working class problems, for the convenient size and price of the little volumes takes away all obstacles to possession. The brevity, the condensation of valuable material into a short volume with careful editing will add to the ease in reading without detracting from value. This factor is not without inportance for the workers who is physically and mentally fagged out after a day of hard labor.

And still another particularly rich vein has been struck by the LITTLE RED LIBRARY. This is the unearthing and developing of working class writers. Here is a field for our party's future writers to develop in, and the editors of the LITTLE RED LIBRARY will receive original manuscripts on all subjects within its range. Necessarily until the success of the publication of the series is a fact, the size of all material sent in must be restricted to 15,000 to 30,000 words.

These are the facts of the new arrival in the field of American working class literature—and these are the possibilities. THE LITTLE RED LIBRARY holds all prospects of being one of the chief mediums for the future development of the Daily Worker Publishing company—"the source of all Communist literature."

The first two numbers are now ready. No. 1—TRADE UNIONS IN AMERICA, by Wm. Z. Foster, Jas. P. Cannon and Earl R. Browder, is a brief summary of the trade union movement in America and the history of the development of the left wing ,with an explanation of the structure and program of the Trade Union Educational League.

No. 2—CLASS STRUGGLE vs. CLASS COLLABORATION, by Earl R. Browder, is a study of labor banks, the B. & O. plan, insurance schemes and worker's education. This little book throws the spotlight on the methods used by the labor bureaucracy to divert the working class from militant struggle against capitalism.

YOUNG HEBREWS DEMAND END OF CHILD SLAVERY

The Chicago branch of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, at their last meeting, unanimously adopted a resolution demanding ratification of the proposed federal child labor amendment. The resolution passed by the Y. M. H. A. further demands that the government maintain school children, the funds for this purpose coming from special taxes on high incomes.

FISK STUDENTS QUIT IN REVOLT AGAINST PREXY

Say He Sold Them Out to Southern Whites

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 16.—Four hundred students of Fisk University, claiming that President Fayette McKenzie turned the Negro institution over to southern whites to "industrialize" the university, have packed their bags and left the college. Only ten students were reported to have gone to recitation classes following McKenzie's action in calling in the police to arrest students who revolted against his method of conducting the university.

The morning following the rebellion the students gave their side of the controversy in the chapel hall. McKenzie failed to appear. The senior class president declared: "The five students now in prison cells represented the student body by their revolt against the autocratic rule of Dr. McKenzie." The students then passed resolutions condemning McKenzie for calling in the police and allowing them to use their night sticks and revolvers on the Negro students. The students were later released.

The students charge that McKenzie honeycombed his faculty with white southerners who had no sympathy with the students, that he was at the beck and call of the southern white business men, but refused to speak before Negro organizations. They also declare he barred Negro speakers from the university, but allowed whites to speak. They declare he has humilated and disciplined students who protested at his methods. McKenzie also abolished the students' councils.

The student senior class has asked to be taken into Howard university in a body, so that they may complete their education.

The students staged their revolt against McKenzie on the university campus last week, near Livingstone Hall. They denied reports given out that they had "rioted." The students admitted, however, that the demonstration had lasted until eleven o'clock at night, when, they declare, they retired. An hour later, the students say, Mr. McKenzie called in 50 policemen from Nashville, who stormed the dormitory, pulled the students from their beds and brutally beat two of the students.

The president ordered the students who gathered to leave the campus, and sent four of the leaders of the revolt to the station in a patrol wagon, after picking them out of the crowd. McKenzie later signed complaints against the students charging them with disorderly conduct. The students arrested were Charles Lewis, Robert Anderson, Edward Taylor and Victor Perry. They were fined $50.00 in court, but the fines were later suspended by the judge.

The Workers Party in Action

RADICALS OF LOS ANGELES MAKE MERRY

Dedicate Co-operative Labor Center

LOS ANGELES, Calif., (By Mail)—Today Los Angeles labor was celebrating the dedication of the newly erected co-operative center. The celebration lasted for 12 hours. It started with a parade at 2 P. M. and ended with a banquet at 2 A. M. At the mass meeting in between time, Comrade Feinberg acted as chairman and Comrade Baum was the principal speaker. Comrade Hittleman sold the key to open the hall to the Lenin branch, Workmen's Circle, for $100.00. Comrade Simons, manager of the co-operative consumers league was the toastmaster of the banquet. There were about 600 people present at the banquet. The trade unions, Workmen's Circle branches, political organizations, as well as cultural organizations were represented.

Comrade Levin, city organizer of the Workers Party greeted the banquet in the name of the city central committee; Camrade Betz gave greetings in the name of the four left-wing branches of the Workmen's Circle. Solomon of the Painters Union, Gureritch of the Carpenters Union, Tillis of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Hoffman of the Bakers, Sorin of the Capmakers Union represented their locals. The comrades of the Workmen's Circle branches delivered short speeches and big checks. Comrade White of the Lenin branch after his splendid speech gave a hundred dollars. Comrade Mersky handed in a check of $50.00 from the Freiheit branch. Comrade Rubin of the Liebknecht branch, fifty dollars, and Comrade Paul of Long Beach branch No. 643 donated ten dollars. Comrades Deniloff and Airoff gave a hundred dollars in the name of the women's consumers league.

Cheers For Communist Press

Comrade Globerman greeted the co-operative movement in the name of the Daily Freiheit and DAILY WORKER. The banquet went wild for the Communist press. "Long live the DAILY WORKER and the Daily Freiheit" was echoed from every angle of the large hall. Comrade Bush, educational director of the party, sent greetings in the name of the English branch. Rose Rubin of the Young Workers League, Anna Lyons representing the Juniors, and Comrade Berkman of the Freiheit Social Club sent greetings. Comrade Caminker, secretary of the Workmen's Circle School spoke in the name of the hundred pupils of the school.

It was an impressive moment when the cream of our movement, children about 200 in number came out on the stage with their instructors Hoffman and Karasick, singing revolutionary songs. Comrade Zakheim spoke in the name of the Parents Verein, Baumert for the Freiheit Singing Society, Knezer of the Mandolin Orchestra.

Splendid Co-operation

"This fifty thousand dollars building was started with 75 dollars on hand," the president of the co-operative, Comrade Feinberg, said. Comrade Simons handed two beautiful loving cups to the Architect Evans and the builder, Forman. These two comrades have spent many weeks in order to see that this temple should look like a recreation place for the whole movement; they have labored without financial compensation. The carpenters and painters have given away many Sundays free in order to have the center ready.

The banquet was arranged under the auspices of the comrades, Mr. and Mrs. Strier. Due to extraordinary co-operation, it was possible to complete this enterprise. After Comrade Kline's appeal and the toastmasters remarks that money was need to furnish the temple, a shower of checks and cash from one dollar to one hundred dollars was handed to the secretary, Comrade Airoff. Nineteen hundred dollars was raised. It must be remembered that the labor temple in Los Angeles is controlled by reactionary forces, who refused to rent their hall for a Foster and Minor meeting. On the contrary, the co-operative center is controlled by the left-wing movement one hundred per cent. Telegrams were read from San Francisco Jewish branch of the party, and from two comrade who are in a sanitarium, Comrades Factroff and Rosenstein, who is financial secretary of the co-operative consumers league.

Brownsville Notice

BROWNSVILLE, Brooklyn, Feb. 16.—Alexander Trachtenberg will lead a discussion on "The Proposed Unity between the Amsterdam and the Red Trade Union Internationals," at the Brownsville Section meeting of the Workers Party, at 1844 Pitkin Ave., Brooklyn, on Wednesday, February 18. Discussion will start promptly at 8:30.

"WHEN DAWN IS RED" STAGED AT DEFENSE BAZAAR BY WORKERS' DRAMA LEAGUE DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The workers Drama League, New York District, is to be congratulated on its contribution to the Thursday night program of the Joint Bazaar of the International Workers Aid and Labor Defense Council of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The pantomine, "When the Dawn is Red," written and staged by Comrade Edwin O'Hanlon and presented by the Drama League, was a thing of sheer beauty, posed against a scenic background of extraordinary vividness and interest,—the work of the same group of comrades.

The playlet is a symbolic one, representing the gorged, inflated figure of capitalism, sitting at ease,—a beautiful figure symbolizing art, literature, and the essence of all that is fine in life, shackled, grovelling at his feet, prostituted to his needs. The setting is a dark mass of factory chimneys outlined against the lurid light of firey furnaces, and in the foreground, under the mocking, jealous eye of capitalism, the worker toils at his wheel, in chains, straining his great muscles, pouring out his blood and sweat in the form of profits for the capitalist.

The Workers' Drama League is a group of New York comrades consisting of artists, actors, dancers and playwrights, working in co-operation with the Educational Committee of the D. E. C. in District No. 2, for the development of a revolutionary, working class spirit in drama, art and literature. The pantomime, "When the Dawn is Red" is the first of a series of playlets, pantomimes and pageants to be presented, several others being now in rehearsal.

The coaching and directing of the players is done co-operatively by the group, as is also the painting of scenes and settings, and the designing of costumes.

Any comrades in the district who are interested, and can contribute to the work of the Drama League in the way of writing, acting, dancing, painting or designing, are invited to join the group, and can be put in touch with it thru the Workers' School, 208 East 12th street.

'NOVY MIR' BALL FRIDAY, FEB. 20, BEST EVER HELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Novy Mir, the Russian Communist Daily, announces that its Masquerade Ball to be held Friday, Feb. 20, in Park View Palace, 110th street and Fifth Ave., will be the finest affair ever held by Novy Mir and one that promises not only a good time but an unusually entertaining evening.

To every inquiry about the evenin-ng's program the committee returns a mysterious noncommittal smile. They won't let a single thing leak out.

But reporters must have a nose for news and here's as much as has been nosed out: There are going to be costumes that will not be merely costumes but will depict periods in the development in the workers' struggles for emancipation thru pageants and pantomime. More we dare not tell. With this hint we leave the rest to your imagination.

Remember the date, remember its for the Russian Communist Daily and remember that you will have a wonderful time—so come. And most of all get into a costume and be one of the bunch.

Muscatine, Iowa, Lost Big Battle; Workers Pay Now

Women dress or prepare vegetables for pickling. They peel tomatoes, an eighteen-quart bucket heaped up high for fifty cents. Fast workers in from 9½ to 10 hours make $3.50, other workers, the great majority, do not get more than $2.00, and many of those work 13 hours or more in an effort to get that sum; beginning work as early as 5 a. m., and continuing until 6 p. m.

In order that the human element may not enter into the factory to interfere with profits, inspectors and foreladies are imported each season from outside Muscatine. They are instructed not to make friends with any of the workers.

The brutality of these Amazons is indescribable. Some poor victim may have finished a bucket full when along comes the inspector—one or two may have a little of the skin left on—she dumps the bucket back into the tub and the victim spends one to two hours cleaning up the mess without pay. The women are now peeling onions at 17 cents a gallon, last winter they were paid 22 cents a gallon. These are the little onions that are sold in bottles and a gallon represents a great many onions.

"Contented" Workers "Celebrate."

The Heintz company collects 25 cents per week from their sweated workers for club dues. The "club" gave a dance a few weeks ago and charged 75 cents a ticket. Every worker had to pay for a ticket.

The dance was held in the "Gold Room" of the Muscatine Hotel. The company got a lot of free publicity, which would no doubt make the "57 varieties" more appetizing to the carefree public. The "liberal policy" of the Heintz company received a boost at the expense of the slaves.

Your reporter had occasion to look up a button worker on Mulberry avenue and there he found a dwelling that surpasses in horror, the den of Fagin in Dicken's "Oliver Twist." A rickety stairway, two flights up: dark hall ways with holes in the floor and scarcely any plaster left on the walls. No large city can "boast" of a more concrete sight of poverty and exploitation. I have been assured that there are many such "dwellings" in Muscatine.

Gunmen and Military Crush Spirit.

A few years ago the button workers of Muscatine, which has three or four large factories, making buttons, were well organized. A strike was precipitated which proved one of the longest and most bitterly contested struggles in American labor history. Gunmen and sluggers were imported but there were few scabs. The gunmen beat up and shot the pickets and also a number of bystanders. This roused the populace and a thousand or more of them, many of whom were armed, drove the fifty gunmen into a hotel and surrounded them. The militia was called out, many of them striking button workers, to uphold "law and order" and protect the gunmen. The troops formed in line and the sluggers passed between the ranks in safety to the train.

The militia remained until the starvation process had done its deadly work. The union was utterly destroyed and the Muscatine Legrees continue making large profits in competition with the sweat shops of New York and other large cities.

It is practically all piece work in the button factories, working from 9 to 10 hours. Women sew the buttons on cards, 4, 6 or 12 buttons to a card, for which they receive two cents for a gross of buttons. They are on a level with the match box and flower makers of New York's sweatshops. The spirit of Muscatine has been crushed and capital is now king. There are comparatively few workers of foreign birth in the little town, but little business has joined the kluxers to save America for Americans, and presumably the profits of foreign stockholders.

Meeting of Workers Party

Muscatine workers cast a good-sized vote for the Workers Party ticket last November. In response to that call a meeting to present the program of the party will be held at Macabee's Hall, 223 Iowa avenue, on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 22, at 2:30 p. m. J. E. Snyder, district organizer, and David Coutts will be the speakers.

JURY LETS OIL TRUST USE ETHYL LEAD POISONING

DuPont Is Still Making "Looney Gas"

(By The Federated Press)

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 16.—In spite of the protests of organised labor of New Jersey the sale of ethyl lead treated gasoline is again to be permitted in the state because of the Union county grand jury's decision that Standaird Oil company's subsidiary, Ethyl Gasoline Co., was not "responsible" for the deaths of five workers and the insanity of others engaged in manufacturing the "looney gas."

Tests Inadequate.

Yandell Henderson, professor at Yale and expert on the physiology of poisonous gases, at the same time states that the tests made by the U. S. department of mines are inadequate and do not prove ethyl gas fumes are harmless.

Henderson and other specialists are making tests to determine whether tetra-ethyl lead treated gasoline exhaust fumes are harmful. The lead fumes which workers are exposed to in manufacturing the gas are known to be deadly.

Death Plant Closed.

The Bayway plant of Standard Oil has been closed since the workers' deaths. The grand jury recommends that it be not opened until the company has perfected machinery of some kind which will eliminate the great dangers to workers in making etthyl gas. Meanwhile the workers at Wilmington, Del., in the DuPont plant are exposed to the hazards of lead gas poisoning because manufacture of the "looney gas" continues at that point.

Mrs. Snowden Defends Prince of Wales After Attack by Laborite

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Philip Snowden, member of the labor party, and wife of the former labor chancellor of the exchequer, defended the prince of Wales and British royalty in general against an attack by David Kirkwood, laborite member from Scotland, who declared that the government was making a clown of the prince of Wales.

"The suggestion that the royal house does not do any work is absolute nonsense," Mrs. Snowden said. "I consider that they are the hardest worked people in the country."

Mrs. Snoden appeared in court when her husband was in the cabinet, and kissed the king's hand along with the other lackeys of royalty.

Y. W. C. A. IN NEW YORK REFUSES TO HARBOR STARVING GIRL WORKER

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.— A thin wan young girl collapsed from hunger in one of the big city's police stations. When revived she ate eagerly and told her tale.

The Women's Christian Association had refused to harbor her. She had been working in a Brooklyn cannery for $12 a week until laid off three weeks ago because of dull times. Her parents are dead; her three brothers for whom she had kept house were killed in France in the great war.

Out of her $12 she could save nothing and was put out of her room. She did not have enough money for food or carfare and had tramped all day from house to house in search of a job as maid when all efforts to get factory work had failed. Then the "Y" secretary had taken her for a "professional beggar" and they have "no provision for rescue work," according to the secretary to whom she had applied. To save her face the "Y" woman is having the poor working girl put under observation at the county hospital to see whether hunger has crazed her!

Use "Vacations" to Fool the Workers As Bosses Win Profits

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Winter vacations for retail store employes aren't usually spent at Palm Beach or other Florida pleasure places, because the vacation is at the worker's expense. Elizabeth Ainsworth, personnel director of the big Namm department store of Brooklyn, tells the secret to the personnel group of the national retail dry goods association convening in Hotel Pennsylvania, New York. Married women particularly are given the free vacation when the work is slack. Mrs. Ainsworth discloses, but the scheme must be worked tactfully so that the workers won't object too much. Giving winter vacations cuts down expenses and saves the employers "fair profit" says the personnel expert, and is more satisfactory than discharging and re-hiring workers.

Reduce Taxes on Larger Incomes

Taxes on larger incomes have been reduce this year, following out the Coolidge-Mellon policy. The surtax rate last year started at six thousand dollars. This year it starts at ten thousand dollars. The last year's schedule of surtax rates started at one per cent at $6,000, and went up to 50 per cent for an income of $200,000.

This year the tax is one per cent on an income of $10,000 and runs up to 40 per cent on incomes in excess of $500,000

CALLES TRADES PIE CARDS FOR STRIKE BREAKING

"Labor Attache" Jobs Given Labor Fakers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 16.—The Mexican Federation of Labor has officially declared that it will not support strikes of its local bodies unless, before the strike is declared, the issue is submitted to the central committee. This represents the suppression by the labor fakers of the Morones type of the militancy of the rank and file in exchange for the positions given these labor fakers by the Calles government. It is a quite open trade.

On the same day, it is announced that Calles has instructed the department of foreign relations to send special labor attaches to all foreign embassies for the alleged purpose of "studying labor conditions." It is a frankly cynical handing out of pie cards. The biggest crooks are to get fattest pickings. Canuto Vargas, the Latin secretary of the fake Pan-American Federation of Labor, and bosom friend of Sam Gompers, is to get the plum of "labor attache" at Washington.

The Mexican Federation of Labor is openly breaking strikes, as for instance, in the strike of the street car men, when the interference of the federation crushed out the strike. Always the federation officials try to scare the workers back by saying they are being used by the Communists.

Ellis Island Probe Brings Up Seven Bills at Albany

(By The Federated Press)

ALBANY, N. Y.—Seven bills framed to correct abuses of aliens are before the New York state legislature as a result of investigations of practices at Ellis Island and elsewhere in the state. Non-resident alien beneficiaries under the present state workmen's compensation law get only half the amount allowed citizen workers. One of the bills aims to correct this condition and give all equal compensation. Another bill provides that express and steamship companies must conduct business with aliens at their own offices or thru their own employes instead of thru commisioned agents. This is designed to eliminate the grafting and defrauding of aliens by unscrupulous unofficial agents who charge excessive exchange rates or overcharge aliens for railroad tickets.

Other bills are formed to regulate transmission of money to Europe; to abolish the title of notary public and substitute commissioner of oaths; to restore the bureau of immigration to the department of labor of the state.

Standard Oil Stock Multiplied 11 Times In Past Seven Years

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—An accounting suit filed in the supreme court by the Equitable Trust company, disclosed that 12,000 shares of Standard Oil company stock held by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, have since 1917, as a result of stock dividends increased to 123,824, marketable at $8,542,660. John D. Rockefeller made a trust deed of the 12,000 shares to his daughter, Mrs. McCormick, in 1917.

Mrs. McCormick has received $2,829,377, and her divorced husband has been given $217,000 from the trust fund.

Chicago Building Permits Show Large Increase Over 1924

Chicago again leads all cities in the increase in building permit values.

Figures just compiled show this city's permits for January were $6,390,017 greater than in January, 1924.

New York's permits dropped $6,964,625, and the permits in Los Angeles and Philadelphia nearly $2,000,000. Among the cities showing increases Detroit stood second with a gain of $2,332,373, and Pittsburgh third with $1,292,868. San Francisco, Atlanta and Boston followed in the order named.

Northwestern Leaves Company Line-up and Grants Small Raise

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company broke away from the western conference committee yesterday and granted a wage boost of 5 per cent to its 1,450 engineers.

This takes into consideration so called basic eight-hour day or a hundred-mile run.

BUILDERS AT WORK

Did You Notice the Little Notice?

If you read this like the rest of us, you no doubt have to have your shoes soled occasionally; and if you are an agent for The DAILY WORKER, this little matter is a habit; and perhaps your teeth "played" with you so badly, that you are forced to go to a dentist; and perhaps you buy at a store, put money in the bank (?), buy books—perhaps you even play pool.

Did it ever occur to you that in all these trips of business and pleasure (we don't mean the dentist), you can really do something for the Communist movement? You can. Simply ask for an "ad." We need advertising to help us along—and of course, if it will help the DAILY WORKER, it's bound to help the party.

Scattered thruout the paper almost everyday, you have perhaps noticed a gentle little admonition to "get an ad." This is meant in all seriousness—we use other things for decoration.

If you are a wide-a-wake party member, a Builder, you won't lose sight of this easy way of building "Our Daily." But if you are an agent—why nell's belis!—we expect it of you! And it's not as hard to do as you think. Just write to the advertising manager of the DAILY WORKER, or look for rates in the Tool Box that was sent to you, or notice it in the new Literature Catalogue when you get it—and "get an ad!"

BRICKLAYERS' PRESIDENT JOINS ANTI-LABOR CHORUS AT MEETING IN CHICAGO OF ROBOT MAKERS

"Rossoum's Universal Robots!"

The Capek brother's play typifies the scope of the vocational education association of the middle west which held its annual convention here at the Sherman Hotel. After sitting thru a number of those meetings and talking to officials of the organization one gleans that the object of this project is to defeat the law which is enforced in many states prohibiting child labor under the age of 16.

War Against the Children.

The problem is, how to cheat working class children out of the additional cultural education those two years, from 14 to 16, would provide and the expense in education that would be entailed.

The proposal is: An entire readjustment of our high school system of education. The general shop training course in the last two years of public school here enter the junior high schools. Before a child leaves the elementary school he is already set to thinking of his future job. The senior high schools are to be regular apprentice training schools.

Robotization New Going On.

Preparations for the robotization of the children of the working class is in full swing. In one room an agent from a two-year course training school is addressing school teachers recommending his school to them. There they can learn the trades that will be taught in senior schools. In another room skilled mechanics are being sold by another agent on the proposition of a two-year course in pedagogy to fit them out to teach their trade in the senior high schools.

In still another room a man is making a speech. Short, heavy, all abdomen, he looks like the typical capitalist of the Communist juniors' imagination.

The speaker is Thomas Preece, president of the International Bricklayers' Union. He assures the audience that he is for the idea of vocational training of children because "it keeps our youth out of the saloons."

"Will you tell why you are sponsoring a cause that aims to rob workers' children of an education which the law of the state says he is entitled to?" he is later asked "You are for this movement. Is it not a gigantic scheme of the capitalists to train an industrial army of workers to fight the closed shop and trade unions?"

Preece Gets the Floor.

He looks nervous. Then he mumbles something about, if every worker in America would only economize, eat at home, and if his wife would do the family washing and sewing and mending then they all could send their children to college but some boys if you don't give them something useful to do will surely get into mischief.

J. Ray Stine, of the vocational training school in Cleveland, is assuring the employers present that the boys will be taught to see the employers' problem.

Shows Bosses Benefitted.

But just how the employers will be benefitted by this reorganization scheme the DAILY WORKER reporter learned in an interview with John Crowell, on the publicity committee, and of the south division branch automobile and continuation school in Chicago. He said that manufacturers are in sympathy and aiding in every way they can this vocational training project.

"Let me cite an experience right here in Chicago in the building trades," said Mr. Crowell. "Contrary to our belief that we have too many skilled workers, the fact is we do not have enough. And those we have the unions have a monopoly on the number that should be permitted in every trade. The unions have what they call closed book seasons and they demand prohibitive salaries. Take the tile layers. That union has such a high apprenticeship you could not get a tile layer. It came to a point where builders to beat the union had to get finally was met. We organized a school in a small town near by. We imported boys from all cities, paid their fare and for their education, put them thru a training course and thus were able to break the union requirements. Now we have all the tile layers we need. That is what vocational training will do for industry."

The vocational training school in its 11 years of existence, Lewis Gustafson, president of the organization and superintendent of David Rankin, Jr., school of mechanical trades, St. Louis, Mo., has succeeded in establishing large vocational training schools in a number of western states. Missouri and Michigan boast the largest number.

HOLLAND TO REJECT PROPOSAL TO ARM AGAINST GERMANY

THE HAGUE, Feb. 16.—The plan of the allies to include Holland in a "defensive" alliance against Germany were upset when it was learned that the Dutch senate is opposed to such an alliance.

The senate is known to be opposed to the Geneva protocol, which is expected to feature largely in the debate. Holland will refuse to reinforce her frontier to protect Belgium from possible attack by Germany.

Jobless Man Kills Self.

In despair because he could find no work, Frank Gamperdo, 43 years old, hanged himself in his home at 1107 South Jefferson St. Gamperdo had been unsuccessfully searching for work for many weeks. He was penniless.

HERRIOT UNABLE TO HALT CRISIS AS FRANC DROPS

Cannot Meet Budget of 34 Billion Francs

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The French franc continued to drop today, all the patriotic speeches of the ministers being unable to obscure the fact that 34,200,000,000 francs must be raised somewhere, somehow, if the 1925 budget is to be balanced.

Premier Herrito stepped out in the chamber of deputies as a champion of "national currency." Herriot made a speech which concluded, "I appeal once more to the sacred union of all Frenchmen, regardless of party politics, for the defense of our national currency."

Limit Reached.

Deputy Violette, who introduced the finance bill in the chamber, said that thirty-four billion francs was the extreme limit the country could stand. "Parliament must decrease the taxpayers' burden and float a great consolidation loan," Violette stated.

Out of 34 billion francs expenditure, it was revealed, 19,500,000,000 francs is interest on the French public debt, exclusive of war debts, six billion are for the upkeep of the army and navy, and other expenses of running the country are eight billion francs.

Bankers Confer with Herriot

The regents of the Bank of France conferred most of last night with Premier Herriot on the crisis brought on by the fall of the French franc. The financiers wrung a promise from Herriot that he will change the fiscal bill, abolishing the proposed tax on corporate earnings. This tax on large corporations was one of the principal platforms of the Herriot government, the one which gave it what Herriot called "socialist leanings."

The ease with which Herriot threw overboard one of his principal planks, in order to induce the financiers to aid him in bringing France thru the financial crisis has surprised some of Herriot's followers.

The financiers have carried their point that corporate earnings shall be entirely exempt from the proposed heavy taxation to raise the budget for 1925. Herriot declares that his political opponents "create an atmosphere of financial unrest by exaggerating the socialist menace."

Who Fights Wage Cuts?

Commodity prices are on the upgrade and the dollar now buys but 62 per cent of what it secured in 1913. In the second quarter of last year the dollar reached the high point of 69.1 cents as compared with its purchasing power in 1913 and since then there has been a steady decline.

Wage increases reported are few and far between with the building and operating trades in railway transportation about the only industries in which raises are shown. Even in these occupations it is pretty well established that the wage increases have been offset by surrender of some of the working conditions hitherto enjoyed.

In the coal mining industry unemployment in the union fields has greatly reduced real wages and altho the union scale has been maintained nominally concessions to the coal owners in the matter of long established working conditions in many localities, as in the building and transportation industries, has operated to actually reduce the union wages.

In textiles a campaign of wage cuts affecting the whole industry has been launched and the average wage increase of seven and eight per cent occurring in the latter half of last year are to be wiped out by reductions of ten per cent and more in the miserable earnings of the workers.

The rise in living costs causing the steady fall of the purchasing power of the dollar, the scarcity of wage increases and the actual reductions in many instances of money wages, all indicate that even with industry operating at a fairly rapid pace the standard of living of the American workers is being lowered.

The official leaders of the unions are doing nothing effective to combat this dangerous tendency. Right in the textile industry, where the assault on the workers is the fiercest, the union officialdom is striving harder to preserve its craft lines than it is to fight the wage cuts.

In the whole labor movement the fight against the reductions of the living standards of the workers is being made by the left wing organized around the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League.

The bankruptcy of the bureaucrats is obvious. They could not fight the bosses even if they had some scraps of honesty and militancy left, because they have accepted too many favors from them.

No country in the world, during a period of such employment as has prevailed for the last two and a half years, has been presented with the spectacle of the labor movement as a whole actually losing members. Our European comrades may have a hard time understanding this, but they do not know fully the caliber of the American trade union bureaucracy which directs its blasts at the Communists while urging the workers to love and "understand" the capitalists.

Letters from Workers

Please do not print my name as it would be used against me in the shop.

Most of the letters received by us close with the above sentence, differing a little in wording perhaps, but meaning the same thing—that the capitalists, thru their agents, keep a close watch on the workers on the job and that the workers know it.

Superintendents, foremen, timekeepers, "welfare workers," etc., in addition to the regular spies, all function as eyes of the big bosses—the coupon clippers who pull the strings that make the puppets in the state and national capitols dance.

This one sentence with which we began is the complete disproval of all the democratic pretenses made by the rulers. It is in the mines, shops and factories that the workers spend most of their hours and there capital rules with an iron hand.

This is one of the main reasons why letters from workers published in the Communist press are valuable. It is possible for the workers to be fooled to a considerable extent by the right to vote for this or that agent of the capitalists every so often; it is possible for certain mild and meaningless concessions in the form of legislation to maintain for a while their faith in the existence of democracy under capitalism, but when letters from workers in one industry are read by other workers in other lines and a whole chain of first-hand testimony shows that the conditions under which workers are forced to make their living are the same—north, south, east and west—capitalist democracy is put on trial before a jury of the whole working class.

One letter written by a worker in rebellion against oppression in the industry where he works is worth dozens of more or less learned editorials.

In Detroit and Chicago the left wing is holding its own in the Carpenters' Union because of rank and file support. The Trade Union Educational League militants are in the forefront of the fight and Hutcheson is rated a bad second up to date.

Police and Pickets

We cull from a New York paper a story telling of the appeal of one Raymond McMahon, secretary of a local of the United Textile Workers, which is on strike, to the Brooklyn police for protection for the union pickets from the bosses' thugs.

We have heard of persons trying to put out a fire with kerosene, of the fish that jumped from the frying pan into the fire, of drinking carbolic acid to cure stomach trouble, but these are all achievements of genius compared to the action cited.

Why not go to Cal Coolidge and ask him to lead the strike? There would be just as much chance of getting his consent as there would be to get a police force to protect strikers. That is not what they are paid for. Police are part of the suppressive machinery of the government of the bosses, but Brother McMahon, like his namesake who is the president of his union, does not want to admit this.

Sheep get the same protection from a pack of wolves that pickets get from a police force. In isolated cases where the police force remains neutral it is speedily reorganized.

Someone should take Brother McMahon gently by the hand, lead him away to some quite corner and explain this to him. Perhaps it will not be necessary. The police themselves, if Brother McMahon gets out on the picket line, will produce arguments so logical that even his child-like trust in the institutions of capitalism will be badly shaken.

More than one naive soul has had the scales drop from his eyes simultaneously with the impact of a policeman's club on his cranial superstructure.

A strikebreaker president and a strikebreaking president—all is ready for a drive on labor unions as soon as industry slows down a little more. In the meantime the department of justice practices on the Communists.

The Franc and the Bankers

The decline of the franc is another squall descending upon the already troubled waters of international politics.

The capitalist press dismisses it as an internal squabble between the factions of Herriot and Poincare, but the incident brings out clearly the position of France as vassal of the international bankers.

It is a keen weapon that the bankers hold over the head of any French premier. French finances are in so chaotic a condition that the franc can be wiped out as medium of exchange by any untoward political event. France can only function as a great power, in spite of her army, navy, air fleet and her own retainers like Poland and Roumania, within the circle of American and British imperialism.

Knowing this, the bankers have demanded as a price of their support of the franc the exemption of corporation profits from taxation. The loss of this revenue will upset all plans for balancing the budget, but the bankers, like the common loan shark, know that their victim is helpless because of his pressing immediate needs.

The post-war rulers of the world are the bankers. The dynasty now in power is that of the House of Morgan and the Dawes plan is not for Germany alone.

Philadelphia Rejects Abramovich

The strenuous efforts of a large part of the Philadelphia police force, assisted by gangsters and sluggers, were not enough to keep an audience of 1,500 people from showing its indignation when Abramovich made his usual attack on Soviet Russia at a meeting last Saturday night.

Forty-three arrests did not prevent an outburst of working class indignation—the fourth experienced by the yellow prostitute since his arrival in America.

Abramovich must be about ready to conclude that some of his capitalist paymasters have given him the wrong dope about the American workers whom he probably thought ready to shower him with praise and hug him to their bosoms.

Yes, even in America, whose capitalist class hold a mortgage on all the world, outside of Soviet Russia, there as enough supporters of Soviet Russia, Communists and class-conscious workers to drive this "socialist" jackal back to his filthy lair.

General Dawes started his boom for the presidency in 1928 on Lincoln's birthday. We predict that by that time the Dawes plan will be very poor campaign material.

Light on LaFollette

Writing of the glories of capitalism as usual, "Scrutator" of the Chicago Tribune furnishes us with some real information concerning Senator LaFollette and his activities.

Reporting a conversation of a couple of investors—small ones—he says:

"He is not boiling with enthusiasm over Wisconsin's income tax law, but boosts the state like the rest of them. Great place for uilities, he says. LaFollette's done mighty well for such corporations, he thinks."

Just enough regulation to please the cockroach capitalist, but no real interference with the profit system—this is the heart of the LaFollette program. In Europe such persons are fonnd in the social-democratic parties. In the United States they are known as liberals.

They have sham battles with the big capitalists occasionally, but are always called in to save the capitalist state when it is in a real mess.

Claim False

Urged by a desire to substantiate a claim heard that the employes in the Utica mills affected, had received since 1916 increases aggregating 128 per cent, Joseph R. White representing the United Textile Workers of America was asked if this were true. In reply, Mr. White smiled and said: "For an instance the loomfixers were receiving, in Utica in 1916, in the neighborhood of $17.24 per week; they are now receiving $32.68. Figure it out for yourself." This, it is understood, is before the 10 per cent reduction.

Meetings Big

Every morning several hundred of the striking textile workers meet in the Labor Temple and in this manner close touch is maintained between all departments. The meetings are always conducted in a very interesting manner, and there is always a good speaker on hand to whom the members are glad to listen. The speakers are recruited mostly from officials of the older organizations. The enthusiasm among the workers is always apparent at these meetings and by them matters are constantly kept moving and up-to-date.

Woonsocket Textile Workers Unanimous for United Front

ject to textile workers all facing the enemy together? If the Workers (Communist) Party is so bad, why can't McMahon be stronger for the united front than the Communists are?"

Minor declared that James P. Reid was president of the Textile Workers' Union before McMahon had quit wearing diapers, and had been in every fight, even some fights in which McMahon got sick whenever there was real trouble. The united front committees, he said, would disrupt no union and would attack no union, but would invite every union to participate, in fact, would invite Mr. McMahon to participate and over McMahon's reluctant head, would invite the United Textile Workers' Union and its rank and file, together with all other unions.

"Make a Race of It."

Minor read extracts from recent ultimatum of a textile trade paper acting for the mill owners, which raised the slogans, "Your overseer and your superintendent are your labor leaders—Don't be misled by any so-called labor leaders outside your own mill," and "Double your production: Do one hundred per cent more work; make a race of it." Minor said this is the program of the mill owners and asked where McMahon gets off on a program like that.

"How is he going to meet it, with less than 5,000 organized in the United Textile Workers in this district? How can the open shop program be met with anything less than a united front of the 300,000 textile workers of New England?"

John J. Ballam, district organizer of the Workers Party, made a short talk for concrete organizational steps. Two local textile workers, E. F. Leach and Joseph C. Larose, spoke of conditions in the Woonsocket mills and the past efforts to solve the complex problem of many conflicting unions. James P. Reid was chairman.

Sink the Spike!

March 5, 1919, the Communist International was founded to give renewed hope to workers the world over.

March 5, 1925, workers the world over celebrate the end of the sixth year of world struggle, the beginning of the seventh year of forward marching.

Militants in America! How shall we celebrate? What greeting to the Comintern, to the workers of the world, shall we offer?

The DAILY WORKER!

The DAILY WORKER held aloft, defying the enemy.

The DAILY WORKER, saved for its task in the seventh year battles.

The DAILY WORKER, insured!

On March 5 will be published the Comintern Edition. In its columns will be printed the greetings made by America's workers to the world's workers, greetings made by means of support given the DAILY WORKER.

What further support can each reader of the DAILY WORKER give?

Just this much,—ONE DOLLAR!

Thirty-two thousand dollar blows with the hammer will drive the last spikes HOME.

ONE DOLLAR! Alone, how insignificant! But with OTHER dollars, — with New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Seattle, Minneapolis dollars,—with Dilles Bottom, Gary, Waukegan, Cannonsburg, Duluth dollars,—with dollars from all over the United States,—one dollar becomes thousands of dollars.

Thousands of dollars to finish the job!

Each reader, a dollar; each branch, its quota!

March 5, celebrate with the Comintern!

Are you with us,—to finish the job? Will you pick up the hammer and hit the spike HARD?

Are you with us,—TO THE LAST SPIKE?

America's Comintern Anniversary Greeting:

"The Daily Worker Safe for 1925"

Hands to the Hammer!

Drive Home the Spike!

$32,000 Before March 5!

Each Reader His Dollar!

I am with you for insuring the DAILY WORKER TO THE LAST SPIKE. Here is my dollar to HAMMER IT HOME!

AS WE NEED IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

IF giving affords as much pleasure as receiving, the DAILY WORKER and its supporters can meet each other on a basis of equality. We always give a full return for every dollar the working class put into this paper. This, we have been assured by our readers is truer than the gospel. We simply take their word after being thoroly convinced that this paper is the only working class daily paper published in the English language on this continent. This is tall talk, but it is true.

ONE of the most disagreeable features of keeping a revolutionary paper in the field is the necessity for continually asking for funds. This is something, you will never see the capitalist papers do; that is, in the way we do it. They don't ask their readers for direct contributions. They simply secure new readers by devious means and take their profits in advertising. We are after readers, working class readers. We don't give three hoots in a graveyard for advertising except in so far as it provides revenue to enable us to get in touch with more readers and reach ever greater masses of workers.

MONEY! "Filthy thing," some will say. "Why not abolish it altogether and make the world cleaner and brighter?"

Nothing much the matter with money, poor little innocent means of exchange, handier than chunks of granite or wild bulls, which are hard to carry around in the jeans. The only thing the matter with money is that those who produce the wealth which it conveniently represents, have very little of it and thereby hangs a tale. That's why the DAILY WORKER is here and that's why we are asking those who get very little of the wealth they create to chip in a dollar to our drive so that they or those who succeed them on this world will get as much of the product of their toil as is possible under a Communist form of society.

THE DAILY WORKER unhesitatingly calls on its readers to chip in. It is your paper. When we say this, we are not handing you any taffy. Of course the Workers Party is running it, but it is the workers' paper, and they are beginning to realize that fact more and more. We want to insure its existence for this year and when this year comes to an end, we will insure it for the next and so on until the DAILY WORKER becomes the official organ of the United Socialist Soviet Republic of America.

WE will have more to say tomorrow about our insurance drive. Hundreds of workers write in and say, "We don't know how you manage to keep the daily going, at a time when the corpses of labor and yellow socialist dailies pollute the political graveyards of the United States." As the screen serial does we will let you in on the secret in our next issue.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THERE are two very important trials taking place in Germany. One is of the Hamburg workers involved in the 1923 struggle against the German fascist government; the other is the so-called Cheka trial in Leipzig. The star witness for the state in the latter is an epileptic by the name of Neumann, a police spy. So far he has proved nothing except that he hatched a perfectly good plot under the tutelage of the police. Nobody was killed by the "terrible" Cheka, but here was the plot.

BEFORE the trial started the press prepared the public for startling revelations, but the results to date are not cheering for the enemies of the working class. Like the latest "Zinoviev" forgery it was a crude job. Of course the courts are the creatures of the German capitalists but even courts cannot make a case out of the whole cloth. The government, headed by the social democrat Ebert has a perfectly good plot on its hands, bombs, germs and other liabilities. It wants the head of the German Communist party. That is the object of the trial. But it will not succeed in this conspiracy. The head of the German Communist is set on the powerful shoulders of the revolutionary section of the German working class.

THE Polish government has a bad case of political nervousness. Its secret police arrested a German count on suspicion of being chief of the German espionage system in Poland. The Polish government is but a tool of France and acts under French instructions. It's remarkable that the count has not been accused of being a Soviet spy. But that may come in due time.

THE workers of Jerusalem greeted Lord Balfour of Britain with a general strike. It is not known whether the lord appreciated the demonstration or not. Balfour is in Jerusalem to open a Hebrew university. The Hebrews were given a little bit of desert to play with, in return for support given to the allies by Jewish financiers during the war and also because Jerusalem is a very important strategic point in relation to the defense of Egypt. Britain, tho a christian nation, is satisfied to allow the Jews to protect the sacred sepulchre, and extremely willing to protect the handful of zionists who suffer in the holy and smelly city of Jerusalem, from their enemies, who according to the foxy Arabs are none other than the British.

THE capitalist papers have finally learned that "Bill" Haywood is still in Moscow. A few weeks ago when the capitalist press first pictured Haywood, like the hero in the "Shooting of Dan McGrew" coming into the office of a Y. M. C. A. agent in a town in Armenia, footsore and weary, his whiskers coated with ice and "wearing a shirt that was black with dirt." The DAILY WORKER pointed out that the story was a deliberate lie concocted by the Chicago Tribune liar who is stationed in Turkey.

THE enemies of Soviet Russia and the revolutionary movement were only too willing to credit the yarn. Among those papers that accepted the clumsy capitalist fabrication as truth, was the Weekly People, of New York, official organ of the few petty shopkeepers who compose the socialist labor party. The Weekly People is edited by a very stupid person, who happens to hate "Bill" Haywood bitterly. She immediately hopped onto the story, and got ahead even of the capitalist hacks. While the latter were satisfied with representing "Bill" as a disappointed radical, who preferred Leavenworth prison to the Lux Hotel, the S. L. P. scribbler prepared an itinerary for him under the auspices of the department of justice lecturing on the evils of Communism. Now that even the capitalist papers admit that the story was a fake, it re-

FOUR REDS RUN IN ALDERMANIC ELECTION RACE

Dozenberg Challenges Opponent to Debate

Four Workers (Communist) Party candidates for aldermen in the elections to take place Feb. 24 have been placed on the ballot by the board of election commissioners.

These candidates are: L. Cejka, Communist candidate in the 22nd ward, member of the Machinists' Union Local 84; Hyman Epstein, 24th ward, member of Local 6, Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union; Harry Brooker, 34th ward, member Typographical Union Local, No. 16, and Nicholas Dozenberg, 28th ward, member of the Machinists' Union.

Nicholas Dozenberg has challenged his opponent, George Maypole, present alderman of the 28th ward, to a public debate on the issues of the aldermanic campaign. No reply has yet been received from Maypole. Comrade Dozenberg said in his letter to his capitalist opponent, "Having lived in the ward for three years, I have learned to know that your services as alderman from that ward are of benefit, not to the whole constituency, 95 per cent of which belong to the working class, but to a comparatively small group of individuals, including yourself, and that your services are rendered only to your small favored group who are not members of the working class."

Maypole Objects to "Reds."

Maypole filed objections to the candidacy of Comrade Dozenberg before the election of commissioners, and endeavored to keep him off the ballot, but the election commissioners refused to do this.

Harry Brooker is opposed in the 34th ward by David McVey, who is running on the "Progressive Party" ticket. McVey has issued a "program," which does not attack any of the issues now before the workers, and does not attempt to solve any of the workers' problems.

McVey Generalizes.

McVey says, "I believe in real schools, not barns and firetraps for the children," but McVey does not tell how these schools are to be obtained, nor how the children are to be supported in them after they are built. He is equally indefinite on other problems affecting the workers.

The Flu Gets Mussolini.

ROME, Italy, Feb. 17.—That Premier Mussolini is ill was learned here when the senate was forced to postpone an important debate on the army reorganization bill because of Mussolini's absence. Later it was learned that Mussolini is sick in bed at his home, afflicted with influenza. The senate passed Mussolini's electoral bill without amendment by a vote of 214 to 58.

JUST ONE MORE FAMILY IS BROKEN UP BY THE MILLS

(By The Federated Press)

PASSAIC, N. J., Feb. 17.—Julia Sindor worked all day in Botany Worsted Mills after sending her girls, Helen, 8, and Anna, 7, off to school. Louis, her husband, works nights at Frostmann & Huffman and minds Louis, Jr., 5, and sleeps by day. At the textile mill one of the women began calling Julia Sindor "gypsy's daughter" in the way the employer encourages to keep his workers divided by national and racial pride. The taunt grew too much for Julia and maybe the work. One morning Louis came home and found his wife and three children dead in bed with all the gas jets open.

DEMONSTRATE AGAINST RELIGION IN SCHOOLS OF NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 17.—School Superintendent Dr. O'Shea will soon find that he will not so easily succeed in introducing religion into the New York public schools.

This was clearly shown at yesterday's protest meeting at Labor Temple, 243 E. 84th street, which was arranged by the conference to combat religion in the New York public schools. This protest meeting initiated a campaign which the Workers Party instituted in New York to combat the attempt of the churches to capture the New York public schools.

The speakers at this meeting were Lore, Poyntz, Schuler, Anna Louise Strong and others.

The enthusiasm with which the speeches were received is the best assurance that the parents of the children will oppose poisoning the minds of their children with religious dope.

Protests Dumping of Sewage.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.— Protest of the Illinois valley against further diversion by the Chicago sanitary district of Lake Michigan water into the Illinois river for sewage disposal, was made today to President Coolidge by Representative William E. Hull of Peoria.

POOR MOTHER GIVES BIRTH TO BABY GIRL ON TIN LIZZIE TOUR

GALESBURG, Ill., Feb. 17.—Knox county's first "hard road baby" was declared today by physicians to be in perfect health.

The youngster, a girl, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Neal, who, with their two children were touring the country in a dilapidated automobile.

A hastily constructed shack of canvas and papers was erected along the highway for the mother. Altho its funds had been depleted, the family did not ask for aid, medical attention was provided by citizens of Wataga, a nearby town.

WORKERS OF BRITAIN AID IRISH PEASANTS

Look to United States for Assistance

DUBLIN, Ireland, Feb. 17.—The Irish committee of the International Workers' Aid is taking steps to relieve the distress caused by the famine of the west coast of Ireland. Tales of suffering pour into the committee's headquarters daily. Funds are being raised in England, Scotland and Wales as well as in Ireland, but the committee expects the biggest part of the needed assistance to come from the United States.

News that the Workers Party of America and the American section of the International Workers' Aid, had organized an American committee for Irish famine relief was received here with rejoicing. The Free State government is inclined to look upon famine publicity as a serious offense. The government feels that its standing with the international bankers will be impaired if the impression goes abroad that Ireland is a country subject to periodical famines. The fact is, the government cares nothing what happens to the poor peasants and fishermen.

Unused Opportunity.

It was expected, however, that the leaders of the Irish labor party would take some steps to bring succor to the stricken famine victims. But the leader of the I. L. P., Tom Johnson, rose in the Irish parliament last week and called attention to the unfavorable publicity Ireland was receiving as a result of "exaggerated" famine reports. This lackey of imperialism, promised the Free State government assistance in any measure it saw fit to take.

Patrick Hogan, the minister of agriculture, admitted that there was abnormal distress this year. He hoped the press correspondents would keep silent and let the government handle the situation in its own way.

The Labor Faker.

Tom Johnson was the only labor leader in Ireland who opposed the stand taken by the Irish Trade Union Congress against the world war. Since Connolly's death he has assumed the political leadership of the Irish labor movement, or its right wing. He has supported the Free State government ever since its inception and is now its most trusted labor lieutenant in putting up a good front to the international bankers. But Johnson does not represent the rank and file of the Irish labor movement, who are ready to help the peasants to the best of their ability. But there is terrible unemployment in Ireland rendering assistance from the industrial proletariat almost impossible.

Heartless Capitalist Lackeys.

Even the Irish governor-general, Timothy Healy, admitted in a public speech, that "fires were quenched on hearths for the first time in one hundred years" as a result of the destruction of the fuel supply. Yet despite this admission, the labor leader, Johnson and the Free State government of Cosgrave and the "execution gang" talk of "exaggerated reports."

New York Militants In the 'Amalgamated' Are on the Job Big

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.— A merry fight is going on in the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union No. 5, with the reactionaries attempting rash methods in their tactics.

A proposal to grant a charter to a new local is considered as a measure to obscure the real issue and the matter is not yet settled.

The election of officers has resulted in an overwhelming victory for the left element and the suspended delegates were re-elected with large majority.

ENGLISH DENIED RAILROAD LABOR TRIAL BY JURY

Judge Backed the Scabs Against Rail Strikers

By LAURENCE TODD.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Judge Geo. W. English of the federal district court at East St. Louis is under threat of impeachment on a long list of charges, which range from the maintenance of a "bankruptcy ring" whereby he and his friends enriched themselves, to arrogant tyranny toward railroad shop strikers.

Chairman Graham of the house judiciary committee, himself as hardboiled as reactionaries generally come, has reported the unanimous resolution of his committee that a subcommittee sit all summer, to take testimony and report next December—with the obvious purpose of kicking this judge off the bench.

Gillett Aids England.

Speaker Gillett has for more than a month been obstructing progress in the case. His latest move is to send the judiciary committee's resolution to the foot of the unanimous consent calendar, instead of giving it the privileged status that is generally accorded an impeachment issue. The result is that all proceedings against English may be killed until next winter.

Disbarred Prominent Lawyers.

Congressman Hawes of St. Louis offered the first resolution demanding investigation of English's court. It was sent to the rules committee after Gillette refused to recognize Hawes for a motion to secure immediate action under unanimous consent. Chairman Snell of the rules committee sat on it for weeks. Then formal charges were filed with Gillett by Thomas M. Webb and Charles A. Karch, prominent attorneys who had been debarred from practicing in English's court for insisting on obedience by the judge to the law. Other citizens joined in the charges. They went to a sub-committee of the judiciary committee, to whom was offered a list of 71 witnesses who would testify to illegal or improper acts by the judge and his "bankruptcy ring." A unanimous report for investigation was made and aprpoved by the full committee. Grahan offered a resolution personally, but Gillett forced it back, as not being a formal report from committee. It came back again as a report, and went to the bottom of the calendar.

English Fought Strikers.

The charges set forth that Karch, for example, was counsel for the striking railroad shopmen in 1922; that he had been federal district attorney in that court; that Judge English denied the shopmen the right of jury trial, and disbarred Karch from practice in his court when Karch showed him the law that guarantees jury trials in such cases.

Later, when Karch's appeal to the supreme court was nearing argument, English withdrew his ban on Karch. Meanwhile he had savagely persecuted the strikers.

In one instance he answered the plea of "not guilty" by a striker who had no counsel, by saying, in substance: "I consider you one of the most dangerous men ever in this court; such crimes as yours are horrible beyond belief; I shall give you full and fair trial next term."

Championed Scabs.

It is also charged that Judge English summoned into his presence the county attorneys and sheriffs in his district, denounced them in vile language for the activity of the shop strikers, and said he would run the civil government of their comrades by deputy marshals of his court unless they did better. He threatened merchants who had refused to sell goods to scabs, in similar fashion.

English held stock in three of the five banks designed by him to receive funds of bankrupt concerns under his jurisdiction. He is accused of sharing with Charles B. Thomas, his referee in bankruptcy cases, the takings of the bankruptcy process.

PULLMAN FARES ARE REDUCED; FARMERS' FREIGHT RATES KEPT UP

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—By a vote of 56 to 8, the senate adopted Sen. Robinson's proposal for abolition of the 50 per cent surcharge on Pullman car fares. Sen. Howell fought it because freight rates for farmers were not given reduction first. Railroad senators voted for it because the surcharge has seriously injured the amount of business done by the Pullman car service. Besides, it is the "better" class that does most of the riding in parlor and sleeping cars.

The amount of surcharge collected last year was about $40,000,000. Reduced cost of Pullman travel will greatly increase the number of sales of Pullman tickets.

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 17.—The vatican has been unable to come to an agreement with the Polish government and high tension prevails between the two powers. Poland is a vassal of France and it is believed that the break between France and the vatican is mirrored in the comparative hostility of Poland to the papal demands.

SOCIALIST CHIEF OF POLICE QUITS; TRAILING BAUER

Richter Involved in the Barmat Scandal

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—Another "socialist" grafter fell by the wayside today when Herr Richter, president of the Berlin police, was compelled to resign, because of his connection with the Barmat scandal.

The social democratic party has been so seriously injured by exposures that it realizes the necessity of giving itself a coat of whitewash by expelling the detected crooks.

Financed "Socialist" Campaigns.

The Barmat brothers were engaged in business in Amsterdam before and during the war. They got in close touch with the German "socialists" and helped to finance their political campaigns. By so doing they secured favors from the reactionary, or "socialist" labor leaders, chiefly consisting of immunity in strikes.

When the "socialists" came into power in Germany, they handed over the keys of the treasury to the Barmats and the "socialists" and the Barmats helped themselves. The arrest of a small grafter led to the detection of the social democrats and the arrest of the Barmats.

Otto Bauer, first chancellor of the German republic, was expelled from the reichstag and is now ousted from the social democratic party.

Bauer Enemy of Communists.

Bauer was one of the bitterest enemies of the Communists. It is significant that while the social democrats are being publicly disgraced for their involvement in graft scandals the Communist Party is being persecuted by the government for its efforts to overthrow the capitalist system.

Communists here, point out that in every country in the world where the social democrats came into office, they immediately dug their hands into the public till and lined their pockets. Even the sanctimonious British "socialist," Ramsay MacDonald, accepted a bribe of $150,000 from a tory biscuit manufacturer. In comparison to this, social democratic weakness, they point to the revolutionary rectitude of the Russian Communists who have remained unshaken in their honesty and their devotion to principle, tho surrounded by a hostile work and by a capitalists class willing to spend millions in bribes.

WINS 18 YEAR FIGHT ON COPPER TRUST TO REGAIN STOLEN PATENTS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—In a cheap room in a sailor's boarding house on the waterfront, George Campbell Carson, today prepared his own breakfast in the little oil stove that served to heat the room, according to custom.

The fact that he had won his law suit against the big copper companies for royalties and damages agregating $20,000,000 did not disturb the calm of this working man who lone handed has battled 18 years to win recognition for his patent devices universally used by copper companies.

A laborer when he made the invention, Carson has worked thru the years in order to fight his claims. Carson has not yet collected his money.

HERRIOT WOULD BETRAY WORKERS TO SAVE REGIME

"Socialist" in Vain Deal with Plutes

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, France, Feb. 17.—Premier Herriot told the French chamber of deputies, amid storms of disapproval, that he had made concessions to capital, and that he would abolish enforcement of the income tax on corporations.

Herriot admitted that France is facing a severe crisis due to the fall of the French franc and the difficulty of securing enough money to meet the 1925 budget. He declared that "decrees must give way to increasing production and creating economic improvement."

The capitalists, while accepting the promise of Herriot that he will no longer enforce the income tax, are reported to be as strongly opposed to his radical socialist government as ever. Herriot's government is expected to fall soon, judging from the cold reception given Herriot when he pleaded for unity of all parties, in his chamber of deputies speech.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 17. — At a meeting of the cabinet today it was decided to immediately enact a law prohibiting Communists from holding seats in parliament and suppressing all Communist newspapers.

LEGISLATURE IS SCENE OF STATE COSSACK FIGHT

Bill Failed to Pass Last Year

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 17.—Propaganda of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association for a state constabulary, such as is used to break strikes in Pennsylvania and other states, came to a head late today when Senator Dunlap introduced the state police bill in the senate.

The state police bill was defeated last year, due to the protests of organized labor.

Plan to Use Air Planes.

This year's state police bill is even more menacing toward the workers than was last year's bill. Dunlap's bill provides for airplanes and the radio, which in case of strikes in Illinois, could be used to intimidate the strikers, as was done when airplanes flew over the miners of Mingo county in West Virginia.

The governor is given the power to appoint the head of the state police, and once appointed, the commander may retain the job for life. State troopers must be passed on by the commander before admittance.

Bill Rejected Last Year.

The police bill was rejected by the Illinois legislature for three successive times. Due to the intense propaganda of the Illinois chamber of commerce, and the employers associations for passage of the bill, however, it is conceded to have a better chance of passing this year than ever before.

FUNERAL SERVICES OVER COLLINS TO END RESCUE WORK

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 17.—Funeral services were held for Floyd Collins this afternoon after it was definitely decided to abandon the attempt to extricate Collins from his underground tomb. The shaft will be filled in and sealed.

General Denhardt announced that the troops would leave Sand Cave tonight.

Dr. William Hazlett of St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, wormed his way thru the narrow crevice at the bottom of the shaft and finally reached Collins. He officially pronounced that Collins had been dead from two to five days.

Dr. Hazlett is the only physician who has been able to reach Collins' prison in the 18 days effort to rescue the cave explorer from the boulder that pinned him in Sand Cave.

NEWSPAPERS ARE AGAIN ATTACKED BY BLACKSHIRTS

Mussolini's Condition Said to Be Grave

ROME, Feb. 17.— A new wave of newspaper suppression swept Italy today.

At Bologna, fascisti attacked the office of Resto Del Carlino because the editor had ceased to be a fascist. The raid was opposed and ten persons were wounded.

The Corriere Della Sera, at Milan, was suppressed this morning. It was one of Italy's foremost newspapers.

Three Rome daily papers stopped publication yesterday. It was charged they printed events of the municipal election furnished by the opposition leader, Amendola.

Premier Mussolini, who is in bed suffering from an attack of influenza, is said to be in a grave condition. Mussolini, during the past week has suffered many fainting spells. Mussolini is being attended by his physician, Prof. Bastianelli, who attended the late J. P. Morgan during the American financier's last illness in Egypt and Italy.

Opposition circles in the senate charge that Mussolini is feigning illness to escape embarrassing discussion on the army bill, which would increase the fascisti militia troops and decrease the size of the army. Mussolini was expected to debate this bill in the senate, where it is said to meet much opposition.

HARRY JENSEN'S JOB AS DISTRICT CHIEF IS SHAKY

His Former Friends Are Deserting Him

The officials of Local 181 of the Carpenters' Union are going one better than the magicians who take full grown elephants from their empty sleeves. They have perfected the art of adjourning meetings before they are opened.

Due to the illegal expulsion of five members of the union by ukase of a few self-appointed dictators, acting under the orders of Harry Jensen and William Hutcheson, Local 181 has not been able to transact any business for several weeks. This does not deter the paid officials from drawing their salaries, an entirely illegal proceeding without a vote of the membership. But such little things never bother labor fakers.

The Five Were There.

Last Monday evening Local 181 met as usual and as usual the five members over whom the storm has raged, were there also. So was Harry Jensen, president of the district council. Harry is the man who pulls the wires that makes "Jim" Jensen and the other officials of Local 181 jump. As usual the chairman refused to open the meeting until the five left and because they did not leave he adjourned the meeting before it opened. Smart work!

Desert Sinking Ship.

Harry Jensen is losing whatever support he had when the fight started. His friends, those who supported him in the last election, are now deserting him. Many of them realize that he is politically dead and that the next election will bury him. Nominations will be made in April for all local offices. The progressives are now looking around for suitable candidates.

Jensen and his few friends looked rather unhappy when the chairman called on the "expelled" members to leave. "Throw them out," Jensen belligrently shouted to the officials. "Come on and try," retorted several husky carpenters from all over the hall. One would imagine by the response to his threat that physical contact with Harry's person was by no means unpopular with the members. If he accepted the challenge it is not likely that they would give him an alcohol rub. He kept quiet and looked sheepish.

Feel Jobs Shaky.

The five "expelled" members stayed. Jensen's friends now feel their jobs shaky. They thought the power of "Czar" Hutcheson was so great that there was no danger of such a rank and file revolt. "Hutch will take care of these reds," was the comment of the fakers in Local 181 after the expulsion. But "Hutch" is down in Florida and has no time to waste on his lackeys. He has no time to give a decision on the local's appeal from the illegal decision of the chairman of Local 181 which expelled the members without trial. While he is sunning himself in the south and spending the money of the membership, the mighty Carpenters' Union is in danger of being wrecked. And William Hutcheson, general president, is the chief wrecker.

The members of Local 181 demand that Hutcheson show his hand and decide one way or the other.

Education Board Further Restricts Teachers' Actions

The rules committee of the board of education yesterday approved the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools McAndrew, made some months ago, that teachers be prohibited from criculating notices, even during the lunch hour, unless the notices are first approved by the superintendent.

The action of the rules committee, which was unanimous with the single exception of James Mullenbach, thus does away with the many years' practice of the Teachers' Federation, and other teachers' organizations of sending notices of their meetings to teachers. These notices were always sent around during recess or lunch hour, but the recommendation of McAndrew stops even this practice.

President Moderwell attacked Miss Margaret Haley, who spoke against the recommendation of McAndrew, and made a motion "That we stand by McAndrew rather than Miss Haley." Mullenbach spoke in favor of allowing the teachers to distribute notices of union meetings as they have done up to this time.

Coolidge Nominee, a Lumber Trust Lackey, Approved by Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The nomination of William E. Humphrey, of Seattle, as a member of the federal trade commission was approved today by the senate interstate commerce committee.

The appointment has been tied up for six weeks while the committee conducted an investigation into Humphrey's connections with lumber interests.

AS WE SEE IT

mains to be seen whether the Weekly People will deposit its head in the sewer from whence it takes its sustenance and forget to withdraw it.

SOME years ago the S. L. P. candidate for president challenged an opponent to debate on the relative merits of their parties. Like a cautious and methodical person the S. L. P. standard bearer prepared his debate before hand. For some reason or other the debate did not come off, but it appeared in all its glory in the Weekly People, applause, questions, hisses, interruptions and of course the "smashing" and "annihilating" retorts of the S. L. P. candidate. Everything was there, even what the opponent said, everything except the amount of the collection. A sheet with such a reputation finds a "Bill" Haywood yarn a palatable morsel.

THE committee for progressive political action is about to hold a convention. If you do not realize this fact read "Labor" the official organ of the sixteen standard railroad organizations, that founded the C. P. P. A. If silence means consent that paper, is strong for the coming convention. As a matter of fact, outside of J. A. H. Hopkins, the Nation, and a few socialists, the entire labor movement is ignoring the meeting which was once expected to call a labor party of some kind into existence. The official organ of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is against a third party. The Nation is grateful to the socialists for going out of existence, so gratefully in order to leave the way clear for the new party.

IT was a rather self-sacrificing thing to do we admit. But then beggars can't be choosers. When the socialists party departed from its original moorings, repudiated the class struggle, joined with the capitalists in making war on Soviet Russia, and found itseift having a united front with the department of justice and the bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor it also found itself without a membership and therefore without any visible means of support. It may now be given the job of acting as undertaker for the C. P. P. A.

THERE is a suspicion, how well founded it may be is hard to say just now, that Warren S. Stone, political leader of the railroad brotherhods is preparing the ground for affiliating his organization with the American Federation of Labor. A recent eulogistic article of William Green, in the Locomotive Engineers' Journal, may mean something and it may not. It is worth a thought or two. The C. P. P. A. is nothing more or less than a non-partisan political committee, a duplication of the A. F. L.'s political apparatus. Stone considers William H. Johnston, head of the C. P. P. A. a "fathead." A few days prior to the St. Louis convention of the C. P. P. A. he blamed Johnston for the failure of that organization and decided that the engineers would not be represented at St. Louis. But a squirt from Doheny's oil can made him change his plans.

STONE has called a meeting of the railroad brotherhoods for next Friday to consider the relations of the brotherhoods with the C. P. P. A. and to discuss the political policy of the rail unions. Stone is not coming to the conference to make up his mind. It is already made up. He is against a third party, not to mention a labor party. No other labor union of any importance is for it except the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. The Amalgamated is for a labor party because it knows there will be no labor party organized next Saturday in Chicago. Foxy Sidney Hillman can throw out his chest and give lip service to class political action, while Victor Berger plays the role of Abraham, with the socialist party Isaac.

BIBLICAL studnets may remember reading the tale of old Abraham who heard a voice from heaven which he assumed was that of the ferocious Jehovah, ordering "Abe" to take his son Isaac to the top of a mountain and roast him on a pile of faggots as a sacrifice to the lord. The lord must have sat on a tack or had a quarrel with his wife, at any rate he was in a bad humor and took it out on poor Abraham, who was as disciplined as a Jesuit. Abraham whistled to his son, told him to chop some wood and pile it on his back. This was done and they both hied toward the sacrificial altar. In a most tender and fatherly manner, Abraham, after looking towards heaven and expectorating on his palm, proceeded to apply the sharp edge of a butcher knife across Isaac's windpipe. But Jehovah took another fit and hollered down: "Hold on, your intentions are good we can fry him some other time" or words to that effect. It is quite possible that the socialist party may be saved from complete demise next Saturday, but only to meet that fate some other time. Abraham is willing and poor Isaac is helpless.

Works on Inaugural Address.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—President Coolidge expects to complete his inaugural address sometime next week.

SEATTLE LABOR FAKERS PULLING IN THEIR HORNS

Radicals Believe They Are Bideing Time

SEATTLE, Feb. 17.—No attempt has yet been made to carry out the decision of the Central Labor Council, to oust the Communists by filing charges against the Communist delegates. Paul K. Mohr, Communist delegate from the Bakers' Union and a veteran trade unionists, announced that he intended to appear at the council meetings as usual.

Several unions went on record against the ouster proceedings branding the fakers responsible for them as disrupters and splitters. The opposition of the militants was so strong that the reactionaries decided to pull in their horns for the time being at least. Radicals are not fooled by this lull in the battle. They are of the opinion that the fakers are only abiding their time until a more favorable opportunity presents itself.

The Seattle Union Record was obliged to correct a news item in a recent issue which gave the impression that the Seattle Central Labor Council had denounced the Michigan defense and the Labor Defense Council, of which Mohr is an officer, instead of another organization.

SENATE PUSHES POSTAL BILL IN JOINT MEETING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The postal rate war was renewed in congress today when house and senate conferees met for final action on the conflicting bills passed by the two branches.

The senate bill, with low rates for newspapers and the parcel post, would raise approximately $30,000,000. The house measure, with higher rates on these two services would bring in about $61,000,000 in additional revenue. Both bills would provide a $68,000,000 wage increase for postal employes.

The conferees sought to iron out differences in the rates carried in the two measures. One source of conflict was the corrupt practices act, added by the senate as "rider" to the bill, after the house declined to take similar action.

Administration leaders hoped for an agreement in conference in time to re-enact the bill before adjournment.

Filibuster Threatens Cal's Program in Ending of Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The 68th congress entered the home stretch of its legislative career today with the administration's program for adjournment March 4 endangered by the threat of filibusters.

The threatened disruption came from the senate where small but militant minorities voiced bitter opposition to the republican program.

With only 14 working days remaining, republican leaders ordered day and night sessions in the senate.

The republican leadership, however, faced many obstacles and the probability that the closing days of congress will be harassed by a series of filibusters. If this should occur, such a legislative jam may follow as to force the calling of an extra session after March 4.

Warden Admits He Took Money from Bootleg Convicts

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 17.—Albert E Sartain, of Columbus, Ohio, formerly warden at the United States penitentiary, here, today admitted on the witness stand at his trial, that he had borrowed $5,000 from Willie H. Haar, convicted Savannah bootlegger, while Haar was a convict at the penitentiary.

Sartain is charged in indictments, along with L. J. Fletcher, formerly his deputy warden, with having solicited and accepted bribes from prisoners at the institution in return for "soft berths."

Kellogg Given Send Off by Plutes As He Leaves for Home

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The departure of United States Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg from London today took on the proportion of a royal occasion. Kellogg is secretary of state-designate and will succeed Charles E. Hughes, March 4.

Present to bid them adieu were, among many others, Austen Chamberlain, British secretary of foreign affairs; the Italian, French, Spanish, Japanese and Polish ambassadors; Sir John Harbury-Williams, representing King George; Lady Brice and numerous personal friends of the Kelloggs.

The senate yesterday approved Kellogg's appointment.

WORKERS STORM PRIVY COUNCIL IN JAPAN DEMANDING SUFFRAGE

TOKIO, Feb. 17.—A band of workers stormed the privy council, it was reported in press dispatches, after the council had amended the universal manhood suffrage bill changing the voting age from 25 to 30 years.

Kilabur Ichiki, vice-president of the privy council, was forced to flee for his life.

FORD GETS HUGE PROFITS BY USE OF SPEED GAME

Makes 90 Per Cent by Driving Men

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17.—Henry Ford made profits of 90 per cent on his Detroit, Toledo, and Ironton railroad, during the years of 1923 and 1924, it is announced here. Ford has just applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to issue and sell $1,181,000 of first mortgage bonds to pay the cost of construction of the road's main line from Flat Rock to Durban, Mich., a distance of 30 miles. The bonds will be sold at par to the Ford Motor company.

Ford paid $5,000,000 for the railroad in 1920, and in the past two years, Ford's profits were $4,201,896. In 1924 the profit was $2,414,859, or almost half what the entire railroad cost Ford.

Ford instituted the "profit sharing" scheme on his railroad in order to get the most work out of his employes. He paid wages slightly higher than the union scale, but cut down the number of employes and insisted that the employes work much harder.

The railroad ships coal from Ford's Ohio mines to his Detroit factories.

Chicago Radio Music Now Unionized, Says Musicians' Union

With the signing up of KYW and Oak Park, the Chicago Federation of Musicians controls the music broadcasted from all Chicago radio stations.

"This makes it 100 per cent," says Pres. Petrillo, who urges union musicians in other towns to protect themselves likewise against the inroads on their employment made by the radio. Stations having an agreement with the union pay extra compensation for all music broadcasted.

The Chicago local is sending three delegates to the 29th annual convention, American Federation of Musicians, which opens at Buffalo in May.

Silk Weavers in Brooklyn Fight the Three-Loom System

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Thirty silk weavers employed by the Mace Mfg. Co. Lawton street and Broadway, Brooklyn, have gone out on strike. They demand an increase in piece price and are putting up a fight against the three-loom system.

A committee was sent to the employer to present the demands of the workers, but was met with refusal to get a hearing, driven out and called dogs.

Nothing, however, can dampen the ardor of the strikers and in spite of this treatment there is unity and determination to fight the matter out to he finish.

Senate Makes An Empty Gesture For Farm Relief

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.— A final drive to draft a bill carrying out the farm relief recommendations of the president's agricultural commission was ordered today by the senate agricultural committee.

The committee will hold night sessions this week in an effort to report the bill to the senate in time for action before adjournment. The speed-up program was inaugurated, it was said, to meet the demand of farm organizations that some relief be provided by this congress.

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 16—The deaths in Dallas' influenza epidemic had amounted to 74 today after five victims had died Sunday night and today. Twenty-five new cases had been reported at noon today.

ENGLAND ASKS FOR TRADE PROPOSITION FROM SOVIET RUSSIA

LONDON, Feb. 17.—A closer understanding between Great Britain and Soviet Russia was forecast in diplomatic circles today when the British foreign office issued a statement saying England would discuss "any reasonable proposition" with Russia.

The recognition of Soviet Russia by Japan forced England to act.

Let America's Teachers Also Join the Workers' World Struggle to be Free

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the most vicious attack of the American anti-Soviet press is directed against the schools of the Workers' Republics.

It is significant, however, that while such counter-revolutionary propagandists as Emma Goldman are given unlimited space for their malicious warfare against the Soviet educational system, hardly a word has been published about the recent Teachers' Congress, in Moscow, with 1,500 delegates present from all sections of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

The great fact about this congress, that the anti-Soviet press sought to hide, was that it showed the teachers everywhere had been won for the Soviet cause. It has been a long and uphill struggle. Zinoviev, in addressing the teachers, painted three pictures in the life of the Russian teachers as follows:

VACATIONS OF 1913-1914. Petrograd. Teachers' Conference. Seven thousand people in attendance. Chairman: Senator Mamontov. A te deum in the Kazan Cathedral. The anthem "God save the czar" in the People's House.

DECEMBER 13, 1917.—The proletariat is victorious. The bourgeoisie offers resistance. Teachers' delegates arrive in Petrograd to declare a general strike of teachers. The teachers' delegates declare: "We demand a constituent assembly, we are not with the violent usurpers of power, we do not wish to be the educators of slaves." At the hour of the proletarian victory the teachers went on strike.

AUGUST 14, 1918.—Red Kazan captured by the whites. The Czecho-Slovaks and the social-revolutionaries entered into Red Kazan. Teachers' meeting at Kazan. The chief topic was the question of aid to the white army.

• • • •

But all this is of the past. The teachers are now enthusiastic for Soviet Rule. It is only when Lunacharsky, the People's Commissar for Education, ambitious for rapid progress, deplores the comparatively low state of education, the hardships borne by the teachers, and the imperative need to increase the funds at the disposal of the Commissariat for Education, that the enemy press in foreign lands, seizes upon his big desires for the immediate future, and twists them into their own subtle lies, claiming that illiteracy is increasing in the Soviet Republics, that public education in Soviet Russia is now in a worse state than even under the czardom. Such fantastic fables surely defeat their own purposes.

Zinoviev tears aside the curtain of the near future when he declares, "The time is near when there will be material prosperity. There will be a time when there will be a newspaper in every village; when the village school will not get the worst, but the best building in the village."

• • • •

Lunacharsky is also satisfied with the outlook. This was shown when he told the assembled teachers that, "The total sum at the disposal of the Central Authorities of the Commissariat for Education for the whole of the U. S. S. R. in 1923-24, was 85 million roubles, whereas this year it amounts to 140 million roubles. IF WE PROCEED AT THIS RATE WE SHALL SOON BE OUT OF THE WOODS."

• • • •

This will be bad news for Emma Goldman, Rafael Abramovich and the whole host of anti-Soviet propagandists, pampered by the exploiters' press.

It is something for the school teachers of the United States to ponder over. American teachers are forced to do the bidding of their capitalist masters who either themselves sit or have their agents on the local boards of education in every city, town and hamlet in the nation. They are not only the slaves of capitalism, but must use what talents they have to enslave the children, the growing generation, to the wishes of the capitalist social order.

• • • •

Like the Russian teachers under czarism, America's teachers are addressed in all their great gatherings by the dollar inspired politicians of the capitalist state. They are permitted to sing "The Star Spangled Banner," that carries the chains of Wall Street to every nation in the world outside Soviet Russia. Let the teachers of the United States profit by the growing class consciousness of the Russian teachers under Soviet Rule. Let American teachers also join the struggle to be free.

ELEMENTARY MARXIAN ECONOMICS

CLASS meets Wednesday evening, 8 P. M. 2613 Hirsch Blvd. Max Lerner, instructor. Assignment this week Chapter 9, People's Marx.

By vote of class new students will be admitted this session and next session providing they are willing to do necessary work to catch up with class. Apply at class meeting this week or next week or at district headquarters, Room 303, 166 W. Washington St.

Questions on Chapter 9, People's Marx

1. Is co-operation of similar characterin all societes?

2. Explain what economies co-operation as we speak of it is this chapter, effects.

3. What new forces does co-operation as per above bring into existence? To whose benefit do these new forces if any accrue?

4. What new functions are brought into existence through the co-operation of wage workers? What functions arise by virtue of the social character of this labor and what by virtue of capitalist nature of the whole process?

5. Define manufacture and the period in which it takes place.

6. Explain the division of labor manufacture effects in the workshop and in what way it develops. Also what effect on tools of production.

7. Explain the effect of the division of labor in manufacture on the worker.

8. What two fundamental forms does the organization of manufacture take?

9. Explain the limitations of manufacture upon capitalist production.

10. What is a machine? Of what parts does a machine consist and what is its distinguishing feature?

11. What revolutionary effect has machiney upon production?

12. Does machinery add any new value other than that which is incorporated in it in the process of production?

13. Does the capitalist introduce a machine when it costs as much or more than the cost of the labor power which the machine would displace?

ANTI-LABOR CONGRESSMAN HERALDS GAINS FOR NON-UNION COAL FIELDS

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Congressman McLeod of Michigan, anti-labor, has issued a press statement calling attention to the gain of 1.5 per cent in production of bituminous coal in the non-union states of West Virginia and Kentucky, announced by the National Coal Association, as contrasted with the loss of production amounting to 18 per cent for the principal union states, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, for the year 1924.

McLeod points out that eleven billion dollars valuation and some 700,000 workers are involved in the bituminous coal industry, and that this transfer of the business from unionized to unorganized territory carries with it a shift of population, both to the non-union fields and from mining to other industries, such as steel.

CHILD LABOR LAW DEFEATED IN BAY STATE

Young Workers to Issue Weekly Organ

BOSTON, Mass.— The Massachusetts senate has rejected the child labor amendment to the federal constitution by a vote of 33 to 1. This overwhelming defeat of the amendment in the Massachusetts senate after it had already been defeated by "popular" vote, is significant in view of the present situation in the textile industry in this state.

Especially at the present time when the textile magnates are cutting wages and trying to smash the unions, they cannot afford to take any chances of having child labor abolished. Thousands of children running down to the youngest imaginable age are employed in the textile mills and it is this large supply of cheap labor on which the textile bosses depend to keep the wages of the older workers down; for breaking strikes and as a lever for the forcing of wage cuts on the textile workers.

Spending Thousands.

With the supply of cheap labor from Europe greatly diminished as a result of the immigration restrictions; the textile bosses and manufacturing associations of Massachusetts are willing to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to be sure that no limitations will be put on the supply of child labor in this state.

Leading the Fight.

The Young Workers' League which is fighting against the wage cuts in Massachusetts along with the Workers (Communist) Party; is leading the fight against child labor in this state. It is not only trying to organize the youth and child laborers so that they will not scab on the older workers, but thru its official organ, The Young Worker, the league is fighting the propaganda of the capitalist press which has been even worse here than in other states.

The textile bosses and other manufacturers of Massachusetts mobilized the whole press for a "scare campaign" only second to the "Coolidge or Chaos" scare campaign of the recent elections.

Weekly Worker.

The last issue of The Young Worker is a special child labor edition, which will be widely distributed and sold in this state. In the past, The Young Worker has been greatly handicapped since it appeared only twice a month, but stating with the next issue it will begin publication as a weekly paper when it will be able to intensify its campaign against child labor in Massachusetts and thruout the country.

McAndrew Institutes Star Chamber Tactics Against the Teachers

Superintendent of Schools McAndrew not only believes in secrecy in marking of teachers' examination papers, he also believes in secret conferences with teachers.

The board of education has ordered him to call a conference with representatives of teachers' organizations to clear up the controversy on secret markings. Monday night it was learned that McAndrew had invited each teachers' organization to send a representative to a conference. When the representative arrived, however, they were kept waiting in the corridor outside his office while one at a time entered McAndrew's private room and in the presence of William H. Campbell, of the board of examiners, he questioned them.

Margaret Haley, of the Teachers' Federation, said the Teachers' Union absolutely refuses to send a representative to discuss this question or any other under closed doors.

The organizations that sent representatives were the Physical Educational Club of Chicago, (men) the Assistants to Principles and the Women Teachers' Physical Education. They sat in the chairs in the corridor rigid and sphinx-like and as noncommittal as the superintendent himself.

Plute Who Won War With Tar Pot Uses Pistol Correctly

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. Feb. 17.—Judge John F. McGee is dead. By his own hand, the workers of Minnesota were relieved of one of their bitterest enemies. On Sunday morning he was found dead as a result of a gun shot, self inflicted.

During the war he won the eternal plaudits of capitalist plutes by his activities against the workers as chairman of the infamous Burnquist "public safety commission." Non-partisan league and labor organizers were tarred and feathered, meetings were broken up and militants were jailed under the guise of "liberty and democracy."

At the time of his death he was holding down the job of United States district judge, which was given to him on March 1st, 1923, by the late Mr. Harding, as a reward for his services to the master class. For many years prior to that he had been an attorney for northwest railroads and other large corporations.

SECTION OF THE TRADE UNION EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE

SHOE WORKER TELLS SHOP CONDITIONS

Hopes for Amalgamation and Union

By S. ASSAD.

It has been my misfortune (or fortune) not to be able to slave without a struggle, so that most of the time I find myself looking for a job.

would like very much to relate of my adventures in job hunt- r they are worth while relating to benefit of others who will find nselves in the same circumstances as myself.

But I will leave this for some other time because I believe the conditions in some of the shops I have worked in are of a greater significance now, on account of the unity movement among the shoe unions.

Factory Experience.

In 1917 while hunting for a job, I happened to fall in a shoe factory as a trimming cutter, at that time when labor was at a premium, when workers everywhere were getting comparatively good wages, I used to make an average of $12 to $15 a week. Not being able to support myself with that meager earnings I had to quit.

Drifting from one place to the other, and after hunting for a job for the last 16 months I was compelled to beg for a job in the same factory.

What are the conditions in this factory now? Hours—Morning 7:45 a. m. to 12. Then 12:45 to 5:45 p. m. Saturday 7:45 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Piecework System.

The majority of the workers in this factory work piecework, the time workers, except the foreman, get an average of $15.00 a week. for 51½ hours a week.

Pieceworkers vary for 1st clasr from $15.00 to $35.00 working at top speed; trimmers of 2nd class, $15.00 to $20 a week under the same conditions.

Besides all this the workers are responsible for any loss of stock or for any damage. I happened to be one of those to be charged for cutting two pairs of shoes over measure in about 1,000 (the shoes were used just the same.)

No Organization.

It is the firm of Jacob & Sons of Brooklyn. As far as I learn there was never any attempt to organize this factory, which employs from 300 to 400 workers.

The sentiment among the workers is very rebellious, if anybody happens to work a little faster and make a few dollars more, down go the prices and all the rest suffer. When anybody is bold enough to protest out he goes. (myself)

Brings in Communist Press.

I wonder how long will all these slaves stand for this kind of conditions in this land of plenty!

I am watching and expecting with eagerness the time when the shoe unions will accomplish unity, and when they will start a genuine campaign to organize this hell hole.

The DAILY WORKER, the Freiheit and Il Lavoratore were introduced by me in this place. Unfortunately, I am looking for work again and I can't continue the work I started.

More power to our press, the T. U. E. L. and our party in their struggle to awaken the workers to their interests.

Unemployment Rife in Illinois Mines; Miners Form Councils

From a Rank and File Miner

T. U. E. L. section DAILY WORKER:—

Dear Comrade:—

I am a miner and not a writer. Still I feel that something is going to happen soon. It must happen. We cannot go along much longer with this starvation situation forever. The rank and file are surely muttering and discontent is rampant and the workers are more and more turning to the Workers Party and the T. U. E. L. as they are the only organizations that point the way out.

In Johnson City 3,000 miners are thrown out of work and mines are closing down daily. Witt closed down with several hundred Feb. 1st, Lincoln with 800, went down Feb. 3rd, Coalton with 900 Feb. 4th, Nokomis, with 800, Feb. 5th. Watch this grow from now on. 2,000 thrown out of work in three days in central Illinois.

Most of the mines are working slow. Miners do not move fast but when they do there is generally something doing. The formation of unemployment councils is a strange thing to the miners, but when they grasp the idea watch them take to it. Let's hasten the process.

CANADIAN DISTRICT

MINERS OF NOVA SCOTIA BATTLE CUT IN WAGES

Refuse to Swallow "Conciliation"

At the recent election for officers in District 26 of the U. M. W. of A. in Nova Scotia, Canada, the Lewis machine steerers received the drubbing of their lives, and a complete left wing slate was elected. The British Empire Steel corporation, not being able to use the present executive board as they did John L. Lewis and company, have applied to the Canadian government for a "conciliation" board in order to put over another wage cut. The following are extracts from a statement issued by the executive board of District 26, U. M. W. of A.:

"We find ourselves in the position where we are permitted by the company to deal with no item in regard to coal costs other than the wages of the members of our union. In looking over these, for instance, for the past year we find that an appalling number of our members have drawn, in actual money, less than one-half of the wage necessary to maintain a decent standard of living as set out in the Labor Gazette.

"We have refused to take a cut in our wages, and a conciliation board has been applied for by the corporation to assist in bringing that cut upon us.

"Eventually we will be confronted with the batons of the provincial police and the bayonets of the Canadian militia as the final reason for us to accept a cut.

"The country at large knows that this British Empire Steel corporation was conceived in iniquity and brought forth in deceit. Its pap was watered stock and puffed inventories, and it suckled heartily. Its president speaks for himself as do some of its directors. Today it is in its sturdy adolescence of turpidits and injustice. Its assault on our wages comes with annual monotony, and will continue until we are starved below the point of subsistance.

"This country knows these things and yet, to our amazement, we see the country give judgment against us, and the government of our country send bayonets and bombs to fix our wage schedules. Conciliation boards have never resulted in a fair and impartial investigation of the matters which underlie our difficulties with this corporation. We are hopeless of the present board being an exception in that regard."

Garment Workers of Montreal and Toronto Strike

Four thousand cloak, suit and shirt workers of Montreal and Toronto, Canada, affiliated with the I. L. G. W. U., have declared a general strike. The cause of the strike is the encroachment of the employers on standards of work which have been reduced to an unbearable limit.

The demand of the strikers is the re-establishment of the 44-hour week, a union agreement, establishment of a joint board of sanitary control. It is reported that many of the larger shops have signed individual agreements.

NOVA SCOTIA MINERS VOTE STRONG FOR LEFT WINGERS

As a sample of what the Canadian miners think of John L. Lewis and his crooked administration, here is a sample of how they voted in District 26, Nova Scotia:

	Locals 4521	4718	4522	5529	4536
For President
John L. Lewis	69	12	65	18	21
George Voyzey	277	87	89	459	145
For Vice president
Philip Murray	77	19	84	45	38
Arley Staples	185	80	112	429	119
For Secretary-Treasurer
Wm. Green	53	16	66	31	23
J. Nearing	281	83	135	434	139

In this district Lewis did not even find a single local union that would nominate him. Here he could not steal the votes.

WESTERN DISTRICT

UNITED FRONT, WHAT IT IS AND HOW TO GET IT

OAKLAND, Calif.—The T. U. E. L. is doing very successful work, especially in the Building Trades. Every Sunday evening a large conference takes place at 545 9th St., working on the problem of unemployment, which is a very serious question in Alameda county. Plans are being carried out to initiate the calling of a conference with the unemployed by locals of the Building Trades.

A special committee, Buck of the Lathers, Dart of the Building Laborers, Rutz and McCrary of the Carpenters, Karpoff of Machinists, and Paralta of Tailors, are working with Comrade Bloor in making a survey of the actual situation and getting resolutions through the unions to call the conference on unemployed within the next two weeks.

This Is Really Unity

A united front on the Sacco-Vanzetti case has been formed in a very substantial manner. One large meeting was held at which appeared three delegates elected by the Building Trade Council, three sent by Carpenters Local 36, three by the Laborers, also delegates from Carpenters Union Local 1167, and from the T. U. E. L. of Oakland, and San Francisco, local 460 of the I. W. W., 330 of the I. W. W., Workers Party of Alameda county and San Francisco, and three Italian organizations.

The secretary of the United Front Conference, Comrade Bloor, was instructed to send resolutions for adoption to every local union in the Bay District. This has been done. The Building Trades Council of Alameda County adopted it, also other local unions. A collection of $66 was sent to the Sacco-Vanzetti Committee.

Now We've Got It— We Have Too Many; But Thank You All

T. U. E. L. Section DAILY WORKER, Dear Comrade:—

In response to your appeal, I am sending you a copy of Blatchfod's book "Not Guilty" for our Walla Walla class victim. Best wishes to our martyred friend and to you all. Fraternally yours,

A. E. HOUSE, Spokane, Wash.

Editors Note:—Thanks, comrade, for the quick response. The book has been sent to our friend in Walla Walla. Three other comrades have sent in a copy of the desired book. They gave no return address. If they wish to have them returned, please notify this section.

Left Wing Fighters Are Never Beaten, Even If a Bit Licked

The reign of terror and the expulsion policy carried on in the I. L. G. W. U. for over a year by the Sigman-Peristein-Forward alliance has strengthened instead of weakened the T. U. E. L. in that organization. The left wing is again in control of dress makers' Local 22 of New York City, and are preparing to wage a stiff fight for the left wing candidates in the coming election in Local 2.

The difference between a left wing and a right wing control was shown at the meeting of Local 22, when Zimmerman, leader of the left wing, was elected chairman of the organization committee and 500 members of the local were enrolled into a committee for the organizing of the industry. Before this appears in print the campaign will be in full swing.

Grand Rapids Goes To Bat Against Czar Hutcheson

Wm. L. Hutcheson is not going to have as easy a time as he thought he would in putting into effect his expulsion policy. Grand Rapids is the latest city to take up the fight for the re-instatement of the expelled members. On Feb. 12, Local 1330 unanimously adopted the resolution sent out by Detroit Local 2140 to all locals of the brotherhood demanding the re-instatement of all those expelled without trial. The resolution and letter sent out by Local 2140 is printed in another part of this section.

BUILDING TRADES UNION TRAITORS EVERYWHERE

Polish Workers Have Their Hutchesons

Read the following appeal issued in behalf of the persecuted building trades workers of Poland. Then look over the situation here in America and you will see the similarity of the tactics used by the labor bureaucrats in the building trades and other unions.

Hutcheson thru his tool, Muir of Los Angeles, entered an alliance with the police of that city to raid a meeting of the T. U. E. L., which was the basis for the expulsion of sixteen carpenters from the Brotherhood. In Detroit, Hutcheson thru his lieutenants got out an injunction to aid him in expelling William Reynolds from the union.

In America, as in Poland, the treacherous labor leaders form a united front with the workers' enemies, with the police, the courts, the employers, etc. The only way to successfully combat this class collaboration united front is to build up a powerful left wing movement nationally and to become an active integral part of the International Propaganda Committee of the Revolutionary Building Trades Workers. The appeal follows:

TO THE BUILDING WORKERS OF ALL COUNTRIES!

Dear Comrades: The Polish police have carried out a raid on and closed the Polish Building Workers' Union. This union is one of a number of revolutionary organizations in the class trade union movement of Poland. It is affiliated to the Polish trade union central, which is under the leadership of the Polish socialist party.

We would draw your attention to the behaviour of the leaders of this central thruout the whole history of our common sister organization in Poland. What have they done to support the class movement of the building workers? They have done all in their power to endeavor to get rid of the revolutionary Building Workers' Union. They have repeatedly caused the Warsaw branch to be closed, it being the strongest section of this organization.

Finally, by means of their daily circulated innuendoes and calumnies they have managed to get the union closed as a whole. They set up a dual class collaboration organization in Cracow. They limited themselves to false paper decisions when the question was raised of amalgamating the Cracow union with the All-Polish organization. Working from behind the scenes, they supported the dual organization, thereby violating the decisions made by the congress of Polish class unions, and supporting it against the revolutionary union of the Building Workers of Poland.

They did this with the secret aim of preparing a forgery, utilizing their connection with the intelligence department and the police for this purpose. They think they will be able to replace the dissolved revolutionary union by the reformist Cracow association which is more to their liking.

Here, comrades, we have an example of the "democratic struggle" with your ideological opponent carried out according to methods borrowed from the secret service department, the instrument of oppression suppressing all vital thot in the Polish labor movement. The P. S. P. leaders in the central commission of Polish trade unions have shown themselves worthy hirelings of their masters, the capitalists, and upholders of the government's political system.

While energetically protesting against this attempt to abolish our Polish sister organization, we call upon you, comrades, to show solidarity with the Red Building Workers of Poland, we call upon you to link up your forces in a single militant front against capital and its henchmen.

Every country, with the exception of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, where rule the sickle and hammer, has its own oppressors, its own betrayers of working class interests.

Poland's example will once again be a warning to you. Join up in the united front against capital, against the socialists of all shades. Only the Communist banner, leading in the van of the fight, right to the overthrow of capitalism, will show you a way out of the present position of slavery and oppression.

International Propaganda Committee of the Revolutionary Building Workers.

"Ingratitude," Like An Adder, Stingeth Old Faker Jimmie

QUINCY, Mass., Feb. 17.—James Duncan, whose resignation as first vice president of the American Federation of Labor is under consideration by the executive council of that organization, said today he resented the "ingratitude" of the executive board in not naming him president in place of the late Samuel Gompers.

EASTERN DISTRICT

PAINTERS FIGHT OPEN SHOP MOVE IN PHILADELPHIA

Bosses Bait Hook with Measly Nickle

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.— Dist. Council No. 21 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, covering the entire Philadelphia district, is seriously considering the question of a strike during the coming spring.

In order to prevent any decisive action on the part of the union, the master painters offered an increase in wages of 5 cents an hour, but insist upon the continuation of the open shop system.

A questionnaire regarding the strike was sent out to all members of the district and final action will be taken by the council as soon as the questionnaires are returned by the membership. The following statement was sent out by the council together with the questionnaire:

PHILADELPHIA DISTRICT COUNCIL NO. 21

Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America.

Philadelphia, January 16, 1925.

The report of the conference committee was read at the meeting held on above date. After going over the matter thoughtfully and realizing the attitude assumed by the master painters and our members towards our organization, the committee feels that the first step taken should be the sending out of the following letter and questionnaire to the membership and recommends the same to the district council:

Dear Sir and Brother:

The conference committee of District Council No. 21 have taken a careful survey of our craft in the city of Philadelphia and have come to the conclusion that the painters of Philadelphia are not receiving the wages and conditions that they are justified in receiving. We are today in the van of all the building trades of Philadelphia and away behind the brotherhood men of other cities who are receiving the following rates:

	Per Day
New York, 40-hour week	$10.50
Chicago	11.00
Pittsburgh	10.00
St. Louis	11.00
Washington	9.00
Boston	8.80
Newark	10.00
Trenton	10.00
Scranton, 40-hour week	8.00
Atlantic City	9.00
Wilkes-Barre, 40-hour week	9.00
Cleveland	10.00
Brooklyn	12.50

As our living conditions are higher than these cities, we being the third highest in the United States, you will realize that it is time for us to secure some of these conditions, but you must remember that these conditions were secured thru their organizations and the members fighting and supporting them.

The master painters up to the present have not dealt fairly with your committee, and have assumed the position that we have no organization and want to dictate the conditions that we shall work under. Nevertheless it was thru the action of the district council and the committee that they granted you a 5-cent increase on January 1.

Taking everything into consideration, we feel that for us to secure some of these conditions it will be necessary for us to take the bull by the horns and force them to recognize us. As the time is growing short and the committee realizes that some action must be taken by April 1, we are compelled to ask for a $5.00 assessment to help finance the district council for this contemplated action. We would recommend that this be the only assessment collected and if we have to strike, that no benefits be paid.

The committee is sending you a questionnaire, with the thought in mind of getting the true sentiment and information of all the members. We ask of you to read this over carefully and to answer same and send in to District Council No. 21, Brotherhood of Painters, 1924 Spring Garden street. Don't disregard this or throw it away but answer it, so we may get the true sentiment and information of our membership on this question.

Carpenters of Philly Act: Let Us Know How Other Locals Vote

Carpenters' Local Union No. 1050 of Philadelphia by a unanimous vote endorsed the resolution sent to all local unions by Local 2140 of Detroit, condemning the expulsion policy of William L. Hutcheson and demanding the reinstatement of the expelled members. The resolution is published in another part of this page. Write in and tell us what action your local has taken on this resolution.

Is Sledding Hard for Raphael? We'll Say So!

The Philadelphia league is on the job. Some time ago they led the fight in the A. C. W. joint board that defeated the resolution to send a committee to welcome Abramovich, the Georgian white guardist. Now they report that Local 140 approved the decision of the joint board.

In order to show that they meant business, Local 140 also elected a complete left wing slate. The right wing showed their full strength, coming to the election meeting after a frantic attempt to line up the shops. The test vote came on the local chairman. B. Nenstein, the left wing candidate, received 81 votes, to Feldstein's 52. The reactionaries then tried to create a disturbance, failing to do so, they quit the hall in a body.

Once more our friends, the yellow socialists, tried to push thru a welcome for the counter-revolutionary Abramovich, at Local 75, A. C. W., meeting. But the left wingers again were on the job and the motion was defeated by a vote of 15 to 4. Abramovich is having some hard sleighing in Philly.

LEGION LEADER GETS QUESTIONS HE CAN'T ANSWER

Cites Fakers to Help Him: They Don't

By A. W. YOUNG.

On Feb. 4, at a regular meeting of Local Union 705, U. M. W. of A., O'Fallon, Ill., the commander of the American legion of the state of Illinois, Mr. J. J. Bullington, appeared in search of new members for his strikebreaker organization.

He started out by saying that the American legion was organized for the purpose of establishing hospitals for disabled soldiers and collecting aid for widows and orphans. He then read some endorsements from those whom he called "labor leaders of whom the capitalist class of this country is very proud." The first one was Sam Gompers—a real tool for the masters of wage slaves—the second was John H. Walker—whom the workers think less of than they do of Strikebreaker Coolidge; the next was Frank Farrington—who was on the sub-scale committee at Jacksonville, Florida, Feb. 19, 1924, and who was instrumental in tying the "open shop" around the necks of the U. M. W. of A.

After the reading of the endorsements from the worst enemies the workers have in their labor movement, these questions were asked of the commander:

Q. In case the American legion was called out by the government to put down a strike, what action would the American legion take?

A. If the government called the American legion out to put down a strike, we would be called on as American citizens and not as American legionnaries.

Q. In case the government would call on the American legion to put down a strike of the workers as American citizens, what action would the American legionnaries take?

A. Obey our government.

Q. Is there any connection between the American legion and the K. K. K.?

A. There has been a few friendly leters exchanged between the two organizations.

Then the commander's attention was called to the raids made on the I. W. W. hall in Centralia, Washington, which resulted in the killing and jailing of I. W. W.'s, and other acts of a similar nature. His answer to this was that they were individuals and not American legionnaries.

His trip to Local Union 705 was a fiasco, and an eye-opener to the working class.

At the present time the American legion is seeking an endowment fund of $5,000,000, which will undoubtedly be raised by Wall Street. The legion is the vanguard of capitalism. This $5,000,000 fund would buy tons of ammunition and firearms to put down the rising tide of the workers who produced it.

The vanguard of this country for the workers are the Communists. Their slogan is, "Workers arise! Down with the capitalist dictatorship!"

'WORK WITHIN REACTIONARY UNIONS'—LENIN

Must Be Done Systematically, He Says

By N. LENIN

Gompers, Henderson, Jouhaux, Legien, are without doubt grateful to left revolutionaries, who, like the German "opposition on principle" (save us from such principles!) or the American Industrial Workers of the World, preach withdrawing from the reactionary trade unions, refusing to work within them.

Of Course There Are Difficulties

There is no doubt but that the opportunist leaders of the unions will resort to all the dirty tricks of bourgeois diplomacy, invoking the help of the capitalist governments, priests, police, judges, etc. in order to prevent the Communists from penetrating into the trade unions, to force them out of the unions, to make their work withing the unions as dangerous as possible, aiding the police to persecute and hunt them down.

But we must be able to withstand all that, to be ready for any and every sacrifice, and even if necessary, to practice trickery, to employ cunning, and to resort to illegal methods, to sometimes even overlook or conceal the truth,—all for the sake of penetrating into the trade unions, to stay there and by every and all means carry on the work of Communism.

Worked in Government Unions

Under the Czarist regime, prior to 1915, we had no legal status, but when Zubatov, of the Russian secret police, undertook to organize the "Black Hundred Labor Assemblies" and labor societies for the purpose of trapping the revolutionists and combatting them, we dispatched to these meetings and organization, some of our best men, who got in touch with the masses and contrived to carry on a campaign of agitation within these organizations, with the result that we succeeded in turning the masses away from the influence of the Zubatovists.

Gompers, Henderson, Jouhaux, Legien and Co. are nothing but "Zubatovs" who are distinguished from the Russian Zubatov by their modish dress, their cultural polish, and by their more refined and democratically developed technique, in carrying out their infamous policy.

Must Be Done Systematically

It is certainly much more difficult to accomplish the kind of work carried on in Russia, by the Communists, in the countries of western Europe and America, because the workers are so thoroughly permeated with legalistic, constitutional, bourgeois-democratic prejudices.

Nevertheless, this kind of work not only can be done, but must be done, and done systematically.

Members of the A. C. W. Expelled from Union in Rochester, N. Y.

In Rochester seven active left wing members of the A. C. W. were expelled recently for opposing the policy of the officialdom. The agreement, which has been renewed, coupled with the expulsions, have served to heighten the spirit of discontent of the workers with the policies of the officials. This, officially, throws Hillman's hat into the expulsion ring. A soft and easy living, close association with the powers that be, makes class collaborators of many labor officials.

The fighting spirit that made the Amalgamated is dead, officially. It lives, however, in the rank and file, and the needle trades section of the T. U. E. L. is the expression of that spirit and has developed it to a clear-cut class conscious expression that has forced the Hillman administration to get off the middle of the road and take sides. The issues are clear now in the Amalgamated. The fight has just begun.

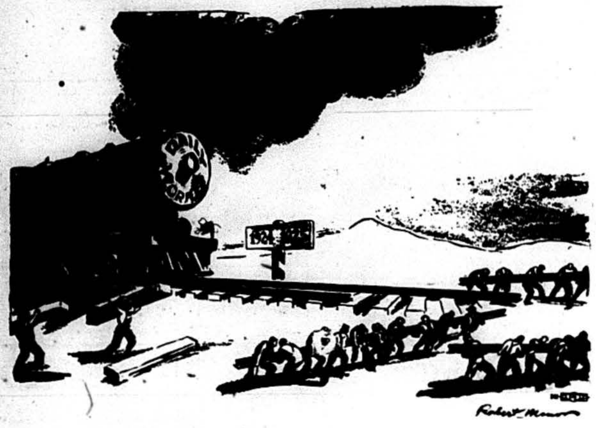
Fine Work of T. U. E. L. and Y. W. L. in Philly

The upholsterers and the cement workers unions of Philadelphia passed resolutions endorsing the Labor Defense Council pledging support to the Michigan Communist defendants. The DAILY WORKER agent spoke for 20 minutes at the Cement Workers Local No. 5, showing the need of the unions supporting the only working class daily in the English language. He was given a very good reception. This is one of the best methods of bringing the DAILY WORKER to the workers.

The knit goods workers of Philadelphia, although affiliated to the I. L. G. W. U., do not believe in the expulsion policy of their International officialdom. At their last meeting a motion was adopted to invite the Young Workers League to help them in their organization drive. The members of the Y. W. L. are amongst the most active workers in the T. U. E. L.

DANGER AHEAD!

More Laborers Needed!



Insure The Daily Worker To The Last Spike!

FINISH THE JOB!

A red light has been turned on in the signal tower . . . Danger ahead! THE DAILY WORKER train is gathering up speed. The rails are smooth. The tracks seem clear. But, danger ahead! Far away, around the bend, a crew of laborers are laying rails and hammering in spikes. Their job is not finished. Can they get thru in time to let the train pass?

NOT UNLESS THEY HAVE MORE HELP! NOT UNLESS THERE IS A UNITED FRONT!

Three months ago, the DAILY WORKER sent out its first call for help. Since that time, almost $20,000 has been received. But $30,000 more is vitally needed to carry the paper thru the coming year.

If ALL of the Workers Party branches,—if ALL of the DAILY WORKER readers, had done their part in the past, the work would be complete now. Only half have acted. Therefore, half of the job is still to be done,—over half, for not all of the militants worked full strength.

There are FIFTEEN DAYS left. Time to have branch meetings! Time to make a special canvass of party members to see that not one fails to buy a policy! Time for each reader to send in his dollar! And that is time enough!

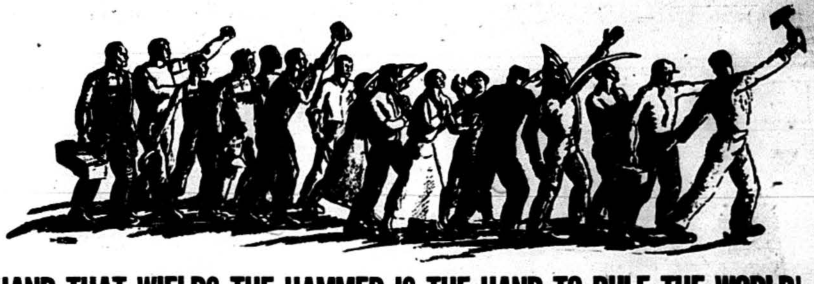
Danger ahead! But there is time to escape it. There are 988 branches in the Workers Party.. There are 25,000 readers of the paper. And there are only $30,000 needed.

When the cable of congratulation goes to the Comintern, will the DAILY WORKER be able to say, "EVERY party member, EVERY DAILY WORKER reader, joins with us in celebrating the sixth C. I. anniversary. The American Communist press can assure you that it will live thru the coming year to carry on your tasks in the United States. We go forward to 1926 with a UNITED FRONT . .·. ."?

This is the message that we want to send, the message that we are depending upon our readers to make possible, the MESSAGE THAT MUST GO!

On March, 5, in the special Comintern edition, there will be a roll call of the UNITED FRONT,—a record of Communists. Will YOUR BRANCH be there? Will YOU be there?

LET NOT ONE VOICE BE SILENT WHEN OUR GREETING IS SENT ACROSS THE OCEAN TO THE C. I.!



I am with you for insuring the DAILY WORKER TO THE LAST SPIKE.

ASK ALL WORKERS TO USE R. A. I. C. DIVIDENDS TO AID SOVIET INDUSTRY

The Russian-American Industrial corporation has paid its second dividend to the workers who purchased shares of stock in order to aid the development of the needle trades industry in Soviet Russia. The needle trades of Chicago have started a move to collect all of the dividends and to return them in the form of machinery to Soviet Russia.

Some of the dividends have already been sent in. This is no doubt one of the ways which would greatly please those who did their share in building Soviet Russia industrially by purchasing shares in the R. A. I. C.

Those who bought shares did so undoubtedly because they hoped and expected that it helped build Russian industry and not because they really expected or wanted any dividends as capitalist coupon clippers expect and for which purpose only they invest.

The workers, investors of the R. A. I. C. will very likely be pleased to aid Russia of the workers and peasants by donating their dividends.

To those who have received such dividends and who wish to return them for the purpose of purchasing machinery, please send your dividend or other donations to the Needle Trades Committee of the Trade Union Educational League or the Workers Party, 166 W. Washington St., and all contributions will be acknowledged in The DAILY WORKER.

Criminal Syndicalist Law Protest to Be Held in Los Angeles

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 17.—The criminal syndicalism law of California is one of those numerous vicious expressions of capitalist dictatorship somewhat more openly violent than its other phases. It has penned within the walls of San Quentin and Folsom some of the bravest proletarian fighters of the west. In the east, similar laws are aimed at similar working class agitators. In Michigan the Communists are fighting against prison. In California the I. W. W. militants have felt the heel of class justice.

The significance of these cases, what it means if labor fails to defend these and similar fighters, and what it can mean to labor if all its separate elements combine upon repelling the assaults of the common enemy, this will be the subject of a lecture by Ella Reeve Bloor, to be given at the Music Arts Hall, 233 South Broadway, Los Angeles, on Sunday evening, Feb. 22. All workers invited. Admission is free.

ST. PAUL EXPECTS BIG CROWD AT "THE BEAUTY AND THE BOLSHEVIK"

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 17.—The comrades in charge of arrangements for the showing in St. Paul on Friday evening, Feb. 20, of the International Workers' Aid films, "The Beauty and the Bolshevik" announce that the advance sale of tickets is beyond expectations, and that they expect that a record will be made for the showing in this city of Russian films.

The pictures will be exhibited only one evening at the German-American House, 444 Rice street.

The workers are being attracted as much by the three reels of industrial pictures depicting the progress being made in this direction under the Soviet republic, as by the comedy drama, "The Beauty and the Bolshevik."

Special care has been exercised to procure a suitable hall for this showing. The German-American house is regularly equipped for exhibition of motion pictures, is suitably located and otherwise well adapted for the occasion.

The price of admission is 50 cents, and all those who do not procure tickets in advance may obtain them at the door. The show begins promptly at eight o'clock, and is under auspices of the International Workers' Aid.

QUAKER RELIEF WORKER SPEAKS ABOUT SOVIETS

Superstition Fought by Education

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17.—It seems that others than members of the working class are interested in the Russian question. There is an open forum in this city every Friday evening; run by alleged liberals. Empty seats are usually conspicuous at these meetings. Last evening, however, every seat was occupied and a large number stood during the entire evening. The crowd extended even into the hall and listened there.

The topic was "Russian Aristocracy and the Soviet Government"; the speaker, Miss Dorothy Detzer, was employed as a relief worker, by the Society of Friends, in the Volga district during the famine in that region in 1922.

Miss Detzer said that the United States government had recognized the government of the czar, altho it could not possibly have approved of the methods of czardom, and that America should recognize Soviet Russia, regardless of whether or not we approve of that form of government.

In speaking of educational affairs in Russia, Miss Detzer described the poster system of teaching the adult population. Another educational method is thru lectures, which deal largely with history and economics. Education is compulsory and includes the adult population. The greatest difficulty is in overcoming the superstitions which had been taught the people by religionists.

She told of one peasant who had told her that he used quinine to cure malaria because quinine was bitter and that it, therefore, drove the "little devils" out of his system.

Miss Detzer said that even a year ago religious fakers were discovered by the Communists in deceiving the people by the aid of hidden mirrors in the ceilings of the churches, so located that the sun shone on the glass, and the light was reflected so as to fall upon ikons below. This was declared to be evidence that the priests were capable of producing miracles.

The Soviet government officials are active in exposing these frauds and in their activities attack all churches, including christian, Greek, Mohammedan and Jewish sects.

$15,000,000 CATHEDRAL BUILT OUT OF WEALTH STOLEN FROM WORKERS IN GREAT INDUSTRIES

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Wonder what St. John the Divine would feel if he could look now on the cathedral rising in his name in the capital of world exploitation. Would he feel honored because the vaulted ceiling, or rose windows or perhaps the giant pillars of the nave are to be memorials to his namesake, St. John D., the exploiter of wage slaves in iron, oil, coal, copper and a host of other fields?

This $15,000,000 cathedral to which the country's richest are making their donations in $100,000 blocks is part of the big attempt to glorify New York as the supreme moneylender before the world of humble borrowers.

The cathedrals capitalist Europe inherited were built by contributed labor and the mites of communities of believers. But the premier cathedral of capitalist America will rest on the wealth produced by steel workers suppressed by machine guns and cossacks, by coal miners overawed by the armed thugs of West Virginia and Colorado, by railroad workers subdued by troops and injunctions and by metal miners and lumbermen who have known the oppression of the northern ranges, the northwest forests, or the mines of Montana, Nevada, Utah and Arizona.

"John D." Gives $500,000.

John D. Rockefeller leads the donors with $500,000. The slick, sharp practice by which competitors were robbed out of existence in the early days of Standard Oil opened the road to control of the National City bank with its international investments, Anaconda Copper, Colorado Fuel and Iron and numberless railroads, steel plants, mines, etc. A record of bitter anti-union tactics lately masquerading as benevolent paternalism.

Arthur Curtis James gives $150,000. His directorships include Phelps-Dodge corporation (copper), Golden Mill corporation, Curtis Secruities Co. under which he conceals his extensive ownership, the Burlington and Northern Pacific railroads and the U. S. Trust Co.

E. S. Harkness and family give $155,000. He is director of the New York Central, Big Four, Michigan Central, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, Indiana Harbor Belt, Southern Pacific and St. Paul railroads, also of the Leather trust.

Ogden Mills gives $100,000. His directorships include Farmers Loan and Trust, Metropolitan Trust and U. S. Trust, Intl. Paper, Niagara Falls Power, the New York Central and the Southern Pacific railroads.

J. P. Morgan Helps.

J. P. Morgan, Aerica's money king, gives a mere $100,000.

Other large gifts from the dominant financial ring come from Robert L. Gerry of Farmers Loan and Trust, etc.; F. A. Juilliard of Guaranty Trust, etc.; Frank A. Munsey, organizer of the capitalist press; J. E. Berwind of the anti-union coal mine fame; the Pratts of Standard Oil; Steele, Morrow and Bacon of J. P. Morgan Co., the Stillmans and so down the social register.

Small, on Trial For Robbing State, Asks for Delay

SPRINGFIELD, Illinois, Feb. 17.—Governor Len Small filed an appeal with the Illinois supreme court in connection with the state interest money suits, representing approximately a million dollars.

The Sangamon county circuit court, from which the appeal was made, had ordered Small to make an accounting. The court was expected to rule Monday on a motion asking extension of time to July 10 for filing a complete record in the case.

Wage Cuts and Unemployment in Lumber Industry

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 9. (By Mail)—This morning the Washington Veneer company, a new concern here, partially began operating.

There were over three hundred men applying for jobs with openings for less than seventy-five; that being the only work opening up.

Logging camps in the vicinity, as well as in the Greys Harbor country around Aberdeen, Wash., are laying off crews and saw mills are reduced from six to five days a week, while pay has been reported cut in same mills from 40 cents per hour to 30 cents.—L. K.

CUT WAGES THEN KILL EMPLOYES IN LITHUANIA

Six Hundred Ask Mayor for Relief; Get Bullets

(Special to The Daily Worker)

KOVNO, Lithuania, Feb. 17.—Three workers were killed, more than 30 were wounded, and many arrested when mounted police rode down a crowd of six hundred workers who had gone to the city hall to protest against a cut in wages.

Slash Wages.

The government employes working in the city departments were told by the city council that their wages had been cut from seven litus to five litus (one litus equals 10 cents in American money).

The workers gathered at the city hall hall in protest, calling upon the mayor, John Vileishis, a liberal, and demanding to know the reason for the cut in wages. They told the mayor they could not exist on five litus.

Massacre in Church.

The mayor called the troops and ordered them to fire into the crowd. The workers fled, many of them taking refuge in a catholic church nearby. The troops followed here, however, and wounded several workers inside the church.

Many were arrested. The Lithuanian government surpressed all news of this occurrence, which took place on Jan. 19.

Lithuanians Here Protest.

The central bureau of the Lithuanian section of the Workers Party issued a call to all the Lithuanian workers in this country to call meetings to protest against this Bloody Monday, and help the persecuted in their fight against the reactionary government of white Lithuania.

Buffalo Anti-Fascist Alliance Stands by Labor Defense Council

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 17.—The Buffalo branch of the Anti-Fascisti Alliance of North America at its last meeting passed the following resolution in protest of the state supreme court of Michigan for upholding the conviction of C. E. Ruthenberg and in protest of the "criminal syndicalism" and "sedition acts" laws, instruments used by the employing class over militant workers and their organizations.

Resolution

RESOLVED, that we protest against and condemn the action of the Michigan state supreme court, and record ourselves in support of the Labor Defense Council in this case and call upon all labor bodies and working-class bodies to take the same stand. That we petition the governor of the state of Michigan to pardon the defendent in the event that the United States supreme court sustains the conviction, it being our view that such action on the part of the federal supreme court would be a nullification of the constitution in the interest of the instrument of capitalist suppression of the workers, and be it further

RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution be sent to the governor of the state of Michigan and to the entire labor press.

Signed: Vice President I. Sullony and Secretary M. Barello.

BUILDERS AT WORK

A BIG IDEA WITH A SMALL REMITTANCE FROM MINNEAPOLIS.

WE have often stated that a BUILDER, an up-and-doing worker who is active for "our paper", just simply can't avoid building the revolutionary movement in every way. Our argument was, that building every angle of the movement was inevitable when building the DAILY WORKER.

That our contention works out in practice we prove with the action of Comrade Leo G. Walewitch of Minneapolis.

We receive from him a six month sub for the DAILY WORKER and a year's sub to the Workers Monthly—both on blanks torn from the "Tool Box." This itself is a sure sign of a BUILDER. But in addition (and here's where we do some "proving") this comrade writes:

Enclosed you will find my dividend check from the Russian-American Industrial Corporation.

As I did not invest my $10 into the R. A. I. C. to make money but to help Russia on her industrial front, I consider it my duty to send the dividend derived from this investment to the Labor Defense Council.

My check is only for 50 cents, but if many other "stockholders" will follow my step, the cents will soon be converted into dollars, into defense dollars which are more than ordinary dollars.

Hoping this little contribution will find some response among others, I remain,

Leo G. Walewitch.

That letter proves many things that we have said. It proves this also: In Minneapolis, where BUILDERS are giving labor fakers a lot to worry about, there are comrades like Leo. G. Walewitch, who not only understand the necessity of building the movement, but also the need of defending it. Let us have more such BUILDERS!

AMOSKEAG MILLS IN BITTER WAR ON 48-HOUR WEEK

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 17.—How Amoskeag textile mills are resisting all efforts of southern and mid western states to attract their attention to the desirability of moving is what Attorney E. K. Woodworth told the New Hampshire house labor committee on the hearing for the 48-hour bill which the big textile interests are fighting

Woodworth claims that "the women in industry are there from their own choice. It was only recently that the Amoskeag agent received a letter from a former operative who said 'For God's sake give me work, or I will have to take my two children and go to the poor house.'"

Conditions among Manchester textile workers where the big Amoskeag mills are have been terrible for over a year. There has been little work and the town is dependent upon this industry.

Woodworth had a happy time explaining to the legislators how the world's biggest textile mills had a $2,700,000 profit instead of the loss the board of directors had stated when they cut wages. He repeated the wool speculation story.

TARTAR REPUBLIC FORGES AHEAD, CONGRESS SHOWS

All Departments Show Big Improvement

KAZAN, Feb. 17.—The Fifth Congress of the Soviets of the Tartar Republic has taken place.

Comrade Gabidullin, president of the Soviet of People's Commissaries presented a report on the activity of the Tartar government.

During the past year the number of educational establishments under the People's Commissariat of Education has diminished, but on the other hand the material position of the institutions themselves as well as of the teaching staffs has improved. The salaries of the teachers have been raised from 8 rubles to 24 rubles per month. The percentage of Tartars in the school personnel is increasing, but not rapidly enough.

Agricultural conditions are certainly improving in the Tartar Republic. In comparison with last year, the area under seed has increased by 11.5 per cent and now equals 92 per cent of the pre-war sowing area. Next year the pre-war standard will be reached. During the last twelve months the number of horses has increased by 37 per cent, big horned cattle, 71 per cent. The conditions of the peasantry have improved, and this finds its reflex in the corn market.

The trade of the Tartar Republic is extending. The turnover of the exchange has risen during the year from 17 to 51 million rubles. The share of the co-operatives in the turnover of the exchange has risen since last year from 6 to 17 per cent.

The budget of the Tartar Republic is improving. In the current year the deficit will not exceed 10-12 per cent of the expenditure, while one-half of it is accounted for by last year's debts. Volost budgets have been introduced thruout the Tartar Republic. The agricultural tax is collected without any difficulties. In the expenditure of the local budget 36 per cent is assigned to public instruction and 14 per cent to the health department.

Historical Tragedy Vehicle for Boosting Fascism in Italy

The A. F. of L.'s Southern Survey

Will the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in the survey of labor in the southern states which it announced its intention of making after its Miami session, feature the conditions of the Negro workers as the principal problem?

Will it make concrete recommendations for the organization of the Negro workers into the trade unions? Will it approach the problems of southern labor from this all-important angle of race prejudice and discrimination against Negro workers as the most efficient weapon of the southern capitalists?

The south is being industralized. Last week we carried the news of a gigantic southern merger under House of Morgan auspices of electric power, coal mining, chemical and fertilizer industries that means more intensive exploitation of the southern workers, black and white.

Georgia, North Carolina, West Virginia, Louisiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, with coal, iron, lumber and water power, are fertile fields of investment for northern capital.

The agricultural south is dying. The smoke of factories, mines and smelters smudges the cotton blossoms. Feudalism, with the plantation owner as the overlord is replaced by modern capitalism. The crack of the slavedriver's whip is replaced by the more efficient spy system of the industrial baron.

To all this the labor movement must have an answer, but the correct answer will never be given by the Greens, Wolls, Ryans and Morrisons. Their recommendations will consist of the usual platitudes and leave the problem of the Negro in industry unsolved.

The Negro workers in the north and south who now toil side by side with white workers, will get no aid from the bureaucrats whose prejudices are the same as those of the ruling class. Strife between the races growing out of competition for jobs and aggravated by hoary falsehoods and reiterated vicious dogmas of a degenerate aristocracy, can be prevented only by opening the doors of every union to the Negro workers. The Negro workers of the new industrial south and the hundreds of thousands who are in northern industry must be organized or the labor movement will be wiped out like a picture on a slate under the wet finger of a schoolboy.

To believe that this task will be accepted and carried out by an officialdom and a program that has organized but one-seventh of the American working class in thirty-seven years, is to make one eligible for a madhouse.

It is to the rank and file of the organized workers that the problem must be put. It is only the rank and file aroused to the need for action and organized for it by the efforts of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Trade Union Educational League that can and will make the American trade unions a place where black and white workers, meeting as equals, join in a common struggle against American capitalism.

The Morning After

It was good while it lasted. Five million votes were cast for Robert Marion LaFollette. The socialists horned in on the publicity and on the votes. They claimed them as their own.

LaFollette had big business badly scared for a while. Not that he wanted to do that. But the G. O. P. was anxious to be the official spokesman of big business and in order to offset the protestations of loyalty to the capitalist system that came from LaFollette and his supporters, it pictured the Wisconsin senator as an extreme radical, who would liquidate Wall Street the day after his election and hang the big corporation heads on convenient lamp posts.

It is now only a few months after the elections. The shouting and the tumult has died down. Senator Wheeler is defending himself in an oil indictment. LaFollette is taking a sun bath somewhere in Florida. The C. P. P. A. is going to meet and talk. Nobody seems to know what to do with it. The Milwaukee Leader declares that those who should be interested don't know where they are at, excepting the socialist party and the Nation. A rather weak foundation to base a new party on! This is what the Leader says about "Fightin' Bob":

"As for LaFollette, apparently he does not know where he is at either. If he does, he is keeping still about it, while some of his followers are on their knees before the elephant beseeching admittance to the republican circus tent."

It was a grand and glorious feeling while it lasted. The jag was a good sticker. But Berger is now suffering the agonies of the morning after. Instead of being one of the "Buffalo Bills" in the LaFollette circus, he has a tough job trying to hold on to his job as one of the clowns.

Capitalism even uses clowns once in a while.

The United Front of Capital

B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad department of the A. F. of L., after calling off the shopmen's strike which began in July 1922, states in a letter that "Every possible effort that legally and properly could be made" was used to bring the strike "to a successful conclusion."

Mr. Jewell then says that the calling off of the strike is justified—"with no basis for hope of further efforts." A few lines above this, in his apology, he declares that the strike was not lost. With no "successful conclusion" nor any "basis for hope," it is an uncurable "look on the bright sider" who can gayly remark that the strike was not lost.

Mr. Jewell cites the reasons, nevertheless, for this peculiar "victory." At least he cites one of the reasons. He says: "Not only the railroad managements, but other organizations of employers, of capital and of investing interests were represented in those who presented a united front against the strikers."

And how about the working class, to whom the labor fakers of the Jewell type denounce the united front of labor as proposed by the Communists and the Trade Union Educational League as a thing of evil? Were the workers, even on the railroads, all in a united front against the acknowledged united front of all capitalists? Not by a long way!

It is Mr. Jewell and his kind who made no effort to complete the unity of all railroad workers, in fact they constituted the obstruction to unity. The disgraceful state of affairswhich allowed—and even forced—seven rairoad crafts to remain at work as union scabs, while the other nine were on strike and walking the picket line, this is the direct responsibility of Jewell and his kind.

It is a vain thing to point out that some of the railroad systems were crippled by the strike. The united front of the whole employing class and investing interests took good care of the "loss." That is what a united front is for. But solely by reason of the treachery of union officials, with Jewell at their head, other crafts and other workers in various industries were prevented from aiding the shopmen. Let us have a united front of labor, and let us oust the Jewells who try to prevent it.

Butler, the multi-millionaire campaign manager of Cal Coolidge, is finding that putting over wage cuts in the New England mills isn't as easy as keeping Cal in the White House. Butler has hit the workers on a sore spot and they are ready to hit back.

Secretary Kellogg

The announcement that Secretary of State Hughes intended to retire to the practice of law after March 4 next, was the subject of considerable speculation in Washington when the news first leaked out. The general opinion was that Hughes and Coolidge could not see eye to eye on the question of relations with Soviet Russia. Hughes was the head and front of the anti-Soviet propaganda here, aided by Samuel Gompers.

The appointment of Senator Borah as chairman of the foreign relations committee made Hughes' position still more difficult. The Idaho senator favors recognition of the Soviet government and he was in entire disagreement with the intransigeant attitude of the secretary of state.

It was officially denied at the White House that the resignation of Secretary Hughes was due to any difference of opinion between the little New England strikebreaker and the Standard Oil attorney over Russia. But it is rather significant that Borah, advocate of Soviet recognition, should move to secure unanimous consent for the consideration of Kellogg's nomination without its reference to committee.

The United States is now the only important country in the world that has not recognized Soviet Russia. The recent treaty between the Soviet government and Japan has given the movement for recognition a decided impetus. The Hughes policy has proven to be a failure. Soviet recognition is undoubtedly in the offing.

Airplanes for the proposed state cossacks in Illinois is another indication that the bosses are planning to intensify their struggle against the workers in this state. The fight is especially against the coal miners. Remember West Virginia!

The Free State and the Famine

The Free State government and its agents in the Irish labor movement are trying to play down the reports of the Irish famine.

Having done little to relieve the distress of the 750,000 starving workers and peasants, the Free State government has sunk to the lowest depths of infamy in spreading stories minimizing the seriousness of the situation in order to conceal its own incompetency.

Such betrayal as this is to be expected from the choicest collection of agents of British imperialism that has ever cursed Ireland.

The work of collecting funds for the relief of the famine district must be carried on with renewed vigor and the Free State government exposed to those in the United States who now support it as the blackest of all the puppet governments which serve the purposes of the British imperialists.

Don't forget to read the T. U. E. L. page. Then pass it on to some worker who hasn't read it, but who should.

You can't be happy until you have taken a whack at that spike. See page four today!

NATION GIGGLES AT CAL AND HIS ELECTRIC STEED

President Prefers Spark Plug to Elephant

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Call Coolidge's hobby-horse, presented to him by Dwight Morrow, partner in the banking house of Morgan & Co., was a deep, dread secret of the presidential dressing-chamber until the cautious one attempted one of his official denials by pressing the stop and gallop buttons at the same instant. Then, whether for lack of oil or other reason, the electric-power-fed beast went smash, and was sent to the navy yard shops for repairs. A mechanic possessing a sense of humor on the issue of economy gave a hint to a newspaper, and the story broke out on front pages all over the country. Milions of robust Americans laughed at the imaginary picture of this purse-lipped little man, clad in underclothes and dressing gown, solemnly riding r rocking-horse in his own room, and possibly casting suspicious glances at the walls and ceiling for stray witnesses of his frivolity.

Whoinell Is He?

There is in Washington this winter a former progressive writer who has seemingly undertaken to explain away, apologize for, or boldly deny as untrue and blasphemous, anything and everything spoken or written in disparagement of the glory of Coolidge, Hughes, Dawes, Longworth, the Italian fascist ambassador, Stone, Warren and so on ad infinitum. He has outdone even Senator Spencer of Missouri, whom Jim Reed declared to be worthy of a tombstone inscribed with the names of Daugherty, Fall, and the rest of the men whom he has whitewashed, with the legend—"He found no wrong anywhere." Upon this court apologist the burden of hushing up the laughter of America at the hobby-horse will logically fall.

And when the ingenuity of the whole administration has been expressed in this blast of anti-laughter publicity, the society columns of Washington newspapers will tell the world who gave a tea or a party in grateful acknowledgement.

N. Y. Dressmakers Open Big Drive to Win the Unorganized

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The dressmakers' department of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union have started a campaign to organize all the open shops in the industry. It has opened special headquarters in Stuyvesant Casino where the work is carried on with vigor. Already several shops have been organized and the militants are actively participating in this undertaking.

The bosses have hired gangsters who attack the organizers whenever they discover their activities. These thugs assaulted and beat up Brother Rosenfeld so severely that he has been laid up. But in spite of this opposition on the part of the bosses the union is growing stronger and new shops are falling in the line from day to day.

Militant Furriers Decide to Have Olgin Reply to Abramovich

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—To counteract the attacks of the counter-revolutionary agent, Rafael Abramoich, the furriers in the Trade Union Educational League have arranged for a lecture by Moissaye J. Olgin, at Webster hall, to which all the members of the organization have been invited.

The reactionaries recently called a meeting of the chairmen of the different departments and distributed some presents to them, causing them to brighten up and get into a receptive mood, not knowing what the reason for this generosity was till the leaders of the ruse introduced Abramovich to spill his poison against the Workers' Republic of Russia. This trick so angered the honest element that they have decided to let their fellows hear the truth, hence the mass meeting in Webster hall.

RUSSIAN COUNTER-REVOLUTIONARY HOLDS FORTH AT SWELL HOTEL; URGES OVERTHROW OF SOVIET RULE

(Special to the DAILY WORKER)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Vassily Dumbadse, another counter-revolutionary anti-Sovietist, claiming to represent a Transcaucasian Republic of Georgia and Azerbaidjan, which is located in Paris and which attempted the recent revolt in the Caucusus region, has been interviewed at Washington's most expensive hotel. He suggests that when the American business men realize the value of Baku oil and the manganese deposits in the Caucasus they will understand the importance of helping to establish an independent "democratic" republic there.

American famine relief workers who have returned from that region say that shares in the Nobel and other oil companies operating in the Baku field were sold to speculators in Paris after the Russian revolution had nationalized this property, and it is around the holders of these oil shares—at present quite worthless—that the anti-Soviet movement is centered.

CAL'S GANG TRYING TO SUPPRESS VOTE THEFT PROBE IN PORTO RICO

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Proof that it is the Coolidge administration that is trying to suppress inquiry into the theft of the election in Porto Rico on Nov. 4 last, despite the president's claim that he has "not heard" of the wholesale election frauds in the island by the unionist alliance which is backed by Gov. Towner, was made public by officials of the labor movement of the island before returning home from Washington, rebuffed by all branches of the federal government.

A cablegram sent to President Coolidge by Bolivar Pagan, member of the insular canvassing board, was as follows:

"In spite of a judgement and peremptory order of the district court of San Juanto make a recount of the ballots in the municipalities of Fajardo and Yanco to ascertain election frauds, the attorney general opposes."

This objection by Atty. Gen Coates of Porto Rico—appointed by Mr. Coolidge—is described as being without warrant in any law of the territory, and as being simply a coercive gesture from Washington. Accordingly the bureau of insular affairs in the was dept. has been asked to "inquire whether the department of justice of Porto Rico is interested in preventing the truth as to the election frauds from being known, by abusing its power against the decision of the court."

Job Holders Use Lincoln's Birthday As Day of Thanks

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Judge W. J. Graham of the court of customs appeals, which is a lifetime appointive job at $8,500 a year to which he was appointed in payment for services to the Harding-Coolidge administration as a member of the house from Illinois, gave due thanks at a Lincoln memorial meeting of republicans at the Willard hotel.

He denounced the 17th amendment, permitting popular election of United States senators, and said that Lincoln would have opposed the child labor emancipation amendment, because Lincoln had to work hard when a child—and look how he thrived on it! Loud applause greeted his sentiment, "Let the constitution alone."

Manley to Speak At Harlem Forum On Sunday, Feb. 22

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Joseph Manley will be the speaker Sunday evening, Feb. 22, at the open forum of the Harlem section of the Workers Party, Local New York, at 54 East 104th St. Manley will speak on the American Labor Movement, a subject with which he is thoroly acquainted, due to his long years of experience in the organized labor movement of this country. Comrade Manley is a very fine speaker.

The subject for discussion at the open forum on Sunday evening, March 1, will be Literature, Art, and the Revolution—a Symposium, led by Simon Felshin, Louis Lozowick, and Joseph Freeman. This is a very interesting topic and will be handled by capable speakers. The Harlem open forum will continue over the spring, and a program of further topics and speakers will be made public later.

No. 1—TRADE UNIONS IN AMERICA, by Wm. Z. Foster, Jas. P. Cannon and Earl R. Browder, is a brief statement of the trade union movement in America and the history of the development of the Left Wing, with an explanation of the structure and program of the Trade Union Educational League.

No. 2—CLASS STRUGGLE vs. CLASS COLLABORATION, by Earl R. Browder, is a study of labor banks, the "B. & O. Plan," insurance schemes, and workers' education. This little book throws the spot-light on the methods used by the labor bureaucracy to divert the working class from militant struggle against capitalism.

TEXTILE [illegible]NS' STOCK GOES UP FR[illegible] TO $30 A SHARE WHILE THEY CUT DOWN WAGES

How the wage earner's loss in the stockholder's gain is shown by the advance in the price of textile mill stock during the period when low wages were being slashed still further. According to The Wall Street Jornal, in the course of 3 weeks the advance in leading textile stocks ranged from $5 to $30 a share.

Appleton mills rose from $620 to $645 a share, Arlington $100 to $107, Berkshire $141 to $148, Draper $160 to $167, Dwight $45 to $50, Farr Alpaca $175 to $185, Hamilton Mfg. Co. $47 to $56, Hill $100 to $110, Lyman $117 to $123, Naumkeag $185 to $195, Peppercell $120 to $140. Saoo-Lowell $47 to $52, Sanford $183 to $210, Salmon Falls $17 to $47, West Point from $131 to $138.

This gain in the value of textile stocks meant an increase of hundreds of thousands of dollars in the wealth of the owners. The price indicate that the much talked of "depression" did not undermine confidence in the ability of the industry to profit by squeezing the workers.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

ONLY a few weeks ago, the national secretary of the young people's socialist league, an auxiliary of the socialist party, turned in his membership card in that bankrupt organization and joined the Workers (Communist) Party. Last week another young rebel who hoped against hope that the socialist party could be transformed into a weapon of the class struggle joined the Communists. The youth organization of the socialists is but the ghost of an organization. It is afflicted with the same disease that has brot its parent to the brink of the grave.

BUT what about our young Communist organization, the Young Workers' League? What indeed? Here's what. The first issue of its weekly propaganda paper will appear on the first of March. In 1922 the Young Workers' League had a monthly that appeared every once in a while. It tried hard to be a monthly. It was like the "Toonerville Trolley that caught all trains." Nothing the matter with the paper except that the league was poor, small in number and infinitesmally small in influence. The officers of the league had that lean and hungry look that is associated with bad men.

BUT they survived and so did the league. They made progress by uneasy stages as all revolutionary organizations do. The irregular monthly became regular. Then it disappeared and re-appeared in the form of a bi-weekly. In addition a Junior League was organized with a little monthly organ of their own, called the Young Comrade. This paper has made more noise than a pondful of frogs and caused the capitalists to spill gallons of ink in their lying sheets, deploring the spread of evil among the young. But the young rebels revel in their wickedness.

WITH a bi-weekly and a monthly, one would imagine that the Young Workers' League was all fixed for propaganda machinery. But being a growing organism, it does not relish the thot of standing still. It began to hustle for a weekly. The weekly is about here. The first issue appropriately enuf will be a special one to fight child labor. The best writers in the Workers Party and the Young Workers' League will contribute. Be on the look out for it. And do not forget to support it.

THE youth organization is of the very greatest importance to the working class movement. In every country in Europe the young militants have been in the front line trenches. They are the future leaders of the Communist movement. American radicals who have children should induce them to join the Junior League and the Young Workers' League before they become contaminated with the 100 per cent American bunk that is injected into their brains in the robot factories misnamed schools.

OUR foreign-language comrades should see to it that the publications of the Young Workers' League get into their homes where they can be read by their children, who may thus be saved from developing a taste for "Hot Dog" the "Fig Leaf," "Red Pepper" or other salacious literature which is now deluging the country and turning the minds of the youth into a moral cesspool. Or still worse from the dope published in the American Magazine or other organs of "success" and "ambition."

THE treasonable and seditious offenses bill which the Free State government introduced and will surely put thru its paces in the Dail is a vicious proposal. It contains forty provisions punishable by death, by imprisonment for two years, by penal servitude for from five to twenty years and by fines up to $2,500. This is the kind of work the Free State hangmen are engaged in while hundreds of thousands of workers and

TOILERS CONTEST CITY ELECTIONS IN MINNEAPOLIS

Cramer Lined Up with the Faker Van Lear

By CARL SKOGLUND.

MINNEAUOLIS, Minn., Feb. 18.—At the regular meeting of the city central committee of the farmer-labor federation of Minneapolis, held Monday evening, plans were laid for the filing of a labor candidate for mayor and a complete labor ticket for all city offices. A special committee was appointed to investigate all available candidates and report back to the next meeting of the federation on Monday, March 2, at which time candidates will be chosen.

The committee was also instructed to arrange for a large ratification mass meeting to be held immediately following the meeting of the central committee, this meeting to be the opening gun in what is expected to be the warmest city election ever held in Minneapolis.

The Expected Attack.

The members of the committee were unanimous in their desire for a clear cut labor ticket. Speakers pointed out that the Labor Review and the Daily Star would support the reactionary republican, Leach, for reelection and would probably attack the labor ticket as "Communist" because of the fact of members of the Workers Party being delegates to the federation from local unions. Alderman John Peterson stated that labor must expect to be attacked by the capitalist press and alleged "progressive" sheets such as the Star and urged a full labor ticket.

Delegates were seated from several organizations, among them were Emil S. Youngdahl from the 10th ward farmer-labor club, C. A. Hathaway, from Machinists' Local No. 91, Joseph Poirer, from the 12th ward, farmer-labor club and A. B. Barker from the Progressive Professional Men's Club.

Cramer to Back Leach.

The decision of the central committee to put up a complete labor ticket will probably assure a united front of all labor forces in the Minneapolis city campaign, the city central committee of the Workers Party having previously issued a statement to the effect that they would unite with other labor groups on the basis of a labor ticket and a working class platform.

The reactionaries led by R. D. Cramer and ex-socialist mayor Tom Van Lear are preparing the way for their support for Leach. The Daily Star (Van Lear's paper) has already editorially given their endorsement to this arch republican reactionary, Cramer is expected to follow suit in the next few days.

HANCOCK, MICHIGAN, PLEDGES AID IN IRISH FAMINE RELIEF DRIVE

Hardly had the first appeal for Irish famine appeared in the columns of The DAILY WORKER than promises of assistance began to come in. One of the first to respond were the workers of Hancock, Michigan, away up in the copper peninsula.

John Kiiskila, member of the Workers Party and popular among the workers of the copper country wrote as follows:

"The Irish Workers' and Peasants' Famine Relief Committee:—Dear Comrade: We intend to get some funds for Irish relief. Now, kindly let us know what steps we ought to take on the matter."

There is a large group of Irish workers in Hancock and they are good stuff. There is no doubt but they will respond generously to the appeal to come to the assistance of their famine stricken comrades in Ireland.

The Irish famine relief committee is getting the machinery in motion for the launching of a big drive for funds. The plans will be announced shortly.

Nations Squabble Over Calling of Disarmament Meet

GENEVA, Feb. 18.—Sharp opposition developed today over Great Britain's proposal to postpone a discussion of limitation of armament. Great Britain suggested yesterday that the conference be delayed until May 4 when America would be represented.

France, Spain, Czecho-Slovakia in secret meeting today decided there should be no delay.

Delegate Jouhaux of France criticized the United States.

"The attitude of the United States is nothing new," he said. "We cannot wait for America. Adjourning until America co-operates is adjourning indefinitely."

Italy, Japan and Sweden supported the British proposal for an adjournment.

MISERY GROWS AMONG JOBLESS IN CLEVELAND

37,000 Looking for Work During Last 2 Months

By GEORGE PAPCUN.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELANND, Ohio, Feb. 18.—Authentic figures solicited from one employment office in this city give the following facts:

Applied for work during the months of December and January: 37,000.

Those given jobs during the same period amounted to approximately 9,699.

The numbers applying for jobs during the months of October and November of 1924 were 33,000, and those receiving employment during the same period amounted to approximately 12,000.

Jobs Are Part Time

The figures, if compared will show the marked increase in unemployment for the last two months and also the decrease in jobs supplied for the same period. It was also pointed out by those in charge of these employment offices that many of the jobs supplied were only temporary, in a good many instances for two and three days duration only.

This unemployment has been hitting the unskilled very hard in this city, this is shown by the fact that the Common Laborers' Union membership is about half employed. Labor headquarters in this city are besieged by members without jobs daily.

Workers Appeal to Charity

A report from one of the charitable organizations in this city tells us that in the month of January 515 able bodied men, heads of families, were given help while hundreds of others, such as single men were turned away, and still others had to be refused because of the limited funds which the institution is compelled to work with.

The workers of this city are beginning to believe that there was something in the slogan of "Keep with Kool with Koolidge," as they roam the street daily in search of the employment which they are unable to find.

WAGES OVER PRE-WAR SCALE IN MOSCOW PROVINCE; PRODUCTION UP 30 PER CENT; PARTY GROWS

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R.—In the report given by Comrade Ouglianov, secretary of the Moscow committee of the Communist Party before the Moscow Party Conference, he stated that there has been a 30 per cent increase in industry in the past year, the total coming to over 518,000,000 roubles for 1924, as against 397,000,000 for 1923. The number of workers employed in Moscow industry has increased from 212,000 to 288,000.

Industrial development during the past year has been especially directed toward strengthening the union between workers and peasants, by lowering production costs to the greatest possible extent.

Moscow Wages Pass Pre-War Level.

On December 1, 1924, Comrade Ouglianov reported, the real wages of the workers of Moscow province attained to 103 per cent of the pre-war level. In addition, he stated, that the steady development of industry would soon make it possible to do away with unemployment entirely. The past year has been characterized by extremely intensive work on housing construction.

The situation of the peasants is also considerably improved in this district. The area sown in 1924 was greater than that sown before the war, 566,000 dessiatins having been sown in the past year as against 450,000 dessiatins in 1914.

The number of members in the Moscow organization of the Russian Communist Party has increased from 74,000 members at the time of the 12th Congress to 90,000 members on January 1, 1925.

An immense amount of work has been done in the field of the political education of party members, 66,000 members and candidates having passed thru schools for political instruction.

In closing, Comrade Ouglianov pointed out that the Moscow organization has not only developed numerically, but also in respect to the strengthening of its ideological foundations. It is advancing steadily on the paths of Bolshevism.

TEXTILE BARONS IN UNITED FRONT AGAINST LABOR

Profiteers of North and South the Same

By ROBERT MINOR
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 18.—The present enormous drive against the wage-scales, working hours and conditions of textile labor in New England, can be understood only if it is thrown into broad perspective.

That is the trouble with most of the "labor" views of this situation. Even the most sincere and militant workers in the small mill towns are inclined to view the cotton mill crisis in too narrow a way, as being a problem of this or that mill, of this or that mill town—and some actually let their conception be bound by the state boundaries (!) of the various little New England states, Rhode Island, Connecticut, etc., each little more than the size of a Western county and all of them together being one industrial unit so compact that it could usefully be considered as a sigle huge city.

Pour Surplus Into "The South"

But even to view the matter as pertaining only to a single, huge, all-New England "city' is not sufficient. A glance at statistical tables shows that the unified cotton textile oligarchy has for the past five or six years been pouring tens and scores of millions of its surplus capital into North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama. Today, it is said there are more cotton spindles running in the southern states than in New England.

The 1923 "Year Book" of the textile industry said that the southern mills consumed four million bales of cotton as against two and a quarter million bales consumed in the north, while 400,000 hands were employed in the south as against 300,000 in the North.

Here we see a strange and dramatic fulfilment of history's task. It was cotton that formed the basis of the war of '61 between the southern cotton-growing states and the Northern manufacturing states, and this little New England group formed the steel-iron-and-gold heart of the northern capitalist society which crushed the feudal southern oligarchy and undertook to "reconstruct" it on the lines of modern capitalism.

Now the south hums with machinery—machinery that consumes more than half the cotton that is spun and woven in America. But it is not "southern capital" that installed the machinery. The ways of finance-capital are tortuous and hard to trace, but from the many scattered and vague references to the buying of mills and the building of new mills in the south by "New England capital" it is safe to say that the southern cotton manufacturing is done under the same financial control, in the main, as that of the New England states.

Indications are that it was the surplus profits of the war times—the fevered "khaki profiteering," of 1915-18 and the after-war splurge up to

COMMUNISTS LAUNCH BIG FIGHT IN CITY ALDERMANIC CAMPAIGN; MACHINISTS' LODGE BACKS PARTY

The Workers (Communist) Party has issued its platform for the four wards in which Communists are on the ballot. A big campaign will be waged from now until election day, Feb. 24.

The program issued by the Workers (Communist) Party in the 34th ward, where Harry Broooker is the Communist candidate, challenges David McVey, Brooker's "progressive" opponent, to take a definite stand on issues vitally affecting Chicago's workers.

The candidacy of Nicholas Dozenberg, representing the Workers (Communist) Party in the 28th ward, was unanimously indorsed by Lodge 478, of the International Association of Machinists, at its last meeting.

The other two candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party are L. Cejka, candidate in the 22nd ward, and Hyman Epstein in the 24th ward.

"David McVey, my opponent representing the "progressive party of Illinois, says he stands for 'real schools, not fire traps.'" Brooker, who is a member of the Typographical Union, told the DAILY WORKER. "But McVey offers no real solution for getting real schools. I propose new school buildings, cost to be carried by a levy on wealthy tax dodgers; education to be under control of teachers', parents' and students' councils. I demand that maintenance of working class children during school period be guaranteed by the city government."

"McVey declares that the Chicago traction problem has been a political football long enough, and wants speed, seats and lower fares. But McVey says not a word as to how to get them," declares Brooker.

In speaking to the one hundred machinists present at the meeting which indorsed his candidacy, Comrade Dozenberg declared, "I am proud to say that I am very much partisan to and in favor of the working class, and no other class. I am proud of my membership in the organized labor movement and my association with the working class movement and the Workers (Communist) Party." Many copies of the DAILY WORKER were sold at the meeting.

The municipal voters league made "no recommendation" in Comrade Dozenberg's ward. He was classified as

TEACHERS ARE NOT CONSULTED ON NEW SCHOOLS

Results Show They Are Miserable Failures

Altho the administration committee of the board of education spent fully one and a half hours discussing the naming of sixteen new school buildings that are to be erected in Chicago within the next few months, not one word of mention was made of the type of buildings to be erected or the personnel of the committee who decides this important question.

Further inquiry of the business manager, John Byrnes, and of president of the board of education, Charles Moderwell, brought the admission that neither the Teachers' Federation nor any other teachers' organization has been consulted on the type of new school buildings.

When Moderwell was informed that in other cities, New York, for example, new school buildings were put up which are proving utter failures insofar as the teachers' and children's comfort is concerned he asked "Do you mean that we should consult with the teachers?"

"Yes, by all means," the DAILY WORKER reporter assured him. "The teachers have to spend the greater part of their lives in those school rooms. And they are the ones who know the needs of the children."

STRIKE OF 2,000 WHITE WINGS MAY LAST DAYS

Police Are on Guard As City Asks for Confab

The strike of the two thousand street cleaners and garbage collectors employed by the city of Chicago will remain in effect at least thru Friday.

Deputy Street Superintendent William J. Galligan says he has asked Michael Carrozzo, president of the Street Cleaners' Union, for a conference to take place Friday afternoon at three o'clock in the department of public workers, city hall.

Refuse to Stay Uncollected.

Galligan added that no attempt would be made to clean the streets or collect garbage until after this conference.

"The street cleaners are striking not only for a raise in pay, but as a protest because they did not receive their month's pay on January 5," says Carrozzo. "There are 750 street sweepers, 250 foremen, 708 teamsters, and 80 truckmen on strike. We are asking for a raise of fifty cents a day for the street cleaners, and section foremen, and $1.50 a day per crew for the teamsters."

The teamsters are now paid $10.50 a day for themselves and team. The street cleaners are paid $5.00 a day.

Police Called Out.

Police were on guard at all ward offices of the street cleaning department. The strike was 100 per cent effective, with all the street cleaners and garbage collectors being out.

COMMUNISTS IN SEATTLE C.L.U. FIGHT OUSTER

SEATTLE, Feb. 12.—(By Mail.—The labor fakers of Seattle made no attempt to go thru with their intention of ousting the Communists from the Central Labor Council when that body met last night.

The Communist delegates were there in strength and carried on a vigorous offensive for the rescinding of the ouster vote at the previous meeting. Tho this effort failed by a vote of 35 to 90, the reactionary delegates did not show any inclination to go on with the pogrom, started at the previous meeting.

COMMUNISTS IN PRUSSIAN DIET FLAY ROBBERS

Introduce Motion to Probe Ruhr Blast

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—The Prussian diet was in turmoil today when the new Prussian premier, former Chancellor Marx, outlined the government's program.

Communists shouted: "Ruhr swindler!"

They were alluding to the government paying industrialists of the Ruhr district indemnities for loss sustained thru occupation by the allied troops.

The Communists introduced a motion to determine the cause of the mine disaster at Dortmund last week. The motion was defeated.

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—The reprisals which Roumania has threatened to take against Germany depended upon what answer Germany makes to the Roumanian note demanding a settlement of its reparation claims, Foreign Minister Stresemann told the foreign relations committee.

Stresemann said Roumania had not replied to Germany's counter proposals. The dispute between Roumania and Germany is the outcome of German occupation of Roumanian territory during the war.

Situation Alarming.

Unable to obtain a settlement, Roumania has been levying taxes on German imports and expelling German citizens.

News from Roumania regarding the antagonism said to be displayed against Germany continued to be alarming today, despite denials by Wolf's, the officials German news agency, that Germans were being expatriated without cause.

DES MOINES, IA., IS PARADISE OF LITTLE BUSINESS

Like Utopia of Dreams of LaFollette

By DAVID COUTTS.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 18.—First impressions of this hustling little town are that everybody seems busy and happy. Crowds moved to and fro in the business section, which covers many blocks and has a number of large stores that makes the visitor wonder where the trade comes from.

Upon inquiry we learn that there are no large manufacturing plants, but many small ones. Ford assembling plant is the largest and employs about 600.

LaFollette's Dream Town.

Des Moines would appear to be the goal and paradise of little business. Here LaFollette would find his dreams come true. Monopoly has apparently

BRITISH LEFT WINGERS FIGHT FRANK HODGES

Black Friday Betrayer Put on Gridiron

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Frank Hodges, civil lord of the admiralty in the MacDonald government and former secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain was recently nominated at a secret session of that organization for the post of international secretary of the International Miners' Federation.

The British T. U. E. L.

The British minority movement, which corresponds to the Trade Union Educational League in the United States is circularizing the miners of Great Britain calling attention to the reactionary character of this notorious lackey of the employers.

The miners are urged to raise the question of Hodge's appointment at a national miners' conference to be held on February 27. The secretary of the National Miners' Minority Movement is Nat Watkins. The following circular is being distributed among the members of the miners' union:

Fellow toilers in the mines of Britain! According to a report in the Daily Herald, January 26, Mr. Frank Hodges was elected by a secret vote of members of the executive committee of the Miners Federation of Great Britain as the British nominee for the secretaryship of the International Miners' Federation. This vote was actually a minority vote, Hodges having only nine or ten votes out of a possible 24 or 25, several members of the executive being absent when the vote was taken.

Will the Miners Stand for this Bureaucracy?

So far as our knowledge of the affairs of the executive committee goes this is the first occasion such a questionable method has been adopted in the appointment of any official to an important position, much less to the increasingly important position of International secretary. We therefore ask you to challenge their right to put this decision into operation, and utilise every legitimate means at your disposal to prevent this from materialising, until the question has been raised and discussed at a national conference and the British nominee elected by ballot vote.

Britain's Quota Towards Upkeep of Miners' International

Will the British miners silently acquiesce in the payment of £2,500 annually in creating a position for the man of black Friday fame? The man who made possible the noxious agreement, following the sad and terrible weeks of 1921; the "political careerist" who preferred the ministerial position of civil lord of the admiralty to the secretaryship of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain; the associate of royalty and their hangers-on, whose trip in an aeroplane to Vienna in 1924 cost the British Miners' Federation £35 or £40 when he was in receipt of his ministerial salary, whilst hundreds of thousands of the miners were struggling to pay their contributions to their respective unions out of 40|- per week.

Let every intelligent miner in the British coal field raise this matter at his next branch meeting and demand that a resolution be sent to his respective union, urging them to press for the matter to be taken up at the national conference on February 27 with a view to securing a ballot for the position.

Remember that the position of international secretary is the most important position in the miners' movement and you have the right to elect the nominee for Britain.

Building Before Students

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 18.—Funds for assisting poor students thru college instead of donations for more expensive buildings is the advice of Robert M. Hutchins, secretary of Yale University, to prospective benefactors of the college. "Yale costs an undergraduate about twice as much now as in 1916," he claims. If help is not given the men who must earn their way thru college wholly or in part the school will become a college of rich men's sons exclusively, he warns.

COMMUNIST CHARGES THAT McVEY, "PROGRESSIVE" OPPONENT HAS NO PROGRAM TO AID WORKING CLASS

"Machinist by trade—borne in Riga, Latvia, 1882, supported by Communists." Alderman Maypole, however, Dozenberg's opponent for re-election, was declared by the league to have a very bad record.

On the matter of the traction issue Brooker explains that the Workers (Communist) Party stands for:

"(1) Public ownership of public utilities.

"If elected, I will work for the immediate removal of all public utilities from ownership of private capitalists and confiscation of franchises, direct public management with workers' control, service for use, not profit.

"As a Communist, I stand for a unified surface, "L" and subway, municipally owned, with operation thru special workers' committees and existing transportation unions of employes, reduction of fares, and better service. The Dever plan is only a scheme which aims to deliver into the hands of capitalist politicians and bankers of this city the franchises of the surface lines, 'L' structures and prospective subways.

"In McVey's platform he speaks about taxes and profit, neither of which concerns the workers, for the problem of the workers is the problem of the job and political power by the workers. As a self-styled progressive, McVey does not even stand for municipal ownership."

Brooker then stated his program, extrats from which are given below:

"I am entering the aldermanic contest for February 24, in the 34th Ward with a set of principles and a platform, and not, as every other candidate running for alderman in this ward on a platform of phrases and hot air. As a candidate endorsed by the Workers (Communist) Party, I stand for a program which will rally the working men and women in Chicago for the struggle against capitalism on the basis of the immediate interests of the workers.

"I am partisan for and in favor of the working class only, the producers of all wealth. I am not interested in the welfare of business, big or small, of the bankers, landlords and privileged interests of the city. On every vital issue before the workers I take the stand of the Workers (Communist) Party.

"As a worker and Communist, I stand for immediate improvement of working conditions:

"(1). Not less than union wages for workers, eight-hour day, five-day week, proper factory sanitation.

"(2). Equal pay for equal work for all workers, regardless of race, age or sex.

"(3). Maternity period for working women with full pay. Maximum six-hour day.

Against Child Labor.

"The use of any child labor under capitalism is a crime against the working class. I stand for the abolition of all child labor, up to the age of 18, with full maintenance at municipal expense, money to be obtained thru taxing corporation profits and high individual incomes.

"Six-hour day, five-day week, one month's vacation with pay for all workers under 21 years of age.

"Children to be maintained by the city thru the year with text books, food, clothing, etc.

Equality of Races.

"In a city like Chicago the problem of race discrimination is of the most vital importance. As a Communist I stand for unqualified social, economic and political equality for all workers, irrespective of color, race or creed.

"As a Communist appealing to you workers for support, I declare that there can be no real solution to any of the problems of the workers until capitalism is destroyed, and the workers in Chicago and America have set up their own political government, a Soviet municipality, state, or United States Soviet.

"My final appeal to you is: together, as workers, under the leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party, unite in the struggle against capitalism!

"Harry Brooker, Candidate 34th Ward.

"Endorsed by the Workers (Communist) Party—Local Chicago."

Don't Consult Teachers About Buildings

But neither did Margaret Haley of the Teachers' Federation have any opinion on this matter. Altho she agreed that the teachers should be consulted, she did not think it worth while fighting for as they were "sure not to win anyway."

A few quotations from a report of the New York Teachers' Union investigation of the Julia Richman High School of New York, a new high school building recently erected there, will throw a light on the importance of consulting teachers on the matter of school buildings:

The report says in part:

"Two biology rooms visited faced north and west, thus making it impossible to grow anything or to carry out experiments requiring sunlight. The Second Ave. elevated as it went rumbling by created a terrific din—this in the main building, not the buffer building. The biology instructor said that she was utterly discouraged. First, the noise of the trains makes it hard for her to teach, hard for the pupils to concentrate. Second, the location of the room makes it impossible to conduct experiments. Third, the 40 odd unique chairs and desks make the constant scraping of chairs and spilling of ink a source of great irritation. These contraptions are movable chairs to which the desks are attached at one side, leaving the other side open for entrance. In the drawing rooms, the sun streaming thru the windows throws bars of light and shade on the children's papers, a source of great irritation. No provision has been made for platforms for models.

"And now we come to one of the most serious problems being faced in the Julia Richman High School—the traffic problem within the school itself.

"There are three bridges leading from the buffer building to the main building. The bridges run into narrow passageways just about wide enough for one group to pass in single file. Yet it is necessary for pupils to pass both ways. Hence two lines must pass each other. If one girl steps out of line (and it happened while we watched) the entire line is held up and the hallway becomes congested.

"The visitors wish to report the following conversations with teachers on the physical and psychological effect of the building on them. Miss A. told the visitors that since September, due to the nervous and physical strain of much travel within the building and constant noise, she had lost ten pounds, (she could ill afford to lose it). She stated that altho she is a normal, healthy being, she resents the fact that by Friday night she is so worn out that she has to spend most of her week-end in bed in order to recuperate sufficiently for Monday morning. Miss B. said that she never feels rested. She believes she is becoming a nervous wreck. By the time the eighth period comes around she is too tired to accomplish anything. She spoke of another teacher who told her that in her eighth period she is no longer a thinking being. She feels that if she can assign her homework lesson, that is all she can do intelligently. Miss C. said that the vastness of the building, the noise, the rush, the tear had a very definite effect on her pupils who are doing inferior work. Miss D. reported that she has figured that she spends one hour out of every six in traveling thru the building. Miss E. said that in five years' time she will have aged so much and will be so tired nervously that the board of education cannot possibly compensate her sufficiently for her general loss of vitality."

Business Agents of Local 39 A. C. W. Try To Disrupt Meeting

When the chairman of last Tuesday night's meeting of Local 39 of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America ruled that charges against one of the members of the local must be made in writing in order to be legal, business agents tried to break up the meeting and failing to do this called on those present to leave the hall.

When the reactionary business agents and their henchmen left the hall, a committee was selected with instructions to draw up charges against the disruptionists.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF NOMINATIONS BY MACHINISTS

Opposition Expected to Beat Johnston

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—Secretary Davison's official summary of nomination totals for all candidates for international office, as reported to him by all lodges of the International Association of Machinists in preparation for the election in April, is in general harmony with the preliminary report published by the DAILY WORKER. It shows that 405 lodges named for the presidency William H. Johnston; 183 named John F. Anderson and 13 named J. F. Emme.

For secretary-treasurer, E. C. Davison received 482 nominations, Geo. Stilgenbauer 183, and Tim Buck 14. For editor of the Journal, Fred Hewitt had 429, Dave Williams 158, and A. Overgaard 11.

For Vice Presidents

For the six vice presidents to be filled in the United States, the candidates stand, in order of strength: P. J. Conlon 447, H. F. Nickerson 414, J. T. Thorpe 409, R. Fechner 384, H. W. Brown 378, F. Laudeman 349, Wm. Hannon 191, J. A. Taylor 180, M. J. McMahon 179, A. T. McNamara 169, W. R. Knudsen 147, C. T. Nicholson 139, H. J. Carr 55, F. Nolan 30, F. Jennings 24, P. J. Jensen 20, McIlvaigh 17, J. Otis 13, Garner 12, A. Goetz 11, Slavens 11.

For Canadian vice-president, J. Somerville has 253, J. McClelland 184, and McGovern 159.

For the law committee the five administration candidates have from 400 to 424 votes, their opponents having: Hoch 174, Huttell 155, Valvano 140, Stricker 138, Kerrigan 160, Rankin 41, Hatch 22 and Carrigan 10.

For delegates to the A. F. of L., the score stands: Haggerty 445, Larkin 425, Wills 420, Marshall 417, Fry 233, Dalton 197, Mitchell 167, McGillvray 111, Tucker 83 and Henning 26.

State Cossack Bill Hangs Fire In Legislature

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 18.—Introduction of the state police bill, which was scheduled for this week, may not take place before next week, Senator Henry Dunlap of Savoy declared, because members of the house have asked that the bill be introduced simultaneously in the house and senate.

The women's eight-hour bill was introduced in the senate today by Senator W. S. Jewell of Lewiston.

Representative Oneil Brown, of Ottawa, charged in the assembly debate on Devine's report that "an attempt is being made to give George Brennan, of Chicago, and a Chicago newspaper, control of the state."

Merge Bus Lines.

The Illinois commerce commission today announced authority for the merger of the Peoria White Star bus company and the Peoria and Farmington Coach line company, the new consolidation to be known as the White Star Motor Coach Line of Illinois, the corporation was granted authority to issue and sell $28,000 aggregate par amount of its capital stock. The passenger and express service of the two concerns was to be continued.

Congresswoman to Vote with Coolidge

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 18.—Having defeated three men and her nearest opponent by nearly 20,000 votes, Mrs. Florence Kahn will on March 4, take the seat in congress occupied by her late husband, Julius Kahn, for many years.

"It will be my aim to carry on the policies and ideals of my husband," Mrs. Kahn said today. She is expected to vote with the Coolidge administration.

BOOTLEG PRISONER 'LOANED' DEPUTY $5,000 FOR ICE BUSINESS

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 18.—Another "loan" to an official of the United States penitentiary here was placed in the record today at the trial of Albert E. Sartain, formerly Warden and L. J. Fletcher, his chief deputy on charges of conspiracy to solicit and accept bribes.

Mannie Kessler, New York bootlegger, serving a sentence at the prison, testified he had "loaned" L. J. Fletcher $5,000 with which to further plans to enter the ice business in Miami, Fla.

Moscow and Chicago-- City of Communist Dawn, City of Capitalist Decay

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, it is definitely stated that within a short time the population of Red Moscow, capital city of Soviet Russia, and at present the home city of the Communist International, will reach the two million mark.

On July 15, 1924, the population of Moscow numbered 1,772,000 inhabitants. Its rapid growth will soon place it on a par, so far as population is concerned, with Berlin, Paris and Chicago.

• • • •

Thus another fable of the counter-revolutionary propagandists is shattered. They have been trying to tell the world, these past years, that Bolshevism had destroyed Russia's great cities. It is true that in the early years of the revolution, many workers returned to the land, due to the temporary collapse of industry. But they quickly returned with the revival of industry, following the liquidation of civil war, counter-revolution and intervention.

These facts were never pointed out by the anti-Sovietists. They always pictured the populations of the cities, especially of Moscow as decimated by plagues and famine. Utter nonsense.

• • • •

The influx of new inhabitants into Moscow from the provinces has now practically ceased. The increase in population now is almost exclusively due to the birth rate being higher than the death rate.

LET THE WORLD KNOW THAT, AT THE PRESENT TIME, THE DEATH RATE IN MOSCOW IS LOWER THAN THAT OF LONDON, PARIS, BUDAPEST AND WARSAW.

THE FALL OF THE DEATH RATE HAS BEEN PARTICULARLY SHARP AS REGARDS MORTALITY AMONG CHILDREN. IT IS SHOWN THAT BEFORE THE WAR INFANT MORTALITY STOOD AT 268-280 PER THOUSAND, BUT IN THE PAST TWO YEARS IT HAS BEEN 160-180 PER THOUSAND.

IN THE PROVINCE OF MOSCOW, WITH ITS 2,250,000 POPULATION, THE DEATH RATE HAS ALSO DECLINED. IN 1914, THE YEAR THE WAR STARTED, OUT OF EVERY 10,000 THERE DIED 301 PERSONS. IN 1923 THIS HAD FALLEN TO 172, ALMOST ONE-HALF UNDER SOVIET RULE OF WHAT IT HAD BEEN UNDER CZARISM.

• • • •

But this is only the beginning. Soviet Russia has only begun to fight disease. Soviet Rule has only been able, very recently, to begin grappling with the problems of its great municipalities. But progress will be more rapid henceforth.

• • • •

Contrast Moscow with Chicago.

Moscow is doing everything it can to solve the housing problem for its workers. Chicago perpetuates its slums. Chicago looks first to the gilded palaces of its "Gold Coast." Its least care is the housing of the poor. Moscow has taken the palaces of the once rich and is using them for the benefit of the many; usually for the children. Chicago sees great mansions built for the parasite few and then permits them to be boarded up most of the year while the owners are away in Florida, California, or at the fashionable watering places of Europe. In the meantime Chicago's workers continue to huddle in their shacks and tenements.

Moscow is solving its transportation problem. It plans its transit system to benefit its population. Chicago's street and elevated railways and its bus lines operate for the benefit of the bank accounts of the transportation profiteers.

Moscow is being rebuilt. The scars of czarism will disappear. A city beautiful will arise. It will develop into an ideal municipality under Communism.

Chicago will continue to grow with the one object in view of making money for its capitalist overlords. It will always be the blotch that it is on the shores of Lake Michigan until profit rule is wiped out by Workers' Rule.

• • • •

These are some of the things for the workers of Chicago to think about as they study the issues in the present municipal political struggle.

Only support of the Workers (Communist) Party and its candidates in this campaign will aid in hastening the day when workers will dominate and rebuild in their interests the city of Chicago, as labor is now doing in Red Moscow.

MOB HANGS TWO NEGROES FOR FIGHTING BOSS

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 18.—Cager, in Holmes county, near here, was reported quiet today following a wild scene of disorder last night when Hal Winters and his brother, Negroes, were taken from authorities and hanged by a mob which charged them with murder and attempted murder.

The negroes were taken from county officers after they had been captured in a swamp to which they had fled after Hal Winters was said to have shot and killed Wiseley P. Martin, 65, a plantation manager.

Washington Senators Urge Humphreys As U. S. Attorney General

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—Democratic Senators Dill of Washington and Mayfield were active in behalf of William F. Humphrey, shipping lobbyist and lumber trust lawyer, when Humphrey's nomination to the federal trade commission which if ratified means the control of that body by the trusts—was favorably reported from the senate committee on interstate commerce, on Feb. 16.

Nomination of Thomas Woodlock, former editor of the Wall Street Journal, was held up by agreement until next congress, because the democrats insist that a southwestern man be next selected to that commission.

COMMUNISTS WIN FIRST PLACE AT SOCIALIST BALL

"She Ain't What She Used to Be"

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 18.—"She ain't what she used to be." Such was the general opinion of observers at the eighteenth annual "socialist masked ball." This is an institution in Milwaukee, which brings back fond memories of bye-gone days when the Milwaukee workers mistakenly thought that Victor Berger and Dan Hoan were raging revolutionists. Brrrrr.... Eats 'em alive revolutionists.

But, as stated, "She ain't what she used to be." Though the old socialist "leaders" were there (except Victor, who is enjoying a trip to Panama at government expense) and tried to make things look natural. The crowd was there, too, pretty girls and fine boys and all that. But, nevertheless, "She ain't what she used to be."

This was evident to all and embarassing to the yellow socialists who, when the time came for the "grand parade portraying historical, political and economic features." The grand march brot tears to the eyes of the remnants of the remains of the socialist party.

For there, in the forefront—in fact spread all over the grand march—so nothing much else was to be seen, were Communist banners borne by most of the marchers.

"Long Live Soviet Russia" read a placard carried by a pretty girl dressed in red—not yellow.

"Lenin is dead—But Leninism Lives? said another. And so on down the line. Nope, "she ain't what she used to be."

Strike of 2,000 Street Cleaners May Last Many Days

The department of public works called in Alderman Woodhull, chairman of the city council finance committee, to determine whether the finance committee would approve of granting an increase in the labor appropriation. Galligan declared the strike might last a week or more and said that strikebreakers would be hired if the strike lasted more than a few days. Carrozzo predicted that the strike would last some time.

"We will probably call a strike meeting for Thursday in the Musicians' Hall," said Carrozzo.

Unbearable Conditions.

Carrozzo, telling of the unbearable conditions imposed on the street cleaners by the city, declared that they are not given steady work.

"We are asking for more money," he said. "But the real trouble is our members are not given steady work. Some are allowed to work only two or three days a week, and since they are mostly men with large families, it is impossible for them to make a living wage. Those street cleaners who work outside the loop do not have steady work."

Discharged 32 Union Men.

Carrozzo answered the charge of Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague that the strike was called without notice by declaring that Sprague fired 32 repair foremen in violation of his verbal agreement with the union.

CARPENTERS OF DETROIT CALL RANK AND FILE

Ask All Locals to Condemn Czarism

The following letter and resolution have been sent out under seal by Local No. 2140 of the Brotherhood of Carpenters to all local unions in the Brotherhood. Every Carpenter's union in Detroit has endorsed this resolution.

The first local to report to the T. U. E. L. section of the DAILY WORKER outside of Detroit, is Local 8 of Philadelphia, it was endorsed by that local by an almost unanimous vote.

Read the letter and the resolution, fight for its adoption in your local union. Let us know what action has been taken. If your secretary does not bring it before your local make a demand that it be read to the members and that they act upon it. The letter follows:

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 30.

To All Local Unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America:

Dear Sirs and Brothers: The members of Local Union No. 2140 of Detroit are addressing this letter and resolution to the membership of the Brotherhood, that they may be informed regarding what seems to be a definite policy of the officialdom at Indianapolis to expel without trial, as provided by the constitution, all those elements whose political and economic opinions do not enjoy their official approval. This letter comes logically from L. U. No. 2140 because its president, Brother William Reynolds, has been made the victim of official displeasure by the most flagrant disregard of constitutional guarantees.

At its meeting, Jan. 23, L. U. No. 2140 was notified that Brother Reynolds had been expelled by the G. E. B. on Jan. 10 for membership in the Trade Union Educational League. This verdict, carrying with it the extreme penalty of expulsion was reached by the G. E. B. without giving Brother Reynolds an opportunity to affirm, or deny, or in any way to answer the charges.

Our constitution specifically provides that defendant shall be tried within the jurisdiction where the offence was committed. Brother Reynolds was charged, tried, convicted and punished by the G. E. B. in Indianapolis, a city in which he has never set foot.

That the constitution has become a scrap of paper to President Hutcheson and the G. E. B. is further illustrated by the situation in L. U. No. 181 in Chicago. Here five members out of a group of eleven were declared expelled without trial for signing and presenting a resolution which was endorsed by the L. U. No. 181, and sent to the convention for consideration, a right guaranteed by our constitution. The resolution criticized the Chicago agreement that has been entered into by President Hutcheson without the knowledge of the members. This resolution which had the seal of L. U. No. 181, was never presented to the convention for action, which is another illustration of flagrant disregard of the constitution.

We also wish to call attention of the membership to the expulsion of eleven members in Los Angeles. Here we see eleven members, many of them holding official positions in their unions, all being members in the Brotherhood from five to thirty years, being suspended by telegraph from Indianapolis, later changed to expulsion, without trial or hearing of any kind, as guaranteed by the constitution, being tried, convicted and sentenced without hearing in Indianapolis for alleged offences committed in Los Angeles.

We point to the situation in Philadelphia where a sub-committee of the G. E. B. is investigating F. W. Burgess of L. U. No. 8 for alleged offences committed during the heat of the general office election campaign, and we fear that the results of this investigation will mean another expulsion without trial as guaranteed by our constitution.

Local Union No. 2140 presents this statement of facts and urges your local to endorse the accompanying resolution, or a similar one demanding the immediate reinstatement of those expelled without trial as guaranteed by the constitution, and that your local call upon the G. E. B. to abide by, observe and enforce Section 55 of our constitution.

Local Union No. 2140 will thank you for a careful consideration of this letter and resolution. Further information will be sent to you on request. Please notify us of the action taken on the resolution by your local. With fraternal greetings,

L. U. No. 2140, U. B. C. & J. of A.
(Seal)

For the Local Union, William Brown, Milo D. Long, John Sanderson, Charles MacLean and Archie Caldwell.

The Resolution is as follows:

Whereas, William Reynolds, member of Local Union No. 2140, U. B. C. & J. of A. who enjoys the confidence of the members of the Brotherhood to the extent that he has been elected president of this local union, vice president of the district council and member of the district executive board has been "expelled" from the Brotherhood by the general executive board without trial, and

Whereas, this action by the G. E. B. of the Bortherhood is in direct conflict with the provisions of the constitution as set forth in Section 55, as follows:

(a) A member must be charged and tried within the jurisdiction of the local union or district council where the offence was committed.

(b) All charges must be made in writing . . . . and signed by the member or members making such charges.

(f) All charges must be referred to the trial committee.

(g) The accused shall have a fair and impartial trial and shall be allowed until the next regular meeting to appear and reply either in person or by counsel . . . .

(j) . . . it shall require a two-thirds vote of the members present (at the local union) to convict the defendant and to fix penalty as they may deem proper.

Whereas, five members of the Local Union No. 181 of Chicago, Illinois haye been "expelled" in spite of the fact that the findings of the trial committee have never been submitted to a vote of the local union, and subsequently three members of this trial committee signed an affidavit stating that the report of the chairman of the committee was not a true statement of the findings of the trial committee, and,

Whereas, suspensions and expulsions in violation of the constitution have taken place in other localities, notably in Philadelphia and Los Angeles, indicating that the general office has accepted the policy of expulsions as its method of dealing with all oposition and criticism, and

Whereas, this policy if allowed to continue will undermine the morale and militancy of the Brotherhood and weaken its resistance to the "open shop" drive of the building bosses, therefore, be it

Resolved, that we condemn this flagrant violation of constitutional guarantees, and demand that these members expelled without trial be immediately reinstated, and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to all local unions in the Brotherhood calling on them to rally to the defense of the constitutional guarantees that protect their rights and privileges of membership, and be it

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the general executive board, and a copy to the official journal for publication.

Left Wing Worth Its Weight in Gold to New York Furriers

The T. U. E. L. group in the Furriers' Union of New York can always be depended upon to put up a real and constant fight against the reactionaries. Comrade Gold, who was badly beaten up some time ago and later expelled from the union, has been reinstated and is now serving on the executive board of his local.

They are now arranging a huge mass meeting against the traitor Abramovich. M. J. Olgin, member of the Workers (Communist) Party and editor of the Novy Mir, the Russian Communist daily, will be the principal speaker.

REFUSE TO TAKE OATH TO FIGHT FOR CAPITALISM

Minneapolis Assembly Delegates Protest

Below is a signed statement of Comrades C. Skoglund and Walter Frank, two Communist delegates from local unions in Minneapolis, who refuse to take the new "oath" of the Trades and Labor Assembly. It should be noted that when reading it, Comrade Skoglund was stopped by a point of order raised by an ex-socialist and ex-syndicalist, who objected that it was "Communist propaganda." The statement is:

Statement of the Undersigned Delegates Relative to the Obligation Required of Delegates to the Central Labor Union:

"Dear Sirs and Brothers: At the last meeting of the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly a new set of by-laws, containing a new obligation that delegates to the assembly must take in order to hold their seats as representatives from their respective local unions, were adopted.

"Among other things delegates must subscribe to the following: 'I further pledge my word and honor that I am not a member of any dual organization or revolutionary movement against the government of the United States, and that I will not become a member of such an organization so long as I am a delegate to this assembly, and should I do so, I shall automatically cease to be a delegate.'

"The employers of this country during the last three years have used the government for the suppression of the workers during strikes for better wages and better working conditions. The railroad shopmen well remember the famous Daugherty injunction and the injunctions against the United Mine Workers and the general use of the courts, the military forces, and all other governmental agencies in prohibiting workers on strike from picketing and carrying on meetings during times of strikes.

"During the known period of history, governments of different types have ben destroyed when such governments have been found to be working a hardship upon society. At no time has a government been established except by a revolution brot about by unbearable social conditions.

"To say that governments cannot be changed by a revolution will not prevent such a revolution taking place. Any school, or individual that has studied the social forces knows that revolutions are a product of unbearable social conditions and that no revolution has taken place, or will take place, by merely agitating for same.

"The fact of the matter is that the wealth of the nation is being concentrated in fewer and fewer hands and that the masses of the people in society become propertyless, at the same time the productive energies are being eliminated more and more and greater portions employed in useless work; as a consequence of this economic development, dishonesty deceitfulness, are on the increase; crimes of different kinds are committed by people that never at any time ever intended to commit same, but were forced to commit them for their own self preservation.

"At a time when these tendencies are visible to any honest and self respecting persons, it becomes their duty as members of society to point out these wrongs and to propose remedies that will eventually bring about a permanent solution so that society may go on to a higher development. We, members of the Workers (Communist) Party, are working for the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government which at all times will look after the welfare and happiness of the working class, instead of safeguarding profits of individuals.

"We stand unalterably opposed to a society wherein production takes place for profit instead of use. By the nature of this fact our organization is a revolutionary organization and the usefulness of this organization cannot be wiped out by merely inserting a paragraph in the constitution of the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly barring the members of such organization from holding membership in the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly.

"The Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly has merely decided to put themselves down, in labor history alongside all heresy-hunting groups of other ages.

"We do not expect a fair trial where our grievances can be heard by the ruling group of your body, because they have no minds of their own but are merely being led by agents not interested in the welfare of the working class.

"For the above stated reasons we, the undersigned, refuse to take the new obligation as delegates to your assembly, but will, in spite of the narrow-mindedness of some of the so-called labor leaders, continue to fight for the building of a stronger and better trade union movement. We are going to continue to fight in our local unions until such time as the rank and file of the working class will have become familiar with the reasons for our expulsion.

Signed: C. Skoglund, Walter Frank.

T. U. E. L. SHOE WORKERS GROUP FIGHTS TRAITORS

Expose B. & S. As a Company Union

By M. SHARAF

LYNN, Mass.—Thru the efforts of the militant shoe workers of the Progressive Shoe and Leather Committee, the stitchers and cutters' local executive boards met and formed a committee to appear before every local union of the Amalgamated Shoe Workers to explain the Lynn shoe situation as they see it.

One Local Corrects Mistake.

The first gun was fired at the Packers' local and the result was that this local which previously endorsed the referendum vote calling for the Amalgamated to join (it should say unconditionally surrender to) the Boot and Shoe rescinded its motion and instructed the delegates to the district council to vote against the referendum.

According to the constitution of the Amalgamated it is necessary to have five locals to endorse a referendum before the question can be voted upon. There are only four locals now that endorsed the referendum, and there are high hopes that before this committee is thru other locals will rescind the motion calling for joining the B. & S.

T. U. E. L. Committee Has Experience

The committee that was selected for that purpose comprises men and women who worked under the Boot and Shoe held office there for years, so when they talk of the Boot and Shoe they are speaking of actual experience and not of hearsay.

The Trade Union Educational League is doing all it can to show up the humbug and demogogy of those trying to railroad the shoe workers of Lynn to the Boot and Shoe Union.

To Join the B. & S. Means Surrender to Wage Cut.

It is known to the keen observers of the Lynn situation that even if the Amalgamated would join the Boot and Shoe, the bosses will not sign up with the B. & S. on the 30th of April, at the time the present agreement expires.

The manufacturers will first declare the open shop and make prices and conditions to suit themselves then call on the Boot and Shoe to install the quarter meter in the shops and as explained in the last article in the DAILY WORKER, the Boot and Shoe takes over shops at the prevailing prices and conditions for six months then refers it to the state board for arbitration!

Governor Believes in Wage Cuts.

To show the workers that the state board is not an impartial body we wish to quote Charlie Baine, treasurer of the Boot and Shoe, who appeared before the Heel Workers' Union and stated that "The governor of Massachusetts believes that the only way to boost the state is by lowering wages, and induced the state board of arbitration in believing it."

(It will be remembered that Mr. Fuller, governor of Massachusetts, owns a car shop and not long ago had a strike in his plant and he employed scabs to crush the strike.)

It further proves that when those gentlemen refer a case to the state board for arbitration, they are throwing sand in the eyes of the workers by saying that they feel that the workers ought to get a raise or ought not to be cut which ever the case may be, but the "Honorable Board" decided so and so, and we as good sports have to live up to it.

Workers Welcome Real Amalgamation.

The shoe workers of Lynn are ready for amalgamation with any or all shoe unions providing the other unions will look at the Lynn union as an equal and amalgamate for the benefit of the workers, and not a place merely to collect quarters.

LAUNDRY UNION KEEPS STRIKING DESPITE THUGS

Union Head Wounded in Murderous Attack

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—William Berman, president of the Laundry Workers' Union, which is on strike here, was badly beaten and taken to the hospital in a serious condition, after an attack on the union leader.

J. F. Dorfman, president of the laundry owners' association, which is fighting the strike, was arrested and placed under $5,000.00 bond charged with the murderous assault, following an investigation by the district attorney. Berman was badly beaten and after being taken to the Kings county hospital was pronounced to be in a serious condition.

Local Union 810 of the Laundry Workers, have been carrying on a strike for the past six weks at the Clovlen laundry. The entire laundry owners' association has exerted every effort to break the strike. They applied for an injunction which the court refused them.

The strikers declare they will continue their fight against the association despite these murderous assaults on their leaders.

Many laundries, including the Hinsdail wet wash laundry, have already signed an agreement with the Laundry Workers' Union.

N. Y. Garment Workers Answer Lockout with Strike and Boycott

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—All departments are shut down in the establishments of Kulock & Co., 39 Eldred St., and Rogoff & Co., 85 Canal St. by the strike ordered by the Amalgamated Garment Workers' Union after a lockout of workers in these shops under the guise of slackness of work.

The strike has aroused the entire east side and the workers are determined that no attempt on the part of the bosses to break the union by starving its members shall succeed. The workers are told that no clothing should be bought from firms who lockout the workers and a campaign is going on to inform the residents on the east side as to the whole situation. The bosses are already smarting under the lash of solidarity among the buyers and the union has full confi- to the locked out members.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE ACTIVE IN MINNEAPOLIS

Meeting to Boost Organization Drive

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 18.—The Young Workers League in Minneapolis is on the job, despite the inactivity of the Central Labor Union of that city in organizing the youth in industry. Plans have been completed for the holding of a mass meeting at the Labor Lyceum, 1426 Sixth avenue, North, Thursday evening, Feb. 19.

Handbills have been prepared which will be distributed at the gates of several of the larger factories as the employes leave their work.

Organization Drive.

The speakers who are scheduled to address the meeting have been announced as follows: Comrades C. A. Hathaway, district organizer, Workers Party; C. Florsheim, secretary, Young Workers League, Minneapolis branch, and Leslie R. Hurt, industrial organizer, Young Workers League, Minneapolis.

The comrades will stress the necessity of young workers organizing into unions if they expect to resist wage reductions and lengthening of hours. The young workers will be requested to file applications for membership in the Young Workers League of America, as well to join the unions of their respective crafts.

Arrests Don't Stop Them.

The organization drive was commenced late this fall and resulted in the arrest of four members of the league for conducting a meeting at the gates of the National Biscuit company here. After spending a night in jail the accused were taken before the municipal court and released on bail.

The cases were later dismissed after a delay of several weeks. Cold weather set in shortly thereafter which made the holding of street meetings impossible. This new drive is a continuation of the campaign inaugurated at that time.

DETROIT CARPENTERS INSIST UPON RUNNING THEIR UNION; OUST FAKER AND HIS LAWYER

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 18.—In order to convince the police which he had ordered to the meeting of L. U. 2140 of carpenters that Wm. Reynolds was expelled and not entitled to be present at the meeting, Sam Botterill, agent of Hutcheson, took the minutes of the local union and started to read them to the sergeant of the police and his four aids.

The members protested against Botterill revealing the business of the union to outsiders, especially to policemen, and Reyenolds, the "expelled" member, acting as president, forcibly took the minutes from the old traitor and restored them to the secretary's desk. The police were then asked by Reynolds to retire from the hall, but they refused to do so. Five minutes later when Botterill ordered them to leave they did so without the least hesitation.

Gently—But Firmly.

After the police had retired the doors were closed. Reynolds attempted to open the meeting but was interrupted by Joe Carson, a shyster lawyer employed by Hutcheson, who enjoys all the privileges of membership tho he has never worked at the trade. Carson could not show a dues book nor credentials and refused to recognize Reynolds as president, but insisted upon speaking tho repeatedly told to be seated until the meeting was regularly called to order and declared opened.

When he ignored a final warning to be seated or leave the hall he was gently but firmly ejected from the meeting into the arms of the police, whom he had brot to protect him. The police received him cordially and held him until he had ceased struggling. His coat and hat were handed to the police and the local union saw no more of the police or the shyster.

Faker Follows Shyster.

Old Sam Botterill was next told to be seated and when he refused a brother assisted him in assuming a relaxed posture which he held until he decided to follow his fellow conspirator, Carson, about 15 minutes later. The meeting then resumed its regular course.

Many letters, in answer to a circular letter sent out by Local Union No. 2140 on the expulsion, were read. Most of them indicated favorable action on an enclosed resolution, or a desire for further information. The local reiterated its stand in support of Reynolds and signified an intention to fight on constitutional grounds no matter how far the payroll gang might depart from them.

Month's Record High—In Lowness.

Before leaving, Botterill called a prominent member of the local union aside and tried to bribe him into supporting the expulsion policy by the promise of a job as business agent.

Hutcheson's gang's record in Detroit is so far as follows: Expulsion of Reynolds without charges or trial by the G. E. B.; securing an injunction against Reynolds restraining him from attending any union meetings, which they have lacked the guts to enforce; securing police protection for themselves against the rank and file who are in open rebellion against their high-handedness and stupidity; employment of their more stupid followers as club-wielding plug-uglies; trying to reveal the business of the union to police. The old, old trick of thirty pieces of dirty silver.

Always Makes New Record.

As a month's record they may safely challenge the fakers of any international union to show greater speed on the toboggan of trade union decency. Carpenters in Detroit think, each day, that the bottom of iniquity has been struck, that Hutcheson's stools have plumbed the depths, but they now expect each day's worst to be surpassed by some new pieces of treasonable stupidity.

Sharrock has well said, "Hutcheson is a big man in a small way. His tools are small in a big way, on a moral plane a louse would tower above these meaner prasites as does a colossus above a pigmy.

WORKERS DEMAND LIBERATION OF SACCO-VANZETTI

Many Cities Stage Protests March 1

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.— Plans for March 1 demonstrations all over the country by workers' groups urging a new trial for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, two Italian workers unjustly convicted in Massachusetts of a payroll robbery and murder, indicate a tremendous response to the cause of these men.

Faneuil Hall in Boston, Grand Central Opera house in New York, Emmet Memorial Hall in Chicago, Ukrainian Hall in Youngstown, Ohio, Hippodsome Hall in Warren, Ohio, and many other cities will be scenes of huge mass meetings for Sacco and Vanzetti on March 1. Meetings in other countries are being arranged also.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn will address the New York meeting. Joseph Ettor will speak at Detroit, Mich. William J. White will be the principal speaker at Warren, Ohio. Etter speaks in Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls on Feb. 26-27-28. The Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee, box 93, Hanover street station, Boston, announces that the response among the miners to the appeal for aid is splendid. A committee of Italian workers organized in Tampa, Fla., is reported to be sending $1,007.53 to the fund for a new trial.

Vanzetti is still confined in the state hospital, declared temporarily insane because of worry over the injustices of his trials and the denial of motions for a new trial. Appeal to the state supreme court is being made by the defense committee.

DETROIT HOLDS FIRST DAILY WORKER BRICKLAYERS' BALL

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—The First Annual Daily Worker Ball of Detroit is going to be one of the foremost social events of this season. Not because it is going to outshine everything else we have had in glitter or originality but because it is going to be the first official festival of the Daily Worker Bricklayers' Union.

You know all about the DAILY WORKER Sub Drive and contest. You know about the beautiful branch prize and the five valuable prizes for individual subgetters? Well, here's where they are going to get their prizes and you just bet your sweet life that there'll be some excitement.

Boosters Will Be There.

How would you like to meet some real live DAILY WORKER boosters, the kind that do not confine their boosting to mere talk but the folks who go out and get the subs and heave them back? These are the people with whom you can have a real good time, and when you hear that swell orchestra and dance with our sweet young DAILY WORKER Bricklayer lasses, oh boy, you sure will look forward to out second annual affair.

Just take hold of these facts and hold tight: The first annual DAILY WORKER ball will take place Sunday, March 1, 2646 St. Aubin. There'll be dancin' and eats and drinks and fun an everything and tickets are only 50c. S'nuff.

Des Moines Paradise of Little Biz

neglected the pennies in Des Moines so small business competes and hustles, while the little unions flourish as in "days of yore."

In order further to save "democracy and our institutions," a number of insurance companies have their headquarters here. A number of them have large office buildings which they own.

Just outside the city is Fort Des Moines which has many soldiers, including a regiment of cavalry. The army pay checks help swell the receipts of small business by giving them a big local market.

Then there is the state capitol with its senators, representatives, clerks, etc., adding another million or so to the buying power of the community.

There ars also many wholesale jobbing houses that distribute provisions, farm machinery, etc., over a large territory. As for "culture," we have the Iowa Homestead, Wallace's Farmer, Successful Farming, and for ladies the Popular Monthly, Household and other "good advertising" mediums. These all own large plants in this city which makes it a center for the printing trades and for discrimination of "bourgeois culture."

These many enterprises bring a continuous stream of "cash in advance" into town, adding to the prosperity of small business which is shared by the small labor unions. What greater paradise could be wished for?

"Yes Sir! It's a Union Town."

The building trades unions are well organized in Des Moines. Their headquarters at the Labor Temple has many offices for the business agents as well as seven good sized halls for meetings.

It is estimated that these crafts are about 90 per cent organized. They had a collective agreement with the contractors, covering all building crafts, a few years ago. Under this agreement the painters "profiteered" on some of the "stronger" unions. The painters had only 45 per cent organization and 50 cents an hour. They made demands for $1.00 an hour and got it under the collective agreement. Then the painters had a very successful "organization campaign" and soon were nearly 100 per cent. (I mean union, not profiteers). This made the bricklayers and some other locals sore; the building trades council was weakened and died, so ended the collective agreement. Last year the council was re-organized but dissention has again set in to weaken it.

The hod carriers and building laborers are fairly well organized as are also the teamsters and truck drivers.

Street railway employes have a good local. They own a fine auditorium with a number of smaller halls and offices in their building, which is situated in the down town district.

In addition to the city car men, employes of the many interurban systems that epter Des Moines make up a large membership for this local.

Busy Season for Building Crafts.

During January permits were taken out for half a million dollars for individual homes. Other building operations planned gives promise of a busy season for the building crafts.

Bricklayers receive $1.50 per hour, plumbers, $1.37½ and other crafts receive about the same. There is no unusual unemployed situation in the building industry at Des Moines.

During the fall of last year the trades and labor assembly of Des Moines established a labor college. History, English, economics, household arts are among the subjects taken up. The teachers are professors from the universities close to Des Moines.

The purpose of the institution is "to grant to the employed people of the city an opportunity to receive a more liberal education at a minimum expense." The school operates for twenty weeks, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and the tuition for any one of these courses is $1.00 for ten weeks. The larger part of the finances for operating expenses are to be raised thru subscriptions from labor organizations. The classes are held in the Polk county court house.

The history of the trade unions is not included in the course. Labor law, dealing with industrial legislation and real estate law have ben given a place on the curriculum. Occasionally open forums will be conducted in connection with the school when specialists in a particular field will speak and the students given an opportunity for discussion.

There is apparent sincerity upon the part of the unions to help the workers acquire a broader education. They have not yet learned to distinguish the difference between the ethics and economics, history and psychology of the working class and that of the capitalist system.

The Juveniles.

Recently the Trades and Labor Assembly launched an organization for children of union members between the ages of 12 and 18 years. This is known as "The Juvenile Federation of the Des Moines Trades and Labor Assembly." A charter has been issued to the federation as an auxiliary to the assembly.

There are between 60 and 70 youngsters in the federation who conduct their own meetings. Lectures are given from time to time on various subjects. It is more social than educational, but the children seem to enjoy the organization.

When the Bolsheviks Come.

Into such a "pleasant dream" towr the rude Bolsheviks have promised to come. The Workers Party will hold a meeting of those who are awake in Des Moines on Sunday, March 1. at 2:30 p. m., in hall No. 7, at the Labor Temple. The temple is at 110 Sixth avenue. Admission will be free. J. E. Snyder and David Coutts will be the speakers.

Electrical Workers' Union Fight Ruling Of Supreme Court

The Electrical Workers' Union. is fighting a decision handed down by the Illinois state supreme court, in the form of instructions to a lower court, to issue an injunction against a city restraining them from licensing contractors or collecting inspection fees. This affects all cities and towns in the entire state of Illinois, because all local ordinances pertaining to licensing and collection of fees are declared illegal by the recent supreme court decision.

Fight Wooden Cars

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 18.—It is the workers who use the subways and the workers whose lives pay the penalty when flimsy wooden cars smash. Therefore the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York is sending a petition to the legislature asking for the withdrawal of all wooden cars from the subway and elevated systems of the Interborough and Brooklyn Rapid Transit companies. Fatal injuries have occurred in recent collisions.

MILWAUKEE MAY CAPTURE PRIZE AT RED REVEL

Daring Costumes Planned for Masquerade

Groups representing Soviet Russia and the international unity of the working class won first place at the masked ball of the socialist party in Milwaukee last week. Another capture by the Communists! But perhaps the judges couldn't help it. Or again perhaps the judges were "planted" by Gus Shklar, local secretary of the Workers Party.

The Milwaukee Invasion

Perhaps Shklar and his merry comrades are coming to the Red Revel to contest for that $50,00 prize. If so our Chicago masqueraders had better look out. It would not surprise us to learn that the Milwaukeeans are coming to get a few pointers on how to run Red Revels. But an ounce of prevention is worth many pounds of cure.

However the chairman of the arrangements committee in an exclusive interview to the publicity agent for the Red Revel, announced that Steve Rubicki in the field for the first prize with a group that will make the judges jump down off the stage with sheer enthusiasm. "Comrade Rubicki is a man of few words" declared the chairman, "but he means what he says. I understand that he has collected a group composed of representatives of several nationalities and of the Italian Federation. If it will stick together I am of the opinion that Steve will come in first."

A Daring Design.

But Steve will have competition, Moritz Loeb, business manager of the DAILY WORKER, has designed a costume which for sheer daring would make Isadore Duncan blush to her eyebrows. Jack Johnstone, who claims credit for bringing the good news of Sam Gompers' demise to the American proletariat thru the columns of the DAILY WORKER, has a plan up his sleeve, but the details have not yet leaked out. It is rumored around the T. U. E. L. office that he saw something in Mexico City that would open the eyes of natives of the Windy City. What it is, we cannot say, but it is not Pulque.

Thurber Lewis, fresh from Herrin, is expected to essay the role of a Grand Goblin. Natalie Gomez has issued a challenge to all and sundry to bring on their darned costumes. The judges are to be envied and pitied. How can they be impartial?

Then there is the midnight surprise. Besides the tableau which Hans Peterson of the Scandinavian Federation is working on, a company of three girls directed by Emma Blechsmidt are cavorting like elfs in rehearsal for the midnight surprise. Those who have seen the rehearsal admit that one eyeful is worth every nickel of fifty cents.

Hundreds of Costumes.

Costumes! Costumes! Costumes! It is premature to figure on the attendance, but if reports are reliable, the affair will look like a gypsy convention or an Oriental bazaar. Armenians, Turks, Greeks and Bulgarians. Irish, English, Scotch and Welsh. Swedes, Finns, Danes and Norwegians. Germans, Austrians, Bohemians and Dutch. French, Spanish Italians and Belgians. Letts, Litts, Esthonians and Poles. Rumanians, Hungarians, Jugo-Slavians and Albanians. Mexicans, Canadians and the rest of the world. It is no exaggeration to say that the whole world will be represented.

As usual Soviet Russia will be represented by the Red Army. This is the time to get your tickets. They are selling like hot dogs at a skating rink. They can be secured either at the local office of the Workers Party, 166 West Washington street, Room 307 or at the office of the DAILY WORKER.

Better Said, "Why Isn't He?"

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 18.—Delivering an address over the state radio station WOS, Representative Armstrong was mistaken for a convict. Among the commendatory letters received was this: "Your prison program was fine. We liked Mr. Armstrong's speech. Please tell us something about him. Why is he in prison."

Springfield Young Workers League Gets Twelve New Members

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 18.—The Young Workers League of this city held a very successful celebration in the White Dental Hall, Sunday, Feb. 15, at 7:00 p. m. Comrade Mihelic made a very interesting speech on "Why Workers Should Join the Young Workers League." Application cards were passed out and twelve new members was the result, all of whom are young miners. A very large audience was present and every one said it was one of the best radical meetings ever held in this city.

A splendid program of piano solos, violin solos, recitations, violin and harmonica duet, one act play, singing and performance of the Young Workers League orchestra, together with the speech of Comrade Mihelic's served the double purpose of providing an entertaining as well as educational evening, which could hardly be surpassed.

ENGDAHL TO SPEAK IN CICERO ON THE "REDS IN AMERICA"

J. Louis Engdahl, editor of the DAILY WORKER, will speak next Monday, Feb. 23, at Liberty Hall, 49th Ave., and 14th St., Cicero, on the subject of "The Reds in America." The meeting will be under the auspices of the Cicero English Branch of the Workers (Communist) Party.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED - BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

A WEEKLY YOUNG WORKER

THE last issue of The Young Worker before it starts publication as a weekly paper, is a special child labor edition, containing complete program for the fight against child labor as well as the latest news about the progress of the child labor amendment.

The child labor amendment has been temporarily defeated due to the weak fight put up by the liberals who have been misleading the movement against child labor. The February 15 issue of The Young Worker analyses this defeat and points out the only solution if the American working class wants to abolish child labor in this country.

Young Communists.

"Fighters Against Imperialism," is the title of an article received from Mexico, telling of the activities of the Federation of Communist Youth. Especially interesting is the account of the activities of the young Communists of Mexico during the recent fighting when they aided in the defeat of De La Huerta, while at the same time carrying on anti-militarist activity within the Obregon army.

"For Leninism; Against Trotskyism!" is the first installment of a statement by the Young Communist International on the activities of Comrade Trotsky in the Russian Communist Party and shows how the Young Communist International and the Young Communist Leagues thruout the world always take an uncompromising stand against opportunism and right wing deviations.

Under the new section "Young Workers' Correspondence" a letter is printed from a nucleus of the Young Workers' League in a large garment factory in Pittsburgh.

There is also an article by a young worker in the Boston Store, telling about the conditions in this big Chicago department store, and also tells of the activities of the Young Workers' League nucleus and the demands for which they are fighting.

The most important news in this issue to workers young and old, is the announcement that starting with the next issue The Young Worker will appear once a week and in improved form. The Weekly Young Worker will contain more news, more cartoons and an improved international news service, as well as many articles by the leaders of the Communist movement in America.

New York Young Workers League to Hear of Trotskyism

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The New York District Young Workers League will hold a joint membership meeting Sunday, Feb. 22, at 105 Eldridge St., to discuss Trotskyism.

The district is carrying on a campaign for the Bolshevization of the league and this meeting called to discuss Trotskyism is one of the means by which we hope to bring about the Bolshevization of our Young Workers League.

The New York district is unanimous in its support of the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International on Trotsky, but it intends to use the issue raised by Comrade Trotsky as a means of bringing home to the entire membership the principles of Leninism.

Comrade Don will lead the discussion and then will follow a general discussion by the entire membership.

Admission will be by membership card of the Young Workers League or the Workers Party.

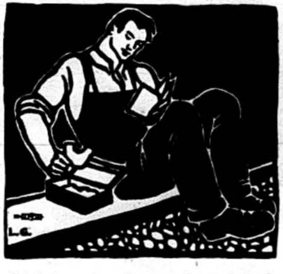
The Little Red Library



This is the mark on the cover of every book of The Little Red Library.

Ready February 15:

No. 1—TRADE UNIONS IN AMERICA, by Wm. Z. Foster, Jas. P. Cannon and Earl R. Browder, is a brief statement of the trade union movement in America and the history of the development of the Left Wing, with an explanation of the structure and program of the Trade Union Educational League.

No. 2—CLASS STRUGGLE vs. CLASS COLLABORATION, by Earl R. Browder, is a study of labor banks, the "B. & O. Plan," insurance schemes, and workers' education. This little book throws the spot-light on the methods used by the labor bureaucracy to divert the working class from militant struggle against capitalism.

ONE of the first steps of the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO. since becoming the central distributing agency for the Communist press in this country is the publication of THE LITTLE RED LIBRARY—an innovation in working class publications.

This little library will consist of uniform volumes, pocket size, including reprints of revolutionary classics and new works of the best writers in the American and International movement.

It will cover all phases of social and industrial problems, history, philosophy, fiction, poetry and art.

TEXTILE CAPITAL, NORTH AND SOUTH, IN UNITED FRONT

Labor Must Approach Problems on Big Scale

1920—during which 50 per cent cash dividends and 100 per cent stock dividends were the routine of life of New England textile stockholders—that it was these golden floods which saturated the south with capital and made cotton mills grow there like mushrooms. The very name of the "New England southern mills," tho this one was not itself a successful venture, illustrates the trend.

New England newspapers boast today that "Atlanta is a Northern city."

They might add that Virginia, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia are today "New England states"—as far as the cotton textile industry is concerned.

No Labor Unions In South

The power that this gives to the monster textile combine is immeasurable. And the combine is using every ounce of that power. A peculiar feature of its is seen in the fact that in the south the textile industry finds practically a virgin field in regard to labor. In the southern villages where the mills are set up, or small, old mills re-equipped, labor unionism has virtually never been heard of. The traditions of slavery and the ideology of mountaineer agriculture, of potato-patches and one-mule farms, are still to be found—and valued by the northern capitalists who have had their experiences of Lawrence and Paterson and Fall River. Result: THERE IS AN ABSOLUTE EMBARGO AGAINST THE MIGRATION OF ANY MILL WORKERS FROM THE NORTH TO THE SOUTH!

For example, the Standard Daily Trade Service said last December:

"Resistance to wage reductions in the south is not expected to be strong, inasmuch as THIS IS A NONUNION SECTION, but in New England the workers will in all probability unite to oppose them.... Probably the biggest advantage the southern mills hold over the northern companies (the publication here ignores that the southern and the northern mills are the right and the left hands of the same capital) is lower-cost labor. Wages are considerably lower in the south, to the extent apparently of 25 to 30 per cent. In addition, the working week is longer than in the north. Whereas the week in the southern mills ranges from 55 to 60 hours, the 48 hour week is more or less general in the northern factories."

Here we have the picture: The mountaineer-farmer, accustomed with wife and children to hoeing his corn patch from sun-up to sun-down in the clean air of the hills, and living, half-starved, on sow-belly and corn-pone, is lured down to the trap of the big new mill with offer of money wages. Into the mill he eagerly brings himself, his wife and his children—(these cotton manufacturers have been ferocious in their opposition to the child-labor amendement)—ready to work as a matter of course from sun-up to sun-down in the lint-laden air for just a little more sow-belly and corn-pone. Labor unions?—Some strange, exotic words akin to the dread word, Bolshevism.

Put Up Own "Leaders."

"Furthermore," continues the publication, "the southern mills have been remarkably free from labor troubles, owing to the fact that unionism has made practically no headway in that section."

A study of the recent utterances of various textile barons leaves no room for doubt that it is their concerted plan to hold the south by means of "welfare" frauds, trickery, force and violence, or any other means against the introduction of labor unions; and to use any and all of the same means in the present wage-cutting, open-shop drive to reduce the New England textile workers to the same basis of coolie-labor which they are establishing in the south.

A singular and almost incredibly open evidence of this is found in the present slogan of the mill owners, recently launched thruout New England: "Let your mill superintendent be your labor-leader! Listen to no so-called labor leaders from outside your own mill!"

In the face of these facts it is nothing less than pitiful to hear trade-union officials speak of each one of a hundred mill quarrels separately as a problem of "getting an adjustment" for this or that handful of workers—usually the skilled workers only considered—in a fragmentary way and nearly always on the basis of a present ten per cent wage-cut and a future promise.

Sees 25 Per Cent Cut

If we judge the problem as a whole we cannot escape the conclusion that the objective of the New England drive is at least a 25 per cent cut and an iron-clad open shop. Textile manufacturers' references to the necessity to "compete with (their own) southern mills which have the advantage of newer machinery" give even some basis for the suspicion that they hope to have New England wages cut more than the 25 or 30 per cent.

And why do we hear from the mouths of these textile kings constant allusions to "the Dawes plan" and "foreign slavery" of the German workers with an equal slavery of the New England workers?

Already we see the rapid disappearance of many of the differences between the skilled and unskilled workers which until recently were very important features here. Skilled crafts there still are, of course; and trade-unionism at present often depends upon organizing only the skilled textile crafts and depending upon the spontaneous loyalty of the unorganised unskilled and semi-skilled workers in case of disputes. But the advantageous position of skilled labor in the cotton mills tends to disappear. Spinners, for instance, are being so drastically pushed into speeding-up systems that they complain of practically having lost the status of a skilled craft.

In "Life-and-Death" Crisis

A half-blind man could see that labor unionism in the textile industry is now in a life-and-death crisis. The half-dozen fragments and memberless memories of labor organizations here, tend to jog along in dreams of past conditions until suddenly jolted into a sudden fight, a petty "adjustment," then to sink into phlegmatic, sodden routine, while the world about them is ablaze.

Again I will say there are exceptions to be found. Some of the unions are ready—even their officials are ready—to listen to the call for a wide effort at unification. The work of the united front movement instigated by the Workers Party is being felt, and many groups and organizations of workers here and there have promised and are giving co-operation.

But it will be necessary to get unity on a vast scale. All of New England textile labor will stand or fall together. And it can not make any effective headway unless out of this campaign comes an organizational form big enough to reach thruout all America. There must be textile union organization big enough to reach into Georgia.

The textile manufacturers are united from Maine to the southern tip of Georgia. The textile workers must be the same, or must enter a period of "deflation" and doubly intensified slavery of which their past experience furnishes no example.

SMALL STICKS FINGER IN TRACTION LINE PIE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 18.—Governor Len Small took a hand in the traction situation today, serving notice on Mayor Dever that the traction ordinance will be investigated by the Illinois Commerce Commission before the end of the week.

Small is anxious to boost the political prestige of William Hale Thompson, who wants to be elected mayor in 1927. Small plans to conduct a state investigation, discredit Dever's traction plan, and then ring in one of his own.

Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

Bury This Spike!

The last spike to insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925 has only its point in the ground. A capitalist boot could kick it downhill without any trouble at all—it wouldn't hurt even a capitalist's big, bare toe.

It must be DRIVEN TO THE HILT!

It must become part of the huge Workers Party structure of propaganda that nothing short of an earthquake can dislodge.

Bury the Spike, or Bury the DAILY WORKER!

The issue is plain. As the spike goes down, the DAILY WORKER'S prospects for 1925 GO UP!

In Friday's paper will be a record of how many dollar blows have fallen. How much nearer the ground will it be—This last spike?

Use this spike just as the DAILY WORKER uses capitalism—KNOCK IT. Hit it squarely on the head. It is bullet-headed, too—like capitalism. It needs firm blows. It needs to be BURIED—not just to be bruised. And like capitalism, it calls for CLASS ACTION. An army of blows to bury the spike!

How many blows can each branch of the Workers Party give?

Take the Yukon, Pa., English branch, for instance. On Dec. 25 there came $3.00 to the DAILY WORKER from its former secretary, Mike Grajdich. He wrote as follows: "The mine where the rest of our comrades worked shut down 9 months ago, and now our branch doesn't exist any more. But I send you all I can for myself; but I don't live in Yukon any more, tho my family does. I had to get a job in East Pittsburgh.

"Please take note of this, because it's not fair for us from that branch that used to be so active to be called 'slackers' now."

The name of this branch will go on the COMMUNIST ROLL-CALL of the special Comintern edition of the DAILY WORKER, March 5, the same as that of the English branch of Detroit, Mich., that has MORE THAN DOUBLED ITS QUOTA!

"To each, according to its need." How much does the DAILY WORKER need? This question isn't hard to answer. The answer has often been told . . . $50,000 . . . to get safely thru the year 1925 . . . $50,000 to CARRY ON THE FIGHT: not a farthing less!

WHEN the DAILY WORKER was organized, skeptical people kept saying: "Oh, it will come and go like a comet." The socialist daily in New York had just kicked the bucket. This was a bad omen, some radicals thought. If a yellow, reformist daily that reduced the class struggle to zero, went down, what chances did a fighting Communist daily have? The skeptics forgot that a fighting daily would succeed just because it fought for the interests of theworkers. A labor paper that does not fight has no excuse for existence. It is only competing with the capitalist press and cannot exist except by blackmailing business men into supporting it thru advertising.

BECAUSE we have not appealed for funds until the recent insurance drive, many of our readers may be justified in thinking that we get our funds from heaven or from some other place. We don't. We are now making a serious appeal for support. We want to make a real united front with our readers by asking them to join with us in driving the big spike on this page down, until its head disappears. Just imagine you are driving a nail in the coffin of the capitalist system and you will get that thrill that comes once in a life time.

EVERY reader of this paper is invited to send in a dollar. One dollar will not make the spike sink very much but "constant dropping wears away a stone." I can see dollars coming from all directions, from over the United States, as if they had wings, coming as fast as letters from vegetarians when the DAILY WORKER says a kind word for roast beef. We expect to publish some very interesting letters in a few days from our dollar brigade. And their names will appear in the Roll of Honor in our March 5th edition.

IT is only a few short years since a group of Communists found themselves in Berrien county jail, in the state of Michigan. There was no DAILY WORKER at that time. But to break the monotony of their incarceration the prisoners got together and issued the first Communist daily in the English language on the American continent, called, like this, The DAILY WORKER. The copy was smuggled out and published in the Weekly Worker, in New York and in the Voice of Labor, Chicago. It created such a sensation that the municipal judge, who was also secretary of the chamber of commerce in St. Joseph, upbraided the sheriff for allowing his prisoners to issue a paper in the jail. The post office took it so seriously that it prohibited the Voice of Labor from reproducing it on the ground that the DAILY WORKER did not enjoy second class mailing privileges.

WHAT was then only a dream is today a reality. The copy for the DAILY WORKER is no longer sneaked out to the printer. It lives in its own building, is edited, set up, composed, printed and mailed in its own castle. It costs money to do that. The dollars of the revolutionary workers of the United States established it; their dollars will also keep it going. If every reader of this paper would only realise that the life of the DAILY WORKER depends on him or her, he or she would immediately send a dollar. This drive will close on March 5. Get your name on the honor roll and help push down this spike.

THIRTY THOUSAND IN PROCESSION TO BURY VICTIMS OF DAWES

DORTMUND, Germany, Feb. 17.—A throng estimated at 30,000 witnessed the final obsequies today of the 136 workers who lost their lives in the Stein mine explosion here last week.

Crowds lined the streets and the bells in all the churches of the city were tolled as the funeral procession passed to the cemetery. Delegations of foreign miners' unions followed the hearses, which were covered with flowers.

The public business offices of the city and most of the private homes displayed signs of mourning.

SCAB COLLEGE IS BIG MONEY MAKER DIVIDENDS SHOW

Exploits Eager Desire for Capitalist "Success"

By CARL HAESSLER,

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

The open shop college of business success, the La Salle Extension university, is making a soft thing out of its eager customers who seek by mail to become financiers and executives and experts in getting something for nothing. It is declaring a 100 per cent dividend on its closely guarded share which have regularly paid 10 per cent a year besides piling up a big surplus.

Uses Non-Union Printing.

The La Salle, whose textbooks on commercial uplift or the trick of elevating pennies into dollars are printed in nonunion shops, finds that education of the kind it is peddling by correspondence is exceedingly remunerative. "Our surplus, represented by substantial assets, is more than five times our capitalization," asserts J. G. Chapline, president of the uniquely profitable college.

The 100 per cent stock dividend, which is part of a scheme to increase the present $1,000,000 capital to $1,500,000, is being managed for this education factory by its open shop crony, Hell'n Maria Dawes, president Central Trust Co., and vice-president of the United States beginning March 4. The Central Trust Co. and Dawes were the fragrant defendants found guilty of juggling figures to deceive the state bank examiners in thefamous Lorimer bank case.

Inspiration Exploited.

Among the favorite inspirational commodities vended in the La Salle sales literature are "vision" and "success." The Dawes- La Salle-open shop combination seems to have the inside track but whether the secret is communicated to the university's mail order patrons is another question. "Our sales now are about five times what they were 10 years ago," says Pres. Chapline.

Soviet Mining Experts Observe Mine Methods; May Buy Machinery

SAN FRANCISCO.—San Francisco is entertaining a number of distinguished labor visitors. Chief among them is a delegation from Soviet Russia, consisting of representatives of various industrial bodies who are visiting mining and dredging operations in California with a view of buying machinery.

They include Alexis Smolnikoff, Peter Drozgiloff, Sergei Podiakvonoff, Nikolai Kousmin, Alexander Strekhnin and John G. Ohsol. Many of them are prominent in Russian government affairs, as well as in their respective industries.

LOEB TO TELL STORY OF THE DAILY WORKER

Public Invited to Look Behind the Screen

Would you like to be initiated into the mysteries of putting a labor daily to bed? No doubt you would. Please understand that "going to bed" is shop talk for going to press.

Before the writer penetrated into the mysterious cavern of newspaperdom, he was as interested in the stairway leading to an editorial room as a stage Johnny is in the part of the theatre that is behind the footlights, particularly when the asbestos screen is down.

When you pay three cents for a copy of the DAILY WORKER on the news stand, or when you get it thru the mails (as I hope you do), you know very little of the myriad movements that go into producing it.

Daily Manager to Speak.

Moritz Loeb, business manager of the DAILY WORKER will speak next Sunday at the Workers Party Open Forum on "How a Labor Daily Goes to Press." Comrade Loeb was the chief revolutionary midwife who officiated at the birth of the DAILY WORKER. As an organizer he has few superiors, and the continued growth of our daily is in a great measure due to his capable management. Before he undertook his present task, he was secretary of the Friends of Soviet Russia in Chicago, and organized one of the most successful tag days ever held in the city. Later on, he was appointed secretary of the Labor Defense Council and started the campaign that raised $100,000 for the defense of the Communists in Michigan.

The Open Forum is held every Sunday evening at 8:00 p. m., in the Lodge room of the Ashland Auditorium, corner of Ashland Blvd. and Van Buren Street.

Constabulary and Capitalism

"Law 'norder" is again the topic of discussion in the Illinois legislature as the employers' association, the chambers of commerce, advertising clubs, the Illinois manufacturers' associations, and the brood of kiwanis, lions and rotary clubs press for the enactment of the constabulary bill—a bill creating a state police force like the steel trust's Pennsylvania cossacks whose bloody record of violence against striking workers is too well known to need detailing here.

The capitalists have the national army, the state militia, the municipal police forces, sheriffs and their deputies of the various counties—a formidable and well-trained array of agents hostile to the working class and its organizations. But the capitalists are not satisfied.

Not a day passes but the necessity of a further increase in all these instruments of the capitalist power is urged by the capitalist press. The hunting down of actual criminals is a minor part of the duties, it is their social camouflage, of these armed groups—standing outside and above the masses. They are kept to put down strikes, demonstrations and revolts of the workers.

The capitalists know that their system breeds suffering and discontent like a rotten carcass breeds maggots. They feel insecure and nervous even in periods when there is very little political agitation. They are worried over their stolen wealth and in their dreams they see the working class reaching for the good things of life that have been stolen from it.

It is a very innocent and uninformed person who, in spite of the innumerable acts and utterances of the capitalists that prove to the hilt the Communist contention that their rule rests on force, can continue to believe that capitalism can be killed by love and kindness.

Against the constabulary bill organized workers of Illinois are a unit and the bill will probably be defeated. The conditions which prompt the Illinois bosses to introduce the bill will remain, however, and unless the workers of Illinois enter into a united front on all other problems of the working class they will wake up some day to the knowledge that Illinois capitalism has strengthened itself by the creation of another organization of professional thugs and murderers.

The way to fight the constabulary bill is organize the working class on the basis of the class struggle and contest every salient of the capitalist system. To trade and truckle, to yield on other vital points, to compromise the position of the unions in relation to the capitalist parties, to mouth the same respect for capitalist law and order that the capitalist class and its middle-class hangers-on indulge in, in short, to conduct the kind of a campaign that the officialdom of the Illinois labor movement does in its fight against the constabulary bill, is to confuse and weaken the working class movement and deprive it of its greatest asset—confidence in its own strength and the knowledge that it must separate itself from all other social groups in its war for freedom.

Workers and poor farmers, white and black, constitute the working class. These are the only revolutionary elements in society and these are the only groups that can and will wage an uncompromising war on constabulary bills and all other forms of capitalist aggression.

The International Struggle

The French government needs at least $200,000,000 more to stabilize the franc, says Loucheur, and this is more good news for the House of Morgan.

There is an apparently inexhaustible demand for the gold of the international bankers in Europe these days and they are able to dictate their own terms.

It was less than a year ago that $100,000,000 was loaned the French government by the House of Morgan—a loan made to pay the interest on a previous loan of $500,000,000. Then in the latter part of 1924 another loan was negotiated to save the franc, which at that time hit the toboggan and was sliding to the zero mark.

Now comes the initiation of still further obligations that must be entered into to prop up French exchange.

All of these measures simply pile up a burden of debt that mortgages the French working class for generations, in company with the German workers, to the House of Morgan and its allied subsidiaries.

The French, German and American workers now have the same ruler—international finance-capital with its headquarters in Wall Street.

Against this ruler a common struggle must be waged and international finance-capital itself lays the basis for the intenationalization of the struggle of the working class.

More Evidence of "Stability"

Two events of major importance feature the news from Europe.

First, the deportation of Germans and the confiscation of German property by Roumania, actions that are usually understood to mean a declaration of war.

Second, the friction between the Polish government and the vatican.

These two events are the most eloquent testimony possible to the growing chaos of European political affairs, a chaos that cannot be concealed by labored optimism of the imperialist press and which coincides with the end of the period of social pacifism.

Roumania and Poland are both tied to the chariot wheels of French imperialism. Poland, altho nominally a catholic country, is forced to make concessions to the anti-clerical policy of the Herriot government and thus shatters the dream of the catholic church of a catholic state in central Europe to replace the vanished Austro-Hungarian empire.

Roumania has in all probability been induced—not a hard task—to take the offensive against Germany as a reminder to the weak German government that the bandit band of French imperialism is on the job in the event of default on reparation payments.

Great Britain, who wants and needs stability in western Europe, looks jealously at these evidences of French influence. She takes them—and rightly—as indications of the hell that the French imperialists will raise if British pressure on the franc and in the matter of armaments becomes too strong.

The league of nations looks on helplessly and sends out bulletins of the "progress" made by Esthonia—a country about as large as a good-sized North Dakota farm—progress marked by the murder of all the leading members of the Esthonian Communist Party.

Yes, when the Communist International declares that the conflicts between the national capitaliisms inevitably prevent any real unity and recuperation of world capitalism, it says a mouthful.

City Authorities and Street Cleaners

The strike of the 2,500 Chicago street cleaners and garbage department workers whose tasks are of the greatest value to the whole community, discloses, as strikes of workers engaged in work of this kind usually do, the low wages paid for this hard, unpleasant and in many cases dangerous toil.

The wages of the great majority of these men are less than $30 per week and they are asking an increase of about fifty cents per day.

The city authorities claim that they were not notified of the intention of the union to strike and we hope that this is true. It it is, it indicates that some progress is being made in an industry where prolonged negotiations which allow the authorities to make full preparations to break the strike are the rule.

The statements of city officials published by the capitalist press mention the number of unskilled workers available and covertly threaten the employment of scabs, with the additional information calculated to line up the little taxpayers against the striking workers, to the effect that the wage raise asked would cost the city $400,000 per year.

A city which can afford to turn out its police and fire departments to greet the representative of the pope and labor haters like Brigadier-General Dawes, not to mention the dozens of other class enemies of the workers for whom welcomes have been staged, can easily afford to give the very moderate increase asked by the workers whose job is to save the lives of the population by keeping the city clean.

This is the time for the workers in the sanitary department of the city of Chicago to make their importance felt.

Let the stink of garbage filter all thru the luxurious apartments and homes of the Chicago rich who look upon a garbageman as the lowest thing in creation.

The "Forward" of the Bosses

The Daily Forward, in refusing to carry news of the strike of New York laundry workers because it received publicity and support from the Communists and Communist press, is using an excuse that does not hold water.

A few days ago we told of the support of a scab creamery in Los Angeles by the Forward and the sabotage of the strike of the laundry workers is more proof that this expression of the putrid Second International and its social traitors hates the working class and its struggles.

It is prepared to flatter the workers when they do not fight, but let them begin to wage war on the boss and his government and the Forward shows its colors—the black and yellow flag of the capitalist counter-revolution and its middle-class supporters.

The Forward is against the class struggle in its every expression whether it be the Russian revolution or a little strike of laundry workers.

Communists in City Elections

Read the clear and uncompromising program of the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party in the aldermanic campaign and compare it with the futile, if not reactionary, programs of all the other candidates.

The program of the Communist candidates is the national program of the Workers (Communist) Party translated into terms of the problems confronting the workers of Chicago by reason of the ownership of the municipal government by the capitalist class.

All other candidates seek to conceal this fact or to justify it.

Workers Get Publicity Instead of Wages

By A. ALDEN.

EASTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 18.—In line with other textile mills of New England, the largest cotton mill of this town, the West Boylston Mfg. Co., has cut wages 10 per cent.

In normal times this mill employs over 3,000. At present it runs on a 50 per cent basis.

The workers are greatly discontented and grumblings are heard on every side, but as this mill is a scab mill, they can't do anything. In fact all the mills in this town such as the Glendale Elastic Fabric Co., Colton Mfg. Co., Hampton Mills, etc., are all scab mills.

The only strike this town has ever witnessed was in 1918 at the West Boylston Mfg. Co. The U. M. W. Local was organized, but due to poor leadership on the part of union organizers, the strikers were defeated and soon after the U. M. of A. Local also died.

The present wages of male workers here are $12.00 to $18.30; female, $9.00 to $15.45.

Some of the inspecting and shipping departments have regular school systems to speed up work. The girls on burling (cloth inspecting) that inspect most yards per week get their names put on the mill bulletin. The girl that has the largest number of yards inspected gets a gold (paper) star opposite her name. The girls who burl less have their names on the poor workers' list. In dull times these are the first ones to be laid off.

The West Boylston Mfg. Co. and Hampton Mills own quite a large number of houses in this town. They are rented to their respective employes only. Rent is taken out of pay envelopes weekly.

War Veteran is Leper.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Feb. 18.—Another case of leprosy has been found in Lake county, the third in as many months. The new case was found at Great Lakes and the victim is a veteran of the United States army sent to U. S. Naval hospital for treatment. He is Henry Embeck, 51, whose home is said to be in Cincinnati, where he has a brother and a sister living. Six years ago he returned to the states, after having served in the army in Philippines: U. S. health department officials believe he contracted it in the islands.

THE bill takes a slam at DeValera by making it a crime for anyone to style himself the president of an Irish Republic. The law is ostensibly aimed at the republicans who are the most active political force in Ireland now, in opposition to the Free State. But there is no unbridgeable basis for the republican opposition, the large elements of the republican party logically belong in a revolutionary working class party. When such a party develops in Ireland, the present assassin bills going thru the Dail will be used against the workers. The Irish workers and peasants are now enjoying some of the blessings of native capitalist rule. The Finns, Esthonians, Lithuanians, Letts, Hungarians and Jugo-Slavs had their lessons long ago.

WHILE Mrs. Ethel Snowden was in Canada she threw several volleys into the ranks of the radicals. She lacerated Soviet Russia, denounced Communism, praised the British empire, took a mild crack at Ramsey MacDonald and upheld the royal house. But her speeches created disgust in labor circles in Canada and almost caused a rebellion in the ranks of the British trade unions. Her husband, Philip, was courteously received by the king and queen when he was his majesty's chancellor and Ethel had the pleasure of osculating the appropriate parts of the royal anatomies. But judging from the manner in which Ethel's eulogies were received by the British trade unionists it would not be surprising to see a trade union boot making contact with that part of the Snowden anatomy that is oftener winked at than mentioned in polite society.

BUILDERS AT WORK

A PACKAGE OF MENTAL DYNAMITE!

AT last we can announce it! The NEW LITERATURE CATALOGUE is ready! We are sending it today to every city and branch agent of the DAILY WORKER and we are glad to send it to anyone who will take the trouble to write us for one.

It's a package of mental dynamite—a collection of the finest revolutionary working class literature is in it! All the classics and ever so many new books and pamphlets are listed, classified and described to meet every requirement of "reading hunger" that this catalogue is sure to develop in you! And here is another feature about it:

It is made in a convenient pocket size. You can carry it around with you and spend many useful moments in giving this collection of Communist classics a really pleasant "once over."

Every book and pamphlet listed carries a brief description of its contents to advise you if it is exactly that missing link in the chain of your knowledge. And if you want to brush up on a subject you feel somewhat "rusty" about, why you are sure to find it here.

But there is a special value in it that we must remind you of. When you talk to your shop-mate, you soon find that there is one subject at least in which he is interested. You no doubt have often said to yourself: "If I only knew of a book on that subject from OUR point of view, I'd land him in our branch!" If you have had this experience—write for a catalogue!

The handy booklet for a Communist propagandist has a card-board cover and between these covers you will find a book for yourself, your friends and for every need in your branch educational work. Write us and you'll get it!

AMERICAN LABOR HISTORY

By THURBER LEWIS

No. 5

The Reformers, No. 4—William H. Sylvis.

THE modest advances made by organized labor up to 1857 were almost totally destroyed by the panic of that year. It was necessary to begin all over again. One of the saving graces of the panic and strikes of 1857 was that it gave the American labor movement its first great leader—William H. Sylvis.

Sylvis was born in 1828, in Pennsylvania. He was early apprenticed in a foundry and later became a journeyman moulder. A strike in the foundry in which he worked in 1857 in Philadelphia and the desperate conditions of his trade, threw him energetically and whole-heartedly into the movement of the workers.

Largely as a result of Sylvis' enthusiastic work for organization of the moulders on a national scale, a national convention representing twelve local unions met in 1859. With Sylvia as national treasurer the Moulders' Union counted forty-four locals by 1861.

During that same year the rumblings of civil war caused Sylvia and his friends to start on a campaign of propaganda against the impending fratricidal conflict. The agitation became great enuf to call a national convention of workingmen's representatives in February, 1861 over which Sylvia presided. Resolutions were passed and plans laid for opposing the coming war. However, when the first shot was fired on Fort Sumter on April 12, the agitation ceased and whole local unions answered the call of President Lincoln.

Despite the war, the Moulders' Union continued stronger every year. Sylvis became imbued with the idea of co-operation. In 1867 under his leadership the moulders began the organization of co-operative foundries. The convention of 1868 changed the name of the Moulders' International to the Moulders' International Co-operative and Protective Union. In his report to that convention Sylvis said, "The cause of all these evils is the wage system. We must adopt a system which will divide the profits of labor among those who produce them."

The failure of the co-operative enterprises left an impression upon Sylvis. He saw the class struggle as a fight to the death. When National Labor congresses became the order of the day toward the end of the sixties he became one of the leaders and urged national and international consolidation of the forces of the workers.

He was the first American labor leader to take seriously the problem of internatinal unity. When Sylvis became president of the National Labor Union in 1868, he undertook actively to connect the organization with the First International, Marx's International Workingmen's Association. He carried on an extensive correspondence with the general council in London.

In 1869 there were rumors of war between England and the United States. The International addressed a memorial to Sylvis urging the co-operation of his union in agitation against the conflict. Sylvis replied, "Our cause is a common one. It is war between poverty and wealth. This monied power is fast eating up the substance of the people. We have made war upon it and we mean to win it. If we can, we will win thru the ballot box; if not, then we shal' resort to sterner means. A little blood-letting is sometimes necessary in desperate cases."

Unfortunately Sylvis died suddenly during July, 1869. The accepted leader of the labor movement thruout the sixties, Sylvis typifies the revolutionary beginnings of the American working class movement and points to the existence of an inherent class consciousness that cannot be stifled by the petty bureaucrats who are his unhappy successors of today.

Manley Organizes T. U. E. L. Committee In Stamford, Conn.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

STAMFORD, Conn., Feb. 18.—Comrade Joseph Manly, organizer for the Trade Union Educational League, spoke at the Jewish Workers Party Local Stamford, Conn., on the Trade Union Educational League. A general discussion followed his lecture, questions were asked on labor conditions in the neighboorhood

Comrade Manly is certainly a fine lecturer, from start to finish he kept his audience in a closely attentive mood. His talk was scentific and logical. He squared every statement with facts and figures, and proved that a Communist should be more than a theorist or a dues paying member of the Workers Party. That the real essence of Communism takes place at the point of production in the mine, mill and factory the seed of the future workers state is sown. The opportunity to work to this end is given thru the T. U. E. L.

A committee was organized.

Trainman Fatally Injured.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 18.—Caught between the drawbars while coupling at San Jose, John Hintzman of this city, trainman with the Chicago and Alton, received injuries early today that may be fatal.

All party and Young Workers' League and all friendly organizations are requested not to allow other affairs or May Day demonstrations to be arranged on that date.

HINDOO REBEL IS DEPORTED BY HERRIOT

France Took Orders from Britain

PARIS, Feb. 4. (By Mail.)—The expulsion of M. N. Roy, the Indian Communist leader, from France is the latest example of the co-operation of the political secret police of different countries.

Before the war it was the czarist okhrana which, thanks to the Franco-Russian alliance, was allowed to maintain an office and agents in Paris for the watching and harrying of political refugees.

Since the war it is the British government which has adopted this practice. It is a fact not generally known, but none the less a fact, that an inspector of the special political branch of Scotland Yard is permanently stationed in Paris, where his agents spy on any persons or institutions disapproved by heads of the secret service.

Roy's Career.

Roy has previously been a victim of the same co-operation. From his arrival in Europe from America in 1920 he resided chiefly in Berlin. But at the end of 1923 the Prussian chief of police, at the request of Scotland Yard, ordered his arrest.

He succeeded, however, in escaping to Switzerland, where he remained until last summer, when, trusting that an exile would be in safety under a radical government, he moved to Paris.

But in December Mr. Chamberlain went to Paris and discussed many matters with the French premier. And on January 3 an expulsion order was made against Roy by the French minister of the interior, without any reason being assigned. The sequence can scarcely be coincidental.

The order issued was only carried out on January 30, when he was arrested and conducted to the frontier without even being allowed to see his lawyer. Presumably it took Inspector Barron and his French colleagues nearly a month to find their man. Efficiency in such matters has never been the Yard's strong suit.

It is reported in Paris that other Indians obnoxious to the British government are to be similarly dealt with.

Mrs. Roy to Go.

Mrs. Roy was arrested at the same time as her husband, and released after his departure. Her deportation is expected to follow.

This is the lady referred to with such exquisite courtesy by the chief justice in the Cawnpore trial as "a woman believed to be of American nationality, and calling herself Evelyn Roy, and is understood to be his wife."

Mrs. Roy is, in fact, the daughter of the famous American pacifist, Dr. David Starr Jordan, and was married to Roy in California nine years ago.

Tomorrow Night Meet You At the "Novy Mir" Ball

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A big time with many surprises is in store for all those who have bought their tickets for the Novy Mir masquerade ball for Friday evening, Feb. 20th in Park View Palace, 110th St. and 5th Ave. If you haven't got your ticket yet don't put it off another minute. This ball will be the biggest and the finest ever held by our Russian comrades. There are many reasons why you should be there, but the most important one to every good comrade is to help the Communist press. Our Russian comrades are doing their part in making this affair a real treat.

Settle for the Beauty and Bolshevik tickets. Bring the money and unsold tickets either to 19 S. Lincoln St., or Room 307, 166 W. Washington St.

Even if you haven't got a single note in your throat!

You will join in the crowd when they sing the splendid tunes from

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

AN adventurous Kentuckian, Floyd Collins, was caught in a passageway leading to a cavern. His plight attracted the attion of the entire country thru newspaper publicity. It was the kind of a sensation that touches the human heart and it was played up to the limit. Circulation managers like that kind of thing. The capitalist news mongers cared very little about the sufferings of Collins. Thousands of Collinses die every year in the mines of this country and they receive only a passing notice.

DURING the world war at least seven million men, the pick of the world's manhood were murdered on the battlefields of Europe and Asia in a war between rival capitalist national groups. While the terrible tragedy lasted, the governments of the different countries made it a criminal offense to oppose mass murder. Even now in a time of comparative peace only the exigencies of politics prevent the government from throwing into prison all those who oppose war. But when somebody dies under dramatic conditions, as Collins did, the lachrymal conduits of the capitalist press begin to leak and the public weeps in sympathy.

THERE is hardly a day in the year that miners do not die under circumstances just as tragic as those that accompanied the death of Floyd Collins. They go down into the bowels of the earth, to slave for a pittance. They are in constant danger of death from a thousand causes by explosions, cave-ins, gas. When the inevitable takes place; there is a headline i nthe daily press and then silence. The coal operators control millions of dollars. They control thousands of newspapers. They do ont like any kind of publicity that might interfere with their profits.

KING GEORGE of England is ill. So is Gloria Swanson. Gloria and the king are crowding each other off the front page. Should the two nuisances pass away at the same time, the king will get the premier position, not because he is more worthy but because he nominally reigns over more people than ever saw Gloria demoralize a millionaire with a twirl of her hip.

THIS is not such a very healthy era for kings, and capitalist dictators. Only recently Albania put an ad. in the "help wanted" columns of the British papers for a king. There is usually a good crop of kings and kinglets in England, but most of them now prefer a job as porter in a movie theater or to take their chances on marrying an American society girl. The Albanian job went begging, particularly as one of the prerequisites for the position was a steady hand and quick with the trigger. "Bill" Hart might take a shot at it.

MUSSOLINI is ill. Some say it is political illness. The murderer is nearing the end of his rope. His own bandits are turning on him. His next door neighbor, Primo de Rivera, is in a still worse position. Primo went to Morocco to "clean up" the Riffians but the Riffians can squint along the barrel of a rifle, and there are now more Spaniards than Riffians in Morocco, with the difference that the Spaniards are dead and the Riffians are very much alive. The regrettable feature of this, is that the poor Spaniards who lost their lives in Morrocco are mostly members of the working class.

CAPITALIST dictatorships, whether open or veiled are bound to collapse. The decline of the capitalist system is rapid. Even France is at her wits end to keep the franc from becoming a vaudeville joke. Roumania and Germany are at war. That they have not armies in the field is not due to any indisposition on either side. They simply can't afford to pay the carfare and they can't afford to start another military war. So they confine their efforts to a "civilized" war, the kind that pacifists like Oswald Garrison Williard would very likely approve. In the midst of this chaos and confusion, Soviet Russia is marching forward, youthful and vigorous with the blood

COMMUNISTS TO PARADE IN 28TH WARD ELECTION

Workers Party Is Only Party for Workers

The Workers (Communist) Party is conducting an intensive campaign in the 28th ward aldermatic race, and plans are nearing completion for a parade to take place before the election, open air meetings, and a house to house canvass of the ward.

The paraders will carry Communist slogans, and signs informing the voters that Nicholas Dozenberg is the Communist candidate in the 28th ward. At the open air meetings the Communist speakers will call on the workers to unite under the Workers Party banner to fight for the control by the workers of Chicago's industries and government.

House to House Canvass

Members of the Lettish branch of the Workers Party, which will take care of the details of this work, will visit the registered voters, give them Communist literature, and discuss with them the problems now before the workers of the city. The parade will include a brass band, carried on a truck, and open air speeches will be made if the weather permits.

Watchers Wanted

Martin Abern, secretary of the Workers Party in Chicago, announces that Communist watchers are wanted to see that the Communist vote is counted on election day, Tuesday Feb. 24. The polls will be open from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M., and watchers are urged to report at the local office, Room 307, 166 W. Washington S.,

After the polls close it will take only one or two hours to count the vote and watchers may report at any time.

In the 34th ward, where Harry Brooker, linotype operator, well known in the Typographical Union, is the Workers (Communist) Party candidate, David McVey, a "progressive party" candidato, has produced no definite program.

In the 28th ward the Workers Party candidate Nicholas Dozenberg is the only member of the working class running in this ward. His chief opponent, Alderman George Maypole, is a well known politician.

Louis Cejka, Communist candidate in the 22nd ward, is opposed by Rudolph Mulac, a former saloon keeper, Hubert Eisenheimer, labor faker in the Clothing Workers' Union, and alderman Joseph Cepak, formerly a straw boss.

In the 24th ward Hyman Epstein, clothing cutter, and well known in the left wing of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union is opposed by Louis Berman, owner of a clothing sweatshop, Samuel Lorber, a dentist, and Alderman Jacob Arvey, a lawyer. Epstein is the only representative of the working class running in the 29th ward.

"LOONEY GAS" AT STANDARD OIL PLANT CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTIM

BRIDGETON, N. J., Feb. 19.—In spite of the deaths of five Standard Oil workers from "looney gas" poisoning recently this dangerous material is still being manufactured in New Jersey. Robert Huntsinger, the latest victim, is reported insane and fatally affected by his work in an ethyl gas laboratory in the Penns Grove plant here.

Child Labor Law Before Legislature in Michigan Today

Thursday evening the senate labor committee held a public hearing on the measure.

A strong lobby of women, representing women's clubs thruout the state, is now endeavoring to bring pressure on the house members to defeat the Culver resolution:

NOVA SCOTIA MINERS FIGHT COAL BARONS

Workers Refuse to Fall for "Arbitration"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GLACE BAY, Nova Scotia, Feb. 19.—Since last November the miners here have not worked more than twenty days each. It was this extreme unemployment among the miners, reducing them to poverty, that the British Empire Steel corporation took advantage of to enforce a cut in wages at the expiration of the agreement on January 15th.

The negotiations with the corporation led to the declaration of the corporation that a ten per cent cut in wages was necessary. The demands of the miners were formulated at a district convention held in Sydney, Nov. 17 to 24, and included an increase of 25 per cent for datal men and a 10 per cent increase for contract men. These demands were made on the corporation, with the result that the negotiations came to a deadlock. The corporation declared its determination to force a cut of 10 per cent on the miners and since it was impossible to get the representatives of the miners to accept this they applied for an arbitration board, which the minister of labor, Murdoch, agreed to immediately.

District Committee Staunch

The minister of labor notified the district executive that they should appoint their representative, but this they refused to do. This district executive was elected on a "red" platform, and they were not to be fooled by the arbitration stunts of the corporation and its government at Ottawa. Finding it impossible to get the district executive to appoint a representative the minister of labor sent one of his stoolpigeons, Quirk, to persuade the committee to appoint someone to the board. This he failed in since he is well known as the faker who has always been used by the corporation to sabotage every strike of the miners or steel workers of Nova Scotia.

After this failed the minister of labor appointed Dr. J. W. Robertson of Ottawa as the "representative" of the miners. This Robertson was a member of the royal commission that investigated the greviance of the steel workers of Sydney in 1923 and white washed the company in the report.

Tools Of Besco

When the board arrived here, the district committee branded them as tools of Besco and stated that their only function was to help the corporation put the wage cut over, and that the miners would have nothing to do with them. The board hung around Sydney for a few days, and then sent in a report to the government, the contents of which have not yet been made public.

The district committee has now demanded that the corporation extend the present scale of wages for four months and that the government appoint a commission to investigate the financing of the corporation. If this can be forced on the corporation, the miners will be in a better position to strike for their demands than they are at the present time.

Communists Expelled from Mexican Unions

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—The secretary of the Carpenters' Union of the Mexican Federation of Labor has been expelled from the federation on charges that he made strong Communist speeches.

The Federation of Labor is taking active steps to eliminate Communists from the unions, but the rank and file protest against the expulsions is increasing.

25,000 GARMENT WORKERS IN N.Y. OUT ON STRIKE

Demand Wage Increase and Union Shop

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—White goods workers, silk underwear workers, children's dress makers, bathrobe and house dress workers are once again striking in New York under direction of the miscellaneous trades district council, International Ladies' Garment Workers, to gain union organization in all shops and improve conditions.

Between 20,000 and 25,000 workers, 95 per cent girls, are employed in these branches of the garment trades in New York alone. Men involved are mostly cutters and some pressers.

Least Skilled, Lowest Paid

A concerted strike of these different trades after a careful campaign of several months is a new departure in the union's tactics. Previous strikes were usually the spontaneous rebellion against impossible conditions in one of the trades, with consequent spread of the strike feeling to other trades in the garment industry.

The white goods, or silk and muslin underwear workers, are and always have been the least skilled and lowest paid workers in the industry. Many native American and Negro girls have come into this branch since immigration has been limited. Altho they are the hardest to approach with union ideas, the girl organizers in charge of the campaign for the international have had considerable success in interesting these workers.

Demand Wage Increase

Wage increases of 20 per cent, union shop, sanitary conditions and the adoption of the sanitary label are the union demands in the strike.

Prison labor competition has undermined the house dress trade considerably, to the harm of both worker and employer. The silk underwear workers, however, have fared better.

Wages in these trades range from $16 to $40, but many girls make as little as $14 and even $12. The higher wages are made by cutters and the most highly skilled operators on the machines. The trades are highly seasonal so that average wages are lower than weekly wages indicate.

TEXTILE LORDS NOW CUT PAY IN WOOL MILLS

Workers Held Down by Reactionary Leaders

By ROBERT MINOR.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 19.—That the big wage-slashing drive which was supposed to affect only the cotton mills has already cut deep in the woolen mills, had to be admitted today after the 800 weavers of the Atlantic Mills met Monday night in Providence to solve the riddle of the queer pay envelopes.

Everyone has been saying during the past three months: "They won't dare to cut wages in the woolen mills." Only last week I asked a veteran weaver of high skill, a long head, and a longer strike record, whether there would be any strike. He had replied: "Not as long as they confine the cuts to the cotton mills. But if they cut in the woolen mills, then there'll be

SACCO-VANZETTI PROTEST MEET IN CHICAGO AT EMMET MEMORIAL HALL ON SUNDAY, MARCH FIRST

Every militant worker in Chicago will attend the Sacco-Vanzetti protest mass meeting on Sunday, March 1 at 2:30 p. m. at the Emmet Memorial Hall, Ogden and Taylor Aves.

This meeting, which will be held under the auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party in conjunction with the Labor Defense Council will be participated in by all the progressive organizations in the city including unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the Industrial Workers of the World.

Thus Chicago will witness the staging of a tremendous demonstration by workers as never before to demand the release from jail of Sacco and Vanzetti and to protest against all efforts to jail workers because of their activities in economic and political organizations.

Every worker in Chicago should constitute himself a committee of one to announce this meeting everywhere, to bring as many workers as he possibly can and to be on the job in every way to put this meeting over big.

Among those to address the meeting will be Jack W. Johnstone, secretary of the Trade Union Educational League, Antonio Presi, Italian labor editor and P. J. Welinder, secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World.

MANUFACTURERS FIGHT 8-HOUR DAY FOR WOMEN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 19.—The Illinois manufacturers' association, which controls a good size block of legislators, has issued instructions to all its members to fight against the bill introduced in both the house and senate of the Illinois legislature aiming to establish an eight-hour day for women.

The letter, signed by John M. Glenn, secretary of the manufacturers, urges the members to send in reports, "advising why the measure should not pass."

"To the members," says Glenn's letter, "attention is directed to house bill No. 90, introduced in the Illinois general assembly this week, affecting the work of women in plants and certain other places of employment, ostensibly as an eight-hour measure. It has been carefully drawn with a view of eliminating seasonable employment and all employment which renders service to the general public.

"There are no conditions in Illinois, having to do with health, sanitary surroundings or social conditions, warranting legislation on this subject. Please read the enclosed bill carefully, and advise this office promptly your reasons why the measure should not pass and how such a law would affect your business."

The bill exempts cannery workers and telephone workers from the eight-hour day for women, giving such workers a ten-hour day.

MAY INVITE THE SOVIET UNION TO RADIO MEETING

Say Question Annoys Cal Coolidge

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19.—Whether or not the Soviet Union shall be included in the invitation list for the world radio conference which is to be called together in Washington next autumn in the latest phase of the Russian recognition game to annoy President Coolidge.

It was in 1912 that the delegates of all the chief countries of the world met in London and adopted the London convention on international regulation of telegraphic communication. The American government invited the peoples of the world to hold their next conference on this subject in Washington, and the invitation was unanimously accepted. The date was then set at 1917.

But the war upset that plan. The telegraph conference which was to have been held in Paris in 1915, and the radio conference in Washington in 1917, were postponed. Now the telegraph conference is about to be held in Paris, and the state department has prepared a list of 50 states that are to be invited to the radio discussion in Washington next fall. They won't say whether Soviet Russia is included.

President Coolidge, faced with the question, decides that the issue of inviting Russia may be one which will require consultation with Britain, France, Japan and Italy. That is to say, the big four powers that divided the world after the war will be consulted as to whether Russia will do more harm outside or inside this conference. All of them now deal with Moscow.

Must Have Russia

If Russia is to be excluded because Coolidge does not recognize the Soviet Union, then the chance of reaching an agreement in the conference that will be of permanent value to the world may be questioned. The last Washington conference "settled" the fate of China and Japan and the Russian Far East—and immediately China developed a series of civil wars, followed by treaties with the Soviet Union on the part of both China and Japan,

WORKERS PARTY URGES AID TO IRISH FAMINE

Excoriates Free State Government

The Workers (Communist) Party of America on receipt of a message from Ireland that a large part of the peasant and working class population was suffering from the tortures of famine immediately took steps to raise funds for the alleviation of the distress in that country. In conjunction with the International Workers' Aid, an Irish Workers and Peasants' Famine Relief Committee was organized which is now functioning.

The following statement was issued by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party, on the Irish famine:

The Famine Victims

750,000 Irish workers and peasants are now the victims of one of the worst famines that ever visited a nation whose wounds inflicted by foreign tyranny and civil war are not yet healed. In a stretch of country that reaches from Donegal in the north to Cork in the south on the west coast, and reaching inland for about forty miles, the poor farmers, workers and fishermen are in a state of destitution.

The failure of the potato crop over a large area, the flooding of the bogs thru incessant rain thus ruining the fuel supply and the destruction of the fishing industry on the west coast by British steam trawlers, are given as the reasons for the terrible situation that now exists in a large section of Ireland.

A famine is no new phenomenon in Ireland. Oppressed by the British government for centuries, robbed of their inheritance by landlords and exploited by the capitalist class, the Irish workers and peasants like the workers of all countries have always been within speaking distance of want.

Tens of thousands of peasants and their families were driven from the fertile midlands to the bleak and desolate west cost, and their former homesteads were razed to the ground to make room for the cattle of the absentee landlords. Bullocks now roam the land where thousands of sturdy peasants made their homes. The barren rocks are good enough for the peasants, the cattle are more highly prized under capitalism than workers.

To Pay Landlord

During the famine period of 1845, 1846 and 1847, enough food was raised in Ireland to feed three times the population. But it had to be exported in order to pay the landlord's rent. Today there is plenty of food in Ireland, but the capitalists own it. In 1847 Ireland was governed from Dublin Castle by English officials. Today, Ireland is governed from London by Irish officials obeying their capitalist masters, and watching the agonies of their own flesh and blood in the famine region with a cynicism unequalled in the history of British misgovernment in Ireland.

While the workers of Great Britain, the United States, Soviet Russia and of every country are preparing to render assistance to their Irish comrades, the government of hangmen, the Free State junta is preparing a bill that will make any Irish worker who strives to free his native land the yoke of British imperialism liable to death on the gallows. These executioners dangle the noose before the MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Feb. 19.—It is a long way from Marshalltown, with its sixteen thousand population, to New York and Madison Square Garden. Such are the extremes of this country that even a few miles gives us sharp contrasts in economics and phychology.

Back on Main street in Marshalltown the Workers Party rented a hall at the Labor Temple for a meeting. Along comes the International News Service, (A. F. of L.) with a story that the bolsheviks are about to kidnap the labor unions and drop them into Dante's Inferno or some other hot place.

This dire threat was brought before the Trades and Labor Assembly the night before that scheduled for the bolsheviks to arrive. Then a political appointee, one of the delegates, had read an article in the DAILY WORKER which stated that four men

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENS SCAB LAUNDRY BOSSES

Union Head Loses Eye After Attack by Boss

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 19.—The two striking laundries, the Clovelen and the Erasmus are shut down tight, despite the treachery of the Jewish Daily Forward. The Forward has made it known that it will stop reporting the progress of the strike on account of the fine publicity and aid given the laundry workers by the Workers Party, the DAILY WORKER, and the Jewish Freiheit, which has been gratefully accepted by the strikers. The Forward made objection to fact that the union was receiving the help of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Bail of Slugger Raised

The bail of William Dorfman, who was arrested after leading sluggers in an attack on William Berman head of the Laundry Drivers' Union, has been raised from $5,000 to $10,000. The doctors announced at the hospital where Berman is in a serious condition, that there is no hope of saving Berman's eye. The preliminary hearing of Dorfman's case is to come up Friday. Dorfman is a laundry boss.

The Forward's treachery ,and Berman's injury have not dampened the enthusiasm of the strikers. On March 2 the contracts in all the laundries in the city expire, and unless these contracts are renewed and the union is recognized, a general strike of all Brooklyn laundry workers threatens.

The laundry workers are holding a mass meeting on February 27 at the Brownsville Labor Lyceum, 229 Sackman St.,

The bosses have made no attempt to use scabs, fearing a general strike.

Mrs. Doane told of a klan fiery cross burning beside her home—only one of the many threats she has received, she said. Justice Dike, after hearing her story, transferred her case to the grand jury in Nassaul county.

Turks Conclude Ten Million Dollar Deal with American Firm

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 19.—The government has ordered the military commander at Diarbkr to take energetic measures to repress the Kurd element, even to use airplane bomb attacks, should he think them necessary, a press dispatch states.

The Turkish government has entered into a ten million dollar contract with the Ulon contracting company of New York for the irrigation of the Maritza valley, it was announced today. The Maritza is the principal river of eastern Turkey.

LOEB, BUSINESS MANAGER DAILY WORKER, MAKES TORRID REPLY TO SCABBY PRINTERS' AGENCY

Open Shop Employing Printers' Association,
1202 Monadnock Blk.,
Chicago, Ill.

In reply to your invitation that we should purchase a ticket to attend the "graduating exercises" of your scab apprentice school on Feb. 24 I wish to state that the Daily Worker Publishing Co. does not intend to give any support whatever to your association, its scab school, or any of the scab herding activities that you are organizing.

Since its organization this company has been employing trade union men in every department, and we have no intention of deviating from this course.

In spite of all the high-flown phrases used in your publicity, your activity is on a par with any other scab-herding, strikebreaking agency in this country. Your conception of efficiency in the printing industry is one that would rob the workers of any form of organization with which to protect themselves from the gouging of the boss printers.

Your chief backer, T. E. Donnelly, is notorious for his anti-union activities in this city, not only in the printing industry, but also in the building industry, as chairman of the Landis award committee, which leads the attack on the unions in the building industry.

The money which is to be presented to your scab apprentices at your "graduation exercises" is a fine "come on" scheme by means of which you hope to lure other young workers into being used as tools to break the wages and conditions of the workers employed in the printing industry. No doubt it is a good investment from your point of view, if it will aid you in organizing a corps of scabs against the union printers.

Our organ, The DAILY WORKER, continually advocates the amalgamation of all the unions in the printing industry into one departmentalized industrial union. This step would put an effective stop to your scab-herding activities, which you are able to indulge in today because of the lack of united action among the many craft unions in the printing industry.

We hope you will publish this letter in your scab Open Shop News, as you do any statement made by printing concerns against the printing trades unions. It is also our hope that in the near future the printers' union will put an end to your scab-herding association in company with other sinister institutions and the wage system itself. The motto of the DAILY WORKER, official organ of the Workers (Communist) Party is "a united front of all workingclass organizations against the capitalists and their instrument—capitalist government!" You are part of the system we fight and this precludes any possibility of being interested in your activities except to expose them to workers whom you may have duped into betraying themselves and their class.

CAL MAKES PLEA AGAINST TAX ON LARGE FORTUNES

Silent One Yells About Confiscation Threat

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19.—President Coolidge denounced federal and state inheritance and estate taxes, defended the holders of large fortunes, and made a plea that the rich should not be so taxed, in a speech here before tax "experts."

"A prime danger in the tax on estates is the removal of the inspiration to work in order to build up a business or create a property. Personally I do not feel that large fortunes properly managed are necessarily a menace to our institutions and therefore ought to be destroyed. On the other hand, they have been and can be of great value to our development," Coolidge said.

Commenting on the federal government's "imposition" in the revenue act of 1924 of an estate tax the highest bracket of which was raised from 25 to 40 per cent, Coolidge charged congress with having sough "social legislation in the guise of taxation," declaring the rich should not have been taxed so heavily.

"The overlapping of federal and state inheritance taxes," Coolidge said, "has resulted in a situation that amounts to virtual confiscation. The government should withdraw from this field of taxation."

School Children Badly Injured As Concrete Wall Falls

OLIVET, Mich., Feb. 19. — Four Winton township unit school girls were suffering serious injuries today and several other school children escaped injury when a concrete wall weighing two tons fell on them as they were preparing to leave the building at the close of school yesterday afternoon.

The injured girls are Grace Walker, Marian Southworth, Agnes Halsey and Ruth Sloan. The most seriously injured are Miss Southworth and Miss Halsey.

The wall was constructed a short while ago to separate the boys' and girls' cloakrooms.

AUSTRIA is broke. In fact Austria is so down and out that even the salvation army will not take her in. Austria was one of the proud boasts of the socialists. The socialists proved they were real democrats by allowing the capitalists to hold on to the country tho the socialists had the power to take it over if they had the will. Now the capitalists have stripped Austrial naked and hundreds of thousands of Austrian workers are walking the streets with a job. Austrian papers tell of aged bank clerks, with bald heads, in the role of walking advertisements. On the bald portions of the head you may read such inscriptions as "Buy two in one shoe polish," or "Bring your gums to Dr. Snippers; he'll put teeth in them." Our American white collar slaves who now glory in an occasional smile from their masters should think of the present plight of their brothers in once proud Vienna.

The DAILY WORKER suggested that Frank did not throw his support to Len without a consideration. ANOTHER labor faker and also a member of the United Mine Workers, Martin J. Flyzik, president of District 10, in the state of Washington has accepted a job as supervisor of safety with the department of labor and industries of that state. He was appointed by the recently elected governor. Flyzik was a "progressive" one of the tribe expected to organize the "third party" which is now very much up in the air. The labor faker looks upon a union office as a stepping stone to a job in the capitalist government.

Armour Is Eliminated As Packer by Bankers

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A syndicate headed by Blair and company has offered at $23 a share, 750,000 shares of class A participating common stock of the Armour & company of Illinois.

Purchasers of this stock will have the privilege of subscribing for the class B stock of the company at $14 a share.

This is the first offering of any common stock of the Armour and company. Both classes of stock will be listed on the Chicago stock exchange and the New York curb market.

The offering represents part of the company's stock already issued and outstanding, and is not new financing.

The Armour company made a profit of $18,300,000 in 1924.

CARMEN DISCUSS LOYALTY OATH TO CAPITALISTS

Trade Union Unity Is Urged by Speakers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 18.—Lodge No. 299 of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen held its regular meeting Monday, Feb. 16, with more members present than at any meeting in months. The refusal of Carl Skoglund to take the new obligation of the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly (or rather the Central Labor Union) providing for a declaration of loyalty to the present capitalist, strikebreaking government and containing a repudiation of membership in any revolutionary organization was discussed at length.

A decision was made to take this matter up again in the next regular meeting at 9 P. M. The expressed sentiment of the membership was, as, one member stated, "We must put on our fighting clothes and see to it that the local unions will have the right to choose their own delegates and that these delegates be seated in accordance with the laws of the American Federation of Labor."

Working Class Unity

Skoglung pointed out in his report that the only "crime" the Communists had committed was the exposing of the betrayals of the interests of the working class by the reactionaries and the advocation of workers' and farmers' control of the industries and the machinery of government. He also pointed out that it was necessary to unite the trade unions for the purpose of raising the standard of living for the whole working class instead of a few highly skilled workers as has been the policy of the A. F. of L. up until now.

V. F. Anderson the president of the local made a short statement in which he said that since the birth of the amalgamation movement in 1922, a great stride forward had been made for the uniting of the different railroad organizations, that this movement had aroused the bitter opposition of the reactionary officialdom and that the basis of the present attack was the desire of the reactionary officialdom to destroy the left wing.

Carmen's Union Balked

He called attention to refusal of the carmen's international officials to comply with the union constitution in their refusal to submit the amalgamation question to a referendum of the members, and for that reason urged all the members to vote and work for the holding of an international convention in September, where the grievances of our organization can be redressed.

Alderman Theodore Jensen, a member of Lodge No. 299, was present and gave a short talk on the conditions existing in the local labor movement. Refreshments were served and every member present enjoyed himself and pledged support to the organization in spite of all obstacles.

Pledges Aid

The Workers (Communist) Party of America, section of the Communist International, sends its sympathies to the stricken workers and peasants of Ireland. It greets a people that never hauled down the flag in surrender to British tyranny, but battled thru centuries for freedom. It does not forget that the Irish workers and peasants under the leadership of the great revolutionist James Connolly raised the flag of revolt in the darkest days of the world war, when the working class of the world were killing each other in behalf of their capitalist masters. The Workers (Communist) Party of America pledges its aid to the workers and peasants of Ireland in their distress.

Its thousands of members from all countries and of every race and color will answer the call for assistance. The Workers Party sends greetings to the vanguard of the Irish working class who under the leadership of the Communist International and the Red International of Labor Unions are waging the battle to free Ireland from the clutches of British imperialism and its creature the Free State and to raise the banner of a victorious Irish workers' republic.

Battle Lines Are Clear; It Is the Communists Against the Capitalists

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, there is a whole host of legislatures meeting in various states, all legislating for the capitalist class. They are a part of the capitalist state; the dictatorship of America's capitalist ruling class.

The make-up of the Illinois state legislature, similar to the personnel of all other state legislatures, shows how well equipped this lawmaking body really is to serve its capitalist master.

Nearly one-seventh of the legislature, 61 out of 204 members, consists of lawyers, the most cringing humans in the service of the almighty dollar. It is they who must uphold the myth of the sanctity of oppressive capitalist justice. Its "law 'n order," even in the shape of the lynchers' rope, is sacred to them.

• • • •

Attorneys in the lower branch of the state legislature number 42; in the senate there are 19. Both are therefore well equipped to discover even the slightest taint of working class legislation that might appear.

These lawyers are the bellwethers that lead the rest of the legislators in the way they should follow.

These followers do not need much urging to keep in line. They do it as a matter of habit. There are professional politicians, many of whom have "studied law." In the house there are 15 members who hold other public offices, cogs in either the democratic or republican old party machines; 13 farmers, ten each of real estate and insurance men, nine merchants, and seven who combine real estate with insurance; with a sprinkling of automobile dealers and publishers, grain dealers, housewives, teachers, teamsters, printers, two bankers, two who combine banking and farming. There are one each of other so-called occupations: cigar dealer, motor repairman, contractor, restauranteur, manufacturer, painter and decorator, junk dealer, lather, barber, hotel keeper, realtor and banker, coal dealer, insurance man and farmer, miner, merchant and farmer, preacher, hay dealer, confectioner, oil dealer, editor, doctor, with only one who confesses that he has "retired from business."

• • • •

This make-up of the state legislature shows how implicitly big business entrusts its lawmaking to the small bourgeoisie. There is not a real worker or poor farmer in the whole outfit. The farmers listed are "rich farmers," most of them turned landlord and gone to town to live, taking up politics for diversion. The housewives are not the mothers in working class families; but nearly always the wives of big profiteers seeking this sideline in their parasitic lives. Notice the sprinkling of small bosses. It it safe to assume that this category includes the "painter and decorator, lather and barber." There is always a "miner" in the state legislature; nearly always some reactionary official who has betrayed the Miners' Union to the mine barons before the rank and file could throw him out. William Green, now president of the American Federation of Labor, as a "miner," got some early notoriety as a democratic member of the Ohio state senate.

These are all chosen from their geographical districts, supported by precinct organizations, the power of the old party machines.

There are no spokesmen in Springfield for the 100,000 coal miners in the state, for the steel workers, for the railroad workers; no representatives of labor in any industry. Industrial representation would be Sovietism, say the capitalist spokesmen. It would be "unconstitutional." It would strike at the roots of all American traditions. And a lot of other claptrap stuff that should sound like cheap tommyrot in the ears of the whole working class.

• • • •

Labor, under capitalism, may send its own representatives—Communists—to Chicago's city hall, to the state capitol at Springfield, to congress in Washington. This will be done; even as a Communist sits today in the North Dakota state legislature. The duty of these elected Communists, in these comfortable roosts of the political agents of the great exploiters, will be to raise the standards of the revolution for the overthrow of the whole capitalist system.

• • • •

It is well that the workers in Chicago, Minneapolis and other cities, where election campaigns are now being held, understand these facts.

If they want the Soviet Rule of labor in the mines, the mills and the factories, supported by the poor farmers on the land, then they will vote for the program and the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party.

If they choose to suffer longer under capitalist exploitation then they will vote for the shyster lawyers, the real estate sharks and other bourgeois riff raff who sell themselves, for small favors, into political bondage to great capitalists. This last category includes also the "socialists," shown by the classic exposure of the crooked relations between the German "socialists" Bauer, erstwhile premier, Richter, Berlin chief of police, and others, with the Barmat Brothers, big financiers.

The issue narrows:
Communism or capitalism?
On which side are you?

Muscle Shoals Steal Is Up for Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The administration was faced today with its last great obstacle to adjournment of congress March 4, when the senate resumed final consideration of Muscle Shoals legislation.

Republican leaders were confident of approval for the Underwood bill, as it came from conference, without unnecessary delay. They were informed by opponents of the bill, however, that debate would last "at least two days."

The administration's worries lay in the possibility of a filibuster by the bill's opponents. The Underwood bill as it came from conference, provides for the leasing of Muscle Shoals to private corporations for almost nothing, compared to its $150,000,000 value.

COMRADE LOSES JOB FOR TRADE UNION ACTIVITY

K. K. K. Unionists Side with Bosses

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 19.—Comrade George Papcun, a member of the Cleveland Workers Party and Young Workers League locals, was fired from his job on account of union activity. Comrade Papcun was very active in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, Thrift Lodge No. 92. Comrade Papcun was fired by the boss because he belonged to the Workers Party and Y. W. L. He was given 16 hours to decide whether he would rather quit the W. P. and Y. W. L., or lose his job.

Thru his activities as chairman of the mill committee the membership in the mill increased from 35 to 135. The company soon tried to find a way to get rid of the terrible "red," because thru his work Papcun usually received favorable decisions in the mill committee. Consequently they fired him. The reactionary officials, members of the ku klux klan, are fighting on the side of the company and have postponed action at two meetings. This is a case that is causing a great deal of discussion in the mill.

This is not the only case. Take, for instance, Brother Nolan, who has been fired because of breaking a roll thru no fault of his own, but thru the faultiness of the roll itself. Also because Brother Nolan was active in the lodge and helped support Papcun, is a reason why the reactionary officials now will not back Nolan up. Comrade Papcun is putting up a strong fight. The strong left wing tendency in the union will back him up in his fight to expose the local and national officials.

Comrade Papcun was exempted from dues payments for a time because of being unemployed, but now the ku kluxers in control of the local demand that he pay up all his back dues. The activity of the reactionaries against Papcun is in strong contrast to their inactivity in keeping up the union, as the membership of the local is declining.

the release of Sacco and Vanzetti. The results of the first conference of delegates from 12 large local unions in this city with representatives of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League and a number of influential fraternal organizations assures the tremendous success of this demonstration.

Every delegate has promised to visit at least one other union that is not yet represented in the conference. In this way it is expencted to secure the support of scores of additional labor organizations.

An executive committee of seven members has been elected at the first meeting of the conference. Max J. Silinsky business agent of the Journeymen Tailors' Union in this city was elected chairman of the conference. A V. Severino member of the Bricklayers, one of the delegates of the Workers Party was elected secretary treasurer. Other members of the executive committee are William Polk president of the Street Railwaymen's Union, John Steele secretary of Local No. 867, of the Painters' Union, Herbert Benjamin, Carl Hacker and George Papcun.

Steel Workers to Protest

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Feb. 19.—Two monster mass meetings in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti will be held in Mahoning Valley on Sunday, March 1st.

In the afternoon a meeting will be held at the Hippodrome hall, Warren, Ohio, and in the evening a meeting will be held at the Ukrainian hall, 526 West Rayen Ave., Youngstown, Ohio.

Speakers in the various languages will address both meetings and a special program is being arranged by the committee in charge of the meetings.

The dastardly frameup of two innocent workers by the barons of New England will be vigorously protested against by the steel workers in Mahoning valley.

Readers of the DAILY WORKER are urgently requested to make special note of the meetings and attend the one in their locality.

TEXTILE LORDS NOW CUT PAY IN WOOL MILLS

Workers Held Down by Reactionary Leaders

a strike quick as lighteneing; and the cotton mills will follow the woolen mills out."

Apparently the textile barons have understood this idea and have based their strategy upon it. For, while cutting the cotton mills one by one, cautiously isolating and defeating one group of cotton textile workers at a time, the wage-cutting noise has been carefully kept out of the woolen mills. Open, frank announcements of "ten per cent" wage cuts (often amounting to 15 and 22 per cent in fact, but called 10 per cent) have been posted on the walls of cotton mills. But nothing of the sort in the woolen mills.

Violation of Promise.

All of the frictions that have been found in the woolen mills in the present period—the past few weeks—have come out of something else than announcements of wage cuts. For instance, the Middleboro strike arose out of the attempt to slip in two kinds of filling on a two-loom job in violation of a promise made more than a year ago, when a big wage cut was accepted on the promise.

Now comes the trouble in the big Atlantic Mills, known popularly in the Olneyville section of Providence as "the Delaine mill."

"There has been no cut in the Atlantic Mills"—as far as you could prove it.

It's Like Cross-Word Puzzle.

The only trouble is that weavers who were making $35 a week are now only getting about $20 a week for 50 per cent more of labor.

And the superintendents can prove that there has been no cut.

That is the riddle that is agitating the working class community of Olneyville: How is it that weavers' wages are 43 per cent lower, altho there has not been any cut, and there couldn't have been a cut because if there had been a cut there would have been a strike?

No strike—no cut. No cut—no strike. But 43 per cent less wages.

This queer business began six months ago, when the superintendent came around to show the weavers "how they could make more money." It was at that time that the campaign was begun which has since been described by an organ of the mill owners with the words: "Who ought to be the labor leaders in the textile industry? The mill agents, superintendents and overseers." At that time, all of a sudden, all over New England and the South as well, the mill bosses began taking a deep personal interest in the welfare of every mill worker, both cotton and wool, "to see that they got more money." In the Atlantic mill in Providence the superintendent began being the "labor leader" by showing the weavers that in shop No. 5 on fine worsted dress goods, they could run three looms "with no more exertion than two," and thereby make more money.

How Trick Worked.

Then, when the weavers got broken in to three looms, the superintendent gave them what is called a different style of goods to make. It looked the same as the former goods, and took a similar material, same kind of filling, but it had a different name—and the piece-work pay was different. While the former goods paid the weaver $12 per "cut" (that is, per roll of cloth,) the new goods paid the weaver $8 per cut.

After about six months of this the weavers suddenly woke up to the fact that in simple arithmetic $8 is two-thirds of $12, and two looms is two-thirds of three looms, and that they were weaving the same kind of goods with a changed name. Therefore, they had had their amount of production increased 50 per cent, in theory—50 per cent more work for (theoretically) the same pay. And the work had become vastly more complicated. "Seventeen-harness" work had been put in on three-loom jobs. The former 100-yard cuts had increased to 110-yard cuts.

Make Less Money.

Then the weavers began comparing pay envelopes and disclosed that where they had been making $35 a week, they were now lucky to get $20 out of a week's work. They are making less money running three looms than they formerly made running two.

But the "pay has not bee cut." For if the pay had been cut in the woolen mills there would have been a strike.

Then look at the loom-fixers. Loom fixers are highly skilled experts, practically always they are workers who first learend weaving from A to Z, and, having gained thoro mastery of the loom, graduated into fixers. Loom fixers' pay is about $40 to $42 a week.

More Looms Per Man.

They used to aspire to $1 an hour with the 48 hour week; but long ago they got bluffed out of trying for it. More than that. The theoretical standard is that there shall be one loom-fixer to every twenty looms in a shop. But long ago the bosses crept up on the fixers, so that now it runs about 27 looms to every loom fixer, and the fixers are crowded to a break-neck speed.

"But wages have not been cut in the woolen mills, for if wages were cut there'd be a strike."

The weavers and loom fixers in the Atlantic Mills belong to the United Textile Workers. Under its auspices the weavers and the loom fixers are holding meetings in order to solve the riddle of the 43 per cent less pay without a wage cut and the back-breaking speed-up system.

Looked Bewildered.

I asked a weaver whether there would be a strike.

"Under McMahon?" he answered, "no, no; there'll be no strike under McMahon." He looked sad and bewildered when he said it.

William T. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, is one of the old Gompers school of trade union officials. His idea of labor unionism is to "get an adjustment" in each isolated instance of discontent, by any compromise that may be necessary to avoid a fight. He expresses his policy as "fighting only at the weakest point." What this means was well exemplified about three weeks ago up at Woonsocket in the Manville-Jenckes Mill when 150 weavers struck for four days for "fewer looms and more pay." One of McMahon's representatives was sent to "get an adjustment." The McMahon policy as then applied was—not to call out the three thousand other workers to support the weavers, but to order the 150 weavers back to work "so as to keep the 3,000 from losing time," and when a young weaver demanded of McMahon's agent, "Won't you call on the loom fixers not to fix looms for scabs?" McMahon's agent yelled at him, "No! You are an I. W. W.!"

United Front Committee.

Under this policy it is evident that the cutting of the wages and the speeding up of production per worker, which is evidently now well launched in the woolen mills, will be put thru with the same maneuvering tactics that were used to cut the cotton mills, without any strike or any sort of unified resistance, if the mill superintendents who aspire to "be the labor leaders" assisted by the McMahon type of labor officials, can prevent unified opposition on the part of the workers.

But the feeling of the textile workers here is running high with the realization that not only the cotton mills but also the woolen mills are slated by the textile combine for the general reduction of living standards to little more than half of what they were.

Several weavers in the Atlantic mills, members of the United Textile Workers, have connected themselves with the united front committee here with the intention to try to bring the union into the united front in spite of McMahon.

DOCTOR TELLS HOW FLOYD COLLINS DIED IN KENTUCKY CAVE

"Floyd Collins died of exhaustion, thirst, starvation and cold."

This was the opinion Dr. William H. Hazlett, the only medical man to view the body of the Sand Cave explorer after it had been found gave today on his return to Chicago.

"Collins was doomed after the original cave-in of the natural passageway," Dr. Hazlett said. "Even if it had been possible for me or another surgeon to have reached him, it would not have been possible to save him, in my opinion.

"Collins was held in such a way that even when I did get down into the passage, I could reach only his face and chest, it would have been impossible to have freed him by amputation."

Dr. Hazlett's trip to the cave was financed by Mrs. Emmons Blaine for whom Collins once had acted as a guide.

Union Card Owner Is Capitalist Politician And Helps Open Shop

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Another perfectly good union card owner has gone wrong and a mass meeting of union labor held here denounced W. M. Turbett, chief clerk of the house and urged Gov. Baker not to reappoint him. Turbett once was a Missouri Pacific machinist and held office in his union. But when there was a large house printing contract to be let this week, he sent to the Con P. Currant company of St. Louis, a notoriously anti-union concern and leader of an unsuccessful drive to destroy the St. Louis printing trades' union during the 44-hour fight.

Dawes Will Loaf Thru Summer After Giving Up Bank Job

Vice-president Elect Charles G. Dawes will leave on Feb. 28 for Washington to attend the inauguration ceremonies, but before that date, it was understood here today, he will be forced to resign as chairman of the board of the Central Trust company.

Dawes expects to remain in Washington only long enough to familiarise himself with the duties of his office and then return to Evanston for the summer. He does not expect to take up residence in Washington until next Fall.

THE DAILY WORKER has the printing machinery.

It has six up-to-date linotype machines operating fifteen hours a day.

Its newspaper press prints not only THE DAILY WORKER and Il Lavoratore, the Italian paper, but also THE YOUNG WORKER, and The Greek and Swedish weeklies.

Its cylinder press prints the WORKERS MONTHLY and all the party pamphlets and books.

But printing presses alone do not make Communists, nor do they build Communist parties. Nor do Communist newspapers and magazines and books. Not they alone.

In addition to the printing plant, there must be HUMAN machinery to make possible the growth of the Communist movement and the continuance of its publications.

Today we are calling for MEN to take their turn at the hammer. This hammer was made for USE. Like the printing press, it must be operated 15 hours a day for the next 15 days to DRIVE HOME THE DOLLARS.

In some respects, printing presses are like human beings. They must be fed (and paper costs more than ham and eggs) and they must drink (ink's expensive). They live in a house, and it needs coal and light. They need the attention of a printer's devil and an editor, and of a small army of stenographers, filing clerks, linotype operators, pressmen, mailers, book-keepers, and binders.

Presses, besides, have children: hundreds of thousands a day that must be bundled quickly out into the world into the homes of workers. The circulation and transportation system of the DAILY WORKER is one of the costliest features of the entire enterprise.

And the task-master of all is the DOLLAR. It is the dollar that drives and the dollar that MUST BE DRIVEN.

Where are the MEN and where are the WORKERS PARTY branches to hit the spike on the head and drive home the dollars?

Wherever the DAILY WORKER goes, the necessary men should be found.

Workers, post yourselves at the handle of the hammer and don't drop your tool until you have FINISHED THE JOB of insuring the DAILY WORKER for 1925!

GENERAL STRIKE IS PLANNED BY SWEDISH LABOR

Capital and Labor Not Pals Despite Fakers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 19.—News from Sweden to workers here shows that a general strike of all workers in Sweden is contemplated. The reason for the strike is the threat of the Swedish Employers' Association to lock out 130,000 workers if they do not accept wage reductions and poor working conditions. The Swedish employers' association is repeating the method that was used in 1909 which culminated in a general strike at that time when the organized labor movement was practically destroyed.

The Swedish Faker.

Herman Linquist, the Swedish Gompers, as one of the delegates to the disarmament conference held in Washington, D. C., year 1921, spoke in different parts of this country from the same platform as Mr. Bigelow, then president of the employers' association of Sweden.

In Minneapolis Linquist stated that the labor question had been solved and that capital and labor were friends and that no fight would take place in the future. He bragged about the fact that he was the president of the Swedish riksdag when the eight-hour law was made and passed. Since that time this law has been violated by the employers at every turn and Mr. Linquist has been sitting idly by without putting up a struggle against the employers' attack upon labor. As a consequence, the workers of Sweden will very likely be called upon to engage in a general strike at a time when conditions for such a strike are against the workers.

Produce Company Wrecked by Bomb

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 19.—Incendiary dynamite explosions blasted terror into the center of the wholesale produce district and demolished three buildings here today with a loss of $130,000, according to fire department officials. Firemen are digging into tons of debris following reports that five men might have been trapped, but owners of the buildings are certain no one was caught in the explosions.

Police believe the bombings may have been the work of a blackhand gang or by business rivals of the Landolina Bros., produce company whose buildings were destroyed.

CLEVELAND, Minn., Feb. 19.—At the annual meeting of the farmers' co-operative store here, it was decided to expand the business to twice its present capacity. Stock to the amount of $4,500 will be sold.

C. E. C. Report to Russian Section Convention

THE special convention of the Russian section of the Workers (Communist) Party of America held last week in New York as authorised by the Central Executive Committee to settle important problems directly connected with the life of Novy Mir, daily organ of the Russian section, adopted the report of the C. E. C. made by Comrade Bittelman by a vote of 11 to 2.

Great improvements have been made in both the Communist literary character and financial condition of Novy Mir and the report of Comrade Bittelman details the methods outlined by the C. E. C. to accomplish this result.

COMRADES: This is a special convention. The Central Executive Committee authorized the calling of this convention mainly for one reason. We felt that only by means of a special convention of your section can we have our Russian daily and thereby enable the Russian Section to develop and grow.

We were convinced so strongly of the necessity of such a convention that we felt justified in overruling your bureau on this point. Your bureau—this must be stated—was opposed to the calling of this convention because the comrades did not believe that the convention would help in this situation. The Central Executive Committee thought otherwise and altho the convention must yet prove whether it will really and definitely save and establish Novy Mir, we have no doubt that this will be the case. We are convinced that the responsible leadership of our Russian Section gathered now in convention will be able to solve the difficulties of the situation and insure our party a daily Communist organ in the Russian language; that is, a fighting militant Novy Mir and a living, functioning organization of the Russian Communists in the Workers Party of America.

Where Are We At?

IN approaching the problem of our party and of its Russian Section it might be well to throw just a glance at the present situation.

You will notice that one of the characteristic features of the present moment is the almost complete absence of any organized political opposition in congress against the Coolidge administration. Neither the democratic party, which is supposed to be the sworn official opposition, nor the so-called progressive bloc led by Senator LaFollette which is supposed to be the genuine "honest" opposition—neither of them are in any way opposing the rule of big capital as exemplified in the administration of Coolidge. Surely the miserable little struggles in congress over pork-barrels and similar matters of "state" cannot be considered real political opposition against the rule of big capital. It would seem as if the electoral victory of the republican party completely crushed the opponents or would-be opponents of the capitalist parties. Even the farmer-laborites who are supposed to be on the extreme left of our bourgeois parties, even they have shut their mouths as far as political struggle is concerned.

THE only organized political opposition to the rule of big (and small) capital in the United States comes from the Workers (Communist) Party. It will do us no good to underestimate, or, for that matter, to overestimate the significance of this fact. It is becoming clearly apparent that the only real opposition that will ever be developed in the United States against the rule even of big capital, in distinction from opposition to capitalism as a whole, will come only from the movement that the Workers Party will be able to create.

Of course, as the class antagonisms in the United States become sharper and the position of capitalism less secure, we will find ranked against big capital also the petty bourgeoisie. But this will only happen inasmuch as the Communist movement of America will begin developing real strength to exert pressure upon the non-proletarian classes and to drive them into struggle against big capital. In other words the Workers (Communist) Party of America, small as it is, is the only force capable of developing the movement against capitalism in the United States.

THE victory of the republican party in the last election resulted, as we have foreseen and foretold, in increased capitalist exploitation all along the line. Wage cuts are on the order of the day. Persecution of militants in the labor movement has just begun. The proposed child labor amendment to the constitution of the United States, a miserable and insignificant measure in itself, has been brazenly defeated. The republican administration is openly assuming responsibilities for the Dawes plan (something that they didn't dare to do till now) and is proceeding in a confident manner to impose the will of American finance capital on every colonial and semi-colonial country in the world.

THE mood of the working class in the United States shows a distinct spirit of depression. The workers do not readily enter into struggle. They are trying to avoid conflicts with the capitalists even at the expense of great sacrifices. Needless to say that the reactionary trade union bureaucracy is cultivating this spirit of passivity with all means at their disposal. We must not overlook, however, the fact that it isn't so quiet and peaceful in the labor movement as it may seem on the surface. The recent so-called outlaw strikes in the anthracite regon, the strike movement in a number of textile centers in New England, the tremendous victory of the left wing candidates in the United Mine Workers of America in which John L. Lewis received 136,209½ votes and the progressive candidate, George Voyzey received 62,843 votes, or about 53 per cent of the number of votes cast for Lewis. The continued growth of the left wing in the arch-reactionary Carpenters' Union as evidenced by the splendid fight of the left wing in the Detroit locals, the successful fight of the Communists and the left wing generally in the Minnesota labor movement; all these are signs of life and struggle in the American labor movement, signs which portend great possibilities for the near future.

THE prosperity talk of the capitalist press undoubtedly had a distinct psychological effect upon the American masses. However, you cannot cure the ills of capitalism by psychological effects alone. These effects which have allayed for a moment restlessness and dissatisfaction are already beginning to pass away. The hard realities of life and struggle resulting from the gradual disintegration of capitalism, the unworkability, for instance, of the Dawes plan, the sharpening imperialist conflicts between the so-called great powers—all this is forcing upon the American workers a period of new awakening which our party must not overlook in the planning of its policies and tactics. We must equip ourselves for coming big struggles in which we not only participate but will attempt to assume a leading role.

Our Present and Immediate Objective.

AT the present time our party is carrying on a number of important agitational campaigns. We are attempting to initiate a strike movement against wage-cuts. This attempt has already produced results. In spite of the apathetic mood of the working masses generally and in spite of the absence of a unified economic center in the textile mills of New England, strike movements are developing. We are also carrying on a campaign against child labor exploitation. You are undoubtedly familiar with the policy of the party in this campaign.

It is the opinion of the Central Executive Committee that the apparent parliamentary defeat of the child labor amendment should serve as a new impetus to a revived struggle against child labor exploitation. We must utilize the defeat of this measure to explain to the American working masses the real nature of the state legislatures and of the federal government as organs of capitalist rule. We must emphasize that organized direct struggle of the masses themselves, in addition to parliamentary means, is the only assurance that any concessions at all could be wrested from capitalism.

Attention must be drawn to our campaign against the criminal syndicalist laws for the defense of our Michigan prisoners. This campaign we must carry on with redoubled energy because it offers our party great opportunities for arousing comparatively large sections of workers against the political machinery of capitalism. And now I must mention, if only in passing, our campaign against Abramovich, the emmissary of the Russian counter-revolution and of the Second International.

IN developing our campaign against his activities we must concentrate on exposing the Second International and bringing to the forefront of the American class struggle the leadership of the Communist International. We must revive our agitation for the recognition of Soviet Russia, keeping in mind, however, that at the present stage of development a fight for Soviet Russia is a fight for the social revolution and for the Communist International. And last, but not least, we must extend and intensify our propaganda for world trade union unity and in the first instance to arouse support for the Anglo-Russian Unity Committee.

ALL of these campaigns are naturally carried on along the lines of our united front tactics. However, and this must be emphasized, the question of what organizational forms these campaigns must take would be determined by actual conditions of the struggle. As long as any or all of these campaigns are in their agitation and propaganda stage, these campaigns are to be conducted by the Workers Party in its own name. It is only when the agitation process is far enough, that is, when it succeeds in creating a mass movement of any proportions involving large numbers of non-party organizations, that we shall resort to organizational means on a united front basis such as, call conferences, organize committees, etc.

Strengthen the Party.

HAND in hand with these campaigns must go on the work of building and strengthening our party internally. I need not spend much time on the proposition to shop nuclei. It is a decision of the Communist International. It is a decision also of our own party. What is necessary is to get the party membership to accept the decision not only in words but in deeds. We must see to it that the reorganization on the basis of shop nuclei is transferred as soon as possible from the sphere of mere discussion and propaganda to the sphere of actual organization. Every party unit has a duty to perform in this case. I am sure that the Russian Federation will fulfill its duty.

IN concluding the general part of my report I wish to say that now more than ever the problem of developing a militant left wing in the trade unions and of establishing our leadership within that left wing is of supreme importance to our party. Now and for some time to come the main field of class struggle, tho by no means the only field, are the trade unions. Aside from the general Communist principle that we must win the trade unions in order to achieve our historic mission, the present situation in the United States makes it doubly important that we strengthen ourselves in the trade union movement. These are our front-line trenches and it is there that we must concentrate to establish ourselves in the labor movement of the United States. We must look upon this work as upon the work of establishing our first base from which we shall be able to extend our activities into the wider fields of class struggle. We consider it the duty of every unit of the party and particularly of our language sections to make every member of the party a member of a trade union, an active participant in the left wing, a Communist leader in the daily struggles of the workers in the shop and in the union.

The Russian Section.

YOU will permit me, comrades, to speak a few words on the situation in the Russian Section. In approaching this subject I cannot abstain from making a comparison between the condition of the Russian Federation of today and that of six and seven years ago. There was a time, and most of you comrades remember that time, when the Russian Federation was the leading section of the Communist movement in America. It was leading not only by virtue of its numbers but also by the fact that it was the most active and intellectually alive section of our movement.

Since that time great changes have taken place. Large numbers of Russian Communists and Communist sympathizers migrated from the United States to Russia. The center of gravity has been moved from the language sections to the center of the party with the result that the Russian Federation no longer plays the part in our movement that it played years ago. However, we shall all remember that the Russian Federation was practically the pioneer in the building of our movement, that without its efforts and sacrifices it would have been impossible to bring about the formation of a Communist Party in America at the time when it was actually formed. The Russian comrades may well take pride in this fact and derive from it additional faith and enthusiasm for the future work in our party.

WE must not, however, close our eyes to the fact that Communist influence among the Russian speaking workers of the United States did not grow as fast as it should have grown. Nor has the Russian Section succeeded in increasing its membership, which, during the years 1923 and 1924 has remained practically stationary. I might cite a few figures: The average monthly dues payments for the

First six months of 1923 was 955
Last six months of 1923 was 963
First six months of 1924 was 898
Last five months of 1924 was 957

Thus we can see that during the last two years the Russian Federation failed to increase its membership which, by itself, would be a sign of a certain stagnation in the life of the Russian Section. Furthermore it is an established fact that during this same period the counter-revolutionary elements have considerably strengthened their influence upon the working class Russian speaking colony. I realize of course that one of the reasons for this fact is the migration into the United States of large numbers of Russian counter-revolutionists, but this would only explain their numbers but not their influence. It is safe to assume that had the Russian Section been more active among the Russian speaking masses these counter-revolutionists would have been much less successful than they really were.

IT must also be remembered that during this same period the party as a whole has been making great strides in its development, it increased its membership (every federation shows that increase) it increased its influence, while the Russian Section practically remained stationary and to remain stationary in social life as a rule means going back, and that is what is actually happening in the Russian Section.

We must sound a note of warning that unless some radical measures are taken by our Russian Section to come into closer contact with the Russian speaking masses, the situation may yet become worse. I am sure the convention will take all necessary steps to improve the situation.

THE fate of our Russian organ, Novy Mir, reflects very clearly the general situation in the Russian Federation. Why is it that our Russian organ, up to a month ago, failed to evoke sympathetic response from any considerable number of Russian speaking workers? This is a fact, to which we must not close our eyes. All credit to the members of our Russian Section for their sacrifices and hardships in maintaining Novy Mir. We know quite well what a terrific burden it was for our Russian membership to maintain their paper, but then we must ask ourselves the following question: How is it that so few non-partisan Russian workers were won over to the support of Novy Mir? The answer is, the Novy Mir, until its reorganization by the Central Executive Committee, suffered from the same defects that the whole Russian Section did. Together with the federation, Novy Mir was living in a world far removed from the actual living world of the Russian masses in America.

Neither the federation nor Novy Mir reflected to any considerable extent the needs, grievances, suffering, and joys of the Russian masses in America. This must be understood in order to improve the situation. Novy Mir was not sufficiently interesting or sufficiently attractive not alone because of editorial defects but because of the wrong policy and the wrong point of view that permeated the entire organization.

WHAT was this wrong policy? Its most characteristic feature, as far as I can see, was too much generalization and not enough concreteness in our agitation and propaganda. We seemed to be working on the theory that to agitate for Soviet Russia and the Communist International is by itself sufficient to win the masses to our leadership. This attitude can be proven wrong theoretically. It has been proven wrong in practice. It didn't work. What the leadership of our Russian Section failed to realize was that in order to make Soviet Russia and the Communist International real winning issues among the Russian masses in the United States it was necessary to link these issues up with the things that are more immediate in the life of the Russian masses. This our comrades failed to understand and because of that our federation did not grow and our daily organ had reached some time ago a point where the leading comrades of the organization decided to close the daily, Novy Mir.

We Maintained Novy Mir as a Daily.

AT this point it might be well to relate a few incidents of how we succeeded in maintaining Novy Mir as a daily in New York. As you probably know, the leading organs of the Russian Federation, the bureau of Chicago and the management committee in New York, had already decided to close Novy Mir and to begin the publication of a weekly in Chicago. In the minutes of the bureau of Dec. 13, 1924, we find the following decision: "The bureau approves the decision of the management committee to begin the publication of a weekly in Chicago. In connection with this it is decided to send immediately a representative to visit Districts 6, 7 and 8. A committee is elected consisting of Comrades Borisoff, and Omelianovich to outline the necessary practical measures to put into effect this decision and also to recommend an editor. Comrade Striz is appointed to visit Districts 6 and 7."

IN the minutes of the bureau of Dec. 22, under point 3, we find the following: "The bureau confirms its former decision to close Novy Mir and to begin the publication of a weekly in Chicago. It is decided to notify New York by wire of this decision, also that all collected funds in the last campaign for Novy Mir should be employed for the publication of a weekly in Chicago. It is decided to send Comrade Deviatkin to New York to clear up the question of the closing of Novy Mir and of the publication of a weekly in Chicago. Comrades Borisoff, Deviatkin and Striz are authorized to prepare a declaration in the name of the bureau on the closing of Novy Mir."

THE Central Executive Committee, as soon as it learned of these decisions, immediately took a strong and uncompromising position against closing up Novy Mir. We said that it is never too late to close the daily, that it would be a crime to give up Novy Mir as long as there is a single penny in the pocket of a single member of the federation. On Dec. 24, two days subsequent to the last decision on the matter by the Russian bureau, we called a meeting of the political committee of the party to which we invited representatives of the bureau, Comrades Borisoff and Striz. After a long discussion in which the comrades from the bureau argued very strongly in favor of closing the daily and beginning the publication of a weekly in Chicago, the political committee of the party passed the following decision: "Motions by Bittelman: 1. That we continue the Novy Mir as a daily. 2. To reorganize the editorial board of the Novy Mir. 3. That we outline a campaign for new subscriptions. 4. That we call a conference in every city of nonpartisan organizations to secure support for the paper."

WE realized that by deciding to continue Novy Mir we haven't really solved the problem of Novy Mir. We felt that one of the immediate problems was a radical change of policy in the paper, a change that would make Novy Mir a real living organ of the struggling masses in the United States. We also realized that in order to make this change of policy some reorganization in the editorial staff had to be carried out. Furthermore, it was at the same time that we came to the conclusion, due in part to the insistence of the New York members, that a special convention of the Russian Federation must be held in order to definitely improve the situation in the Russian Federation and in Novy Mir.

Consequently, the political committee of the party at its meeting of Dec. 30 passed the following additional decisions: "Motions by Comrade Bittelman: 1. That the Central Executive Committee appoint Comrades Bourgin, Olgin and Brailovsky as the responsible editors of the Novy Mir. 2. In order to save the Novy Mir mobilize the Russian Section for the Novy Mir, we authorize a special convention of the Russian Section." In passing these decisions we felt that we were doing what was necessary in the interests of the Russian Federation and the party.

Bureau Opposes Special Convention.

FOR the sake of submitting to the convention all the facts in this matter, I must relate that the bureau of the Russian Section did not agree with the Central Executive Committee in the matter of continuing Novy Mir. At its meeting of Dec. 25, after the secretary of the bureau reported the decisions of the Central Executive Committee, the bureau adopted a motion that it retains its former opinion that it is impossible to continue the daily, but it submits to the decisions of the Central Executive Committee and will carry them out. On Dec. 29 the bureau passed an additional decision that it is opposed to the calling of a special convention.

You will see, comrades, that in the last two months the Central Executive Committee of the party overruled the bureau of the Russian Federation on a number of very important points. First, on the question of continuing Novy Mir; the bureau was in favor of closing it up, the Central Executive Committee wished to continue the daily. Second, on the question of a special convention; the bureau was opposed to it, the Central Executive Committee was in favor of it. Third, on the question of the reorganization of the editorial board; the Central Executive Committee decided to appoint an editorial board of three consisting of Comrades Olgin, Brailovsky and Bourgin, the bureau was opposed to this editorial board, favoring a board consisting of Olgin and Bourgin. In overruling the bureau on all these matters, the Central Executive Committee was perfectly aware of the fact that it is adopting a rather determined and energetic course in solving the problems of the Russian Federation and the only reason why the Central Executive Committee adopted this course was because it was firmly convinced that only by these actions could we save the Novy Mir and bring new life into the Russian Section. It is our opinion that the events of the last month have proven conclusively the correctness of the Central Executive Committee position.

Opposition of Old Management Committee.

I MUST report to the convention that the carrying out of the above decisions of the Central Executive Committee met with some determined opposition and disagreement on the part of some responsible comrades in the Russian Federation. You are probably familiar with the fact that at the very first meeting of the new editorial board (Olgin, Brailovsky, Bourgin) Comrade Brailovsky on a motion by Comrade Olgin was appointed secretary of the editorial board. This decision was greatly resented by the old management committee, altho even now I would find it difficult to explain why, for instance, the management committee and the manager were called upon to pass judgment upon matters of an editorial nature. However, these comrades are party members and they seem to have felt justified in protesting to the Central Executive Committee against this decision. Here is a copy of a telegram sent to the Central Executive Commitee on Jan. 14 by the old managing board, signed by its secretary, M. B. Svetlow. It reads: "Due to the fact that Brailovsky has been appointed editor stop I as secretary and Ashkenudse as manager and also the managing board in its entirity cannot take upon ourselves the responsibility for the further existence of the paper especially at the present moment when we are putting up a strenuous struggle to save the paper from death until the federation convention stop We therefore ask the Central Executive Committee which at present took over all matters pertaining to the Russian Section into its own hands to appoint a new managing board and manager of the paper. Unanimously Menaging Board, M. B. Svetlow secretary."

I WILL draw the attention of the comrades to the closing sentence of this telegram which reads, "We therefore ask the Central Executive Committee which at present took over all matters pertaining to the Russian Section into its own hands to appoint a new managing board and manager of the paper." In other words, the comrades of the managing board handed in their resignation to the Central Executive Committee because they did not agree with some particular change made in the editorial board.

I wish to asy you, comrades, the following question: Is this the way in which Communists should behave? Is this your conception of Communist discipline? Do you believe that, when a group of comrades, singly or collectively, happen to disagree with the Central Executive Committee on certain matters, they have a right to present a pistol to the head of the Central Executive Committee demanding either submission or else they resign? And this is precisely what this first telegram meant. In passing, I wish to remark that it isn't true, of course, as the telegram maintains, that the Central Executive Committee has taken over into its own hands all matters pertaining to the Russian Section. The truth is, as you comrades will readily admit, that the Central Executive Committee stepped into the proposition of the Novy Mir only in order to save it and nothing else, and that we did save Novy Mir, at least for the present, nobody, I hope, will deny.

AS we later learned, the protest and threat of resignation of the old managing board moved the editorial board to change its decision regarding Comrade Brailovsky and to appoint Comrade Olgin as the editor-in-chief. This was clearly a concession to the old managing board, but a concession made merely in the interests of Novy Mir and surely not because the old managing board was right in its protest. The Central Executive Committee adopted the same point of view and thereupon wired to Comrade Svetlow the following: "Central Executive Committee confirms Olgin editor-in-chief and instructs entire staff to give loyal cooperation stop Obstruction endangers life of paper stop Convention can settle all differences soon."

IN sending this telegram we thought that we conciliated the managing board but that was not the case. The comrades of the old managing board, as you will see from their latest telegram, seemed to have made up their minds that they will either have their own way or else not work.

Here is their telegram of Jan. 17, in reply to our telegram as quoted above: "We emphatically protest against your insinuations of obstruction. It is our opinion that the Central Executive Committee is misled and therefore creating obstruction. For all differences were created by removal of editorial board and by appointment of trio. If Central Executive Committee was anxious for changes it could as it advises put them into effect at convention which is only in four weeks. The appointment of Olgin instead of Brailovsky as editior-in-chief does not change situation as Olgin is busy and unable to devote all time to editorship which makes Brailovsky practically chief editor. Olgin failed already to appear today in editorial room. We object to removal of Bourgin from editorship. Were your desire to better paper sincere you would have instructed the two additional men to help Bourgin who was appealing constantly for it. Svetlow and Ashkenudse as well as the managing board tho loyally on the job they take off responsibility. Henceforth all responsibility rests with Central Executive Committee. Therefore we demand you either to restore formal normal conditions or appoint new manager and managing board." I draw your attention again that you carefully read the closing sentence of the telegram which is signed for the managing board by Comrade M. B. Svetlow. It reads: "Therefore we demand you either to restore formal normal conditions or appoint new manager and managing board."

VERY clear and distinct language, isn't it? I just wonder what Comrade Ashkenudse or Comrade Svetlow would say if they were addressed in this manner by a unit of the party under their jurisdiction; say, by a branch of the Russian Federation. Imagine, for example, the Russian branch of Trenton, N. J., sending in a telegram to Comrade Svetlow as the secretary of the managing board, saying the following: "Therefore we demand that you either immediately remove Comrade Ashkenudse as manager of the paper or we refuse to support the Novy Mir." I haven't the least doubt that Comrade Svetlow would immediately demand resignation or expulsion of the branch from the party.

NOW, comrades, the Central Executive Committee felt that it shouldn't needlessly sharpen the conflict, even if it were necessary to overlook certain breaches of party discipline. Confronted with this second ultimatum of the old managing board, the Central Executive Committee decided that it will accept one of the alternatives of the ultimatum; viz., the resignation of the old managing board. On Jan. 20, in reply to the above telegram, the Central Executive Committee sent to Comrade Svetlow the following telegram: "Central Executive Committee accepted resignation manager and managing board. Appoints Comrade Oblon acting business manager until after convention with two comrades to be named acting with him as managing board. You will see that Comrade Oblon has business affairs Novy Mir turned over to him in best possible shape."

Having taken this action, which we are certain was the only possible action to be taken under the circumstances, we felt that this closes the incident, at least until the convention of the Russian Federation. But it didn't. The comrades of the old managing board and some members of the old editorial board found it necessary to appeal to the Comintern. I will read to you later their appeal. At this point I wish to state that it is of course the right of every member of the party to appeal to the Communist International. I hope, however, that this convention will express very definitely its opinion on the merits of the appeal.

THE Central Executive Committee has nothing to retract and nothing to apologize for in what it did in the Novy Mir matter. It comes before you with the clear understanding that we have done all in our power to help you save your daily paper and to enable you to continue effectively Communist work among the Russian speaking workers in America.

The Immediate Tasks of the Russian Section.

IT will be your duty, comrades to carefully examine your past experiences and present conditions of your work in order to formulate concrete steps for the best possible manner of carrying out the general party tasks among the Russian working masses. Our message to you could be expressed in the following words: Don't permit yourselves to become isolated from the Russian masses. Let your organization and your press reflect to the fullest possible extent the daily life and struggles of the Russian workers in the United States.

YOU must win the sympathies of the non-partisan masses by organizing them and by leading them in the solution of their daily needs. You must under all circumstances break the influence over these masses of the Russian counter-revolutionists, whether they masquerade under the name of monarchists, liberals, anarchists, or socialists. You must increase your membership. You must win your membership to the idea of shop nuclei and you must mobilize your entire federation to work with the party in carrying out the shop nuclei reorganization. You must also convince your membership of the necessity of joining the unions and actively participating in the building of a militant left wing. In other words, you must make your federation and your daily organ a real, living, militant section of the Workers Party of America.

Long Live the Russian Section!
Long Live the Novy Mir!
Long Live the Workers Party of America!
Long Live Soviet Russia!
Long Live the Communist International!

Amalgamated Strike in Stamford

STAMFORD, Conn., Feb. 19.—The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union is conducting a strike at the Stamford Manufacturing company plant where boys' shirts are made. The strike gained intensity since two girl members of a committee presenting demands were assaulted.

DETROIT WOMEN WORKERS HOLD DEFENSE BAZAAR

Elaborate Program for March 8

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 19.— Those who are really fond of an old fashioned good time, will do well to visit the bazaar and dance given at the House of the Masses, 2646 St. Aubin, Sunday, March 8, from 5.30 in the afternoon untill way into the night. This affair will be held under the auspices of the Detroit federation of working women's organizations who, it will be remembared, gave a very successful supper only a few months ago. This time, we have heard, they are going to do themselves proud.

Choice Bargains

They have combed almost every section of this city for fancy and valuable gifts and things for the bazaar and those who are lucky enough to be on the inside, inform us that they are going to take plenty of money along so as to be prepared to grab off some of the choice bargains that are going to be offered for sale.

It has been hinted that there is going to be a very elaborate program and most of us outsiders have been hanging around everytime the committee met, trying to find out what's what. So far however, there have been no leaks but we will let our readers know of anything we may learn about the program. All we want to say now, is that anyone who knows the "women" knows that their silence is significant. They must have something up their sleeve and are afraid they'll spill it if they say even one word.

Excellent Orchestra

An excellent orchestra has been engaged and those who are fond of having their toes tredden on will have plenty of time to divert themselves as there will be dancing galore. All in all it's going to be one of the biggest affairs of the season. The admission is 25 cents which is outrageously low but as everyone knows the "women" always show the greatest hesitation in going thru a man's pocket.

Come on comrades, on to the Women's Federation Bazaar for the Labor Defense. Lets show 'em that if they know how to prepare a good time for us, we know how to enjoy it.

Plan to Aid Inventors

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.— "We propose to aid workers with a serious purpose who have some device of merit, whether it be a toy to amuse youngsters, or an apparatus to speed manufacture, or an improvement in transportation or communication," announces the newly formed Inventors' International Institute. The organization will pass upon practicability of inventions and possibility of obtaining patents. Engineering experts are on the staff.

The Workers Party in Action

NEW IDEAS TABOO IN IOWA

bossed the town and twenty-two churches kept them mujiks under the sway of superstition.

St. George brandished his sword, the kluxers shook in their night shirts, the blind followers of Gompers and Green swore by their job trusts and sacred contracts and so the battled raged. There were three champions for progress who urged that as men of honor they should keep their promise to rent the hall. The night shirts, witch burners and others morons won a glorious victory for god and their sacred institutions. The infidels and bolsheviks were banished from the holy land of superstition and the czars of Marshalltown. No meeting was held as the time was too short to make other arrangements.

This is in sharp contrast to the monster demonstration held recently at Madison Square Garden, New York, when twenty thousand bolsheviks and sympathizers, throbbing with protest against the power of the czars and their retainers, cheered enthusiastically for Lenin, Soviet Russia and the overthrow of capitalism and superstition.

Intolerance at Sioux City

A hot battle raged in the Labor Assembly at Sioux City over the renting of the Labor Temple to the Workers Party. It started in with but three for fulfilment of their bargain to rent the hall, and after two hours of hot argument it ended with a majority in favor.

Great credit should be given to those who, in the face of overwhelming odds, battled for the right of free speech and against the damming up of the avenues of education.

"Boycotting" the Bolsheviks

At Fort Dodge, Boone and Cedar Rapids the trade union members and former socialists ignored the Workers Party meetings held there. The meetings were fairly well advertised in all three places but ignorance, apathy, prejudice and cowardice—caused thru the collapse of the socialist party and the LaFollette fiasco—has smothered the spirit of revolt.

The Workers Party is practically unknown in this terriory in spite of fact that a large vote was cast for our ticket last November. A tremendous amount of propaganda literature will have to be circulated before any real constructive work can be done. The Appeal to Reason was at one time a tremendous force in Iowa, in fact it was the only challenger of the capitalist sheets. The workers and farmers now seek for expression of their protest against the domination and poison of the daily press by subscribing for the klan weekly, LaFollette's flim-flammer or some other pseudo labor or reform sheet.

Where "White Guardists" Come From

All thru these little towns scattered over Missouri and Iowa the products of Main street learn to become handy with a trowel, hatchet and saw, paint brush or plumbers outfit. There is seldom any union among them and the wages go no further than about fifty cents per hour. They are a tremendous reservoir for scabs and strikebreakers as has been shown time and again in all industrial centers and on the railroads and in the mines. Nothing is being done to reach them with education, and those small towns with labor movements—thru fear and intolerance upon the part of the labor bureaucrats that is passed on in their journals and newspapers—are intolerant of all new ideas.

The writer was told of a case in Fort Dodge where out of eighteen boys who had grown out of the Boy Scouts sixteen of them joined the state militia. The other two wanted to join their comrades but their uncle, a union member and former socialist, threatened to disown them.

Mission of the Militant

The Workers Party must get in touch with one or a few militants in every one of these small towns, organize them into the party if possible but at least influence them to spread literature broadcast in the community. Members of unions must be inspired to take up live issues in the labor movement, simple at first until they gain confidence and influence, and then to broaden it out until the entire working class and farmers have been reached with propaganda counteracting the poison of the capitalist press. Men and women of average intelligence and who have energy and courage can soon establish prestige and leadership among the masses. The masses, as we have observed in the Iowa campaign, are apathetic and shun direct contact with any new idea; can be reached by a local militant thru the unions or by the persistent broadcasting of literature. Leaders who are militants are sadly needed in the small towns.

SHORT ITEMS ABOUT MINNEAPOLIS MOVEMENT

All party members and sympathizers should take note of the following affairs to be held in Minneapolis during the next few weeks and be present.

"Beauty and the Bolshevik."

Due to the failure of the films to arrive in Minneapolis for the scheduled showings on Feb. 13 and 14 they will be shown at the Finnish Hall, 1317 Western Ave., No., on Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 8:00 p. m. and at the Labor Lyceum, 1426, 6th Ave. No., on Thursday, Feb. 19. Tickets purchased for the previous showing will be honored at that time. Every one should see these films without fail.

English Branch Entertainment.

On Sunday, Feb. 22, the Minneapolis English branch will hold a big basket social and dance at the Finnish Hall, 1317 Western Ave., No. The social will start at 7:00 p. m. and the dance at 9:00 p. m. Every lady who brings a basket will be admitted free and the entleman who buys her basket will share the lunch with her. Everybody assured a good time Good music for the dance. Admission: Ladies 15c, Gents 35c.

T. U. E. L. Mass Meeting.

Two mass meetings have been arranged by the T. U. E. L. in an effort to arouse the workers aainst wage reductions, expulsions in the unions, and against the policy of class collaboration being put over by the reactionary trade union officialdom. The first of these meetings will be held at the Jupiter Hall, 2514 Lincoln St., N. E., at 8:00 p. m. on Friday, Feb. 27. The second will be held at the Camden Auditorium, 616 41st Ave., No., on Tuesday, March 3, at 8:00 p. m. The speakers will be Dan. W. Stevens, president of Painters' Local No 186, and C. A. Hathaway, district organizer of the Workers Party. V. R Dunne will preside as chairman.

Scandinavian Branch Entertainment

The Scandinavian branch of Minneapolis will hold an entertainment Sunday, March 29, at the Camden Auditorium, 616 41st Ave. No., afternoon and evening. Two of the outstanding features of the proram will be a lecture by J. F. Emme, left wing candidate for president of the International Association of Machinists. His subject will be "The Left Wing and the Organized Labor Movement." Elsie Olson, accordion artist, will give several selections on the accordion. L. A. Roseland, Communist candidate for alderman in the tenth ward, will also speak. All workers invited.

Co-op Trading in Russia.

Co-operative trading has the right of way in Russia over both private and government trading in the retail field. Government retailing is to be used only to combat private trading and to open new fields for the co-ops, the Russian council of industry and trade has ordered. State trading finds its special field in wholesale and semi-wholesale business.

WORKERS CHEER FILMS WHICH CRITICS ROAST

All Admit Pictures Are Genuine and Realistic

The very successful showing of "The Beauty and the Bolshevik" in Boston recently was accompanied by an extraordinary amount of free publicity in the daily capitalist papers. While the big audience of workers cheered the Red army love story from first scene to last, the critics were not so well pleased. This was no safe and sane "Polikushka" whose suicide ended his participation in the class struggle, this was a picture of the new order that restored the land to the peasant and won the younger generation, wholesale and retail, for the Bolsheviks.

The critics did not like it. They sniffed at its "propaganda." The acting was "traditionally Russian." After our own slick Hollywood output, the characters, costumes and setting look unkempt, tasteless and ramshackle."

But even the critics felt compelled to give some credit. "For all that" concedes the writer for the Transcript, who had been most bitter in denunciation, "the picture has a refreshing charm—refreshing and charming perhaps because it is so distinctly un-American in its light, casual handling of humorous bits, often made humorous in spite of themselves, and for the devil-may-care attitude toward the whole thing. The actors seem to be thoroly enjoying themselves."

The Advertiser report was short but friendly: "A large and appreciative audience at Symphony hall saw the Russian screen comedy, The Beauty and the Bolshevik, a romance of a Red army commandant and an 'enemy maid,' whose father had lots of vodka and more rubles. The Soviet army brigade, which was used in this picture, showed excellent horsemanship, winning frequent applause. The picture, made in Russia, is realistic in its treatment of the love story."

The Christian Science Monitor said the film is "particularly notable, in contrast with American films, for the good will and simplicity of its humor and for its total disregard for material splendor. No hint of the star system mars it. The actress who plays the 'Beauty' is genuine and frolicksome."

Nor did the press neglect the companion piece, Russia in Overalls. The Traveller reported, "'Russia in Overalls,' a combination of travelogue and newsreel, put out by the International Workers' Aid was undeniably interesting. Although this, too, was a case of the Soviet putting its best foot forward, it was done successfully. It left the impression of a lively industrial outlook for Russia." The Monitor said that this film showed "those who have given money for agricultural, mining and manufacturing machinery what had been accomplished. The film gave views of lumbering in Siberia, of garment-making in Moscow, of fishing on the Volga, and of oil drilling and mining near Baku."

Many cities have already seen these films and many more are listed to run shows. A list of current dates is published in another column. But there are hundreds of cities where working class organizations, in one way or another, could run this and other film programs with certain success. Full information will be given labor and liberal organizations in inquiry to International Workers' Aid, 19 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill.

Brownsville Open Forum to Have Talk On Fascism Sunday

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Comrade George Siskind will deliver a lecture on "Faiscism in Italy," at the Brownsville Workers' Hall, 1844 Pitkin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., on Sunday evening, Feb. 22nd.

Fascist circles in the United States are interpreting the proposed formation of a fascist international as a sign of the passing of the fascist crisis in Italy. Comrade Siskind's lecture will help our comrades and symphatizers' understand what is actually happening in Italy.

The forum is conducted under the auspices of the Brownsville section committee of the Workers Party.

Dr. Krishna Lectured At Finnish Lecture Courses in Worcester

By HELEN KAHKONEN

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 19.— The lecture courses conducted under the auspice of the Finnish Federation of the Workers Party, are coming to a close. In these eight weeks we have already had all the lectures on biology, sociology, history of the socialist and Communist movement, co-operative movement and political economy.

Dr. Krishna of India, a revolutionist for 35 years, lectured on Colonial Imperialism, History of Aryan Race, How to Cultivate a Good Memory and How to Think. Dr. Krishna, who is a doctor of philosophy and psychology was a very interesting lecturer.

In his lecture, How to Think, he gave us interesting advice.

His lecture on Colonial Imperialism was on European contries, imperialist policies in Asia and Africa. How the European capitalists rob the people of Asian and African colonies. In India there are 150,000,000 natives that can afford rice soup only once a day. English capitalists spend $225,000,000 for militarism in India to keep an iron dictatorship on the natives, and only $12,000,000 for schools, hospitals and other public institutions for the welfare of the people of India. The social revolution of Europe will be postponed until these colonies free themselves from European capitalist domination.

The lecture on, How to Cultivate a Good Memory and Powerful Brain, was really a useful subject to all the students here. Men like Marx and Lenin had good memories and powerful brains, and so were of great use to the Communist movement. Workers must win and they should have a powerful brain, that they all can be good fighters for the cause that will free the proletarians from capitalist slavery.

Astonishing News Of Harlem Dance Is Revealed at Last

It has been decided to reveal the news that only fifty cents including wardrobe, will be charged for admission to the big spring festival and dance of the Harlem English branch, Workers Party, Local New York, which will be held on Saturday evening, March 21, at the Harlem Casino, 116th St. and Lenox avenue. What a combination for fifty cents—a Saturday night, the first day of spring, a fine hall, the best music, and Harlem. Everyone in this country should see Harlem at least once in his life. There is nothing like it anywhere. Harlem is the best background for a gay evening. It you want to forget your troubles for one evening come to the spring festival and dance on Saturday evening, March 21, in the heart of Harlem. You will be doubly welcome if you come in costume.

BUILDERS AT WORK

A TIP OR TWO—OR FOUR.

ON the advice of Comrade Henderson, the head of our Bookkeeping Department, we are bringing to the attention of our agents and other BUILDERS a tip or two that is sure to bring better service to you on all matters.

First, if you are paying a bill,—be sure to send your invoice along. This will save us time and it will be returned to you fully receipted.

Second, statements have gone out to all party units. Today, when the DAILY WORKER is barely able to keep its head above water to "holler for help," is the time to give these statements your attention for payment. If the statement is incorrect in some detail, don't hold it with a grudge. Write in to tell us where, how and why and send in your remittance for the amount you think is correct. If you are in error, you can bet that our bookkeeping expert will soon tell you about it.

These two tips are really important; they save time, loss of patience and enable the DAILY WORKER to grow, as much as most any other effort by our growing army of builders.

And if you are a subscriber or agent make note of this tip from our mailing department: write about all address changes on SEPARATE SHEETS OF PAPER. This will get you prompt attention on the matter and the girl comrades in our mailing room will be your friends for life.

And now the comrades in the circulation department give you another suggestion that will save Communist energy and make for faster service. This applies to agents paticularly:; if you send in subs for the Workers Monthly, DAILY WORKER and others literature—put all three on separate sheets.

All these suggestions are small ones—but they will contribute to efficiency, save expense and give you better service on all of your requests.

WORKERS FIND POWER IN SHOP COMMITTEES

Your shop committee must have power, must represent everybody, whether they belong to a union or not, must present everybody's demands to the bosses.

Your shop committee must have power to call everybody out on strike if demands are refused, but it shall have no power to accept a compromise of those demands without a shop vote.

Your shop committee's first duty is to spread the strike, to connect itself with other shop committees, to assist other shops to elect committees, to unite upon demands, to unite the shop committees of one city with those of another, to unite themselves at the head of all the workers in demonstration, parades, and constant mass picketing, to lead marching throngs of strikes to city, state and federal government authorities with demands for relief to the needy, for rent moratorium, for punishment of ~~and~~ protection against police brutality and private sluggers!

Yoor shop committee must not be an organ of reconciliation between the capitalist class and the working class, of collaboration to speed up work, to increase production and in this way to reduce your wages!

Your shop committee must lead the class struggle, must fight! It must sound the call for more wages. It must make demands for shorter hours. And it must make demands on the capitalist government for release of working class prisoners, Sacco and Vanzetti, Mooney and Billings, and others, for the freedom of Ruthenberg and the thirty other militant leaders of the Workers (Communist) Party, the only political party of the working class able and courageous enough to lead the workers against the capitalists.

The above from leaflet "STRIKE AGAINST WAGE CUTS." Many C. C. C's. and branches have not as yet ordered this leaflet for distribution. One million leaflets by April 1st is the mark set. With your cooperation it can be done. Will you cooperate?

Local Chicago heads the list with 50,000. No orders from Boston, New York, New Haven and other eastern states. What is the matter with Detroit?

Those having ordered a supply are appealed to again to raise additional funds and send for more leaflets. Make checks payable and address all orders for leaflets to Workers Party, National Office, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

White Goods Workers Strike

Twenty-five thousand white goods workers are on strike in New York City. The strike is for the purpose of enforcing an agreement for an advance in wages, improvement of working conditions and for the unionization of shops now unorganized.

The wages of some of these workers are as low as $12 per week and the average is only about $18 or $20.

In this industry there are dozens of small capitalists and for the most part the competition is of the cutthroat kind altho reduced somewhat of late years by the organization of trade associations which attempt to standardize prices, but whose chief business is fighting the union.

Three local unions of the International Ladies' Garment Workers have pooled their efforts in this strike and with the bosses admitting a revival in trade, there are good prospects of some concessions being secured.

The bitter opposition to organized labor in America is shown by the history of this industry that, compared to the giant combinations in steel, coal, metal mining, transportation and lumber, can be classified as decentralized. In spite of the competition that still exists and the possibility of the organized workers using one boss against another, with few exceptions the workers have been forced to strike every year about this time.

For America, the industry is well organized.

What becomes then of the policy of "conciliation," "arbitration," and "friendly understanding" urged by the reactionary trade union officials in completely centralized industries where the workers are only partially organized? The very weakness of the unions in other basic industries shows the need for militant policies. Constant retreat and surrender serve only to strengthen the positions of the capitalists.

As for the Ladies' Garment Workers' officials, they too have failed to learn the lessons of the numerous strikes forced on the organization. Amalgamation does not consist of the mobilizing of local unions of the same union. This should be a matter of course.

Amalgamation is the unity of all the unions in the industry—the needle industry in this case—against all the bosses.

The success of a policy can only be judged by its effect on the organization adopting it and in considering the International Ladies' Garment Workers, we must ask these questions:

Is the union stronger now than it was five or ten years ago?

Has it more job control? Is it keeping pace with the development of class organization among the bosses?

Every member of the union knows that these questions must be answered in the negative and that the present militant action of three locals of the union is only the result of the left wing activities and not a policy having the wholehearted endorsement and support of the officialdom.

Even in the still decentralized needle industry the capitalists are doing more amalgamating than the unions. This is a dangerous condition that can be corrected only by the adoption of the program of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Trade Union Educational League. The present strike will furnish new lessons that can be brought to the attention of the rank and file by the Communist-led left wing.

A Composite Biography

News from Seattle is that Martin Flyzik, president of District 10, United Mine Workers of America, has resigned to become supervisor of safety in the labor department of the state of Washington.

Martin was once a breaker-boy in the Pennsylvania coal fields. A ready tongue and a pleasing personality, combined with what passed for revolutionary leanings in the pre-war period of the labor movement, won him official positions in the union. Martin swam with the radical tide. When the war put the clamp on social-pacifism Martin became a patriot.

In the state of Washington Martin soon was accepted, after evidence of loyalty to American ideals, as labor trimming for the capitalist parties. His present lucrative position has been won by sterling service to fakerdom and reaction.

No one can tell what it cost the miners to train and educate Martin, but it took a lot of money. He had the best the coal diggers could give. Now he becomes a puller-in for the Washington side-show of the capitalist circus.

Substitute for the name of Flyzik the name of any one of the couple hundred "labor leaders" in the United States and we have the description of their careers.

It is time the labor movement stopped training officials for capitalism to use.

The "Backward Nation" Myth

Smashing blows are being delivered from the most unexpected sources these days at the theory of the inherent inability for modern industrial organization on the part of "backward nations" over whom the western nations have thrown a canopy of lies and misrepersentation.

Writing for the Weekly Westminster, London, Paul Scott Mowrer, who is also a correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, gives some facts concerning the Riffians and their war for independence from which some very important conclusions can be drawn. We quote:

> The Riffians have taken up all the old Spanish field telephone wires and installed six or seven main lines connecting the military frontiers with the capital. They are like children with a new toy. They telephone interminably. Their telephonists sit at tables, like Europeans, and keep a record in a book, like Europeans! The sultan has two motor cars! He is building a road straight across the country! He has a motor boat, in which he goes along the coast at night, under the very noses of the Spanish! All these things are the talk of the tents and villages thruout North Africa. The pregnant deduction is made that modern progress does not, after all, depend upon Europeans.
> "When you come back after the war," I was told in Ajdir, "it will not be like this. You will see a fine, modern city, with a harbor and tramways and handsome buildings—like Paris or London."

All of the above means that brought into contact with modern methods of communication and transportation, the Riffians, whom the western world classifies as barbarians, have within a very short space of time made themselves masters of several very intricate industrial processes.

The capitalist nations have another test by which they determine the degree of "civilization" reached by the races and language groups—success in warfare. The Riffians, once they came into possessions of quantities of up-to-date instruments of warfare, demonstrated an aptitude which has routed the representatives of one of the oldest cultures in Europe—that of Spain. It was not so long ago that the Japanese also were termed barbarians.

The truth of the matter is that there are no races or nations so devoid of intellectual capacity that they cannot become modern in the sense in which the word is generally used. Backward races, so-called, races without an advanced industrial system based on machinery with its accompanying phenomena of universal literacy and complex social organization, are not "naturally" incapable of progress in this direction, but have preserved their primitive cultures because of geographical and climatic conditions, lack of contact with advanced industrial nations, etc.

In short, nations and races are "backward," not for biological but for historical reasons.

It is becoming more and more obvious as the revolt of colonial peoples, brown, black and yellow, against the imperialist nations grows, that once contact with an industrial civilization has been established, no racial or national group but will adopt modern methods and adjust itself to the new social organization necessitated thereby.

Imperialism is digging its own grave by forcing the colonial peoples into the world arena where they quickly learn the mysteries of the machine gun and gas engine, of the hand granade and the telephone, of heavy artillery and the locomotive.

Capitalist Conflicts

The reported demotion of Brigadier-General Mitchell for his advocacy of aircraft as against battleships and exposure of the inefficiency in the navy department indicates that even in the armed agencies of capitalism there is a great conservatism that balks at change.

It is quite easy to take for granted that the aggressions of imperialism are always well-planned and equipped, but occasional facts show otherwise. There are many shades and gradations in the ranks of the staunchest of capitalism's supporters and capitalism persists only at the expense of infinite painful adjustments.

The capitalist class is not a unit. It does not reach its decisions by any easy route, its competitive character creates automatically the conflicts within and the workers are permitted to glimpse every once in a while because the intensity of the struggles make concealment impossible.

Once the working class is united by revolutionary leadership, capitalism and the capitalist class will be found to be not so formidable a foe after all.

The Switch Must Not Be Thrown

Cal Coolidge rides an electric horse for exercise, but Sacco and Vanzetti are to go to the electric chair unless the working class of America administers such a shock to the rulers that the current cannot be switched on.

Let's make the leading lights of capitalism understand that all currents of working class thought are directed now towards March 1—Sacco and Vanzetti day—when the power of the workers will be at its peak.

The motto of the Coolidge administration for the proposed disarmament conference is very probably: "Take away the arms from the nations that owe the House of Morgan money."

It is always easier to collect a debt if the debtor has no gun.

FOES OF THIRD PARTY GATHER TO MURDER IT

Victor Berger Visiting the Panama Canal

Prophets are busy prognosticating the fate of the conference for progressive political action after its convention here tomorrow. Nobody seems to have any definite idea what it is going to do. The show will open on Saturday morning at the Lexington Hotel.

The conference has a mandate from the Cleveland convention at which LaFollette nominated himself to "consider" the formation of a third party. That a third party or any other kind of a party will emerge from tomorrow's convention is a slim hope. For this promise Debs and other socialist party leaders gave their support to the LaFollette campaign and wrote glowing articles about the revolutionary ardor of LaFollette and his side kick Wheeler, who has now gone back to his democratic vomit.

To Hang Third Party

To make things a little bit more gloomy for the C. P. P. A. Warren S. Stone, one of its founders has called his faithful labor fakers together today for the purpose of making a noose with which to hang the third party idea at the convention.

The only saving feature of the situation will be the absence of the bufoon Victor Berger who has gone to Panama on a junketing trip investigating something or other for Calvin Coolidge. The last congressional junketing trip to Panama was the cause of a good deal of unenviable notoriety, in which women and wine figured heavily.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and allied unions passed a motion that "this body is not in favor of the establishment of a third political party." It is not expected that they will change that decision.

Yellows and Anarchists.

Debs, Hillquit and Bertha Hale White are the national delegates of the socialist party to the convention. Outside of the needle trades unions which are controlled by the yellow socialists and the anarchists, it is not likely that any other international union will be represented. No doubt socialists will get themselves elected from fake organizations if they can raise the carfare.

The Workers (Communist) Party has denounced the C. P. P. A. as an organization inimical to the interests of the working class and has issued a statement urging the workers to boycott it.

WHITE WINGS TO MEET WITH CITY THIS AFTERNOON

City Hall Conference May End Strike

A meeting of the two thousand striking street cleaners and garbage collectors employed by the city of Chicago will be held tonight or tomorrow morning, Michael Corrozzo, head of the Street Cleaners' Union announced. This meeting will discuss the results of the conference between the representatives of the strikers, and the commissioner of public works, scheduled to take place at three o'clock this afternoon.

"I do not know what will be the outcome of the conference" Michael Carrozzo told the DAILY WORKER. "But the men will not go back to work until they get their increase in wages."

It is rumored that the city will offer the strikers a compromise settlement.

BROWDER AND JOHNSTON TO SPEAK FOR T.U.E.L.

Jack Johnstone, secretary of the national committee of the Trade Union Educational League, will be the principal speaker at the regular monthly meeting of local Chicago of the league on Wednesday evening, February 25, in North West Hall, corner Western and North avenues.

Earl Browder, acting secretary of the Workers Party, will give his review of the international situation. In view of the tense situation in Europe, Browder's summary of world conditions should prove unusually interesting.

Battle in Unions.

Comrade Johnstone will tell of the present situation in the trade unions, and will have a very interesting story to tell particularly of the United Mine Workers' Union and Carpenters' Union. The Communist candidates in the United Mine Workers' eelctions polled the enormous total of 66,000 votes or half as many as the fakers counted. Hutcheson of the Carpenters' Union is leading a campaign of expulsions in Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles. Readers of the DAILY WORKER as well as all trade unionists and members of the Workers Party are invited to attend.

UNION ORGANIZER PREVENTS STRIKE AT UTICA MILLS

Tho Vote Is Taken, He Forces Work

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 15. (By Mail)—The New York mills workers held a meeting today at 2 P. M. at the union hall. The committee reported they had conferred with the employers last Thursday and no settlement had been reached about the 10 per cent cut.

After the report was given, the chairman said to send a communication to the headquarters of the United uTextile Workers' Union in New York City, asking an endorsement on the strike.

Bouzan Demands Action

James J. Bouzan, member of the U. T. W. of A. Local 753 in the New York mills, spoke. He explained how the workers of Utica must go on strike. No communications to New York City was needed when the workers had already decided by a 100 per cent vote, that if they did not reach a settlement with the mill owners, then to go on strike.

Organizer Joseph White of the U. T. W. took the floor and opposed Bouzan, saying, "When it is time for you to go on strike, we will tell you, but don't listen to anyone else."

White Helps the Bosses

In his speechs before the strike, White said that if there was going to be a strike in Utica, it was going to be a general strike. Now he opposes the going out of the New York mills workers and claims that he "still has hopes of a settlement." This in spite of the mill owners telling the workers at the conference that the mill was running at a loss and flatly refusing to rescind the cut. White persists in helping the bosses to keep the workers in the mills.

We know from the past that we cannot fight the mill owners one by one. White says—"We have to organize the workers, then fight the employers." But the New York mills are organized, now, ready and anxious to strike. White, the "union" organizer keeps them at work, playing the game of the bosses.

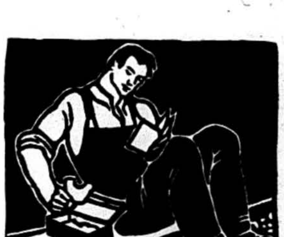
The Little Red Library



This is the mark on the cover of every book of The Little Red Library.

Ready February 15:

No. 1—TRADE UNIONS IN AMERICA, by Wm. Z. Foster, Jas. P. Cannon and Earl R. Browder, is a brief statement of the trade union movement in America and the history of the development of the Left Wing, with an explanation of the structure and program of the Trade Union Educational League.

No. 2—CLASS STRUGGLE vs. CLASS COLLABORATION, by Earl R. Browder, is a study of labor banks, the "B. & O. Plan," insurance schemes, and workers' education. This little book throws the spot-light on the methods used by the labor bureaucracy to divert the working class from militant struggle against capitalism.

ONE of the first steps of the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO. since becoming the central distributing agency for the Communist press in this country is the publication of THE LITTLE RED LIBRARY—an innovation in working class publications.

This little library will consist of uniform volumes, pocket size, including reprints of revolutionary classics and new works of the best writers in the American and International movement.

It will cover all phases of social and industrial problems, history, philosophy, fiction, poetry and art.

Stone and Du Pont, Johnston and "B. & O.," Shows C. P. P. A. Heads Allies of Bosses

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

FRANCE'S "finance wizard," Joseph Caillaux is back again in political life. France never needed a finance wizard more than now. The franc is on the toboggan and it is in the power of the United States and England to drive it below visibility. But it is doubtful whether they will do that. The fall of the franc far below where it is now would cause panic in Europe and none of the capitalist powers are any too sure of their position. As was pointed out in an editorial in the DAILY WORKER a few days ago, the strained relations between Poland and the Vatican and the commercial war between Rumania and Poland as well as the Greece-Turkey imbroglio are incidents in the struggle between France and England that is going on ever since the tremination of the world war.

CAILLAUX was indicted, convicted, imprisoned and banished by his enemies only a few years ago. His policy has been rapproachment with Germany. Clemenceau, is now in retirement. Poincare is preparing to lead the fascisti and the catholic reactionaries in an effort to get back into power. Caillaux aims to succeed Herriot as premier. Interesting developments are due in France. One thing is certain, England does not relish the return of Caillaux to active public life.

CHICAGO is getting better every day, despite the fact that crime is on the increase, declared State's Attorney Crowe. This tendency would not be welcomed by the average person but Crowe is not an ordinary citizen. Increase of crime is grist to his mill. There is always the possibility of a nice little gallows party, even tho juries are sometimes hard to handle. Robert E. Crowe has not made much fuss about crime since his reelection, Indeed it is well known that his anger is not deeply stirred over petty crime, such as burglary and other deviations of that kind. What he does not like is alleged crimes against the government.

IT might be interesting to know that this notorious strikebreaker, State's Attorney Crowe, is a member of the Clan-na-Gael, an organization that is pledged to overthrow British rule in Ireland by any available methods. According to a series of articles in the Gaelic American written by John Devoy secretary of the Clan-na-Gael, Robert E. Crowe, is the son of Pat Crowe, the author of the "dynamite policy" which O'Donovan Rossia, an Irish Fenian claimed credit for. Devoy declares the honor belongs to Pat Crowe. The state's attorney's father was willing to use dynamite to blast the British government out of Ireland, yet his son's favorite sport nowadays is filling the jails with union men and women whose only crime is seeking to secure better wages and working conditions for themselves and their fellow workers. Yet John Devoy, praised this strikebreaker as an Irish patriot. Perhaps he is!

BORAH TO HEAD THE COMMITTEE ON RECOGNITION

Resumption of Relations Before End of Year

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—The Uuited States is taking preliminary steps to establish diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia.

This was learned authoritively today when the news that President Coolidge and Senator Borah were in agreement on the methods to be adopted in bringing about normal relations between the two countries, was made public.

To Appoint Committee.

It is quite likely that the president will appoint a committee in the near future with Senator Borah as chairman, which will be charged with the task of smoothing out the outstanding obstacles in the way of recognition. The Idaho senator is going to Europe after the termination of the present session of congress. It is possible he may have informal conferences with Soviet representatives in Paris before meeting with them as the head of a presidential committee.

It is now universally believed that the departure of the Secretary of State Hughes was directly connected with his refusal to pull in his horns on the Russian question.

Jap Pact Scared Them.

The recent Soviet treaty with Japan has caused considerable apprehension in Washington and it is this development even more that commercial rivalry with European powers that caused Coolidge and his Wall Street bosses to make their latest decision.

That the secretary of state elect, Kellogg, will be nothing more than a cipher in the next administration is indicated by the fact that the administration did not wait for his arrival before letting the news of the pro-Russian move get out.

BLAST ENTOMBS 50 COAL MINERS IN INDIANA PIT

Workers Organize Own Rescue Crews

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 20.— Fifty miners were entombed, many of whom may have been killed, and John Salmon, 35, of Sullivan, a miner, was known to have been killed by an explosion in the mine of the City Coal company here this afternoon.

Elmer Davidson, of Sherburn, another miner, was taken from the mine shortly after the explosion. He was removed to a hospital at Sullivan.

Scores of miners in this and nearby counties hastened to the ill-fated mine and were organized into rescue crews by officials of the City Coal company.

Deadly gas filled the mine, following the explosion, delaying rescue work. Gas masks were rushed to the pit where they were donned by a picked crew of 20 men.

It was said 120 men were at work in the mine when the blast came, causing the mine roof to fall on them after timbering had given away under the terrific force of the explosion.

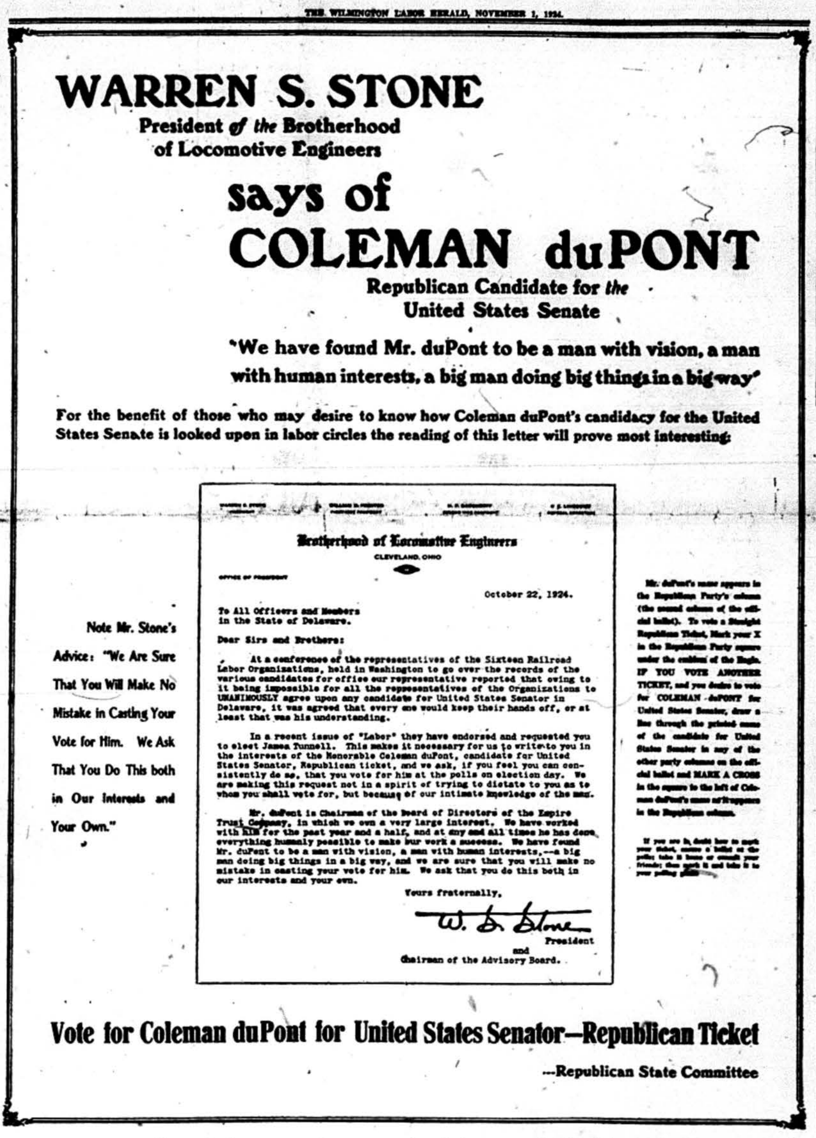
While the exact cause of the explosion was not known, workers said the blast probably was the result of an electric spark from mine machinery igniting an accumulation of mine gas.

All physicians here and in neighboring towns were rushed to the mine to administer first aid as soon as the entombed men can be reached.

The bodies of six miners were recovered shortly after three o'clock. Two other miners, trapped by the blast, were taken from shaft and rushed to the Sullivan county hospital. Five of the bodies are unidentified.

Engineers' Head Begs Aid for Czar of Delaware

THE WILMINGTON LABOR HERALD, NOVEMBER 1, 1924.



WARREN S. STONE
President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers

says of
COLEMAN duPONT
Republican Candidate for the United States Senate

"We have found Mr. duPont to be a man with vision, a man with human interests, a big man doing big things in a big way"

For the benefit of those who may desire to know how Coleman duPont's candidacy for the United States Senate is looked upon in labor circles the reading of this letter will prove most interesting:

Note Mr. Stone's Advice: "We Are Sure That You Will Make No Mistake in Casting Your Vote for Him. We Ask That You Do This both in Our Interests and Your Own."

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers
CLEVELAND, OHIO

OFFICE OF PRESIDENT

October 22, 1924.

To All Officers and Members in the State of Delaware.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

At a conference of the representatives of the Sixteen Railroad Labor Organizations, held in Washington to go over the records of the various candidates for office our representative reported that owing to it being impossible for all the representatives of the Organizations to UNANIMOUSLY agree upon any candidate for United States Senator in Delaware, it was agreed that every one would keep their hands off, or at least that was his understanding.

In a recent issue of "Labor" they have endorsed and requested you to elect James Tunnell. This makes it necessary for us to write to you in the interests of the Honorable Coleman duPont, candidate for United States Senator, Republican ticket, and we ask, if you feel you can consistently do so, that you vote for him at the polls on election day. We are making this request not in a spirit of trying to dictate to you as to whom you shall vote for, but because of our intimate knowledge of the man.

Mr. duPont is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Empire Trust Company, in which we own a very large interest. We have worked with him for the past year and a half, and at any and all times he has done everything humanly possible to make our work a success. We have found Mr. duPont to be a man with vision, a man with human interests,—a big man doing big things in a big way, and we are sure that you will make no mistake in casting your vote for him. We ask that you do this both in our interests and your own.

Yours fraternally,

W. S. Stone
President and Chairman of the Advisory Board.

Mr. duPont's name appears in the Republican Party's column (the second column of the official ballot). To vote a Straight Republican Ticket, Mark your X in the Republican Party square under the emblem of the Eagle. IF YOU VOTE ANOTHER TICKET, and you desire to vote for COLEMAN duPONT for United States Senator, draw a line through the printed name of the candidate for United States Senator in any of the other party columns on the official ballot and MARK A CROSS in the square to the left of Coleman duPont's name as it appears in the Republican column.

If you are in doubt how to mark your ticket, secure a ballot at the polls; take it home or consult your friends; then mark it and take it to your polling place.

Vote for Coleman duPont for United States Senator—Republican Ticket

—Republican State Committee

Who Is Du Pont?

THOMAS COLEMAN DUPONT is listed in "Who's Who" as a manufacturer and banker. He was employed as a civil and mining engineer from 1883 until 1893 with the Central Coal and Iron company, when he became general manager of the Johnstown Co., at Johnstown, Pa. He was extensively connected with the development of coal and iron mines in Kentucky, the scab coal state, since 1896, (one of Warren S. Stone's scab coal mines is located in Kentucky) and with the construction and development of street railways. In 1902 he was elected president of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours company, which position he occupied until 1914. He is deeply interested financially in a string of New York hotels, among them the MacAlpin, Waldorf-Astoria, and in the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia and the New Willard in Washington.

He controls the Euitable Life Insurance Society and owns the great Equitable building at 120 Broadway, New York. He is chairmen of the board of directors of the Empire Trust company, which is part owned by Warren S. Stone and the Locomotive Engineers. DuPont is a member of the republican national committe. He was appointed to the United States senate by the governor of Delaware in 1921. He is a member of the leading clubs in New York, Washington and Boston.

Trusts and Corporations Owned or Directed by Coleman DuPont

Thomas Coleman DuPont is director of the following concerns: DuPont and Dunham, incorporated, vice-president and director; Empire Safe Deposit company, director; Empire Trust company, chairman of the board of directors; Equitable Office Building corporation, chairman of the board of directors; General Refractories Co., director; Greeley Square Hotel Co., vice-president and director; Hotel Claridge, Incorporated, director; Industrial Finance corporation, director; Morris Plan Bank, president and director; National Surety Co., director; Thompson-Starrett Co., director; Three Hundred Park Ave., incorporated, director; Waldorf-Astoria, incorporated, director.

ALL UNIONS HIT BY 'B. & O.' BILL'S PLAN

Road Starts Drive on Each Craft

The DAILY WORKER is in possession of a secret circular sent out by the Brotherhood of Railroad Telegraphers dealing with the conspiracy on the part of the railroad company to put the "B. & O." plan originated by "B. & O. Bill" Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, over on the Transportation Brootherhoods.

Should "B. & O. Bill" Johnston be defeated in the coming elections in the Machinists Union for international president and should the committee for progressive political action (provided it still breathes) decide to have one who is not politically embalmed at the head of it, "Bill" should not have any cause to worry about his future in an economic sense unless the railroad companies are the most ungrateful institutions in the United States.

Good For Company

Formerly this plan was fastened on the shopmen on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, but it has been so profitable for the company that it is now being put into operation on every classification of rail labor. Already the B. & O. has started organizing among the telegraphers.

In the Pittsburgh region the company has selected its own chairman and committee. The committee to represent the telegraph department are the station agents of the largest stations in the district. The members of the Telegrapher's Union are up in the air over it. The chairman of the unions are being ignored and non-union mem-

STONE ENDORSED POWDER PRINCE FOR U. S. SENATE

Done Under Policies of the "C. P. P. A."

On this page, today, the DAILY WORKER reveals one of the many crimes against the workers and poor farmers that has been committed in the name of the conference for progressive political action.

Under the form of "political action" sponsored by the "C. P. P. A." it was possible for Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, to endorse the candidacy of the multi-millionaire enemy of labor, T. Coleman DuPont, for re-election as United States senator from the unorganized "open shop" state of Delaware.

Backbone of the "C. P. P. A."

In this conection it must be remembered that Stone is not an unimportant, isolated member of the "C. P. P. A."

It was Stone, more than anyone else who helped start and run this organization. It was Stone's publication, The Locomotive Engineers' Journal that proudly proclaimed in a recent issue, that the railroad brotherhoods were and are the backbone of the "C. P. P. A."

Stone, with William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, was most responsible in putting Senator LaFollette into the running for president on the so-called "progressive" ticket, at the same time declaring relentless war against the Communists and the Workers (Communist) Party.

Their Wall Street Connections.

Perhaps the most revealing part of Stone's letter endorsing DuPont's candidacy is the sentence that reads: "Mr. DuPont is chairman of the board,

REACTION MAKES NEW ATTACK IN SEATTLE COUNCIL

Locals Protest Blow at Workers' Unity

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SEATTLE, Washington, Feb. 20.—Charges "of being Communists" were preferred at the meeting of the Central Labor Council last night against M. Hansen, H. G. Price, Joe Havel, Paul K. Mohr, W. H. Jones and J. C. Carlson and after some debate referred to the strike and grievance committee of which David Levine is chairman.

The charges were preferred by reactionary Business Agents William Bailey, business agent of the Patternmakers, Jack Belanger, business agent of the Steamfitters, Roberge, ex-business agent of the Sheet Metal Workers, Hughes, business agent of the Plumbers and Williams, business agent of the Hoisting Engineers.

Reaction Insists an Attack

Nothwithstanding the fact that the large delegation of the Central Labor Council are anxious to preserve harmony and avoid strife in that body, these business agents are apparently determined to force the hand of the council to unseat the above delegates against its wishes.

All six accused delegates have the best reputation and standing in the local labor movement and devoted the greater part of their lives to the upbuilding of the trade union movement.

W. H. Jones is one of the progressive business agents with a fine record and agent of the Painters and Allied Trades against whom charges have also been preferred in the Building Trades Council in order to unseat him from that body.

Painters Support Delegate

His local at its meeting, held on Tuesday evening, by an overwhelming vote decided to back him in this fight as they realize and are apparently aware of the sinister influences determined to unseat him. A resolution was adopted by his local condemning the action of both bodies and urging the rescinding of the action contemplating to unseat delegates.

The council at its last night's meeting again reaffirmed its stand against criminal syndicalism laws in general and the Michigan criminal syndicalism law in particular.

No Bar on Political Opinions

After the grievance committee has given a hearing and trial to those charged, the matter will again come up before the council for disposal. The delegates are determined to put up a fight against being unseated and they have support of the progressive delegates who bitterly resent the unseating of any delegates, no matter what their political views be.

The following resolution was adopted on Tuesday night by Painters Local No. 300, asking the Central Labor Council and the Building Trades Council to rescind their action:

"WHEREAS, the present controversy regarding Communism in the Central Labor Council and Building Trades Council, if allowed to develop, will greatly weaken our position and favor the employers; and

"WHEREAS this controversy has entirely overshadowed the original issue from which it sprung, namely, defense of fellow workers indicted under the Michigan criminal syndicalism act; and

"WHEREAS the American Federation of Labor, national and state, at their last conventions passed resolutions repudiating such syndicalism criminal acts; therefore be it

"REVOLVED that the Painters Local No. 300, requests the Central Labor Council and Building Trades Council to set aside for the present their recent actions favorable to unseating members who are Communists.

For Labor Solidarity

"By so doing they will aid the labor movement of Seattle to close ranks and present a solid front in repudiating all legislation which is unjust to the workers and to render such aid to the Michigan prisoners as may seem wise after proper investigation; and be it further

"RESOLVED that we request all Communists and their sympathizers within our ranks to aid on this mutual ground for action and do all in their power to keep the issue clear that it may not again be set aside by arguments regarding Communism."

Fight Smallpox in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.— More than 4,000 persons were quarantined in North Philadelphia today when one case of smallpox was found in that area. About 40 physicians under Dr. A. A. Cairns of the local board of health began examining those in the banned section and vaccinating all persons not already vaccinated.

All Unions Hit by 'B. & O' Bill's Plan

bers are selected as chairman and committeemen. It is the open shop with a vengeance.

Old Leaders Bankrupt

The circular letter issued by an official of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers views with alarm this spread of the scab B. & O. plan in the railroad unions. But the bankruptcy of the old leadership is demonstrated in the concluding paragraph of the telegrapher's circular. Instead of being positively opposed to this company union plan, the writer asks for advise as to whether the telegrapher's should participate in the B. & O. plan or ignore it. They should do neither but fight it and fight it vigorously.

The following circular issued by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers shows the company in action with "Bill" Johnston's scab plan:

Dear Sir and Brother:—The division operator's bulletin of the B. & O. R.R. dated Feb. 8th. 1925, sheet No. 2 shows the following:

"Co-operative meetings are to be held monthly between management and employes. Committees have been appointed for each craft. For the telegraph department, Mr. H. D. Grafflous, dispatcher, chairman, Mr. P. H. Scheffler, operator, alternate, Mr. W. H. Carruthers, operator, alternate.

"We solicit suggestions that will benefit or make the service safe. Operators will forward such suggestions to the alternate, who in turn will forward to the chairman, provided they cannot attend. Each suggestion will be taken record of, acted upon, and committees advised of final disposition.

"It would please me very much to have operators take an active part in this movement."

"Bill's" Plan Was Good

And on a circular dated Feb. 5th, 1925, signed by W. E. Booth chairman, and J. D. Beltz vice-chairman, addressed to all concerned. Subject: "9 Co-operative meetings to be held between management and employes." The first paragraph reads as follows:

"Having in mind the good that has been accomplished in the mechanical department thru their co-operative conferences, we deemed it advisable to inaugurate a similar movement among the transportation department employes, which if proven satisfactory, will be extended to the maintenance of way department. As a result our first meeting was held Jan. 27th., at which time, the purpose of these meetings was discussed and committees elected to represent each craft in the transportation department."

The third paragraph reads as follows:

"At these meetings, it is desired that every one, if possible, give suggestions for the betterment of our service, special features of our industry, general improvements for the betterment of working conditions, no matter what the position of any employe might be. The meeting is open at all times for suggestions—each suggestion will be taken record of, acted upon, and committees advised of final disposition."

As the two local superintendents have made mention of the so-called Glenwood shop plan of employe representation known as the B. & O. plan in referring to the co-operative plan of the mechanical department, and that elections have been held and appointments made to carry on the work which is outlined in the quoted paragraphs the writer is anxious to know what part the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, as well as the other organizations, of the transportation department, have taken in this regard and what part, if any, they are to play in this new game.

Put It Up To Management

If the general committee of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and other organizations of the transportation department have conferred with the management on this subject, I feel that our local officers should have been so advised. If they have not, then I feel that we should inquire of the management of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company whether or not this plan is intended to interfere with the legitimate perogatives of our respective organizations.

A significant feature of the representation plan is that Mr. W. F. Deneke, agent at Pittsburgh, Mr. W. B. Peters, agent at McKeesport and Mr. Peter Colligan, agent at Allegheny (N. S. Pgh.) comprises the committee to represent station agents all of whom are in charge of the largest stations on this division. Mr. H. D. Graflous a former trainmaster now a train dispatcher is chairman of a committee to look after the interests of the telegraphers.

Many questions are being put to me by members of the order. What sort of a reply would you suggest that I make them?

Shall we co-operate? Shall we insist on better representation, or shall we inform our members to ignore the plan or movement?

I stand ready to co-operate with the management of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in any legitimate movement for the mutual good of all concerned, one which will not interfere with the rights and perogatives of the O. R. T. and other sister legitimate organizations.

That there has been a chairman and two alternates elected or appointed to represent as a class, agents, brakemen, conductors, engineers, firemen, yardmasters, dispatchers and operators, division-accountants force, and police department, I am taking the liberty of sending a copy of this letter to each of the general chairmen, and as many of the local committeemen of the various organizations representing employes so affected in this new movement for their information etc.

An early reply would be greatly appreciated, with best wishes, I am, yours fraternally, struments and the almost inaudible sound of feet, as couples moved imperceptibly in what looked like a death grapple around the polished floor. There was plenty of fun, because prohibition is such a nice thing to ignore. "Among those present were, Judges W. J. Lindsay and Joseph McCarthy, former Judge John J. O'Connell." There was plenty to drink, and under what better auspices could the drinking be done than under the nose of a judge?

P. S.:—An expression from other committeemen concerned would be appreciated.

IT is nothing new in Soviet Russia to see Comrade Tomsky president of the All-Russian Trade Union Congress or some other trade union leader addressing conferences of officers of the Red army. The Red army is the army of the Russian workers. Sometimes an American labor faker is given permission to speak to the army but only for recruiting purposes. Yesterday's issue of the Chicago Tribune shows a picture of Charles H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central Railroad and William H. Thomas, vice-president of the Central Trust company, addressing the monthly meeting of the local training school for military men. It's the capitalists' army, so they should attend to it. The funny thing is thousands of workers believe it is theirs as well as the capitalists'.

STONE ENDORSED POWDER PRINCE FOR U. S. SENATE

of directors of the Empire Trust Co., in which we own a very large interest."

In other words, thru their banking connections, the head of the Locomotive Engineers' Union boasts of the fact that he has a window on Wall Street facing that of Mr. DuPont. And in the business of Wall Street, Stone thinks DuPont is "a big man, doing big things in a big way."

Letter Used in "Ad."

Stone's letter of endorsement was widely used by the DuPont campaigners. It was published as a full-page advertisement extensively, especially in the Wilmington Labor Herald, an alleged labor paper, from which the accompanying reproduction was made.

Thus the head of the powder trust reached not only the members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to whom Stone sent his letter, but practically all of the workers in the state.

Brotherhoods Split in Delaware.

Stone also confesses in his letter that the 16 railroad organizations could not agree unanimously on an endorsement for United States senator in Delaware. There were some who refused to stomach DuPont and came out for his opponent. All under the standards and the policies of the conference for progressive political action.

Perhaps some of Stone's love for DuPont may be due to the fact that the powder prince from Delaware, who reaped enormous profits in explosives during the world war, is also an owner of coal mines in Kentucky. Stone is also interested in Kentucky coal mines, non-union coal mines, that have become a heated issue within even the American Federation of Labor.

DuPont has been especially interested in the Central Coal and Iron Co., the Main Jellicoe Mountain Coal Co., and the McKinley Coal Co., all of the non-union state of Kentucky, where the coal mining industry is being developed at the expense of the union fields in the organized states.

These anti-labor policies, carrying a threat to the whole working class, are the "backbone" of the conference for progressive political action, that meets today in Chicago, some say to sign its own death warrant.

ANCIENT GREEKS LIKE FORUMS; SO DO COMMUNISTS

Moritz Loeb to Speak Next Sunday

Open forums are an ancient institution. Almost as old as men's tongues; sometimes as much of a bore, too, at least to those whose tongues aren't functioning.

The most famous open forums were those that the Greeks used to have 3,000 years ago, either in the senate or in the Athenian market place. It is a common idea, tho a miserable mistaken one, that all the Greeks participated in such gatherings. Greece had a democracy, didn't it? Or so we are told. Its "democracy" however, consisted of some few thousand of property holders. Outside this close corporation were some hundreds of thousands of slaves. Needless to say, these had neither voice nor vote; some of them, like Spartacus, tho, had wonderful tongues whose eloquence echoes down thru history, but Spartacus didn't speak at open forum.

Soft Drink Parlors?

Today, open forums are not confined to philosophers or property holders. These, in fact, have deserted the forum for the Mencken magazines, the movie, or the, ah, contemporary substitute for the bar-room.

And the Spartacus of yesterday has become the forum leader of today.

But the working class is not satisfied with producing just a few thinkers; a few leaders. It does not want to be shut out by a closed corporation of know-it-alls.

The modern open forum, like that conducted by the Workers Party every Sunday night at the Ashland auditorium, lets every one express himself, within a definite time limit, of course.

Windbags, Beware!

Sometimes, obviously, this freedom has its disadvantages. There are self-exhibitionists among workers just as among the Babbitts. But workers aren't as "polite" as the bourgeois and they know how to cut short a nuisance. And Comrade T. J. O'Flaherty is a charming chairman; he has a will and a way.

At least twenty questions were asked the speaker, Max Bedacht, at the last forum, when the Dawes' plan was under discussion, but all bore directly on the subject and incidentally proved that an open forum can be a really democratic affair, instead of a dictatorship from above.

Temperamental Like Opera Stars.

"How a Labor Paper Goes to Press," will be the subject of discussion for next Sunday night's forum, with Moritz J. Loeb, business manager of the DAILY WORKER, as the principal speaker. Well, how does it go to press? This is about the only question that even the most intelligent worker can ask about such a complicated process. For a printing press is almost as deceptive and mysterious as a grand opera. But to learn about it is much more enlightening.

Its involutions, evolutions and revolutions will all be described—from galleys and slugs to cuts. Even the mystery of the printer's devil will be revealed. And questions will be answered so that DAILY WORKER builders will have new informational nails for their tool boxes.

Olgin Lectures on "Culture in Soviet Russia" Tuesday

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Moissaye J. Olgin, noted Communist teacher and writer, will lecture on "Cultural Activities Among the Masses in Soviet Russia," next Tuesday, Feb. 24, 8 p. m., at the Workers' School of New York, 108 East 14th street.

Comrade Olgin will deal with the cultural institutions established by the Soviet government to raise the cultural level of the proletariat and make them class conscious. He will describe the circles of Marxism, the party schools and universities, the general character of the press. He will speak about the cultural activities in the factories, one of the most important phases of the educational achievements of the workers, and peasants' republic.

Comrades will find this lecture highly interesting and instructive, and should not miss it. The date is Tuesday, Feb. 24, 8 p. m.; the place, headquarters of the Workers' School, 108 East 14th street.

Say Hoover Dictated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Charges that the recommendations of the president's agricultural commission were dictated by Secretary of Commerce Hoover were denied today before the senate agriculture committee by former governor Robert D. Carey, of Wyoming, chairman of the commission.

"Cal's" Election Added Billions to Values of Wall Street's Stocks

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the New York Stock Exchange (Wall Street) casts its totals and finds that 56 issues, among the hundreds listed, representing 53 of the largest corporations, have appreciated $1,522,914,180 in value since the re-election of "Silent Cal" Coolidge last November.

The National financial weekly, "Barron's," in interpreting this good news for the multi-millionaires, calls it "The Election in Dollars" and gloats as follows:

> "It is certain that the total figure for all companies would run many hundreds of millions higher, and the statement that the Coolidge triumph was worth billions is true, according to the stock market."

• • • •

These new and higher values on the stocks of the great trusts, as well as the smaller corporations, constituting what is claimed to be "one of the greatest bull markets yet known," are based on the promises of greater opportunity to exploit the workers under the parternalistic Coolidge regime.

Business will not be interfered with. It will be allowed to consolidate. Note the centralization, under the direction of big banking interests, of the packing industry. It will be permitted to perfect its profiteering.

Business has killed the anti-child labor law. It is putting over its wage cuts and lengthening the workday for men and women. It is winning the reactionary labor officialdom for its class-collaboration policies. Police forces are being strengthened in the cities. "State Cossack" laws are being urged in the legislatures.

• • • •

For the election of Coolidge meant not only an increase of several billions in the values of stocks. It also brought its increased opportunities to win higher dividends on those securities thru the more brutal exploitation of the workers. And that favorable position must be strongly entrenched.

Stock values of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey alone have increased $166,997,071. The steel trust, the world's largest industrial concern in point of capitalization, saw its common stock values go up $85,700,000. There was an appreciation of $33,000,000 in the stock of the anti-labor Pennsylvania Railroad, where the shopmen's strike is still on. Values of stock in the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the largest public utility, went up $57,747,462.

• • • •

It is not an accident that large trusts, with stock values at their peak, are beginning stockselling schemes among their workers and the general public. Stock sold now at high prices can be bought back later very cheaply when the bottom falls out of the market.

But that a labor organization like the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, thru its own banks, should deliberately urge its members to buy stock in the union-crushing Pennsylvania Railroad, for instance, especially at the present high prices, is one of those crimes against the working class that can only be committed in the United States and go unpunished.

• • • •

All this usually passes over the heads of poor workers who understand neither the financial pages of the newspapers, nor have they sufficient savings to buy a single share in the corporation that keeps them in poverty. All they feel is the lash of the taskmaster when a few more pennies are cut off the hour's wage, when the eight-hour day creeps up to nine, ten and often more hours, when the conditions of toil grow unbearable, and he is forced to strike, organized or unorganized.

It is then that the worker gets a clearer glimpse of the huge capitalist social system oppressing him.

It is then that he is willing to listen to the Communist appeal for the ending of this profit system; because he begins to realize, to be sure only faintly at first, that there is no other way out.

The increased stock values, and the increasing struggle of the great capitalists to declare bigger dividends thereon, is a standing challenge to all labor to join in the class fight that daily takes on new and greater proportions. Labor will accept that challenge and win, fighting in the last struggle of the class war under triumphant Communist standards.

Carpenters' Local 504 Unanimous for Five Expelled Members

Members of Local 504 of the carpenters' union gave three of the five members expelled by the officials of Local 181, a cordial reception when they appeared before the meeting Thursday evening to explain the circumstances surrounding their illegal expulsion from their union by the tools of Harry Jensen and Hutcheson.

The members of Local 504 are 100 per cent behind Local 181 in the fight. They are willing to take any action considered necessary in compelling the reactionary officials to give their fellow workers a square deal.

LEWIS RESTORES CHARTERS TO PA. COAL STRIKERS

Belief Lewis Knifing Rinaldo Cappellini

PLAINS, Pa., Feb. 20.—The twelve thousand miners employed by the Pennsylvania Coal company who have been on strike for ten weeks have now returned to work and the local unions to which they belong had their charters restored by John L. Lewis on recommendation of a special international committee.

Used Charters As Club

Lewis revoked their charters when they went on strike without the sanction of the renegade district president Rinaldo Cappellini who refused to make any effort to secure redress of their greviances from the coal company. On the contrary he used the revocation of their charters as a club with which to force them to surrender to the Pennsylvania Coal company.

In view of the political situation in the district and the quarrel between Cappellini and Brennan, it is considered significant that Lewis restored the charters at this time. The miners are incensed against Cappellini, and Brennan hopes that all those who have recently been betrayed by his rival will forget his own betrayal of an earlier date and give him their votes. Tho Lewis is supposed to be on Cappellini's side the general belief here is that the international president is for Brennan.

The Tax Collector

The local miners are extremely indignant over the action of the local tax collector, Thomas James, who attached their pay for 1923 and 1924 taxes, in the offices of the Pennsylvania Coal company. When the miners went to draw their scanty pay for work done in the closing days of January, many of them were handed tax receipts in lieu of cash.

But after several hundred miners paraded to the office of collector James and had a look at the piles of money on each side of him and in front of him their demeanour caused that worthy to recognise that discretion was the better part of valor and he proceeded to make such arrangements as he thought would be most conducive to a speedy mollification of the sharp edged tempers of the coal diggers.

COURTS TOOLS OF CAPITALISM; WORKER PARTY REPLIES "NO" TO "BETTER GOVERNMENT" SOCIETY

The municipal state and national governments are subsidiaries to the big corporations. The Workers (Communist) Party has written the better government association, in reply to a letter asking the Communist candidates for alderman in the aldermanic elections whether they would aid in "law enforcement" if elected.

"Better government is impossible under capitalism," the Workers Party reply, signed by the four Communist candidates for aldermen, stated. "The Workres Party is for the working class first, last and all the time."

The statement then cites the cases of persecution of members of the working class by capitalist courts and pledges the Workers Party to fight for the defense of working class victims of capitalist justice.

The letter of the Workers Party is printed in full below:—

Reply of Workers Party

The Better Government Association,
731-35 Chicago Temple.
Dear Sirs:-

In reply to your questions submitted by your organization we assert first that the title of your body is misleading unless you stand for the overthrow of the capitalist system. Better government is impossible under capitalism.

You say that the "crime wave has become a great menace to life and property in Chicago" and then ask: "Will you pledge yourself (if elected) that you will not intervene in behalf of any person charged with violation of the law unless the same be done publicly and in open court?"

As Communists we know that capitalism is responsible for most of the so-called crime and we are therefore interested only in such cases as arise out of the class struggle going on in society—what are generally termed political crimes.

In the cases of workers arrested for activity in strikes, for agitation, for educational work, for loyalty to revolutionary working class organizations, we and our party, the Workers (Communist) Party of America stand pledged to do everything in our power to free these victims of capitalism and its courts. In these cases we carry on the widest possible agitation among the workers with the object of arousing them to defense of their comrades. 33 of our members are now under indictment under the Michigan criminal syndicalist law as are result of our fight for the workers.

Men and women arrested for the activities we mention are not regarded by us as criminals but as the very highest types of manhood and womanhood.

Fullest Publicity

You may rest assured that in these kind of cases there will be the fullest publicity, not because we have any moral scruples about secrecy, but because we always try to get the ear of the largest possible number of workers for these cases and the Communist program.

WORKERS PARTY WANTS ELECTION POLL WATCHERS

Volunteers are wanted by the Workers (Communist) Party to act as watchers at the polls on election day, Feb. 24. All Communist watchers are urged to report for duty at the local office of the Workers Party, room 307, 166 West Washington street.

The polls open at 9 a. m., and close at 4 p. m. The Workers Party has candidates in the 34th, 28th, 24th, and 22nd wards. The watchers will not be required to work all day, it is announced, but can take shifts with other comrades.

After the polls close the Workers Party watchers must remain until the votes are counted, which it is anticipated will require only about two hours.

Your other question is:

"Will you aid, as far as lies in your power, the public law enforcing officials in the performance of their respective duties?"

Inasmuch as all the so-called "law enforcing" agencies are in reality for the purpose of protecting the stolen wealth of the capitalist class, wealth produced by the working class and taken from them by non-workers who own the government and industries, we consider that these robbers and their retainers can look after their property without any aid from us.

Protect Our Candidates!

Organize the Workers

We do not approve of individual terrorist or criminal acts which serve no purpose but to discredit the working class and revolutionary movement Our purpose is to organize the whole working class, wage-earners and working farmers, for the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government which will administer industry and agriculture for the benefit of those who work—the reverse of the present process.

Public law enforcing officials, with a few exceptions that do not count in the scheme of things, are the willing servants of the class enemies of the workers and farmers. We are running for election to the Chicago city council with no hope of changing this fact thru the parliamentary process.

If elected we will use our positions as a means of exposing the phony nature of capitalist democracy, of exposing the inseparable connection between capitalist party politicians and the traction barons, steel corporations, packing house lords and all the other brood, big and small, of the robber clique of which the Chicago municipal government, the state governments and the national government are subsidiaries.

Party of Working Class.

The Workers (Communist) Party is for the working class first, last and all the time. In its struggles with the capitalists the working class is always right as far as we are concerned.

It is not interested in "crime waves" and "law enforcement" campaigns which are always merely an excuse for adding more thugs and parasites to the armed forces of capitalist government.

Signed:

Louis Cejka, Communist candidate in the 22nd Ward.

Hyman Epstein, Communist candidate in the 24th Ward.

Nicholas Dozenberg, Communist candidate in the 28th Ward.

Harry Brooker, Communist candidate in the 34th Ward.

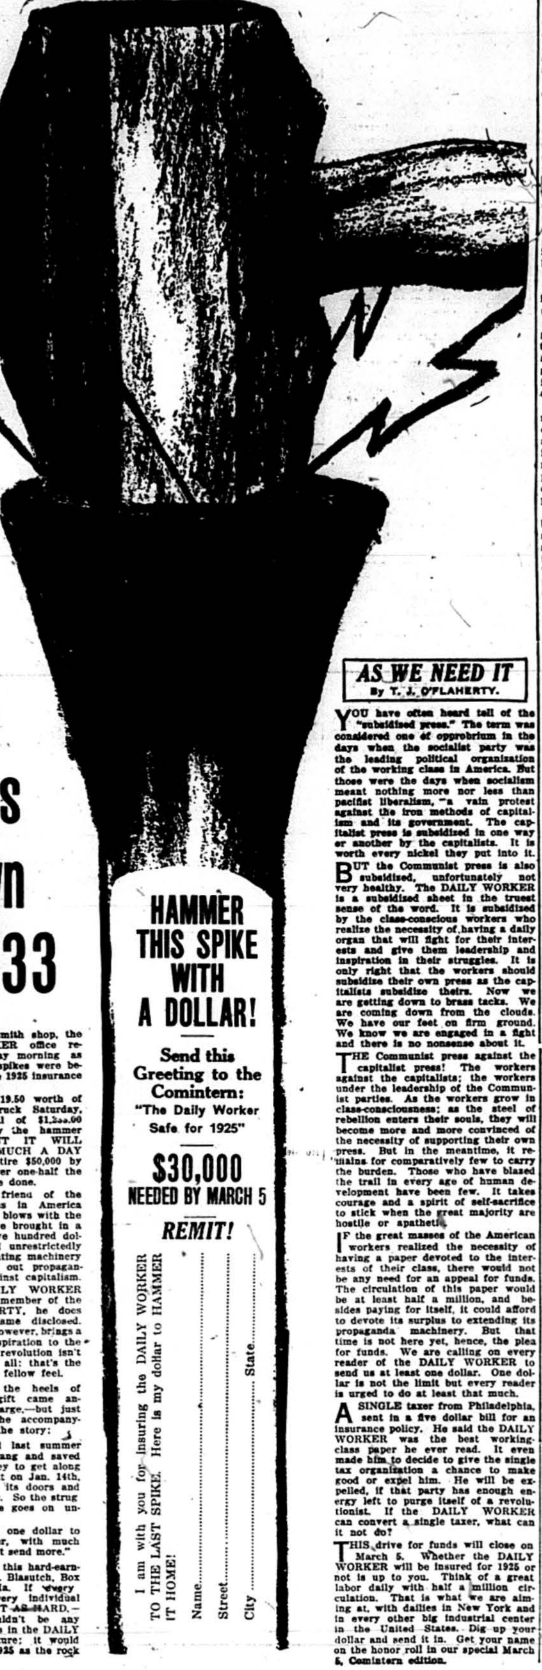
$500 Blow Struck

By Unknown Friend



It Goes Down $1,233

Like a blacksmith shop, the DAILY WORKER office resounded Saturday morning as the last dollar spikes were being driven in the 1925 insurance campaign.

Altogether, $719.50 worth of blows were struck Saturday, making a total of $1,233.00 driven home by the hammer this week. BUT IT WILL TAKE THAT MUCH A DAY to raise the entire $50,000 by March 5th! Over one-half the job is still to be done.

One old-time friend of the Communist press in America alone struck 500 blows with the hammer . . . he brought in a $500 check! Five hundred dollars to be used unrestrictedly to keep the printing machinery going,—grinding out propaganda weapons against capitalism.

As this DAILY WORKER friend is not a member of the WORKERS PARTY, he does not want his name disclosed. His generosity, however, brings a new burst of inspiration to the campaign. The revolution isn't so far off, after all: that's the way it makes a fellow feel.

Following on the heels of this gorgeous gift came another, not so large,—but just as generous. The accompanying letter told the story:

"I worked all last summer on the bridge gang and saved me enough money to get along thru winter. But on Jan. 14th, the bank closed its doors and left me penniless. So the struggle for existence goes on unendingly.

"Enclosed find one dollar to insure our paper, with much regret that I can't send more."

The sender of this hard-earned dollar is J. A. Blasutch, Box 141. Kellogg, Ia. If every branch, and every individual reader, would HIT AS HARD,—then there wouldn't be any more loose spikes in the DAILY WORKER structure; it would be as solid for 1925 as the rock of Gibraltar.

AS WE NEED IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

YOU have often heard tell of the "subsidised press." The term was considered one of opprobrium in the days when the socialist party was the leading political organization of the working class in America. But those were the days when socialism meant nothing more nor less than pacifist liberalism, "a vain protest against the iron methods of capitalism and its government. The capitalist press is subsidized in one way or another by the capitalists. It is worth every nickel they put into it.

BUT the Communist press is also subsidized, unfortunately not very healthy. The DAILY WORKER is a subsidized sheet in the truest sense of the word. It is subsidized by the class-conscious workers who realize the necessity of having a daily organ that will fight for their interests and give them leadership and inspiration in their struggles. It is only right that the workers should subsidize their own press as the capitalists subsidize theirs. Now we are getting down to brass tacks. We are coming down from the clouds. We have our feet on firm ground. We know we are engaged in a fight and there is no nonsense about it.

THE Communist press against the capitalist press! The workers against the capitalists; the workers under the leadership of the Communist parties. As the workers grow in class-consciousness; as the steel of rebellion enters their souls, they will become more and more convinced of the necessity of supporting their own press. But in the meantime, it remains for comparatively few to carry the burden. Those who have blazed the trail in every age of human development have been few. It takes courage and a spirit of self-sacrifice to stick when the great majority are hostile or apathetic.

IF the great masses of the American workers realized the necessity of having a paper devoted to the interests of their class, there would not be any need for an appeal for funds. The circulation of this paper would be at least half a million, and besides paying for itself, it could afford to devote its surplus to extending its propaganda machinery. But that time is not here yet, hence, the plea for funds. We are calling on every reader of the DAILY WORKER to send us at least one dollar. One dollar is not the limit but every reader is urged to do at least that much.

A SINGLE taxer from Philadelphia, sent in a five dollar bill for an insurance policy. He said the DAILY WORKER was the best working-class paper he ever read. It even made him to decide to give the single tax organization a chance to make good or expel him. He will be expelled, if that party has enough energy left to purge itself of a revolutionist. If the DAILY WORKER can convert a single taxer, what can it not do?

THIS drive for funds will close on March 5. Whether the DAILY WORKER will be insured for 1925 or not is up to you. Think of a great labor daily with half a million circulation. That is what we are aiming at, with dailies in New York and in every other big industrial center in the United States. Dig up your dollar and send it in. Get your name on the honor roll in our special March 5, Comintern edition.

CHICAGO CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE, WORKERS (COMMUNIST) PARTY BACKS IRISH FAMINE RELIEF CAMPAIGN

AT its meeting Wednesday, Feb. 18, the City Central Commitee Workers Party, Local Chicago endorsed the campaign for famine relief for Irish workers and peasants and instructed all delegates of Labor Defense council to give complete support to the International Defense Day commemorating the Paris Commune, March 29th at Ashland Auditorium.

The demonstration will be for the release of world's class war prisoners and for the relief of Irish workers and peasants.

The various language units of the party are to furnish special forms of entertainment and propaganda for that day. The party is throwing full energy behind the Irish Workers' and Peasants' Famine Relief Conference and every effort will be made to get affiliations of labor unions and other working class organizations to the conference.

Work in the Unions.

A spirited discussion took place on ways and means to get more of the trade union comrades active in the unions and the Trade Union Educational League and to get others into the union.

The work in the building trades, carpenters, metal and needle trades groups is of paramount importance and has greater possibilities for the development of left wing movement in the trade unions than was ever before possible.

The building trades comrades are visiting the party branches explaining the work and every co-operation should be extended.

In the needle trades the T. U. E. L. group decided to isue a leaflet thru the Amalgamated group on the coming agreement. The issue in the Amalgamated today is clear; it is Hillmanism versus the left wing and the Communists.

In all of these unions the fight for reinstatement of the expelled has taken on a militant and national character. The coming pamphlet exposing the corruption of the Hutcheson machine in the Carpenters' Union promises to be a scorcher and many orders are already coming in for this pamphlet.

Labor Defense Council activity is being pushed thru the unions and our speakers are appearing wherever possible, and where our comrades are on the job to get them the floor. The T. U. E. L. groups are preparing to push THE WORKERS MONTHLY in the unions.

The North Side English branch, as a starter, has decided that every member of the branch must get at least three copies of the Workers Monthly each month and, further to push the Communist work in the trade unions, has decided, altho the comrades in this branch are already more active than the others that anyone failing to attend a union or T. U. E. L. meeting in the needle, building, printing and metal trades is automatically suspended from the party for three months. This is a good example for other branches to follow and will no doubt do a great deal towards getting our party members active in the unions, the basic organs of the class struggle.

The T. U. E. L. page covers the union activities in detail and an endeavor is being made to see that every group has its correspondents. Comrades who fail to attend unions are being made to run the gauntlet in the branches and city central committee.

This is especially necessary because in some local unions, on the question of expelled carpenters and labor defense work as well as elections to executive boards; the left wing lost out from two to five votes and absent party members would have been sufficient to carry the results in our way.

The DAILY WORKER drive is mentioned elsewhere in these columns.

Propose to Form Shop Nuclei Branches.

On shop nuclei the city central committee instructed the nuclei department to proceed with the districting of the entire city in order as quickly as possible to form shop nuclei branches out of the existing shop nuclei. These shop nuclei branches, when organized, will send delegates to the city central committees, conventions, etc., in place of shop nuclei units. This is in accordance with the organizational form of nuclei.

In order to become more fully acqainted with the language press the delegates will report at the C. C. C. on contents and make up of the language press.

May Day Committee Forming.

Branches are to elect delegates at once for a May Day committee in an endeavor to make the coming May Day a gigantic affair.

Also all branches are to make certain that delegates come to the Labor Defense Council united front conference on Thursday, Feb. 26, 8 p. m., 180 W. Washington St., Room 301.

Membership meeting schedulited for next Tuesday in accordance with C. E. C. instructions and agenda given in another column, was reported on.

The fight against the C. P. P. A. is one point on the membership meeting agenda, and in this connection there are hardly any local unions in Chicago which have endorsed the C. P. P. A. conference. The issue is cold among the rank and file and is rousing no sentiment whatsoever, an indication of correctness of the policy of the party in exposing the C. P. P. A. as a bourgeois outfit.

Push the Child Labor Campaign.

On the child labor campaign now that the Illinois legislature has the issue of a referendum before it, comrades in the unions and fraternal organizations should push the child labor campaign and resolutions in accordance with policy and send in reports at once to the local office.

Comrade Swabeck has been appointed district organizer by the Central Executive Committee in the Pittsburgh district and Comrade Abern has replace him.

70,000 Election Campaign Leaflets Distributed.

On the elections campaign it was reported that the 50,000 election campaign leaflets containing the program of the Workers (Communist) Party in the aldermanic elections had already been distributed. In addition, special leaflets are now being printed for some of the remaining aldermanic candidates and also special cards. The number of election leaflets used will run up from 70,000 to 75,000. As reported previously, three of the party candidates were eliminated from the ballot by the usual methods of capitalist procedure and legality. Comrades Brooker, Cejka, Dozenberg and Epstein remain on the ballot.

The situation in the Italian Federation was reported upon and the Italian comrades are now working to issue again the Il Lavoratore as a daily as quickly as possible in the city of New York. Federation bureau also to be moved there.

The city central committee aproved the expulsion of six comrades from the South Slavic branches for their support of the paper, Novy Swijet, against the policy of the party and for their support also of the Svetkoff anti-party group outside of the party and also approved the reinstatement of two of the comrades upon a written declaration of loyalty to the party.

The following applications for membership were accepted:

Polish North Side	2
Finnish	3
Douglas Park English	1
North Side English	2
Mid-City English	1
Italian 19th Ward	1
Greek	1
South Slavic	3

Poll watchers are wanted for the aldermanic elections on Tuesday, February 24. Comrades should report to the office to get credentials and addresses of comrades who can be poll watchers.

All arrangements are being made for a successful Sacco-Vanzetti meeting on March 1, which will be held in the Emmet Memorial Hall.

The next meeting of the city central committee will be held at 722 Blue Island Ave., on March 4, 8 p. m.

Fraternally yours,
Workers Party—Local Chicago,
Martin Abern, Secretary.

Conciliators and Garment Strikers

Two developments in the strike of garment workers in New York City:

First, federal conciliators are on the job trying to arrange a "settlement"—the usual accompaniment of strikes of any size.

Second, pickets are slugged and arrested.

Here are the two chief methods of the boss-owned government. Federal conciliators with their palaver of peace and concessions by both sides—attempts to break the morale of the strikers by filling them with false hopes.

Violence against the strikers in an effort to cow those who cannot be fooled by the smooth-tongued agents of the employers.

No honest and intelligent worker can fail to see the way in which these two methods dovetail together and work in the interest of the enemies of the working class.

The left wing, led by the Communists, can do effective work in such cases. In addition to being the most active fighters on the picket line, the most untiring organizers of the offensive against the bosses, they also show to the workers the intimate connection between government and boss. They have in these instances concrete evidence to bring forward against any so-called leader who takes part in the attempt of the agents of the employers to fool the strikers into believing that they can gain anything by other means than their organized and conscious strength.

Any efforts on the part of government or any other brand of conciliators to get the workers back to their machines pending a settlement must be fought mercilessly.

The time to negotiate is when the industry is crippled by a strike of the workers and the bosses are whining over vanishing profits.

10,000 Murders

Ten thousand murders per year in the United States is the lowest possible estimate given by Frederick Hoffman, expert criminal statistician. He says:

> "My own record of homicides is based on death certificates in which deaths from criminal violence are certified either medically or by a coroner's inquest. The record of 10,000 murders a year is probably an underestimate of the actual facts. Death certificates in cases of accident leave much to be desired and there are substantial reasons for believing that many cases are recorded as accidents which should be certified as homicides."

This is quite a record for a nation that prides itself on having the highest civilization on the globe. When the satirists of Soviet Russia run short of material for sarcastic eulogies of western capitalism they can do quite a bit with this one fact.

It would never do, of course, to recognize a workers' and peasants' government that makes its principal cities entirely free from crimes of violence.

Ten thousand murders per year—well, Americans are an efficient people.

We Tremble

The Federation News, organ of Chicago labor fakerdom, at last has us worried.

It parrots in its issue of the 21st inst., the Chicago Tribune's story of $340,000 sent from Russia for Communist propaganda in the United States.

We repeat, we are worried. We are afraid that the only readers of the Federation News, the few hundred pie-card artists who run the Chicago labor unions for the money there is in it, will believe this story.

If they do, there is going to be a lot of these second-story artists who suddenly will develop a great sympathy for the Communist program and love for the Communists.

$340,000!

One-tenth of this amount would buy this whole flock of birds for capitalism, Communism or anything else—for a few minutes.

We fear that in the next few days we are going to have to talk to a lot of "labor leaders" whose prehensile fingers will be opening and closing in the nervous manner with which so many bosses and politicians are familiar.

Three of a Kind

We publish today, coincident with the C. P. P. A. convention, two news stories of the greatest importance to the labor and revolutionary movement—they are exclusive stories dug out of the jungle of the labor movement by the DAILY WORKER staff and they are damning evidence of the double-crossing and betrayal that are inevitable accompaniments of the schemes for "class peace" and "capitalizing" labor put forward by high officials of the labor movement like Warren Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, "B. and O." Bill Johnston of the Machinists' Union and William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor.

These officials are supposed by superficial observers to represent three different tendencies in the labor movement.

Actually all three stand for the same thing—the handing over of the unions, bound hand and foot, to the capitalists and the capitalist state.

In West Virginia, Warren Stone, as head of a stock company composed of members of his union, runs a scab coal mine.

In Delaware, against the policy of the other railway unions expressed in their official organ, Labor, he supports Coleman DuPont—the war-monging munition maker and labor hater and officer of the Morris Plan Bank—the biggest loan shark concern in America.

"B. and O." Bill Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, is the sponsor of the Baltimore and Ohio company union scheme that has turned the railway shop crafts on that system over to the tender mercies of the railway company.

More than that, we publish today the first-hand information of the extension of this scheme to all other unions on the B. and O., including the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Johnston has done a good job—for the bosses. He and Stone can chuckle togeher in their luxurious offices over the way they have put it over on the men who pay their huge salaries.

William Green, at the last meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, held in Miami, Florida, announced that he stood for "conciliation and understanding" and against all "radical" tendencies. He wants labor to "understand" capital in the same way that Warren Stone and Johnston do—by trying to play the "brace" game of becoming capitalists.

Read the stories dealing with the studied attempts to turn the labor movement over to the robber clique of capitalists that we carry today on the front page.

Read the program of the C. P. P. A., which Stone and Johnston formed to further additional betrayals. Read them again and again until the full measure of the treachery of these labor leeches is understood.

Then read the program of the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

The Child Labor Law—Its Lessons

The Michigan state legislature has defeated the child labor amendment by passing the Culver resolution for its rejection.

Michigan, with its beet sugar industry, is a noisome hotbed of child slavery. Charles Warren, the Coolidge choice for attorney general, is also an attorney for and a director of a number of large sugar companies. Michigan jails Communists.

With the exception of some women's organizations who were attracted to the child labor amendment because of its humanitarian character, the class lines were clearly drawn in the fight for it in Michigan. Exploiters of labor and their retainers were against the measure, labor organizations for it.

The stubborn opposition to this bill, which would deprive the capitalists of the service of some million and a half children, cannot be explained by this fact alone.

The demand of the Communists for full government maintenance of the children of workers and working farmers while they are of school age, a provision without which a child labor law is an empty gesture, is not the sole reason for the panic among the child robbers.

Both of these things are contributing factors, but underlying the million-dollar campaign of the opponents of the amendment is the intention to stop at all costs interference with and weakening of the power of American capital to rob whom and how it pleases.

The textile barons, premier enslavers of children, white and black, the tobacco trust and other low wage enterprises, are powerful by themselves. In this fight they have rallied almost every other section of the capitalist class to their aid.

The fight is not over and will not be over until there is no a single child of school age in industry.

In the meantime, while the workers rally their forces for new efforts, it would be well for the pacifists and parliamentarians to ponder the lessons of the fight for the child workers—to ask themselves if American capitalism mobilizes so strongly for protection of one of its small groups, what the prospects are for a peaceful adjustment of the major conflict between a robber class and the working class.

War—the Constant Danger

Those who remember the months preceding the outbreak of the world war in August, 1914, will recall that the air of the capitals of the great powers was filled with news of scandals in their army and navy departments, with charges and counter-charges of inefficiency, graft, "unpreparedness," etc.

Hand in hand with these bickerings among the militarists went the talk of disarmament just as today there are rumors of more international conferences on auxiliary armaments.

One more straw. In Chicago day before yesterday the department heads of the Illinois Central railroad gathered in uniform as officers of the national army reserve and discussed the problem of supplying armed forces with the necessary supplies. All over the nation similar gatherings are being held.

Militarism, the right hand of imperialism, is always at work. We live always on the verge of war. Imperialism is prepared, the workers are not.

Let the nearby danger of another bloody struggle be on the order of business of every working class meeting.

Building the Left Wing in "The Amalgamated"

By EARL R. BROWDER.

IT has proved to be one of the most difficult things to build the left wing in the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, because of the lip-service paid by the Hillman administration to some progressive issues, such as support to Soviet Russia, amalgamation, and the labor party. But in the past year the masked reactionaries who rule the A. C. W. have exposed themselves so that all may see them in their true nature—as bureaucrats of the same class-collaborationist stripe as the Gompers' bureaucracy. There can be no militant members of the A. C. W. of A. who can longer doubt the burning necessity of a definite left wing program and organization in order to fight to bring the union back to the class struggle. This has been demonstrated to the most backward by the past year's development.

SUPPORT of the labor party was one of the Hillman administration masks. They dropped it completely, after having sabotaged every move for a labor party by attending conferences as "observers" and refusing to lift a finger or say a word. Support of Soviet Russia was another mask, but the projected "million dollar fund" for Russian clothing factories dwindled to a miserly ten per cent of that amount and was forgotten. A stand for amalgamation was another mask, but the issue has been ignored and laid aside, not a single move being made to realize this vitally necessary measure. Class struggle was formerly at least recognized, but today the president of the union boasts of the abandonment of struggle in favor of compromise and collaboration with the employers.

THUS has the objective situation been cleared and the foundation prepared for a left wing, clear in program and strong in numbers, in the A. C. W. of A.

THERE is still one obstacle to be overcome before a strong left wing can grow in the A. C. W. That is the remnant of confusion within our own ranks still remaining from the days when the Hillmanites paid lip-service to progressive measures. There are still workers who claim to belong to the left wing, who yet take up the arguments of Hillman with all their hollow mockery, and indirectly fight for them within the left wing movement itself. These remaining Hillmanites within the left wing do everything in their power to distract the movement away from its constructive task of building the revolutionary movement and clarifying its program. They have been forced to abandon open support of the administration, and so they fall back upon secret and indirect support, and the use of tricks against the left wing.

SUCH a "trick" was the use made of a statement which several members of the left wing allowed themselves, thru their inexperience, to be fooled into signing. The signing of the statement, which meant to hand a political weapon over to a political enemy, was an inexcusable blunder on the part of these members. It was a demonstration of that confusion of mind which is the principal remaining obstacle before the left wing.

THE Trade Union Educational League branded the signing of this statement as a crime against the left wing and against the true interests of the labor movement. This was the first step toward correcting the mistakes of the left wing, toward eliminating the last obstacles to its growth and development. The Workers Party took even more drastic action toward those who were members of the party, demanding that the action be repudiated as a serious blunder by those who committed it. Those who undertook to defend the stab in the back that had been given to the left wing, who refused to admit that it was a mistake, were expelled from the Workers Party. The party of the revolutionary working class cannot retain in its ranks those who bring in with them and defend such indefensible actions. It is reliably reported that another ex-member of our party, Salutsky, greeted one of the expelled before a joint board meeting with the words: "Here is another one who does not mourn his expulsion." When such a greeting is not repudiated, when expulsion can be treated as a joke, we can be ten times assured that it was justified.

THE incident was not a pleasant one, and it injured the left wing movement considerably. But every such bad thing has certain good by-products. In this case it was the occasion for a sharp jerking up of our comrades and a stock-taking of those bad tendencies in our movement which hinder the growth of the left wing. The result has been an ideological house cleaning which, when it is completed, will mark the real beginning of the left wing in the A. C. W. A.

THERE is still a trace of Hillmanism in our party and in the left wing, which will have to be overcome. Its last remaining strength comes, interestingly enough, from an alliance with an entirely different tendency in our movement—with the "left sick" and syndicalistic elements. This spectacle of the right wing uniting with the infantile left, is a familiar one in the international revolutionary movement. It is due either to the muddle headedness of the left-sick ones, or to the fact that their left phrases conceal a fundamentally opportunist attitude to the problems of the movement. As to the real opportunists, they are, of course, always eager to grasp at any kind of alliances which can help them create confusion.

THE way in which the revolutionary movement fights against errors within its ranks is to expose them and show their falsity to the entire movement.

WITHIN the clothing industry the last obstacles to progress in the building of a militant left wing are just such errors as these. They are our weaknesses, and to cure them we must expose them. We must point out to the entire movement the falseness and dangerousness of the opportunistic right wing element which is afraid to denounce and fight against the policies of class collaboration in the union a fear which leads to such actions as the signing of statements for the reactionaries.

AT the same time we must completely isolate and render harmless the infantile sickness of those comrades who "want the clothing workers to settle their own problems" (as tho the clothing workers were not a part of the working class which can settle its problems only as a class), or who want to turn the party itself into an industrial organization with its executive made up of delegates from industrial groups. These left-sick ones (who, as usual in such cases, have hardly a word to say on policy) create an obstacle to progress by their confusionism, and by their alliance with the opportunistic elements.

OUR concern is not with individuals. If it becomes necessary, of course, it can easily be pointed out in what persons these errors find their champions. What we are concerned with, however, is to clarify the minds of the large numbers of rank and file members who follow the left wing, who believe in it and will fight for it, but who are dismayed by the shouting of opportunists and wailing of the infantile left. To these honest and sincere comrades we point out that this confusion is but a passing surface event, caused by the movement of those deep, underlying forces of historical progress which are making a left wing not only necessary but also inevitable. The temporary confusion is only the floundering about of those who haven't caught step with the march of the revolutionary workers—some thru error and others because they don't belong with the revolutionary workers. The first we will save and bring back into our army as disciplined soldiers of the revolution; the second we will part with as painlessly as possible.

(In another article I will deal with the opportunist argument that betrayal of the left wing can be excused as "loyalty to the union," an argument which is the fig-leaf every weakling or renegade tries to use with which to cover the nakedness of surrender to reaction.)

INTERNATIONAL DEMONSTRATION

For Irish Workers' Famine Relief and Class War Prisoners

AN international solidarity demonstration in which workers of more than fifteen languages will contribute the best entertainment features of their respective lands will be given in Chicago, on March 29, at Ashland Auditorium.

There will be Finnish athletics, Jewish music, a chorus of 300 Lithuanian children, a dance pageant by Young Workers League members and juniors, mandolin and balalaika orchestras, solos and ensembles and a dramatic sketch.

A real proletarian program made up of things dear to the workers of all the many lands of the world, and performed by the most proficient for the entertainment of their class.

Benefit Irish Relief.

The affair will be run under the joint auspices of the Labor Defense Council, the Workers Party, and the Irish Workers' and Peasants' Famine Relief Committee of the International Workers' Aid. Thus the Irish Relief and the Labor Defense will share in the financial benefits to be derived from the work of those who furnish the entertainment and the work of those who sell the tickets to bring out the crowd. Admission will be 50c, children 10c to comply with a city ordinance which compels every child to have a ticket.

Speakers Too.

Of course there will be the best speakers available. William F. Dunne, of the DAILY WORKER, provided he is still out of jail, and Robert Minor, world-famed labor cartoonist, whose trial in Michigan comes next.

Contributions Invited.

The affair will be in charge of the same committee that made out so well at the recent movie showing. This committee will meet again next Saturday at 722 Blue Island Ave., at 3:30 p. m.

Any group which can contribute any talent to this wonderful program, or any individual who might care to co-operate should get in touch at once with the secretary, Thomas O'Flaherty, 166 West Washington St.

Frisco Runs I. W. A. Movie.

The "big affair" of San Francisco during "Fight the Jailors" week Mar. 15-22, will be the showing of the "Beauty and the Bolshevik" on Mar. 21. This is under direct auspices of the committee for International Workers' Aid and many workers' organizations are co-operating to make it a success. For information and tickets get in touch with C. J. Read, 225 Valencia St.

Defense-Relief Bazaar in Philadelphia

The "Fight the Jailers" week, Mar. 15-22, will be celebrated in Philadelphia by a big bazaar in which defense and relief committees are giving fullest co-operation.

HERRIOT CALLS ON MORGAN FOR UNITED FRONT

PARIS, France, Feb. 20.—Premier Herriot, the "socialist," is calling frantically for J. P. Morgan to bolster the tottering Herriot regime with a loan of $200,000,000.

When M. Clementel, the finance minister, was shown an official denial by the United States treasury department, that the American government was contemplating a loan to France, Clementel said, "By the United States I meant American bankers, not the American government." Clementel had said that the United States would aid France to bolster the falling French franc with a large loan. Clementel, however, meant Morgan, whom he recognized as the real power in America.

Interest to Morgan.

Louis Loucheur, one of France's big capitalists, speaking in the chamber of deputies, declared that France is paying regularly one and one-half billion francs for the settlement of her commercial debt to America. The bulk of this money find its way into Morgan's pockets.

"The great trouble of the government is that it never has any cash on hand," said Loucher. "I recommend the immediate efforts to float a loan of $200,000,000. The money from the recent Morgan loan should be kept intact to protect the franc."

On the New York exchange the Herriot government bought French francs heavily, as a result the francs gaining four points during the day. The French government bought thru the ally of the Bank of France, J. P. Morgan and company.

Social-Democracy Strips Itself Naked

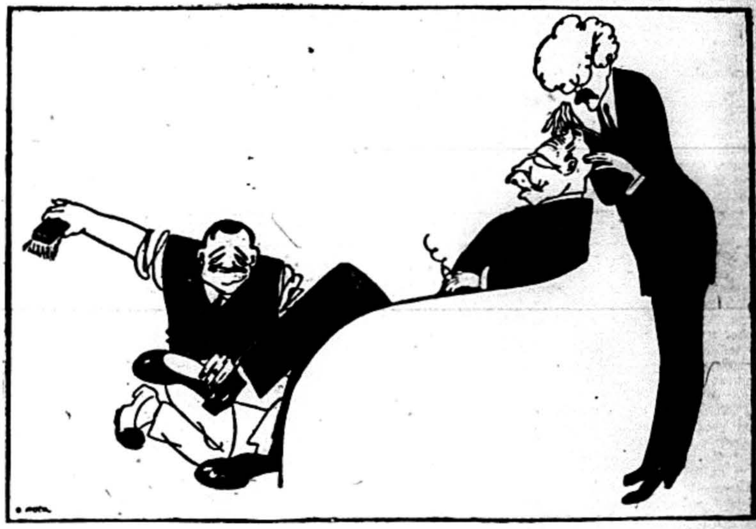
Out of Their Own Mouths....

EBERT, social-democratic president of Germany, last December brought suit for libel against the press and individuals of the monarchist persuasion who had accused him of "treason" during the war.

The documents introduced and the testimony given at the trial have just reached us and they constitute the most damning indictment of the social-democracy ever compiled.

WE publish herewith the first of a series of articles composed largely of this matter—most of it taken from the social-democrat press of Germany which published it to show that during the war the German socialists of the Second International outdid the monarchists and capitalists in support of the kaiser, the imperialist war, in crushing the strikes and the revolution that followed the war.

OUT of their own mouths....



Henderson King George MacDonald

KING GEORGE: As long as the Second International exists the King can slumber and arise i tranquillity.

EBERT SPEAKS.

FROM the beginning of the war until the end I stood without reservation on the side of defence of native country, and acted accordingly. During the whole war I was opposed to strikes among the workers of war industries. I spoke with particular emphasis to this effect at the national conference of the German democratic party on Sept. 21, 1916.

The munitions workers' strike in Berlin in January, 1918 broke out without the prompting or approval of the social democratic party.

Neither had I personally anything whatever to do with the strike either directly or indirectly; on the contrary, it took me completely by surprise.

IN the morning of Jan. 28, 1918, a rapid succession of workers' delegations from numerous Berlin works presented themselves at the office of the social democratic party, bringing reports on the strike, and requesting that the central committee of the social democratic party should send representatives to the strike committee, in order to prevent worse from happening. On behalf of the party leaders I pointed out that the strike had originated without the co-operation or approval of the social democratic party. The strikers had already elected a strike committee and formulated certain demands. After this nobody could expect the leaders of the social democratic party to unertake the subsequent responsibility. The workers' delegations then asked if the party leaders would send a delegation to the strike committee, should the delegates' meeting request them to do so. After a long discussion this was replied to in the affirmative.

Here the decisive motive of the party leaders was to prevent the interests of the country from being injured by the strike, and to try to bring the strike to an end as speedily as possible, by means of negotiations with the government.

AFTER a violent contention in the delegates' meeting itself, the majority of the meeting voted for the motion, and the committee of the social democratic party commissioned Otto Braun, Scheidemann, and myself to undertake the party representation. Our entry into the strike committee took place with the proviso, declared to the workers' delegation, that the strike committee was to be reorganized on parity lines, that is, that the social democratic party was to be represented in the committee in equal numbers as the independent social democratic party, and that a renewed discussion on the demands already formulated was to be made possible.

(Berlin, Vorwarts, Dec. 10.)

MILITARIST THANKS EBERT.

TODAY I am of the opinion that the strike would have been very rapidly settled if the German government had not adopted a formalist standpoint. In Cologne the commander of the fortress expressed his thanks to the representatives of social democracy for what they had accomplished in preventing Germany's being injured with relation to abroad. At that time I emphasized, at a strikers' meeting, that the strike was nonsense, since the English, munitions workers were even foregoing their holidays.

(Berlin, Rote Fahne, Dec. 10.)

IN Munich, the then Bavarian prime-minister, von Dandl, spoke on the strike on Feb. 1, 1918 in the chamber of deputies. In the course of his speech he turned to the social democrats with the following words:

He thanked them for having now undertaken the leadership of the affair, for from them he hoped that they would guide the movement to a peaceful conclusion, and thus put an end to the insurrection, which was really damaging us seriously in our relations with abroad.

(Vorwarts, Dec. 10.)

FROM DITTMANN'S EVIDENCE.

WITNESS DITTMANN: The social democrats, and the independents as well, had invariably declared openly that defence of native country was the duty of every German. Haase emphasized this on every occasion. Ledebour too invariably opposed defence nihilism.

The chairman asked the deputy, Dittmann: It was thus your intention to help the strikers to get their demands acceded to?

Witness Dittmann: I find this question very strange in this connection. The formulation is such that I cannot but assume that you mean we had the intention to press something thru by force, in opposition to the interests of the German reich.

(Vorwarts, Dec. 10.)

An "INSULT."

MARTIN (barrister): How does this utterance agree with the action taken by the witness with reference to the mutiny in the fleet?

Dittmann (highly excited), I protest against this unheard of attack. I never took any action towards inciting mutiny in the fleet. I shall call you legally to account for this.

Landsberg (barrister): It is perfectly disgraceful to insult the witness here in such a manner.

(Vorwarts, Dec. 10.)

How It Is Done.

THE witness Eimler, a carpenter, spoke of the attitude taken by the witness, Dittmann, at a strike meeting:

Dittmann spoke after Ebert. He said that what had brot us together was the will to peace.

He did not speak of the strike, any more than Comrade Ebert did.

(Rote Fahne), Dec. 10.

The Witness Wuschik.

WITNESS WUSCHIK, party secretary: From 1916 onwards the growth of the Spartacus movement was observable in the works and factories, rendering necessary the creation of a defensive organization among the social democratic workmen. This organization, which had the additional object of keeping the party committee informed, made its first appearance during the food strike in 1917. At that time I was working for the firm of Schwartzkopff, where about one-third of the workers were S. D. When the movement broke out in January, I and several functionaries, went to the party committee where we first met only the secretary, Hermann Muller. Muller advised us to pass resolutions in the works, demanding that members of our party committee should enter the strike committee. But this did not appear advisable to us, for it was very questionable whether we should be in a position, under the circumstances, to hold a factory meeting at all. We therefore negotiated immediately with Ebert, Scheidemann, Muller, and Braun. We told them that we should do our utmost to induce the representatives of the functionaries to admit the members of our party committee into the strike committee.

At first Ebert was very gruff, and declared: "I have not the slightest intention of taking part in this movement! Those who have made this bed can lie upon it themselves."

SCHEIDEMANN and Braun were equally unwilling at first, and it was not until after a lengthy discussion that the opinion was arrived at that the members of the party committee, in the interests of national defence, should enter the strike committee, mainly for the purpose of guiding the whole movement into peaceful channels and shortening it.

Chairman: Do you know how the members of the majority S. D. party ("majority" social democrats as differing from the "independents," Ed) entered the strike?

Witness: They entered after the majority socialist workers took part. I assume that the well disciplined right socialist workers took part. I assume that the well-disciplined right socialist workers put pressure on their

The Problem of Bolshevisation

By MAX BEDACHT.

IN his article on the coming session of the enlarged executive committee of the Comintern, Comrade Zinoviev warns against the danger that some organizational principles of Bolshevism will be regarded as the whole of Bolshevism. He points out that after the reorganization of the party on the basis of shop nuclei, the problem will be how to fill the nuclei with life.

This life must spring out of the general Bolshevist orientation of the party; it must be applied Bolshevism. Every manifestation of life of the party, must be Bolshevist, conception, orientation, action.

THE recent discussion in our International against Trotzkyism was a phase in the process of the Bolshevization of the International. The scope of the discussion silenced even the most consistent non-Bolshevist tendencies within the various Communist Parties. The role of the party in the proletarian struggle for emancipation, and the relation of the revolutionary proletariat to the peasants were in the center of the discussion. Thus two most important Bolshevist principles were given intensive consideration; not abstractly but concretely in connection with the Russian revolution and thus with the world revolution. The fight on both of these questions supply theoretical rallying points of non-Bolshevist elements. But the anti-Trotsky discussion in the International has strengthened Communist understanding and has solidified the theoretical basis upon which a Bolshevist party must be built.

ANOTHER important development contributes to the Bolshevization of the Communist Parties. The consolidation of international reaction behind the Dawes plan facilitates the understanding of the imperialist era of today. It shows capitalism at the height of international organization and, at the same time, it reveals its inner disintegration. It demonstrates ad oculus that the era of imperialism puts the proletarian revolution up as the order of the day. It proves that its pesent is unbearable, and that its future holds only two alternatives—its victory or its defeats. Its victory means a twentieth century barbarism intensified by modern technic and science. Its defeat means a proletarian victory and a revolutionary transformation of capitalism into communism. The tasks of the proletarian struggle become clearer every day and block the opponents of Bolshevization in their attempts to cover the revolutionary perspective with an opportunist film of inaction and reformist sectarianism.

ALTHOUGH Bolshevization is much more than merely reorganization, yet the problem of reorganization of our party the Workers (Communist) Party, presents a most important phase in its Bolshevization. If we approach this from the correct angle there will be little danger that we fall into the mistake of overestimating its importance.

In our party, the Workers (Communist) Party, the reorganization is of the utmost importance. In Germany, or any of the European countries, where the political problems of the Communist parties present themselves in form of direct revolutionary problems, the reorganization becomes more naturally the adaptation of organizational forms to the revolutionary functions of the party. In the United States, this is not so simple. Of course the functions of our party are not of less revolutionary importance than those of the German party; nor is the shop nuclei form of organization of less importance to our party just because it is further removed from a revolutionary climax of the class struggle than that of Germany. By no means. But at the birth and the early days of development of the Communist movement of America it has looked for its issues against native social democracy too much in the realm of abstractions or in far away European fields. The differences in the early days of the American Communist movement with social democracy developed more as differences of belief, than of action.

THIS was due more to the immaturity of the movement than to the absence of concrete native issues. Only slowly and gradually did our Communist Party in America learn to function as one. And this development of our party from a Communist propaganda club to a Communist Party is not yet completed. The eggshells of our former existence as socialists still cling to us here and there. So, to a certain degree, the reorganization of our party into shop nuclei is not merely a process of adapting the organizational forms of our party to its necessary functions, but the simultaneous development of Bolshevist functioning and organization.

THE Bolshevized Communist has the revolutionary class struggle uppermost in his mind. All his actions he subjects to his determination of a proletarian victory. For the Communist, the organization, the party, is not an aim in itself. It is an instrument. The quality of this instrument is measured by its usefulness in the proletarian struggle for emancipation. Mere organizational routine means nothing to the party. The question is not how well the inner party organization is functioning, but how well does the party as a whole function outwardly. The smoothness of the inner organizational machinery is important only as far as it facilitates the outward function of the party. In that respect, however, it is of the utmost importance.

REORGANIZATION of our party on the nuclei basis is difficult especially, because of our traditional organizational forms. It is much harder to overcome the natural inertia of tradition than it is to solve the actual technical difficulties. Old traditions have not only preserved organizational forms but also the shortcomings that went with these forms. The principles of federalism underlying ou rold language group organization have permitted enough segregation of the diverse groups within our party that a measure of autonomy of these groups prevailed. With the change of the fundamental organizational principle of our party from that of federalism to centralism we could not revolutionize the practice. Up to this day there are still whole sections of our party living in practical seclusion and in some degree of independence from the party as a whole. It is true that we adopted a new principle. but the old practice remained. Consistent efforts on the part of the party and also much good will on the part of the language sections and members have gradually brought about considerable improvement—but no fundamental change.

THIS condition is decidedly non-Bolshevik. It fosters and preserves a separate loyalty to a subdivision of the party. It develops separate problems that are entirely aside from the political problems of the party. And no matter how intensely the party endeavors to concentrate on its revolutionary duty, some subdivisions of the party are too busy solving their own particular inner problems to participate unreservedly in the efforts of the party.

It is evident that a fundamental change is required to overcome this difficulty. The reorganization of the party into shop nuclei will bring about this change. But at the same time, this reorganization also presupposes a change. It presupposes a Bolshevization of the minds of the comrades.

AT present we meet again and again the argument that shop nuclei are all right in theory but in practice they are impossible in the United States. This very argument is non-Bolshevik. It presupposes a dualism of theory and practice. Such dualism is unscientific—non-Bolshevik. If theory and practice cannot be made to conform then there must be something radically wrong either with the theory or with the practice. The quality of the theory is proven in its applicability. A theory that does not work in practice is not built on realities, and is therefore wrong. A Bolshevist party cannot build on such "good" theories that do not work in practice. Form and activities of a Bolshevist party must be made a perfectly harmonious unit of theory and practice.

WHAT is the theory of shop nuclei?

The Communist Party must be the head of the working class. The head is the most important member of the body. It has the eyes to see, the ears to hear, the mouth to speak; it is the seat of the brain where all impressions concentrate to be digested, assimilated and transformed into action. But the head alone cannot act. A head only functions in connection with the body. This connection is supplied by a system of nerves. Nerves are the conveyors by means of which the body transmits all the impressions it receives to the head, the brain. The nerves are also the conveyors that transmit the understanding, the initiative the will of action of the head to the body. The strike of the fist against the enemy emanates from the head. The nerves convey the will of the head to the arm and fist and that member rises to descend forcefully on the skull of the enemy.

A COMMUNIST party that wants to be the leader, the head of the working class, must penetrate the whole body of the working class with a system of nerves. It must permeate every manifestation of life of the proletariat with an organizational system of nuclei. Every labor organization must be thus permeated.

But the basic labor organization, supplied by capitalist itself is the grouping of larger or smaller numbers of workers at the place of work, in the shop.

All struggles of the working class originate from the relation of that organization to the exploiter. All pressure that drives the workers to fight is applied and felt in the shop. The original form that the worker meets capitalism in. is the relation of the worker in the shop to his boss or the boss' representative. The first form that class solidarity takes among the workers is the solidarity of the workers in one shop. If our Communist Party wants to hear and see for the workers, it must be organized in the shops. If it wants to gain leadership over the workers so that the latter may act in accordance with the party's strategy and tactics, it must be organized in the shop and must thru this organization, thru the nucleus, influence the workers in the shop. Thru party organization in the shop, the party feels the pulse of the working class. Thru the organization in the shop, the party inspires and leads the workers.

ALL these considerations make it imperative that the shop nucleus shall be the basic unit of our party. The reasons why this should be so apply to the United States as much as they apply to any other country in the world.

But, say some comrades, we have some difficulties here in putting the plan into effect. Language difficulties, organizational difficulties, etc.

Unquestionably there are difficulties. However, our comrades must learn to reformulate the problem. Some say now: "There are serious difficulties in the way of that task; therefore we cannot carry it out." They must say: "Our struggle against capitalism demands the carrying out of that task; therefore, let us find ways to overcome all the obstacles in the way."

MANY of the difficulties are already solved—theoretically. The principles of centralization did that for us. All that is needed is to Bolshevize our party and to make our practice conform to our theory. Questions of hall property, printing plants, papers, etc., belong to that category of difficulties. A Bolshevized Communist will consider these questions of very little importance. He will not ask: "What will become of our property," but "How can we organize the most effective attacks against the enemy, against capitalism, with the forces at our disposal?"

To create this atmosphere among the members of our party is the task of our campaign for Bolshevization. But the needs of reorganization do not permit us to carry out that campaign separate from the problem of actual reorganization.

IN our party the problem of Bolshevizing the minds of our comrades and Bolshevizing the forms of our organization must be solved concurrently.

The greatest technical problem of reorganization is presented by the need of propaganda and agitation among those workers in America who do not speak the native tongue of English. But for the solution of this problem the presently existing federations can be preserved. If our party is made a solid, compact organism that draws every one of its members into the general functions of the body, then the federation will no longer be able to act as seggregators by its mere existence.

THE existence of the federations will then supply an additional machinery to the party for foreign language propaganda and agitation. These federations will then no longer be actually parallel organizations to the party as a whole but helpful auxiliaries. Their functions will then be limited not only by a rule on paper but by the fact that the new organizational forms of the party do not leave them any other function except the one that gives them a right for existence.

Here again the Bolshevization of the concept of the membership is needed. The needs of the revolutionary struggle, and the needs of the leading role of the party must be put in the foreground. Instead of a pro branch, a pro-district, a pro-federation atmosphere there must be developed an anti-capitalist atmosphere. The healthy efforts that most of the subdivisions of the party made in the past to co-operate with the party as a whole in the solution of these problems is some guarantee that this spirit can and will be developed and that we will get a party hewn out of one piece.

SINCE the Bolshevization of organization and action must go hand in hand it is clear that a mere technical reorganization does not suffice. The task remains to fill the nuclei with life.

In the "good old days" we had many branches into whose meetings there never penetrated even a whiff of the storm of the class struggle that whistled around the ears of the proletarian masses in the land. Branch meetings in many, too many instances, were affairs where the spirit of the struggle was put asleep in endless and meaningless routine, instead of being placed where this spirit was fanned. If the shop nuclei should only take over these routine functions of many of our old branches, the reorganization would not mean Bolshevization—but only a temporary disturbance of the comfortable sleep of those branches and members. In the last years there was a considerable improvement and our branches have become more lively. But, as I said at the beginning, the eggshells of our former being are still clinging to us here and there.

THE reorganization will help in the solution of the problems. First it will draw every member who works in the shop, into action. And second it will put the problems of party activity up to the members in a more concrete manner than the territorial and language branch form. It will provide very distinct functions, in a very clearly defined sphere of action.

On the other hand the reorganized party will face new problems. Political leadership and direction will have to counter-balance the danger of making out of the shop nucleus an eco-

THE I. W. W. REFERENDUM

THE Red International Affiliation Committee, appointed by the Executive Bureau of the Red International of Labor Unions for promotion of mutual understanding, solidarity and affiliation between the I. W. W. and the revolutionary unions affiliated with the R. I. L. U., considers it necessary to comment upon the results of the general referendum ballot just counted by a ballot committee elected from the I. W. W. members in Chicago.

In so doing, the R. I. A. C. is not moved by any desire to gloat over the confusion and inefficiency within the I. W. W., made evident by the way, in which this ballot was issued and handled, but is attempting sincerely to aid in clarifying issues which it is the duty of the present leadership of the Industrial Workers of the World to explain to the membership at large, and which duty the regular officials are at present shirking.

THE ballot was a very large one, containing 78 provisions to be voted on separately, and carrying also the names of two nominees for the most important office in the I. W. W., that of general secretary treasurer.

It will be remembered that on Dec. 24, 1924, while the ballot was still in the field, the R. I. A. C. issued a statement calling upon both John I. Turner and Arthur Coleman, the contestants for this office, to declare themselves on several most important matters, namely, questions of democratic centralization vs. anarchistic decentralization, for proletarian revolution or for "pure and simpleism," for or against the injunctionites, for or against free and open discussion of policy and principles by the membership in the official press, for organization of the unorganized or for rival unions seeking to destroy other unions, for unity with the Red International of Labor Unions, or for sectarian isolation and impotence, and several other matters.

NEITHER of the candidates made any statement of his attitude on these or any other question confronting the I. W. W. This fact may account for what seems at first sight the absolute indifference and recklessness of the membership at large as to what happened or who was elected—at any rate the figures published in Industrial Solidarity show that Coleman, the "winner," had 587 votes "counted" for him, and that Turner had 579, which added to 94 scattering votes written in on the ballot, gives a total of 1,260 votes out of a membership supposed to be in the neighborhood of 30,000. No more than four per cent of the members took the trouble to vote.

FURTHERMORE, it well known in radical circles in Chicago that some votes, not enough to invalidate our surmise that the stupid silence of the nominees produced indifference in the membership, but still enough to swing the election from Coleman to Turner, were not counted but were thrown out on a technicality.

There were sixteen ballots from Ashtabula which were burned by the branch secretary there for some reason of his own, but which were known of in detail, because the secretary sent in the stubs of the ballots, and the stubs showed how every ballot was voted on every proposition, who voted and who vouched for him. Enough of these votes were in favor of Turner, to have elected him, but they were not counted because the Coleman supporters insisted this was a ballot committee, and could not count stubs! And this opinion prevailed!

THE R. I. A. C. holds no brief for either of these candidates, as in the absence of any declaration of policy from either of them it is impossible intelligently to choose between them. But we do protest most vigorously against the thwarting of the wishes of the members who cast those votes in good faith, and furthermore, in the narrow legalism and formalism shown by the action of the ballot committee we see a strengthening of one of the gravely dangerous mental disorders among the I. W. W. members, an aberration to which we have had to refer several times before: the inclination to childishly trust to the letter of the law, allowing the spirit to die, to repose a primitive confidence in dogmas, magical formulas, and precedent, allowing common sense no scope and frequently coming into conflict with the broad principles of class war, class solidarity, and democracy within the union.

THE vote on the other propositions on the ballot was for the most part in the affirmative. Only four questions were defeated. Many of the changes thus made in the I. W. W. constitution are sweeping, but as far as our careful inspection can determine, rather unnecessary and useless.

For example: years ago the I. W. W. had a general executive board elected by unions; this was changed a couple of years ago to one elected at large; this was abandoned in 1923 for one to consist of the chairman of the general organization committees of the various unions, and now in this referendum, the last form of the G. E. B. is discarded, and we return to the older type of G. E. B. elected one member from and by each large industrial union.

ALL of this "monkeying" with forms is ridiculous; every sort of G. E. B. so far tried will function fairly well if it represents an enlightened membership, and any sort of G. E. B. which is chosen by technicalities and quibbles, by votes of members who have had no chance to freely discuss persons and issues in their organization press, will be unrepresentative, and at the mercy of the mediocrities, nonentities who will compose it. In this latter case there will certainly be continual confusion, internal dissension, and the ever threatening split.

As far as the 78 propositions themselves are concerned, we shall here call attention to but very few of them. In our analysis of the ballot dated December 24 (and mentioned above), we stated that there were but nine of the questions that were worth bothering about. We shall confine our present statement also to these nine.

QUESTION No. 78, calling for the expulsion of Bowerman, Rowan, Ryan, Trotter and Anderson (the injunctionites), carried by an almost unanimous vote. This is proper. Moreover, we hope that the I. W. W. has learned by bitter experience that mere anti-political fanaticism and glib phrases such as "throw out the Communists," cannot serve in place of a sincere belief in all inclusive revolutionary class unionism.

But is should be noted as a warning that 80 per cent of the votes in Rowan's favor came from the west. And there are others still in the I. W. W. who have the same attitude as the injunctionites, who use the same tactics, avoiding only their grand mistake, and who pose as great "rank and filers." If they get leadership in the present gagged state of the rank and file, the ruin they will do will be no less than Rowan's. Let the members be always vigilant of this danger.

THE membership was given the opportunity to repudiate the clause which prohibits other than wage workers from joining, and it did not do so. It was advised by the last convention to abolish job branches, and it did not do that either.

The vote on these two questions is in accord with the R. I. A. C. stand. Likewise ther affirmative vote for question 14, permitting officials to succeed themselves in office, and the vote in favor of question 47, permitting industrial unions to levy their own assessments (in affect allowing a raising of dues in those unions which need it) are approved of by the Reds as measures of efficiency.

ON the other hand, the membership in their present state of confusion and misinformation, have voted to the G. E. B. the right to arrange the agenda of the general conventions, and thereby to control them, which is a gag rule by officials, that we who advocate democratic centralization, insist is neither democratic nor centralization. This is a fine example of how union officials, by gagging the members' right to discuss have induced them to grant permission for their further gagging.

The power of any ruling faction to crush out fair discussion and to abolish differences of opinion is also much increased by a vote to give the convention the right to expel any member whose principles are not those of the I. W. W. Let it be remembered that the last convention, like all before it, refused to state what are the principles of the I. W. W. The result is a situation that is silly, and dangerous to unity.

AT the same time that this increase in authority over the members is granted, the membership votes to decrease the ability of the general headquarters to organize or educate by cutting the per capita in half—from fifteen cents per member to seven and a half cents. Plainly if headquarters is to do anything, if the I. W. W. means anything to its members, they ought to give it more than 90 cents a year, double and not half rations.

There is also, by virtue of the vote on this ballot, an amendment to the constitution which prohibits any officer of a political party from belonging to the I. W. W. Here the anarchistic confusion is clearly shown, because it is also carried in this same ballot that a member of the I. W. W. can become a political officer, i. e., a sheriff, a policeman, a judge, what you will. (Question No. 75.)

MEMBERS of the I. W. W.! Your general constitution now says that if you are prominent in a political party of your own class, you shall be expelled, but if you play dirty capitalist politics, run on the republican ticket instead of on the Communist, and become a member of the capitalistic bureaucracy, that is, an actual wage earner who is sworn to break strikes and send union men to jail, why, you are all right! Or if, like Covington Hall and many other terrible "revolutionists" of the I. W. W., you worked for LaFollette and hoped for a real political appointment, you're a good wobbly if you get it!

The Red International Affiliation Committee, and the Communists within the ranks of the I. W. W., do not believe that this ballot represents the will of the majority of the members on this matter, nor on some other matters mentioned. The smallness of the vote, the fact that the bulk of the vote comes from the "hall-cat" section (the branches in the cities) and not from the jobs, where the real, working members are to be found, shows it.

THIS, and the long, involved and frequently contradictory nature of the ballot, but principally the iron censorship over access to facts or written discussion by the members, everything together combined to defeat the true function of a referendum, which is to find out what the members choose between two or more well understood policies, and give them a chance to elect capable and experienced officials to carry out these policies.

We are forced again to remind the members of the I. W. W. that their organization seems to be absolutely paralyzed. There has not been a large strike won by them for over a year. There is at present almost no organizing going on—the financial reports show that. There are no speakers in the field. The only bit of worth while theoretical matter issued for six months is a single pamphlet by MacDonald; every other piece of literature aside from the periodicals is factional and shamefully poor stuff at that.

The circulation of the papers is down to zero. The general office is cramped now more than ever by lack of funds for educational and defensive purposes. Yet the I. W. W. boasts of its fine principles and dreams of taking over industry.

MEANWHILE, capitalism passes to an ever stronger offensive. Just now the bosses are engaged in actually putting the Industrial Worker where they want it, after it was almost maneuvered there by a couple of blundering editors. Only the practical destruction of I. W. W. job organization in California accounts for the slackening of persecution there; prosecutions increase everywhere else. Nothing is settled, nothing is won.

Many times the Red International of Labor Unions has requested the I. W. W. to pool energies and form a united front with the revolutionary workers of other unions and of other countries for common defense against the capitalistic onslaught, but the I. W. W. officialdom has answered with insults and turned back to its constitutional quibbling.

LET all members who sincerely wish to work for the release of all class war prisoners ignore taboos and prejudices and build a united front from below! Make common cause with the Trade Union Educational League and the Workers Party on this and other pressing issues! In needed practical work learn the futility of sectarianism and constitutional tinking.

How Klintzy Women Textile Workers Live.

IN one of the newspapers I came across an extract from a report in the German bourgeois newspaper, in which was alleged that the women engaged in the textile industries of Klintzy had not been getting their wages for months, that they had been declaring strikes, and similar nonsense.

It is, of course, a brazen bourgeois lie from beginning to end. Here I merely want to tell our German comrades how the women textile workers live here at Klintzy.

In the first place, we get our wages regularly twice a month: 50 per cent in money on the 7th of each month, and 50 per cent in the products purchased on our books at our own co-operative store.

OUR workers 'and peasants' government and our trade uinons take every care to create the best possible living conditions for the workers. Our industry and agriculture are growing and developing day by day, and with the growth of our national economy the life of the workers steadily improves. In our own particular case, we, the working women of Klintzy, have experienced a vast improvement in our living conditions, and this improvement grows year by year along with the growth of our industries.

I MIGHT mention some of our achievements. At each factory there are creches for our children. On going to work we leave our children there (for eight hours), where they get food, clothing and proper care.

During the last few weeks we also opened evening classes, which receive children not only from working women, but also from wives of working men.

The creches enable us also to put our children in safe keeping in our spare time, so that we can attend the club, the theater, the various schools and study circles, and the meetings of the social, trade union and political organizations, in which we take equal part with the working men.

THE working men and women in the textile industry have achieved a good deal of progress in the housing question in 1924. We have four community houses, splendidly equipped, with accomodation for 500 people, of whom 250 are working men.

We have so far established one dining hall (a second one will be opened shortly), at which we get well-cooked and nourishing dinners of two courses, and of three courses on holidays, for the comparatively cheap price of 25 kop. per dinner. Many of the working women take advantage of these dinners to get rid of the drudgery and slavery of the kitchen.

PROTECTION of labor is observed in our factories according to the decrees of the People's Commissariat of Labor, in which the following provisions are made: A woman in pregnancy obtains a vacation of four months—two months before and two months after child-birth; nursing mothers are allowed half an hour interval to feed the baby during working hours; a benefit is paid to every mother of a new-born child; women are debarred from night work for nine months after child-birth.

In the summer time working women have their vacations, which many of them spend at recreation homes, sanatoria and health resorts (those in bad health), thus recuperating their health so that they might with renewed force join in the building up of their proletarian states, in strengthening its power and thereby improving their own lives.

ANOTHER factor for the improvement of the living conditions of the working men and women are the so-called "pioneer detachments," in which the children, beginning from the age of four, obtain a proletarian education, while the working women themselves take part in the organization which looks after the education of their children. We have also art and craft schools, in which young boys and girls are trained into skillful workers, by individual tuition, so that they will subsequently graduate as skilled workers, this we never had before the October revolution.

THIS is how our Klintzy working women live. We would like to exchange correspondence with our comrades, British women in the textile industry. The working women of the textile industry of Klintzy invite you to visit us and to become acquainted with our life on the spot.

A Woman Textile Worker,
Klintzy, Jan. 16.

KLINTZY, Gomel Gubernia.

Dear Comrades,

I should like to tell you about our life and doings, as I often read in the Soviet papers that your bourgeois papers misinform you about the workers in our country.

I work in a leather factory which employs over 200 people, 78 of whom are members of the Communist Party and 45 are members of the Young Communist League. I should like to remind you of the hard times which the workers of our factory experienced under Nicholas the autocrat.

Our employer was the manufacturer, Baryshnikov, who had also a cloth factory employing 2,000 workers.

IN those days, the only solace of the workers was to get drunk, and thus drown all their sorrows. At present, instead of Baryshnikov, the factory is managed by a worker whom we elected. He is the manager of the factory and all the others help him in his work. He does not work under compulsion but of his own free will, for the more we produce the better our own position becomes, and not that of the manufacturer.

WE have our own club where the workers find rest and sensible occupations and amusements after their daily work. The club has study circles on political and trade union questions. It publishes a wall newspaper and has also a dramatic circle, and all this has been created by our workers and they themselves participate in everything.

THE Soviet government's call for increased production met with a ready response from our workers. They make full use of the 8-hour day and hope that in the near future the result will be that our goods will become cheaper and will become accessible to the peasant consumer. We keep in close contact with the peasants of the Sinkovka village. They come to our social evenings, and we go to theirs. We have set up for them a threshing machine at the cost of 1,100 poods of corn. We carry on cultural work among them. These are only a few particulars about our life. I will write you more fully later on.

EXPEL INDIAN COMMUNIST LEADER.

Paris.—Following on the expulsion of hundreds of Italian and Spanish workers who had sought refuge in France from the savage persecution directed against them in their own countries, Comrade M. N. Roy, Indian represetative on the Communist International has been expelled from France by the Herriot government. There are indications that this act of the Herriot government was carried out at the request of England, which has reason to fear the organizer of India's oppressed masses, and has been pursuing him from country to country. Great indignation has been aroused among French Communists by this latest fascist manifestation.

KRASSIN ON FRENCH AGREEMENT.

PARIS.—In the course of an interview given a representative of Rosta in Moscow, Krassin stated that the first steps taken toward an economic rapprochment between France and the U. S. S. R. promise good results. If French concerns are willing to grant sufficient cerdit terms, he said, the Russian market will absorb an immense quantity of the products of French mechanical industries.

MINER SHOWS INVENTIVE GENIUS.

MOSCOW.—According to news received from Lugansk, the head miner, Comrade Simonov of the Sverdlov mine of the Dalzhansk mining district has invented a new hewing machine which gives excellent results. Its distinguishing feature is its lightness (8 pounds instead of the usual three poods), and the ease with which it can be adjusted. With the help of this machine, one can cut the layer of coal into pieces without exploding it first with dynamite. This makes the process of getting coal considerably easier.

Comrade Simonov has also invented a spade to serve out coal, with a capacity of 40 poods; the output equals 5,000 poods in 24 hours. Simonov's invention is being used in the mine with great success.

The scientific-technical department of the Ukrainian Supreme Council of National Economy (V. S. N. H.) has placed the Sverdlov mine at Comrade Simonov's disposal for the trial and application of his inventions.

WRANGEL'S BANDS IN JUGO SLAVIA.

BELGRADE—It is reported that for several days Wrangel has been mobilizing his forces and preparing for an offensive against the U. S. S. R. The Jugo-Slav and Bulgarian governments are actively aiding in the mobilization. Many of the most prominent figures of czarist Russia coming from France, Czecho-Slovakia, Bulgaria and the other countries where they have been living as refugees, participated in a secret conference held at Zemlin (near Belgrade), attended also by a number of officers of the Jugo-Slav general staff and former czarist generals, at which plans were outlined for an offensive against the U. S. S. R.

The counter-revolutionaries are speaking openly of their return to Russia in the near future. They claim that the Balkans will be the counter-revolutionary base, and say the Jugo-Slav army will not take active part in the war, at the start, but will maintain peace in the Balkan countries."

DRIVE AGAINST ENGLISH RAIL MEN.

LONDON—The National Union of Railwaymen and the Association of Railway Employes have presented a national program for wage increases to the companies. The railway directors have not only met the demands of the workers with refusal, but have replied with a counter-proposal for a general wage reduction, ranging from six shillings a week in the provinces to four shillings a week in London.

The demands of the railway workers include a basic wage of 16 shillings a day for mechanics, a minimum of three pounds a week for laborers, the working day and week guaranteed for all railroad workers without distinctions, and pensions from 60 years.

For several weeks the capitalist press has been carrying on a violent campaign against the program of the railworkers. The leaders of the national union say that they are "surprised" by the companies' attack. The rank and file are in no mood to accept a wage cut, and even Cramp, the union secretary, admits that a crisis will arise if the companies persist in their present attitude.

MINERS' SHOP COMMITTEES MEET.

BERLIN—At the conference of shop committees of the miners of central Germany held at Berlin, Comrades Halle, Rozenbaum, Koenen and Stroetzel, delegated by the Communist Reichstag fraction, spoke on the present situation of the miners, trade union unity, the next developments in the struggle of German proletariat, etc. Sixty-five shop committees were represented.

All the resolutions and appeals presented were adopted unanimously. An appeal addressed to all the miners of central Europe spoke of the necessity of realizing a united front of all the exploited and of conquering the trade unions. The appeal referred to the demands of Gotha program, emphasizing in particular: the seven hour shift; wage increases of 40 per cent to meet the increased cost of living; extension of the rights of shop committees; pensions for the aged and invalids fixed at 80 per cent of the regular wage, etc.

Views of Our Readers on Many Subjects

In the Midst of the K. K. K.

Being a migratory worker, hunting my daily bread—migrating from town to town in our so-called civilized capitalist America, recently I have come to a small town, situated in the suburbs of Detroit, Mich., about nine miles for the city hall, called Ecarse.

It is known as a wide open town for immoral purposes and bootleggers who transport whisky from Canada. The prov. of Ontario and the city of Windsor, are just across the Detroit River, therefore, it is easy to bring whisky and beer into this country.

Never did I see so many K. K. K. men as at the Michigan Steel corporation, whic is situated in Ecarse, Mich. In this plant every other worker is a member of the K. K. K. The president, who answers to name of Fink, is a member right alongside of a common laborer. The superintendent, who was advanced recently, to the position of general manager and second vice-president, is also a member of this hypocritical organization. He received a Christmas present from the company of $10,000 company in stock. The workers received none. He has had $75,000 in stock before the present was given to him, thus making him a total of $85,000, plus his yearly salary of $18,000.

The corporation made a net profit—a surplus value, as Marx would call it—of $2,000,000 during the year of 1924. This capitalist enterprise was put up only two years ago and employs about 800 workers. Considering these two facts the company made an enormous profit out of the workers' toil.

I met two comrades, members of the Workers (Communist) Party, working in this capitalist hell.

There's an organized spy system which is so secretly conducted that hardly a man will notice it, and, of course, the K. K. klansmen are the ones who claim the leadership.

If a man employed there shows signs of radicalism he is either immediately "fired" or reduced to the smallest job to discourage him and he quits of his accord.

I've been told by a K. K. K. that they have about 15,000,000 members in this country. "They are," he says, "for the Americanization of all those who wish to be 100 percenters." The others they will deport to their respective lands. He himself is a foreigner. The admission fee is $100.00. He asked me to join this fascist organization, knowing that I am American born. I told him I am a Communist, a Bolshevik, if you like.

But this ignorant patriot let the cat out of the bag before he found out that I am a Communist. He gave me in a haphazard way the following inforation about the K. K. K.:

They want the yellow race driven out of the country; they are against the Jews in the east and their influential power in business; they are against the Negroes, particularly workers, for the mass of Negroes are workers; they are against the foreign born workers because they all come here to preach Communism.

I asked him about the Teapot Dome steals. He replied: "They ought to be severely punished for their crime." I asked him if the K. K. K. ever hopes to control the government. "Thru educational methods and peaceful tactics," says he.

I cited the Herrin riots and others in southern states. His poisonous lips turned blue and exclaimed very harshly, "They were not the work of real K. K. klansmen."

Later on I was told that no Negro workers are employed there. Comrades, we have three Communists toiling there, myself, a Roumanian and an Italian, and I am of the opinion that it is high time we organized a shop nucleus, even at the risk of our jobs. For Karl Marx said that the way to Communism is not paved with beautiful roses. We should always remember this.

Use Cold Logic with Murderers!

To the DAILY WORKER: One of the socialist papers recently published an article named "Blood and Dirt," written by the Jewish "poet," David Einhorn, once a "Bundist," now a yellow, like the paper he writes for, The Jewish Forward. This article is the first of a series to be devoted to attacking the Communists. For he as well as his pal and fellow traitor—the notorious white-guard—R. Abramovitch, were imported here by our yellows to propagate the American workers against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

In this article he criticizes Communists for being so aggressive in their attacks upon their enemies and social-traitors. Why, asks this "yellow," do the Communists apply such names as "Traitor," "Sold Soul," etc.? Can they not by "cold, logical reasoning" convert their enemies? And why did the Communists imprison their "comrades," (!) the mensheviks? These who had united with the Kolchaks, Denekins and Wrangels, who were supported by the capitalists of France, England, America, etc. Why did they imprison these "comrades"? And why did they critisize and fight against the yellow socialists in Esthonia? Why did they not use "cold, logical reasoning" with them?

These yellow socialists in Esthonia in a report to their Second International complained about the "intrigues" of the Communists at the time of the Esthonia revolt. These socialists excuse their actions in the following way: "From a distance our action may appear like counter-revolutionary, but we could not help it. Here was not the question of an uprising, but a conspiracy forced by Moscow... Russian warships were stationed in the waters of Esthonia. With their help the revolt would naturally turn into a successful revolution, and the proletariat would establish its dictatorship over the people." The socialist party of Esthonia according to what they say in their report are satisfied that the bourgeois government of Esthonia was successful in crushing this revolt and maintaining the bourgeois "republic of Esthonia." The socialist party of Esthonia wishes rather the government of the bourgeoisie than that of the proletariat. The Second Internationalists the representatives of the socialist parties in all countries will naturally approve of this action. They will not for a moment consider the contradiction between their action and the theory of the class struggle and revolution, which some are up to the present day meaninglessly preaching.

In the face of these facts this renegade, yellow socialists, asks why Communists imprison and attack so vigorously, these traitors.

Use "cold logic" with them? Use "cold logic" against Kolchak and Wrangel, when the Kolchaks have united with the yellow socialists to overthrow the only workers' republic on earth?

Egeberg, Terror of Gary Steel Mills Stabbed by Laborer

GARY, Ind., Feb. 20.—H. O. Egeberg, employment manager of the United States Steel corporation mills at Gary, is recovering from wounds he claims he received at the hands of Z. Piasco, a Mexican laborer.

Egeberg refused to hire the laborer and ordered him from the employment office, charging him with being a "trouble maker."

Egeberg, formerly a member of the socialist party, is known among the workers in the Gary mills as a tyrant who "never forgets a face." Workmen in the mills who have been discharged for organizing the workers into unions find it difficult to get by Egeberg's blacklist.

The laborer was badly beaten by other members of the steel mills staff, and was thrown into jail.

The May Day will be celebrated by Workers Party, Local Chicago on May 1, 1925 at the Ashland Auditorium.

Comrades—Settle for Lenin Memorial tickets. We want to straighten out all the accounts for this affair.

MUSIC • LITERATURE • DRAMA

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN.

THE Bach mass in b minor, given by the Apollo club at Orchestra Hall last Monday evening, is an interesting combination of modernity and antiquity. It was written nearly two centuries ago. As a mass, then, it is fairly modern, but as music it is old, no antique. It leaves one with a peculiar mixed impression of monotony, and yet a monotony that becomes tiresome only after a few hours.

The mass has existed as a part of the Roman catholic liturgy for untold centuries. In its classic form it has six sections, but Bach, by elaborating the opening section into three parts, the second into eleven, and the third into seven, changed the simple twenty minute service into a long oratorio nearly three hours.

Anyone familiar with the Bach style can understand the sort of music he set to the Latin text. The style of Bach was so hidebound that all his melodies sound alike, tho there may be considerable variation in the actual notes. In all the b minor mass there are only two tunes that stand out as essentially different from the dead level of the composer's style.

It seems as if J. S. Bach never could have been young. All his music sounds like the creation of an old man. But in some of the choruses of this oratorio are passages of a great singing glory of tone unsurpassed because unsurpassable.

There are some fine solos in the work too, but they were all indifferently done by a mediocre quartet of soloists. They were Arthur Boardman, tenor; Emily Stokes Hager, soprano; Florence Evans, contralto, and Robert Maitland, bass.

The psychology of the religious hold on mankind is intimately tied up with works like this mass. Without the masterpieces of architecture, painting and music the church would lose its following. But one may enjoy the esthetic works that religion has turned to its own purposes without in the least subscribing to the beliefs of the church. One may hear the Apollo club sing "Credo in unum dominum, Jesum Christum," without in the least believing in one lord, Jesus Christ, and knowing that thruout the ages the church has been the most reactionary force in society, but nevertheless deriving a thrill of esthetic enjoyment from the chorus.

Harrison Wild, the club's conductor, is on the sick list and Edgar A. Nelson substituted for him. Nelson is one of the ablest musicians in town, as a conductor, organist, pianist and teacher, and gave a characteristically excellent performance.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra accompanied. There was solo work in the orchestra that partly made up for the bad solo voices. Mr. Zukovsky had some extensive violin solos, and Hesselbach and Napolilli did wonders with the obsolete oboe d' amore, dug up to play this old score.

A Communist Defense -

By Walter Frank

TWO articles, "A Communist's Defense" and "Slander, Sluggers, Sleuths—S. P.-ism Up-to-Date," in today's magazine section, deal with the class struggle in cities as far apart as Philadelphia and Minneapolis. One is the speech of a comrade unseated by the labor fakers in Minneapolis because he was a Communist. The other is a description of the Abramovich meeting in Philadelphia.

BOTH are working class history in the sense that they occur as part of the international struggle against world capitalism in all its phases. There is a direct connection between Abramovich of the traitorous Second International and his war on Soviet Russia and the bureaucrats of the American labor movement and their war on Soviet Russia and the Communists.

AS a member of the trade union movement I know that its most sacred principle is the inalienable rights of its members to defend themselves when on trial, and in conformity with the constitution of the A. F. of L. I have right to demand it, and you if sincere, should not deny me that privilege. Since my defense will be based upon my own judgment, upon conditions as I see and understand them, and because you intend to convict me, according to your own judgment, feeling, passion, or prejudices, you cannot be consistent when you deny me the same privileges, that you ask for, and exercise yourself. When you deny me this right, you yourself should be placed on trial for having violated the constitution and principles you pretend to uphold.

TO me this trial is not a joke, it is a serious matter. Charged with fighting against the interest of my class, concerns me more, than any other charge, no matter how grave.

Permit me to say this is the first time, during my eighteen years of humble activity in the labor movement, yes, I say the revolutionary labor movement, in several countries, that such charges have ever been placed against me. But I am not concerned about myself as an individual, but only concerned about the interest of the working class, about the interest of the organization of which I am a member. I am proud of being a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

THE members of this organization are fighting every day courageously, both in and outside of the trade union movement, in the interest of the workers. An organization which is occupying the front line trenches, and are the vanguards and working class shock troops, in the bitter class struggle between the workers and their enemies, the capitalist class and their hired thugs, gunmen, and stool pigeons.

HOW many times have I listened to fakers tells us, that there is nothing in it for us, in our struggle for the workers, but poverty and persecution. Yes, brothers, the workers' struggle is our struggle, and it is a hard road to travel, a stony one, full of persecution, hardships, imprisonment, firing squads and torture. It is a road full of the bones of the victims of several epochs of slavery, and struggle, the bones of heroes of working class revolutionary struggle. They traveled it in Russia, they passed after unbelievable misery, the milestone of tottering czarism and capitalism, and reached the first milestone on the road of working class emancipation, the Soviet Government of Russia.

It is not us, as individuals, that our enemies hate, it is our program.

NOW, brothers, what is it in our program that has caused this brain-storm among our labor fakers? First, we advocated a united front campaign against child labor. You say, so do we. Yes, we admit you are for the child labor amendment. But, brothers; did it ever strike you, that it is meaningless without government maintenace of the children of th ploited workers and poor farmers? Is it not due to the starvation wages paid those workers and farmers, that forces them to drive their children into the mills, mines, and fields, in order to raise the family wage to a level where they can supply themselves with the most meager existence of life?

The workers cannot afford to keep their children in school up to the age of eighteen, they have not got the price. We say, it is the duty of the working class to force our government to levy taxation upon profits and high incomes, to raise the funds necessary for government maintenance of the workers' and poor farmers' children while in school.

WE advocate work or wages for the unemployed. Why are the workers frequently thrown into the streets by the millions, why are they deprived of their right to earn their daily bread, in this land of the "free"? Because when the parasites who own the means and tools of production and distribution, cannot find a market for the wealth that the workers produce, and when there is no immediate prospect for another imperialist blood-bath to drown a few million unemployed wage slaves in, they close the industry. They are not concerned about our welfare, or the welfare of our children. They are only concerned about safeguarding their profits.

CAPITALIST production, is the cause of unemployment, it takes away from the workers the right to work. Therefore, we advocate union wages for the unemployed, to be paid by the owners of industry. That is not charity. We should not ask for charity. We should fight for our right to live, for the right to work, and the right to enjoy the fruits of our labor.

Next to our program is amalgamation of our out-of-date craft unions into industrial unions. This campaign that we are waging in the trade union movement for more modern, more militant and progressive forms of organization and methods in our everyday struggle for shorter hours, better wages, and working conditions, is an exigency, that has ben forced upon us by the rapid changes that have, and are, constantly taking place in our mode of production and distribution, rendering our forms of organization obsolete.

WHETHER you want to or not, you cannot stop the forces of evolution. You are pushed toward new forms of organization or else you have to go backwards, you cannot stay still, stagnation means degeneration and death.

To expect the working class to be victorious in their fights for better working conditions, better wages, shorter hours, etc., against those powerful capitalist industrial organizations with their present out-of-date craft unions, it is too silly to even seriously consider. The capitalists know this, that is why they fight the Workers (Communist) Party and its program savagely, for fear that the workers may learn our program and organize revolutionary industrial unions.

YOU know that you have lost hundreds of strikes because of your bankrupt craft union policy, because of your failure to organise industrially. You must organize industrially if you are to preserve the labor movement. When you begin to amalgamate your craft unions into industrial unions, based upon the revolutionary class struggle, you will begin to travel the road to victory, to real power.

It is true that such amalgamation would cause many of our labor fakers to lose their fat ten thousand dollar a year jobs, and that, they resent. They would rather keep their ten thousand dollar jobs, and let the labor movement go to hell, than to give up those jobs and help the workers in improving their forms of organization. That is why they are fighting us, and in that fight, the capitalist class supports them. That is why they want to expel us, and let me tell you, brothers, that this expulsion of the most active members in the trade union movement is the united front policy with the enemies of the workers.

WE are not only concerned with the immediate everday questions only, but we also know that the workers will never solve their problems permanently until they have destroyed the cause of their misery. Just as true as it is that you cannot cure yourself of any sickness, until you have discovered and removed the cause of that sickness, just as true is it that you will not be able to escape new imperialist blood-baths, new periods of starvation, and unemployment, until you have destroyed its economic cause, namely, our present system of society that boasts of its christian principle, of its civilization, culture and capitalist democracy, but is in reality based upon profit, and murder.

REMEMBER, that the deliveration of America from British imperialism was not done by the ballot-box which is an illusion fostered to safeguard the political state of capitalist dictatorship, but was accomplished by a revolution. How about the chattel slavery question? Was that settled by legislation, by the ballot-box? No, it was settled by civil war. The entire human history is in evidence, that no ruling class ever gave up its usurped power, its privileges, its parasitical existence without a struggle to the bitter end. The climax of the proletarian class struggle is the social revolution, the instrument that destroys a system, that fails to satisfy the needs of the people. Our slogan, as Communists, is "Forward to a united front campaign of all working

Slander, Sluggers, Sleuths—S. P.-ism Up-to-Date

By LENA ROSENBERG.

YOU come over to the theater where the meeting is to be held and if you were not already searched by special plain clothes men one block away from the theater you notice about 25 policemen in the entire block where the theater is.

Then if you are lucky enough to reach the lobby of the Arch Street Theater you come over to the door and show your ticket. Then about 15 plain clothes men who make their living during strikes and happen to know all militants, look you over and if you happen to be one of those who have ever participated in a strike you are told that you can't come in and if you protest you are told by the police to get the hell out or you will be locked up. When I insisted on knowing why they wouldn't let me in, I was thrown out on the sidewalk and arrested.

ANOTHER comrade who is well known to the sluggers for her activity during strikes was told that she can't come in and was also told by the policemen, "You know me, and I know you better, leave before I get rough."

Finally, after a thoro selection of those that they thought were safe, they started the meeting by introducing the chairman and assuring the audience that all precautions are being taken against any disturbance.

Vladeck took the chair and expressed himself as one of those socialists who don't always worry about socialism, we only think of socialism when we have a holiday, all other times we are too busy, busy with our business and other daily problems. After his "wonderful" address he introduced a number of people who greeted Abramovich.

FINALLY about ten o'clock Abramovich was introduced and the audience was ordered to stand up but only some of the audience stood up and they felt very uncomfortable because it is not pleasant to stand for somebody when you notice most of the people remain in their seats and they immediately sat down again.

Abramovich started his infamous address and told the audience that he was sent by the workers of Russia to tell the American people the truth about Russia and that they are being terribly oppressed. Immediately the selected audience began telling Abramovich that he is lying and the police and sluggers were on the job, using their clubs freely as per Socialist Abramovich's instructions. They finally arrested a number of them and Abramovich went on and was going to say something about Lenin when the entire audience started applauding Lenin's name, altho the police tried to stop the applause by hitting some people over their hands; the applause was kept up until they were forced to play the Marseillaise to quiet the crowd.

HE then made another attempt and there was disturbance from all over the hall, cries of "counter-revolutionist," "liar," and many other such pleasant remarks.

Then Abramovich started to yell: "Committee, I can't speak," and the committee, who consisted of thugs and police, got on the job again and clubbed everybody within reach. Those that put up any resistance were thrown into the patrol wagons that were in readiness and taken to the police station where they were registered and put into a cell. It took about 260 policemen to do the job which lasted till about eleven o'clock and yet when Abramovich attempted to speak the disturbance started all over again and he was not heard. The workers of Philadelphia refused to hear his lies.

AS for the prison, a remarkable spirit prevailed. Comrades were singing revolutionary songs and everybody was happy even tho they were locked up.

The comrades who were not arrested were on the job getting comrades out as soon as possible and when we were sentenced to either ten days or $12.50 or five days or $7.50, the comrades who were waiting outside because they were not permitted to stay in emptied their pockets and within an hour or so all those who were arrested at the socialist meeting were released including some non-Workers Party members who were also arrested.

THOSE who were non-party members were very appreciative when they noticed that altho they were not party members they were taken out by Communists and also pointed out that now they see the difference between the Communists and socialists.

I am sure that many of those militant workers who stayed out from the Workers Party will now see the necessity of joining the Workers Party in order to carry on the struggle not only against the capitalists, but also against the betrayers who belong to the socialist party and who are now known as betrayers of the working class all over the world.

IN A GROCERY STORE :-:

By PAUL JOHNSON

IT was an insignificant occurence. Mrs. Jim Duquesne went into the store to buy some groceries. She was forty-five; her face was pale and sallow; her dress, an old suit of blue serge, was wrinkled and shapeless and even had a few tears that had not been patched. She had to wait; there were other customers before her. So she stood obscurely in a corner while the others were being waited on.

Mr. Lunquist came in. He was a portly man of fifty; well dressed, with an air of prosperity and well being. The cleark turned immediately to him, but Mr. Lundquist waved him aside, saying "I can wait. There are others ahead of me I believe." And he too, stepped aside to wait his turn.

"Why, good day, Mrs. Duquesne" he greeted, for the first time noticing the woman. "I did not know you were up and around yet."

"Oh, yes, Mr. Lundquist, this is the second time I've been down town. I'm feeling better now. Yesterday I was down to the village; the day before that I took a walk around the house. Surely I'm feeling better. Next Monday, perhaps, I can come to your house."

"I doubt if you'll be able to do that, Mrs. Duquesne. You had better take it easy for a couple of weeks more. You catch a cold now, after having had the pneumonia, and it would be a mighty serious affair."

"Yes sir, Mr. Lundquist, indeed it would, but I feel that I can make it all right. I'm feeling so strong now that I hardly know what to do with myself."

"But I thought you only got out of bed four days ago?"

"Oh yes sir, Monday it was. But that is quite a time. And I've been taking it very easy ever since. Surely to do a bit of a washing won't be particular hurt."

AT thus juncture a clerk tapped her arm with the curt question: "Will there be anything for you?"

"Surely sir. A sack of flour sir. The small sack, if you have it. Sizes? What sizes have you sir? None less than twenty-four pounds? And how much? Oh, sir, perhaps I had best not get any flour today—the large sack is really too big for Jim and me. We could never use it all. A loaf of bread then—a small one."

She turned back to Mr. Lundquist. "We eat just a bit now, Jim and me. He hasn't eaten anything but tea for a week. Really, I don't care for much either. 'Tis a pity, I suppose, to cheat the grocery men so." She laughed, and turned her attention back to the clerk.

"A little tea, please. About ten cents worth of this bulk. I hate to keep much in the house—its loses its strength."

"We have some in quarter and half pound tins" suggested the clerk. "It will retain its flavor better there."

"Don't bother, sir. The bulk will be good enough."

"How is Mr. Duquesne?" inquired Mr. Lundquist.

"Jim was feeling better a time back, but the last couple weeks he's been worse. He don't eat much; he's getting thin and pale like; coughs considerable. Doctor said he was looking bad, but I figure he'll pull thru all right. Jim always used to be strong and healthy like—that's what helps."

THE clerk's voice again: "Anything else, ma'am?"

"Yes sir. Have you a bit of orange, sir. One or two will be far too many, I'm sure. Jim thinks perhaps he can eat an orange. He won't touch anything else."

"You must pardon me, Mrs. Duquesne," said Mrs. Lundquist. "But I don't follow you. I did not know that your husband was sick. How long has he been ill?"

"It's been all of a year and a half since he was feeling himself. Then he had to quit work. He's been in bed only for a couple months. Of course he was able to get up and walk around a bit at first, but not for a month now has he been out of bed."

"Well, now, that's too bad. I didn't know that. You must pardon me again, Mrs. Duquesne, but how is Mr. Duquesne ailing? I mean has he the pneumonia, as you had, or is it something else?"

"The doctor says it is the consumption, sir. A year ago he wanted Jim to go to the mountains or to the sanatorium, but Jim didn't want to go. 'Twould have cost a good deal, too."

SHE turned again to the clerk. "A pint of milk, sir, if you please."

She walked guardedly to the counter where the clerk waited.

"Thirty-eight cents, ma'm, it comes to."

Mrs. Duquense fumbled thru a tattered black pocketbook and brot forth two nickles, a dime, four pennies, one by one; another nickel—that was the end. She thrust the money quickly onto the counter and started to leave.

The clerk, immediately seeing the shortage, began to count the money loudly, that she might hear. Then, in an embarrassed voice: "The bill is thirty-eight cents, ma'm. This is twenty-nine. Let's see now . . . ." He pondered as tho on a difficult problem in calculus. "That makes just nine cents more."

Mrs. Duquesne fumbled thru her packages, then set them hurriedly down and pretended to ransack her purse. It was empty. She ran her hands thru the two pockets of her dress.

"Here, sir. Take back the milk . . no, the tea . . . no, the bread . . . no, wait. I'll owe you nine cents. Pay you tomorrow."

HASTILY she picked up the packages and turned toward the door. The clerk went to wait on the next customer. Mrs. Duquesne passed Mr. Lundquist as she went out. He lifted his hat. "I hope that Mr. Duquesne will be improving soon."

"Yes sir, and so do I. 'Twill all come about all right tho. You can tell Mrs. Lundquist that I'll be there Monday to do the washing. If she's got any scrubbing or cleaning before then I'd be glad to . . . ."

"All right. But you must not come until we tell you to. That is, before Monday. You must be careful of yourself or you'll be running into con—. Give my regards to Mr. Duquesne and tell him I hope for his speedy recovery."

"Oh, yes sir. I'll not come until then. And thank you. Good bye Mr. Lundquist."

"Good day, Mrs. Duquesne."

SHE was barely out of the door when Dr. Pratt entered. He sighted Mr. Lundquist.

"Good day, Mr. Lundquist."

"How do you do, doctor. Fine weather we're having."

"Yes, very fine; tho a little rain would be of great benefit to the farmers."

"That's true," affirmed Mr. Lundquist. "In fact I believe that if we do not get rain soon the small grains will suffer for it. I was talking to a man from south of town who has two hundred acres in oats. He said that his grain needed moisture badly."

"I guess he's right," agreed the doctor.

"Oh, say, by the way, doctor—do you know of a Jim Duquesne here in town who used to work for the coal company as a driver who has got the consumption?"

"Yes, I believe I do. I was down to see him yesterday, I think it was. The poor devil, he's in the last stage. Nothing I can do for him, nor anyone. I told him over a year ago to go to a sanatorium, but he was stubborn as a bull. He wouldn't listen to me. Don't know as he could afford to go anyway. It's too bad, tough. He's likely to die most any time now. Did you know him?"

"Oh, I'd heard about him. Just a bit curious."

THE doctor waved his hand thru the crowd. "Sorry, but I see my wife, so I'll have to leave you. And say, those people have certainly had bad luck. Mrs. Duquesne just got over the pneumonia. Just one thing after another with them—hard luck."

"Yes, I know" answered Mr. Lundquist as the doctor vanished thru the door.

And Mr. Lundquist, for no reason at all, went to another store to make his purchases.

The Problem of Bolshevization

nomic unit. It will be one of the tasks of Bolshevization to drive home to the members and sub-divisions of the party the fact, that the problem of the party is not that of industrializing itself, but that of politicalizing the working class as a whole.

SINCE capitalism presents itself to the worker immediately in the form of his boss, and since the problems of capitalism are to him first of all the problems of his relations to the boss, his wages, hours, treatment, general conditions of the shop, it will be the great task of the Communists to build on these problems, to extend the view of the worker, to show him in propaganda and action the connections of these immediate and seemingly personal problems with the big problem of society as a whole, and to make the whole shop a driving force, a nucleus within the working class as a whole.

IN the hour when capitalism has reached the turning point of its career, when the class struggle gets nearer and nearer the final climax of a revolutionary struggle for power, Bolshevization of the party becomes a test of the will to struggle and victory. Our party will pass this test. It will build and rebuild the Workers (Communist) Party of America into an irresistible force behind which will rally in struggle the American working class until victory is achieved.

class organizations for the daily struggle and the final victory—the dictatorship of the working class—A workers' and farmers' government."

THIS constitutes my defense against the charges preferred against me for being a member of the Workers (Communist) Party of America. Now either do your dirty work and join the yelping, howling mob headed by our international and local labor fakers and expel me from this Trades and Labor Assembly or do your duty to your class, the exploited workers and poor farmers and protect those who dare to fight in the interest of your class, who dare to speak their mind against the enemies of the working class, the capitalist class, thugs, gunmen, stoolpigeons, and last but not least, by their bankrupt policy, their faithful servants, the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor.

Social-Democracy Strips Itself Naked

leaders. When these gentlemen entered the strike committee, it was not their task to promote the strike; for this their standpoint was too anti-socialist, too anti-pacifist, too much in favor of the commanders in chief of the army. They took part in the strike for the purpose of preventing its taking any great effect, and with the idea of being ready on the spot should something happen.

Bindewald (barrister): Why did the social democratic party not issue warnings against the strike, like the Christian and Hirsch Duncker trade unions?

WITNESS WUSCHIK: If the party committee had been anxious for the strike to last as long as possible, and to be carried on with the utmost energy, all it had to do was to give this advice to the workers, many of whom were opposed to the party committee.

(Vorwarts, Dec. 10, 1924, evening edition.)

WITNESS Wuschik: Certainly. In some works the workers were called up by the military authorities on the third or fourth day of the strike. At that time the Spartacus movement was active in propagating the idea of refusing military service. One workman submitted this question specially to Ebert, and Ebert declared that he could not by any means support this proposition of the radicals; however hard it might be for the individual, the call to military service must be unconditionally obeyed.

(Vorwarts, Dec. 10, 1924, evening edition.)

"Equal Representation."

WITNESS WUSCHIK: However, we did not let loose, and finally succeeded in having three delegates allowed us, the independent social democrats also having three representatives in the strike committee. But we did not obtain this from the meeting itself but from the strike committee, which included Haase, Ledebour and Dittmann. Further hours of persuasion were required before our party committee was induced to exercise influence upon the action, for the purpose of bringing it to an end as speedily as possible. Ledebour exerted his utmost eloquence to prevent the admission of the majority socialists. When he did not succeed in this, he finally observed to me: "Well, Wuschik, now you have throttled the strike, for that is the sole task intended to be accomplished here by your party friends."

(Vorwarts, Dec. 10, 1924, evening edition.)

No Political Demands!

ADOLF RICHTER was then briefly interrogated. At the time of the munition workers' strike he participated in the consultations with the party committee of the S. D. party, as functionary of the trade unions, altho he himself was an independent. According to his evidence, President Ebert declared at that time, in the party committee, that > the party leaders of the German S. D. party would by no means share the responsibility for this strike if political demands should be made in place of the economic demands.

(Vorwarts, Dec. 10, evening edition.)

Eberts' Further Declaration.

I was never of the opinion that strikes could shorten the war. I never said to anybody that he should refuse to obey when called up for military service, much less made a public appeal to that effect. Such an utterance on my part would have been inconsistent with my attitude towards the war before and after the strike.

I DISTINCTLY recollect that at a session of the S. D. party committee at that time the question was raised from another side, of whether punitive commands to join the army should be obeyed or not. We were unanimously of the opinion that, should there be any indication that workers would refuse to obey when called up, this tendency should be decidedly combatted. I also distinctly recollect that I informed the then chairman of the general commission of the trade unions, Bauer, of the views of the party leaders on this subject. Bauer declared himself in agreement with me.

COMMUNIST·CHILDREN'S·COLUMN

Philanthropy: Where the Money Comes From

By MARTIN P. MORRISLY.

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 20.—Here is a picture of capitalism in action that is real food for thought for every child of the working class.

On Jan. 26, 1925, the school board voted to abolish three kindergarten classes and to stop the feeding daily of 30 undernourished boys and girls. In steps our kind benefactor, Mr. Theodore Gerlach, owner of one of the country's largest calendar-making factories. He publicly announces that he will donate $1,105 to continue the feeding of poor children each day. And all the church-going people pray for his soul that he may fly right into heaven when he dies.

But Communists are different. They investigate. And here is the dope on Theodore Gerlach.

In Gerlach's factory is employed the sister of one of the poorly fed kindergarten tots. This girl is sixteen years of age and every day she works in this factory to help support a big family of brothers and sisters. Her job is painting little cards for which up to Feb. 9 she was receiving $1.00 per hundred or one cent a card. Then Mr. Gerlach, the benfactor, ordered a cut in wages. So now she gets only 80 cents a hundred. His reason is that one highly skilled worker in a test case of two weeks continuous speeding was able to earn $35 during those two weeks.

Tho this may sound like fiction, it is the real truth of capitalist exploitation as witnessed in Joliet, Ill.

NATIONAL LABOR CONGRESS OF CUBA IS CALLED UPON TO JOIN FIGHT ON IMPERIALISM

The communication below has been sent by the Pan-American Anti-Imperialist League to the Cuban National Labor Congress, now in session in the city of Cienfuegos, Cuba.

The congress was called at a preliminary conference, December 14, 1924, for the purpose of establishing a national labor confederation in Cuba. No such a central confederation now exists, altho the Cuban labor movement is strong and militant.

At the December conference 70 labor organizations were represented. The yellow Brotherhood of Railway Employes boycotted it, however.

The letter to the present congress is as follows:

To the Cuban National Labor Congress,
Cienfuegos, Cuba.

Dear Comrades:
Greetings!

The eyes of all the workers of Cuba are upon you. And not only in Cuba, but thruout the length and breadth of the western hemisphere—yes, thruout the world—class conscious workers who recognize the essential unity of our struggle are looking to you in hope and expectancy, confident that you will fulfill the important task which history has assigned to you.

It has been a source of wonder to the outside world that Cuba, despite its long record of labor struggles and

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THE conference for progressive political action adjourned sine die after a short and sweet discussion during which words of praise were showered on the heads of the hard-boiled railroad labor leaders by the beaming Morris Hillquit, and the labor leaders had returned the favor by paying tribute to the mental nimbleness of brother Hillquit. No doubt Morris had visions of briefs from the watchful labor fakers, which more than compensated for the regret a socialist would feel in seeing the work of three years of manouvering and belly-crawling going for nothing.

THE conference took place in a room at the Lexington Hotel. The walls were appropriately decorated with dead leaves. Whenever anybody passed by the leaves, they (the leaves) rattled. In fact the leaves were the livest things in the gathering, unless an exception may be made in the case of a vocal delegate from Idaho, who opposed everything that came from the direction of Morris Hillquit, until an S. P. lady delegate took the platform, made a few appropriate gestures and knocked the Idahoan as dead mentally, as the leaves on the wall. But he voted for her motion and so did his wife.

THE officials of the 16 rail labor organizations felt uncomfortable from the start. One could sympathize with them. It was the greatest collection of human freaks out of captivity. The inevitable J. A. H. Hopkins was there with his brief case and as usual he had an organization packed inside of it. He is head of the "committees of forty-eight." That committee was represented by Hopkins and three telegrams, which Hopkins read. After Hopkins got the floor and floated his organizations, he was satisfied and did not care how soon it would sink. Indeed it seemed as if most the delegates came there to make the audience laugh, cry, cheer or go to sleep as it the case might be. After they had performed their particular acts, they went around bearing and air of satisfaction as if to say: "I have made a ripple in this little pond."

THE conference was as cheerful when it reconvened in the afternoon as a condemned man giving his last interview to the press preparatory to going to the gallows. For one thing there was a burden of debt around the C. P. P. A's neck. At first the figure was set at $5,000 but in the afternoon, bills began to emerge from all sides. It was learned that the C. P. P. A. had a skeleton to the tune of $8,000 in its closet for quite some time. This appeared to shock the socialists who expected in inherit a solvent organization. Various speakers mostly socialists, when delivering orations with the object of impressing the labor leaders with their technique, never failed to mention that besides rolling up votes for LaFollette in the last election they also were adepts in the art of rolling up debts. This, was not so good to ears of the "business men."

THE writer had the pleasure of seeing the great comedian De Wolf Hopper play the leading, tho not the title role in "The Mikado." It was an enjoable experience but for rib-tickling merriment the last act of the C. P. P. A. ran Hopper off the boards. Not that the stolid leaders of the brotherhood organizations with one exception, are comedians. No, they are very serious persons and stand on their dignity. They are not comedians, but there is one clown

MILITARISTS TALK PEACE; READY FOR WAR

United States Hogtieing Its Enemies

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The British government is willing to enter into a disarmament conference with the United States "no matter how wide the scope," it was said at the British foreign office today.

The British government has not, however, received from the American government any definite proposals for a disarmament conference, the foreign office asserted. It said that England would "welcome" such an invitation from the United States.

"Barkis Is Willin'"

Great Britain is willing, too, that the conference should be held in Wasington. This is in contrast to the policy of the MacDonald government, which insisted that the conference must be held in Europe.

The conference should not be called until autumn because of the question of French security still being unsettled, the foreign office pointed out.

WOMEN LOSE FIGHT FOR IMMEDIATE RIGHT TO VOTE IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Eng. Feb. 22.—Women lost her battle for immediate equal suffrage in England when the house of commons today passed the administration amendment to the electoral bill, 220 to 153.

This action has the effect of delaying the electoral reform in behalf of women until possibly 1929.

The "immediate suffrage," amendment was submitted by Whitely, laborite. It provided for the enfranchisement of all women over 21.

Detroit and Toledo Jobs Disappear

DETROIT, Feb. 22.—There are 50,000 fewer jobs in Detroit in February, 1925, than a year ago, according to the employers' association. Members representing about two-thirds of the total employment in the auto city have 207,107 on their payrolls compared with 241,402 a year ago, a reduction of 14 per cent.

• • • •

TOLEDO, Feb. 22.—Employment in Toledo is off more than 18 per cent compared with February, 1924. The 51 plants reporting to the merchants' and manufacturers' association show 22,816 employes. A year ago they had 27,919 on the payrolls. For the entire city this means 15,000 fewer jobs.

TEXTILE BOSSES KILL CHILD BILL THEN ASK LONGER WORKING DAY

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 22.—Ratification of the child labor amendment was defeated by a 33 to 1 vote in the state senate. An advisory referendum had already gone against the measure, at the November election. The lower house defeated ratification by a vote of 204 to 9.

Two bills for the termination of the 48 hour law are being supported by Massachusetts textile interests in hearings before the committee on labor and industries of the state upper and lower house. One bill would substitute the 54 hour law for the present 48 hour limit. The other would suspend the 48 hour law for a two year period in favor of 54 hours.

The associated industries of Massachusetts and the Arkwright club, an organizaiton of textile men, are furnishing the long hour arguments at the hearings. Organized labor is fighting for the retention of the present law.

GIRL PICKETS GET GARMENT WORKERS OUT

New York Strike Gets Bigger Following

By ESTHER LOWELL,
(Federated Press Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The logic of a 20 per cent wage increase and shorter hours of work is appealing to the non-union workers on children's dresses and women's silk and muslin underwear to such an extent that daily increases in numbers come to the ranks of 20,000 ladies' garment workers striking in these trades.

To many of these unorganized workers called out by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, wage increases of 120 per cent

GOOD MEETINGS AT DUBUQUE AND CLINTON, IOWA

Militants Heard First Communist Speech

By DAVID COUTTS.

CLINTON, Ia., Feb. 22.—Our meeting at the Labor Temple in Clinton was one of the best spirited we have had in the Iowa organization campaign which is now being carried on by J. E. Snyder, district organizer, assisted by David Coutts.

At this meeting the trade union members were in the majority and listened attentively to the speakers. The questions asked regarding the policy, tactics and program of the Workers Party showed those workers to be well above the average in intelligence and militancy.

Clinton has a trade union membership of about two thousand today. They went thru the railroad shopmen's strike with their locals almost intact. There was, at one time, a good socialist local here and following that they elected a number of workers to city and county offices on a labor ticket. The experiences fol-

COOLIDGE MAY SOON BE EATING SPAGHETTI WITH FINGER NAILS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Economy, like the cat, came back on President Coolidge.

Irritated by the extreme dullness of a knife eraser he had been using for some time, the executive sent into the outer officer for a new and sharper one.

"Sorry" was the prompt reply, "but in the effort to meet the additional economy program, there are no more knife erasers in stock."

SCAB CLOTHING MILL BANKRUPT

The federal district court has appointed a receiver for the Daniel Boone Woolen Mills, the concern that tried to fight its striking garment workers in Rock Island with injunctions last summer. The receiver is Edward Brundage who has been out of a public job since he was defeated in his race for re-election as Illinois attorney general in 1924. Brundage is the man who tried to hank Illinois miners after the Herrin mine war of 1922. The jury acquitted all defendants.

JAPANESE MARCH IN APPROVAL OF SUFFRAGE BILL

Seven Hundred Police Protect Diet

TOKIO, Feb. 22.—Unprecedented scenes attended the introduction in the diet today of the universal manhood suffrage bill.

A cordon of police numbering 700 surrounded the diet building, fearing raids by massed bands of the bill's opponents, who were assembled in a nearby park ready to storm the diet if the occasion offered.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent the admission of unauthorized persons to the diet building in order to protect the suffrage supporters.

Both supporters and opponents of the bill held mass meetings and paraded.

Suffrage opponents claim the measure is disruptive of the ancient Japanese family system which is typified by the imperial family.

Viscount Kato and other members of the government addressed the diet supporting the measure while leaders of the Siyeuhon party, led the opposition.

Despite the violent protests of the opponents of the bill, its passage is regarded as certain.

"LOONEY GAS" VICTIM DIES

REPORTS ON SITUATION IN BUILDING, METAL AND PRINTING INDUSTRIES, AT GENERAL T. U. E. L. MEETING, FEB. 25

The next regular monthly meeting of local Chicago of the Trade Union Educational League will be held on Wednesday evening, February 25, in North West Hall, corner Western and North avenues.

Comrade Jack Johnstone, secretary of the national committee of the T. U. E. L., will tell of the present situation in the Carpenters' Union, where Hutcheson is leading a campaign of expulsions in Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Reports on the activities of the militants in the unions in Chicago will be made at the meeting. Particularly interesting are the reports regarding the situations in the metal, printing and building industries. Following the reports, discussion will take place in which those who are interested are invited to take part. These meetings of the Chicago T. U. E. L. are gatherings of all trade union militants who are fighting for progress in the unions. The problems confronting them in their struggle are discussed and every militant, irrespective of the union he belongs, gets a comprehensive view of the situation in every union.

Earl Browder, acting secretary of the Workers Party, will give his review of the international situation. In view of the tense situation in Europe, Browder's summary of world conditions should prove unusually interesting.

Readers of the DAILY WORKER as well as all trade unionists and members of the Workers Party are invited to attend.

TREATY GIVING ENGLAND PALESTINE MANDATE IS REPORTED FAVORABLY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.— The Palestine treaty, between the United States and Great Britain for the establishment of a British mandate in Palestine was favorably reported today by the senate foreign relations committee.

The treaty provided for the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine and recognized the Zionist organization as an official agency for the development of the country.

TAKE 49 MINERS' MANGLED BODIES FROM MINE PIT

Local Union Plans to Provide Relief

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 22.—Forty-nine smashed and mangled bodies have been taken from the City Coal company mine and two more lie 300 feet in the depths of the wrecked mine.

Union Handles Situation

Tons of slate have fallen from the roof of the mine since the explosion which killed 51 members of the Sullivan Mine Workers' Union. "There are about ninety three of us left," O. C. Thomas, checkweighman for the union, who is identifying the bodies, said. "And we'll pay the expenses of the funerals."

The mine is about 320 feet deep and has been in operation for two years. Up until the time of the explosion, the mine produced an average of 1,000 tons of coal per day, most of which was shipped to Chicago. The ownership of the mine has nat been made public.

Will Resume Operation

Adjustant General Kershner when asked whether the national guard would be called out said, "The Sullivan County miners have a strong organization which I believe will be able to cope with the situation."

Survivors of the disaster predicted that the mine would be in operation again within two weeks.

Worst Disaster in Years

A. C. Dally, state mine inspector, said that the disaster was the worst mine catastrophe in Indiana in many years. Dally has been in charge of the rescue work. The mine is comparatively small, and had been worked intensively, with modern machinery. Huge dynamos generate electricity to run the conveyor in which the coal is moved to the surface. The mine is located on a tract of land 277 acres in extent.

National guard units will be dispatched from Terre Haute to aid in relief work if Dally requires them.

THIRD PARTY HOPES BLASTED BY RAIL CHIEFS

Leave Progressives and Socialists in Squabble

The long-heralded convention of the conference of progressive political action was broken up by the railway brotherhood chiefs' refusal to take part in a third party.

A national provisional conference for the formation of an independent political party, which was held following the adjournment of the C. P. P. A., was demoralized by the withdrawal of the railroad union heads and doomed by the lack of any sort of mass character, thus failing to accomplish its purpose.

Shepherd Turns on Cold Water.

From the beginning, the third party was doomed. Delegate Shepherd, head of the railway conductors and spokesman for the recalcitrant brotherhood chiefs, threw the first panful of cold water when he submitted a resolution that would have the delegates say:

"It is the sense of this body that a new party should not be formed."

His proposal was not very well received and was followed by amendments and a substitute asking for the formation of all kinds of new parties. But the brotherhood chiefs were firm. Their better business judgment, they said, told them the time was not ripe for a new party and that for the present they were determined to continue the policy of "reward your friends and punish your enemies."

Hillquit Urges Labor Party.

Morris Hillquit, representing the executive committee of the socialist party, brought forward an amendment to provide for the immediate organization of an American labor party. It should be patterned after the British labor party and should be based on the principles of "industrial and political democracy."

When charged that these were socialist principles, it was pointed out that the phrase is a common inhabitant of American Federation of Labor documents.

When it was seen that the brotherhoods were definitely not to be considered, a fight started between the progressives and the S. P. over the character of the new party. The progressives didn't want another socialist party, they said. They wanted a party to represent the five million citizens who voted for LaFollette.

Hillquit saw the breakers ahead. The wealthy New York lawyer summoned his greatest powers of oratory. Let us agree at least that we want a new party. Very well, the progressives said, we will agree to that, but we will insist on our own kind of party.

Debs Speaks; Hillquit Dickers.

The brotherhood chiefs had invited them to go and organize a new party if they wanted one. Hillquit got worried. To give himself time to plead with the brotherhoods to get out and let the party boosters have the hall, he urged Debs to rise and

FORD EMPLOYES WIN STRIKE IN DANISH FACTORY

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 22.—The workers at the Ford company's motor works won a strike after twenty-four hours, when the Ford company gave in to their demands that a painter who had been discharged be put back to work.

The Ford plant is swamped with quick delivery orders, and faced a serious situation. The reason given for discharging the painter was that he "spilled water an a newly painted car."

"THE YOUNG WORKER," SOON TO BE WEEKLY; PROMISES TO BE KEEN WEAPON IN FIGHT ON CAPITALISM

By BARNEY MASS

Efforts are being made to have the "bible-in-the-schools" bill adopted nationally. This bill provides that ten verses from the bible be read every day and become a regular item of the curriculum of the schools. It is now up before the Ohio legislature, New York and other states. It is gradually being spread to embrace the entire country.

In Cleveland the national committee of the league has instructed the local organization to join up this issue with the struggle against child labor. To establish conferences with representatives from working class organizations to carry on the struggle.

With the Young Worker to come out every week instead of once in two weeks, the fight against child labor, bible bill and the like, will gain a new impetus. It will contribute in a major degree to rally great numbers of young and old workers for our fight. To fight effectively against such arbitrary legislation, means also working for the building up of the Young Worker. With a weekly, our message will permeate larger and larger numbers of young workers. As a means of abolishing child labor, preventing the enactment of the "bible bill," opposition to state constabularies. Insure the life of the Young Worker as a weekly organ of the militant young workers in this country.

among them and he stayed, like the boy on the burning deca "when all but he had fled." The clown of the show was William H. Johnston, or "B. & O. Bill" as he is now baptised.

IT was a rather lively convention in the sense that a madhouse is lively, except when the chairman, Johnston, attempted to collect enough money to pay the indebtedness of the C. P. P. A. The silence was everything but golden. One socialist, who hoped against hope that the S. P. still had a chance of capturing the convention put up one hundred dollars. Other seasoned veterans of many such fiascos, asked each other: "What's the matter with Vladeck?"

THE brotherhood officials are busy business men. They did not want to waste their time any longer. Sheppard of the conductors was their chief spokesman. He wanted the C. P. P. A. to go along in its established rut and suggested that those who did not like that policy might politely go to pot. It was a short speech and not eloquent but there was some power behind it. Morris Hillquit rose, stepped catlike to the platform, smiled sweetly in all directions, particularly at the bushy hiruste annex in which Sheppard's upper lip is ambushed. Hillquit made a good speech—for the purpose. That must be admitted. He pictured the fossilized labor lakers in front of him as potential MacDonalds, Hendersons and Sidney Webbs, who had the pleasure of kissing the king of England's toe. The lips of the labor fakers moistened but they withstood the temptations.

HE did not mention endowed automobiles or shares in biscuit factories, but most of the labor leaders in front of Hillquit owned labor banks and could buy out the British royal family. Hillquit's speech won the conference for the immediate formation of a party, at least the applause was heavy. But it was not any heavier than the enthusiasm of the labor leaders. One by one they got up and said that they were business men and could not commit their organizations to Hillquit's program, much tho they sympathized with the beautiful ideals that Hillquit cherished. They were friendly enemies.

THE last straw that broke the brotherhood camel's back was the failure of the gathering to talk money when the chairman very patiently allowed plenty of time to lift the burden off the shouders of the staggering C. P. P. A. Visions of the July 3rd conference rose up when Brock from Detroit, a delegate from the brotherhood organizations, reminded the socialists and others that they were the guests of the C. P. P. A. and should act with becoming decorum. It was John Fitzpatrick's speech to the Communists now directed at socialists. Both the socialists and the ex-socialists who constituted the great majority of the conference were glad to get rid of the brotherhood convention vote if not of the brtherhood support. But when the brotherhoods made themselves scarce and the socialists thought they had the convention by the neck, the real trouble started. It was a case of dog eat dog.

BEFORE the C. P. P. A. took the potion which sent it off into eternal sleep Eugene V. Debs, was put up by the socialists to make a speech. The party was getting rough about now and Hillquit feared that the brotherhoods would leave hurriedly or call in the cops and eject the poor relations. Debs, who rarely if ever attended a socialist party convention, was dragged into this gathering of freak-frauds in order to capitalize the respect that his personality has earned for him. His speech was old and stale but it a typical old-fashioned speech and he even used the word "revolutionary" once. The Milwaukee Leader delegation gasped.

WHILE Debs was wasting his breath on this collection of adventurers labor lakers and nondescripts, Morris Hillquit was dickering with Robertson, Sheppard, Mannion and the other railroad chiefs. When Debs got thru, Sheppard announced that the C. P. P. A. conference had adjourned sine die and those who wanted to form a new party could hire the hall if they wanted. Hillquit said this was entirely satisfactory. As these lines are written the third installment of the comedy is taking place. But if "sine die" means anything the C. P. P. A. is dead and the S. P. is frantically loking for a shroud in which to envelop its own corpse.

STRIKERS SPURN 10 CENTS RAISE OFFER OF CITY

Rubbish Clutters All City's Streets

Twenty-five hundred striking street cleaners, garbage collectors and dump wagon teamsters, employed by the city of Chicago, voted unanimously to reject the offer of commissioner of public works Sprague of a raise of ten cents per day.

The men struck following the refusal of Sprague to grant their demands of an increase of fifty cents a day. Michael Carrozzo, president of the street Sweepers and Cleaners' Union, Local No. 361 was given sole power to act as the representative of the strikers, and was given power to settle the strike on what terms he thoughts fit. However, they flatly rejected the offer of Sprague.

Strikers Hold Meeting

"We are making no attempt to institute any regular picketing," said Carrozzo. "We won't need to. The city streets are already filled with debris and garbage that the city has been unable to clear away." Carozzo told the strikers at the meeting, held in Musicians' Hall, 175 W. Washington street, that his union demanded that the finance committee of the city council provide funds to give them a decent wage.

Carrozzo received a letter from Commissioner Sprague stating, "I will recommend to the finance committee the rate of $5.20 for street repair men, $5.10 a day for street laborers without uniform and $5.20 a day for uniformed laborers, and $8.00 per day for section foreman." This was an increase of ten cents a day, which the strikers unanimously rejected.

A conference will be held between Carrozzo and Sprague on Tuesday afternoon, at which the city will be forced to accede to the strikers demands, according to several of the union officials.

FASCISTI FEAR REVOLT OF REDS IN BULGARIA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 22.—A state of war has been instituted throut Bulgaria by the fascist premier, Zankoff, who fears that Bulgaria is on the eve of a revolution led by the Communists. Clashes have occurred between Bulgarian fascists and Serbian workers near Zaribrod, it is reported. Two were killed and several wounded in the fighting.

The united opposition parties have again appealed to the king to demand the resignation f the fascist premier. Most of these parties declare they want a democratic-pacifist government, "as the only means of saving the country from a Bolshevist revolution."

STATE MEDDLING IN TRADE UNION WORK IS THREAT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 22.—Assemblymen in the Illinois legislature today launched an attack on the labor unions, and threatened to enact legislative control of the unions.

James Curran of Chicago, one of the representatives making the attack gave as his reason that "a man cannot join a union, no matter how skilled he may be, unless some of his relatives belong to the union." Representatives Lee Brown of Ottawa, and John Clark of Decatur, also attacked the unions.

The reasons given for the attack, trade union members stated, were used as a cloak to hide an attempt to break up the trade unions by means of state regulation.

Still Have Hopes.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 22.— Illinois yet may collect the $97,000 inheritance tax claimed to be due from the estate of the late Delavan Smith, Lake Forest millionaire publisher of the Indianapolis News, it became known at the office of the attorney general today.

REPORT TOMORROW AT WORKERS PARTY OFFICE FOR POLL DUTY

The local office of the Workers (Communist) Party calls on all party-members available to report at the local office, 166 W. Washington St., Room 303, for duty as poll watchers. The four Communist candidates are expected to receive an excellent vote, and it is up to us to see that this vote is counted. Watchers are needed thruout the day, from nine in the morning until six at night.

Third Party Hopes Are Blasted As Rail Chiefs Quit

make a speech. While Debs made a socialist propaganda talk lasting an hour, Hillquit flitted about the hall whispering to the labor aristocrats.

It is quite certain 'Gene Debs was not expected to make the kind of speech he did. He was told to speak for a new party. He did in a way, but he wasn't on his feet five minutes before he forgot where he was and launched into one of his propaganda talks of the old days. The "progressive" women gasped, the rail chiefs squirmed in their seats.

"B. & O." Bill Nervous.

"B. & O. Bill" Johnstone, the chairman, became nervous. He tapped furtively with his gavel for Debs to stop. 'Gene didn't hear.

"There are two classes in society. The working class and the possessing class. These classes can never be reconciled." It was pitiful. There he stood propounding the doctrine he has been preaching for thirty years, and there sat before him a convention of class collaborators, socialist renegades and middle class politicians.

How the Trick was Played.

In the meantime, Hillquit did his work. The rail union heads agreed to withdraw. The C. P. P. A. adjourned sine die. A session was called for the evening.

The credentials committee report showed that labor representation to the convention was practically nonexistent. A half dozen local labor bodies, three state federations had sent credentials, but the delegates were not present. The rest were from the socialist party, state committees of the C. P. P. A. and an array of "progressive" groups of doubtful standing with the officialdom of the Amalgamated, I. L. G. W. U., and Furriers' Union. A few local and county labor parties were seated without a vote. When the night session convened to organize the new party, the alignment was clear.

There were two distinct forces at work. The socialist party fighting for its skin in Hillquit's demand for an American labor party, and the progressives trying to launch a liberal movement to pick up the loose political ends of the LaFollette campaign.

Then the Fun Began.

The "progressives" fired the first gun. They submitted a resolution favoring a national progressive political party based on individual memberships. The socialists re-introduced Hillquit's proposal for a labor party. Then the fun began. First a socialist speaker would arise and boast of the good behavior of the S. P. in the LaFollette campaign and say that the socialist party had no intention of capturing the convention for socialism.

Then a progressive would get up and say that he would have nothing to do with a party anything like the socialist party. And so it went.

Hillquit was asked a direct question by one of the delegates as to the willingness of the socialist party to lose its identity in the new party. Hillquit smiled and said the socialist party lost its political identity three years ago and that it wishes to continue merely as an educational medium.

The "progressives" were plain spoken. McKaig of Idaho, said, "The socialists have got to forget their party, if they want a progressive party. The moment you stick this class conscious stuff over, you lose Idaho.

Delegate Johnstone, a doctor of divinity from Maryland, charged the convention with organizing a movement away from LaFollette and predicted its downfall.

The further the debate advanced, the more complicated matters became. Johnston was in a quandary As chairman, he very seldom knew what was before the house. As a matter of fact, nothing was. Motions were made, seconded and forgotten only to be succeeded by other motions. No relief was in sight. It was finally proposed that a committee be appointed to bring in a report on the character of the future party.

Submit Two Reports.

Two reports were brought in, Sunday morning, after Johnston, presumably suffering from the effects of a very bad night, had thrown another pail of cold water in his opening address.

One, the majority report, submitted by Hayes of New York, reiterated the progressive demand for a party based on individual memberships and geographical lines with the compromise that the executive committee of the new party could use its discretion in admitting labor groups. George Roewer, Jr., for the socialists, submitted Hillquit's labor party proposal as the minority report.

are likely, if they win their shops te

Debate Takes on Blue Tinge.

The fight began all over again. The same speakers arose and said the same things they had said the day before, but more briefly and disconsolately. Both sides seemed to sense that no agreement would be reached. Hillquit arose and made his last stand. "We socialists have been charged," he said, "with moving too fast. It requires a lot of imagination to think that. We have been procrastinating for three years."

Praise for Communists.

Mrs. Meserow, socialist delegate from New York, was the only one who made mention of the Workers (Communist) Party. She spoke of the great mass meeting the W. P. held in Madison Square Garden on the occasion of Lenin's death. She said the Communists know how to organize. They are the real party of the left. The socialist party was far to the right and very close to the progressives, for which reason she did not see the necessity of the socialists and progressives meeting on any but common ground.

A motion was finally made to table the minority report, Hillquit's resolution. The motion carried by a vote of 93 to 63. The motion of Hayes to organize a progressive party on state lines leaving the affiliation of outside groups optional on the part of state organizations was adopted.

Another resolution providing for the chair to appoint a committee of five to co-operate with progressive organizations in the several states looking toward the calling of a national progressive convention at a later date, was presented.

The socialists were left out in the cold. They voted for the latter recommendation and gave up the ship. The convention adjourned.

If the sessions of the convention were nothing else, they were amusing. Never was a more motley gathering of political free-lancers brought together. The delegates represented for the most part only themselves. The predominating atmosphere of the convention was distinctly middle-class. Its outstanding features were the burial of the socialist party of America and the passing of the C. P. P. A.

Even the Democrats of 'The Solid South' Don Mask of 'Progressivism'

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the politicians put on their "progressive" masks and energetically prepare, not only for the congressional elections of 1926, but also for the next national presidential campaign in 1928.

Every capitalist from "Cal" Coolidge, the republican strike-breaker, to "Vic" Berger, the "socialist" red-baiter, prides himself on being a "progressive." His job is to make the masses believe that this "progressivism" is in their interests.

• • • •

Berger's socialism is being unmasked on an international scale as a close ally of fascism. Coolidge's reaction, thru its daily deeds, reveals itself it to the workers and poor farmers in this country, and thru its imperialist ambitions unfolds its threat to the workers of the world.

It is here that the democrats inject themselves into the situation, claiming to be the only real "progressives." They are out of office, on a national scale, and can therefore afford to be very explosive in their contentions. They need to shout loudly to make their victims forget democratic crimes in those states where the donkey party is in power, especially thruout "The Solid South."

• • • •

Several conferences of democrats are promised for the immediate future, in which the labor aristocracy will no doubt seek to play a prominent role, now that it has practically dumped its Conference for Progressive Political Action. There may be an "eastern conference," a "western conference" and a "southern-western conference," representing as many divergent tendencies in the party. And there are different sections of the labor aristocracy tied up with all factions.

The McAdoo elements have their strength in "the west" and denounce Tammany Hall in "the east" as a part of the "money mart of the world." But Tammany Hall boasts the support of the whole official labor regime in both New York city and state. In the McAdoo camp, more open from now on, will be found the railroad brotherhood chiefs who have been so conspicuous in the "C. P. P. A."

But even the democrats of the late slave-holding southern states claim to be "progressives." From the most backward section of the nation, where labor is unorganized and kept in the deepest misery, they hurl their invective at Tammany Hall control of the party. It also boasts its "labor" wing in George L. Berry, the strike-breaking president of the International Printing Pressmen's Union.

• • • •

The different brands of democratic "progressivism" may well be judged from the fact that it is in democratic New Jersey, in the East, that strikes are being continually broken, like the silk strikes in Paterson; that it is in democratic Colorado in the West where Rockefeller rules, and ruthlessly crushes the workers in the steel mills and the coal mines; that it is in democratic Alabama in "The Solid South," where every effort of the coal miners and the steel workers to organize and better their conditions, has been met with the "Shoot to Kill!" orders given the state militia called to battle labor on the field of the class war.

• • • •

It is said that the first democratic conference will be held in St. Louis in April, on the anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, the slaveholder, typical of the southern democracy of today. It will be well for the workers and poor farmers to watch this conference, especially to become better acquainted with the brand of "labor faker" that will participate therein.

• • • •

Coolidge, at present the avowed instrument of Wall Street rule, stands in the open. He will be pock-marked with capitalist crimes before his next term expires. He will without doubt become a thing for loathing in the eyes of increasing millions of workers. Then the capitalist politicians, with their "labor lieutenants," will trot out the donkey party once more, seeking to peddle its assininity to the whole working class.

It is a good time for the workers and poor farmers to awaken to this situation now, as the initial moves to put it over are being made.

It is a good thing to remember that Woodrow Wilson, the democrat, was one of the best presidents that Wall Street ever had.

It is a good thing to remember that the Workers (Communist) Party is the only party that fights against capitalism, to achieve its abolition, and to usher in the rule of the producing masses.

Against the "progressivism" of the capitalist ruling class the revolutionary action of the workers and farmers!

"YOU PUNISH BUT DO NOT PREVENT CRIME," SAYS RED

Communist Legislator Attacks System

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 22.—When a bill proposing punishment from 16 years to life imprisonment for "hold-up" came for consideration before the lower house of the North Dakota legislature last Saturday afternoon, Feb. 14, it caused considerable opposition from the progressive members of that body, but the strongest opposition was voiced by the lone Communist member of that body, Comrade A. C. Miller of Williams county.

He pointed out where bankers in his home county had been charged with embezzlement of about seven hundred thousand dollars of both private and public funds and asked whether there was much difference between the crimes committed. "If you will include embezzlers in that bill, I will support it, but otherwise not," said Miller.

At another point Comrade Miller called the attention of the house members to the fact that altho bills were being offered to make laws more stringent for the punishment of crime, nothing had been offered yet for the prevention of crime.

He told them that unemployment and uncertainty of life was the chief cause of crime. "I have a paper in my pocket carrying the news item that alone in the city of Cleveland, Ohio, there are 50,000 men out of employment," Comrade Miller said.

Miller, a gray haired farmer of Williamson county, altho the only member of the Workers (Communist) Party in the legislature, has distinguished himself on several occasions with sharp remarks on the present-day "shortcomings." Whenever Miller gets up to speak on any subject, he is sure to attract the attention of every member of that body, as well as the crowds in the galleries.

Many of the non-partisan league members of the assembly feel that Comrade Miller "always knows what he is talking about," as one member put it to the writer.

Girl Pickets Get Garment Workers Out in New York

are likely, if they win their shops to the union. Girls in one of the children's dress shops which came out on strike call were getting only $14 a week, they tell the union organizer. Men with families in the same shop made only $20 and the highest paid workers in the shop got $22.

Girls Rally to Picket Lines.

Employers who have refused before to deal with the union express their dismay to the pickets at their success in winning non-union workers from the shops. In spite of daily arrests of 10 to 15 pickets the strikers maintain a steady battle line from 7 in the morning until 7 at night.

Girls come from their homes far in the Bronx or in Brooklyn early in the morning for picket duty. During relief they attend strike meetings in various halls, hold shop meetings to encourage one another and decide strike tactics for their group. I heard one of the Negro girls energetically urging a Jewish girl from her shop to get out on the picket line earlier, saying that she herself had to come from Flatbush, nearly an hour's ride before 7.

Workers Not Bluffed Easily.

The union workers are used to the police and the hired private detectives and professional strikebreakers brought in by employers and are undaunted. The more timid unorganized workers just stay away entirely in some cases. Others attend the strike meetings where musical programs, educational speeches and other diversion is offered.

There is no association of children's dress manufacturers, but there is one among the underwear men. Settlement committees of the union will continue meeting individual employers who are ready to come to terms.

Mangled Remains of Dead Miners Are Taken from Coal Pit

Troops have not yet been requested.

Inquiry To Be Started

Fire damp following the explosion was given has the cause of the deaths of the 51 miners. The bodies were so badly burned that identification had to be made thru bits of clothing and trinkets on the bodies. An iquiry into the cause of the explosion will be made after all the bodies have been recovered.

The officials of Sullivan county are trying to stave off an official investigation, however, declaring the disaster was "unavoidable." Norval K. Harris, Sullivan county prosecutor, said that, "A grand jury investigation is improbable as the disaster was one that may come at any time in coal mining." The surviving miners demand an investigation into safety devises used at the mine.

HOPKINS WON'T UNIONIZE HOME OF THE '48TERS'

Socialist Lawyers and Labor Bankers Ditto

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.— After a lengthy negotiation with the organizations affiliated with the conference of progressive political action, many socialist lawyers and labor banks, on the question of unionizing their office workers, the Bookkeepers' and Stenographers' Union has met with but little success.

Mr. J. A. H. Hopkins, the manager of the office of "The committee of 48" affiliated with the conference of political progressive action flatly refused to unionize the office. In the fall before election he approached the same union asking their support in the campaign. The president of the union still hoped the conference of progressive political action would suppport the labor movement and kept on approaching Mr. Hopkins with the same demand of unionising his office.

After the election was over Mr. Hopkins did not have to hide his face any longer and he flatly declined to deal with the union.

S. P. Lawyers Anti-Union

It took just as little time for the president of the union to negotiate with the socialist lawyers, leaders of the socialist movement, Hillquit, Block and Meyer London, etc. Meyer London did not have the courage to state that he does not want to deal with the union, but he found an excuse that he had so many cases on his hands that he has absolutely no time to talk this matter over with his brother who takes care of the office.

The same Meyer London, who, for two periods represented the East Side workers in congress, could not find ten minutes to talk over the matter with his brother to unionize the office. He tried to bribe the business representative Mr. Bohm, by offering him a certain amount of money for the union as dues for his employes. But Brother Bohm was not after the dollars for the union treasury. He was for unionizing the employes.

More Consideration from Private Concerns.

The union representative had less trouble in unionising private offices and banks than he experienced with the labor banks. Within two meetings he succeeded in unionizing a bank downtown and a few offices in the same neighborhood, but he could not unionize the Federated Labor Bank of New York in ten months. He had a hard struggle with the Amalgamated Labor Bank, but finally succeeded. But the Federated Bank is a hard nut to crack. It was much easier for the president of the union to talk the matter over with the heads of the national banks and large offices, than with the head of the Federated Bank. The head of the Metropolitan Insurance company paid him more respect, than the head of the above mentioned labor bank.

In conclusion we might say that the Bookkeepers' and Stenographers' Union had less difficulty in dealing with the private capitalist concerns than they had experienced while trying to unionize offices and banks of labor organizations.

Bus Drivers Recognized.

WEEHAWKEN, N. J., Feb. 22.—Weehawken bus drivers are recognized as union members now by the bus owners after a short strike following that of Jersey City bus drivers, who also won recognition. The union men get one day off every two instead of three weeks. The demand for $2.50 wage increase was compromised.

Retirement Pensions Up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Passage of the civil service employes' retirement pension bill by the senate has been forecast by spokesmen of the unions among these 425,000 workers who have canvassed the situation. The pending measure would raise the pension limit from its present $720 to $1,200 a year. The average pension now is about $550 a year.

PAINTERS' UNION 186, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., TAKES THE LEAD IN DRIVE FOR UNIFIED BUILDING TRADES CAMPAIGN

By CARL SKOGLUND.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 22.—Painters' Local No. 186, has taken the lead in an effort to unite all the building trades unions behind a unified organization campaign to be launched in Minneapolis this spring.

At their meeting held Tuesday evening an organization program was introduced by Dan W. Stevens and Geo. A. Thornton which explained the attack made by the citizens' alliance during the past three years and proposed an energetic campaign to rebuild the painters' organization and to again raise their wage scale to $1 per hour.

It further pointed out that the painters' locals alone could not defeat the combined power of the employers and proposed the Local No. 186 issue a call to all other building trade locals asking them to elect a committee of three members to form a joint building trades organization committee.

Begin Drive March 15.

The proposed call was to provide for the launching of this campaign not later than March 15, and to continue during the entire period of building activity, the necessary funds with which to conduct this campaign to be raised proportionately by each local in a manner decided upon by the committee.

They proposed that Local No. 186 lower its initiation fee from $40.00 down to $25.00 for a period of ninety days and that this new fee be made payable in five weekly installments of $5.00 each. Local No. 186 in turn to request all other building trades locals to lower their fees a proportionate amount during the campaign.

Want Blanket Agreement.

In order that the unity established between the locals during this campaign may be made permanent, the plan further proposed that only a blanket agreement covering all building trades crafts and providing for wage scales and working conditions to be approved by the rank and file of eac hlocal, be signed. These agreements to expire simultaneously on May 1, 1926.

After Comrade Stevens had read the proposed plan of action many members of the local took the floor in support of it. It plainly met with the approval of the rank and file. It was then unanimously decided to hold a specially called meeting of the entire membership on next Tuesday evening, at which time the plan will again be fully discussed and action taken that will without doubt result in the starting of the most extensive campaign to organize the unorganized building trades workers that has ever been conducted in Minneapolis.

No Withdrawals.

On account of the attack made by the reactionaries against the Communists many members of the Painters' Union were in favor of withdrawing from that body. Comrades Stevens and Thornton spoke against that policy explaining that conditions could never be changed if the militant unions withdrew. After the matter had been discussed the local decided to continue their affiliation and elected W. F. Bennett, Joe Wieser, Carl Erickson, Joe Lessard, and A. B. Dean as delegates.

Friends and sympathizers are invited to send birthday cards and letters (money is advisable for gifts) to these political prisoners. Books and publications to be sent directly from the publishers. Small calendars for the year 1925 are also suggested.

HUNGRY CZARISTS BESIEGE HERRIOT FOR HANDOUTS

Money Belonging to Russia Held in France

PARIS, France, Feb. 22.—Premier Herriot has informed Russian czarists living in Paris that twenty-five million francs "belonging to czarist Russia" are now held by the French sequestrator. The premier said that his government is also holding "czarist funds" in the Bank of France of which "it is impossible to determine how much belongs to Russia, and how much to contractors." These sums, he said, were deposited as advances on contarcts.

The Russian refugees, who claim that there are 500,000 in France, are angered at the recognition of Soviet Russia by France. M. Makalov, the Russian socialist and counter-revolutionist said that the recognition means that the Russian refugees are now without a country and without a protector, because of France's action. They do not want to return to Russia because of the ruling that all citizens of Soviet Russia must work for their living.

"The world is abandoning us by degrees," Mrs. Makalov wailed. "We no longer have any other protector but God." She intimated that even God has fallen down on the job.

TEXTILE STRIKE IN CHINA GROWS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TOKYO, Japan, Feb. 22—The strike of the ten thousand employes in Chinese cotton mills owned by Japanese capitalists is spreading, and already business circles here and in Osaka have sustained severe losses.

The strike in the Shanghai district is certain, it is said here, to end the Japanese practice of exploiting Chinese labor at lower wages than are paid for the same kind of labor in Japan. The striking Chinese mill workers charge that the Japanese mill owners have treated them brutally. The overseers beat the workers with ropes, is the charge.

The strikers in the Naigai Wata Kaisha cotton mills, numbering six thousand, a few days ago stormed the plant and wrecked the machinery worth thirty thousand dollars.

Think Liberty Bonds Were Duplicated on Wide-Spread Scale

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Evidence of wide-spread duplication of liberty bonds in small denominations has been unearthed by the special house committee which for more than a year has been investigating charges of irregularities, it became known today.

The report of the committee, expected next week, will charge lax methods of operation in the bureau of printing and engraving, and in some divisions of the treasury department, it was said.

"No Jobs in Chicago," Warns the U. S. Labor Department in Report

Hundreds of men are flocking to Chicago expecting to find work and, while employment conditions are good in the city, there is at this time only sufficient employment for resident workers, according to the report for the district including Illinois and adjoining states issued by the United States department of labor.

The report states there is a surplus of common labor in the state, attributable to outside work being completed and to a large influx of workers from other parts of the country.

Would Shift Stockwards Administration.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Farm organization leaders have testified before the senate committee on agriculture that the stockyards act should be placed under the federal trade commission, for administration. The department of agriculture, is now supposed to administer it, has not been vigorous in protecting the farmers against the packing trusts.

A. F. OF L. COMMITTEE TO MEET WITH STONE ON NON-UNION MINES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A conference will be held here February 27, between President Lewis of the United Mine Workers, and Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and a committee of the American Federation of Labor consisting of Secretary Frank A. Morrison, Martin F. Ryan, and J. P. Noonan, to adjust the differences between the mine workers' and engineers' organizations regarding the employment of non-union mine workers in the engineers' coal mines in the New River district of West Virginia, at was announced today.

DIVET, LIKE A CIVET CAT, LEFT PERFUME BEHIND

Lincoln Memorial Got Reaction's Stench

(Special to The Daily Worker)

FARGO, N. D., Feb. 22.—In order to carry out their promise of harmony between the progressive non-partisan and the reactionary I. V. A.'s, the leaders of the non-partisan house and senate, including the governor, selected two persons who were to make orations in honor of the great Abraham Lincoln on the 12th of Feb., 1935.

For this occasion they selected one person by the name of Mrs. Obert Olson, wife of Senator Olson. This woman, a picture of real health and beauty, delivered an oration that was fitting to that occasion; which put all present in the finest of humor.

Then came the agent of black reaction. A. G. Divet, member of the house of representatives, who can command from $25 to $50 a day in law cases, yet is in the legislature at $5.00 a day, to see that the farmers in the assembly do not put anything over on big biz.

This tool of the chamber of commerce began his talk by reciting Lincoln's prayer after the battle of Gettysburg. Many looked for a great oration by him, yet they knew if Lincoln was on earth today, this henchman of the interest class would be the first to denounce him.

Sure enough, he had only started, than a turn was made in his speech, which attacked representative government and upheld the judiciary and government of the minority. He raked his brain to find something reactionary that Washington might have said, he quoted these to prove his contention. Thus he continued for an hour or more and wound up by quoting the following:

"Chose ye today what house ye will serve? Whether the house of the Amerites, or the house of our fathers? Whether the house of Benedict Arnold, Debs, Goldman, or Foster? As for me and my house, we will choose the house of Jefferson, Washington, and Lincoln."

This ended his tirade. He received about 50 hand claps from the 500 or more people that had gathered in that great chamber on the 116th anniversary of Lincoln's birthday. His memorial was concluded by singing the Star Spangled Banner. Thruout it, A. G. Divet stood abashed, his sallow complexion turning to a greasy dark colored.

All left the law making chamber with a gloomy feeling; many saying "I expected it would turn out like that." Thus wound up the "harmony" meeting, and well we may say, that those who play with a civet cat may expect to get perfumed by it.

INCREASED LABOR EFFICIENCY AND MECHANICAL PROGRESS AIDS BOSSES BUT HURTS THE WORKERS

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

Federal reserve board figures on production and employment shows factory production for 1924 14 per cent over 1919 while the number employed was 7 per cent lower than in 1919. Factory production was half again as large as in 1914 while the number of workers was only one-fifth larger.

Increased Efficiency Helps Bosses Only.

This means that the expanding needs of the country due to the increase in population are being met largely without giving employment to the increased number of workers who are growing up.

In round numbers it means that the increase in per capita production due to the efficiency management and improved machinery cost 600,000 workers their jobs compared with the 1919 basis and 1,600,000 workers their jobs compared with the prewar years.

Maching Progress Causes Unemployment

Technical progress is crowding workers out of jobs. The federal reserve figures show production and employment in the major industrial groups in 1934 relative to 1919 by the following percentages based on 1919 as 100 per cent:

1934 pct. of 1919	Product.	Empimt.
Iron and steel	107 pct.	83 pct.
Automobile	183	89
Textile	98	89
Food products	106	100
Lumber products	140	117
Paper and printing	117	104
Leather and products	89	81
Cement and brick	149	110
Tobacco products	116	85

Terrific Increase of Productivity

In iron and steel while production in 1934 was 7 per cent above 1919 the industry provided jobs for 17 per cent fewer workers. In automobiles production was 83 per cent larger but jobs 11 per cent fewer. This meant an increase of 106 per cent in the output per worker.

Here we see why capital is drawing good profits even though the demand does not call for steady operation of full plant. Capital is using its ownership to cop all the so-called blessings of modern industrial progress.

NEW YORK VOTE RECOUNT SHOWS HOW COMMUNIST VOTES WERE STOLEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—In the fight between two capitalist candidates for congress in the fourteenth congressional district resulting in a recount which has just ended it was found that Ludwig Lore, Workers (Communist) Party candidate gained 69 votes.

The contest was between Nathan D. Perlman, republican, and Dr. William I. Sirovich, democrat, and Perlman was declared elected by 26 votes. The Communist gain of over fifty per cent is indicative of the wholesale steal of votes from the workers' candidates, not only in this district but all over the country.

COMPANY UNION FAILURE, SAYS SAGE REPORT

Rockefeller Plan Does Not Stop Strikes

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—"It is foolish to deny a divergence of interest between employers and employes. Every dispute over wages illustrates that."

This significant statement occurs in the report, now made public, of the five years' investigation the Russell Sage Foundation has made of the Rockefeller plan for employes' representation—the company union functioning in the mines of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

The authors of the Sage report are hopeful of finding a way to adjust the claims of capital and labor without exhausting trials of strength, but they declare that the Rockefeller plan has not been very successful. What they find in the Colorado mines holds pretty generally thruout the 800 other companies which are attempting to solve their labor problems by similar systems of company-supervised employes representation, on the railroads, the packing plants, the textile industry, particularly.

Three strikes have taken place in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company mines since the plan was introduced following the bitter 1913 contest, the report shows, tho the authors make the assertion that relations are not so bad as they used to be.

Razed Hall to Ground.

During one of these strikes since the new plan went into effect state troops prevented miners from holding union meetings in the buildings of the local Y. M. C. A., a majority of whose board of directors were officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. And in one camp, when the miners attempted to rent the only available public hall—a dancing pavillion—for union meetings, the company, to prevent its use for this purpose, bought the pavillion and razed it to the ground.

Oklahoma Judge Finds Membership in I.W.W. Not Crime

McALESTER, Okla.— Membership in the Industrial Workers of the World is not a criminal offense in Oklahoma, the appellate court holds in directing the release of Arthur Berg from the penitentiary. Berg was freed Feb. 16 after the court reversed a 10 year sentence imposed in 1923 under the state criminal syndicalism. The only evidence was Berg's membership card. card.

Homer Wear, and I. W. W., now in McAlester on a 6-year sentence for the same reason is expected to be released when his appeal is heard in March.

How We Live and Work

Editor's Note—This paper is printed for the workers, poor farmers and those who work and sweat under the present system of society. It is a paper of the workers, by the workers and for the workers. We want to reach every corner of this country where labor is being exploited for private gains, for profit. We want the workers and farmers all over the country to read the DAILY WORKER. In order to make it more interesting and be able better to reflect the life of the wide laboring masses, WE WANT OUR READERS TO WRITE TO US. This new department "HOW WE LIVE AND WORK" will appear as often as there will be sufficient letters from our readers about the life and working conditions under which our masses struggle. Try to make the letters interesting bringing out facts which may not be known to workers in other sections of the country. Try to make them short and to the point.

• • • •

Story from South Bend.

To the DAILY WORKER: Your department, "How We Work and Live" is very good. And it may interest some readers to know we live and work here in South Bend.

The other day the "Beauty and Bolshevik" was to be shown and the local papers were asked to run an ad, which was flatly refused. They appeared to be horrorstricken at being asked to print such high voltage propaganda, and we were dismissed without farther ceremony.

Perhaps they feared the day when every man will be a Bolshevik, every working man, I should say.

It appears the South Bend Tribune tries to do the thinking for all its readers. And tries to make them think the Communists are a hopeless case. But the editor's comment on the June 17 convention proves he himself is not so sure as he said this, or its equvalent:

"Such a program may be adopted some time after a revolution which may be peaceful and may be bloody."

So they tell us what the people "want." Just before election Studebakers were working overtime. And it was commonly noised around "Coolidge and prosperity. It would be too bad to kill it! It sure would!" But the people didn't kill it, it died a natural death.

And the people, not only workers, but some storekeepers, were anxious to know the cause of its death. I'm sorry most of them don't know yet.

In the February 3rd Tribune all front pages and headlines—"Studebaker Facts Given," in which Dr. Lippincott stated there were 11,924 checks issued for the week. But he did not state the amount of money paid in wages. "Funny," perhaps the Tribune wouldn't print such propaganda.

Dr. Lippincott also took occasion to refute the babbling idiots with these curbstone rumors who have been circulating propaganda against the corporation, and praised the employes' stock purchasing plan. I believe this plan to be well known.

Following the talk on motion of Fred W. Keller—"Strong for the open shop," the real estate board reaffirmed its confidence in the Studebaker corporation.

You will note that the confidence of the slaves was not necessary. It is expected the real estate men will trim them also, then they will be more obedient at the shop.

The Tribune editor praises Dr. Lippincott, but in another issue scores those self-styled internationalists, those "Reds." He sees no international capitalists, Oh, no, of course not!

To all this the "News-Times" suggests we "Smile and Shove." But of course to organize would bring down the wrath of the mighty dollar.

It is expected the capitalist press will keep on with prosperity and good republicans ahd good democrats while the priests and ministers will send up many prayers. But if the workers want to know what is eating them they must read the DAILY WORKER.

We also suggest "Smile and Shore" and regardless of color or nationality organize into the Workers (Communist) Party, the party of Lenin in America.

NEW HAVEN CLOCK SHOP RINGS IN NEW WAGE CUT

By WILLIAM SIMONS.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 22.—The wage cut announced by the New Haven Clock Shop has caused considerable unrest among the workers of that company. About 150 stopped work already, out of the 1,200 in the plant. This is due to the cut being given to only a few departments.

A Capitalist Leech in Action.

For two weeks the rumor of a 15 per cent wage cut went the rounds of the shop. Then notices were posted of a 5 to 10 per cent cut in two departments. The workers in those departments were assembled by General Manger Whitehead, who told a hard luck story about being unable to compete with the Ansonia Clock Co. of Brooklyn which has cut the price of their watches to 75 cents. He announced a ten per cent wage cut for the piece workers, since the company was entitled to profits. He asked the men to turn out more work. This would add 20 watches to the daily production of 140 watches in the adjustment room. When the men opposed a cut, he submitted the proposition of a four weeks' tryout of the new scheme of prices. He believed that the workers could make up for the cut in price by turning out more work. If a four weeks' tryout would prove that the workers were getting less than before, then some other arrangement might be entered into. But he did not promise a return to old prices.

This made it clear to the men that it was a trick to put over the new plan. At the meeting, an American worker declared defiantly: "You want to suck the life blood out of us. We are skilled workers, and you, Mr. Manager, admit it, we must work hard to exist, many being compelled to work before the whistle and during lunch hour to eke out a miserable existence; yet you are not satisfied; you want to make it worse."

More Profits Is Their Slogan.

This is the beginning of a general wage cut in the New Haven Clock Shop. Representatives of another department were told that when there was enough work to keep them busy, the new plan would be put in operation.

It is too early to tell just what action the workers will take, who are on what they call "a vacation." There is no doubt that the only satisfactory action is a general strike of the entire plant. But whether this action will be taken is a question. The next few days will tell the tale.

Worcester Communists Call United Front Meet

By SIDNEY BLOOMFIELD

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 22.—The Workers Party of Worcester, Mass., is rallying the local labor organizations in a united movement to help save Sacco and Vanzetti from the capitalist executioners of Massachusetts despite the opposition of the yellow socialists, who are everywhere yelping hideously against the Communists with whom they fear a united front lest they be exposed as the traitors that they are.

At the Workmen's Circles and the unions where these elements are also members they endeavor to smash the united front of labor because the Workers Party has sent out the call for a conference of all labor organizations.

That the united drive will not be broken by the scurrilous attacks of these fakirs is plainly seen by the hearty response to the call of the Workers Party. Up to time of this report, the following organizations have elected two delegates each:

Bakers & Confectionery Workers Union, International Ladies' Garment Workers, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Workmen's Circle branches No. 670 and No. 703, Independent Workmen's Circle branch No. 7, Womens' Trade Union League, United Co-operative Society, Young Workers League, Italian Workers Society, Hebrew Social Club, Independent Order of Good Templars, English, Swedish, Jewish, Lithuanian and Finnish branches of the Workers Party, and several other organizations.

HUGE PROFITS FOR CAPITALISTS DESPITE REDUCED OPERATIONS WHILE UNEMPLOYED GO HUNGRY

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

Welahty owners of industry don't worry over the increasing proportion of workers regularly out of a job. With operations in many lines reduced to a point which would once have been severe depression leading companies in 1924 poured more money into the laps of stock-holders and bondholders than they knew well what to do with.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Co., levying tribute on the demand for water and gas in homes, made a profit of $6.020,920 equivalent to 43 per cent on the common stock.

American Locomotive made a net profit of $6,649,507 equivalent to 19.6 per cent on the common stock. This 19.6 per cent profit was made on orders which required an average of only 45 per cent of capacity operation.

American Steel Foundries, another railroad corporation selling to railroads, showed a profit of $4,787,039 equal to more than 17 per cent on its capital stock. This company also averaged far below capacity thruout the year.

The two big can companies which get their share of every dollar spent for canned vegetables, fruits, etc., came in for a generous slice. American Can with a net profit of $11,341,931 gave common stockholders a return of 20.5 per cent while Continental Can with a profit of $4,053,325 in a single year returned its common stockholders over a quarter of their entire investment.

Cudahy Packing Co. turned over the largest profits in its history, $3,312,229 equivalent to $16.08 per share of common stock. But as more than $15,000,000 of the $29,600,000 of common and preferred stock represents no cash investment by the owners the real return in 1924 must have been around 30 per cent.

U. S. Gypsum, one of the corporations fattening on the material which goes into building homes, shows a net profit of $7,166,291 equivalent to 75 per cent on the common stock.

Beef Trust Is More Powerful Than Ever, Says U. S. Commission

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.—The packing trust has concentrated its forces until now on the "big five" of the packers and has resolved itself into the "big two," the federal trade commission has reported to the senate. Swift and company and Armour and company now control the beef trust, according to the report, which again recommends that congress or the courts take the stock yards away from this trust. Morris and company has sold out to the group of Wall Street bankers which also controls the Armour interests and other branches of the trust.

The federal trade commission recommends that the refrigerator cars practically all of which are controlled by the beef trust, be sold. It asserts that Armour and Swift slaughtered 47.7 per cent of the total animals butchered last year.

EXHIBITION OF WORKERS SPORTS IN CLEVELAND

To Celebrate Wind-up of Gymnasium Course

By J. A. HAMILTON.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Saturday, Feb. 21, at 7:30 p. m., and Sunday, Feb. 22, at 8 p. m., the conclusion of a four-weeks' gymnasium course will be celebrated in Carpentina Hall, 1303 West 58th St., by a gymnastic exhibition, including parallel and horizontal bar work; pyramids, bar bell drills; and calisthenics by women.

The course was participated in by students from Detroit, Buffalo, Conneaught, and Cleveland and was conducted by the Finnish Workers' Gymnastic club, a workers' sport association affiliated with the Workers' Sport Alliance, the Red Sport organization of the United States. The exhibition will be in the nature of a match between men's and women's gymnastic clubs from various cities, as well as individual matches between the students; and will be for the team and individual championship of the territory in the Ohio district of the Finnish Federation of the Workers Party.

The Workers' Sport Alliance, with which the Finnish Gymnastic clubs are affiliated, has for its purpose "to work for the physical and mental development of the working class men and women on class lines."

This exhibition will be well-worth the attention of the workers of Cleveland who are interested in working class athletics. Admission 50c.

Cleveland Communists Discuss Shop Nuclei and United Front

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 22.— A general membership meeting of local Cleveland was held Sunday afternoon Feb. 15, at which two important party questions were discussed, namely, the UNITED FRONT and the SHOP NUCLEI.

Comrade Alfred Wagenknecht made a lengthy talk on the general theory of the united front after which the membership engaged in general discussion on this subject.

Comrade Benjamin then made a talk on the general theory of the reorganization of the party on the shop nuclei basis. He pointed out that the only way the party will be able to properly carry on its Communist work and draw the masses of the workers to us is thru this particular form of organization.

Another Meeting

The hour being late and eveything ready for the schdeuled banquet there was no further discussion on this question. It is hoped however, that another membership meeting will be held in the near future at which this question can be gone into further and at which practical methods can be discussed for the organization of the shop nuclei in this city.

The day was climaxed with the banquet for which plenty of good things were served and a general good time was had by all who remained. The only regret is that not more of the party members were able to stay.

GOOD MEETINGS AT DUBUQUE AND CLINTON, IOWA

lowing from this, the trading and corruption growing out of it, disgusted the rank and file with politics.

Labor Unions' Morale Shattered.

During the war the labor unions were active in Clinton and built their membership up until they were well organized. Following the armistice the spirit of the workers was at its height. They had just elected a labor ticket and sensed their power.

About this time an agitation was started for a soldiers' and sailors' monument for those who fell in the war. A shaft was to be erected in the park. But a few of the more far-seeing leaders in the unions urged that the money be spent upon a building that could bring some use and comfort. The result was the present "Soldiers' and Sailors' Labor Temple" which is owned by the members of the unions, except for a small mortgage still unpaid.

Following the depression in 1920-21 the unions lost heavily in membership, some locals entirely disappeared. The spirit gradually but steadily went down until the morale reached almost zero.

The militants have once more stirred themselves and the Clinton labor movement is now on the upward trend. The rank and file are still unresponsive and the class collaboration schemes, such as the infamous "B. and O. plan," will no doubt be put into effect in the Northwestern shops here where 1,000 workers are employed.

The speakers stressed the necessity of the militants organizing for leadership in the trade unions, and thru the unions, inspire and lead the mass of the workers once more to the offensive against the open shoppers.

Clinton Will Have Local Soon.

The inspiration of the workers' and farmers' government in Russia, as presented by Comrade Snyder in his explanation of the program, practices and achievements of the Soviets, was listened to with close attention. The structure of the Third International was explained, as was also the Red International of Labor Unions and the Agrarian International of the peasants and farmers.

Literature was given to all present, a number promised to circulate subscription lists for the Labor Defense and also assist in the organization of future meetings for our speakers. Names and addresses were taken and there is good prospects for a live local in Clinton within the next few months.

Successful Meeting at Dubuque.

Practically the same conditions prevailed at the Dubuque meeting. Comrade Coutts spoke before the Trades and Labor Assembly the night before, and the Painters' Local just before the meeting on the child labor amendment, unemployment and the revival of the labor movement.

Good publicity was had in the daily papers for these meetings both at Clinton and Dubuque. A thousand cards were distributed at Dubuque and five hundred at Clinton. The low ebb to which the morale of the workers has fallen is shown by the response to such wide-spread publicity. There were less than fifty in attendance at each meeting.

To those who understand the program of the Workers Party this will cause no disappointment. Those who did attend were a part of the actual leadership of the workers, the militants who inspire, organize and direct the progress of the masses.

The local situation in Dubuque must be understood to appreciate the significance of such a gathering.

There are a number of large factories, employing from 500 to 2,000 workers, that are completely non-union and in which the workers are in an almost hopeless state of docility. This reacts on the unions and makes them extremely conservative. Under such conditions the Workers Party meeting was a healthful and hopeful sign of a rebirth of militancy as yet too weak and young to accomplish much.

Here also the workers gladly accepted our literature and promised to assist in arranging meetings for speakers.

Dubuque has the spark that will kindle a live agitation and result in a good local of the Workers Party there also.

Making Friends for the Daily.

At all these meetings the DAILY WORKER is being distributed, most of the workers have heard of our party and seen our press for the first time. They already feel that our program is practical and inspiring and are interested in the courage and daring of our party tactics.

These meetings will be followed up with literature, and the circulation of the DAILY WORKER and the Workers Monthly will grow rapidly in this new territory, and with them the membership of our party.

Iowa, which gave our party 4,037 votes last November, will soon become an effective unit in the Communist movement.

Syracuse Party Notes

By FANNY GARDNER.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—A general meeting of all party branches and the Young Workers' League was called Sunday afternoon, Feb. 15 at Educational Hall, corner Jackson and Orange streets. Altho the Italian branch was not represented, considering the numerical membership of Syracuse, the meeting as a whole was fairly well attended.

The chairman, Comrade Doroff, reported that the newly reorganized Jewish branch had voted to pay fifty cents a week as dues instead of the stipulated fifty cents a month. This he explained would help create a more adequate treasury to meet the growing demands of our papers and the defense fund. After a spirited discussion the comrades compromised by voting to recommend to their respective branches that the dues be increased to twenty-five cents a week, or one dollar a month. The Young Workers' League were exempted from this increase.

A central city committee was created with Comrade Doreff as organizer and Comrade Charlotte Moskowitz as secretary. Comrade Cohen was instructed to sign a year's contract for the weekly rental of Educational Hall. Only Jewish Branch, Young Workers' League, and C. C. C. meetings will be held here, as the membership of the Ukrainian and Italian branches are too far removed from this location.

The Young Workers' League have organized a Sunday afternoon art class under the instruction of Comrade David Perlmutter, a well known local artist. Modelling, drawing, and painting will be studied by the young comrades, many of whom have shown special talent for this work.

"Beauty and Bolshevik" Pleases 500 Workers at Minneapolis Showing

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 22.—The "Beauty and the Bolshevik" and "Russia in Overalls" were shown last night at the Finnish Hall, Western and Humboldt Aves., N., to 500 workers. The pictures were very highly recommended by many of the attendants and a great enthusiasm manifested for the Soviet government. A collection was taken for defending the Michigan cases and enthusiasm aroused for the support of the Communists against the attack of capitalism.

RUTHENBERG CASE NOW UP TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Syndicalist Laws a Big Danger to Workers

With the formal forwarding of the court records of the Ruthenberg case to the United States supreme court from Lansing, Mich., as agreed upon by the attorneys in the case, the constitutionality of the criminal syndicalist law of the state of Michigan, and that of 34 other states, is now in the hands of the United States supreme court.

Tied up with this is also the fate of the 32 defendants in the Michigan cases, and of many other defendants indicted under the criminal syndicalist law of other states.

Delay Minor's Trial.

The prosecution has not, as yet, called the case of Robert Minor which it had announced would be the next case tried under the criminal syndicalist law of the state of Michigan.

The calling of the case however, is optional with the prosecution and the defense in the Michigan cases must be prepared at any minute to supply the necessary defense for Robert Minor and any of the other defendants that will be called in this case.

Nothing but the best defense will do, inasmuch as there is involved not only these particular cases, but a much broader principle than seems obvious to many of people who do not study the question closely.

It is here not only a question of one section of the labor movement, in this case the Communists, but also of the labor movement as a whole—a question of whether the time will not come when these laws will be used against the labor unions and workers in any fight they take up against the employers for the betterment of their conditions, and the relief of their burdens.

Cite Danger in Idaho.

This has been brought sharply to the fore by recent rewording of the criminal syndicalist law in the state of Idaho, which has reported some time ago. The rewording of the criminal syndicalist law in the state of Idaho is to such effect that it will prohibit all strikes and real organizational action in behalf of the workers.

The constitutionality therefore, of the criminal syndicalist law in the state of Michigan takes in the question of the constitutionality of the criminal syndicalist law in Idaho and various other states.

Once a decision can be gotten that the criminal syndicalism law of the state of Michigan is unconstitutional, it will be much easier to defeat the aims of the criminal syndicalism law of Idaho and other state laws which have teeth in them for the destruction of the labor movement.

Must Have Best Defense.

Also, every effort must be put forth at the same time to fight for the freedom of the defendants under these criminal syndicalist laws. In both cases, the best defense is necessary in order that the masters of this country may be shown that the workers are prepared on every and all occasions to combat any attack against them. If the workers are strong enough in their response, the defense of these men in the Michigan cases and other cases coming up under these laws, the purposes of these laws will be defeated and the rest of the labor movement will be greatly aided thereby.

The Labor Defense Council, which is handling the criminal syndicalist cases in Michigan and under the other criminal syndicalism or sedition laws, requests co-operation both moral and financial in fighting against these laws before the United States supreme court, which is now to decide on the constitutionality of the matter, and before the courts in the various states.

N. Y. PARTY NOTES

West Side English Branch of N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—At the last meeting of the West Side English branch Comrade Ben Gitlow spoke on shop nuclei. The shop nucleus organizer of District No. 2 explained how our present form of territorial organization is a hangover from the social democratic scheme of organization.

The question and discussion that followed, revealed the need for such discussion, and also brot out such interesting facts as the effect of such reorganization on language federations and intellectuals. A moving appeal for active co-operation in the work of reorganization, closed the speaker's discussion.

On March 2 the topic for discussion will be Leninism and Trotskyism. On March 16, the C. P. P. A. convention of Feb. 21 will be discussed. All are invited.

All party and Y. W. L. and all friendly organizations are requested not to hold nor allow any other affairs or May Day demonstration to be arranged on that date. Participate in this affair and make it a huge demonstration.

SNAPPY JOURNAL IS REVIEWED BY SNAPPY WRITER

But, Abused Reader, It's All Publicity!

By WALT CARMON

The brain child of some noted wit was the only information that inquiry received at the DAILY WORKER on trying to discover the author of the Red Revel—a newsy little news-sheet that in snappy, humorous fashion promised the radical world a big Bolshevik blow-out on Feb. 28.

Must have Had A Shot

The little newspaper, The Red Revel, is hot stuff, and an open letter to William Z. Foster from William Green is (in the vulgar) a wow. It ends up reading: "Your work in amalgamating the unions is inestimable. Lewis and M. Woll wish to be remembered to you. Best wishes to my friend Bill Dunne." This letter is in a column entitled: "Things That Never Happen" and we'll tell the cross-worded universe it would take a shot of cocaine to ever imagine that they might.

The main article in the little propagandist, The Red Revel, titled: "Big Bolshevik Blow-out" promises so many features, it's worth the price of admission to see to what limits of blarney, an Irish press agent, will go. But if the blamed affair is up to specifications the writer of this review is coming in dark colored glasses.

The Red Revel is the big yearly event of the raving reds and radicals. This year's affair promises to surpass the ones of the past years in daring costume, gayety and originality. There are promises of a surprise or two in special features and a cartoon in the little Red Revel, the newspaper now being mailed, carries this dialogue: "What's the matter, Rosie, have you checked your clothes?" and Rosie answers: "Nix, I am out for that $50.00 prize at the Red Revel."

All Dressed Up

The cartoon pictures Rosie wearing a heavy smile. And if that cartoon is a promise for the Red Revel—well, we take back our statement about coming with dark colored glasses. On such a happy evening we want to see the girls in smiles.

In an editorial in this little paper, the editor says all there is worth saying in challenge to the skeptics:

"Revolutionists are supposed to be hard boiled chunks of protoplasm who go thru life with sour faces and grey hearts, always looking at the dark side of life and never enjoying themselves. The Red Revel has succeed in knocking that fallacy for a string of hot dogs."

You don't believe it? It will cost you only fifty cents admission to be convinced, so you may as well do as we will—let's go and find out on Feb. 28 at West End Women's Club Hall, 37 S. Ashland Blvd.

Underwood Tries to Put Thru Water Power Grab by March First

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.—Resistance to acceptance of the conference report providing for giving Muscle Shoals to some branch of the general electric power trust on a 50 years lease is still active in the senate.

It is now evident that a filibuster may defeat the whole scheme for the present session. Senator Underwood, in charge of the pending bill, is trying desperately to find a way to force it thru to final adoption before March 4.

SUMMARY OF TREATY RECENTLY SIGNED BETWEEN SOVIET RUSSIA AND JAPAN

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Particulars of the Soviet-Japanese agreement, signed Jan. 20 in Peking, under which Japan recognized the Soviet Union, are furnished in the Russian Review, published in Washington, in substance as follows:,

Diplomatic and consular relations on a normal basis are at once reestablished.

Treaties, conventions and agreements, except the Portsmouth treaty concluded before the October revolution of 1917, are to be revised later.

Until the fishery convention of 1907 is revised, Soviet regulations of 1924 as to leasing out of fisheries to Japanese subjects will remeain in force.

Pending conilusion of a trade and navigation treaty, relations between Japan and the Soviet Union will be governed by these principles:

1. Freedom of entry, travel and residence, with full protection of lives and property, for all citizens of each country on the territory of the other, in accordance with the laws of the country entered.

2. The right of holding private property and engaging in trade, navigation, industry and other peaceful occupations is conceded the citizens of each country in the territory of the other.

3. Without infringing on the right of each country to regulate foreign trade according to its own laws, each guarantees the other against discriminations liable to impede their mutual economic relations.

Concerning Propaganda.

Concerning the question of propaganda, the agreement declares that it is the intention of the Soviet Union and of Japan to live in peace and friendship with each other; to regulate their internal affairs according to their own laws, and to restrain all persons holding public office, as well as organizations receiving financial help from either government, from any activity which might endanger the peace of any part of the territory of Japan or of the Soviet Union. It is understood that neither party will tolerate on the territory under its control the presence of organizations or groups which claim to be the government of any part of the territory of the other country.

Japanese exploitation of natural resources in the Russian Far East is covered in a special protocol, granting Japanese concessions for the exploitation of 50 per cent of the area of the oil fields of northern Sakhalin now developed by Japan; also, the right to prospect for oil and to exploit oil discoveries on an area of 1,000 square versts on the eastern coast of northern Sakhalin, within 5 to 10 years, is granted to Japanese companies. A coal concession on the western coast of northern Sakhalin is likewise promised to Japanese citizens. Coal is to pay 5 to 6 per cent gross royalty on gusher oil to be as high as 45 per cent.

Japanese to Evacuate.

Evacuation of northern Sakhalin by the Japanese troops is stipulated, and the Soviet government expresses regretfor the "occurrences"—the killing of a Japanese garrison population—at Nikolayevsk in 1920.

Each government surrenders to the other the movable and immovable property belonging to the embassies and conculates of the other country which it holds.

Within five months from the final evacuation of northern Sakhalin, a detailed concession agreement is to be signed.

Discussion of debts to Japan and Japanese citizens contracted by the former governments of Russia is to be taken up later, but Japanese claims are to be given treatment as favorable as the Soviet government shall grant in similar circumstances to governments or subjects of any other country.

Nowhere in the document are there signs of a secret annex or protocol, such as described by Russian monarchist refugees in Berlin, whereby the Soviet Union promises to surrender northern Sakhalin to Japan in the future in return for naval vessels and war materials, and whereby Japan, China and the Soviet government are joined in a military alliance aimed to expel western powers from the Orient.

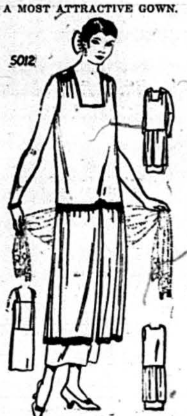
DAILY PATTERNS

A MOST ATTRACTIVE GOWN.



5012. This model is most desirable for an afternoon dress. It may be finished with or without the sleeves. The tunic and waist portions are separate from the skirt, which is mounted on a bodice.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. If made as illustrated in the large view the dress will require for a 38 inch size 4⅝ yards of 40 inch material. If made with long sleeves 5⅝ yards will be required. The bodice of lining will require 2⅝ yards of 40 inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is 56 inches.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

JOINT BAZAAR IN NEW YORK CITY IS BIG SUCCESS

Expect Net Receipts to Pass $5,000

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 22.—The Joint Bazaar of the International Workers' Aid and the Labor Defense Council was a success even beyond the hope of the organizations that arranged it. The total receipts cannot yet be computed, since large numbers of tickets are still out. It is very probable, however, that the net receipts will be more than $5,000.

Many Workers Co-operated.

The success of the bazaar is due to the spontaneous and zealous co-operation of the membership of the Workers (Communist) Party and a large number of organizations. The joint bazaar committee wishes to express its thanks to all the comrades who cooperated. It wishes especially to thank the Amalgamated Food Workers and all the comrades who helped to make the restaurant and cafeteria a success, both materially and financially.

The bazaar was also a political success. The propaganda value cannot be overestimated. The bazaar committee sent out tickets to a large number of organizations, trade unions, etc., and the question of proletarian political prisoners became the order of the day. The discussions that arose in the organizations made it possible for the comrades to raise the question of the class war as seldom before.

The bazaar was also a success as against the capitalist class. The threats of the United States government to deport aliens without further ado; the propaganda that has been carried on by Mr. Smith, prosecuting attorney of Michigan, in New York, in order to incite the people of New York and the rest of the country against the Communists under indictment in Michigan; and the probable deportation of two Workers Party editors, one of whom is on Ellis Island—all these threats were ancwered by the joint bazaar. The huge crowds that attended the four days, and especially Saturday afternoon and evening, when many hundreds were turned away, indicate that the class conscious workers of New York intend to stand by their class war comrades in the trials of the capitalist courts.

Show Solidarity with Prisoners.

The bazaar was a success in that the workers of this country showed their solidarity with the proletarian political prisoners in the capitalist dungeons of Europe and Asia. American workers are awakening to the situation in Europe—because the conditions now prevailing in Europe may soon be transplanted to America. The menace of wage cuts and of strikes makes them aware that they will be forced to fight as the workers of Europe are fighting. Hence they are building up their defense bodies and the bazaar was the first and foremost opportunity to strengthen the organization—the International Workers' Aid and the Labor Defense Council—which fight in their behalf.

The bazaar was also a fine success artistically. The singing societies, the athletic clubs, the orchestral societies, and the Workers' Drama League—the children, the Junior groups of the Young Workers' League, and finally the splendid soloists, who co-operated in making the bazaar a success, made the four days of the bazaar a rare treat for music lovers of this city. It was an especial pleasure to listen to the proletarians displaying their art and to have them demonstrate that workers can do what the bourgeoisie only learn after years of training.

This bazaar proves quite conclusively that the revolutionary workers of the United States have a big following and that the word Communism has no terror for them. The Workers (Communist) Party is on the march!

More Strict Labor Immigration Laws Argued by Davis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The proposal that an immigration quota restriction policy be adopted toward all countries of the western hemisphere, was championed by Secretary of Labor Davis, today.

"No change is contemplated in the policy toward those persons who live in one country and work in the other, crossing and recrossing the border as a matter of daily routine," Davis said.

BUILDERS AT WORK

Here's Another Way!

ONE good way for a Communist branch when it goes out for subscriptions for the DAILY WORKER and the Workers Monthly is to begin on itself. This is not always done. If you mean to try it in your branch, the present time is best.

The lists of local subscriptions are being sent to all DAILY WORKER agents. On this list you will find every subscriber to the DAILY WORKER and the Workers Monthly and it will be no job at all to check them against your branch membership list. And then you "have the goods."

It is no trouble for a branch agent to bring to the attention of each member the fact that he or she is not a subscriber to the official party publications; it is no trouble and it is a sure way for results.

In Russia it is a condition of membership that every applicant to the party be a subscriber to the official party publication. And the day is not far distant when our party will take a similar stand. There is no excuse for a member of an English branch or shop nucleus not to be a subscriber.

Your branch has members who are not active. Is it not true that these comrades are those who are not well versed in the principles, tactics and the activities of our party? But they will be—if every day they receive education and information thru the DAILY WORKER.

To make your branch function—check up your membership list against that of your subscribers. Check them up and send in your check.

NEGRO WORKERS ASK LABOR'S AID IN MINNEAPOLIS

Criminal Syndicalism Law Is Debated

By CARL SKOGLUND

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 22.—Representatives from the colored workers who work as porters for the Pullman company had the floor at the Central Labor Union last meeting asking for the organized labor support in an organization drive to organize these colored workers into the American Federation of Labor.

The Central Labor Union Wednesday elected Bertha Ferguson with fifty-four votes and Mike Mogan with sixty-nine votes as trustees of the Central Labor Union of Minneapolis, against the reactionary business agent of the Typographical Union, Sam Fullerton, who only received fifty-three votes.

A resolution came in from the Machinists Union No. 91, requesting a fair trial for Dan W. Stevens. This resolution was referred to the Machinists International.

The resolutions committee was instructed to bring in a resolution to the next regular meeting for the repeal of the Minnesota syndicalism law. When this question was brought on the floor, delegate B. Nelson of Carpenters No. 7, stated "This is the question that the Communists have always been bringing to the attention of this assembly and everytime they have done so some of the reactionaries have shouted 'Communist propaganda.' Now the Communist are out of the Central Labor Union and you are keeping on doing the very thing that you accused the Communists of doing."

Furriers Get Wage Increase.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Wage increases of approximately 10 per cent will be paid to Brooklyn fur dressers in locals 2, 3 and 4, International Fur Workers' Union, under the new two-year agreement signed with employers. First class floorwalkers are to receive a minimum of $50 a week instead of $45; second class, $44, instead of $40; third class, $35, with provision that all third class men now employed in shops shall receive 10 per cent increase in wages. About 1,500 workers make the additional wages under the new agreement. Watchmen are to become members and are not to work over eight hours daily nor receive less than the minimum wage.

Would Reduce Vise Fees on Passports

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Debate in the house on the bill authorizing the president to negotiate with other countries to reduce or waive the passport visa fees, developed the fact that while the American government's demand for these fees has resulted in the receipt of only $680,000 a year, it has led foreign governments to collect from American citizens $3,350,000 a year. Moreover, the raising of this barrier against cheap tourist travel has been a hardship to American schoolteachers and students in particular.

BOSSES APPROVE CHILD SLAVERY IN CONNECTICUT

By WILLIAM SIMONS.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 22.—The Connecticut house followed the procedure of the senate in refusing a hearing, limiting discussion, and snowing under the child labor amendment by a large vote. The senate had done it by 33 to 1; the house followed suit with 231 to 7.

It toow just two hours to do the trick. The republican Journal-Courier of New Haven on Jan. 5 wrote: "No single duty will confront the general assembly which calls for more careful study and intelligent action than the attempted ratification of the proposed (child labor) amendment to the federal constitution." Yet the house spent only two hours, and in these two hours not only was the amendment disposed of, but also a motion to refer to a public hearing was argued and voted down.

The motion to refer was rejected by an overwhelming aye and nay vote, after the question had taken about 45 minutes.

The Amendment Defeated.

Discussion began on ratification of the child labor amendment, with Miss Margaret Cheney of Manchester as the first speaker, making the extended argument in favor of ratification. Arguments in favor were the usual ones including the argument that children helping parents on farms were not listed in census as having an occupation.

No one however advocated that children of workers and poor farmers attending school should be maintained out of money obtained by taxing rich incomes. This is the demand of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Extra Nail in Coffin.

After the defeat of the child labor amendment by 231 to 7, to make sure that the question would not come again at this session, House Leader Alling moved to reconsider the previous action on the amendment, and "Hoped that his motion would not prevail." It didn't. At his right hand thruout the debate was Rohrback, the republican boss of Connecticut.

Such was the action of the house after an eloquent prayer on the part of the chaplain: "Oh, God, pour your spirit in to us, fathers of the state, that things may be done properly for the children, and that we may understand the children's problems and their needs. We ask thy blessing upon us, and upon the children of the state and nation."

League Urged Ratification.

The Young Workers' League of New Haven sent the house a wire urging ratification, with an economic provision for school children of workers and poor farmers. The conference for the abolition of child albor, initiated by the Workers Party, sent a similar wire.

But mill interests prevailed. The child labor amendment was not ratified by the state legislature. Nor will it come up again at this session.

Coolidge Senators to Filibuster on Postal Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Officials of the postal workers' unions are still hopeful of passage by congress before March 4, of the administration substitute for their wage increase measure which was vetoed by President Coolidge. The substitute is now in conference committee and will be reported out in time for passage in house and senate. A fillibuster in the senate is feared, under pretext of the desire of certain administration senators to explain it fully in speeches.

51 Miners' Lives—$3,900 Each

Fifty-one miners dead in Sullivan, Indiana—killed by a gas explosion.

Even the capitalist press, always careful of the interests of the mine owners, is forced to admit that a coal cutting machine broke thru the wall of a gas-filled abandoned shaft and flooded the mine with the death-dealing explosive.

The only conclusion that can be drawn, in view of the scientific accuracy of mining engineering, is that the owners knew the workings were dangerously close to this reservoir of gas, but that the coal in that part of the face was good and cheaply obtained.

The owners sent the men to their deaths for quick and easy profits.

We hear continuously of the "risks of capital," but it is noticeable that these risks do not extend to the capitalists themselves. No coal mine owner is ever killed in a coal mine.

With a callousness that is characteristic of the capitalist press when the lives of workers are weighed against dividends, it remarks that the families of the murdered miners will get $200,000 under the Indiana compensation law—carefully giving the total of the blood money paid by the state and not the miserable amounts allotted to the families deprived of their breadwinner—$3,900 for wives and children.

One thing is certain. This disaster will not hold the front pages of the capitalist press like the death of one lone cave explorer—Collins—did. Too many workers might begin to ask themselves why it is always the workers that must die in capitalist industry in return for a bare livelihood while the capitalists escape its hazards.

There can be little doubt that the present unemployment in the soft coal fields is an important factor in such disasters as that in Indiana. Jobs are few and far between and the bosses have been able to break down many of the safety rules. The workers themselves, with competition for the jobs so keen are forced to take chances that otherwise would bring a strike.

It is easily seen that the disaster is part of the vicious circle of robbery of the workers, unemployment and capitalist control of industry and government.

The ku klux klan is powerful in Indiana. It even has some followers among the miners themselves, but it serves only to divide the Indiana workers along national, racial and religious lines; its activities in this situation will be to pray over the bodies of the American-born miners and to thank its 100 per cent American god that some hated forsigners were among the victims.

What must be the answer of the coal miners to this slaughter of their fellow workers?

It must be renewed work within the union for a fighting program that will have as one of its provisions the inspection of all workings by the miners themselves, the absolute power to decide whether a mine is safe independent of all the boss-owned state and national inspection agencies.

It takes a real union to enforce such a provision and that kind of a union will be built only by following the program of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Trade Union Educational League.

The wage cut in the woolen mills is a sign that the bosses mean business. Only a united front of all the workers in the textile industry will convince these robber barons that the workers also mean business.

Connecticut Enemies of Children

Indications are that the child labor amendment will be defeated by the Connecticut legislature. The many child slaves in the mills of this state are such choice bits of profit making machinery that the bosses are extremely desirous of keeping their chains tight.

The Connecticut chamber of commerce has been unusually active in its opposition to this measure. It has conducted one of those self-starting referendums among its members, the arguments for and against prepared by persons selected by the chairman of this organization of exploiters. The arguments of the open opposition are no more damaging than those of its handpicked defender.

This hypocritical method of fighting measures for the protection of children, together with open and unashamed attacks by the more powerful groups, is testimony to the arrogant and brutal nature of capitalist rule in the United States.

Only the highest kind of conscious discipline and well-knit militant organization of workers can oppose a solid and effective front to a class that fights so stubbornly for the smallest of its privileges.

A Joint Funeral

Joint funeral services for the C. P. P. A. and the socialist party began Saturday in the Lexington Hotel. There was some acrimonious dissension among the pallbearers, but the morgue-like atmosphere was evidence that the only thing in the United States deader than the C. P. P. A. is the socialist party and that the only thing deader than the socialist party is the body of the Unknown Soldier. The only difference is that, having been dead longer, the corpse of the Unknown Soldier does not smell so bad.

Lest anyone thinks that the above remarks are a reflection upon rank and file worker delegates at the conference, we hasten to say that there were few present. The conference in its initial session, before the railway labor officialdom adjourned the C. P. P. A. sine die, was composed of these sleek gentlemen, delegates to the national convention of the socialist party and the most motley collection of paranoic preachers, briefless lawyers, with such a generous sprinklingof miscellaneous squirrel food, that our furry friends need not fear a famine.

The handful of workers who were present were deprived of a vote by the report of credentials committee.

In none of the speeches, not even in that of Debs, was the word revolution mentioned nor was there any basic difference in outlook between the railway brotherhood officials and the socialists present. All wanted to cater to the middle class—the socialists by a middle-class party, the brotherhood officialdom by working with this element in the old parties.

The speeches were devoid of any bitterness. The socialists assured the railway chiefs that they had the highest personal regard for them and the Shepherds, Robertsons and Manions reciprocated. "We are all travelling the same road," was a phrase that was used over and over again.

The gathering had as much mass character as a sewing society and if any sort of a new political party comes out of it will be the personal property of LaFollette, dependent upon his leadership for any appeal it will make to the middle-class electors.

The socialist party delegates came to the conference to collect a following, but they have not succeeded even in differentiating themselves from the 57 varieties of nuts who made up the majority of the delegates. The attitude of the railway brotherhood officialdom toward the socialists was one of polite contempt and not that of hatred and fear with which they regard the Communists.

The socialist party is dead. Its remnants must attach themselves to the LaFollette kite. As an independent entity it exists today merely upon what publicity and support it obtains by virtue of its war on Soviet Russia and the Communist International and this is a suicidal method as most of the parties of the Second International have already learned.

The C. P. P. A. is dead.

The socialist party of America is dead.

Long live the Workers (Communist) Party of America!

Soviet Recognition

The Communists will take the announced intention of the Coolidge administration to open negotiations with the Soviet government more calmly than any other section of the American people. We have had the fullest confidence at all times that the strength of the workers' and peasants' government of Russia combined with the inescapable conflicts between the capitalist nations would force recognition. The socialists will intensify their opposition to Soviet recognition, the professional alarmists will continue to bray and the offensive against the Communists may become more widespread, but Soviet Russia will be recognized.

American capitalism will try to save what it can in the Far East after the blow dealt it by the Russo-Japanese treaty. It will not have much success because here too it meets the imperialism of Great Britain as well as that of Japan while over all is the constant and growing force of Communism among the masses of Asia.

Mussolini's New Nemesis

Mussolini mobilizes troops along the Egyptian frontier and another knotty problem presents itself for solution to the imperialist European rulers.

Internal Italian affairs will be stirred also to a new heat by this move. The Aventine opposition has returned to the chamber of deputies and with the threat of war facing the Italian masses as a result of the Egyptian imbroglio there is every prospect for renewed outbreaks of popular indignation.

Danger of war is perhaps the one thing at present that will unite the anti-fascist middle-class elements opposed to Mussolini and rally the masses of the workers to the fighting program of the Italian Communist Party. War is the last thing that Mussolini should hold over the heads of the Italian workers and that he does it is a tribute to the power of the economic and political forces that are driving Italian capitalism to its death.

Arbitration for the bosses is played out in Nova Scotia. The miners welcomed the "arbitrators" recently appointed as "tools of the British Empire Steel corporation" and then sent them back to the headquarters of that company in Ottawa.

Workers in the United States can learn a whole lot from these fighting Canadian coal diggers.

The expulsion of the secretary of the Carpenters' Union of the Mexican Federation of Labor because of his Communist speeches shows that the "Monroe doctrine of labor" is being applied. Gompers is dead, but his anti-working class policy lives.

POSTAL BILL IN HOCK AS SOLONS BOOST OWN PAY

Give Selves Raise of $2,500 a Year

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.—The senate voted almost unanimously against rescinding its action in voting an increase in salary for senators from $7,500.00 to $10,000.00 per year.

Senator Norris of Nebraska moved to reconsider the action, but was howled down, only Senators Borah, and Magnus Johnson of Minnesota supporting him. Johnson was defeated in the last election and is not affected by the raise.

It is argued by Borah that the senators were inconsistent since they did not provide means of raising money to pay the increase, as Coolidge insisted be done in the case of the ill-paid postal employes.

The Ball bill, which was passed by the senate, provided for salaries of $15,000.00 each for the vice-president, the speaker of the house, and for all cabinet officers. The raise in pay for Dawes, Longworth and the cabinet members will be $3,000.00 a year a piece. Senator Smoot of Utah, as chairman of the finance committee, reported the Ball bill favorably to the senate, in spite of the fact that he has been a bitter foe of wage increases for the postal workers.

The bill raising the pay of the postal workers is still rocketing back and forth between the house and senate.

MUSIC

Bush Conservatory Orchestra Offers Musical Classics

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN.

The Bush conservatory orchestra gave its second program of this season at Orchestra Hall last Tuesday night. Bush conservatory programs are worth hearing when one is not in the mood for the new or the startling, because they are made up of old standbys in the concert literature.

This particular program opened with the "Ruy Blas" overture, the time honored prelude written by Mendelssohn for Victor Hugo's play of the same name. "Ruy Blas" is more vigorous music than is generally associated with the name Mendelssohn, and goes to show that the German could on occasion, write more than langorous whisperings from fairyland.

This was followed by two movements of the Vieuxtemps fourth violin concerto, played by Edwin Schultz one of the pupils of Richard Czerwonky, the orchestra conductor. Vieuxtemps was too good a violin virtuoso to write a remarkable concerto. Of the two movements played, an andante and a march, all the interest is centered in the solo, and the orchestra has no more individuality than an accompanying harmony. But the violin solo is full of catching, whistleable tunes. Schultz has some tone, but his intonation is frequently ragged.

Followed the great and passionate prelude and love-death of the Wagnerian opera "Tristan and Isolde," the vocal solo of the latter section sung by Julia Rode. There was polished, perfected orchestra playing in the prelude, but in the love-death the orchestra drowned out the voice. This was Czerwonky's fault, not Miss Rode's.

A suite of dances from a little known opera of Saint-Saens, "Henry VIII," opened the second section of the program. This music has not been played here abouts in so long that it is again new. Evidently the Henry VIII that the opera is concerned with is the English king of many wives (who, by the way, was a composer of some ability) for the dances are all in Scotch style. Saint-Saens was a composer of peculiar adaptability. He could adopt for a day or a week any style, because he had little that could be called a style of his own.

In these dances he uses the Scotch five note scale and evokes the mental associations of kilts and plaids and a rich brogue. His shrewd orchestral chemistry can be heard in the second movement, called "Idyll Ecossaise," (Scotch Idyll) wherein a melody in the oboe solo is accompanied by a drone in the cellos, producing as near an imitation of a bagpipe as can be gotten from orchestra instruments.

Harold Sanford played the first movement of one of the great classics of piano literature, the first concerto of Chaykovski. This is the "grand style," to cop a phrase of our favorite musical essayist. It is a masterwork of the first order. It has in it all that one associates with the name Chaykovski, the Russian's sweetness of melody, his power and his melancholy. Sanford played it a bit more slowly than is traditional, but with excellent understanding of its meaning.

The program wound up with the ever popular "March of the Boyars" by Halvorsen.

Cubans to Join Fight on Imperialism

notwithstanding the comparatively high degree of organization already prevailing among its workers, should have no unified national labor movement.

To those who are familiar with the problems confronting the Cuban workers—the fierce opposition of government, sugar kings, tobacco lords and shipping magnates, and the selfishness and treachery of so-called "labor leaders"—the reason is clear. Nevertheless, a nation-wide labor organization in Cuba must and will be formed.

Hands to the Task.

The untiring activity of the Havana Federation of Labor and the response which the Cuban unions have given to the general congress of last December are guarantees that neither General Crowder, nor the big business interests, nor the traitors within the ranks of labor itself can prevent the formation of a militant Confederacion General de Trabajadores in Cuba. You have been delegated by your unions for that purpose. Hands to the task!

Cuba is a country without vast distances and without those sectional differences which have sometimes temporarily divided the workers of other lands. As the editor of Justicia points out, the technical problems of confederation in Cuba should be relatively easy of solution. Once established, the Confederacion General de Trabajadores will be a mighty and flexible weapon for the defense of the workers and peasants on all parts of the island.

Cuban workers are among the most exploited in the western hemishpere. The big sugar and tobacco companies, enjoying profits of hundreds of millions of dollars each year, wrung from the toil of the Cuban workers and peons, pay out to their wage slaves only a mere pittance and force them to live and work under the most abominable conditions.

Isolated struggles of the workers, however stubborn and courageous, are of little avail against these giant combines of capital, directed from Wall Street. There must be a single confederation of labor, with local units thruout the island, capable of dealing powerful blows simultaneously at a number of different points. The organization must be determined to fight thru the class struggle to the bitter end, until the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of a new society by, for and of the workers.

The struggle will not end with the formation of the Confederasion General de Trabajadores. The Cuban workers must become part of the world revolutionary movement led by the Communist International and the Red International of Labor Unions.

Against Wall Street Imperialism.

Cuban workers do not need to be reminded that their struggle is an international one—and above all, a struggle against the imperialist power of Wall Street. Three-fourths of all the capital invested in Cuba is Wall Street capital. Strikes in the sugar and shipping industries are strikes against Wall Street. It was Wall Street that stood back of the Cuban government last summer in the brutal suppression of the strikes in the sugar centrals. It was Wall Street that sent American battleships to Havana harbor during the general strike of the harbor workers.

So long as the power of Wall Street is left undisturbed, Cuba will be a free country only in name and the emancipation of the Cuban workers from wage slavery will be only an idle dream. Consciously or unconsciously, the Confederacion General de Trabajadores will have to fight against Wall Street.

We Ask Your Solidarity.

The Pan-American Anti-Imperialist League, consisting of labor unions, peasant organizations, co-operatives, students' groups, Communist parties, etc., calls upon the Cuban National Labor Congress to join with the workers of North, Central and South America in a concerted struggle against American imperialism. We ask you to make common cause with us against the common enemy.

More important than anything else, however, is the immediate establishment of the Confederacion General de Trabajadores in Cuba. This your convention must not fail to do. There have been other attempts in the past but all were disrupted or nullified. No more delays, comrades! No more postponements. The best elements of the Cuban labor movement are represented in your convention. Forward to the Confederacion General de Trabajadores!

Viva el movimiento trabajador de Cuba!

Viva la solidaridad obrera panamericana!

Viva la solidaridad obrera mundial!

WARDEN GUILTY OF GRAFT GETS 18 MONTHS BIT

Priest Gets Off Easy by Squealing

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 22.—Albert E. Sartain, formerly warden at the United States penitentiary here, and Lawrence Riehl, both of Columbus, Ohio, were found guilty here today by a jury in United States district court of having conspired to solicit and accept bribes from prisoners at the institution in return for "soft berths." L. J. Fletcher formerly deputy warden at the prison, was found not guilty. The catholic chaplain of the prison turned state's evidence and was not sentenced, altho he admitted his guilt.

Sartain was sentenced to a year and six months in the United States prison and Riehl to a year and a day.

Riehl was informed by Judge Erwin that his sentence was lightened because he was not an official at the prison.

The verdict was announced fifteen hours after the jury had retired from deliberation. The maximum penalty is two years in prison and fine of $10,000.

Attorneys for the convicted men announced they would immediately ask for a new trial.

Coolidge Plan to Abolish Taxes on Estates Opposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A clash in the next congress over tax revision, which will split the republican majority into two distinct groups, was predicted here today as a result of President Coolidge's flat advocacy of repealing federal inheritance taxes.

Influential republican members of congress expressed disapproval of the president's proposition.

Among them was Rep. Wm. R. Green of Iowa, chairman of the powerful ways and means committee, which will have charge of framing tax revision.

The proposal to get the federal government out of the inheritance tax field, probably will be included in the Coolidge-Mellon plan, which is to be presented early in the 69th congress. It will be opposed by the democrats generally and by quite a few republicans.

MANILA, Feb. 22—Three American army officers and three soldiers were killed and 14 persons were injured today when a crowded tram car overturned at Corregidor.

CONGRESS VOTES TO RAISE ITS OWN PAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.—Congress voted today to raise its own salary.

By a vote of 237 to 93, the house passed the senate bill under which salaries of members of the house and senate are raised from $7,500 a year to $10,000.

The measure also provided for increasing the salaries of cabinet members, the speaker of the house and the vice president from $12,500 to $15,000 a year.

The bill to increase the salary of postal employes is still hanging fire.

GOVERNOR DROVE HARD BARGAIN IN PARDON SALE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TOPEKA, Kans., Feb. 22.—Testimony that Carl J. Peterson, former state banking commissioner, had told him over the telephone on Dec. 18, after negotiations for the parole of Walter Grundy, convicted Hutchinson banker: "I got to the governor, and the best we can do is $4,000," marked the direct testimony of A. Lewis Oswald, Hutchinson attorney, in the preliminary hearing of Peterson and former Governor Jonathan M. Davis on charges of conspiracy and soliciting a bribe.

Finally Cut Price

Later, Oswald testied, the alleged price was cut to $2,500 but when he came here Jan. 9, to complete the negotiations, he found the case of Fred W. Pollman, paroled banker of Lacygne which resulted in the arrest of Davis, and his son, Russell, was public and he realized the efforts for Grundy were ended.

JACK GAVEEL, I. W. W., FAVORS UNITED FRONT

Article Appears in Tomorrow's Daily

By HARRISON GEORGE

In tomorrow's Trade Union Educational League Section, the DAILY WORKER will run an article from Jack Gaveel, whom all I. W. W. with a knowledge of their organization's history, will remember as one of its best fighters before, during and after the war.

Joining the I. W. W. in 1923, he became prominent in the organization in 1916 and 1917, and was indicted with the Chicago group according to my recollection, but was never apprehended. He did not, as many did, however, run away from the struggle, or become a "tired" radical, or lose the fine wobbly spirit which prompted him in the days I knew him, to take a real Marxian position, a Leninist position, toward the imperialist war.

Imprisoned Three Years and Deported

Jack Gaveel was a fighter, and when the organization was in the war crisis stood loyally by it on the firing line. He held many positions in the I. W. W. and discharged responsibility with credit. Finally he was imprisoned by the venomous "criminal syndicalism" law of California and spent three years at San Quentin, where he led the first strike of 54 wobblies against discrimination by forced continuous work in the jute mill.

When he was released from San Quentin he was held incommunicado at Ellis Island and then suddenly deported while very ill.

Now he writes from Hamburg, Germany.

Jack Gaveel asks questions of the I. W. W. that it must answer. That he now realizes the overwhelming necessity of a fight on capitalism based on the tactics of the Red Inernational of Labor Unions, although when in San Quentin he did, as I recall, write critically in opposition to it, is proof of the fact that the program of the R. I. L. U. in the face of actual conditions, is sound enough to win to its banner the best revolutionary elements of the I. W. W.

The article of JJack Gaveel (and other M. T. W. members' letters favoring the R. I. L. U. position) evidences a rising tide in the earnest revolutionary membership of the I. W. W. which will not forever brook the obstructions of anarchist opposition and sectarian isolation.

Understanding Just Beginning

In view of the coming conference for unity of the marine workers of the western hemisphere, called by the M. T. W. of the I. W. W., these signs of life in the M. T. W. are of profound importance. Seamen, on the whole, cannot be the same sort of shortsighted muddlehead as is the stump-rancher editor of the Industrial Worker.

Although it is manifestly impossible to send every I. W. W. to Hamburg or Moscow to let practical experience teach him to quit following anarchist and confusionist leaders and think for himself, still there is no doubt that the I. W. W. and the R. I. L. U. are ultimately bound to fight side by side against the onslaughts of capitalism.

HOLD COMMUNIST MASS MEETING AMONG NEGROES

What the Workers (Communist) Party, the American section of the Communist International has put forth as its demands for the Negro workers in the present aldermatic elections, will be the chief subject under discussion at a mass meeting to be held tonight, Monday, at 8 P. M., at the South Side Community Center, 3201 So. Wabash Ave.

For the quarter of a million Negro workers of Chicago, the Workers (Communist) Party demands:

1. Absolute social, economic and political equality for all workers, regardless of race or color.
2. Equal pay for all workers for equal work.
3. Abolish Jim-Crow neighborhoods, restaurants, theaters, trains and schools.
4. Fight the ku klux klan.
5. Fight police terrorization of friendly association between the races.
6. Absolutely equal admission to and rights in all trade unions.

The speakers will be Edward L. Doty, Communist leader among the Negroes of Chicago, at present a plumber and formerly railroad and stockyards worker, Gordon Owens, Negro printing trades worker and well known Communist and Karl Reeve, reporter for the DAILY WORKER.

PLUTES HONOR WASHINGTON, FIRST BIG AMERICAN CAPITALIST WHO STOLE LANDS AND PUBLIC OFFICE

Yesterday Mayor Dever, who is aiding the traction barons to steal millions of dollars from the city, Charles Moderwell, enemy of the teachers' union and head of the board of education, and other professional politicians celebrated the birthday of George Washington, father of capitalism in the United States and the first Teapot Domer

Dever told the school children the old gag about Washington never telling a lie. Dever forgot to tell them that all honest historians of the revolutionary period, and Washington's own letters and journals, declare that Washington achieved his first victory in the Indian Wars by liberally supplying rum to the Indians.

Get Votes With Rum

Washington secured his election as burgess in his home county in Virginia by buying more rum for the voters than his opponent had the money to supply. Washington bought out whole taverns, dispensing barrels and barrels of rum, and bewailing the high price it cost to buy his way into public office.

At one time Washington was worth close to a million dollars, which in those days, was a fabulous fortune. Washington acquired his fortune first by marrying a rich widow, and second by acquiring thru unscrupulous methods thousands of acres of land in western Pennsylvania near what is now Wheeling, W. Va. Washington's agents drove the Indians off these lands, and also drove white settlers from their homes at the point of a gun.

Washington acquired forty thousand acres of rich land by secretly sending his agent, William Crawford,

BLOOD MONEY FOR REPARATIONS WRUNG FROM DORTMUND DEAD

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Five months of operation of the Dawes plan have proposed 394,561,000 gold marks, of which sum 108,000,000 marks was received during January alone, according to reports of Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, published today in Le Temps. Nothing is said of the conditions these payments force on the German workers—nor the 138 dead at Dortmund recently.

The period ended January 31 and the money was distributed 161,000,000 marks to France, 85,000,000 to Great Britain, 38,000,000 to Belgium, 32,000,000 to Italy and remainder to the small powers. Uncle Sam, is going to get his from now on, in fact he has all the powers of a pawn-broker over Europe, and at Paris recently forced the allies to agreed to divide up the loot.

ABRAMOVICH IS KEPT OFF PUBLIC PLATFORM HERE

Socialists Won't Let Him Speak in Open

Raphael Abramovich, anti-Soviet agent of the Second (socialist) International, now spreading propaganda in the United States against the First Workers' Republic, was the honored guest of the national convention of the socialist party, which convened yesterday in the Douglas Park auditorium.

Abramovich Didn't Speak Sunday

Abramovich sat on the platform at the socialist mass meeting Sunday in the Ashland audorium, where Debs was the main speaker, but the socialists did not dare put him up to speak before a public gathering.

It was the obvious intention of the socialists to make sure, Sunday, at the Ashland Auditorium that their spy would be able to make a speech in at least one American city, even tho only for a few seconds, without being compelled to quit because of workers' demonstrations against him for his slanders against Soviet Russia. However their plan was abandoned when the socialists leaders became convinced that the audience was composed of workers who were for Soviet Russia and would tolerate no vilification of the Workers' Republic from the lying Abramovich.

The meeting was dead. The speeches of the leading socialists such as Oneal, Viadeck and Kirkpatrick roused no enthusiasm. Only when Debs mentioned the necessity of defending class war prisoners was there applause. When he spoke of the Communists and supporting them in their fight against the criminal syndicalism laws, an outburst of applause came from all over the hall, much to the distress of the socialist leaders.

At the end of the meeting the workers in the audience started singing the International, and shouting: "Down with Abramovich," and "Why didn't Debs speak of Soviet Russia?"

It will be impossible for Abramovich to speak at a public meeting in Chicago now that the revolutionary workers know he is here. He will be forced to vent his spleen against the Soviet Republic in private to small audiences of socialist leaders and trade union bureaucrats.

Morris Hillquit opened the convention Monday and after a few words introduced Eugene Debs, who is chairman of the party.

Hillquit then introduced Abramovich, as "a delegate from the Russian social-democratic party." After Abramovich spoke, declaring Russia to be "oppressed by the Communists," Hillquit translated the speech and committees were elected.

The socialist delegates present showed their approval of Abramovich's hackneyed attack on the workers' and peasantss government of Russia.

Makes His Stock Speech.

Abramovich made his stock speech calling for "democracy" and attacking the Soviet government as a "dictatorship." The tool of the Second International, and counter-revolutionist for once during his tour, was permitted to finish his lies. At every previous start in his speeches before American workers, Abramovich has been forced to swallow his words and stop talking, because of the disapproval of his audiences. But Abramovich found in the socialist delegates a sympathetic audience.

"MODEL MINE" NO. 9, AT NOKOMIS, ILL., CLOSES INDEFINITELY

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

NOKOMIS, Ill., Feb. 23.—Scores of coal miners in this vicinity are leaving for other camps. That they have begun drifting away, say "old timers," augured an inedfinite shutdown of mine of No. 9, belonging to the Illinois and Indiana Coal corporation as a result of the storing of mine machinery, the drawing of fires and the sealing of the mine. It has been considered the "model mine of Illinois."

War Vet Dies in Flames

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Feb. 23.—A crippled war veteran was killed, two firemen injured and 15 men, women and children fled for their lives when fire swept the Belmont hotel here today. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

NEW CONFAB TO BRING VICTORY, SAY STRIKERS

Street Cleaners Are Confident of Result

A conference between commissioner of public works Sprague, representing the city, and Michael Carrozzo representing the 2,500 striking street cleaners and garbage collectors will be held in City Hall at 5 o'clock tomorrow, afternoon.

This conference is expected to terminate the strike, which has lasted for a week, and has completely tied up the city's street cleaning and garbage disposal system.

Rubbish litters the street. Barrels, boxes and cans can be seen on almost every block overflowing with garbage, ashes and rubbish. Papers and debris have drifted away from alleys where they were piled in some cases many feet high and the rain is pressing the dirty mass into the streets and sidewalks. Gutters are stopped-up.

The strikers have given Carrozzo full power to act for them, but rejected the compromise offer of Sprague, to raise their pay ten cents a day. As one of the street cleaners said, "That's not enough to buy a loaf of bread with."

Senate Hands Blow to Sen. Underwood's Muscle Shoals Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The Underwood Muscle Shoals bill was dealt a stinging blow in the senate late today.

Upholding the ruling of the chair that the conferees injected new legislation in the original bill, the senate voted to send the measure back to conference where considerable delay is expected before it can be brought out again for final action. The vote was 45 to 41.

REPORTS ON SITUATION IN BUILDING, METAL AND PRINTING INDUSTRIES, AT GENERAL T. U. E. L. MEETING, FEB. 25

The next regular monthly meeting of local Chicago of the Trade Union Educational League will be held on Wednesday evening, February 25, in North West Hall, corner Western and North avenues.

Comrade Jack Johnstone, secretary of the national committee of the T. U. E. L., will tell of the present situation in the Carpenters' Union, where Hutcheson is leading a campaign of expulsions in Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Reports on the activities of the militants in the unions in Chicago will be made at the meeting. Particularly interesting are the reports regarding the situations in the metal, printing and building industries. Following the reports, discussion will take place in which those who are interested are invited to take part. These meetings of the Chicago T. U. E. L. are gatherings of all trade union militants who are fighting for progress in the unions. The problems confronting them in their struggle are discussed and every militant, irrespective of the union he belongs, gets a comprehensive view of the situation in every union.

Readers of the DAILY WORKER as well as all trade unionists and members of the Workers Party are invited to attend.

ABRAMOVICH AT CONVENTION OF U. S. SOCIALISTS

road brotherhoods and the socialists. He predicted a "rebirth" of the third party. Johnston did not seem to be disturbed at the withdrawal of the labor elements and the socialists.

"The new third party will incorporate progressives and liberals and will not indicate an extreme movement such as 'labor' or 'farmer-labor,'" Johnston said.

Johnston said the party will be a LaFollette party which will be named at a convention, the date of which has not been set. He said the various states will hold conventions before the national convention and "an executive committee of five will be announced in a few days."

Consider Secondhand Broadcaster.

Only one resolution was adopted in the early hours of the convention. It dealt with the purchase of a second hand broadcasting station in Philadelphia, advised by Leo Harkins, "socialist" organizer.

In his speech Debs was strong for starting a weekly paper and getting hold of a printing plant. Both these steps indicate the utter bankruptcy of the "socialist" movement, which is frantically striving for some sort of expression.

Report on the "C. P. P. A."

Debs heads a sub-committee that will bring in a report on "socialist" participation in the conference for progressive political action. Hillquit had assured the convention that the "socialists" had wisely participated in the C. P. P. A.

Three Die When Locomotive Leaves Rails in Kentucky

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 23.—Caught beneath their overturned locomotive after it left the rails, J. C. Maringer, 40, engineer of Covington, Kentucky, and Leroy McKinley, 27, fireman of Latonia, Ky., were crushed to death on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, eight miles south of Covington, Kentucky today. Herbert Darnes of Lima, Ohio, was found seriously injured near the wrecked engine. He is thought to have been "beating" his way south.

As the engine reached a curve near Grants tunnel, it jumped the track. The train was the second section of the southland limited. The first section, a well filled passenger train, took the curve safely a few minutes before.

COOLIDGE USES AIRCRAFT PROBE TO FOSTER WAR

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—After their work was effectively stopped by the Coolidge administration, the house aircraft committee commenced drafting its report. The investigation conducted by the committee into aircraft conditions is being used by the corporations controlling the Coolidge government to speed up the building of a larger army and navy.

"Scandals" aiming to show that both the army and navy are too small were presented to the committee, and immediately the kept press got busy with cartoons and headline stories meant to force the American workers into another mad "preparedness" drive which would lead to war.

Plutes Remember George Washington

tips as to the future disposition of these lands which he learned thru his position in the army. When Washington, who was the father of capitalism in the United States, died, his stolen lands, exclusive of his wife's Mount Vernon estate, were valued at five hundred and thirty thousand dollars.

Married Stupid Woman.

Washington was satisfied to go thru life with an admittedly stupid and homely woman, Mrs. Martha Custis, because when he married her he took charge of her fortune of fifteen thousand acres of land, in addition to three hundred Negro slaves and thirty thousand pounds.

In his first letter to William Crawford, dated Sept. 21, 1767, Washington outlined his plot for the seizure of western lands. He first cautiously requested Crawford to stake out for him, with the utmost secrecy as to who was behind the plot, "a tract of about fifteen hundred, two thousand or more acres."

"Could such a piece of land be found you would do me a singular favor in falling upon some method of securing it immediately from the attempts of others," Washington wrote, "As nothing is more certain than that the lands could not remain long ungranted, when once it is known that rights are to be had." Washington had learned from his official friends that land was going to be granted, by the state of Pennsylvania and immediately sent Crawford out to secure it for him, in the approved tea-pot dome style. Thru the next ten years Washington stubbornly fought, both the Indians and the white settlers, to maintain these lands. He later made use of "tips" obtained thru his position as general of the American army to make more secure the lands which Crawford had staked out, on a percentage basis.

Get Around The Law

"It is possible," Washington continued, "That the custom in Pennsylvania will not admit so large a quantity of land as I desire. If so this may be arranged by making several entries to the same amount, if the expense is not too heavy.

"All I want if the land can only be secured from others, that is all I want at present. By this time it may be easy for you to discover that my plan is to secure a good deal of land. You will consequently come in for a very handsome quantity. I recommend that you keep this whole matter secret."

Crawford replied that the staking of land had been "stopped by the Indians" as "the Indians are not paid for the land." Nevertheless, Crawford set to work. He asked Washington as a favor, to secure for him the title of a Negress who had run off and taken refuge with the Indians. "The wench I have ran away from them and came to Fort Pitt," Crawford wrote, "I am afraid there are some scheming already to purchase her."

It was only thru the aid of Lord Dunmore, governor of Virginia before the revolution and a notorious lackey of King George, that Washington was able to secure his land. On June 16, 1794 Washington wrote, "My land on the Ohio and Great Kenhawa rivers amounts to 32,373 acres." Upon a second survey, however, it was found that Washington's land was even greater in extent.

Sordid History

The sordid history of Washington's land grafts is written in his own hand in letters to his agent Crawford. These letters show how Washington pitted his Negro slaves and his white convict laborers, who were also used as slaves during their term of imprisonment, against the western white settlers and against the Negroes. They show how Washington drew governors, army officers and agents into his plots, and bought them off on a commission basis. They show the cunning and cupidity of the first big American capitalist.

To Serve His Country Is to Neglect Himself, Says McAndrew of Boy

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 23.—"A boy should have it drilled into him that he enters school for the same purpose as joining the army, to serve his country not himself," said William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago Public Schools and president of the department of superintendents of the National Education Association today at the opening of the 61st annual convention of that organization here.

GIRL STRIKERS SHOW SPEED IN NEW YORK STRIKE

Scabs Afraid to Go Out for Lunch

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 23.—Eight girl pickets were brought into various courts Saturday from the garment workers' strike lines where 20,000 workers, mostly girls, are fighting for organization and better conditions and wages.

Sara Platkin of the Bronx, was accused of attacking a scab. The scab was trying to go to work at the Pearlman Dress company, 55 West 16th street. The judge in the Jefferson Market court held Sara for $500 bail on a charge of "disorderly conduct." If scabs are to be beaten up, it must in an orderly manner, apparently. Workers Party and Trade Union Educational League members are leading the rank and file fighters.

Sylvia Goldstein, Anneida Mazzei and Marie Absepin were other girls haled before judges, Anneida drawing a hold over for $200 bail, the other two being dismissed after nonappearance of the complainant. They had upset a fine tray load of sandwiches being taken into a shop for the scabs who were afraid to go out to eat lunch. Four other girls who had entered a shop to do a little organizing were dismissed with a judicial bawl-out.

An organization committee of 300 was sent out with instructions to organize every shop not pulled out by the strike on Thursday.

Two Workers Fired for Aiding Rescue Work at Sand Cave

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Two of the volunteer "miners" who left their work here to go to Cave City, Ky., to aid in the rescue work for Floyd Collins, cave explorer, imprisoned in Sand Cave, returned today to find that their absence had cost them their jobs.

They are: E. F. McIntyre and Alfred Woolven.

Both carried "honorable discharges" from the Sand Cave work signed by H. T. Carmichael, general supervisor of operations which stated they had done "heroic and valuable work in connection with the attempted rescue and deserved every consideration for their service" but these availed naught.

Migratory Birds, Not Workers, Are Government Pets

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23.—Among radical labor circles there is some amusement and much indignation at the Calles government's announcement that it would "offer every assistance" to the "special representative" of the American government to arrive at an agreement upon the "protection of migratory birds."

It is pointed out that while Calles and the Yankees are solemnly chattering about protecting migratory birds, thousands upon thousands of migratory workers, who pour into the United States are treated worse than cattle, half-starved, over-worked and driven from steel mills to beet fields, extra gangs on the railroad or to the stopes of metal mines of the west.

Sinclair Oil Thru in Soviet Russia

MOSCOW, Russia, Feb. 23.—The Sinclair Oil company failed to live up to its agreement with Soviet Russia, and its concessions in Saghalin are virtually dead, Gregory Pyatkov, chairman of the concessions committee, is quoted as saying in press dispatches. The Japanese are given concessions in the Saghalin territory by the terms of the Russo-Japanese treaty.

The Soviet government is reported to have donated more than 100,000,000 gold rubles for buying seed grain to insure a plentiful crop next year.

KNIT GOODS WORKERS STILL ON STRIKE IN NEW YORK SHOPS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 23.—The knitted underwear workers, those in the spring needle trades making fabrics for knitted garments, are continuing their strike in Brooklyn and Manhattan shops under joint jurisdiction of the International Ladies' Garment Workers and the United Textile Workers. The union, until late independent, is growing in spite of the dull season in the trade.

Arrests of pickets occur in this strike, but not so frequently as in the white goods and children's dress workers' strike where several times as many workers are involved. Recognition of the union and generally improved conditions are sought by the strikers.

scene or else submerge themselves in the mulligan.

"FORGET that class conscious stuff," said McKaig, of Idaho. A delegate from the north side of the city of Columbus, Ohio, warned the socialists that unless that party disappeared from human ken, the people living on the north side of Columbus would have nothing to do with it and without the northsiders, the thing would not go. This delegate had no particular objection to labor but he wanted a party for "independent Americans." He was tired of listening to Hillquit's internationalism he said which consisted of painting the relations between Ramsay MacDonald and King George in glowing terms.

THERE were many twitching lips and itching palms in the audience at the thot of kissing some royal anatomy, as the millionaire socialist lawyer dwelt on the rise to office and governmental honors of the British labor leaders. "B. & O. Bill" was not in a very happy position. Motions, points of order, questions of parliamentary inquiry flew around him. Sometimes he harpooned them, but they usually went by him. Several motions were lost and the delegates were too busy trying to get the floor to bother about them.

THE way Johnston was treated by the body won the sympathy of Leo Harkins of Philadelphia, who used to be a leftwinger a few years ago. He made a spirited speech which was not listened to, while the delegates were leaving the hall, urging them to be nice to "B. & O. Bill" when they met on the following day. "Bill" did a lot of thinking while he was seated behind the presiding table. Some observers thot he knew what he wanted. Others thot that he was in a daze. He was very much alone anyway. A few of the lesser lights in the sixteen standard railway organizations were there to keep the home fires burning. Their main object was to see that nothing tangible came out of the convention. They succeeded admirably.

LABOR was conspicuous by its absence there. If the sentiment for the formation of a labor party can be measured by the representation from the workers and farmers at that convention, it must be placed at zero. The only organized element that favored a labor party in the slightest degree were the socialists and they used it only as a trading point. After the convention was over delegates shook their heads when asked for their opinion of the chances of the new and nameless party. Old and sincere veterans in the socialist movement who have looked on helplessly at the way the party traveled from its original moorings were disgusted. The shyster lawyers, shoddy intellectuals and homeless political wanderers, found themselves no worse off than when they came.

SHEPPARD of the conductors has a wholesome respect for money. He must be a disciple of Napoleon Bonaparte. "Nap," according to Shephard, once said that there were three essentials to success. The first was money and so were the other two. He charged the delegates with an indecent exhibition of poverty when the chairman appealed for a collection to pay the deficit. The brotherhoods would no longer play the role of rich uncle to this bunch of deadbeats. Yet there was at least one millionaire among them, brother, or Mr., but not once Comrade Hillquit.

IT was a good convention, the most entertaining I ever attended. One delegate from the needle trades admitted unofficially that it was the biggest collection of renegade socialists that ever gathered together. But they were more intent on spiking the plans of the socialist party than accomplishing anything of value. It was a splendid victory for political hygiene; two rotten political organizations were buried in one day.

Probe Deaths of Four Run Down by "Big Four" Train

HARRISBURG, Illinois, Feb. 23.—Deaths of four coal miners, killed when they were struck by a Big Four train while sitting on the track near here, Sunday night, will be probed at a coroner's inquest.

The dead were: William Quinn, 40; Luther Foster, 56; Henry Cooley, 39; and his brother John Cooley, 37. All were Saline county miners. A body believed to be that of James McCurt last night, was identified as Quinn today when McCurt was found at his boarding house.

The tracks where the accident occurred were lined with the curious today. Parts of the bodies were scattered along the track an eighth of a mile.

The engineer of the train said all four men were sitting on the west rail and were not seen until the engine was almost on them.

LaFollette "Progressives" Never Heard of Loans to Anti-Soviet Agent Here

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, a little more of the truth about America's participation in the world war comes to light when it is shown that President Woodrow Wilson ordered $1,500,000,000 loaned to the bankrupt nations of western Europe, immediately following the war. The Hearst press is getting very excited because this was done illegally. The money was raised thru the sale of the so-called "Liberty Bonds" for war purposes. Congress had voted against the after-the-war loans. But Wilson, in Paris, at the Peace Conference, building his League of Nations—the Black Capitalist International—ordered the loans put thru. Capitalist Europe had to be bulwarked against the threat of the social revolution over all Europe, in the winter months of 1918-19, following immediately on the heels of the war.

• • • •

The excuse for extending aid to Czecho-Slovakia was typical of all the rest. It is declared that advances were made to provide "food and food products urgently needed in Czecho-Slovakia as a military measure to prevent the spread of anarchy." Everywhere that the foundations of capitalism were melting away, these Wilson was on the job with American gold to bolster them up.

• • • •

Additional facts come to light as to the careful solicitude harbored by the Wilson regime for Boris Bakmeteff, who arrived in the United States as the Kerensky spokesman after the Bolshevik revolution had placed power in the hands of the workers and peasants.

Altho without a government Bakmeteff became one of Wilson's petted darlings. American gold was lavishly showered upon him. Loans were made to him on his own "I. O. U." while the United States government joined the other nations of the Versailles Peace in a feverish effort to overthrow Soviet Rule.

• • • •

Much of this has already been pointed out in the columns of the DAILY WORKER. It has been broadcasted to the nation in the educational propaganda of the American Communist movement.

One of the surprises of this latest "scandal" is the admission made by two members of the foreign relations committee of the house of representatives that they knew nothing about the loans to Bakmeteff. They are now "surprised" to hear of them. They confess:

HENRY ALLEN COOPER, republican representative from Wisconsin, LaFollette supporter: "I was particularly astonished at the news of the loans to Bakmeteff, the so-called Russian ambassador, who really represented nothing but a government on horseback."

EDWARD E. BROWNE, also republican representative from Wisconsin, and also a LaFollette supporter: "I knew that we had sold our surplus war supplies in Europe at an extremely low figure, but the other facts came as a surprise to me. I am at a loss to understand why we lent money to the Russian ambassador after the Russian government had collapsed."

• • • •

Both Cooper and Browne have been in capitalist politics for a long time under the tutelage of LaFollette. Cooper was the LaFollette spokesman on the floor of the national republican convention, at Cleveland, last summer. Both of them, actually members of the house foreign relations committee, now confess that they were ignorant of the current information that the American capitalist government at Washington was carefully nurturing the interests of an agent of the Russian counter-revolution in this country. And Browne, even now with this information thrust upon him, doesn't understand why American capitalism should do such a "naughty thing." It is beyond the infantile comprehension of the capitalist brand of democracy that parades as "LaFollette progressivism." Yet it is only another display of their usual childish faith in capitalism.

• • • •

Wilson not only backed the Bakmeteff mission in this country, but the money turned over to the fake "ambassador" also helped finance his counter-revolutionary embassies in Norway and Belgium. Bakmeteff also tried to get money to support his embassies in Brazil, Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay, where the pro-Bolshevik sentiment, especially in the trade union movements of those countries, was very strong. It is claimed that these ambitions of Bakmeteff were not satisfied. But any honest worker may have his own doubts.

• • • •

Yet there are capitalists and their political lackeys in this country who claim Soviet Russia ought to repay the czarist debts as a preliminary to recognition by the United States.

Instead the workers of this country should vehemently demand that the United States government indemnify the Russian Soviet Republic for the damage it has done thru supporting counter-revolutionary activities against it. This would easily mount into billions of good American gold dollars.

• • • •

Cooper and Browne, speaking for their brand of "progressivism," offer their usual remedy, in the words of the former, "a comprehensive investigation."

Let the workers and poor farmers, who supported this cheap LaFollette by-product of capitalist politics at last fall's elections realize that what they need is comprehensive action under the leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party. And the only worth while action is for the workers and farmers to struggle as vigorously for the overthrow of this capitalist system, as Woodrow Wilson labored to maintain it, especially in the days of peace negotiations at Versailles.

Warren's Name Held in Senate Because of Sugar Connections

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The nomination of Charles B. Warren, as attorney general today again was held up in the senate judiciary committee. Warren's objected to because he was active as lawyer for the sugar trust. He was president of the Michigan Sugar company.

After a two hour session, the committee could not agree on a report and another meeting was summoned for tomorrow when administration senators announced they would make a final drive to get Warren's name before the senate for confirmation.

War in Air Boosters Would Pay for Probe; Must Be Money in It

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—Offers of personal finances to enable the house aircraft committee to continue the investigation into aircraft conditions in the army and navy comes to the committee today.

The committee abruptly terminated its sensational-investigation giving as the reason "lack of funds," but more reliably understood to be opposition from the White House, war and navy departments.

CARPENTERS OF DETROIT JUNK A FAKER MACHINE

Prepare to Fight for More Wages

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 23.— Either the police have abandoned Hutcheson's fakers or Hutcheson's fakers have decided that the police cannot be used effectively against the rank and file. Perhaps it is a combination of both.

Suffice it to say that when the delegates gathered for the district council of carpenters' meeting Thursday, Feb. 19, they found the gallant toreadors (bull throwers, not bull fighters) Sharrock and Botterill, minus their usual police guard.

"Brother" Sharrock mounted the president's stand, ordered Reynolds to leave the hall, and when his command was not obeyed, he emulated the Spanish dictator, Primo de Rivera and beat a strategic retreat, calling on all the faithful to follow him. Five delegates from his Local Union, 1906, and "Jelly" Fish, the secretary, also of that local union, followed the whipped cur out.

Council Gets Down to Business.

After the meeting had been purged of this excrement, the solid delegations from five local unions and the one man representing Local 1906, as a delegate, held a meeting at which they discussed ways and means of ousting Sharrock from office so that the rank and file sentiment might be carried into action by the district council without further sabotage by Sharrock and his co-weakling secretary, "Jelly" Fish.

After some discussion, a committee of six, one from each local union, was elected with instructions to bring charges against Sharrock for violating the constitution and by-laws of the district council and to institute recall proceedings in case the little czar in Detroit or the big czar in Indianapolis might overrule the trial verdict. This committee stands instructed to visit all local unions to acquaint the whole membership with the situation and current developments.

Opportunity Knocks But Once.

On leaving the hall Thursday night, Secretary Fish lingered behind and voiced the opinion that the policy of letting the matter take care of itself with the passage of time and the wearing out of the rank and file was a mistaken one, and that he had told them (Sharrock and Botterill) on leaving the meeting that unless the matter was settled quickly, it would be settled by others than themselves.

It was pointed out to Fish by Reynolds that he had lost the respect of the membership by signing the injunction and that circumstances offered him a rare opportunity to square himself by returning to the meeting and producing the minutes. He recognized the opportunity, but refused to avail himself of it. The sentiment of the delegates showed clearly that Fish is thru serving them. Perhaps Hutcheson will reward this act of treachery to the rank and file.

Must Prepare to Fight Season.

On Friday night, Local Unions 1894 and 420 carried into effect the policy adopted by the district council delegates by demanding the removal of Sharrock and instructing their delegates to take action to that end. Local Union 420 elected by a committee of three to visit Local 1806, to ascertain if the rank and file of 1806 supported the action of their delegates and of Sharrock and Fish in sabotaging the district council meetings and holding up organizational work at this critical period of the year in the building industry.

The rank and file in Detroit have voted overwhelmingly to increase their wages on May 1, and they wish to see action taken to support this demand for an increase.

Another Liar for Sale—Cheap!

Last Wednesday night, Reynolds brought the matter of his expulsion, the injunction and police, and other phases of the situation to the attention of the Detroit Federation of Labor for the first time. In reply, Sharrock, who is also a delegate, brazenly admitted these acts which constitute treason to the labor movement and said he had no regrets whatever. He lied like hell.

He further stated that "When the federation got ready to kick out the Communist elements, which it inevitably must," (???) he would assist them by advising them of what mistakes he had made in kicking out Reynolds. The federation should request him to write a book.

Mussolini, Still in Bed, Faces New Crisis in Cabinet

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Premier Mussolini, fascist leader of Italy, faces another small cabinet crisis which may materialize soon, according to reports reaching London today.

Minister of War Di Giorgio is expected to resign, the reports said, because of new opposition forming to his army reform bill. Cadorna will be invited to succeed him. Finance Minister De Stefani also probably will resign and will be succeeded by Minister of Justice Rocco. Premier Mussolini was still in bed today.

NAVY DISCHARGES EMPLOYEWHOWAS TRUE TO LABOR

Hawaiian Machinists in Protest

The following is a part of a long resolution sent in to the T. U. E. L. section of the DAILY WORKER from Honolulu, Hawaii. American imperialism guards its interests jealously and carries on its system of terrorism relentlessly. In some places the persecutions are thru loss of employment, in others it cast the leaders of the workers into prison. But whatever form this terrorism takes, its purpose is to break down the organized resistance of the workers.

This mild protest on the part of Honolulu Lodge No. 1245, I. A. of M. shows the need for working class international unity. This protest sent in for action to the American Federation of Labor will sleep soundly with all the other working class protests, in the archives of that organization, unless it is taken up by the militants within the Machinists' Union and made a live issue.

"Whereas, Mr. Wright's activities have all been outside the jurisdiction of the Navy Yard, with the exception of his work on wage data committees for the departmental wage board of review, and have all been for the benefit of labor and in furtherance of labor's efforts to secure better wages and shorter hours, especially on the sugar plantations of Hawaii where laborers are paid a basic wage of $1.00 a day for ten hour work; and

"Whereas, in this work Mr. Wright has opposed the rich and powerful groups that dominate the territory of Hawaii, especialy the sugar interests; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That this organization go on record as protesting against what it regards as an act of injustice and persecution under cover of a technicality; that it assert its belief that Mr. Wright has been discriminated against solely because of his stand in support of labor's principles and ideals and because he has fought aggressively for labor's main objectives; that it assert its belief that the commandant of the Navy Yard at Pearl Harbor has been too easily influenced by prejudice and the persuasion of those who are in positions of power in Hawaii, financially, socially, industrially and politically; and

"Be It Further Resolved, That we urge upon the international officers of this organization and upon the executive board of the American Federation of Labor the necessity of using every effort to secure a redress of this grievance that will correct the injustice that has been done, and protect government employees from similar acts of discrimination in the future by securing from the navy department or the civil service commission a reversal of the order dismissing Mr. Wright from the service; and

"Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the international president of this organization, to the president of District 44, I. A. of M., to the secretary of the American Federation of Labor, to the president of the Federal Employes Association, to the secretary of the navy, to the secretary of labor, to the chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, to the chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, and to such other members of both houses of congress as may, upon investigation, be considered in a position to render assistance in this matter; and

"Be It Finally Resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished to the press, and to the labor papers on the mainland.

"Duly approved at a special called meeting of Lodge No. 1245, I. A. of M., held at Phoenix Hall, Honolulu, Hawaii, Jan. 22, 1925.

DOWN IN THE ANTHRACITE PITS A NEW REBELLION IS BREWING AS MINERS WRITE NEW PROGRAM

All is calm and quiet in the Anthracite. The rumblings of revolt have died out. The 12,000 Pennsylvania "outlaw" strikers are down in the pits again. Lewis has returned the charters to the 12 expelled rebel locals. The general strike sentiment has disappeared from the headlines of the local press.

All is quiet on the surface to the passing observer. But down in the pits, during the quiet of the lunch hour and the long pauses while waiting for cars, timbers and tools, the voices of discontent are growing in volume and intensity.

An "Agreement"—Not a Settlement.

The Pennsylvania strike is "settled," but, the grievances still remain and new ones pile up daily. The conciliation board delays and does not act. The union officials have forgotten their promise to fight for the miners. The general grievance committees, which represent the rank and file, are powerless in the face of the agreement and the Lewis-Cappellini machine.

The miners still spend many hours underground waiting for cars or loading rock for which they get no pay. The agreement is being violated right and left by the operators, and the violations referred to the conciliation board, where they are delayed indefinitely and forgotten. But the miners remember keenly and bitterly.

New Rebellion Brewing.

Beneath the calm surface a new rebellion is brewing. The lessons of the "Pennsylvania" strike have been driven home. The erstwhile supporters of the arch-betrayer, Cappellini, curse his name today in the pits, the union halls and their dingy shacks. Out of all this subdued discontent a new movement is being formed.

One hears snatches of conversation that give a new note to this brewing rebellion. The progressive forces are organizing. Down in the pits, under the lights of the miners' lamps, a program of action is being forged; slowly and crudely the caloused hands of the miners are writing a program that will give clarity and guidance to this confused discontent.

They Stand on a Program.

Anthracite is on the eve of a district election. One hears the rumors of candidates from the pits, obscure names that stand on a program. Conversation at the miners' supper tables indicates a new hope.

Committees tramp the long muddy streets of mining towns. There are meetings, speeches in many tongues, crude explanations, violent outbursts of temper, but, above all, a spirit of confidence and awakening. The progressive miners' movement is being crystallized in the Anthracite.

PAINTERS' UNION OF PHILADELPHIA BACKS DEFENSE

Michigan Cases Menace all Labor

PHILADELPHIA.— Painters' Local 1083 unanimously passed a resolution protesting against the action of the Michigan courts in sentencing C. E. Ruthenberg, executive secretary of the Workers Party, to prison for a term of three to ten years.

Members of the Trade Union Educational League, who introduced the resolution pointed out that the existence of the criminal syndicalist laws is a menace to the labor movement, that in this case the capitalist courts began with sentencing a leading Communist and are about to try Robert Minor, Wm. Z. Foster, Wm. Dunne and 27 other men actively engaged in the labor movement.

They also pointed out, that unless the organized worekrs of America close ranks and present a united front to this latest attack of the ruling class, that it will be only a matter of months before the same laws will be used to crush the trade unions every time they resist a wage cut or put up a struggle to better their conditions.

The lengthy discussion on this resolution proved that the members of the union fully realize the significance of the Michigan cases and are prepared to assist in every way the onslaughts of the ruling class against the labor movement.

First He Talked Then He Stopped Third, He Wrote This

Dear Comrades: I am a cigar maker and do not work in a large shop. I have been active in the Labor Defense work. For a while I merely talked about it to the men in the shop, then decided that the talking stage was over so started to take up a collection which resulted in $35 being raised for the defense of the Michigan cases. I mention this believing that it could be successful in many places, and if followed would help considerably in building up the defense fund.

UNION OFFICIALS AND UNION STOOL AID BLACKLIST

Peter Wekich Driven from Industry

MEADOWLANDS, Pa.—Lewis may succeed in removing the 200,000 surplus coal miners from the industry, if the coal diggers allow Lewis to drive out the progressives and those who want to save the Miners' Union from destruction. But, if he should succeed, there would be nothing left but Lewis and his gang, with probbaly a company union or two.

When the lieutenants of Lewis cannot persuade a progressive to stop fighting or force him to quit his job, they allow the operator to fire him, and when his case is brot before the district board member, he is given no satisfaction and is forced to leave the industry.

Bot Flowers for Dead Boss!

For example, Peter Wekich, who was a progressive candidate for district teller and secretary of his Local Union No. 1829, was fired. This action came after a hot meeting of the Local Union, at which several district officials were present, where the financial secretary was severely criticized for charging up to the union, flowers which he had bot for a mine operator who had died.

A Union Stool Pigeon.

When Wekich asked the reason for his being fired, he was told by the pit boss that he had attacked the purchasing of the flowers, that he was a progressive and a supporter of the DAILY WORKER. Wekich wanted to know the source of this information, and the pit boss said that "old man Paterson" (the financial secretary) had told him.

The pit committee was given the case but could not get the job back for Wekich. The case was then turned over to the board member. But when Wekich went to get his job back, he was put off again and again, until finally the boss told him that he would have to apologize to "old man Paterson," who had bot the flowers for their deceased boss, before he could get the job back! This Wekich refused to do.

Union Officials Aid Blacklist.

Soon a new pit boss came, and he refused to deal with the pit committee until the local removed Wekich as secretary, which meant driving him out of the industry, depriving him and his family from making a living.

At the last meeting, the district officials saw to it that Wekich was removed from the secretaryship of his local union, and the will of the boss was carried out. This undoubtedly is taking place in every mining center.

Lewis, of course, cannot do this to the 66,000 or rather to the more than 100,000 moners that voted for the progressive slate. A little more centralized activity, and Lewis and his gang of parasites will go, and the U. M. W. of A. will then become the most militant section of the American labor movement.

Bay State Jobs But Little Better While Wages Are Slashed

BOSTON.—An increase of 1.4 per cent in the number of workers employed in Massachusetts factories, making January the sixth successive month of gain, left the general level of employment still 4.9 per cent short of January, 1924, according to the state department of labor. Average weekly wages declined to $24.18 which compares with $24.48 a year ago.

Massachusetts factories are employing 8.3 per cent fewer workers than the average of 1922. Approximately 40 per cent of those employed are still working only part-time. This, however, marks a gain from August, 1924, when 50 per cent were part-time.

Nearly all the 19,780 workers hit by wage cuts in the month were in textiles. These decreases are reflected in the average weekly wage of cotton mill operatives which fell from $23.96 in January, 1924 to $19.82 in January, 1925. In textile finishing average wages declined from $25.13 to $23.87 and in textile machinery from $29.73 to $27.21.

LOC. NO. 5, A.C.W. WHIP OFFICIAL SLUGGING CREW

Strong Arm Men Flee from Membership

NEW YORK CITY.—Union officials came to the Amalgamated Temple in Brooklyn, N. Y., with an army of guards to accomplish the union smashing tactics of the Wolf-Blumberg-Hillman alliance.

Active members were beaten up. Wolf and Blumberg escaped with their forces. Meeting decides unanimously not to allow the union bureaucrats to reorganize the local for their own purposes.

Wednesday evening at the meeting of Local No. 5, operators, the present leadership of the Amalgamated saw something which ought to teach them a lesson for the future. They could see whether the members of Local No. 5 want another local or not. They could see whether the members agree with the union smashing tactics or not. They could see whether they could go on ruling the rank and file by strong-arm methods in order to crush the determination of the membership to have one strong union in the trade.

At the meeting they could see the old revolutionary spirit of the tailors, the same spirit that prevailed at the time when the tailors freed themselves of the Rickard machine. Two messengers of the general office, D. Wolf and Hyman Blumberg, came to Wednesday's meeting all prepared to do their destructive work.

At the entrance to the hall they had their guards on both sides to watch out that active members are not admitted. Mainly they were after Sam Lipzin, William Abrams and Nelson—three of the most active members of the local that the general officers decided to suspend. But, when these three came to the place, they proved that an army of guards is not enough to keep them out.

The Guards Escape.

No sooner did the membership make way for the three active members to enter than the sluggers began their job. While these members were being attacked, the operators who were inside and outside the hall rushed to their assistance and finally got into the hall, and the guards were compelled to escape.

When Lipzin came into the hall he was carried to the platform as he fainted from the beating received for his long record of union activity. Another well-known member was also beaten up. The membership was enraged against such methods. The leaders of the local declared from the platform that the two messengers from the general officials will be given an opportunity to speak at the meeting provided they order their army out of the hall.

Blumberg and Wolf, realizing that thousands at the meeting are opposed to their union policy or organizing another local, left the meeting together with their army of guards.

Two Badly Injured.

A doctor was called in. He examined Lipzin and Polak and declared that they were badly beaten up.

Later, the chairman of the local opened the meeting. Speeches were made by Zutkoff, Wiener, Nelson, Abrams, Lifshitz, Manschel, Jacobs and others. All pointed out that the union bureaucracy wants to break up the local because it stands against reductions of wages, standards of production and because it wants a union without corruption. A union, which is able to protect the interests of its members.

A Big Demonstration.

In conclusion, a unanimous resolution was adopted which stands against the union smashing tactics of the general officers. A committee of the local with a committee of shop chairmen, shall demand from the general office to stop immediately all such tactics and policies.

The meeting from the beginning to end showed itself to be one great demonstration of operators determined to preserve their union.

Every Faker Has a Recipe for Winning Elections: Here's One

CANONSBURG, Pa.—Wholesale violations of the constitution of the U. M. W. of A. went on in this district to insure the election of Lewis and his gang, knowing that if the election was left to the membership they would all be swept out of office.

Here is one example of the tactics used by the Dist. 5 officials, and which is, no doubt, used in other parts of the country. This is in direct violation of the constitution.

A notice of the election was posted, signed by the president and secretary of Local Union No. 1826, calling for the election in the Miners' Hall. Later, Board Member Tom Hughes and Organizer Frank Dobbins came to the pit committee and told them to hold the election in the blacksmith shop of the coal company instead of at the ha INTERNATIONAL LABOR UNITY AND UNITED FRONT NEEDED, SAYS JACK GAVEEL, AN I. W. W.

By JACK GAVEEL.

HAMBURG, Germany.—(By Mail.)—A question which greatly agitates the seamen of this port and, from what I can see, of other ports in Germany, too, is that of the United Front of all German seamen, or rather of all those now split up amongst some five different rival organizations But this question is only part of a wider and bigger issue, international in scope; the linking up of all the principal organizations of the world, conservative as well as revolutionary, into one mighty international organization fit to fight the workers' battles in a way that shall be adapted to the new conditions that have arisen thru the latest change of front in the imperialists' camp.

I. W. W. Does Not Know Developments.

Revolutionary workers over in America, even the members of the I. W. W., I take it, little dream of what is going on on this side of the Atlantic. On the whole, they know nothing, or at least very little, of the new developments in the European labor movement. They may have heard about "some scheme on the part of Moscow and the Communists to link the chief existing organizations into one big union;" but of what it is all about they have no clear conception.

Not so long ago there was held in Hull, England, a congress of British trade union delegates to discuss the question of the affiliation of the Amsterdam and the Moscow internationals. These two organizations are the two main labor bodies of the world. They are international in scope and contain within themselves the principal labor organizations on this earth. The Amsterdam International, with headquarters in Amsterdam and with a membership of some sixteen million is conservative. The Moscow or Red International of Labor Unions, headquarters in Moscow and membership of about twelve million, is revolutionary.

What World Unity Means.

From this congress at Hull a delegation was sent to Russia. The members of this delegation met with the delegates of the Russian Trade Union Congress during its session in Moscow and here the question of the amalgamation of the two internationals was further thrashed out. When the British trade union delegates came back to England their reports on Russia and on the progress of the amalgamation program were received with great enthusiasm by the British labor movement.

The significance of all this lies in the fact that the British trade union movement is the cornerstone and the foundation of the Amsterdam International the same as the Russian trade unions are the basis of the Red International.

Hamburg Meeting of Seamen.

On the night of February 5, there was held in Hamburg, Germany, a meeting of seamen. This meeting was called by the German Transport Arbeiter Verein, a conservative organization linked up with the Amsterdam International, to discuss the question of the united front of the German seamen's unions.

All organized seamen had been invited with the result that there were present members and officials from some four different organizations, The Transport Arbeiter Verein, The Industrie Verband (revolutionary dockworkers), the Schiffartsbund (red seamen's organization) and the I. W. W. (two members). The hall which does not hold more than five hundred people, was filled to overflowing; a packed house as they say over in the States.

One of the officials of the Transport Arbeiter Verband started off the discussion with an hour's talk on the subject in hand and altho he said nothing revolutionary or vital, the usual trade union slop, still on the whole his attitude was one of sympathy with the new movement. Yes, once he even made a hit with me and that was when he said that as an official of a conservative union he could help only very little in the establishing of the united front. After the first speaker there were others, and plenty of them.

Plain Seamen Discuss Vital Subject.

Here you had plain seamen discussing a subject which is of vital importance to the working class in an interesting and instructive way. One of these was Fellow Worker Walter of the Schiffartsbund, Germany's red Sailors' Union, which is linked up with the Red International of Labor Unions and which has branches in fifteen German ports and in four foreign ports.

Dramatically, and yet faithfully, Walter pictured the deplorable decay of that prestige which German seamen at one time enjoyed amongst the other sailors of the world. What had become of that prestige? Where were the German seamen's unions? Where was their solidarity? Gone, all gone! Today 80 per cent of the German seamen are unorganized while the rest are split up in some six different mutually destructive organizations, a bunch of helpless cattle, so to speak, at the slaughterfest of the German shipowners.

Amalgamation or Annihilation.

Walter then spoke on the united front and showed what it is, insofar as it touches Gorman semen; the amalgamation of the different German marine transport workers' unions to meet and stop the terrible havoc which the fierce and ruthless onslaught of the German shipping lords is playing with German seamen and their organizations everywhere, from Konigsberg to Hamburg, and Bremen.

"The united front of all German seamen," and "back into the conservative unions to influence and control them for revolutionary purposes," such was the burden of the discussion of the principal speakers.

An I. W. W. Against Solidarity!

Of course, things did not always go smoothly. There were some who spoke against the solidarity of the workers and amongst them a member of the I. W. W. conspicious by the big wobbly button on his coat. But the number of dissenters was negligent. There was also quite a bit of mud slinging, and, of course, nothing definite, except a thorough threshing out of the subject and a general airing of views, was accomplished.

However, nothing else can be expected from a meeting of this nature where the serious and business-like atmosphere of a conference with its delegated power is lacking. But the thing to bear in mind here is that the sentiment was one decidedly in favor of the united front of all the German marine transport workers' organizations.

This sentiment came to the fore strongly every time an opponent of the new idea had the word. Such a one was continuously and most violently interrupted from all sides and in the face of the most pressing entreaties from the chair (an official of the conservative Transportarbeiter) to preserve order and to give the speaker a chance to continue.

Otto Reiger—A Barnacle on the I. W. W.

And now comes Otto Rieger supposed to be the representative of the I. W. W. amongst the Hamburg seamen. But is he? He may be officially, but I'll be damned if I can see where he really is. For what we say of one who, claiming to be a member of the I. W. W., nay its sole and only representative in the port of Hamburg, gets up at a meeting of German seamen, like he did at this meeting, to announce, apparently innocently and fully convinced, that the I. W. W. is not a centralized organization, to prove which he tells these workers what Bill Haywood has to say about it! A scream, isn't it?

Who is this fellow and why does the I. W. W. depend on such people to represent it? For that this Rieger has not even the inkling of a conception of what the I. W. W. is, is clear from the statement which I have quoted him as saying at this meeting. But that it not all.

How Long Will the M. T. W. Permit This?

There are sinister and unwholesome reports floating around this port about Rieger. Stories of a trust betrayed and of heavy working class funds that were misused, to say the least. That the man is hated as any scab in this town and that he has given the I. W. W. a bad name amongst seamen here, of that there cannot be the least doubt.

Last night I met him for the first time and all doubt that might have existed in my mind previously as to his unpopularity and the bad reputa in which he stands amongst Hamburg seamen was dispelled then and there, when I listened to the remarks and the accusations that workers from everywhere in that hall were hurling at his head while he was talking. And it didn't stop here. The I. W. W. itself was dragged into it, more than one seaman at this meeting getting up to say that according to his opinion the I. W. W.'s are scabs who refuse solidarity with other organizations and with other members of the working class.

Questions that Need an Answer.

Who is this Rieger, what has he pulled off to make the I. W. W. so unpopular here, not to say more, and why does the I. W. W. keep him here? These are questions that I should like to have answered. Does the I. W. W. keep this fellow in a fat job perhaps, because it thinks more of an insignificant and dead local than of its revolutionary principles?

And before I forget, what is the I. W. W. going to do for the united front movement? Will it continue to stick to its old traditional policy (a policy followed all these many years without any success) of trying to build up an international one big union outside of and without reckoning with the existing organizations?

Wake Up—And Act.

America wake up! Your jails are full of class war prisoners. You have laws forbidding organization on the part of workers. You let the K. K. K. terrorize you. Yet the I. W. W., the only important revolutionary, economic organization in your states, instead of fighting for the international united front of the proletariat, is splitting up into two hostile fractions which at this very minute are flying at each other's throat in an internecine war which must end in the destruction of the organization concerned. America, wake up!

PUT NOT YOUR TRUST IN ROYAL COMMISSIONS!

District 26 Militants Expose Govt. Fake

The following editorial from the Maritime Labor Herald, the miners' paper of Nova Scotia, shows the attitude of the militants of District 26, U. M. W. on the question of government commissions to "investigate" the British Empire Steel corporation, which is attempting to cut their wages ten per cent.

"The Futility of a Royal Commission.

"The miners want the present rate of wages continued for four months and a royal commission appointed with power to go into the affairs of Besco. The remarkable thing about the men's offer is that it tallies completely with the suggestions of Dr. Roberston, altho the miners declare that their offer had absolutely no connection with or sprang from these suggestions.

"Be that as it may, we wonder what any commission can do in the matter. The yellow press says that such a commission can get at the truth, and once that has been properly established, then, and then only, can peace and harmony be permanently brot into the industrial life of the country. Of course that's all pure bunk.

"Very often it is only when men learn the truth that hell is let loose—and if ever the truth of the completely rotten condition of Besco is told, then look out for war and not peace. But what does the yellow press want to know the truth about? Is it about the miners and their wages, and whether they could live on less?

"There are hundreds of mine workers who have been living on $3.25 a day, and only worked 150 days in the year. Do you want three or four well-fed parasites to whom the government will pay $20.00 per day and expenses to sit in judgment and find out the 'truth' whether a miner and his family can exist on less than $478.50 per year or not?

"And suppose that the 'truth' that this royal commission finds is that he can! Do you think that 'truth' will establish peace? You yellow-bellies pretend that you don't know the 'truth' about such a simple proposition as that stated above, and that is the very reason you want a royal commission. There is nobody so blind to the truth as those who do not want to see.

"Then again, the miners claim that Besco is using the wealth created in the coal mines by the labor of the miners to pay dividends on idle junk at Halifax. Besco does not deny this now, but says their business is a unit and all of it, including the Halifax shipyards, must stand or fall together as far as dividends are concerned. But you want to find out the 'truth' about it, do you?

"And suppose your truth-finding, fact-finding commission does discover the fact and truth that Besco does use the coal mines to provide dividends for other concerns than the coal mines, and the truth and fact is that Besco is a unit in all its undertakings and has a perfect right, in 'truth' to do so, and that that is the very purpose for which Besco was organized. Will that truth and fact—even sanctified by the blessing of three parasites calling themselves a 'royal commission'—bring peace into the coal trade? We do not think so.

"The fact of the matter is that if the miners refused to believe they could get any truth and justice out of a commission on which they had a right to appoint one working class representative, and for that reason refused to appoint a man, then they cannot now believe the 'truth,' 'fact,' 'justice,'—or any of the other pretty phrases with which the yellow press loves to tickle them— can be obtained by a royal commission on which they will have no right to name any representative, but which will be composed wholly of men outside the ranks of labor.

"Peace in the coal industry—and all other industries—can came only when the workers own and control them, and not one minute before then."

LABOR DEFENSE COUNCIL LOCALS SHOW ACTIVITY

Branches Are Busy in Many Cities

Since the revival of the Michigan cases, the branches of the Labor Defense Council thruout the country, especially in the larger cities, are quite busy.

In addition to the work of getting unions and working class organizations to protest against the Michigan attack and to pass resolutions endorsing the Labor Defense Council, united front conferences, mass meetings and numerous affairs have been and are being arranged.

New York has just held a great bazaar, which, they report, was a tremendous success. Philadelphia has announced a bazaar for March 20 and 21, Chicago is holding a united front Defense Conference on Feb. 26, Kansasi City is holding a dance for the benefit of the defense on the 28th, mass meetings are being held in California by Comrade Ella Reeve Bloor, Cleveland announces a big dance on Feb. 28 and Detroit is to have a big bazaar on March 8.

Some Towns Do Well.

Some of the smaller towns are doing very well also. Particular mention should be made of Muskegon, Michigan, where a defense rally is arranged for March 1. This is in addition to reports that have already been made about Minneapolis, Tacoma, Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles, Omaha, etc.

In sending out the following financial statement, which has just been audited, the Labor Defense Council calls attention to a deficit for the last four months of some $645.00 and asks the workers and working class organizations thruout the country to contribute more generously than in the past.

The defense expenses have more than doubled since the revival of the Michigan cases, the calling to trial of A. V. Severino in an attempt by the department of justice to take away his citizenship and numerous deportation and other cases coming up week after week which we are handling.

OVERHEARD ON THE PICKET LINE!

A girl worker is picketing her shop. It is raining hard. She walks up and down in front of her shop, getting wet from the rain.

A worker sneaks by, trying to avoid her. The picket sees him. She pleads with him:

Picket: "Brother, you are not going to scab on us and help the boss break our strike?"

Scab: "What do you want? I am not a Communist; I don't strike."

Picket: "What has the strike to do with Communism?"

Scab: "I know shops where socialists are working; those shops don't go on strike. The right wingers are right, you Communists cause all the strikes. I am going to work."

Picket: "I was not a Communist, but now I am. And you are not going to work unless you will take along the sharp end of my umbrella in your jackass head."

Communist Gives His Views on Housing

The Workers (Communist) Party demanded the enforcement of ordinances, long violated, for the protection of the workers of Chicago and provision of decent housing facilities for all workers, in a reply to a letter from the Women's City Club of Chicago, to Communist candidates for alderman, asking that no signs be put up along the city streets. The statement was signed by Nicholas Dozenberg, Communist candidate.

"We notice your advocacy of the 'city beautiful,' said the reply to the women's club. "We call your attention to the deplorable condition of the stock yards workers, the Negro workers of the south side, and the homes of Chicago workers in general.

"Our aldermanic platform demands drastic reduction of rents, and demands that the city construct modern apartments for the workers to be rented and run at cost of operation, the construction to serve to provide employment for workers now unemployed.

"We demand that discrimination against Negroes in matters of housing cease. We demand the workers of Chicago be given a living wage, the abolition of child labor, that all children of workers attending school be maintained by the city.

"When the workers take control of the government and the industries, then there will be a 'city beautiful' for the great mass of the workers of Chicago—and not until then.

"We further point out the violation of factory inspection ordinances, ordinances providing for elevation of tracks at grade crossings, and ordinances pertaining to sanitary working conditions for workers, and demand that these violations cease. We demand that exploitation of women, who do not have even the eight hour day in Illinois, cease, and that the homes of the wealthy be requisitioned to house the unemployed. These are a few of the ways to secure a 'city beautiful' for the exploited workers of Chicago."

Claim Japan Is Anxious to Accept the 5-5-3 Ratio

TOKYO, Feb. 23.— Willingness of Japan to accept the famous 5-5-3 ratio for war aircraft was expressed here today by Captain Hisao Hosozi of the imperial general staff.

Japan is willing that construction of war aircraft be limited by the same ratio that has applied to naval building, Captain Hozozi declared.

"In fact such a limitation would be most favorable to Japan. Japan has only 500 effective airships against 2,000 for the United States and twice that number for France.

"It takes no second thought to see that Japan would gain materially by the adoption of such a ratio."

PHILADELPHIA'S FIRST ANNUAL DAILY WORKER BALL PROMISES A BIG TIME NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Friday, Fébryary 27, will be the Red Letter Day among the Philadelphia Communists and sympathizers. Everybody here is preparing for the first annual DAILY WORKER ball. The newly decorated New Traymore Hall at Franklin street and Columbia avenue will be filled with the largest crowd of happy rebels Philadelphia has ever witnessed.

For the first time our language branches are coming down in full force with all their friends and sympathizers, the English branches and the Young Workers League are working hard to bring all the English speaking friends of the DAILY WORKER.

The orchestra is preparing special music to suit the dancing moods of all nationalities, a special surprise will be given when a new dance, to be known as the "Abramovich march," will be rendered in seven installments in conformity with the seven installment speech of Professor Abramovich recently delivered amid much coughing, hissing, booing and other lively demonstrations.

The banquet hall will be open during the entire evening. All the party groups are coming to the ball in full force including the Freiheit Singing Society, the T. U. E. L. and the Juniors.

The souvenir program is now in the hands of the printer and will be a fitting remembrance of this memorable affair. For the third time the printer had to supply a fresh batch of tickets to supply the ever growing demands. Every friend and sympathizer of the Communist movement knows about the ball and most of them have announced their intention to be present by buying a ticket in advance.

March Tickets Out, Have You Got Yours?

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Subscription tickets for the Press Pageant at Madison Square Garden on March 15, have now been sent to all branches of the Workers Party and the Young Workers' League. If any branch has not received them the responsible comrades should call immediately at the district office, 108 East 14th St., and get their supply. Members who found it impossible to attend their branch meetings should also call to get theirs.

The subscription tickets for this affair are printed in neat folders containing five each. They consist of a one month's 75c subscription to the DAILY WORKER combined with the Madison Square Garden ticket as a premium. Every member is expected to sell at least five of these combinations. Each one that sells five has a free ticket for himself.

The folder also carries the announcement of prizes to those that sell the most subscription tickets. First, a trip to the next Workers Party convention with all expenses paid; second, a libarary of books; third and fourth, Lenin watch charms with suitable inscriptions. The branch that sells the most will receive a radio outfit for its headquarters, and a similar outfit, worth $100 will go to the branch that sells the most in proportion to membership so that both large and small branches have an equal opportunity to win.

Quite a number of branches and individuals have already announced their determination to come out first, and are now hard at work. Every member must see to it that not only himself, but the entire branch begin now, so as to have an even chance with the others.

Success for this affair means 15,000 readers for the DAILY WORKER in New York. The prizes are merely incidental. The "grand prize" is really the benefit to the Communist press.

Woman's Charred Body Is Taken from Car Wreck

ROCKFORD, Ill., Feb. 23.— The identity of the woman whose charred body was recovered from the wreckage of a Rockford interurban car after it had crashed head on into another car near Pecatonica, Sunday, remained a mystery today as an official investigation to fix responsibility for the wreck got under way.

Passengers, who vainly attempted to fight their way thru the flames which consumed the cars after the wreck, said the woman was traveling alone. She was trapped in her seat by a twisted side bean of the car, they said. The other fatality in the wreck was George Chapman, Rockford, motorman of the Rockford bound car. The 11 persons injured were reported out of danger today.

Duluth, Minn. Notes.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DULUTH, Minn. Feb. 23.—Over two hundred people attended a meeting of Young Workers' League at Camel's Hall, here.

Comrade Hein nen of Superior, outlined breifly the purpose of the league. This was the first time the league undertook work of this kind and the success of the meeting was encouraging. A majority of those present were young people and they responded with enthusiasm.

Six dollars and eighty-five cents was collected for the Labor Defense Council.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The working class women of Harlem have done splendid work for the Labor Defense Bazaar. With a booth all their own, they worked like beavers and disposed of most of their wares. Carrying their banners, they participated in the bazaar parade, their faces beaming with enthusiasm. Because they realized that they were no longer just women in the kitchen but part of the big movement that will eventually free all working class men and women.

The women of the Bronx also did their bit. They held an open meeting before the bazaar at which Comrade Amter talked on Krupskaya and the working women in the class struggle. Over a hundred workers were present. A collection was taken for the Labor Defense Council. The women distributed the leaflets announcing the meeting to other women in the neighborhood. One member of the council donated a samovar which brought thirty-three dollars at the bazaar, while many bazaar tickets were sold. The Hungarian women of the council also did much good work.

Those actively connected with the work of organizing neighborhood councils found many members of the different councils at the bazaar who expressed extreme enthusiasm over the affair. Some came with their children who have recently joined the Y. W. L. or the Juniors. Many of the younger ones were active among the Juniors during the Saturday afternoon session which was devoted to the Junior groups.

It was gratifying to see the women coming out of the kitchen to join in the struggles of the workers.

COMMUNISTS USE RED THEATER TO ROUSE WORKERS

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—One of the most effective instruments of propaganda yet devised by the Communists is the proletarian wandering theater which was first put to use during the recent campaign. It is popular in the real sense of the word, reflecting the wishes, the hopes and the class hatred of the broad masses.

Wherever in the workingmen's quarters there is a beerhall or other large room with a stage available, the Communists rent it on some convenient evening and offer their "Review in Fourteen Scenes." As the scenes unfold before the eyes of the workers, two men, one representing the class struggle, the other the bourgeois, furnish the proper comment. They thus take the place of the chorus in the ancient Greek tragedy or of the interlocutor in the American minstrel show.

Plea to the Jury.

One scene depicts a Communist as he is about to be sentenced to long imprisonment for thinking differently from the accepted standards. He makes a last impassioned plea to the jury, which is nothing but a speech, but which the listeners swallow whole because it is fed to them in the form of drama.

Another scene depicts a visitor from Mars coming to the earth and finding to his surprise that there are people who actually slave and starve so that someone else may wallow in wealth. He can only explain this situation by remembering that the earth is in part peopled by a race of crazy men called proletarians.

The familiar figures of German political life, such as General Ludendorff, President Ebert, General von Seeckt, Chief of Police Richter, Prussian Minister of the Interior Severing, and other enemies of the working class are imitated on the stage and their statements parodied.

All party and Y. W. L. and all friendly organizations are requested not to hold nor allow any other affairs or May Day demonstration to be arranged on that date. Participate in this affair and make it a huge demonstration.

CONNECTICUT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DEBATES ITSELF ON CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

By WILLIAM SIMONS.

Before the legislature acted on the child labor amendment, the Connecticut chamber of commerce sent out a referendum to its own members. Just before senate action on Feb. 3, it was already announced that the overwhelming vote was against ratification. This was to be expected.

But, at least, the referendum could have been made to seem fair on the face of it. But no, their contempt for the working class is so strong, that they can afford to use as an argument against the child labor amendment a referendum which is on the face of it a joke.

The arguments were prepared by two members on each side, all members of the chamber of commerce, and appointed by the president. One in favor, E. A. Richards, of the H. H. Richards Lumber company of West Haven, when asked to speak in favor of the amendment at a meeting, confessed his ignorance of the subject and asked that he be supplied with material.

Yet he was one of the two who presented the arguments for ratification! The newspapers did not carry news of the arguments or the nature of the referendum.

The arguments were endorsed by the board of directors of the state chamber of commerce, before being sent out. The arguments for ratification take up a little less than one fourth of the width of the page; and lines are far apart. The rest of the page is used for arguments opposed, and are close spaced. Four arguments in favor; eleven against. 227 words used in favor, 1064 against. Capitalist fairness! The arguments in favor are simple assertions, no proof.

Detailed statistics are presented in opposition. Gems of the opposition are: "the amendment is socialistic"; "legislation would be enacted that would in practical effect 'nationalize' children and in the words of prominent socialists, Communists—'remove them from the pernicious influence of the family.'"

Argument 8: "Furthermore we believe that the amendment and the powers sought by it implies at least that the government care and supervision of the children is more desirable than practical care and supervision."

NEW HAVEN RUSSIANS CELEBRATE THE SECOND BIRTHDAY OF NOVY MIR

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 23.—The Russian workers and sympathizers with Novy Mir, the Russian Communist daily newspaper, celebrated the second anniversary of the paper at a banquet here.

Comrade Ohramoff greeted Novy Mir and wished it a healthy life before and after the establishment of the Soviet government of the United States. The meeting was held under the auspices of the New Haven branch of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Los Angeles Holds Successful Labor Defense Meeting

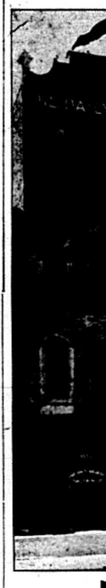
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 23.—"Mother" Ella Reeve Bloor delivered a ringing message calling upon the workers to arouse themselves and organize effectively to aid the Labor Defense Council defend class war prisoners, at a successful meeting here.

Comrade Schneiderman of the Young Workers' League and Comrade Sydney Bush attacked the anti-syndicalist laws.

Rev. Vitaker said he had just returned from Plaza where Professor Gallagher and ten others were arrested. Vitaker said that most of those arrested were unemployed workers.

Comrade Gorman acted as chairman. One hundred and sixty dollars was raised for the Labor Defense Council. The meeting was held under the auspices of the united front conference of 18 organizations, including capmakers, milliners, upholsterers, painters, machinists, carpenters, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the proletarian party, and the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers' League.

A resolution protesting against the imprisonment of class war prisoners was unanimously passed by the 500 workers present.



The Source of All Communist Literature

The Daily Worker Publishing Co. in addition to the publication of the only English daily Communist newspaper in the world, publishes also the Workers Monthly, a Communist magazine. It has now taken over the Literature Department of the Workers (Communist) Party.

It has drawn up an extensive program of new publications, translations and reprints of old classics of the revolutionary movement.

The outstanding feature of its publications is the Little Red Library, containing booklets of uniform, pocket size and of a wide range of interest including social and economic problems, philosophy, literature and art. Each number will sell at ten cents—twelve copies for a dollar.

The Daily Worker Publishing Co. is also agent for all foreign Communist and other labor publications . . . and we will gladly mail you a catalogue for your information from the source of all Communist literature in this country—

GREEK PEASANTS SEIZE LAND AS TROOPS JAIL 50

All Labor Masses Behind Communists

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 23.—Peasants, led by the Communists, have revolted in the province of Larissa, and seized the estates of the large landowners. In the town of Liivadia the peasants seized the land, and twenty Communists have been arrested. The town is now controlled by troops sent out by the fascist government.

The executive committee of the Young Communist League of Greece is reported in prison, in Salonica following the issuance of a statement jointly with the Young Communist League of Bulgaria, demanding that the fascist governments of both countries be forced to resign. The manifesto calls for the independence of Macedonia, and the revolt of the workers and peasants of Greece and Bulgaria.

Peasants Take Land.

In Larissa and Kazaklar, under the banner of the world war veterans of Greece, led by the Communists, the peasants confiscated the land. Fifteen have been arrested. The Confederation of Labor issued a manifesto pledging support to the peasants in their fight on the land owners. The peasants took action after the laws passed for their betterment were not enforced.

In Liivadia, Comrades Piliotis and Krompili were arrested for speaking at a meeting of the world war veteranse after the police had ordered the meeting broken up. A crowd of 1,500 peasants and workers stormed the jail, and after threatening violence to the police, secured the release of the two comrades.

Another mass meeting was immediately held, and the two liberated Communists spoke to an enormous crowd which had gathered in front of the jail. The fascisti government immediately sent out four hundred troops who arrested twenty leading Communists of the district. The troops are terrorising the peasants.

Whole Labor Movement Aroused.

The entire labor movement of Greece is aroused, and peasants and workers' organizations are flooding the fascisti government with telegrams demanding the release of the twenty arrested comrades. Members of the chamber of commerce of Liivadia, which had asked for the troops, demanded that the arrested Communists be shot.

Twenty-five of the national leaders of the Communist Party of Greece are now behind the bars, as well as dozens of peasants and workers thruout the country. The Greek branch of the International Workers' Aid has secured the support of the masses of the workers and peasants in demanding the release of these prisoners.

Fascisti Decide Against Ballot for Women in Italy

ROME.—A commission of seven considering a fascist plan to have women vote at provincial and local municipal elections decided against the plan by a viva voce vote. The minority included Signor Michele Bianchi, Mussolini's confidential secretary.

STEEL TRUST IS WARY OF UNION MINERS IN MILLS

Only Few Wanted and for Open Shop

"We'll take unemployed union miners in job-lots of two or three or even half a dozen and if they are easily assimilated in our great open-shop organization then we'll take some more on the same basis, but nix on the wholesale business." That's the answer of President Buffington of Illinois Steel to the proposition of Chairman Bynum of the Indiana state industrial board. Buffington stands next to Gary in the steel trust.

Bynum spills the whole deal in a letter to H. L. Dynes, representative United States department of labor at Indianapolis. His investigation showed about 17,000 out of 32,000 Indiana coal miners out of work and a consolidation scheme under way which will close more mines.

He learned that steel mills in the northwestern part of the state were going to need men, particularly 15,000 to man a new tube mill. So he proposed to the steel trust that it take the unemployed miners.

BIG TRUST BAKES SCAB BREAD NOW FEEDING NATION

Food Workers' Union Warns Labor

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Ward Baking company, giant non-union bread and cake company, leads a scab list put out by the New York Bakers' Council of the Amalgamated Food Workers' Union in an appeal to the public to avoid non-label bakery products.

Six Hundred Million Dollar Trust.

United Bakeries company, formerly Shultz, makers of certified bread and the Gottfried company, bakers of bread, cake, and fancy pastries, two more companies on the scab list are both part of the $600,000,000 Continental Bread aggregation, the rising trust in the bakery industry.

General Baking company (Bond bread), Cushman and Sons, Inc. (Bambee bread, cake, etc.), Franco-American Bakery and the Howard Bakery are other great machine baking concerns the public is warned against because of their opposition to organized labor.

Furnish 70 Per Cent of Bread.

"The great wholesale bread companies now supply 70 per cent of the bread consumed by the American people," says Secretary-Treasurer Burkhardt of the union. The way the industry is consolidating and eliminating the small producer is shown by government statistics which tell of 20,173 plants in 1921, falling to 18,739 in 1923, tho the number of workers rose from 148,500 to 162,615.

The problem before organized labor is the problem of organizing the big companies which are absorbing the little concerns that dealt with the unions.

PRODUCTION OF RAW MATERIAL ABOVE LAST YEAR

Slight Increase Over Last January

Textile mills consumed 589,725 bales of cotton in January, as against 532,047 bales in December and 578,468 bales in January, 1924. Stocks of cotton at mills and warehouses on Jan. 31 totaled 5,297,289 bales, in contrast with 5,943,128 bales at the end of the previous month and 4,610,807 bales a year ago, while exports increased over both comparative periods. So says the department of commerce in its summary of domestic conditions.

Production of bituminous coal in January aggregated 51,900,000 tons as contrasted with 45,780,000 tons in December and 50,801,000 tons in January, 1924. Anthracite production in January amounted to 7,400,000 tons, as against 7,376,000 tons in the previous month and 7,924,000 tons a year ago.

January production of Portland cement totaled 8,916,000 barrels as against 10,435,000 barrels in December and 8,788,000 barrels in January, 1924.

Italy Masses Its Troops Along the Egyptian Border

ROME, Italy, Feb. 23.—Italy has massed troops along the western borders of Egypt, a dispatch from Cairo states. BUILDERS AT WORK

Detroit Is Going to Get It!

THE next day or two will see a special edition of 5,000 copies going to Detroit. It will be paid for by advertising secured by the local comrades and will be widely distributed by them to further establish the DAILY WORKER in Detroit—a city that right now is one of the very best in the country in this respect.

This alone is reason to congratulate the Detroit comrades. But City DAILY WORKER Agent Alfred Goetz and the local DAILY WORKER committee and other comrades have made this only as ONE SINGLE ITEM in their work. This "Detroit Special" arrives as a finishing touch to a local subscription campaign, in which about 300 new subscriptions were secured.

And when this work is over, the local comrades are going to celebrate a task well done at a DAILY WORKER ball to be held on March 1. They deserve the pleasure in store for them with all of the "grand and glorious feelin'" that goes with a Communist duty well performed.

We are going to turn this column over to Comrade Goetz for the Detroit Edition, just as we will turn it over to any BUILDERS who have shown that they have done a job in fine fashion—or to those who can give a practical suggestion on how the task can be done.

If you have any way that will serve to promote the interests of "our daily"—send it in for others to learn how to do it. That's what this column is for.

Letters From Our Readers

Editor DAILY WORKER: Silent Cal Coolidge broke his silence again by urging new reforms for inheritance taxes. Somebody in Morgan's office pulled the string and Cal spoke again.

This time Silent Cal, the great leader of American democracy, is shedding bitter tears for the unfortunate heirs of millionaires. He advises that the property of deceased persons and personal property of non-resident decedents should not be taxed.

It seems to an outsider that 100 per cent of the 140,000,000 population of the United States consists of property holders and that the president, by making the new law, lightens the burden of American people. I would advise Mr. Coolidge to take a little trip in his Mayflower yacht to the slums and tenement palaces, where heirs of the working men dwell, heirs to their fathers' hard life and starvation.

He would see thousands upon thousands of little victims of our democracy, afflicted with tuberculosis, rickets and many other diseases. Speaking about property holders the president refers to a small class of his paymasters who are the actual masters of this country and he leaves out the bulk of the nation—the great, struggling class of toilers who are producing all the wealth and property of the few the president is referring to.

And then Mr. Coolidge goes on telling us that if the states are to suffer diminution in revenue from the new law they can make up their losses only by higher taxes in other fields.

And the same president said a mouthful at that. "The other fields" is nothing else but the dry hide of the workers and poor farmers. Yes, it is always the toiler who pays and pays and pays!

And Wall Street is trying to squeeze out all it can from the muscles of the laboring class. When Morgan hired Coolidge as gold mine foreman he knew what he was doing, he could not place a better man on that job. Coolidge is a good chemist: the gold goes to his bosses and the dirt to the workers. And this they call democracy!

A large country governed by a gang of grafters and profiteers. It is not democracy but something worse than czarism. The difference is that czarism rules with a bare bayonet and bullets and here, in this free country, this brutal force is covered with a thin coat of cheap, saloon diplomacy. Mr. Coolidge is going a little too far. Beware, the red monster is coming to life.

Rasgon.

Adherents of "Democracy."

To the DAILY WORKER: I attended the nomination conference of the Workmen's Circle, a fraternal organization, whose leadership is under control of the Forward and the socialist party.

I was there as a delegate from one of the branches. I want to relate an incident from the "democratic" leadership of those so-called opponents to dictatorships.

When the left wing delegates requested the chairman of the conference for representation on the committee, the arch democratic chairman who turns pale at the mention of the word "dictatorship" answered that there are no factions in the Workmen's Circle. He ridiculed the reference to a left wing, despite the fact that according to their own figures one-fourth of the 621 delegates present were left wingers.

The entire conference was a comedy. One of the right wingers shouted: "Hurrah for America, down with Russia." The rest of them cheered, but their cheers, were drowned in an outcry of "boo" from the left and even some rights, for even they could not stand that.

Of course we retaliated by making a lasting demonstration for Soviet Russia. From all parts of the hall came outcries: Long live the only workers' republic. Down with the traitors!

I write these lines not because this spectacle was a surprise to me, but to show the workers once more, that those who shout against the dictatorship of the proletariat are not against dictatorship, but only against proletarian dictatorship. Dictatorship a prefix of a capitalist.

(The following letter comes to us from a Chinese boy 15 years old who signs his name as Sinbad. This extraordinary youth has sent us some other articles on life in China today which we will publish in the DAILY WORKER.—Ed. Note.)

China is Awakening.

To the DAILY WORKER: China is a land of 400,000,000 people. The vast majority of the population is tied down by ignorance and superstition. The inroads of missionaries (in many cases unwittingly) have made paths whereby commerical interests may and have to some extent gained easy access to the potent markets which can be made to deal and trade in foreign manufactured goods. Not only is China an appropriate dumping ground for the surplus production of the foreign powers, but it is also a land of great potential resources which have as yet not been scratched (to use a phrase greatly in use by writers on China).

Imperialism and capital hand in hand, have already commenced their influx. Treaty ports, concessions conceded under stress of military forces, land and naval, are already either completely the property of foreign powers or are the next thing to it.

China is awakening. She is slowly breaking the bonds which keep her bound. Progressive movements have been started. Leaders, men with unselfish principles and high ideals are slowly coming to the surface. China has just emerged from a turmoil. The imperial family has been banished from Peking. The foreign diplomats are becoming nervous. Dr. Schurman, the United States minister to China, is just returning from a conference with the officials in Washington. Foreign men-of-war are in all harbors, altho the war is over. How long is China going to stand it? Not very long! Why! Because she is awakening! A new dawning on the horizon! A new era of freedom!

Pink Count Has Lips Padlocked by U. S.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—"I'm sorry, but by agreement with the state department I may not receive reporters."

Thus Count Michael Karolyi, former president of the Hungarian Republic, confirms his friends' statements that he was allowed to enter this country to visit his wife only on condition that he seal his lips on political questions. Karolyi is a socialist and a foe of the Horthy dictatorship.

Something New in Tricks.

"Insofar as the records show, this action of the state department is unprecedented," declared the Liberties Union. "There is no warrant either in law or policy for muzzling the opponents of a foreign government.

A Vanderbilt in the Game.

"We assume that the reversal in our policy is due to the financial relations between American bankers and the Hungarian government, which would prompt the present state department to heed the Hungarian ambassador's protest against admitting Karolyi."

The Hungarian diplomatic representative who opposed Karolyi's entrance is said to have considerable pull at Washington. He is the husband of Gladys Vanderbilt.

The Super-Power Fraud

Super-power, the amalgamation of electric power plants into one huge system, the most recent effort of American capitalism to further strengthen its control of industry by centralizing ownership of this all-important natural resource, has been stamped with the approval of America's labor fakerdom from the late President Gompers, his successor William Green down to Farrington, president of the Illinois district of coal miners. Noonan, president of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, is also among the loudest ballyhooers for this new and powerful weapon of the bosses.

Steam and water-power operated plants are to be linked together and with "cheap" power the millenium is to be ushered in.

No more effective disclosure of the incurable capitalist character of American labor officialdom has been made to date than this unqualified endorsement of a scheme that must, long before it is complete, throw out of employment hundreds of thousands of workers.

Farrington has gone so far as to make super-power the central issue of his platform and in the capitalist press of Illinois his praises are being sung.

It should be remembered in this connection that among the Illinois coal miners particularly, unemployment is rampant. Farrington holds before their eyes, after years of studied betrayal of their interests, the glittering vision of power plants built at the pit mouth consuming coal which happy miners, secure in the knowledge of permanent employment, dig in the depths below while chanting praises to Farrington their benefactor.

No crueler fraud has ever been foisted upon workers. The mere fact that the great capitalists are in favor of this new development is sufficient to assure any thinking worker that it will do away with labor now employed. All advances in industrial technique are for this purpose.

Elimination of coal haulage, the electrification of railroads, the increasing development of water power electric plants and the wider radius of transmission resulting from improved methods, all displace labor. Cheaper production floods the markets with goods for which there are no buyers—the most obvious and inconsistent of all of capitalism's contradictions.

We cannot keep silent while workers are fooled into making asses of themselves by boosting schemes that will make more profits for the capitalists, increase their power over the working class and add to the misery of the masses.

There is something fascinating about the technique of the production and transmission of electric power—something little understood by those outside of the industry. It is the cheapest kind of power yet discovered when generated by water. Once the installation is made the largest power plants operate with a force of three or four men for each shift; depreciation is extremely low—all generating apparatus today is made foolproof and few repairs are required. Oiling and control are automatic. Electric power is efficient and therefore labor saving.

Let the miners ask themselves how a general re-how steam-operated electric plants, as part of a super-power system, are going to compete with water power except by cutting the wages of the coal miners to the starvation level.

Let the miners ask themseles how a general reduction of labor costs squares with the promise of more employment under super-power made by their officials. The answer to these two questions is complete proof of the monstrous fallacy of the idea that the progress of capitalist development means progress of the working class except by creating the necessity for and the organization of social revolution.

The mners and all workers make progress only as they organize and exert their power in their own interests and let the capitalists take care of themselves as best they can.

Peace But—

There is not a capitalist militarist in the world who is not in favor of peace. There is not a burglar in existence who would not prefer to get away with his loot without the necessity of depositing some lead in the anatomy of his victim. But war is as inseparable from the operation of capitalist society as violence is from the profession of burglary.

Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States by the grace of a policemen's strike, ptomaine poisoning, Wall Street and the immaturity of the political consciousness of the American working class, delivered a speech yesterday before a convention of war-like females, who like their blood thick and hot. The president declared that he did not want war, yet the country must be prepared to protect peace by being ready for war. This is capitalist logic.

A man who walks down the street, with a Smith & Wesson sticking out of each one of his pockets, a dagger between his teeth, a Thompson machine gun in one hand and a bomb in the other may have the best intentions in the world, but he will not impart that feeling of security to those who are not similarly equipped, that is essential to a peaceful atmosphere. The first thing you know there is a scramble for hardware, bigger and better than what the walking arsenal is toting. This is how it works with the capitalist nations. Preparedness for war begets preparedness and god is always on the side of the best poison gas.

But here is where we are going to disappoint the pacifists who have been gurgling with joy over the preceding paragraphs. War between nations is inevitable under capitalism. The burglars cannot agree on the division of the loot. War between classes is inevitable under capitalism. Therefore the preparedness of capitalist governments has a two-fold object: protection against the enemy abroad and also against the enemy within. The enemy within is the working class.

It is folly to expect that governments will disarm as long as there are conflicting classes. They will not. Governments—all governments—are organs of suppression. There will never be peace on earth until classes are abolished and that will not come about until the capitalist class is abolished and the rule of the producing class established on its ruins. This will necessitate a war—a war that will truly end war.

The Punishment Fitted the Crime

Since the reactionary labor leaders began playing with the idea of political action thru the C. P. P. A., the socialists were handy tools in their hands in ferreting out the presence of radicals who might be expected to inject an atmosphere of class struggle into the middle-class talkfests held under the auspices of the conference for progressive political action.

At the Cleveland convention the anti-Communist stoolpigeon on the credentials committee was the then national secretary of the socialist party. One of the questions he asked the representatives of the Workers Party who presented their credentials was: "Do you believe in dictatorship?" They were not admitted, of course.

At the most recent and last convention of the C. P. P. A. another yellow socialist was honored with the position of chairman of the credentials committee. But there being no Communists present, the reactionaries began to transform the deepest yellow into purple and by the time the C. P. P. A. and its invited guests got thru with the socialists the latter found themselves homeless. They crawled until their stomachs were calloused, but it was of no avail. Having played the role of stoolpigeon for the labor fakers, the socialist party was treated as a stoolpigeon is usually treated by his employer when his services are no longer required.

Deserted by the brotherhood leaders and swatted by the so-called progressives, the poor socialists almost excited the pity of the few Communist observers who watched the comedy. It was a case of the punishment fitting the crime.

There's a Difference

When Floyd Collins, a cave explorer, was caught in a narrow passageway leading to the cavern and held there until death released him from his sufferings, the capitalist press of the country featured his agony and the attempts made to rescue him for almost three weeks, not for the sake of the captive, but in order to boost circulation.

As the DAILY WORKER pointed out, there are thousands of deaths every year in the bowels of the earth and preventable ones. But they are due to criminal negligence born of greed and the responsible ones are the big capitalists. Because of this fact the pages of the capitalist press are silent.

One of those tragic incidents occurred a few days ago in Sullivan county, Ind. Fifty-one miners lost their lives in a mine disaster. The story broke into the front pages of the capitalist press for once. But it was speedily relegated to obscurity by the latest murder or the most recent development in the Stokes divorce trial.

It is well for the system to feature an incident like the Floyd Collins case. It shows the bourgeoisie in action trying to save one life, the life of a bourgeois on the make. But it is not so good to picture the tragedy of a mine disaster which shows the capitalists in another light, in the light of greedy boodle hounds, who are willing to send their slaves to certain death rather than cut into their profits by installing safety devices.

The Elections

Today the workers of Chicago are voting for candidates to serve in the city council. With the exception of four Communists, all the others stand for the capitalist system which is responsible for the dilapidated condition in which the municipal machinery of the second largest city in the United States is in.

The Communist candidates go before the voters with a program that appeals to the workers and to the workers alone. While the Communists are anxious for the opportunity to expose the capitalist class from the tribune of the city council, they nevertheless point out that only thru the mass action of the workers, thru their economic organizations and thru their determination to get rid of the capitalist system can they free themselves from their present servitude with all its attendant miseries.

The working class voters in the wards in which Comrades Dozenberg, Epstein, Cejka and Brooker are running should cast their ballots for those candidates who stand for their interests and who will fight for their interests. The shyster lawyers and business men who are running on the capitalist tickets will make rosy promises, but the only class they will serve is the capitalist class.

The Drive For World Trade Union Unity

I—The R. I. L. U. and the Steps Towards World Trade Union Unity.

By TOM BELL.

A PRESS dispatch intimates that the Amsterdam International Federation of Trade Unions at the recent session of the executive has agreed to allow the Russian trade unions to enter into the industrial secretariats affiliated with Amsterdam and also their willingness to enter into negotiations as to the calling of an international congress of trade unions for the formation of a single International of Trade Unions. This shows that the fight for unity by the Red International of Labor Unions has resulted in rank and file pressure being brought to bear on the Amsterdam officialdom which forces them to make a pretense of desiring unity.

THE organs of the national unions affiliated with Amsterdam and the social-democratic parties of Europe have sabotaged the movement for world trade union unity by devoting themselves to the task of proving to the working class that the slogan of world trade union unity put forth by the Red International of Labor Unions is a "Moscow plot."

IT is quite evident that the leaders of the Amsterdam International are not agreeing to this unity of the trade union movement (even tho they are but paying lip service to it in their resolution) with a willing heart, but because of the fact that the British Trade Union Congress, thru its delegation to the Sixth All-Russian Trade Union Congress has already agreed to take some practical steps towards the unity of the world trade union movement, and since the British trade unions are in reality the backbone of the Amsterdam International, the leaders of the continental European trade unions must necessarily go along with this tendency in order to prevent a break between the British trade unions and the Amsterdam International.

SINCE its formation, the R. I. L. U. has consistently combatted the treacherous reformistic leadership of Amsterdam, because it is this leadership that is responsible for the split in the trade union movement of the world. As long ago as November, 1922, the R. I. L. U., at its Second World Congress, expressed its viewpoint on the necessity of trade union unity in a thesis in which the following paragraph is contained:

> "If the workers will not succeed in attacking capitalism by the united front, they will not only suffer new defeats, not only greater misery and slavery will await them, but they will even lose their organizations and remain completely disarmed."

THIS serves to prove that the slogan of world trade union unity is no mere diabolical plot on the part of the R. I. L. U. or the Communist International, but that this policy and this slogan flow from the fundamental conception of the R. I. L. U. as to the role of the revolutionary trade unions and adherents of the R. I. L. U. in every country.

SINCE 1914 the leaders of the unions affiliated with Amsterdam have shown that they are in reality agents of the capitalist class working within the ranks of labor. The beginning of the world war was the signal for the division of the trade union movement, because of this treacherous leadership, into national groups according to the countries in which they were organized, for the purpose of fighting to defend "their" country. During the war the trade union bureaucracies were the most efficient recruiting agents for the capitalist classes of all countries.

AT the conclusion of the war, when the period of the first wave of the revolution started by the seizure of power by the working class in Russia in November, 1917, the bureaucracies again devoted their services to capitalism in preventing the victory of the revolution of the working class in Central Europe. In Germany, for instance, the leadership of the General Federation of Trade Unions, under Legien, made an agreement with the large industrialists by which, in return for the eight-hour day (on paper) and the building up of class collaboration committees of workers and bosses (Betriebsrate), they agreed to sabotage the seizure of power by the German working class by means of dissolving the workers' and soldiers' councils and shooting down revolutionary workers in the name of "democracy."

WITH the growth of the revolutionary minorities within the trade unions affiliated with Amsterdam, the bureaucracies proved that they were willling even to smash the trade unions rather than allow them to fall into the hands of revolutionary leadership. The splitting of the trade union movement by the reformists has been carried so far in France and Czecho-Slovakia that the trade union movement was cleft in twain in order that the reformists could maintain their position of leadership. These desperate measures were taken by the social democratic leadership in order to maintain their position of close alliance with the capitalists that they had maintained thruout the period of the world war. The role of these labor leaders has been correctly stated time and again by the R. I. L. U. as that of the last bulwark of capitalism.

THE capitalist offensive upon the standard of living and the organizations of the working class beginning in 1920 found its greatest allies in the leaders of Amsterdam, since they sabotaged every effort of the organized workers to defend themselves against this vicious attack and it was precisely owing to the success of this attack by the international capitalist class upon the working class that the R. I. L. U. issued the slogan of the unity of the world trade union movement in order to successfully combat this attack of the capitalists upon the standard of living and the trade unions of the working class.

AT the Third World Congress of the R. I. L. U., July, 1924, the following appears in a resolution regarding the question of international trade union unity:

> "Never for a moment stopping its determined fight against all manifestations of reformism within the international labor movement, mercilessly revealing all its treacherous substance, untiringly explaining this to all workers who do not understand yet the role of reformism as a brake to the struggle of the proletariat for emancipation, the Third Congress, in the interests of a united leadership in the struggle of the workers against the economic offensive of capital and fascist reaction, considers it the most pressing task of its activity to develop a widespread campaign among the working masses in favor of the unity of the international labor union movement."

FROM that time on, the R. I. L. U. has not allowed this question merely to be a question of resolutions, but at the Vienna Congress of the Amsterdam International, when the British delegation led by A. A. Purcell raised the question of admittance of the Russian trade unions into the Amsterdam International, the Central Council of the Russian Trade Unions telegraphed to Vienna an offer of negotiations to heal the split in the international trade union movement. At the Vienna Congress the usual kind of hypocritical resolution was passed in order to soothe the British delegation. This resolution admitted the possibility of the entry of the Russian trade unions into the Amsterdam International, but had reservations which said that this entry would be "on the basis of the existing statutes of the Amsterdam International" and that "the dignity of the Amsterdam International should be observed."

TO this the Russian trade unions objected that neither side was entitled to put up conditions, since the matter of world trade unity was of such fundamental importance to the very existence of the working class.

THE second practical step on this question came with the sending of a delegation from the Russian trade unions to the Hull meeting of the British Trade Union Congress in September, 1924. The welcome given at this congress to the delegation led by Comrade Tomsky showed that in the ranks of the British trade unions there was a definite tendency toward the achievement of unity in the trade union movement. As Zinoviev has put it, while the MacDonald labor government in no way served the interests of the British working class, the very establishment of such a government gave the British workers a "taste of power" and this has been signalized by the quite definite sweep towards the left on the part of the rank and file of the British trade unions. This left tendency is so definite that the leadership, which is ideologically linked with the leadership of the Amsterdam International, has taken several steps towards the left in order to maintain their positions as leaders of the British trade union movement.

AT the Sixth All-Russian Trade Union Congress, there was present a delegation representing the Council of the British Trade Union Congress. At this congress, these leaders reaffirmed their desire for trade union unity. Negotiations carried on during the congress between the British delegation and the Central Council of the Russian trade unions resulted in a resolution being passed at the All-Russian Trade Union Congress calling for the formation of an Anglo-Russian Unity Committee which would work for a closer alliance between the trade unions of Russia and Great Britain and also take steps for the unity of the world trade union movement.

THE significance of this latest step lies in the fact that the British trade unions form the basis of the Amsterdam International and the Russian trade unions form the basis of the R. I. L. U., and as such the traitorous leadership of Amsterdam can only fight against the convocation of a congress for the unifying of the trade union movement at the expense of a split with the British trade unions—in other words, a split with their main support in the European labor movement.

500 COMRADES WANTED FOR BIG PARIS COMMUNE PAGEANT MARCH 15

THE workers of New York saw a wonderful spectacle on Feb. 1, when 15,000 Communists and Communist sympathizers crowded Madison Square Garden in the name of Leninism. On March 15, in celebration of the Paris Commune, the Garden will again be filled with Communists and their followers.

In order better to portray the action of the workers of Paris against the bourgeoisie whose assembly was gathered at Versailles, the committee in charge has arranged a pageant, that will excel anything attempted by the Communists. Hundreds of comrades and sympathizers will participate in one of the finest spectacles that New York has ever witnessed.

The pageant will require a good-seized band and above all a large number of comrades to act in the mass scenes. All comrades of the Workers (Communist) Party, the Y. W. L. and the Junior groups, who are willing to devote themselves to the pageant and to participate in it, should report AT ONCE to Comrade Fralkin, at the district office of the party. Little time can be lost, as there are only three weeks left.

SE[illegible]OND MINE BLAST IN INDIANA

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

WHEN the British labor party assumed office, the Communist press all over the world exposed the leaders of this party as a group of accomplished renegades who were itching for the opportunity to serve the ruling classes of England. This criticism was resented in many quarters. The British labor party, it was assumed because of its name, represented the interests of the working class. It should be given a chance. It was.

AFTER several months in office the British labor party succeeded in only one respect. It proved that the Communist criticism was justified. It proved that MacDonald, Thomas, Webb, Clynes and Walsh and the rest of his majesty's government were just as willing as its tory and liberal predecessors to use the mighty power of the robber empire against the slaves on whose bleeding backs the imperial structure rests. Bombs and shells for the subject races. Government strike-breaking for the British working class. This was the policy of the British labor party.

THE British labor party is out of office, but its leaders have not changed a whit. Philip Snowden is criticising his successor, Winston Churchill for surrendering to France at the Paris conference. The socialist Snowden accuses the tory Churchill of negligence in safeguarding the interests of British capitalism from its French rivals! Ramsay MacDonald and J. H. Thomas are defending the South African trip of the prince of Wales from the attacks of the left elements in the labor party.

RECENTLY when the question of an additional appropriation for the prince's South American trip came up in commons, David Kirkwood, an emotional radical from the Clyde spoke against it. Some acid comment on the uselessness of the royal family was indulged in by the left wingers and by the one lone Communist in the house. About ninety labor votes were cast for Kirkwood's motion to reduce the appropriation for the princely junketing trip. MacDonald and practically every member of the British labor government voted with the tories.

THE prince is also booked for a trip to South Africa. The initial arrangements were made by J. H. Thomas, colonial minister in the MacDonald government. This visit is the object of attack by the rank and file elements in the British labor party and trade union movement. Ramsay MacDonald again rallied his right wing socialists to the defense of the prince of Wales. So did Mrs. Philip Snowden. Now here comes J. H. Thomas. His defense of the princely jaunt is more damning than anything that could be written by any enemy in criticism of his position.

THOMAS says: "I, as a minister was specially responsible and I say not only from personal knowledge but from correspondence that there was an overwhelming demand on the part of the people of South Africa to see the prince visit their shores. If he is serving the country by going, as I believe he is, then who is there in our party, or in any other party, who would dare deny that he is entitled to have his expenses paid for the trip?"

• • •

THIS is the type of "labor" politician that was held up as an ideal before the eyes of the labor fakers at the C. P. P. A. conference, by Morris Hillquit. This is the Abramovich type, the type that puts the interests of the "country" above the interests of the working class. The "interests of the country" under capitalism means the interests of the capitalists. The prince of Wales is simply a drummer for British imperialism, a royal advertisement for the goods of the British capitalists. The British labor party is today the most vigorous defender of the house of Wettin.

WHEN MacDonald was premier, he won the lasting hostility of the British miners thru his insistence that any bill introduced for the nationalization of mines should include a provision for compulsory arbitration. The experience of the British working class with a socialist government is a valuable one. The socialists everywhere have proven themselves to be the most willing tools of capitalism. The capitalist class in America are not yet reduced to the extremity of being compelled to call in their yellow allies, but when that time comes, the call will be sent out and the response will be immediate.

SACCO-VANZETTI MASS MEETING IN MANY CITIES

Workers Hold Protest Demonstrations Mch. 1

"Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti must not die," is the cry of the militant workers thruout the world. On March 1, protest meetings are being held in all cities of the country. The I. W. W., the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, and other working class bodies are making common cause with the Workers (Communist) Party in a nation-wide protest against the continued imprisonment of Sacco and Vanzetti as punishment for their activity in leading the oppressed workers of the textile industries in Massachusetts.

It has been shown over and over again that Sacco and Vanzetti were condemned to death by a capitalist judge on a framed up charge of murder, and with the use of perjured testimony.

Chaplin at Chicago Meet.

In Chicago on March 1, Ralph Chaplin, the well-known poet and member of the I. W. W., Jack Johnstone, secretary of the Trade Union Educational League, and Antonio Pressl, editor of the Italian Communist paper, Il Lavoratore, will speak at a mass meeting in Emmet Memorial Hall, Taylor and Ogden streets, at 2:30 p. m. The meeting has been arranged by the Chicago local of the Workers Party.

The Central Opera House in New York has been engaged for the Sacco-Vanzetti protest mass meeting to be held at 2 p. m., March 1. The speakers will include Frank Bellanca of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Professor Felice Guadagni of Boston, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Moissaye J. Olgin, and Juliet Stuart Poyntz. The New York meeting will be held under the auspices of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, Italian locals of the needle trades unions, and the Workers (Communist) Party.

A conference called by the Workers Party of Worcester, Massachusetts, was held on Friday night in the Day building to rally the workers to the defense of Sacco and Vanzetti. Thirty-five delegates representing twenty organizations went on record demanding the release of the two class war prisoners and pledging the support of their respective organizations.

The conference took the name of the "Sacco-Vanzetti defense conference of Worcester," affiliated with the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee of Boston. The executive committee of the local conference consists of Evald Anderson, Joseph Ginsberg, J. Johnson, H. Sidney Bloomfield, Arne Halonen, Harry Epstein, David Kaufman, Gunhilde Helle, and Guiseppi Paggilli.

Local unions and Italian organizations will be enlisted in the campaign. Worcester is the home town of Judge Webster Thayer, who presided at the trial and sentenced Sacco and Vanzetti after hearing the framed up evidence.

The Labor Defense and Free Speech council of western Pennsylvania is conducting the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting in Pittsburgh, Pa., in the Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller St., March 1, at 2 p. m., The workers of the steel and coal center will protest against the capitalist frame up against the two labor leaders. Arturo Giovannitti will be the principal speaker. "Let us save Sacco and Vanzetti from the capitalist hangmen" will be the slogan of this meeting.

A big parade will be held in Boston, followed by a mass meeting in Fanueil Hall.

Ettor Speaks in Detroit.

Joseph Ettor, who himself faced the electric chair for his activity as an organizer in the great Lawrence textile workers' strike will speak at the Detroit Sacco-Vanzetti mass meeting on March 1.

The Connecticut district of the Workers (Communist) Party, in cooperation with the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, is also holding meetings in Bridgeport, Hartford, Stamford and Waterbury on March 1.

Warren Gets O. K. of Senate Committee for Attorney General

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Breaking a deadlock of six weeks, the senate judiciary committee today approved the nomination of Charles B. Warren as attorney general. The vote was 9 to 4.

GOVERNOR SMALL, WHO OPPOSES THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT, IS FLAYED BY WORKERS PARTY

The Workers (Communist) Party of District No. 8 has issued an open letter to Governor Small concerning the ever growing evil of child labor. This letter points out that Small cannot much longer expect the support of labor unions or of any workers, if he "pussyfoots" and dodges the burning issue of child slavery. The letter is as follows:

An Open Letter to Governor Small

AT the last elections many workers and trade unionists within the state of Illinois supported your candidacy, being lead to the belief that you were a friend of labor. As the result of an active campaign on your behalf by high salaried trade union officials you received the endorsement of many local unions and central labor bodies of the state, as a friend of labor. You of course received the endorsement of the petty bourgeois LaFollette state organization.

The Workers (Communist) Party then declared that no friends of labor could be found among the agents of the privileged class. It pointed to your record as a representative of capitalism and reminded the workers of the fact that you, as the leader of the Illinois delegation, participated in the republican convention which had nothing but scorn for labor and nominated the two outstanding reactionaries, Coolidge and Dawes, to head their ticket. Today we repeat that all these representatives of capitalism are the bitter enemies of labor.

A New Team—But No New Policy

You have now been inaugurated for another term, hailed by those who want to fool the workers, as a progressive. Once more you are showing your true color. You have refused to recommend for adoption by the Illinois legislature the child labor amendment to the constitution.

Thruout the country the physical and moral well being of the youth is being destroyed by inhuman child exploitation. While the bosses thereby increase their profits the child labor practice also enables them to reduce wages in general, lower working conditions and weaken the unions.

There were in the state of Illinois, according to the United States census of 1920, at the time that census was taken, 36,933 children between the age of 10 and 16, working in industry and on the farm. 31,132 were employed in factories and like occupations. Ever since, these numbers have increased. Since 1922, statistics shows an increase of nearly three times in the number of children employed.

On The Side of Capital

These facts are known to you Gov. Small, and yet you have refused to recommend for adoption by the Illinois state legislature the child labor amendment to the constitution. Once again you show yourself clearly on the side of the bosses.

A bill has now been introduced in the state legislature providing for the submitting of the ratification of the child labor amendment to a referendum at the general elections next year. To this the capitalist politicians who are in control are reported to have tentatively agreed. Unquestionably you as well as they are cherishing the hope that you will thereby avoid putting yourself on record as enemies of labor and be able to maintain your allegiance to capitalism while depending upon the capitalist machinery of propaganda to defeat the measure.

Unite Against Child Slavers!

The Workers Party, District No. 8, urges all workers and trade unionists of the state of Illinois to unite in a demand for the ratification of the child labor amendement to the constitution by the Illinois state legislature. However, because children are forced to work because of the poverty of their parents, and a child labor law that does not provide government support for a child going to school is useless, we further urge the demand for full government maintainance of all school children of workers and poor farmers, the funds for this purpose to come from special taxes on high incomes.

What are you going to do about it, Governor Small. Your record before and since taking office tells us that you will do nothing to injure the child-exploiting employers and at the same time try to keep up the pose of a "friend of labor." But the workers cannot be fooled forever. The question of child labor is one on which no "friend of labor" can afford to pussyfoot. Len Small, you will find this out to your cost!

ONE MORE UNION MINE CLOSED BY OPERATORS AIDED BY JOHN L. LEWIS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ROYALTON, Ill., Feb. 24.—The Franklin County Coal company's Mine No. 7, located here, has been closed down, throwing out of work the 735 miners previously employed.

THE SPIKE'S THE THING, SAY ACTORS—THEY MAKE A HIT!

Not "on with the play," but "down with the spike," is the slogan that two stage friends of the DAILY WORKER have adopted. They are Richard and Carl Haupt, each of whom sent the DAILY WORKER their dollar Tuesday to help hammer home the last spike.

"How can I get the DAILY WORKER while I am travelling?" Richard Haupt wants to know. "I will be making a different town every day on a circuit chautauqua and if it is at all possible, I want to get the DAILY WORKER.

"Inclosed find two dollars to secure the paper in its fight against this social system,—two more nails in the coffin of capitalism."

RELIEF SOCIETY REJECTS FRIENDS OF ABRAMOVICH

Communist Foils Anti-Soviet Committee

A committee of followers of Raphael Abramovich, which asked for financial aid from the Ershter Krinker Untershtutzing Verain, was told to go about its business and refused aid at the last meeting of the Verain at Humboldt Hall, 2292 West Division St.

This action was taken after Comrade Tikatsky, member of the Workers (Communist) Party, spoke against the motion to give the Abramovich followers $10, which they asked for the purpose of "helping the political prisoners in Russia."

The committee was asked to wait outside while the motion presented by a member of the Verain who was also a member of the Workmen's Circle, was being discussed. Comrade Tikatzky opposed the motion, declaring that those represented by the committee were the counter revolutionists who helped Kolchak, Dennikin, and Wrangel in their attack on the workers of Soviet Russia.

Comrade Tikatzky, who is vice-president of the Verain, boldly resisted the attempts to give this counter-revolutionary committee any of the workers' money. The Abramovich committee, while waiting behind the door to hear the result of their appeal squirmed at Comrade Tikatzky's exposure of their treachery to the workers.

Comrade Tikatzky's speech threw the meeting into an uproar. Some of the members attempted to beat up the Communist, but were held back by other members.

After thoro discussion, the vote was taken, and the Verain went on record by a vote of eleven to ten to refuse to aid the counter-revolutionists. The Abramovich followers were called in and told that there was "nothing doing" and dejectedly departed.

LEFT WING WINS LOCAL 2, I. L. G. W. IN NEW YORK CITY

Completely Whip the Reactionaries

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 24.—An overwhelming victory was won by the left wing in the election that was finished this morning in Local No. 2 of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union when the left wing elected the chairman and the entire executive board leaving the reactionaries without a position and far in the rear in spite of the machine tactics and right wing propaganda, under the leadership of Meyer Pearlstein who was imported from Chicago to carry out a systematic attack on the progressives.

Win Two to One

When the skies cleared it was found that the lowest vote given for any of the left wing candidates was over 1,000 while the highest vote the reactionaries could muster was 500.

The left wing candidate for chairman, Brother Boruchovitz, received 1,800 votes against 400 for Nachlin the machine man. The entire executive board was elected with big left wing majority.

Has 14,000 Members

Local No. 2 is the most important in New York consisting of over 14,000 members. With this election the left wing will have 22 delegates to the Joint Board out of a total of 60. The left wing is also in control of the whole administration of Locals 2, 9, and 22, representing a membership of 35,000, which is about 60 per cent of the whole New York membership.

The present victory is the more significant on account of the tremendous efforts made by the right wing element. To leave no stone unturned the machine sent Meyer Pearlstein from Chicago to take charge of the situation. He pulled every rope for the reactionaries and used every means to carry the election in favor of the backward element. The membership gave him his proper reward.

Now To Build Union

The organization is now bending all its energies to build up the local and intensify its work for amalgamation and for the organization of the open shops. Life and sunshine is spread all over the ladies' garment workers in the entire city and the prophecy of great things to come is nearing fulfillment.

Miners' Union Pays Death Insurance of Anti-Klansman

MARION, Ill., Feb. 24.—The death claim of Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas, who was shot and killed by S. Glenn Young, the klan raider in Herrin, on January 24, has been allowed by the United Mine Workers of America, accroding to an announcement made here today. Thomas was a member of Miners' Local Union 1248 at Herrin.

At the time this death claim was being paid, federal agents were busy at Benton destroying the evidence that Glenn Young had captured in Williamson and Franklin counties raids and which had been held for trials.

Say Kluxer Abandoned Child

Deputy sheriffs at the same time, were serving a warrant on Burr Owens, klansman, who took up Young's battle as raid leader and has been accompanying Mrs. Young, the blinded widow, on her speaking engagements charging child abandonment. Owens gave bond.

Green Made President of Pan-American Fake Federation of Labor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been elected president of the pan-American Federation of Labor by the executive council of the latter body, in session in Washington. Venezuelan workers were admitted to affiliation at this meeting.

STREETCAR MEN SHOW SOLIDARITY WITH THE TEXTILE MILL STRIKERS

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Division 82, Street Carmen's Union, assessed itself $1 per member for the benefit of the striking textile workers of Utica and a check for $470.00 was paid into the local United Textile Workers war chest.

Both the U. T. W. and the management of the Utica Steam and Mohawk Valley Cotton Co., have rejected a compromise proposition suggested by E. H. Dunnigan, mediator of the U. S. department of labr, for a five per cent cut. The union stands flat against any cut and the bosses want 10 per cent.

JENSEN'S THUGS FAILED TO AWE CARPENTERS

Local Votes to Seat "Expelled" Members

Several thugs under the leadership of Harry Jensen and a small army of policemen failed to prevent the five illegally expelled members of Local 181, from being present at the meeting last Monday night.

Jensen and his gangsters were at the door, but the rank and file made sure that the railroaded brothers who were deprived of their right to work at their trade, should not be denied admittance.

When the meeting opened a vote was taken on whether the members should be compelled to leave the hall. Several carpenters were standing up looking at the battalion of policemen but when the question was put and those who favored the five expelled members leaving were asked to stand up, everybody but the cops and Harry Jensen rushed for seats. The fakers did not ask those opposed to stand but the rank and file stood up. The vote in favor of the illegally expelled members staying in the hall was passed almost unanimously.

DEATH NEAR FOR 123 MINERS IN GASSY COAL PIT

One Dead, Another Is Seriously Burned

VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 24.—One miner was killed, another was seriously burned and the lives of 123 others were endangered today when a gas explosion shook the mine of the Standard Coal Co., at Wheatland, 15 miles east of here.

Ed Cross of Vincennes, was the miner killed. William Ferguson of Wheatland, was burned on the face and arms.

Claim Ferguson Will Recover.

At the hospital here where Ferguson was taken, it was said he would recover.

With the recent mine disaster at Sullivan fresh in their minds the mine workers were thrown into a near panic following the flash and explosion. Cause of the blast has not been determined but the mine is of the "dry" type and it was believed ignition of a pocket of mine gas was responsible.

Property Not Damaged.

Immediately after the disturbance, a check was made of all the 125 miners who entered the shaft this morning. From this report mine officials definitely announced Cross and Ferguson were the only victims.

No serious damage was done to the mine workings, it was said.

Miner Killed by Train.

DUQUOIN, Ill., Feb. 24—A coroner's inquest was being held today into the death of Martin Kerr, 49, miner, who was killed when struck by a train here last night. Papers found in his pockets indicated he came from Vincennes, Indiana. He had been working at West Frankfort, Illinois.

Chicago Metal Trades Make a Note of This!

Due to the fact that The Red Revel Masquerade Ball falls on the date of our regular group meeting (Sat. Feb. 28) the Metal Trades group of the T. U. E. L. meeting has been postponed to Saturday, March 7, 7:30.

MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF LABOR SAYS $13 A WEEK WAGES ENUF FOR WORKERS TO EXIST

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—Merely thirteen dollars a week! That is the highest minimum wage for the millinery workers which the Massachusetts law should recognize, recommends the minimum wage commission of the department of labor and industries after a public hearing on the report of the millinery wage board, which has been provisionally approved. Thirteen dollars is the highest minimum recommended; for least skilled workers the minimum is $6.

How a worker can exist on low wages is explained in a statement issued by Albert A. Allendorf, president of the retail milliners' association, and one of the new members to be included in the millinery wage board. He does not say he lives on low wages himself, however.

Professions Won't Get Much.

Allendorf gives the weekly budget of a worker's expenses which was approved by the board at a recent meeting. Some of the items are most interesting, particularly those allowing 40 cents weekly for doctor, dentist and oculist; twenty-five cents for self-improvement and twenty-five more for recreation.

The budget for starvation follows:

Board, lodging and carfare	$9.20
Clothing	2.00
Doctor, dentist and oculist	.40
Church	.15
Self-improvement	.25
Vacation	.40
Recreation	.25
Reserve for emergency	.40
Insurance	.10
Incidentals	.25
Total	$13.90

Allendorf says the allowance for doctor, dentist and oculist, was made larger than it would otherwise have been made because most millinery workers wear glasses. Newspapers are included in "self-improvement." (This would leave the worker, after purchasing his daily paper not quite enough for the purchase of an ordinary magazine and nothing for books.)

We'll Choose a Decent Burial.

The ten cents for insurance will enable a death policy for $226 for a 20-year old man and one of $192 for one of 25 years. "Enough," says the retail milliners' president, "for decent burial." A "decent burial" would be, indeed, quite attractive compared to trying to live on $13.90 a week.

Forty cents a week is allowed for emergency expenses in view of the seasonal nature of the industry. The emergency is not, of course, the need for forming a union. Yet anyone working on this wage would need to organize.

It is recommended that the $13 minimum wage figure be raised or lowered according to fluctuations in the cost of living.

The $13 is only a maximum, and applies to employes who are at least 19 years of age and have been in the industry at least four seasons of 16 weeks each.

AMERICAN GUNBOATS AID IMPERIALISTS TO MAKE ATTACK ON CHINA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—American gunboats have secured the release of the American ship Chi Chuen, which was seized by the Chinese government at Kwei Chowfu, and Captain Hawley, master of the ship, according to dispatches received by the state department of Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister at Peking. The boat was alleged to be smuggling arms into China to aid the Anglo-American conspiracy to overthrow the present Chinese government.

T.U.E.L. GENERAL MEETING, NORTHWEST HALL TONIGHT

COMMUNISTS IN AUSTRALIA HAVE OWN CANDIDATES

Refused Affiliation to the Labor Party

By W. FRANCIS AHERN,
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

SYDNEY, Australia.—At a conference of the Communist Party of Australia, held at Sudney, it was decided to run Communist candidates in the forthcoming New South Wales elections and in the senate (federal parliament) elections at the end of 1925.

This decision was made because of the refusal of the Australian labor party to admit Communists to affiliation in that party. Communists took the view that having been denied affiliation by the Australian labor party other action must be taken to give expression to Communist principles.

Contest Four Seats.

The Communist candidates will contest four of the leading industrial seats in the N. S. W. elections. In those constituencies where no Communist candidates will stand, the Communists will support the labor party candidates.

The conference resolved that all Communist parliamentary candidates must place a signed undated resignation with the central executive of the Communist Party to be put into force should they fail to remain true to Communist principles, if elected to parliament. It was also resolved that the salary and fees of any member of the party elected to parliament must be the property of the party, the central executive to renumerate members out of same.

Urge Pan-Pacific Conference.

The conference also resolved that a congress representing all countries bordering around the Pacific Ocean should be held during 1925 for the purpose of securing concerted action to preserve peace in the interests of the working class. It was suggested that the congress be held at Sydney, and convened by the council of action of the All-Australian Trade Union Congress. If the council of action fails to issue invitations before March 31, 1925, then the labor council of New South Wales should be the convener.

The conference has decided that the following partial program shall be put forward by the Communist Party candidates in parliamentary elections:

Planks From Program.

1. A minimum wage of $30 per week for all workers, irrespective of sex; payment of the full basic wage to all workers in the event of sickness, accident, or unemployment; a six-hour day and a five-day week.
2. Absolute preference to unionists and no open shop; abolition of all scab and non-union bureaus; control of the registration of the unemployed by the trade union movement, and the replacement of the existing government labor bureaus by industrial bureau directed by labor and industrial councils.
3. Reinstatement of all railway and tramway workers victimized during the general strike in 1917, with full seniority rights and compensation.
4. Free access to all jobs at any time for all accredited trade union delegates, who shall be made honorary inspectors, with the full powers of industrial inspectors under the arbitration act.
5. Safety first in all mines, with the provision of the latest technical devices.
6. Full upkeep of children until the earning age, and motherhood endowment.
7. The extension of the system of state education to include training for industry, such training to take the place of the present apprenticeship system; the school leaving age to be extended to 18 years of age.

This platform will be added to and adjusted by the newly-elected central executive of the Communist Party.

Late Emperor of China in Flight; in Protection of Japs

PEKIN, Feb. 24.—The former boy emperor of China has fled Pekin.

Deserting his refuge in the Japanese legation, Hsuan Tung, presumably disguised as a coolie, made his way by train to Tien Tsin. He was followed on another train by his wife and retinue.

The party is now living in the Japanese concession at Tien Tsin pending a trip to Japan, it was learned today. Threatening articles in the Chinese press are said to have precipitated the flight of the fomrer emperor.

GENERAL T. U. E. L. MEETING TONIGHT, NORTHWEST HALL; REPORTS ON METAL, BUILDING AND PRINTING INDUSTRIES

The regular monthly meeting of local Chicago of the Trade Union Educational League will be held tonight at 8 p. m. in North West Hall, corner Western and North avenues.

Comrade Jack Johnstone, secretary of the national committee of the T. U. E. L., will tell of the present situation in the Carpenters' Union, where Hutcheson is leading a campaign of expulsions in Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Reports on the activities of the militants in the unions in Chicago will be made at the meeting. Particularly interesting are the reports regarding the situations in the metal, printing and building industries. Following the reports, discussion will take place in which those who are interested are invited to take part. These meetings of the Chicago T. U. E. L. are gatherings of all trade union militants who are fighting for progress in the unions. The problems confronting them in their struggle are discussed and every militant, irrespective of the union he belongs, gets a comprehensive view of the situation in every union.

Readers of the DAILY WORKER as well as all trade unionists and members of the Workers Party are invited to attend.

Springfield, Illinois, Invites All Workers to Its Study Class

That the circuit school conducted in District 8, has been of great value to the members in the district, is proven by excellent results that have been so far gotten in Springfield. The circuit, which started with some 12 comrades, has increased where it is now in the neighborhood of 30. Members of the Young Workers' League, members of the Workers Party and sympathizers of the Communist movement have been attending these classes and from the lively interest taken in the various sessions, exemplify the need for this educational work as part of the general work of the party.

Last Monday night Comrade Lerner, circuit teacher, spoke on the Materialist Conception of History. The meeting was the best attended yet. The comrades present promised to add even more to the attendance in the coming lectures.

The next lecture is to be held next Monday night, March 2, and will deal with the role and tactics of the Communist Party. The sessions take place at 221½ S. 4th street, Springfield, Illinois, at 8 o'clock.

All comrades who desire to listen to the remaining lectures in the circuit should attend the next lecture. A lively discussion is expected as in the case of the past lectures. Judging from Comrade Lerner's lectures in the past, comrades will gain a great deal from the three lectures remaining to be given.

Milwaukee to Hear Lectures on Trade Unions by Lerner

After the completion of the regular circuit tour of District 8, in Milwaukee, a short course in trade union history and tactics was started two weeks ago. This course has met with the best response, the comrades of all the various branches in Milwaukee attending. Two lectures of the four lectures have already been delivered.

The next two lectures are of especial vital interest to all party members and sympathizers, inasmuch as they deal with the rebellion in the trade unions and tactics in the trade unions.

Comrade Lerner, who has conducted the circuit course in Milwaukee and who is delivering the lectures in this short course, promises to make these two lectures even of greater interest than the previous ones. This course has been eagerly welcomed and lectures given so far have aroused a great deal of enthusiasm and interest.

The comrades are urged to attend the next lecture on Rebellion in the Trade Union Movement, which will take place Friday night, February 27, at party headquarters, 802 State St., Milwaukee.

Report Quake at Denver.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 24.—One of the most serious earthquakes that has been recorded for more than a year was reported here today.

The quake lasted 29 minutes, beginning at 5:01 p. m. yesterday and ending at 5:30 with the maximum at 5:13. The distance of the disturbance was placed as approximately 2,200 miles south west.

NEW YORK WORKERS TO CELEBRATE ON WORLD WOMEN'S DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The New York district of the Workers (Communist) Party will hold a mass meeting to celebrate International Women's Day, which is the international holiday officially designated by the Communist International. The meeting will be held at the Labor Temple, East 84th St., near Third Ave., on Friday, March 6, at 8 P. M.

The speakers will be Comrades Rose Pastor Stokes, Juliet Stuart Poyntz, M. J. Olgin, Warshafsky and Anna Thompson of the Young Workers League.

CLASS IN MARXIAN ECONOMICS EVERY WEDNESDAY EVE.

Here Are This Week's Ten Questions

Class held every Wednesday evening, 2613 Hirsch Blvd., Chicago. Max Lerner, instructor. This week's lesson; Chapter 10, "People's Marx."

Questions on Chapter 10

1. Describe the effect of machine production on the members of the workingman's family—how does it affect the relationship between the workingman and the capitalist—describe the conditions prevailing upon the introduction of machinery as to the above—also conditions which exist today. (Look up report of investigations of vice commission, state of Illinois, 1916 for modern data or other modern material.)
2. Describe the effect of machinery on the resistence of the workers against the despotism of capitalism under machine production as against the manufacturing period. Is the introduction of new machinery ever used as a weapon to break strikes. Illustrate.
3. How are the wages of the male worker affected by the employment of the other members of his family?
4. Describe the factors that operate to make the working day longer for the worker under machine production—what economies are effected by the capitalist in having his machines operate all the time. Describe the special incentive for the prolongation of the working day which makes itself felt most acutely during the early life of machine production.
5. What is the driving force which impels the capitalist to introduce new machinery—what contradiction does this eventually bring about and what is the further reaction of the capitalist to reduce the effect of this contradiction as much as possible?
6. What effect has the production of commodities with aid of machinery on the value of commodities and what resultant effect on the cost of living?
7. Describe the process of the intensification of the workday by the capitalist once the workday is limited—what effect has the intensification of the workday upon the length of life of the worker, etc. Give modern illustrations for above.
8. Describe the process which creates an industrial reserve army. What effect has this upon the wages of the workers?
9. What effect has the machine process under capitalism upon the mind of the worker?
10. What great paradox does machine production bring to the fore?

EXPULSIONS FROM CARPENTERS STIR RANK AND FILE

Officials Use Police to Control Union

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Mich.—The expulsion of William Reynolds by the general executive board of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters' and Joiners, presents one of the most flagrant outrages on trade union justice which the history of trade unionism sets forth. The trade union movement has been the victim of persecution and nurtured in the struggle, and as a result a rugged sense of justice and fair play has been developed in their ideology.

These guarantees of rights have been secure from attack during periods of militancy in the past, but the ware of class collaboration now sweeping the whole trade union movement has weakened the morale of the rank and file so that Hutcheson's expulsion policy, which is but the carpenters' edition of the comprehensive drive on the left wing in the whole labor movement, has made considerable progress before the rank and file have become alive and aroused to the situation.

Unjustified and Illegal Expulsion.

On January 9th the G. E. B. of the Brotherhood expelled Wm. Reynolds president of L. U. No. 2140 for alleged membership in the Trade Union Educational League. There was no charge laid against Reynolds. He had no opportunity to defend himself. None of the constitutional guarantees were observed by the G. E. B.

Section 55 of the constitution which protects the rank and file was totally ignored. The first Reynolds knew of the expulsion was a notification sent him by the secretary of the district council four days after the action was taken.

Local 2140, to which Reynolds belongs, has in its two meetings since the expulsion, taken action to sustain and protect the rights of Reynolds. The action of the G. E. B. has been repudiated. A circular letter has been sent to all local unions in the Brotherhood and many favorable answers have already been received.

The various local unions have, with one exception, taken favorable action on the case and in the exceptional local union favorable action has been forestalled by the arbitrary ruling of its president, James Sharrock, as yellow a one as ever called out the police or got out an injunction.

The district council is overwhelmingly against the expulsion and has also been thwarted in expressing its will by the would be czar, Sharrock, fortified by a contingent of police.

Police and Injunctions.

At the inception of this struggle an injunction was secured against Reynolds restraining him from attending his own local union or any other meeting of the carpenters in Detroit. This injunction was "prayed for" in a bill of complaint signed by Sam Botterill, general organizer; James Sharrock, president of the Detroit district council, and Harold Fish, secretary of the district council. The injunction has been violated dozens of times but the spineless curs who secured it lack the guts to enforce it.

The police have been called by the reactionaries on many occasions to guard them from the wrath of the rank and file. At the Feb. 12 meeting of the district council a shift of five police worked from eight to eleven, and a similar shift from 11 to the end of the meeting.

At the meeting of Local Union 2140 held Fri. Feb. 13, General Organizer Botterill tried to read the minutes of the local union to a police sergeant to convince him that Reynolds had been expelled and should be ejected from the room. Instead, Reynolds and another member ejected a shyster lawyer, sent to Detroit by the general office, when he refused to keep order.

Bribery Tried.

Hutcheson's tools have tried bribery in the shape of offers of jobs on the general office payroll, threats of further expulsion, injunctions, police and open club wielding thuggery, but they stand today utterly discredited and defeated before the rank and file.

Let Us Hear From Others!

The carpenters of Detroit expect those carpenters everywhere who are militant in defense of the right of trial and other constitutional provisions to rally to the defense of the members of Los Angeles, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Detroit who have been expelled without trial and whose cause rests with those who have fought against the reactionaries in the past.

Wall St. Rule Fears For Its Porto Rico And Its Philippines

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the fears of American imperialism, incidental to the recognition of the Russian Soviet Government, bubbled to the surface. They ooze out of the black hatred of capitalism for Soviet rule.

Washington wants pledges from Moscow; "assurances against the incitement of revolutionary violence in this country and in the Philippines and Porto Rico," is the way that Laurence Todd, the Washington correspondnt of the federated press puts it.

* * * *

Sorry day for Washington that the Communist International was not in existence when American militarism administered the water cure to the Filipino desire for independence, and brought the islands under the sway of its dollar diplomacy. Washington might then seek a basis for charging that the Communists were responsible for the courageous struggle of the Filipinos that continues under the bloody dictatorship of the militarist strike-breaker, General Leonard Wood, whose dissolute son is now being chased over western Europe by irate creditors, chiefly keepers of gambling resorts.

* * * *

Washington, with Coolidge or any other agent of capitalism in the White House, will never admit that the same forces that led to the overthrow of czarism in Russia, are inherent in capitalism in the United States, and operating thruout its colonies, for the overthrow of American Wall Street rule. All discontent instead, according to the autocracy of capital, as well as the aristocracy of labor, is due to Communist activity.

Washington always claims that the Communist struggle for power is imported to the United States from Moscow, just as London, or France, or Berlin, all claim that it is imported into Great Britain, France, or Germany from the same source. The servile press will argue long to this effect, both in its news and in its editorials, in the days ahead.

* * * *

This discussion will bring before millions of workers and poor farmers, who had never thought of it before, that the United States has a colonial empire, that extends from Porto Rico, around the globe to the Philippines, islands of the orient and the occident.

Washington shows the same anxiety over its colonial possessions as England does over India, Egypt and other subject nations writhing beneath its crunching heel.

This anxiety does not in the least temper its rule. The Porto Ricans have been protesting these many years to their capitalist masters in Washington against the dire oppression visited upon them, resulting in the abrogation of all political rights and the forcing upon them of the worst economic conditions.

* * * *

The inspiration of the triumph of the workers and peasants of Russia over czarism will help. That inspiration would and does span the seas without recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States.

But the germs of the victory for the American workers and poor farmers are planted deep in American capitalist soil, both at home and in the dependencies.

The workers and peasants of Russia had the guidance of the teachings of Marx and Lenin that are ready to hand for all the oppressed everywhere in warring upon their oppressors.

* * * *

The power of the Communist International grows as the workers and poor farmers everywhere accept these teachings and not thru any "incitement to revolutionary violence" from Moscow,—mere figment of the capitalist imagination.

This wail from Washington means that capitalism is bending in the United States, is bending to its knees, while the working class is beginning to rise and stand erect.

Recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States will be the signial for greater struggles for power by the whole American working class, in league with U. S. imperialism's slaves in all its colonies.

State LaFollette Forces in Session

The "provisional progressive party of Illinois" met at the Lexington hotel yesterday, and tried to organize around the skeleton of the forces which worked for LaFollette in Illinois during the presidential election campaign.

The name "provisional" was used, Charles J. McGowan, leader of the present "progressive party of Illinois," said, because the exact name of the organization has not been decided on.

It was declared that the name "labor" will probably not be used as it might seem "too radical." The state meeting is attempting to further the interests of a national "progressive" party, to be formed out of what is left of the conference for progressive political action.

WAR ON LABOR FOR OPEN SHOP IN NEW JERSEY

Chamber of Commerce Boasts of Supremacy

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Plenty of unorganized labor and borough authorities who drive labor organizers out of town when the chamber of commerce asks them to:

That is the boast of the chamber of commerce itself, in the manufacturing city of South River, a typical New Jersey industrial burg, thirty miles out of New York.

Boast of Open Shopper.

The following frank statement of the iron heel on labor is supplied by W. A. Allfair, himself, the president of the South River chamber of commerce. It was sent to a New Yorker who read an advertisement in the New York Times by the South River chamber, advertising the city as advantages to prospective purchasers of factory sites, because of the "abundance of unorganized labor." The New York man sought information on the point and here is the answer:

"Replying to your favor of February 5, 1925, relative to labor conditions in South River, I might advise that this town has an abundance of unorganized labor.

"There have been several instances in which labor agitators from different sections of the country have come in here, but the borough authorities have taken the matter in hand, and they have yet to make a foothold.

"Two years ago one of our large brick plants at Sayreville, which is across the river from South River, were disturbed by labor leaders from New York who attempted to form labor unions among the brick makers. The result was that the borough authorities, with the chamber of commerce, took a leading part in the matter, and the strike was beaten, and the Sayre & Fisher company are today operating as an open shop.

War on Labor Organizers.

"Sometime within the past year or so, labor agitators visited South River to organize the needle industry into a union organization. The authorities were advised that the leaders were in town by the chamber of commerce and the result was that the chief of police notified the parties who had come here from New York to organize this movement, that they would be allowed thirty minutes in which to leave town, and they left immediately.

"There has not been a strike of any character within fifteen years, and there is no union here of any kind among the laboring class of people, or semi-skilled laborers."

The letter of South River's business head is indicative of the way the manufacturers run the politics of the typical New Jersey industrial town.

SPARROW'S POINT, SCHWAB EMPIRE, IS UNORGANIZED

Puts Over Wage Cuts by Degrees

By JOSEPH MANLEY.

Baltimore, Maryland, to one of a gastronomic turn of mind, recalls visions of oysters while to one inclined to literature, it stands for the rapier-like wit of Henry L. Mencken and the poetry of Edgar Allen Poe; being the home of the former and the burial place of the latter. Baltimore, to the revolutionist, suggests modern American methods of capitalist exploitation; for close to the city proper, at Sparrow's Point is the famous, or infamous, steel plant of Charles M. Schwab.

This steel plant is one of the most modern in the world; its methods of exploiting the workers, its use of skilled labor-saving machinery and manner of providing "homes" for its employes are the very latest. The plant is situated on a peninsula that juts out into the bay. This peninsula also provides accomodation to the "company town" which houses thousands of the steel workers.

Schwab's Little Empire.

Except for a roundabout road, the only entry to this "company town" and plant is by street car or train, both of which run over a trestle built on piles driven into the surrounding water. The steel company dicks or cops usually "inspect" all who get off both street car or train in this privately owned domain. The writer ran this gauntlet during the days of the steel organizing campaign and found a town of several thousand steel slaves buying their "homes" and groceries from the same man—Charles Schwab. The big general store, the churches and the school are all dominated by the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

This corporation has introduced a "scientific" method of cutting wages. Every other month or so for almost the past year, small cuts of 1 per cent or 2 per cent on every ton of steel produced by the steel worker has been inaugurated. This was to avoid arousing the men by a sharp reduction and to make the cumulative reduction still greater. This strategy has been successful for the company.

Ways of Cutting Wages.

However, they are not content with merely a reduction of the workers' tonnage price. Now they are engaged in the introduction of machinery that will tend to eliminate the few remaining and relatively high priced and highly skilled men in the industry. Mechanical doublers operated by common labor making $5,00 or $6.00 per day, in place of, the skilled doubler making $13.00 or $14.00 per day, is an accomplished fact.

These mechanical doubling machines are apparently successful and will, no doubt, be introduced thruout the industry. Representatives from other steel plants at Woodlawn, Pa.; Weirton, W. Va.; McKeesport, Pa.; and Canonsburg, Pa., have been closely watching the operation of these mechanical doublers and all indications point to their introduction into these respective plants.

Only Hope is Left Wing.

What proposal has "Mike" Tighe to make against this destruction of this last vestige of skill in the steel industry upon which "his" union is based? Not Tighe, but the left wing, yes, the revolutionists in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, see this revolution in the steel industry. It is they who possess the vision and ability to organize such plants as the one at Sparrow's Point, Maryland.

Trade Union Work Los Angeles Shows New Activity in

LOS ANGELES.—Central Labor Council decided to write a letter to the Jewish Daily Forward to quit advertising the Burr Creamery Co., which was placed on the unfair list. One of the delegates of the cigarmakers' union stated that the Forward was in a habit of advertising scab concerns in the east, then apologizing, pleading ignorance.

Brother Koffman of the Bakery Workers' Union, informed the writer that his local and the German local are conducting a big struggle against the Ward Co., and that the Central Labor Council has placed the Ward Co. on the unfair list.

Union men and organized labor of Los Angeles are requested to inform their friends that Ward Co. and Vanity Cake Co., are on the unfair list. "Demand the Union Label on your Bread," is the slogan of the bakery workers of Los Angeles.

Don't make any appointments for March 7. The Los Angeles branch of the Trade Union Educational League is giving the first color-light ball on that night at the Co-operative Center, 2706 Brooklyn Ave. The last meeting of the league was well attended and general activity is evident recently.

Subscription drive for the DAILY WORKER will be started from March 15 to April 15. eGt ready, comrade! The DAILY WORKER must grow everywhere.

'YOUR HIGHNESS, WILL YOU TOSS ME THE SAPOLIO?'

Ford Factory a Home for Jobless Nobles

IT is a February day in the Ford Motor company plant in Detroit, Mich.

Wheels are roaring. Parts are dropping out of machines like coffee from a grinder. Guides are escorting visitors thru the factory to show them how furiously and tediously Henry Ford's organization can make men toil.

Two non-American men in shop togs are washing windows.

"Your Highness, will you toss me the sapolio?" one of the two says to the other.

In another department are two other similar men. One of them says: "Would you lend me your wrench a moment, Duke?"

A Godfather to Monarchists.

The four men are Russians. The two addressed as "Your Highness" and "Duke" are members of the former Russian nobility. The reason they are working at the Ford Motor Co. is that Henry Ford is their fairy godfather. Only as all good fairy godfathers he believes men ought to do a little work. He cracks the whip over the ordinary worker. He waves the wand lightly over these refugees.

These two former noblemen, who still believe they are noble, are only two of many members of the former nobility and czarist army who have been given jobs at the Ford Motor Co. The head of the Russian monarchist underground movement in the United States is Boris Brasol, of New York City. His agent in Detroit is Gregory Shinkarenko, former lieutenant on the czar's royal yacht, the Polar Bear. Shinkarenko is among other things employment agent for the hungry helpless white guard refugees who drift into the middle west, dreaming of a restoration.

Henry Has Illusions.

Henry Ford also is dreaming of a restoration. It is believed here that the old nobility of Mother Russia have promised him vast lands and concessions in return for his 'hospitality." Probably many contracts have been written in water to bind the dukes and counts and princes to their so-called word of honor.

Two years ago Madam Alexandre Gomberg was in Detroit to see Henry Ford, according to an interview published in a daily paper here. She said in the interview Ford had given her son Alexander a contract in connection with Ford's reported intention of building a plant in Russia. On the death of Alexander in France in the war the contract, she continued, was transferred to a second son, Oscar. He was killed later fighting on the Russian front. Her reason for coming to see Ford, she said, was to induce him to transfer the contract to a third son, an employe at the factory here. Carrying out such a contract, of course, would depend on the overthrow of the Bolsheviki.

The Tail of the Romanoffs.

A year ago last fall three strangers arrived in Detroit—a woman and two men. They went to the most expensive hotel. Every day while they were there, quartered in a suite of rooms, a luxurious automobile was sent to the hotel for them. Shinkarenko was chauffeur of the car. The party drove frequently between the hotel and Dearborn, where Ford has his home and a part of his plant. When they left Ford paid the hotel bill.

The woman in that party of three was Nadedhda Romanoff Orloff. One of the men was her husband, Prince Orloff. The second man was named Sokoloff. He died recently in Paris. He was formerly a Russian judge who disguised as a peasant, smuggled into Europe the first report of the execution of the Russian royal family. At the time of his death he was engaged in completing a 10-volume work about the last of the Romanovs. It was to be his life's greatest work. Prince Orloff's wife is a daughter of Grand Duke Peter.

In certain circles of Detroit, and presumably elsewhere, former nobility are still addressed by title. They are constantly plotting and hoping. They are well organized. Barsol was the speaker at the Detroit open forum a few weks ago.

Ford's Slave Pen.

While the wheels roar and 100,000 men exhaust themselves in the Ford Motor Co. plants, Ford's own home and family are taking on more and more of an aristocratic appearance His son and only child, Edsel, is reported contemplating moving east eventually. Henry Ford has become a collector of antiques.

His large home at Dearborn is in the center of an extensive park, which is a part of a larger farm, on which the "peasants" cultivate grain with tractors for $6 a day—when they work. Around the park is a high steel wire fence with barbed wire along the top. A river flows thru the grounds. The park is 12 miles from the Detroit city hall but within the fence roams a herd of 300 wild red deer.

To one side of the "castle" the town of Dearborn lies in the shadow of the great influence.

For the first time since early in 1924, all the plants of the Ford Motor Co. are reported operating on full time six days a week. The Highland Park plant now employs 55,000 men and the River Rouge plant 65,000. In January, 103,022 Ford cars, 395 Lincoln cars and 4,156 tractors were sold.

A daily wage of $6 is a week wage of $36 in a six-day week. If a man has a wife and three children $36 a week will give each member of the family approximately $1 a day for rent, food, clothing, schooling, medical care and recreation. A child of six requires nearly as much income as an adult.

At the Ford Motor Co. the capitalist system with its speed-up plan, espionage, discipline, specialization and quantity production have been brought to a higher development than at any time and place in the world. One hundred twenty thousand men employes mean at least 300,000 men, women and children. Thousands more are indirectly affected.

T. U. E. L. EXPOSES FARRINGTON AID TO LEGIONNAIRES

Faker Endorses the Enemy of Workers

The following is a copy of a letter of endorsement for the American legion signed by Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Mine Workers. This disgraceful faker has the gall to pose as a friend of the workers after thus praising the white guard bulwark of capitalist rule which is responsible for the murder of workers and has broken strike after strike—the American legion.

It will be noted that Farrington tries to cover his treachery with the plausible argument about joining the legion to "fight from the inside." If the legion was a labor organization that might be logical. In the case of the U. M. W. of A. the policy of the T. U. E. L. to work within the union to bring it closer to revolution is, take note, desperately opposed by fakers in the union, including Franf Farrington. The left wing of red miners will take Farrington's word to heart and work to put him and his kind out of control. The letter follows:

Springfield, Ill., January 6, 1925.

Mr. J. J. Bullington, Belleville, Ill:

Dear Sir:

With this I reply to your letter of December 8th in which you ask for my opinion concerning the activities of the American legion in labor controversies.

Frankly, I tell you that I do not know of any reason why the organized labor movement should be unfriendly to the American legion. It is true that on different occasions, individual members of the legion have been guilty of conduct unfriendly to the organized labor movement, but I have never heard of a single instance where the American legion, as an organization has been guilty of doing anything harmful to the organized labor movement and instead of there being enmity between the two organizations, a spirit of friendliness should prevail.

Thousands of the members of the United Mine Workers of America are eligible for membership in the American legion and they should take their place in that organization and do their part towards molding the policies of the American legion, then the legion would be sure to be right on labor matters. If perchance there should be a disposition to be unfriendly, which I am sure, does not exist. My experience has been that it is best to fight from the inside rather than from the outside and if union men should have any reason for being antagonistic to the American legion, the thing to do would be for those who are eligible to hold membership in that organization, should get into the legion and correct the wrong, instead of refraining from joining the legion.

Briefly stated, the above is an outline of my attitude towards the American legion. Yours truly, Signed, F. Farrington, president.

Kenosha, Wis., Attention.

The famous movies "Polikushka", "In Memoriam-Lenin" and "Soldier Ivan's Miracle" will be shown in Kenosha Saturday, Feb. 28, from 4 to 11 P. M., at the German American Home, 665 Grand Ave. All labor organizations are requested not to arrange any other affairs on that date.

IRON WORKERS' STRIKE TIES UP STANDARD OIL AND OTHER BIG JOBS

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 24.—The open shop iron league still has a lot of tied up construction work on its hands in the strike of 2,000 members of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers.

The fight began on the attempt to use non-union labor on the new Standard Oil sky-scraper at 26 Broadway. The union is considering spreading the strike to other cities against members of the iron league. Many great projects are tied up with the strike against some of the biggest contractors in the industry.

T.U.E.L. CALLS FOR UNITED FRONT TO AID THE BAKERS

Capital United; Why Not Workers?

The Bakers of New York, Brooklyn and vicinity are among the worst exploited in the country. The profits of the bosses and the bread trust are ever increasing. Several causes exist for the increasing profits of the bosses and the miserable working conditions of the bakers.

The bread trust is daily consolidating its power. In the year just passed, 1924, this consolidation made unheard of strides. It is steadily absorbing and eliminating the old style bake-shop with its old-fashioned methods. It is swallowing up even the small modern bakery.

Giant capital under the name of the Continental Baking corporation bot off various bakeries in the cities and large towns stretching all across the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. This same capital, whether it used the name of the Continental, the Ward, the Cushman or other company, is bringing about a veritable mechanical revolution in the baking of bread.

Enemy of All Unions.

The bread trust, by the process of introduction of automatic bakeries with their gravity and traveling systems of production, which turns out every hour thousands of standardized loaves untouched by human hands, is eliminating skill as the basis of the bakers' trade.

The bread trust in its cruel demand for profits at the expense of the bakers' lives is not content with eliminating only the skill of the baker in the industry, but also eliminating all organizations of the bakers which may win for them some measure of protection against this ruthless trust.

Facing this giant trust the organizations of the bakers are small and poorly equipped to do battle with it. Quarrels and jurisdictional disputes destroy the unity and militancy of the membership of these organizations.

Just as the bosses stopped their own quarrels among themselves and consoliadted their power, so the bakers' organizations must stop their quarrels and unite against their common enemy—the bread trust.

Two Necessities.

To lay the basis of this unity of the bakers and their organizations; to increase their wages; to shorten their hours; to better their working conditions and to abolish the present slavery of the bakers' life, two outstanding facts face those, who at all take seriously this problem.

1. A united front of all the Bakers' organizations.
2. Organize the unorganized in the baking industry.

A united front of all the bakers' organizations—A. F. of L. and independent—must be formed. This united front will come into being only if the rank and file are aroused from their apparent indifference. To stir up the rank and file and to fight against the encroachment of the bread trust, a strong agitation in all the organizations must be started.

To help organize the unorganized in the baking industry, the rank and file of the bakers must demand a militant organizing campaign on the part of all the bakers' organizations.

All rank and file bakers, who are in favor of this united front and the organization of the unorganized, are urged to attend the monster mass meeting of bakers from all organization at Cooper Union, 8th street and 3rd avenue, New York City, on Saturday, Feb. 28, 2 p. m.. Admission free.

The meeting is under the auspices of the Bakers' Section of the Trade Union Educational League.

BARBERS TRY OUT AMALGAMATION; FIND IT IS O. K.

T.U.E.L. Adherents Led the Movement

By ART SHIELDS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Amalgamation with the Journeymen Barbers' International Union, was a good move for the 1,500 members of his organization, says Peter Midolla, president of the Independent Journeymen Barbers' Union of Brooklyn.

Having heard of the rivalry that existed for years between the independent union and the A. F. of L I asked Midolla the reasons for the amalgamation that has recently been announced.

Conditions Force Unity.

"Both organizations felt the need of unity," said the local president. "Our union had a strike last summer. It was long and hard. It was a lot harder because we lacked the support of the rest of the trade unions. A barbers' strike needs all the public backing it can get. Some of the boss barbers did not renew the agreement until some time after the strike was over. Eventually we got agreements for $32 a week and commissions in all shops, which is even better than before—wages used to run form $30 to $32—and we had a pretty strong local, but we saw the need of more strength and unity.

"There used to be trouble when A. F. of L. barbers came to work in Brooklyn and refused to recognize our union. There was confusion of different kinds.

Proportional Representation.

"Now we are linked up with the rest of the union barbers of New York thru the joint board. In the negotiations that came before we formally amalgamated with the A. F. of L. the international men promised to make certain changes in the joint board which we requested. They agreed to proportional representation on the joint board. Each local is to be represented according to the size of its membership. We expect that change to be made shortly.

"Three organizers who will be expected to go after the unorganized men in New York and Brooklyn and Queens, and there are thousands, will be selected by the joint board, not oppointed by the international. That was another thing we asked for and have been promised. The situation is very encouraging." The T. U. E. L. has many adherents in the trade, it was said at the independents' hall and aided the amalgamation movement well.

JACKSONVILLE AGREEMENT KILLS 51 COAL MINERS

But Lewis Says There Are Too Many Left

By A Rank and File Miner.

Fifty-one miners' lives are snuffed out. This is a front page story for a day, then it is forgotten, except by the Communist and left wing press.

A Kentucky cave explorer holds the attention of the capitalist press for three weeks. It is good copy, first page stuff, but 51 miners—who in hell cares about them? It is cheaper to blow them to pieces than to install safety appliances. Besides there are 200,000 "too many" miners, according to John L. Lewis, Frank Farrington and the coal operators, and, of course, this makes 51 less.

The condition of that Indiana death trap exists in almost every mining center, and the wonder is that there are not more of these terrible disasters. A resolution demanding that safety appliances be installed, was turned down in District 12 convention, because the Jacksonville agreement says that no changes can be made without the consent of the operator.

"We have signed an agreement, and you will have to live up to it, even if that means going to your death," is the attitude of Lewis, Farrington, et al. "Go down into the mine or go hungry," say the coal operators. Thus we see labor's so-called leaders in open alliance with the employers.

Fifty-one miners killed, fifty-one families broken, mothers become scrub women, the children must go to work at an earlier age now in order to make up the family budget; but what does this matter, we are a drug on the market?

"We would rather have 300,000 than 500,000 members," says Lewis. "We agree with you," says the coal operator, "only we intend to break up the organization completely." Between the both of them, it will be done unless the rank and file wake up, clean house and fight.

Six Quarts of Red Eye and Lafferty's Tricks Won Election

COVERDALE, Pa.—The methods used by the officialdom in Dist. 5 of the U. M. W. of A. in crediting themselves with 11,000 votes as against 4,000 for the progressives, are being brot to light. Lewis and his henchmen had to resort to all the underhanded methods known in order to assure their election.

The president of Local Union No. 5085, John Lafferty, was not a teller, but he had his gang there with plenty of whiskey, on the night of the election, to interfere with the voting. And when it came to the counting of the ballots, this was delayed until morning when all of the progressives had gone home.

Charges were then preferred against John Lafferty, president of Local 5085, for having brot half a dozen quarts of whiskey to the hall on the night of the election and offering it to the members as they came in to vote. When, in this way, the attention of the membership was drawn to the tricks used by the reactionary officials to keep themselves in office they were so angry that these officials had to take to cover. And to save the president of the local from expulsion, they had him agree to resign from office. In this way they succeeded in holding up the charges temporarily.

At the next meeting of Local Union 5080 we will see if his resignation is carried out.

FLY WALKS INTO SPIDER'S HOUSE, SAYING "EAT ME"

Decatur Unions Joins Chamber of Commerce

DECATUR, Ill.—The Trade Union Educational League has continually pointed out the dangers of the class collaboration movement within the A. F. of L. Unless checked by the militant left wing, the trade union movement in America if led by the forces or reaction, will drift into the most hopeless bankruptcy and the American working class will be the sufferers.

A typical example of the direction in which we are headed was given by the Central Labor Body of Decatur, Ill. early in January, at a meeting where this body went on record to affiliate with the local chamber of commerce.

Two years ago Decatur, Ill. was the scene of the most reactionary convention that the Illinois State Federation of Labor ever held. At this convention William Z. Foster and the constructive policies such as amalgamation of the trade unions, etc., advanced by the T. U. E. L., were continally under fire.

This attack was joined in by the reactionaries and fake progressives alike, and the convention itself really accomplished nothing constructive. The only hope of the convention was the leftwingers who refused to be stampeded by the barrage of reaction and stuck to a man until the end, voting for all the constructive policies of the T. U. E. L. Now comes the Decatur Central Labor body, following in the footsteps of the Decatur convention, and votes to affiliate with the chamber of commerce!

Another example of the antics of the local labor fakers is given by Johnny Clark, a member of the U. M. W. of A., Local 781, also a representative of the 28th district in the state legislature.

On two different occasions recently, when the bill for a state constabulary in Illinois came up in the house of representatives, Johnny Clark was conspicuous by his absense. He is now advocating a bill which is sponsored by the local chamber of commerce, which would give the city of Decatur a new building for a state armory.

Unless the rank and file of the American labor movement follow the lead of the militants and organize to fight these suicidal policies, what recently happened in Decatur will happen in every city of the U. S. A., where there is any semblance of a labor movement.

Cases of Pardoned I. W. W. to Come Up

Hearings in the deportation cases of the I. W. W., Mahler, Oates, Nigra and Moran, Leavenworth politicals recently pardoned by President Coolidge, are postponed again to March 17. It is believed the proceedings will ultimately be dropped.

The Red International Affiliation Committee, a section of the T. U. E. L., has actively assisted in rousing a protest among the workers of foreign countries against the high-handed and illegal deportation of these

"FOLLY NOT TO WORK IN OLD UNIONS"—LENIN

Without It, Impossible to Win Power

By N. LENIN, April 27, 1920

In countries more advanced than in Russia, the reactionary tendencies in the trade unions are naturally more pronounced and more conspicuous than in our country. In Russia, the mensheviki had (and to some extent still have in a very few trade unions) the support of the trade unions due to trade narrowness and opportunism and craft exclusiveness.

The mensheviki of the western countries have a greater influence in the ranks of the trade unions because these unions are dominated by a more powerful element of labor aristocracy, who uphold trade union narrowness and the self-interest and sordidness of these petty bourgeois inspired imperialistic trade unions whose leaders are corrupted and bribed by the capitalist imperialists.

These statements cannot be successfully contradicted. The struggle with the Gomperses, Jouhauxes, Hendersons, Merrheims, Legiens et al., in western Europe and America, is much severer than the conflict with our own mensheviki who represent a more homogeneous social and political type.

No Compromise

This struggle must be carried on without compromise and these reactionary and incorrigible social patriotic, opportunist leaders must be exposed, discredited and expelled in disgrace from the trade unions. It is impossible to conquer political power until this fight has been waged up to a certain degree.

In different countries and in different circumstances, the degree to which the fight should be carried is not always identical. These conditions can be carefully appraised only by trained, thoughful and experienced political leaders of the proletariat of each country.

In Russia, for example, the criterion of success in this conflict was determined by the election to the Constituent Assembly in Nov. 1917— few days after the proletarian uprising of October 25, 1917. In these elections, the mensheviki were overwhelmingly defeated, receiving 700,000 votes (including trans-Caucasia— 1,400,000 votes) as against 9,000,000 votes received by the Bolsheviki.

All To Win The Masses

The struggle with the "labor aristocracy" we carry on in the name of the working masses and for the purpose of winning the masses over to our side. This struggle with the social-chauvinist and opportunist leaders must be carried on in order to attract the working class to us.

It would be sheer folly to ignore this most elementary and self-evident truth. And it is precisely this folly that is being committed by the "left" German Communists, who, because of the reactionary and counter-revolutionary character of the leaders of the trade unions, jump at conclusions and withdraw from the unions, refusing to work within them; evolving new and fantastic forms of labor organizations.

In persisting in this unpardonable folly, the Communists are rendering the greatest service to the bourgeoisie. For the mensheviki, the social chauvinist and Kautskian leaders of the trade unions are nothing less than agents of the capitalists within the working class movement, (just as we have always said of our own mensheviks) or, in the fine and profoundly truthful expression used by De Leon in America, "the labor lieutenants of the capitalist class."

Announcement to Our Customers

Thanks to the loyal support and liberal patronage of our customer friends for which we take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation, we have again found it necessary to enlarge our quarters.

Three years ago we opened our store at 8800 W. Jefferson Ave. Within six months we outgrew the place and now three times the space is again inadequate so we have taken over what was formerly known as Orange Blossom Dance Hall. This place after necessary alterations will be opened as one of the largest and most exclusive Furniture Stores in the city, at 8580 W. Jefferson Ave., cor. of Pulaski Ave., two blocks east from the present store.

WE had our GRAND OPENING Saturday Feb. 21st, to continue thru this week, with a full line of living room, dining room and bed room suites, as well as hundreds of odd pieces of furniture.

Our prices have always been the lowest, but on this special event you will find them still lower. Besides, for the opening week you will be allowed from 10% to 15% off the special prices.

Be sure to visit us this Grand Opening Week. It is not necessary that you purchase. We just desire you to look over our beautiful stock in our modern new location.

We wish to call your attention that our old location at 8758-8824 W. Jefferson Ave., will still be occupied with a full line of used and new furniture. The store at 10600 W. Jefferson, River Rouge, will not be managed by the Fox Furniture Co. any longer. It will from now on be under new management.

CAL WANTS ARMY AND NAVY ONLY AS POLICE FORCE

Talks About "Disorder" to Women Jingoes

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—It is the duty of America to set an example for the world in reducing armament, and to invite other nations to follow that example, president Coolidge declared here in addressing a large delegation of women attending the women's conference on national defense as peace insurance.

Abolition of the army and navy, he dismissed as unworthy of serious thought.

"Even the most law-abiding of communities do not dismiss their police forces," he said. "No more can a great nation take the risk of leaving itself to be menaced by disorder."

Women Strong for Defense

The president paid tribute to the women who composed his audience. They were advocates of a strong and militant national defense, as opposed to the other convention of women here a few weeks ago who favored less armament and supported the league of nations and the world court. Most of today's audience were delegates from woman's patriotic organizations.

Repeats "Defense" Hoax

The womanhood of Sparta has become legendary, the president said, but "our own history is proof that the women of Sparta were made of no stouter or more loyal stuff."

"We are compelled to recognize that national safety requires such a measure of preparedness as shall be the guaranty against aggression, without committing the nation to militarism. Whatever preparations we make shall be limited to the reasonable requirements of security."

Calles, Breaking His Promises, Faces Armed Peasants' Uprising

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 24.—Four hundred armed peasants, determined that the promises of distribution of the land, made by Calles and Obregon to get their support, and even written into the Mexican laws, shall not be violated by Calles now that he has become president and sold out to Wall Street, have seized extensive cultivated and irrigated lands from the haciendas in the state of Durango, on which the owners had just invested 200,000 pesos ($100,000) under assurance of protection from the state government.

President Calles today ordered the agrarians dislodged, but the latter assert they will fight for possession of the lands.
